Sufferers from any disease caused by impure blood should never be discouraged about taking Hood's Sarsaparilla because other medicines have failed to give relief. Remember Hood's Sarsaparilla cures when all others fail. Read this statement:

"C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.:

"Dear Sirs:—I think it my duty to let you know what Hood's Sarsaparilla has done for me. I was suffering with severe headaches daily and also with catarrh. One day a paper was left at my house and in looking it over I read of your great medicine's value to my fellow sufferers. I reasoned that if it cured them, why would it not cure me, although I must own I had some doubts about it, as I

Had Tried So Many

so-called cures which had failed even to relieve me. At last I procured a bottle and after taking all the medicine the headaches had left me and my catarrh trouble was much better. I continued taking Hood's Sarsaparilla and have derived so much benefit from it that I would advise any one troubled with impure blood to try Hood's Sarsaparilla, the great blood purifier. I feel better now than I have for years, thanks to Hood's Sarsaparilla." MRS. E. GREY, 27 St. Nicholas St., Toronto, Ontario. Remember

THE PASSING OF THE PIGGERY.

The piggery issue on which the Opposition sought to rest the fate of the country, has passed away. Mr. St. John after bothering the Public Accounts Committee for days with evidence intended to support the charge that the government had sold diseased animals from the Humber piggery, when he found that he could not prove such a charge, coolly states that he was not trying to show that the government had sold diseased pigs. But he still aims to show that there was something wrong in connection with the piggery. A little history of the Humber piggery may not be amiss for though it has been shown that the Government was not to blame, yet for that very reason the Mail and Empire, judged by the past, will insist on repeating the "yarn" exploded slander with countless variations.

With the considerations for economy that have always marked every branch of administration, the Ontario Government maintains piggeries in connection with the public institutions to dispose of the refuse and turn it to profitable account. The city authorities of Toronto decreed that the piggeries in connection with public institutions in Toronto should not be maintained within the city limits. Therefore the Ontario Government, having to close the piggeries in the city, established the Humber piggery. Shortly after its establishment cholera broke out amongst the stock. This was reported to Dr. Smith, the Dominion Government Inspector who, in discharge of his duty, took possession of the piggery, and ordered the destruction of the hogs that were diseased and the slaughter and sale of all animals that were sound. In connection with the latter transaction Mr. St. John brought his charge, now abandoned and exploded, that the Government sold diseased meat. Another charge was that of extravagance in regard to the buildings, the assertion being made that the piggery had cost $35,000. What are the facts! After the outbreak of cholera the greater part of the building, to insure the complete stamping out of the disease, had to be taken down and burned; and receiving permission from the Dominion Government, the Provincial Government rebuilt the pens, the piggery was restocked and is again in good running order, and the whole costs of the original building and the taking down and rebuilding was only $7,500; and it must be remembered that this piggery yields a profit of something like $6,000 a year to the Government.

The whole thing would be ridiculous if it had not the serious aspect of deceiving the people. When the Opposition resort to such contemptibly petty tactics to discredit the Government, whose record is otherwise invulnerable, it is a flagrant confession of a hopelessly weak cause. The charge of extravagance in connection with the piggery is absolutely disproved by the facts, as is the charge of selling diseased meat. Whatever action was taken in respect to the disposal of the herd at the piggery when the cholera broke out, was taken by the Dominion authorities, in whose hands the local Government, according to the requirements of the law, gave the matter, so that on neither charge is the Ontario Government to blame. It is unpleasant to be compelled to discuss such matters, but when the Opposition wish to create wrong impressions, they must be corrected.

THE OPPOSITION'S FATAL MISTAKE.

The Toronto Star, Independent, says:—Unfortunately in the past it has been the custom of Oppositions in Canadian Parliaments to oppose every act and policy of the Government, and for the Government to systematically vote down every proposal of the Opposition. In that position the Opposition in the Legislature placed itself last night, when it declared, for purely partisan stupid reasons against the timber bill.

The Government's timber policy has satisfied nearly every person in the province, yet Mr. Whitney fights it as if the very foundation stones of the province were threatened. The Governments position on the lumber question cannot be assailed. The question of difference hinges on the date of the application of the manufacturer clause. The Conservatives say it should go into force now; the Government says May.

Although it may be admitted that the Michigan lumbermen have done nothing to call for the slightest preference, yet this province, with its vast amount of forests to be sold, cannot for financial reasons afford to play fast and loose with the contracts which have been made. True, the licenses are open to changes of conditions, and the license holders may expect to be subject to slight changes, but certainly to none so sweeping as the policy outlined in the new bill, without warning. The conditions may be changed, and have been changed, before the license was completed, but never so radically as in this case. Even this year the conditions have been rearranged, and the lumbermen have been forced to employ Canadians only and purchase supplies in Canada. This regulation did not affect seriously the channels of trade, but the proposition of the Conservatives would destroy the good name of the province. Better sacrifice a billion feet of lumber than disgrace the name of the province in this way.

Mr. Whitney has placed himself and his party in the unenviable position of desiring to violate provincial contracts.

In commending the policy of the Dominion Government in respect of protecting the Crown lands in the Yukon from speculative grabbing, for the benefit of the people as a whole, the Montreal Witness says:

> "Ontario, the only Province of the Dominion which is free from debt, has been enabled to be so in consequence of the wise and honest administration of the Crown lands in the interests of the people of the Province as a whole. Why should not the Dominion Government inaugurate the same wise policy!"

EAST PETERBOROUGH.

So far as can be learned Dr. J. M. Shaw, who was nominated at the late Conservative convention, in Norwood, has neither accepted or declined the candidature for East Peterborough at the coming Provincial elections. It is rumoured that he will not be a candidate.

FIFTEEN YEARS OF AGONY.

Suffering Ended in a Few Weeks by the Use of Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Petrolea, Jan. 10.—From Ingersoll to Petrolea the way is marked at short intervals by houses which are pointed to as those in which Dodd's Kidney Pills have cured cases of Kidney Disease, Bright's Disease, Diabetes or other kidney or blood disorder.

John Russell, a farmer living near here, tells of his cure, after suffering fifteen years with Bright's Disease.

Three doctors treated him; may remedies were tried. All failed.

Then Dodd's Kidney Pills were recommended. He tried them. The invariable result followed. A few boxes cured him.

This story, with variations as to the disease, is told by hundreds in Petrolea. Dodd's Kidney Pills have not been known to fail one yet. Every case has been a cure.

RAILWAY NOTES.

Sparks From the Wheels—Cinders for the Eye.

The G.T.R. passenger audit office is to be removed from Detroit to Montreal on Feb. 1st.

Local freight traffic is picking up somewhat.

The G.T.R. statement for 1897 shows gross receipts of $23,816,060, an increase of $768,500 over 1896.

According to Mr. Callaway, of the Lake Shore and Michigan Southern Road, the passenger traffic of American railways has fallen off because business men use the long distance telephones to talk with their customers instead of taking a railroad trip for the purpose.

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills were beneficial from the first, and removed these troubles in a remarkably short time. They made me feel better in every way."

SILVER LAKE ASSAULT CASE.

The Investigation Continued on Saturday Last.

At Fenelon Falls Saturday, County Magistrate Deacon again took up the tangled thread of the Silver Lake assault case. It may not be amiss to give a short resume of the affair. Booth and Wilson lived in Somerville, about 10 or 12 miles north of Bobcaygeon, and in the same section, Mr. Sam White, formerly of Lindsay, had some furniture stored in a house formerly occupied by him when working a quarry in that neighbourhood. Wilson claims that Booth came to him and offered him $1 for the use of his team to carry home some of the furniture which he claimed to have purchased. The offer was accepted and the goods were removed. Next morning Mrs. Wilson found her husband in the furniture-laden sleigh at the door in an insensible condition, and showing evidences of having received a very severe beating. Constable Mavison, of Fenelon Falls, made a trip to the settlement, the result being that Booth and Wilson were arrested on a charge of house-breaking and robbery, the latter having to answer to the additional charge of of receiving stolen goods. Saturday in the case against Booth Magistrate Deacon heard ten witnesses in all and at the request of the defendant and with the consent of Crown Attorney Devlin, the case was adjourned till Tuesday, 11th, at Lindsay, to hear the evidence of a tramp named Woodward, now in gaol in Lindsay. Wilson was granted permission to withdraw his request for a summary trial and his case will be heard at the next court of competent jurisdiction.

Where Specialists Failed Dr. Chase Cured Catarrh.

James Spence, Uxbridge, Ont., writes:—"I had been a sufferer from Catarrh for 15 years. It became chronic and I had given up hopes of ever being cured when advised by a friend to try Dr. Chase's Catarrh Cure. I at once started and am pleased to state three boxes effected a complete cure, and I heartily recommend it to anyone suffering from Catarrh."

Important to Newspaper Men.

Washington, Jan. 13.—Chairman Hicks of the House Committee on Patents, has introduced three bills, proposing important changes as to patents and copyrights. One of these is of special interest to newspaper publishers, and was introduced after a conference between Mr. Hicks and the American Newspaper Publishers' Association. It amends the copyright laws so that the line production in a daily newspaper of photographs, other than those relating to fine arts, shall not be a violation of the laws.

Vandals Desecrate a Cemetery.

Hagerstown, Md., Jan. 13.—Vandals overturned and broke nearly 100 tombstones in Riverview Cemetery, Williamsport, last night, the damage amounting to about $3,000. The monument erected to General Otho Holland Williams, of revolutionary fame, the founder of the town was one of the few unharmed.

A MOTHER SPEAKS.

Tells how Dr. Chase Saved her Boy.

His Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine a Precious Boon.

MRS. A. T. STEWART, Folgar, Ont., says: "From the 7th of January to the 30th, we were up night and day with our two little boys, employing doctors and trying every kind of patent medicine we ever heard of. At this time we did not know of Dr. Chase's Linseed and Turpentine until after the 30th, when our youngest darling died in spite of all we could do. Sometime in February the doctor told us our other boy couldn't live till spring. We were about discouraged, when I got my eye on an advertisement of Dr. Chase's Syrup.

"I tried at once to get some, but none of the dealers here had it. A neighbor who was in Kingston managed to purchase two bottles which he brought straight to us, and I believe it was the means of saving our only boy.

"One teaspoonful of the Syrup stopped the cough so he could sleep till morning. Our boy is perfectly well now, and I would not be without Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine in the house."

SLOAN'S INDIAN TONIC

THE ONLY PERMANENT CURE FOR INDIGESTION.

This is to certify that I, James Ross, Tollgate Keeper, of the town of Woodstock, Ont., have been a sufferer from Indigestion and a very weak stomach for a number of years, and have tried a great many medicines of different kinds, but could only obtain temporary relief for a short time, but after using one bottle of Sloan's Indian Tonic I could perceive a great difference. My indigestion was better and my stomach was much stronger than before, and I found I had gained several pounds in flesh, where I was weak and thin in flesh before. I think I used nine or ten bottles in all, and I am now a healthy man, but still I do not want to be without the medicine in the house, and I procure one or two bottles every year, and I can truthfully recommend Sloan's Indian Tonic to others suffering from the same complaint.

How Long Will This Piano Last?

The above question is asked by almost every piano purchaser before making a decision.

If you are discussing a Chickering Piano there is an emphatic answer.

No matter what YOUR age rest assured the piano will outlive you.

There is no one living who has ever purchased a Chickering piano AND WO IT OUT.

Think of the number of children to-day practising upon Chickering pianos purchased by their grandparents.

There are thousands of Chickering pianos so purchased and so used.

Perhaps, they are not as good as they were 50 or 60 or 70 years ago, but the marvel is that they are in use at all.

The majority of pianos by other makers are worn out in a third the period.

These are simpl Chickering facts.

THE YORK ELECTION.

Lord Charles Beresford's Narrow Majority.

MARQUIS ITO'S NEW CABINET

British Shipyards Crowded With Vessels—Bad Effect of the Engineering Strike—The English Not Fools in Business—Canada Warned to Beware of Uncle Sam's Pretended Softness.

London, Jan. 14.—A Parliamentary bye-election was held in York City yesterday to fill the vacancy caused by the death of the late Liberal member, Sir Frank Lockwood, who had represented the constituency since 1885. It resulted in the election of Lord Charles Beresford, the Conservative and Liberal-Unionist candidate, by a majority of 11 votes over his Liberal and Radical opponent, Sir Christopher Furness. The voting was as follows:

Lord Charles Beresford, Unionist, 5,659; Sir Christopher Furness, Liberal and Radical, 5,648; Unionist majority 11.

Lord Charles Beresford's victory marks the first gain of a seat by the Government since the last general election. There was much excitement during the whole afternoon, and it culminated in a remarkable scene. A tremendous crowd awaited the result from 7 o'clock in the evening outside the Mansion House until the result of the poll was known.

Lord Charles Beresford remarked: "It has been a douced hard fight, and both sides were equally confident of victory."

At 11 o'clock great cheers greeted the rumor that Lord Charles had been elected by a small majority, but a recount was necessary. The final result was not known until midnight, when a scene of wild excitement ensued.

JAPAN'S NEW CABINET.

Marquis Ito Forms a Cabinet Which is Independent of Parties.

London, Jan. 14.—A despatch to the Daily Mail from Shanghai says that a new Japanese Cabinet has been completed, with the following distribution of portfolios:

Premier, the Marquis Ito; Minister of Foreign Affairs, Baron Nisi; Minister of the Interior, Viscount Koshikawa; Minister of War, Viscount Katsura; Minister of Marine, Marquis Saigo Tsugumichi; Minister of Finance, Count Inouye; Minister of Communications, Baron Suyematsu; Minister of Education, Marquis Saionyi; Minister of Justice, M. Sono.

A despatch to the Times from Kobe says: "The endeavor to form an Ito-Okuma coalition Ministry failed. Marquis Ito, after great difficulty and personal intervention of the Mikado, has constructed a Ministry independent of political parties, for which a brief career is predicted.

"The military party thoroughly approves Japan's asserting herself in the present crisis, and the activity of the dockyards is unabated. The press is constantly discussing the Anglo-Japanese alliance."

PRINCE WAS CRAZY.

The Murderer of Actor Terris Declared to be a Criminal Lunatic.

London, Jan. 14.—The trial of Richard Arthur Prince, the super who stabbed and killed William Terriss, the well-known actor, began yesterday at the Old Bailey. Justice Channel presided, and the audience included many theatrical people, though none of the "stars" were present. At the witness table sat "Tom" Terriss, son of the deceased. He was nervous and pale.

Prince, boldly standing high up in the dock, surveying everything with a calm gaze, was apparently undisturbed. Refusing a seat, he continued standing, apparently the least concerned person in court. Answering the usual question of the clerk, Prince declared he was "guilty with great provocation." Later, after consultation with counsel, he pleaded "not guilty."

The prosecution then opened the case. When the murder was discussed Prince frequently smiled, and wrote a number of notes to his counsel, apparently to correct absolutely unimportant details. The testimony presented was the same as taken at Bow Street Police Court when the prisoner was arraigned.

"Tom" Terriss was the first witness.

The defence alleged that Prince suffered in his youth from a sunstroke and that he recently had delusions.

The mother and brother of the prisoner testified regarding the sunstroke, and it developed that Prince claimed he was Christ, and that his mother was the Virgin Mary.

The judge summed up, favoring Prince's insanity, and the jury was out half an hour. The prisoner was pale and careworn as he faced the jurymen.

The judgment of the court was that Prince be detained as a criminal lunatic during Her Majesty's pleasure.

Suspicious of Uncle Sam.

London, Jan. 14.—(Telegram Cable.)—The Morning Post editorially comments on assertions made by Dr. Borden, Minister of Militia in the Dominion Government, concerning the friendship of the people of the New England States for Canada. The Post declares its inability to share Dr. Borden's cheerful optimism that the New England States are absolutely opposed to any act on the part of the Republic which would make trouble for Canada. Further, the editorial says the Canadian militia should not allow itself to be lulled into false security, but should keep in mind the fact that fighting may be necessary.

Congo State Troops Defeated.

Brussels, Jan. 14.—A letter has been received here from Uvira, on Lake Tanganyika, dated Nov. 18 last, which reports that the insurgents have attacked and defeated a detachment of the Congo State troops north of the lake, killing their commander. Baron Dhanis personally undertook punitive operations from Lakandu in the Manyema district.

Another Big Thread Combine.

Belfast, Jan. 14.—The Telegraph announces that a combination of thread manufacturers has been effected, including such firms as Barbour & Sons of Belfast and the United States, Marshall & Company of Paisley and New York and Finlayson & Company of Paisley. The capital of the new combination is equal to that of the Coates combination.

Andree's Balloon in Canada.

Stockholm, Jan. 14.—Professor Nordenskjold, the Arctic explorer, has informed the Swedish Academy of Science that the Foreign Office has received intelligence that several persons worthy of credence saw Professor Andree's balloon early in August in British Columbia, seven miles north of Quesnelle Lake, in the district of Cariboo. The Professor regards the news as being of sufficient importance to call for closer investigation. The Andree balloon left Danes' Island, of the Spitsbergen group, July 11, 1897.

Turbulent for Some Time Past.

Calcutta, Jan. 14.—It appears there has been great turbulence at Mekran, the largest province of Baluchistan, for some time past. It was to that place that the detachment of 150 men of the Bombay infantry were despatched hurriedly on Jan. 8 last. The previous garrison of Mekran had been withdrawn long ago.

Movements of British Warships.

Hong Kong, Jan. 14.—The British torpedo boat destroyers Hart and Handy, convoyed by the despatch vessel Alacrity, have been ordered northward. The homeward orders of the British first-class cruiser Edgar have been countermanded.

Serious Tax Riot in India.

Bombay, Jan. 14.—There has been a tax riot at Bomiavix, near Nariad, in the Gujarat district. A collector has been seriously injured and five Sepoys have been killed. Three hundred Sepoy troops have been sent to the scene of the disturbance from Ahmedabad.

The Most Prominent are Fashionable.

Dyspepsia or Indigestion has become a fashionable disease. There are very few individuals who have not at various time experienced the miserable feeling caused by defective digestion. No pen can describe the keen suffering of the body, and the agony and anguish of mind endured by the Dyspeptic. Dr. La Londe, of 236 Pine Ave., Montreal, says, "When I ever run across chronic cases of Dyspepsia I always prescribe Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, and my patients generally have quick relief."

HANNA SAFE FOR SEVEN YEARS.

Joint Balloting Gave Him a Majority of Three Votes.

Columbus, Ohio, Jan. 13. — Both branches of the Ohio Legislature met in joint session yesterday and balloted for United States Senator. Mr. Mark Hanna received a majority of three votes over Mayor McKisson of Cleveland, and was formally declared Senator for Ohio for both the short and long terms. Mr. Hanna's seat in the Senate is thus secure until March 4, 1905.

Zanoli Goes Free.

New York, Jan. 13.—The charge of murder against Charles Zanoli, the barber, accused of poisoning his fourth wife, was yesterday dismissed. Prof. Witthaus stated in the Police Court that he could not swear positively that the death of Jennie Suhmer, the wife in question, had been caused by poison.

A DENVER DIVIDE.

The Department Stores Want Newspapers to Cut Prices for Advertising and They Refuse to Do So.

Denver, Col., Jan. 14.—An extraordinary contest has started in this city with all the daily papers on one side and 14 of the largest dry goods and clothing department stores on the other. No advertisements of any kind of these firms appeared in yesterday's papers, and formal notice has been given that none will appear until the papers accede to the demands of the merchants.

Last week the business managers of the dailies were informed that the department store combination had arbitrarily decided that advertising rates must be reduced about 20 per cent. The firms declined to enter into the discussion of the justice of the demand, simply stating that they had given their ultimatum. They control about 50 per cent. of the city advertising, and believed the papers must submit to their dictation, notwithstanding that advertising rates in Denver are lower than in any other city of the same size in the country.

The newspapers replied that concessions to the autocratic order were not only impossible for business reasons, but would destroy the independence of the press. The first result of the contest is the passage of a resolution by the Trades Assembly calling on the City Council to impose a heavy license on department stores, and warning all members of the labor unions against them.

The smaller merchants are taking advantage of the opportunity to increase their advertising, and are exceedingly glad of the chance to cut into the business of their larger rivals.

THE TOWN'S HEALTH WAS NEVER BETTER.

OUR SANITARY CONDITION DESERVING OF COMPLIMENT.

The Death Rate Has Never Been as Low Since the Town was Incorporated as it was During the Past Year.

The last meeting of the Board of Health of 1897 was held yesterday afternoon, with the chairman, Mr. Benj Shortly, presiding, and the following members in attendance: Messrs. Henry Dennis, Robt. Innes and Dr. Burnham.

After the reading and confirming of the minutes of the last meeting, Dr. Clark, Medical Health Officer, read his annual report as follows:

To the Chairman and Members of the Peterborough Board of Health:

GENTLEMEN,—In presenting my report as Medical Health Officer for the year 1897, I would congratulate you on the very low bill of mortality, on the absence of serious epidemic, on the comparatively few cases of infectious disease and the small number of old complaints regarding nuisances which have been made. The work of past years is beginning to show itself. There is a much better sanitary tone in the air. On the institution of a Board of Health years ago its efforts were at first ridiculed and even opposed, but they have now come to be accepted by public opinion. Sanitary work is insidious. It is said that a boy in the slums of New York who got his face washed was the cause of a change for the better in the houses and inhabitants of the whole street on which he lived. The advance of the community depends upon the advance made by each individual citizen, and I am glad to say that during 1897 the sanitary advance in Peterborough has been not only individual but municipal.

DEATH RATE.

This is the lowest in the recorded history of the town. At the time sanitary operations began the rate was 19 per thousand. This was in 1884. In 1890 it had become gradually reduced to 13.28, a very low per centage. During the years since then it rose slightly, but in the last year it has touched the extraordinarily low rate of 11.3. This can hardly be maintained in succeeding years and is the strongest possible indication of the benefits of sanitary measure. The good done is not immediate, that is to say: a general cleaning up will not allay an epedimic of diphtheria or typhoid which happens to be raging, but persistent work carried on through a succession of years is sure to have the effect of lowering the death rate, of lessening infectious disease, moderating ordinary disease and increasing the physical and mental vitality of the citizens.

INFECTIOUS DISEASES.

During 1897 there were 33 cases of diphtheria reported and three deaths occurred; 19 cases of scarlet fever with no fatal result, and 13 mild cases of typhoid with only one death. A large number of cases, in fact an epidemic, of measles has been going on for some months past. It is impossible to state the number of cases, as in the large majority a medical man is not employed, and heads of families do not report, as it is not considered necessary. This, however, is a mistake. Householders as well as medical men are required to report cases of infectious disease. I have had a great deal of trouble regarding children attending school when measles are in the family. Both health law and school law require that no child from an infected house can attend school during and for some time after measles occurring in the family. This is considered a great hardship by parents, especially where the case is mild, and occurs on the eve of a school examination for promotion. It should be remembered that a mild disease in one may produce a severe form in another, and that measles is not such a harmless and necessary disease as many suppose, there having been three deaths from that cause during the year. And even this does not convey an adequate idea of its danger, for many long-continued sequelæ are brought on. Regarding whooping cough, of which quite a little occurred, it may seem silly to keep children from school where it appears in a family, but two deaths happened from that cause, and whooping cough often leads to bronchitis and other lung troubles.

SLAUGHTER HOUSES.

No complaints have been heard during the year regarding packing houses, and arrangements for disposal of refuse and moderating the unpleasant fumes from drying furnaces are evidently effectual, as scarcely a complaint has been heard. We have visited these places from time to time and always found them in good order.

REMOVAL OF GARBAGE AND EXCRETA.

This has been carried out very thoroughly, quite a number of men obtaining employment thereby. Earth closets are still being constructed on the outlying parts of the town, but in these places there is not so great an objection to the ordinary privy vault, provided it is cleaned out once a year according to statute, and disinfectants used, especially in hot weather.

WATER, ICE AND MILK.

One hundred and sixty-seven samples of water were sent in for analysis and found of variable degrees of purity. I find a very marked freedom from organic taints as compared with years ago when removal of garbage was not so thoroughly carried out. No complaint has been made regarding the town water, and no evidence of disease discovered from its use. The principal objection is its expense. When there is so good and inexhaustible a water supply it should be placed within the reach of all. I examined a few samples of ice at different times, but found nothing of a deleterious nature. The changed conditions of the Little Lake as respects disposal of sewerage and sawdust make it one of the best sources of ice in the country. Although not an expert in the analysis of milk a few samples have been sent in to me for examination, and the principal fault to be found was a scarcity of cream. No complaint has been made as to disease caused by it. I have driven out to some of the farms and found the cows apparently in good condition and with good surroundings.

HOUSE TO HOUSE INSPECTION.

This has been very thoroughly and systematically carried out by the sanitary inspectors, who include the whole police force. I do not know of any other town in Canada in which this is better done. The report is given below.

VACCINATION.

Extremely little has been done during the year, even in spite of the re-appearance of smallpox in Montreal. The number of unvaccinated children in Peterborough must be legion. The danger is that children grow up, never think of the necessity for it and move out of town to some source of contagion where the disease is contracted. I have known several deaths to occur in other places from this cause. Parents should see that their children are vaccinated as early as possible. The prejudice against introducing possible disease will soon be done away with as Dr. Copeman, the Inspector of the English Local Government Board has discovered a means of sterilizing vaccine lymph by a mixture of glycerine with half lymph. Lord Lister has stated that the Government would likely propose legislation to give the public full benefit of the discovery.

CONSUMPTION.

This is one of the most important diseases to be considered by governments and boards of health in future. The mortality due to it is simply appalling. Dr. Briggs, of the New York Health Department, stated not long ago that one person in seven in the city died from consumption, and that among the working people the proportion was one in four. Twenty deaths occurred in Peterborough in 1897 from this cause, which would give a proportion of about one in six, and besides this does not include deaths described as general debility, chronic bronchitis, &c., which in most cases simply mean consumption. This disease is considered by some as a stain on a family and a medical man is frequently asked to use some other term as far as can be done consistently. It is firmly believed by distinguished medical authorities that by isolation and proper treatment consumption can be entirely eradicated as it is unquestionably a powerfully infectious disease. A certain amount of ridicule was cast on an assertion I made in a report some time ago that expectoration, especially by consumptives ought to be prohibited in public places. Now this is what is being done in many of the leading cities of the United States. There is no more potent cause of the spread of consumption than the inhalation of expectorated matter which has been dried, powdered under foot, and blown down people's throats by a passing breeze. It is almost as if a smallpox or scarlet fever patient were allowed to scrape his skin and throw the scales out the window. I do not mean that a consumptive should be locked up in a room like one with diphtheria and avoided by everyone. That would be the worst possible form of treatment and in a very inhumane way of preventing the spread of the disease. But all infectious diseases, like seeds, have their own way of propagating themselves, and in case of consumption it is through the sputa (spittle). A child recovering from scarlet fever is rubbed with disinfecting ointment to prevent the scales on the skin from spreading, and so with consumption. Some means should be adopted to prevent its spread, and if any members of the Board should happen to be visiting cities in which laws regarding it are in force, they would do good by getting information. I think the Government should do more in the matter. The establishment of sanitaria like that at Gravenhurst is very important. Local Boards of Health should consider the subject and make recommendations. Twenty or twenty-five deaths in a year from consumption in Peterborough is too much. If it occurred from any other disease there would be a public outcry.

SEWERAGE.

The town council should be congratulated on pushing the system on as fast as finances will allow. It is a world-old experience that the more perfect and the more extended a system of sewerage is, the better the health of the community. I think the Board should see that proper steps are taken to have connections made as fast as possible.

CONFECTIONERY AND BAKE SHOPS.

The Sanitary Inspectors visited all of these in accordance with a motion of the Board and found everything in good order in most places. The supply of water used was free from contamination.

The chairman and members of the Board have done valuable work throughout the year by advising, recommending and informing as to sanitary matters. The officers of the Board are always glad to hear of anything that requires attention. False rumours are easily started in health matters and should be nailed at once.

For the incoming year I would urge perpetual vigilance. It is at this moment that a warning is needed. After a particularly healthy year efforts are not to be relaxed, but the town will not be healthy long if work ceases.

Hoping we shall have a similar record for 1898,

I am, gentlemen,
Your Obedient Servant,
J. CLARKE, M.D.
Medical Health Officer.

Work done by Sanitary Inspectors during the year 1897:

No. of notices served, 717.
No. of yards examined, 2353.
No. of closets examined, 2026.
No. of yards found in good condition, 1636.
No. of closets found in good condition, 1343.
No. of manure heaps ordered to be removed, 25.
No. of hog pens ordered to be removed, 20.
No. of dead animals buried, 112.
No. of houses placarded, 35.

Signed)
GEO. I. ROSZEL,
Sanitary Inspector.

On motion of Dr. Burnham, seconded by Mr. R. Innis, the report was received, and will be embodied in the Board's report to Provincial Board of Health.

The members congratulated Dr. Clark on the excellence of the report.

The matter of citizens allowing horse manure to accumulate on their premises was brought up and it was explained that only two loads could be allowed to accumulate before removal.

The Medical Health Officer reported that there was only one case of diphtheria existing in the town. This was at present in the Nicholl's Hospital, and convalescent. There was no scarlet fever or typhoid to his knowledge.

The Board then adjourned to meet a week from Monday at 4 p.m., when the new Board will organize.

MARK STREET SUNDAY SCHOOL.

The Annual Meeting Was Held Thursday Evening—Reports Received.

The annual meeting of Mark street Sunday school was held on Thursday evening, the pastor, Rev. J. E. Moore, presiding. After devotional exercises the roll was called and the minutes of previous meeting were read and approved.

The Superintendent's report was then given by Mr. M. W. Matchett, showing the school to be in a flourishing condition, financially as well as otherwise.

The school began the year 18 cents in debt and closed with $9 88 on hand, after paying all expenses, paying for all supplies for 1898 and paying a large deficit on the Sunday school picnic. On the last Sunday in the year a "charity collection" was taken up and $5.13 was collected. A capable committee had been appointed to expend this.

The school had also prospered spiritually, as many members had been brought to Christ during the special meetings.

The average attendance was 95, or omitting the holiday months of July and August, it was 100.

The Christmas entertainment was a success, financially as well as otherwise.

There are 154 on the roll, 11 more than in 1896.

For 1898 papers are to be given out weekly to all. This promises to be profiting and interesting.

After the reading of the secretary's report by the secretary, Mr. W. J. Paterson, and a report of the Charity Committee's work by Mrs. Moore, the election of officers was proceeded with, resulting as follows:

Superintendent—M W Matchett.
Asst Supt—M Carton.
Secretary—W J Paterson.
Treasurer—Miss Wand.
Organist—E F Smith.
Librarian—R Ritchie.
Asst Librarian—Chas. Crowe.
Teachers—Class No. 1, H S Armstrong; 2, A M Smith; 3, E F Smith; 4, Mrs M W Matchett; 5, S Hamilton; No. 6, M Carton; No 7, A Dawson; No 8, S Henderson; No 9, M Hamilton; No 10, E Weir; No 11, K Carton; No 12, M Finnemore; No 13, Mrs Edwards; No 14, J J Cunningham; No. 15, Mrs H S Armstrong.

The attendance last Sunday was 135. The school meets at 2.30, and everyone who comes will be made welcome. Young and old are invited.

The above mentioned officers, teachers, etc., were all re-elected, except the asst.-superintendent, and he takes the place of one who has removed from the village.

The meeting closed with the benediction by the pastor.

THE ANNUAL REPORT.

Mr. Percy Hamilton, Secretary-Treasurer, presented the annual report as below:

The annual report of the Secretary of the Charlotte street Methodist Sunday School for the year ending Dec. 31st 1897:

I beg to submit herewith the annual report of the Charlotte street Methodist Sunday school for the year 1897:

The year 1897, like all previous years, has been one of growth and progress, and although it has not reached the standard that is possible for a school of our size to attain, yet there is an improvement over last year. The attendance and collections have been the largest in the history of the school. The average attendance, though up to last year, should have been better, with our increased membership, if our Visiting Committee had not been done away with.

The total number of scholars on the roll is 220, an increase of 38, with an average attendance of 148. The largest attendance on any one Sunday was 314; the smallest 94. Out of this number of scholars 123 are in the infant class—an increase of 34 and an average of 70.

There were two teachers added to the staff, making the number of teachers and officers 32, with an average attendance of 27.

The number of verses recited during the year was 7,453, an average each Sunday of 205.

The average collection was $4.30; the largest on any one Sunday, $22.25; the smallest, $1.44. There is a marked increase in this respect.

Mr. Jackson's class is entitled to first place for having recited the largest number of verses 17 times during the year.

The classes having the largest collections the greatest number of Sundays during the year are as follows:

Girls—Mr. Goodwin's class, 13 Sundays.
Boys—Miss Geard's class, 20 Sundays.

In the year 1894, we purchased a new library complete, consisting of about eight hundred volumes. Last year we went over these books, and repaired those that were worth repairing, and added new volumes to the library, costing over $46.72, and now we have as complete a library as there is in the province.

During the past year by resignation and removals we have lost the following teachers and officers: Miss E. Sherlock, Miss Headrea, Miss Rae, Rev. J. J. Rae, Mr. Hart, Mr. W. Davidson, Miss Oliand and Miss Robinson, and by death we have lost one scholar, Helen Bradburn.

Respectfully submitted.

PERCY HAMILTON, Secretary.

MURRAY ST. BAPTISTS' ANNUAL MEETING.

REPORTS OF THE YEAR PRESENTED BY THE COMMITTEES.

The Different Church Societies All Report Progress—Election of Deacons and Officers.

The annual meeting in connection with the Murray street Baptist church, was held last evening with a large number of the members of the congregation present. Rev. A. T. Dykeman, the pastor, occupied the chair.

The report of the Finance Committee was presented as follows by Mr. William Aldridge:

Report of Finance Committee for year ending Dec 31. 1897:

Church liability was on January 1, 1897, composed of a note due Bank of Montreal	$ 225 00
Overdraft	81 50
Total liability, besides Clifford mortgage	$ 306 50
Received for church purposes during the year by envelope and open collection	$1,536 62
Handed in and collected for deficit	87 00
Collected for roll call	17 40
Collected for denominational purposes	271 95
Total raised for church purposes	$1,912 97
Besides this there was received by special effort for renovating and repairing church	$ 221 00
Of which there has been paid out	194 22
Leaving a balance on hand of	$ 26 78
Which will be used to finish contract for electrical work and for numbering the seats.
Raised for all purposes	$2,133 97

Besides this, there was raised by the ladies for carpeting, etc., a considerable sum, amounting to about $73, which we believe was wisely spent.

Our liability now consists of amount due Sunday School	$316 00
Less cash in bank	4 74

You will see there is no material change since last year, and taking into consideration the fact that a number of good paying members moved away during the year, we think this is a fairly good showing, and we feel that there is every reason to be grateful.

Your committee have made their annual canvass of the church members in order to ascertain the probable amount that will be forthcoming during the year 1898. Some of the members have not been seen, and we would esteem it a favour if they would give us definite information of what they intend to contribute, as soon as possible.

An estimate of the expenses of the year is as follows:

Salary, Pastor	$1,000 00
" Organist	100 00
" Janitor	70 00
Light	75 00
Fuel	50 00
Sundry expenses	89 25
Interest	215 75

which will require a collection of $30.77 per Sunday. Besides paying our way we should wipe out present liability of $310.26. To do this also would require a collection of $32.76. Our promises amount to $32.00 per Sunday, so if there are no arrearages we will be able to pay our expenses and reduce our liability by about $100. Our present arrearages amount to $34.15, of which we consider $21.56 is collectable. This is composed to a certain extent of quarterly and yearly subscriptions. Will those contributing in this manner make an effort to hand their amount in before the end of the quarter?

During the year the Park street Baptist church paid to us $718, which belongs to our Sunday school. With this we paid the deacons' note of trustees to the Bank of Montreal and took the balance into church funds, so we now owe the Sunday school this amount, $315, and interest at 5 per cent per annum.

WM. ALDRIDGE, Chairman.

The report was adopted, as was that of the treasurer, Mr. T. F. Matthews.

MISSION CIRCLE REPORT.

was presented by Miss Mary A. Nicholls, as appended:

Our Women's Mission Circle closes the year with a membership of fifty, two less than last year. Thirty-seven contribute to Home Missions and thirty-five to Foreign.

Our circle has not been without change, some have removed to other parts. We have also been reminded that earthly circles are not lasting. One of our number has heard the "well done" of her Master and entered into her rest.

Twelve meetings have been held, with an average attendance of seventeen. The largest attendance at any meeting, thirty-five; lowest, six.

We are pleased to report the spread of our missionary periodicals on the increase. There are twenty subscribers for The Link, four more than last year. Owing to the energetic agents of The Visitor there are now fifty-six subscribers for this little paper, sixteen more than last year.

The amount forwarded to Foreign Mission treasurer, $48.06; Home, $50.41; N. W. Indians, $3.60; total, $102.07. $24.06 of this was contributed at our thank-offering services, the balance was raised by our faithful collectors.

MARY A. NICHOLLS, Secretary.

January, 1897.

The report was adopted, after which Miss Addie Bradshaw read, as follows, the MISSION BAND REPORT.

Our report is from January, 1897, to January, 1898.

There are 40 members on the roll. The largest attendance was in the month of April, 1897, there being 32 present. The smallest attendance was in August, 13 being present. We are sorry to report that during the year there has been a decrease of 5 in our membership.

On April 16th an entertainment was given for the members of the Band, in which a large number took part. The collection at the entertainment amounted to $4.80, and was equally divided between Home and Foreign Missions.

On Friday evening, October 8th, a concert was given by the members of the Band. The special number of this concert was the building of the Indian Village, and at this concert the Band presented three of their members with beautifully framed certificates of life membership, costing $10 each. By a special request a repetition of this concert was given on October 19th. This was largely attended, and the collection altogether was $8.35.

The financial report is as follows:

Amount sent to Foreign Missions	$26 35
Amount sent to Home Missions	16 35
Amount on hand	25 42
Amount raised	$68 12

The report was adopted.

Miss Ada McDonald, Recording Secretary, then submitted as appended the

In the mornings, however, but little change is observable, and the mechanic who has to begin work at seven o'clock will continue to eat his breakfast by lamplight for some weeks longer.

The January number of the Canadian Magazine contains a charming sketch, "A Canadian Idyll," written by Jane Fayrer Taylor, Mrs. F. W. Taylor, formerly of Peterborough. It is a delightfully sweet and tender prose poem, delicately conceived, and clothed in graceful language. Such writing as a "Canadian Idyll" is too good to be brief and infrequent, and Canadian literature will be much the richer by the often use of Mrs. Taylor's facile pen.

—Mr. T. Baker, a Key Port, Jersey, capitalist, says the Marmora Herald, paid that district a visit last week. He had been negotiating for mining property, and the result was that the ownership of a number of lots was transferred to him last week. He returned to Key Port on Wednesday where it is expected a mining company will be formed to develop the property. Mr. M. Devlin is looking after his interests here at present.

—An exchange says: Shopkeepers often find their supply of goods hidden from the public eye by the frost lining the inside of their window panes. A simple remedy for this is a thin coat of pure glycerine applied to the glass. This will prevent any moisture forming thereon and last until so much dust collects on it so as to make the window cloudy. In fact it can be used to prevent moisture forming on anything. Engineers find it particularly useful to keep their windows free from steam as well as cold or moisture.

If life were one long summer day and its journey through a garden of flowers, it might be possible for people to be careless of their health without fearing evil results. Unfortunately, since Adam and Eve were driven from the Garden of Eden, life has not been a toilless journey through a garden of flowers. Man must earn bread by the sweat of his brow, and woman must bring forth children in pain and suffering.

In both cases the curse is multiplied many times over because both men and women neglect their health. Man's toil is rendered a thousand times harder by the added burden of ill-health. The woman is a still greater sufferer. She suffers in silence untold agonies from weakness and disease in a womanly way. Motherhood becomes to her a menace of death, and her babes are born with the seeds of disease already implanted in their little bodies. There is but one unfailing remedy for women who suffer in this way. It is Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It acts directly on the delicate and important organs that bear the brunt of maternity. It makes them strong, healthy, vigorous, virile and elastic. It allays inflammation, heals ulceration, soothes pain and tones and builds up the tortured nerves. It fits for wifehood and motherhood. It does away with the trials of the period of apprehension and makes baby's advent easy and almost painless. Thousands have testified to its marvelous merits.

"I was afflicted for four years with local weakness, but would not confess it for a time," writes Mrs. Beulah Woodall, of Bateman, Patrick Co., Va., "then I took the 'Favorite Prescription' and 'Golden Medical Discovery,' and they cured me. I cannot praise Dr. Pierce's medicines too much."

INGERSOLL'S CLAIM.

Dodd's Kidney Pills Have Cured Hundreds of People There.

Ingersoll, Jan. 8—London, Glencoe and St. Thomas cannot claim all the remarkable cures wrought in this district by that wonderful remedy, Dodd's Kidney Pills. Ingersoll is bubbling over with excitement over the cures in this town.

Farmer G. J. Cook, of West Oxford township, is the latest to tell of his rescue. He suffered the agonies of Kidney Disease in spite of doctors and their remedies, till he began using Dodd's Kidney Pills. A short treatment cured him completely.

Mr. Cook's case is startling, but not uncommon. Whenever a person speaks of Dodd's Kidney Pills in Ingersoll, he or she can tell of a cure by them of Bright's Disease, Lumbago, Lame Back, Female Trouble or some other kidney or bladder disorder.

THE STORY WAS A FAKE.

All That Yarn About the Seminole Uprising in the Indian Territory Was a Pure Fabrication.

Kansas City, Mo., Jan. 13.—At noon yesterday the Associated Press correspondent at South McAlister, I. T., sent the following: "The whole story of the Indian uprising is a fake. The first account of the alleged affair was sent out by the agent of the C.O. and G. Railway, at Earlboro, I.T., to the train despatcher here. To-day all acquainted with the situation give it as their opinion that the story was a pure fabrication, originating with the railroad agent at Earlboro.

200 Savages on the Warpath.

Kansas City, Mo., Jan. 13.—A special to the Times from Shawnee, O.T., says: Trains on the Choctaw branch of the 'Frisco Railroad have brought to this city every woman and child from Earlsboro, some 200 people, near the border of the Seminole nation. The burning at the stake of McGeisey and Simpson, the Seminole halfbreeds, has so enraged the Seminoles that they have banded together, and are raiding over the country around Maud and Wewoka in a wild rage, killing the stock. A party of about 200 savages, halfbreeds and other toughs rode into a neighborhood 18 miles south of Earlsboro and began shooting through the doors and windows of the house of a man who recently came in from Ohio. Every person in the house is reported to be killed. The people who came in on the train from Earlsboro say that about 10 o'clock yesterday a regular pitched battle occurred, and that three families were killed. There is a general uprising. Messengers have been sent to the military station demanding immediate aid and protection.

This Confirms the Fake Idea.

Washington, D.C., Jan. 13.—Commissioner Jones of the Indian Office received a despatch from Wewoka, Seminole Nation, yesterday afternoon from W. S. Field, who says that the report of the Seminole troubles is untrue. The whites, he said, burned a probably innocent man, and the Indians are indignant, but will make no trouble. A few shots were fired in the darkness by practical jokers in the neighborhood of Earlsboro. The commissioner says he knows Field very well, and regards this information as entirely trustworthy.

Secretary Bliss wrote the War Department, asking for troops. He said he regarded the reports as at least greatly exaggerated, but nevertheless, it might be the part of prudence to have troops on the scene. The War Department will comply with the request and despatch troops unless the request is countermanded in case the whole affair proves a fake.

YUKON LAND NOT FOR SALE.

Hon. Mr. Sifton Has So Determined Pending More Definite Information—Notes From the Capital.

Ottawa, Jan. 13.—A great many applications for the land of the Yukon have been received by the Department of the Interior. Mr. Sifton has decided not to sell the land there at present until more definite information is available as to the resources and necessities of the territory. The Minister has also decided to invite public competition for timber berths in the Yukon, and tenders have been asked for up to January 25. The highest bidder will get the timber. A large number of applications for timber berths are on file in the department, and this decision will be read with interest by many. Both these decisions would seem to be in the public interest.

Cote v. Catholic Order of Foresters was concluded in the Assize Court yesterday. Judge Falconbridge submitted a number of questions to the jury as to whether there was a conspiracy to defraud the company, and as to whether Cote made false representations in his application for admission to the order. His Lordship dwelt upon the evidence at considerable length and quoted the law bearing upon the case.

The jury returned a verdict for Mrs. Cote for $2,000 and costs.

Wise Men Know

It is folly to build upon a poor foundation, either in architecture or in health. A foundation of sand is insecure, and to deaden symptoms by narcotics or nerve compounds is equally dangerous and deceptive. The true way to build up health is to make your blood pure, rich and nourishing by taking Hood's Sarsaparilla.

Hood's Pills act easily and promptly on the liver and bowels. Cure sick headache.

Other Insects In Ants' Nests.

It is certain that ants intentionally sanction the residence of certain insects in their nests. This is the case, for instance, with the curious blind beetle, claviger, which is absolutely dependent upon ants, as Muller first pointed out. It even seems to have lost the power of feeding itself. At any rate it is habitually fed by the ants, who supply it with nourishment, as they do one another.

DOAN'S Kidney Pills.

Mr. M. J. McCauly, the well-known butcher, Market Sq., Stratford, Ont., says: "I have been troubled for some time with pains in my back which were so severe that I could hardly attend to my business. I had to urinate too frequently and the urine was of a very high color. I used many medicines without relief and was getting worse. I procured a box of Doan's Kidney Pills and started taking them. They effected a remarkable change in me. The pains in my back left me, the urine resumed its natural color and I now feel as well as ever I did."

THE WIDOW'S GARDEN

The Rev Wetherby Smiles was rector of St. James' and occupied a rose embowered cottage not far from the church. The cottage, with its attendant garden, was a dainty, pretty spot, which looked as though a woman's hand had planned and cared for it. But no woman had anything to do with the rectory. The Rev. Mr. Smile's only servant was a doddering old man. The rector prepared his own meals, except when he was invited to tea by some old lady who pitied his lonely, indigestion breeding existence.

Not that the Rev. Wetherby Smiles was a woman hater, but Mr. Smiles was very high church indeed. Unfortunately St. James' and the parish and the people were very poor. The good people liked the Rev. Mr. Smiles and tried to follow his suggestions upon high church usages. But there are people, you know, whom you couldn't make high church with a jackscrew. The communicants of St. James' were mostly farmers and small tradesmen.

The rector felt that the clergy, to be able to give their whole time and thought to their work, should live lives of celibacy. He had felt at times a strong drawing toward some ecclesiastical order in which such vows would be necessary. Then he could wear some outward sign of his vows, and the young women of his parish would not fall in love with him. The rector was young and good looking. He had been in his present pastorate six months, and he had already had an experience.

The young rector lived with his books, occasionally taking a little recreation in the garden. The roses disappeared, the leaves fell and left the clinging vines bare, and the snow covered the prim little beds in the rectory garden. Thus a year of his pastorate closed and the spring drew near.

The Rev. Wetherby Smiles from his study window could look across his garden plot and see the brown earth warming in the spring sunshine and the trees and bushes slowly bursting into leaf. Nature is always most attractive in the spring, and nature in a thousand ways, with bud and leaf and warming earth and white flecked sky and sweet air, wooed him from his books.

He looked across his garden, I say. And across the garden beyond the low hedge was another garden, which in summer was full of color. He had noticed the brilliant hued beds the year before, but now the only bit of color was a pale blue morning robe that fitted about the inclosure.

To tell the truth, the rector had seldom noticed that morning gown or the little woman inside it before. But it pleased his fancy now to look across the hedge and watch his neighbor. He recalled that his old major domo had told him the cottage next the parsonage was occupied by a widowed lady—a lonely creature who had taken up her abode there but shortly before the Rev. Mr. Smiles was settled over St. James'. He remembered the little figure in black in one of the side pews, pointed out to him by the clerk as "Mrs. Scorritch," and probably had not given her a thought or a glance afterward.

However, he saw so much of the pale blue gown that first warm week in spring that he looked for the little widow in her pew the next Sabbath. She had laid aside her weeds and was dressed in some soft, clinging, fawn colored material, that made her look like a very demure little moth. And she had the sweetest face in the world—at least the sweetest face in the Rev. Wetherby Smiles' world.

On Monday morning the clerical black appeared in the rectory garden almost as soon as the pretty morning robe appeared over the hedge. The demure little face dimpled and smiled under its garden hat at the rector's approach, and the widow nodded brightly.

"You are early at your gardening this spring, Mrs. Scorritch," he said.

"Yes. But it is so warm," she replied in defense. "I am expecting my crocuses to appear any day now."

"I'm afraid we shall see some frost yet, Mrs. Scorritch," said the rector.

"Now, don't talk that way, I beg!" cried the little woman, clasping her hands, inclosed in long wristed and particularly well fitting gauntlets. "Just suppose my crocuses should come up and be frost bitten! Oh, the thought is too awful!"

"I sincerely hope you will not be disappointed, but this climate is uncertain."

After that the young rector often found it quite necessary for his health to work in his garden while the blue gown flitting like a butterfly from rose tree to vine and from vine to hedgerow was in evidence in the neighboring yard. Really, after poring over musty theological tomes all winter, a man must get some freshness in his soul and new blood in his heart.

The gardening went on apace, and the treacherous warm weather continued. Many were the conferences held across the hedge regarding the proper pruning of rose trees, the planting of hardy reeds and the preparation of the beds of earth. The rector had never suspected there was so much detail to the business of gardening.

One morning, just after a warm night rain, the Rev. Mr. Smiles was called to the hedge by a little cry from his neighbor.

"They are coming!" she cried in delight. "See, here is the dearest little blade of green pushing up through the mold, and there is another—and another! Just look at them!"

The rector found it necessary to leap the hedge (he had been something of an athlete at the university, and certainly this spring weather was sending the blood coursing through his veins quite like old times) and look at the crocus bed.

"They are such lovely ones," she said earnestly. "I don't believe you noticed them at all last spring" (he pronounced maledictions upon himself for having been so blind as to miss so much beauty the previous season), "but they will be even better this year—if we don't have that horrid frost you have been prophesying."

She looked up at him roguishly, and it suddenly crossed the young rector's mind that several yellowish green points of crocus blade, breaking the damp soil, made a far prettier picture than the finest rosebush in full bloom which he had ever seen. It was a strange fact and one he had never discovered before.

But when he had returned to his own lonely domain and entered his study he stopped and thought seriously for a minute. Then he cast his flat crowned ministerial hat upon the floor with great emphasis and exclaimed:

"It's my creed, I tell you, that a man in orders should not marry."

Now, there was no one visible to argue the question, and yet there seemed to be argument in his own mind, for the Rev. Wetherby Smiles smote his palm with his clinched fist angrily and kicked the flat crowned hat to the other end of the room.

For two days the rector of St. James' rigidly stifled his interest in crocuses. His interest in creeds, however, was not entirely satisfying. On Sunday after vespers he overtook on his way home a little figure in a fawn colored gown.

"You must see my crocuses, Mr. Smiles," she said. "The buds will be open before Sunday."

The rector glanced gloomily at the darkening sky and thought that probably there would be a frost that night. But he could not long think of frost and other unpleasant possibilities under the skillful manipulation of his charming little neighbor. He hesitated at her gate, and again crocuses triumphed over creed. The crocuses were flourishing finely. The creeds took a back seat—indeed a very unobtrusive seat—in the rector's memory.

His interest in the crocus continued that evening to so late an hour that his old servitor really thought he was not coming to supper and cleared away the repast.

"Never mind," said the rector kindly. "I am not hungry." And when the old man had doddered off to bed he sat down before the open window of his chamber and stared out into the still night.

He sat there for an hour. A light burned behind the curtain of one of his neighbor's windows. That was her light, he knew. Finally it disappeared, but he sat on, his arms folded upon the sill, his eyes glaring fixedly into the darkness. Creed was making a strong fight for life.

It grew colder, and suddenly the Rev. Wetherby Smiles awoke to the discomforts of the outer man. He shivered and drew away from the window. There was no breeze and no clouds, but an increasing chill made him close the casement.

Then he slipped on a smoking jacket and went to the door. There was a light haze upon the river, and a shimmer of frost was in the air.

"A bad night for the farmers and fruit growers," he thought. Then his mind reverted to those crocuses. "They will be black by morning," he said. "Too bad, and the little woman thinks so much of them."

He hesitated a moment and then went in again, reappearing shortly with an old mackintosh.

"Just the thing to spread over the bed to defend them from the frost," he muttered, and with long strides he crossed the rectory garden and leaped the hedge.

Feeling a good deal like a night prowler who had no business in the place, he crept through his little neighbor's garden and approached the crocus bed near the porch. He started at the slightest sound and glanced about fearfully. Suppose anybody should see him—one of his parishioners—even his major domo! He forgot the night was dark. It seemed to his excited imagination that anybody passing along the road could see him—the rector of St. James'—prowling about beneath a lady's window!

Suddenly, just as he spread the covering over the crocus bed and was turning hastily to flee, he heard a sound on the porch. He started and his eyes became fixed upon the vision before him. A figure, all in white and motionless, stood upon the lower step.

The Rev. Wetherby Smiles was startled, but he was not superstitious. For some seconds, however, he stared at the apparition before he recognized it. Then he stepped quickly forward, and began to make excuses in a low voice.

"Mrs. Scorritch—Lydia—I beg your pardon, but I thought"—

He got no further in his faltering remarks. With a shuddering little cry the figure tottered and would have fallen to the ground had he not sprung forward and caught her in his arms.

"Good Lord!" muttered the Rev. Mr. Smiles, the perspiration starting on his brow. "What a situation! Suppose anybody should see me now. To think of me—a clergyman—in a woman's garden at night, holding that woman in my arms!"

He was tempted to lay her down upon the porch and run. But he looked down into the little white face, revealed by the faint starlight. The pale lids were drawn over the great eyes, which he thought so glorious. The pouting lips had not entirely lost their redness, but the cheeks were without color. The loose fitting wrapper which she had slipped on over her night robe before coming down (evidently, like himself, with the crocus in mind, for a sheet had slipped from her hand as she fell) had fallen away at the neck, revealing the marblelike beauty of her throat.

He looked upon her, and then did not lay her down and flee. Instead he stooped lower and—lifted her more closely against his breast and carried his burden into the house. There was a couch in the reception room. He laid her down and lighted the gas. She opened her eyes languidly and saw him.

"I have frightened you, Lydia," he said, stooping above her. "Really, I had no intention, you know. I only remembered the crocuses"—

"I—I thought you were a burglar," she admitted. "And when I heard your voice"—

"Didn't you recognize it?" he asked.

"You—you had never spoken to me in just that way before, and"—

He bent lower and took her hand. "I was only thinking of the crocuses, Lydia," he said, which was very true. He had quite forgotten the "creed."—W. Bert Foster in Chicago Record.

A Little Joke Between Two Big Men.

Scene—A car on the elevated road, the train being halted between two stations, owing to a block somewhere on the road above; big, fine looking man, standing up, turning to equally big and fine looking policeman in uniform standing next to him.

"Can't you make us move on?"

The big policeman smiled his appreciation of the big citizen's little joke, but he couldn't start the train. This was a case in which the traditional power of the policeman was of no avail.—New York Sun.

A Great Book Free.

When Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N.Y., published the first edition of his great work, The People's Common Sense Medical Adviser, he announced that after 680,000 copies had been sold at the regular price, $1.50 per copy, the profit on which would repay him for the great amount of labour and money expended in producing it, he would distribute the next half million free. As this number of copies has already been sold, he is now giving away, absolutely free, 500,000 copies of this most complete, interesting and valuable common sense medical work ever published—the recipient only being required to mail to him, at above address, 31 one-cent stamps to cover cost of mailing only, and the book will be sent postpaid. It is a veritable medical library, complete in one volume. Contains 1,008 pages, profusely illustrated. The free edition is precisely the same as that sold at $1 50, except only that the books are in strong manilla paper covers instead of cloth. Send now before all are given away.

WHY DON'T YOU TAKE?

HEART HUMBUG.

WHY DON'T YOU TAKE?

IT is fashionable to-day to have a new heart scare every 24 hours. The commonest symptoms of dyspepsia or nerve trouble, such as palpitation, weak spells, loss of appetite and poor circulation are magnified and distorted into serious signs of heart trouble, with the object of frightening the public into taking this or that heart remedy. If a hundredth part of the heart trouble we hear about were real, the cemeteries would be filled in a month. A wrong construction is put upon common ailments in order to humbug the people into the belief that heart disease is prevalent, whereas real heart trouble, which is so sadly and suddenly fatal when it does occur, is a rare disease. Lopsided arguments cannot convince an intelligent people. Iron is the vital element of the blood. You can't have too much. But too little iron means weakness, lack of spirit, pallid cheeks, shortness of breath, sleeplessness, nervousness, loss of vital force, ending in general break-down. The iron in Dr. Ward's Blood and Nerve Pills is in the soluble form you need, in combination with other curative agents in such a manner that disease can't resist their action. The blood becomes rich and red, strength returns, spirits revive, good health comes back again. YOU FEEL YOURSELF GETTING WELL WHEN YOU TAKE DR. WARD'S BLOOD AND NERVE PILLS.

BELLEVILLE VICTORIOUS.

A Basket Ball Team From the City on the Bay win From the Local Y.M.C.A. Boys.

The match last night in Y.M.C.A. Hall between Belleville and Peterborough association teams was a fast and interesting game. The Belleville team was composed of all large men, two of which were over six feet. They looked like giants beside Peterborough's small men, S. Hall and M. McDonough having men to play against who would make two of them in size, but not in playing.

This is the second season the Belleville team has played, thus giving them a great advantage over the home team, which has only played the game for two months.

During the first half the game was remarkably well played, both teams being only able to score two points, each of these being free throws from fifteen foot line.

The second half started off fast, each team going in to win. The Bellevilles outplayed the home team but made more fouls, thus giving Peterborough a chance to win, as for every foul made the opposing team has free throw for goal, but they only succeeded in throwing two. During this half the visiting team threw four from field and one from foul, winning the game by 7 points.

The visitors had an advantage over the home team in weight, but the Peterborough boys played a wonderfully good game, in fact considering the practice and length of time they have played the game they far out played the visiting team, and they are to be complimented on the way they played.

The teams lined up as follows:

Belleville.		Peterborough.
F Walsh	left forward	S Hall
E Wallace	right forward	M McDonough
H Ritchie	centre	K Dolan
W Ritchie	left guard	H Halpin
J Molloy	right guard	R Wilson
J R Herdman	umpire	W H Buxton
R Cronin	scorer	— Pitney

R Dixon, timekeeper.

After the game the men enjoyed a bath, after which they were invited to assemble in one of the rooms and partook of an oyster supper, prepared by the ladies, over which both teams spent a jolly time for an hour.

Speeches were made by Mr. Sinclair, President of Belleville Association, and Mr. J. R. Herdman, secretary. The captain resigning his speech in favour of their manager, Mr. Pitney.

The captain of the Peterborough team was called upon and he resigned in favour of the Physical Director. Mr. Evy Hall gave a whistling solo.

Then they adjourned to their several billets.

There were about 125 present to see the game, and the basket ball team wishes to thank those who came to witness the game for their presence. They hope to see them all at the next game with many new faces.

Basket ball rules in a nut shell for those who wish to understand the game better:

The penalty for all fouls is a free throw for the basket from the 15-foot line.

The following acts constitute fouls:

Fouls made from Ball—Striking ball with fists; kicking ball; carrying ball while in bounds; holding ball with anything except hands; carrying ball out of bounds.

Fouls made on Man—Holding, striking, tripping, pushing, shouldering, rough play.

General—Interfering with free throw; addressing umpire or referee by any player not captain; intentionally delaying the game; remarks about officers by players.

PASTOR RESIGNED.

Rev. Wm. Hunter, Formerly of Cavan, Will go to Denver, Colorado.

The Ridgetown Plaindealer makes the following reference to the resignation of Rev. Wm. Hunter, who is an old Cavan boy and brother to Mr. David Hunter, of Otonabee:—

"Rev. Mr. Hunter has resigned the pastorate of the Presbyterian church here, and accepted a call to a church in Denver, Colorado. It goes without saying that Mr. Hunter will be a distinct loss to Ridgetown. He is a noble and generous spirit, and he illustrates the principles he so faithfully preaches. It is probable that on his recent trip west with his brother he found the air of that country to agree with him, and that this is partly the cause of his going. His brother, Rev. Mr. Hunter, of Toronto, is still in Colorado for his health, and will remain some time. The resignation takes effect in a few weeks. We need hardly say that the general public will view with quick and lively interest the proceedings that may be taken to fill the vacant pulpit. It is matter of public concern that a judicious choice should be made. We feel sure that a judicious choice will be made. We also feel sure that the congregation will be careful and conscientious in discharging the important duty that now devolves upon them. In the meantime we commend Mr. Hunter and his amicable and gifted wife to the good people of the city where they have chosed their abiding place. We grudge Mr. and Mrs. Hunter to the voracious west.

The Piggery.

Upon the motion of Mr. Charlton for the adoption of the report of the Public Accounts Committee the Opposition brought on a discussion. Col. Matheson made the assertion that to the extent of his opportunities Mr. St. John had proved every charge he had made in regard to the piggery. He charged that there had been expenditures not shown in the public accounts and not appropriated by the Legislature.

No reply was vouchsafed the Colonel, and the silence of the Ministers was interpreted by Mr. Marter as a confession that the case was so bad as to be indefensible. He gave his version of the evidence adduced before the committee. Mr. Garrow denied that the Opposition had established any part of the charge that diseased hogs had been sold from the piggery. When Dr. Willoughby had spoken Mr. Whitney stood up and delivered a fiery speech, in which he condemned what he alleged to be unfair partiality of the majority of the Public Accounts Committee. He denied that Mr. St. John had stated that the piggery had cost $30,000. Mr. Macnish, who was present at the meeting at St. Thomas where Mr. St. John made his first piggery utterance, confirmed the report of his speech which had appeared in the Globe, the Mail and Empire, the St. Thomas Journal and Times and the London Free Press. Mr. Charlton, the Chairman of the Public Accounts Committee, detailed the proceedings of the investigation, as they have already been published. He said that Mr. St. John and the Conservative members of the committee were given the utmost liberty to examine their witnesses. The

Well Done People's Grocery!

You deserve the thanks of the people for the grand bill of fare you presented to the public at the Christmas Season, and for the nicely dressed window you have; the display of Turkeys, geese and other fowl was simply grand and I am not surprised that you did such a good trade and sold a lot of goods. I saw a load of Hogs at your door the other day, fat, and nicely dressed, what do you intend to do with them? Well, we pickle them, and then smoke them, then sell the Hams and Bacon; and let me whisper a secret to you, the people that buy them year after year, say there is nothing to equal them sold in this town.

Well what about Canned Goods? I see they are quoted $1.00 a doz. in Toronto. Can you supply them 3 for 25c.? Yes, and we promise to supply the people at that price as long as they last, for we have a large stock of this season's goods, which we bought at Sasp Prices.

THE FOURTH SESSION

Of the 8th Legislature of Ontario Concludes Business.

NOW THE CRY ON TO HUSTING.

Political Warfare Will Now be Transferred From the Floor of the Assembly to the Constituencies—An Eventful Day in the House—The Proceedings.

Toronto, Jan. 15.—Yesterday, the last working day of the last session before dissolution, was crowded with features that are bound to play their part when the scene of strife is transferred from the floor of Parliament to the hustings. A sharp debate was precipitated by the announcement of the withdrawal for the present of the bill to amend the Lord's Day Act. The Premier accompanied the intimation with a statement fully justifying this action, but, as might have been expected, it was not satisfactory to Opposition members, who abused the Government for what they were pleased to call their pusillanimity without giving the House any hint as to their own view of the question. Mr. Whitney challenged the wisdom of the Government's timber policy, not that he dissented from what had been done, but because the bill did not go far enough. He was rewarded for his pains by giving the Government an opportunity of rolling up one of the largest majorities that has been recorded during the session. His amendment called for the application of the manufacturing condition to existing licenses. It was rejected by a vote of 95 to 60, the adverse majority being 35. An effort was made to have tacked to the railway subsidy bill a condition that in the construction of roads aided by the Province none but British subjects or men who have resided in Canada at least one year should be employed. This provoked a spirited discussion, which was terminated by the adoption of a second amendment submitted by Mr. German, providing that no one should be employed on public works or subsidized railways who is a citizen of a country where an alien labor law is in force. The Opposition submitted amendments regretting the increase in the ordinary expenditure and condemning the educational system. It was announced that prorogation would take place on Monday at 3 o'clock.

On the order for moving the House into committee on the bill, the Premier asked the privilege of explaining the Government's position as regards the measure. The primary object of the bill, he said, was to include corporations under the operation of the old Act. It was evident from the observations addressed to the Government by the delegations that very great misapprehension existed as to the scope and purport of the bill. Much was considered a new which is now to be found in the present Lord's Day Act, such, for instance, as the right of the informer to one-half the fine. That is the case under the existing law. Also, that steamboats owned by corporations would be brought within the purview of the law by the proposed Act. Whereas, under section seven, which is applicable to steamboats plying for hire, sub-section five expressly provides that the word "owner" shall include a corporation. The theory, too, that the employes or servants of corporations could be fined under the new Act and not under the old is a mistaken one. As I understand it the law at present is, that while a corporation may not be included within the Lord's Day Act, every officer or employe of the corporation is within its provisions. The direct object of section two of the proposed bill is to put all corporations on the same footing and to bring them all within the meaning of the Act as it was generally understood they were before the decision of the Court of Appeals in the Hamilton Street Railway case. Clause one of the bill, it is apprehended, extends the law but very little.

The classes of persons now subject to the Lords' Day Act are merchants, tradesmen, farmers, artificers, mechanics, workmen, laborers or other persons whatsoever. It is obvious, therefore, that there are very few remaining outside, and the Lord's Day Alliance was of opinion that what applied to one class of persons should apply to all classes, and there is really very little to be said against this.

When the original Act was framed, corporations took but an inconsiderable part in the conduct of the world's business. Now, however, most of the world's business is conducted by corporations and it was not thought that a change in the Act to include corporations would give rise to much difficulty. The Government has learned since, however, that the bill would, if passed, prevent many businesses from being carried on and that unless they were allowed to carry on some work on the Lord's Day they would have to shut down on Monday, or stop work altogether.

Representations have been made to the Government on behalf of the great railways which carry through freight, whose trains run upon Sunday, and it is alleged that if the law were enforced against them it would have the effect of rapidly diverting the great bulk of the freight now carried by them to the United States lines; and that this applies with special force to live stock—horses, cattle, pigs, sheep and to dairy and other perishable products.

Representations have been made on behalf of blast furnaces, maltsters, brewers, bakers, certain lumber industries, the Grand Trunk, Canadian Pacific, Canada Southern Railways, steamboat owners, foundries and other iron works, gas companies, coal companies, manufacturers of cal cium carbide and acetylene, and by engineers, conductors and firemen of some of the railways, and by a large number generally interested in the question. In preparing the bill, I am free to acknowledge that it was not foreseen that these varied institutions, industries and callings would be seriously affected by the measure and, as the time has been short since the bill was distributed in the country and in which representations could be made to the Government, it is alleged that there are many other callings which would be quite as seriously affected.

The Government have arrived at the conclusion that the whole question may be better treated through the medium of a select committee, to be appointed by the Legislative Assembly early next session, when all partic may be heard and their representations fairly considered, and after whose report a bill may be framed which will meet the circumstances of the situation.

The question of the authority of the Provincial Legislature to control the traffic arrangements of the lines of railway under the immediate jurisdiction of the Dominion Legislature and Government has also been raised, and the question is one of considerable magnitude. The same remarks apply to the powers of the Local Legislature to prescribe day for labor upon the canals and other Dominion public works, and this doubt also may apply to such works affecting so much of navigation as is under the exclusive control of the Dominion Parliament.

The present bill was not intended to apply to the operations of street cars or electric railways. The Act passed last session in that respect has been incorporated with the Lord's Day Act, and remains part thereof.

Mr. Hardy closed by assuring the House of the Government's earnest desire to preserve the sanctity of the Sabbath.

Mr. Whitney agreed with the Premier that these dying hours of a dying Parliament should not be chosen to deal with such a measure. But he (the Premier) could not escape blame from the country for deliberately bringing this bill down at the end of the session. It was not through inadvertence that this measure had been brought down at the end of the session, when it could not be dealt with. The Government was expected to in good time prepare measures to meet the needs of the country, so that the Legislature might have occasion to discuss them. The fact was that the Premier, that the Government had made a dumb show before the country, and it would get its reward.

Messrs. Gibson (Huron), Haycock, Crawford, McKay and Hon. G. W. Ross spoke for and against the withdrawal, and the bill was then withdrawn.

Government Carries Timber Bill.

Hon. J. M. Gibson moved the third reading of the Act respecting the manufacture of pine cut on the Crown domain.

Mr. Whitney moved in amendment that the clause in the act compelling the manufacture of lumber in Canada be made to apply to existing licenses as well as to those made after April next, as the bill provides.

Without discussion the House was divided, with the result that Mr. Whitney's amendment was lost on the following vote:

Yeas—Beatty (Leeds), Beatty (Parry Sound), Brower, Bush, Carnegie, Crawford, Fallis, Gurd, Haggerty, Hiscott, Kerns, Kidd, Langford, Little, Magwood, Marter, Matheson, Meacham Miscampbell, Preston, Reid (Addington,) Ryerson, St. John, Whitney, Willoughby—25.

Nays—Auld, Barr, Baxter, Bennett, Biggar, Burt, Campbell, Carpenter, Caven, Chapple, Charlton, Cleland, Conmee, Craig, Currie, Dana, Davis, Dickenson, Dryden, Dynes, Farwell, Ferguson, Field, Flatt, Garrow, German, Gibson (Hamilton,) Gibson (Huron), Harcourt, Hardy, Haycock, Hobbs, Loughrin, Macnish, McDonald, McKay (Oxford), McKay (Victoria), McKee, McLaren, McLean, McNaughton, McNeil, McNichol, McPherson, Middleton, Moore, Mutrie, O'Keefe, Pardo, Paton, Pattullo, Richardson, Robertson, Robillard, Ross, Shore, Stratton, Taylor, Truax, Tucker—60.

When Hon. Mr. Harcourt moved the House into Supply, Col. Kerns moved in amendment:

That this House regrets the large and steady increase in the ordinary expenditure of the province, greatly exceeding the increase in the revenue, and also regrets that the expenditure of the province has not been kept within the revenue, and that the province has to depend to a very large extent on Crown lands receipts to meet the ordinary expenditure.

After Col. Matheson had spoken,

Col. Kerns' amendment was lost on division.

Mr. German, the member for Welland, proposed important action for the development of Niagara Falls power, but the adjournment of the debate was moved.

Mr. Jette has been appointed Lieutenant-Governor of Quebec and will assume office immediately after Lieut.-Governor Chapleau prorogues the Legislature.

The mining regulations for the Yukon which are now being framed by the Government will retain the gold royalty as one of its features. The royalty will be reduced to a uniform basis, slightly below that of last year. This conclusion has been reached as the result of the closest study and advice of Government officers.

The Department of Trade and Commerce has been advised that a convention between Great Britain and France relative to trade with Tunis was ratified on Oct. 15, 1897. The most favored nation clause has been specially drawn so as to exclude Canada from its operation, a somewhat important departure as compared with British treaties in the old days.

The Secretary of State and Minister of Customs have received information of the seizure of the Canadian Pacific Navigation Company's steamer Danube, Capt. Irvine, at Skaguay. The Danube left St. Mary's, where her papers were vised, for Juneau, having United States Customs Inspector Smith on board. From Juneau, by permision, they went to Skaguay, where she was seized. The reason is unknown, unless it be an infraction of the coasting laws by calling at two American ports successively. The opinion is expressed here that the course pursued has been harsh and unjustifiable, especially in view of the fact that Inspector Smith was on board, and that the Canadian authorities are allowing United States vessels the greatest liberty. Efforts are being made to secure her release.

PRIVATE BANK ASSIGNS.

Midland Trust Company to be Wound Up—Deposits of $150,000—May Pay in Full.

Port Hope, Jan. 15.—Quite a sensation has been caused here and in the neighboring country by the assignment of the Midland Trust Company of Port Hope. No particulars will be available until the report of the assignee is made, but it is thought the liabilities are very heavy, and as the assets of the company consist largely of farmers' notes and mortgages, many of which have one or more years to run, it will be some time before they will be available to pay the creditors, unless an arrangement can be made to transfer them to some other institution.

The deposits, totaling over $150,000, have been placed in the hands of the company largely by Port Hope people or those in the immediate neighborhood, and while there may be a temporary embarassment to several of the depositors, very little fear is expressed but that the affairs of the bank are in a solvent condition.

The Midland Trust Company consisted of Messrs. John Paterson and Stanley Paterson, who for many years conducted a large private banking business, with farmers as the chief customers. Mr. Stanley Paterson was also agent for the telegraph and express companies, and was always rated very high financially. His death occurred on Sunday last, and to prevent a run on the bank, the issuing of writs and to save expense the remaining partner assigned.

News From Montreal.

Montreal, Jan. 15.—It is stated here in railway circles that the line from Pembroke running south to the Parry Sound road will be started at once. The Cobourg & Tweed line, subsidized recently by the Ontario Government, will also be pushed forward, Mr. J. D. Cameron of Quebec having the contract.

Mr. Pierre Blanchet, advocate, who died at the Hotel Dieu at Arthabasca this week, was 83 years old. In 1837 he took a stirring part in the rebellion.

Mr. James Crathern has been elected by acclamation President of the Montreal Board of Trade.

DRS. GRANT AND LUCAS.

Will Debate the Prohibition Question Jan. 27 and 28—Funds Raised to Go to the Poor.

Kingston, Jan. 15.—Rev. Dr. Lucas and Dr. Grant will debate on prohibition in the City Hall on Jan 27 and 28. Mayor Livingston will preside. The admission fee charged will go to the poor. The issue discussed will be: "That a Dominion prohibitory law would injure the cause of temperance as well as public and political morality." The speakers will be limited to time and speak alternately. There will be no vote taken at the close. Dr. Lucas arrives here on the 22nd, preaches on Sunday (23rd), lectures on Imperial federation on Monday, then remains for the debate on Thursday and Friday.

John Kelly, aged 68, died yesterday from apoplexy, a third attack. For forty years he had been in the postal service and was superannuated last September because of illness. On Wednesday he drew his first superannuation allowance. Two of his sons are in the Catholic priesthood.

Nervous Prostration

Sick Headache and Dizziness—All Cured.

Little Girl Has Grown Plump and Rosy Since Taking Hood's.

Nervous mothers and sickly children endure a vast proportion of the suffering which is caused by impure and impoverished blood. Hood's Sarsaparilla gives relief by purifying and enriching the blood. Read this statement:

"I was bothered with sick headaches and dizziness. I also had nervous prostration and weakness in my stomach, which made me feel very ill indeed. I decided to try Hood's Sarsaparilla, which was highly recommended by many, and by the time I had taken four bottles I was in perfect health. About a year ago my little girl, then six years old, had bronchitis and chicken pox. We were told that her was the careful treatment she might receive at the hospital. We took her there and for eight days they had no hope of her recovery, but later she had a change for the better. Her sickness, however, left her very delicate and weak, and she did not grow any for a year. It was then I thought I would try Hood's Sarsaparilla, inasmuch as I had used it for myself and found it such a good medicine for building up a constitution. She had not taken two bottles before she had improved wonderfully. She has grown rosy and plump and is quite herself again. I have great faith in Hood's." MRS. M. HICKERSON, 326 Bloor Street, West, Toronto, Ontario.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

THERE are always two sides to every healthy question. The Canadian manufacturers of binder twine no doubt have claims; at the same time it must be remembered that the farmers have rights.

THE Montreal Star is trying the role of philantrophy—a new departure, flippery being its specialty. It is now giving the Liberal party some cheap advice, which, like other commodities, is worth what it costs. It advises the Liberals of Quebec to hold a convention. The Star deserves so much at the hands of the Liberals that its advice should be taken with a Liberal pinch of salt.

THE Opposition require a very small peg to hang a complaint upon. Regarding the proposal to place a public institution in Oxford county for the sake of affording farm work for the inmates, Mr. Mathieson charges that the change is made to reward the municipality for sending a member to support the Government. Gratitude for favours to come is common enough on the lower plane of politics, but gratitude for past favours is something unheard of.

THE Opposition can't consistently oppose the timber legislation of the Government, but they try to do so on one point, and that is they demand the immediate enforcement of the requirement to cut logs in Canada. That would be a good thing if it could be done, but it is, literally, a moral impossibility, though it is an immoral possibility, The Government has made a solemn agreement with the purchasers of timber, and that agreement holds good to April 1st. The Government, which represents the Queen, would be causing Her Majesty to commit a dishonourable action by cancelling a bargain simply because for special reasons it may be desirable to do so.

LAKEFIELD.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

Mr. Robert Patterson, wife and son of Miami, Manitoba, are the guests of Mr. Arthur Robson.

We notice in the January number of Munsey's Magazine a short story, entitled "It," with the scene laid at Stony lake, from the pen of our former townsman, Mr. S. Sheldrake.

Mrs. John Patterson of Essex is the guest of her mother, Mrs. Hetherington.

Messrs. H. Lempriere and E. R. Tate sailed on New Year's Day for England.

Miss Beavis, formerly a missionary in British Columbia, has been visiting her aunt, Mrs. S. Nelson.

R. Graham & Son for bargains in groceries during their January sale.

Mr. John Dinwoodie, while working at the dam, saw one or two cedar logs coming down which belonged to a near by lumberman, and in order to save them from going over the dam, took a pikepole to get hold of them and scub them. He unfortunately lost his balance and tumbled into the river, but managed to grasp the boom and pull himself out, otherwise he would have gone over the dam. He is suffering from a cold from his involuntary bath.

The first carnival of the season will be held here on Thursday, Jan. 20th. A number of excellent prizes will be offered for the different events. The North Smith band will be present and enliven the evening by their music. It is said that a number of elegant costumes will be on the ice that evening.

The Sons of Scotland Benevolent Society have secured the services of Miss Tessa McCallum, humourous and dramatic reader, and Miss Detta E. Ziegler, soprano, who will give a strictly high-class recital in the town hall, here, on Monday evening, January 24th. Among the press notices the Windsor Review says: "St. Andrew's supper . . . Miss Ziegler sang "The Auld House." This was her first appearance before a Windsor audience, and by the time she finished the first verse she had established herself as a favourite. She has a rich, full voice and her Scotch pronounciation was excellent, so good that she was highly complimented at the conclusion of the banquet. For an encore she sang 'The Land o' the Leal" sweetly and with much expression. Miss Ziegler sang "Jessie's Dream," and sang it well. As an encore she gave "Well may the Keel Row.' When our local Scotchmen give a concert it is usually conceded to be the best of the season. This will be no exception. Popular prices.

Where Specialists Failed Dr. Chase Cured Catarrh.

James Spence, Clachan, Ont., writes:—"I had been a sufferer from Catarrh for 15 years. It became chronic and I had given up hopes of ever being cured when advised by a friend to try Dr. Chase's Catarrh Cure. I at once started and am pleased to state three boxes effected a complete cure, and I heartily recommend it to anyone suffering from Catarrh."

How Long Will This Piano Last?

The above question is asked by almost every piano purchaser before making a decision.

If you are discussing a Chickering Piano there is an emphatic answer.

No matter what YOUR age rest assured the piano will outlive you.

There is no one living who has ever purchased a Chickering piano AND WORE IT OUT.

Think of the number of children to-day practising upon Chickering pianos purchased by their grandparents.

There are thousands of Chickering pianos so purchased and so used.

Perhaps, they are not as good as they were 50 or 60 or 70 years ago, but the marvel is that they are in use at all.

The majority of pianos by other makers are worn out in a third the period.

These are simpl Chickering facts.

Children's Nerves.

Liable to be Deranged by Close Confinement and Over Study.

The continual grind of our schools is hard on child growth, shatters the nervous system and undermines the health. When the headaches, twitchings, feelings of tiredness, sleeplessness and restlessness begin to manifest themselves give the children Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills. Mothers consider they have no equal for building up a child's health.

Mrs. DALTON, 137 Arthur Street, Ottawa, Ont., says that her little girl got so bad with heart palpitation, nervousness and headache she had to take her from school and send for the doctor. His treatment did not do her much good so she tried Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills. The result has been marvellous; the headaches have vanished, the nervousness disappeared, the palpitation has gone, and the little girl is now in splendid condition.

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills sold by druggists at 50c. a box, or 3 for $1.25. T. Milburn & Co., Toronto, Ont.

THE FOURTH SESSION.

came up in committee stage and Mr. Carnegie moved that a clause be inserted in the measure to compel the employment of none but British subjects on the roads to be helped.

Mr. Hardy said that such a provision would prevent immigration. The United States had not gone so far yet.

Mr. Whitney observed that the United States had gone a good deal further. He thought the citizens of Canada should be protected.

Mr. Carnegie's amendment was lost on a standing vote, and the bill passed the committee stage.

Mr. Harcourt then moved the third reading of the same bill, and Mr. Carnegie moved in amendment that there be added to the measure the words: "Provided that all those employed on the construction of the road be either British subjects or residents of Canada for one year."

Mr. German, the member for Welland, moved in amendment to Mr. Carnegie's amendment that no person shall be employed in the construction of Government-aided railways who is the subject of any country which has alien laws such as would keep Canadians from being employed on the public works in that country.

Mr. German's amendment was carried, inserted into the bill, and the bill was read a third time, as amended.

Mr. Ross' bill to amend the High School Act was read a third time.

The Attorney-General's bill to amend the Election Act was read a third time, with a minor amendment.

Hon. Mr. Gibson's bill respecting mining claims was read a third time, as was also the Attorney-General's bill "relating to judgment summonses and other matters," and Mr. Davis' bill "to amend the Ontario Companies Act," and Mr. Hardy's bill to "amend the Manhood Suffrage Act."

Reeve and Deputy Reeve.

The Attorney-General introduced a bill to affect municipal elections in 1898. In cases where such elections for reeves are found to be invalid, owing to the new bill of last session not being in force, the candidate who has the greatest number of votes should be reeve, and he who has the second highest number shall be deputy reeve. The bill was read three times.

The Closing Session.

Ontario's Legislature brought its business to a close at midnight last night, and its formal prorogation will take place in the Legislative Chamber at 3 o'clock on Monday afternoon. Before the House adjourned for its last time, Mr. Whitney tendered the Speaker a tribute for the manner in which he had filled his office. Premier Hardy and Mr. Haycock endorsed these words of praise. Mr. Speaker in fitting words expressed his thanks for the compliment paid him. The House broke up after joining vociferously in the National Anthem and cheers for the Queen, the Lieut.-Governor, the Speaker and Mrs. Speaker. Then the members, old and young, like boys glad to get out of school, threw bundles of order papers at each other and kicked up all sorts of pranks and antics.

The Toronto and Scarboro Electric Railway, Light and Power Company bill was considered in committee, reported and read a third time.

When Hon. Mr. Harcourt moved the House into Committee of Supply, Mr. Whitney moved the following amendment:

That this House observes with anxiety the evidences of dissatisfaction in the public mind with the working and results of the educational system of the province, and is of the opinion that a scheme should be devised by which the sphere of the Public schools may be remodelled and, where necessary, widened and enlarged, with a view of affording to those people whose education begins and ends in such schools such further and increased educational advantages as are practicable; this House is also of opinion that, among other desirable changes, there should be created a consultative or advisory council for the assistance of the Minister of Education, upon which council should be represented all the teaching bodies in the province; and this House is also of opinion that steps should be taken to reduce the price of school books and thus lessen materially the burden now imposed upon and borne by the people of the province by reason of the large sums they have to pay for such books.

Messrs. Hardy and Haycock spoke on the amendment, which was lost on division.

The following bills were read a third and last time:

Respecting the waterworks of the city of Windsor.

To confirm a bylaw of the corporation of the town of Collingwood.

Respecting the town of Toronto Junction.

To amend the Municipal Waterworks Act.

To amend the Timber Slides Companies Act.

To amend the Act respecting voters' lists.

To amend the Woodman's Lien for Wages Act.

Respecting cemeteries.

To amend the Agriculture and Arts Act.

Respecting roads in unincorporated townships.

The House in committee amended the Act to amend the County Crown Attorneys Act so as to make the fees payable to a Crown attorney in connection with bail proceedings $1 instead of 50c.

The Piggery.

Upon the motion of Mr. Charlton for the adoption of the report of the Public Accounts Committee the Opposition brought on a discussion. Col. Matheson made the assertion that to the extent of his opportunities Mr. St. John had proved every charge he had made in regard to the piggery. He charged that there had been expenditures not shown in the public accounts and not appropriated by the Legislature.

No reply was vouchsafed the Colonel, and the silence of the Ministers was interpreted by Mr. Marter as a confession that the case was so bad as to be indefensible. He gave his version of the evidence adduced before the committee. Mr. Garrow denied that the Opposition had established any part of the charge that diseased hogs had been sold from the piggery. When Dr. Willoughby had spoken Mr. Whitney stood up and delivered a fiery speech, in which he condemned what he alleged to be unfair partiality of the majority of the Public Accounts Committee. He denied that Mr. St. John had stated that the piggery had cost $30,000. Mr. Macnish, who was present at the meeting at St. Thomas where Mr. St. John made his first piggery utterance, confirmed the report of his speech which had appeared in the Globe, the Mail and Empire, the St. Thomas Journal and Times and the London Free Press. Mr. Charlton, the Chairman of the Public Accounts Committee, detailed the proceedings of the investigation, as they have already been published. He said that Mr. St. John and the Conservative members of the committee were given the utmost liberty to examine their witnesses. The last speaker was Mr. Crawford. The report was adopted.

The House adjourned about midnight.

THE BEST OF RESULTS

ALWAYS FOLLOW THE USE OF DR. WILLIAMS' PINK PILLS.

Two Cases in Which They Restored to Health and Strength After All Other Means Had Failed—What They Have Done For Others They Will do for You.

From the Colborne Express.

There are few if any people in Murray township, Northumberland County, to whom the name of Chase is not familiar. Mr. Jacob Chase, who has followed the occupation of farmer and fisherman and fishdealer, is especially well known. He has been a great sufferer from rheumatism, as all his neighbours know, but has fortunately succeeded in getting rid of the disease. To a reporter he gave the following particulars. I had been a sufferer from rheumatism for upwards of twenty years, at times being confined to the house. At one time I was laid up for sixteen weeks, and during a portion of that time was confined to my bed and perfectly helpless. I had the benefit of excellent medical treatment, but it was of no avail. I believe, too, that I have tried every medicine advertised for the cure of rheumatism and I am sure I expended at least $200.00 and got nothing more at any time than the merest temporary relief. At last I was induced to give Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a trial, and from that time I date my good fortune in getting rid of the disease. I continued using them for some months, and daily found that the trouble that had made my life miserable for so many years was disappearing, and at last all traces of pain had left me and I was cured. I say cured, for I have not since had a recurrence of the trouble.

As proving the diversity of troubles for which Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are a cure it may also be mentioned that they restored Mrs. Frank Chase, a daughter-in-law of the gentleman above referred to, to health and strength after all other means had apparently failed. Mrs. Chase says:—"I can scarcely tell what my trouble was, for even doctors could not agree as to the nature of it. One said it was consumption of the stomach, while another was equally emphatic in declaring that it was liver trouble. One thing I do know, and that is for years I was a sick woman. I know that I was afflicted with neuralgia, my blood was poor and I was subject to depressing headaches. My appetite was not good at any time, and the least exertion left me weak and despondent. A lady friend who had been benefitted by the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills advised me to try them, and as they had also cured my father-in-law, I determined to do so, and I have much cause for rejoicing that I did, for you can easily see that they have made a well woman of me. I took the pills steadily for a couple of months, and at the end of that time was enjoying the blessing of good health. It gives me much pleasure to be able to bear public testimony to the value of this wonderful medicine."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills cure by going to the root of the disease. They renew and build up the blood, and strengthen the nerves, thus driving disease from the system. Avoid imitations by insisting that every box you purchase is enclosed in a wrapping bearing the full trade mark, Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People.

Almost Unbearable.

"I suffered from kidney trouble so much that the pain in my back was almost unbearable and I felt tired and worn out all the time, my tongue was coated and until I took Doan's Kidney Pills I had been unable to do my housework for over a month. These pills have made a complete cure, all my kidney and bladder troubles have disappeared and I feel like a new woman." Mrs. Presley, Kingston, Ont.

OAK HALL

SURRENDERS TO

OAK HALL Gough Bros. OAK HALL

CANADA'S GREATEST HUSTLERS.

"NORTHWARD the Sweep of Conquest Takes its Way!"

We come before the public again with an announcement so important—so sensational in its effect—that it leaves no room for doubt that the battle of business means THE SURVIVAL OF THE FITTEST.

We announce with pleasure the purchase of the Stock of the Millionare Sanford's Clothing Company in Peterborough, known as "OAK HALL," Corner of George and Hunter Streets, by which we come into possession

$16,430 Worth of Clothing | 62½ CENTS

OF UNMATCHABLE EXCELLENCE Purchased at a Rate on the Dollar of On the Manufacturer's Cost.

The offer of the Sanford Company to buy out Oak Hall has been open to us for some time. It has been known that this wealthy firm have been anxious to close up their Peterborough Branch rather than continue the fight against competition such as GOUGH BROS. have always put up. With a constituency extending over Ontario, and forming the largest syndicate of Clothing dealers in Canada, it was a mistake to plant an "Oak Hall" acorn alongside the Dauntless Goughs. And so, another rich scalp has been added to GOUGH BROS.' belt. And so, "The Corner" has been cornered again by the Wonderful Cheap Men.

To Wake Up the Town

ON WEDNESDAY MORNING, JANUARY 12th, we inaugurate a Clean Sweep of the whole of Oak Hall's stock—from the roof through every floor to the basement—from the door strip in front to the wall at the back. It begins and stops at the end.

Everything goes! Necessity has no law. Manufacturer's Prices dashed down without mercy! Not a garment left if we can prevent it.

A TRIUMPHANT SALE!

—A Sale to wake up the Town—a Sale that will be without precedent and hopelessly out of reach of competition—beyond the possibility of an equal in this or any other portion of Canada.

A Clothing Blizzard—Sweeping Oak Hall Counters and Shelves at Prices a QUARTER and a THIRD below original values.

THE QUALITY of this High Class Stock of Clothing will speak—you can be absolutely sure of that. It all bears the label of the Sanford Manufacturing Company. You might be able to get as good Clothing in one or two other stores in Canada, but you can never equal the Clothing and our Prices both together. While it was a notorious fact that Oak Hall never could match or undersell GOUGH BROS., it was acknowledged that their Clothing always took high rank among the Highest Class Goods of America.

THIS SALE, therefore, appeals to the best class of people, who desire to put the stamp of their approval on HIGH QUALITY.

We want a Great Sale—a Great Crowd—a Great Celebration of our latest Famous Victory! The Millionare Merchant Clothier's Sacrifice to GOUGH BROS. will put many a coin in the pockets of those who buy during this Triumphant Sale. Don't forget to follow the Mile Posts to Runaway.

On Friday evening, says the Lakefield News, two sports from Peterborough drove up to the village to have a big time, and by all appearance they had it. Before they had been in the village long they succeeded in getting a good "jag," on and started to drive around the village. When opposite the Methodist church the horse threw them out of the cutter and made off. The cutter struck a tree near the Baptist church and the horse broke loose from the cutter. When captured it was found that the harness was considerably damaged, but the cutter was not broken much. It is a bad place to come for a "jag," as the parties invariably come to grief or are promptly brought before the coal.

PETERBOROUGHS WIN IN THE SENIOR SERIES.

THE T. A. C. BEATEN BY SEVENTEEN GOALS TO SEVEN.

The Visitors Had Not the Combination or the Shooting Qualifications to Win Whilst the Peterboroughs Played a Grand Team Game and Shot with Deadly Effect.

There is no doubt existing now as regards the designs which the Peterboroughs have on that senior championship—they are after it hot-foot and no mistake. This was fully demonstrated last evening at the rink when they played the Toronto Athletic Club to a standstill: gave them a game in fact so fast, that in the endeavour to keep up with the pace, every Toronto man was at different times during the evening laid up with cramps. It was a great victory—17 to 7 and by the beautiful combination work of the forwards and the grand interference game put up by the defense it is evident that the Peterboroughs are in a better position than ever to win that coveted senior championship.

Last evening's game was a grand exhibition of hockey, although the score was somewhat one-sided. The Toronto boys are faster skaters, probably, than the Peterboroughs, but their combination work is not in the same class at all as that of the home team. Time and again the whole Peterborough forward line would go down the ice together and by their skilful passing game elude the strong defense of the visiting team and score easily. On the contrary the rushes of the T. A. C's were almost entirely individual and although the puck was on the Peterborough ice fully as often as on that of the visitors, yet as it was carried on by only one player at a time, it was comparatively easy to stop him. The visitors were also deficient in their shooting capabilities and were prone to carry the puck into corners of the rink. During the entire evening there was not one clean shot made on the Peterborough goal which scored. Every one that tallied was either shoved through out of a scrimmage or else came around from behind and was shoved through with no one to assist Wasson in defending his flags. The play of the Peterboroughs shone brightly in relief. The lifts on goal from the sides of the rink were bullet-like in their velocity and the score speaks as to their effectiveness. On the visiting team Hardisty, the Rat Portage man, was head and shoulders above his fellows. He played a game such as seldom, if ever, has been seen on Peterborough ice. As a cover-point he would be hard to equal in Canada. During the latter part of the game, when the score commenced to roll up against the Torontos, he played a trifle too rough and made one very vicious dash at Davidson. He missed him, however, and although hissing is to be deprecated, Hardisty certainly deserved that which fell to his lot on this occasion.

On the Peterborough forward line it would be hard to single out any particular player for special mention. All played in championship form and their team play won the match for them. Phelan distinguished himself in particular by his unselfish tactics. Time and again he carried the puck up the ice and drew the T. A. C. defence to him only to pass the puck to another player and give him the chance to make the shot on goal. In drawing the puck from the face off he fooled his man every time. At one time he would force it up the ice himself, then again it would go through his opponent's legs or back through his own, or he would pass back to Hollingshead. Davidson's shots on goal were something terrific, and his rushes along the side did great execution. King is in better form than ever, which is saying all that can be said, and Bellegham's tricky little moves were too much for Hardisty. The scoring was left almost entirely to King and Bellegham, and that they did their work well is needless to say. Almost every goal scored was the result of a clean lift in from the side.

Hollingshead, at cover point, played the game of his life. For the first fifteen minutes he was a trifle unsteady, but on getting his second wind he astonished the spectators by the fine interference game he put up. His lifts on the T. A. C. goal from one end of the rink to the other were something beautiful to see. Montgomery, as of yore, proved himself to be the hardest man in the rink to pass and the way he blocked and relieved when the Peterborough goal was threatened was fully up to his old standard. He made several rushes up the ice during the evening which opened the visitors' eyes. In goal Wasson put up a superb game and was at his best. Again and again, with no man to assist him, he blocked a direct shot on the goal, and relieved in a way that won for him golden opinions. He was here, there and everywhere when an attack was being made on his flags, and never was in better form.

The teams lined up on the ice as follows:

T. A. C.		Peterborough.
Turton	goal	E Wasson
Windeyer	point	W J Montgomery
Hardisty	cover point	A Hollingshead
Wisner	forwards	R Davidson
Birchall		L King
Gill		W Phelan
Chadwick		S Bellegham
R H Kells	umpires	S Ray

Referee, Mr F W Ambe.

The games were scored in the following order:

21	"	Davidson,	"	½ "
22	"	Phelan,	"	½ "
23	T A C.		"	1 "

The puck was faced off at ten minutes to nine, and was taken by Phelan, but Hardisty intercepted the pass. He passed forward, and one of the visiting team made an off side play. From the face-off the puck went into Peterborough territory, but Hollingshead relieved. Davidson nearly scored, and as the puck bounded out from the wall, Bellegham put it through, scoring first blood for Peterborough.

In the next game a rush was made on the visitors' goal, but the puck was quickly returned and operations shifted from one end of the rink to the other. Wasson made a good stop and passed to Montgomery, who carried the puck up the rink and passed to King, who notched another for Peterborough. Score, 2—0.

In the next game Phelan scored on an off-side. It was not allowed, and the puck was faced off in Peterborough territory. A scrimmage took place in front of the flags, and T.A.C. scored its first game by a shot from it. Score, 2—1.

King and Bellegham made a fast run down the ice together, and Bellegham made a close shot. It missed by a hair's breadth, but King put it through. Score, 3—1.

The next game was longer than the preceding ones, and was very exciting. Wasson was kept busy, and made two difficult stops. Both teams were apparently doing their level best, but the visitors got the best of it, finally scoring. Score, 3—2.

The next two games also went to the Torontos, but the Peterboroughs were only off colour for a couple of minutes. Then some beautiful combination play was seen on the part of the local forwards. King evened the score and then the excitement ran high and the defense of both teams were on their mettle and had their work cut out for them, as the alternate rushes of the forwards made things interesting for a time. The visitors could not stay with the puck, however, and King scored for Peterborough. Score 5—4.

The game was prolonged by the fact that one of the goal posts was broken and after it was fixed Hardisty was unfortunately hurt by being accidentally hit on the head by a stick. After the loss of about fifteen minutes play was resumed and as the result of a rush by Davidson and King, the latter tallied. Score, 6—4.

Bellegham then carried the puck down the rink and passed to King who again did the needful. Score 7—4.

Hollingshead's relief work now showed up brilliantly. After some pretty combination work by the forwards King again notched another. Score, 8—4.

In the second half Hardisty went back to point for a time, but his injury seemed to put fresh life into him, as he played far faster in the last half than in the first. King made a nice rush along the side, and made the score 9—4.

The next game was very fast and the honours were even until King tallied another, after some nice combination play with Davidson. Score, 10—4.

The visitors made a sudden rally, and in another minute the score was 10—5.

This, however, started the Peterborough's going again. Roger Davidson made a great rush along the side and lifted a bullet-like shot through the goal. Score, 11—5.

In four minutes more Bellegham did the needful again. Score, 12—5.

Three games in succession were then secured by Bellegham in eight minutes. Score, 15—5.

Then Davidson made another rush along the side and scored another.

The players were all tangled up in the next game in front of the T. A. C. goal. Phelan put his shoulder against the nearest man and pushed the whole lot—puck and all through the flags. Score, 17—5.

The two last games went to the visitors, making the score 17—7.

At the conclusion of the game the visitors were given an oyster supper at Welch's restaurant.

COUNCIL'S TRIBUTE TO THE LATE JOHN BURNHAM.

SPECIAL MEETING OF THE TOWN COUNCIL.

The Arbitration Matter With Monaghan Discussed—Referred to the Mayor With Power to Settle—Minor Matters Dealt With.

The council met in special session last night to consider the course to be taken in connection with the costs in the sewerage arbitration matter between North Monaghan and the town. There were present, the Mayor, in the chair, and Messrs. Denne, Best, Dawson, Cobb, J. M. White, McWilliams, Robertson and W. H. White.

The matter was discussed at considerable length, and was finally referred to the Mayor to effect a settlement on the basis understood by the council.

RESOLUTION OF CONDOLENCE.

Mr. McWilliams for the committee appointed to draft a resolution of condolence with the family of the late John Burnham, Q. C., submitted the following resolution:—"That this council desire to give expression to and place on record its sorrow on account of the recent death of Mr. John Burnham, Q. C., ex-M.P., and its sympathy with Mrs. Burnham and the other members of the family in their severe affliction. Mr. Burnham was during his lifetime from the time of his coming to the years of manhood, a prominent, respected and honoured member of the community, and one who did much for the advancement of the town. His business talents and his integrity made him a most useful citizen, and in the wider sphere of public life his abilities were exercised for the benefit of his native county and the community. As a prominent member of the County Council for many years he did much to advance the interests of the county, and as citizens of the county we recognise and appreciate his work in this relation. His death has left a void in the community that has been felt by the citizens generally, and we know that in the very much closer family relations, his demise leaves a much greater void. We therefore desire to tender his family our deepest sympathy and assure them that in doing so we voice the feelings of the citizens of the town of Peterborough.

The resolution was adopted by an unanimous standing vote.

The matter of procuring runners for the hook and ladder truck, was referred to the Fire, Water and Light Committee, to get prices and report to the council.

SEVERAL MINOR MATTERS.

The matter of supplies for the fire hall was referred to the Property Committee to report.

A motion was adopted requiring a report setting forth the manner in which the contingent fund voted to the chairmen of the several committees, was expended.

A reference to a complaint mentioned by Mr. McWilliams, that persons could not get employment except they go on the charity list, Mr. Dawson explained that a few had been put on the charity list to break stone, but he was employing all the men he could, and he was aiming to have the stones all broken within a month "and be done with it."

The question of consulting with the County Council in the matter of a House of Refuge, brought up by Mr. McWilliams, was referred to the Joint Committee to discuss the subject with the county. An account, being the town's share of repairs to the Pigeon Creek bridge, was referred to the same committee, and any other matters at issue between the county and town.

The Sewerage Committee was authorized to confer with property holders with reference to the town acquiring the water front, with power to appoint a deputation to wait upon the Government if necessary.

The Chairman of the Street and Bridge Committee was empowered to instruct the Street Inspector to give a rough estimate of the cost of diverting the creek at Sherbrooke street into the river. In the discussion that followed, it came out that several private parties would contribute to the diverting of the creek.

Council adjourned.

PROVOST OF TRINITY IN ST. JOHN'S CHURCH.

HE DELIVERED A MOST INTERESTING LECTURE LAST NIGHT

On "Modern Revivals in the Church of England"—A Vote of Thanks Extended at the Close of the Address.

In spite of the many counter attractions, a large and most satisfactory audience assembled last evening in St. John's church school house to hear Provost Welch of Trinity University speak on "Modern Revivals in the Church of England."

The lecture generally was a summary of the recent history of the Church of England presented in a series of life-like pictures of the successive movements within it, and was characterized throughout by the kindly spirit and breadth of charity in which the different religious opinions were referred to.

The speaker opened by sketching the beginning of events as affecting the Church, politically and religiously, during the forty years after the accession of William and Mary, pointing out that during the reign of Queen Ann, the Church, ever Tory in politics, attained a very great height of political influence, and also while full of a truly religious life.

WITH THE ACCESSION

of the House of Hanover, which brought with it the predominance of the Whig party the church fell into a condition of political impotence and religious inefficiency.

It was then pointed out that at the time of the massing of great populations in the towns, without any provision for their moral or spiritual welfare, produced a condition of things in regard to immorality and irreligion, which perhaps has never been equalled in the history of England. This condition of things constituted the need of the first great movement referred to and what is known as the evangelical revival began by John Wesley, his brother Charles and others about the year 1878. A description was then given in outline of the movement which came to be known as the Methodist movement, which operated chiefly amongst the lower classes of society and in a large measure outside the established church of England and which was inseparably connected with the great name who was described as being one of the truest saints of God who ever lived.

The lecturer then pointed out that side by side with the Methodist movement, there was a kindred but distinct movement confined entirely to the limits of the Church of England, of which Vern, Romaine, Toplady (author of Rock of Ages,) and Charles Simian were the leaders. After summarizing results of this earlier movement and pointing out some of its weaknesses, the lecturer proceeded to show the need for the second grand revival—namely that which is known as the Oxford or Tractarian movement, the purpose of which was to raise the church to a sense of its own divine character and to recall the minds of churchmen to juster views of the place of the Sacraments in the Church's system. In this connection it was pointed out that John Keble was the actual author of the revival, and during its progress was the poet and the great sobering influence of the movement. Pusey was the scholar and theologian, Newman the preacher, and, during its earlier years, the master mind of the revival.

As in the case of the earlier movement, the progress and the results and some of the defects of the Church revival were briefly touched on, and the lecturer concluded by showing how the Social movement inaugurated by Maurice and Robertsoo and Charles Kingsley, supplied many of the defects of the two great movements which had preceded it.

At the close of the lecture a vote of thanks was moved by Mr. L. Rye and Mr. Barton Earle, who both expressed the gratitude of the audience for the second kind visit of the Provost.

A PRESENTATION

Which Took Place in the Charlotte Street Sunday School Last Night.

The lecture room of Charlotte street Methodist church, last evening, was a scene seldom to be witnessed. On entering the room one could not but admire the cosy home-like appearance that was presented to view, the room being handsomely decorated, tables filled with the choicest of such as refresh the inner man.

The gathering was that of the members and friends of the class of Mr. Isaac Richardson, who has been one of the most faithful teachers of Charlotte street school for upwards of fourteen years, and has been a constant teacher in Sunday schools for over twenty years.

The members rendered an excellent programme, which consisted of songs, readings and recitations.

Then the change in the programme, when Mr. Richardson was surprised by a presentation of a handsome gold headed cane and the following address:

To Isaac Richardson, Esq., Bible Class Teacher in Charlotte Street Methodist Church:

DEAR BROTHER AND TEACHER,—On this festive occasion, when all hearts are merry and friends join hearts and hands in happy greeting we thought our joy would not be complete without extending to our esteemed teacher our best wishes for a happy and prosperous New Year, and to otherwise show we have not quite forgotten him.

We have assembled here this evening to manifest to you the high esteem of appreciation we entertain for you, both as a Christian brother and sabbath school teacher, in view of which we pray you to accept this present, not because of its intrinsic value, but as a slight expression of our deep regard and profound respect in which you are held by us.

It is with pleasure that we can bear testimony, so far as our observations have reached, that you have been not only faithful in the discharge of Sabbath's duties, but consistent as a true follower of our Master in that of your temporal duties as well, wherever business has called you during the week. We believe it our privilege to say truthfully that you have been a living epistle, known and read by those with whom you intermingle daily, and in their minds approved as a Christian gentleman, reliable employee and worthy citizen.

We have with regret witnessed your failing health and suffering, to which you have been subjected during the last few years, and have not looked idly on, careless and unfeeling, but have suffered also with you in a measure.

It is our most earnest prayer that God may see fit to restore you to your wonted health, making you strong to continue in the service of our illused Master.

Your class and friends invited unite in wishing you and your family unlimited prosperity, and trust that you may live long to fill all available positions of usefulness to which it may please God to call you, growing daily in grace and in the knowledge of the truth as it is in Christ, until He shall see fit to call you home to your reward, and the well done, etc.

(Signed)

SECRETARY OF CLASS.

Mr. Richardson made a very appropriate reply, thanking those who had so kindly shown their appreciation of his services as teacher, which he claimed he felt unworthy of, and assuring them that this gathering would never be forgotten by him, and as for the cane he said he would hold it as one of his dearest treasures as long as he lived.

Addresses were also delivered by the pastor of the church, the superintendent of the Sunday school, Mr. R. J. Kidd, Dr. Morrison, Mr. James and Mr. Tovey, President of the Epworth League of the church.

Mr. J. C. Elliott presided and made many neat and appropriate remarks complimentary to the honoured guest of the evening.

All the speakers landed Mr. Richardson's qualities as a man, Sabbath school teacher and Bible student.

After a most enjoyable evening had been spent the benediction was pronounced by the pastor and all went home happy.

GONE UP IN SMOKE.

The Old Empire Building in Toronto Was Badly Wrecked Last Night—Burned for Three Hours.

Toronto, Jan. 14.—The fire fiend paid Toronto a New Year's visit last night and caused damage that will amount to about $50,000. The conflagration was in the old Empire building, 38-40 Adelaide street west, occupied principally by the Dominion Paper Box Co., H. S. Thornbury & Co., electrical supplies. The building was a handsome five-story brick structure and was badly gutted. While fighting the fire three firemen were hurt more or less seriously.

The blaze was discovered a few minutes before 6 o'clock and it was after 8 o'clock when the fire was completely under control. The building was owned by C. H. Hubbard, whose establishment is next door. It was valued at $32,000, and was insured for $15,000. The damage at the lowest estimate will be $8,000 and perhaps twice that amount. The Paper Box Company had an insurance of $33,000 on stock and fixtures, and the loss has not yet been estimated. The Toronto Electrical Supply Company (Thornbury & Co.) claim damages amounting to about $10,000. They are insured for $3,000. Damage to places in the vicinity by smoke, broken windows and water will foot up to a tidy amount. The roof of the big building fell in when the fire was about half over, but the walls remained intact and thus hemmed in the flames.

The insurance is as follows:

On building $15,000, in the following companies: Royal $5,000, North British & Mercantile $5,000, London & Lancashire $5,000.

Dominion Box Co.'s stock $32,500, in the following companies: British American, $2,500, Imperial $2,500, Aetna $2,700, Phenix of Brooklyn $2,750, Royal $3,000, Sun $2,000, Liverpool, London & Globe $3,000, Norwich Union $2,000, Western $3,000, Hartford $2,000, Mercantile $2,500, Wellington Mutual $2,000, Waterloo Mutual $2,500.

On Thornbury & Co., stock, electric supplies: Scottish Union Co., $1,500, Lancashire Co, $1,500.

The origin of the fire is a mystery.

Inspector Strickland of the Northwest Mounted Police Heard From—Has Arrived at Victoria.

Ottawa, Jan. 14.—Inspector Strickland of the Northwest Mounted Police, who has been at Tagish for several months, has arrived at Victoria, en route to Prince Albert, to fetch his wife to Tagish. He telegraphs that the police posts on the road to the Yukon are amply provisioned for five months. He adds that all returning miners agree there is no danger of starvation, but there will be a shortage of provisions in the spring. The road from Bennett to Lake Labarge is, he says, practicable for horses. Labarge is 400 miles south of Dawson. A letter from Superintendent Perry, who recently arrived at Victoria from Skaguay, received to-day, confirms his telegraphed report that there is no danger of a food famine according to those who have come out.

Of Interest to Grain Men.

A case of great interest to the grain trade was tried at the Assize Court yesterday. William Dunn & Co., grain buyers of Chicago and Duluth, are claiming $10,000 damages from the Prescott Elevator Company for loss sustained on a large cargo of corn which was alleged to have deteriorated in value while in the defendants' elevator. Dunn & Co. shipped 100,000 bushels of corn from Chicago, and contracted with the elevator company to store at Prescott to await transhipment to Montreal. The plaintiff alleges that the corn was raised to the elevator on a wet day and became damp, and that subsequently, with the heat of the bins, it became fermented and greatly reduced in value. The corn was afterwards sold on the British markets at a loss of $10,000.

The case is likely to last until Saturday. D'Alton McCarthy is acting for the company.

Washington, Jan. 15.—The President to-day submitted to Congress the awards and report of the commission appointed under the terms of the treaty of 1896 to adjust the claims of British subjects for losses sustained through the seizure of their sealing vessels in Behring Sea. In his letter of transmittal the President says:

The report of the Secretary of State presents a clear epitome of the award and renders unnecessary any extended observation on my part, further than to say that I cordially coincide with the recommendation, and that our treaty obligations demand prompt and favorable action by Congress, which I urgently hope may be taken, to the end that these long-pending questions may be finally and satisfactorily terminated. The total amount necessary to satisfy the awards of the commissioners is $473,151.26, which I recommend to be appropriated. (Signed), William McKinley.

A Great Book Free.

When Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N.Y., published the first edition of his great work, The People's Common Sense Medical Adviser, he announced that after 680,000 copies had been sold at the regular price, $1.50 per copy, the profit on which would repay him for the great amount of labour and money expended in producing it, he would distribute the next half million free. As this number of copies has already been sold, he is now giving away, absolutely free, 500,000 copies of this most complete, interesting and valuable common sense medical work ever published—the recipient only being required to mail to him, at above address, 31 one-cent stamps to cover cost of mailing only, and the book will be sent postpaid. It is a veritable medical library, complete in one volume. Contains 1,008 pages, profusely illustrated. The free edition is precisely the same as that sold at $1.50, except only that the books are in strong manilla paper covers instead of cloth. Send now before all are given away.

The English Are No Fools.

Berlin, Jan. 14.—The press is greatly excited in the discussion of the Chinese loan over the idea of a joint Anglo-German loan. The suggestion is eagerly welcomed, and since it was mooted a distinctly friendly tone towards England has been adopted approaching open flattery. Prince Bismarck's saying is recalled that it would be foolishness to regard the English as fools in business matters. The papers are beginning to recognize that financial influence is far better than the occupation of a Chinese bay.

SLOAN'S INDIAN TONIC
THE ONLY PERMANENT CURE FOR INDIGESTION.

This is to certify that I, James Ross, Tollgate Keeper, of the town of Woodstock, Ont., have been a sufferer from Indigestion and a very weak stomach for a number of years, and have tried a great many medicines of different kinds, but could only obtain temporary relief for a short time, but after using one bottle of Sloan's Indian Tonic I could perceive a great difference. My indigestion was better and my stomach was much stronger than before, and I found I had gained several pounds in flesh, where I was weak and thin in flesh before. I think I used nine or ten bottles in all, and I am now a healthy man, but still I do not want to be without the medicine in the house, and I procure one or two bottles every year, and I can truthfully recommend Sloan's Indian Tonic to others suffering from the same complaint.

AN UNFORTUNATE EDITOR.

Edison's Experience in Newspaper Making Was Not a Happy One.

In her life story of Edison Mrs. Sarah A. Tooley relates the following concerning the "Wizard:"

"Having been successful as a newsseller, Edison lost no time in becoming an editor and publisher, and like Garrison:

What need of help? He knew how types were set.
He had a dauntless spirit and a press.

"True, Tom Edison's press only consisted of a disused set of type purchased for a nominal sum, and his combined printing office and editorial sanctum was a dilapidated luggage van, but it possessed an advantage of which even Printing House square cannot boast—it was migratory. The van converted to this novel purpose was attached to the train on the Grand Trunk railway, and appropriately enough the paper was entitled The Grand Trunk Herald.

"A further venture was Paul Pry, in which, if any one may be excused a pun, the editor 'pried' into things in too free a manner, and some individuals, incensed at his fun at their expense, dipped him into the river to cool his imagination. Further disaster followed when one day a phosphorous bottle upset in his laboratory and nearly set the train on fire. The conductor promptly removed Edison and his apparatus, printing and chemical, to the platform at the next stopping place.

"It was a bitter moment, of which Edison cannot think without feeling over again the sense of utter hopelessness and desolation which came upon him when he saw the train whirling off while he stood alone and forsaken among his broken goods, his ear tingling with a brutal box which injured his hearing for life."

DIDN'T RECOGNIZE GOULD.

Story of a Man Who Thought the Financier a Bunko Steerer.

Once when the late Jay Gould went to Margaretville, N. Y., with his physician and private car, he called on his old friend George Decker, a retired merchant of the village, who was formerly a clerk with Gould in Roxbury. Every one who knows Mr. Decker well calls him "G," and this was what Mr. Gould said to him:

"Hello, 'G!' I guess you know me this time, don't you?"

A few years before Decker, while in New York on business one afternoon, was suddenly confronted on Broadway by a dapper, black eyed little man, who grasped him by the hand, exclaiming. "How are you, Mr. Decker? I am glad to see you."

Mr. Decker looked the little man over from head to foot, and hurriedly answered:

"Yes, so am I, but I don't know you, sir. Good day."

"But, hold up," said the other, "aren't you George Decker of Margaretville?"

"Oh, yes; that's all right," responded Decker, "but I am in too great a hurry to be interviewed today, my friend. You have struck the wrong man."

"Yes, perhaps," said the little man, "but my name is Jay Gould. Don't you know me?"

"Jehosephat!" exclaimed Decker. "I took you for a confidence man."—Philadelphia Press.

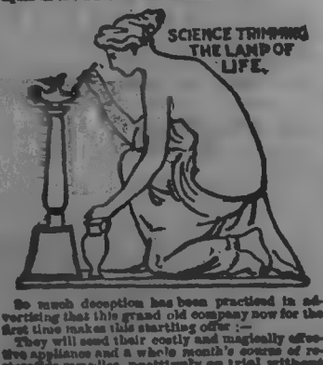
Free Trial To Any Honest Man

The Foremost Medical Company in the World in the Cure of Weak Men Makes this Offer.

HEALTH AND ENERGY ASSURED. HAPPY MARRIAGE, GOOD TEMPER, LONG LIFE.

In all the world to-day—in all the history of the world—no doctor nor institution has treated and restored so many men as has the famed ERIE MEDICAL CO. of Buffalo, N. Y.

This is due to the fact that the company controls some inventions and discoveries which have no equal in the whole realm of medical science.



So much deception has been practised in advertising that this grand old company now for the first time makes this startling offer:—

They will send their costly and magically effective appliance and a whole month's course of restorative remedies, positively on trial without expense to any honest and reliable man!

Not a dollar need be advanced—not a penny paid—till results are known to and acknowledged by the patient.

The Erie Medical Company's appliance and remedies have been talked about and written about all over the world, till every man has heard of them.

They restore or create strength, vigor, healthy tissue and new life.

They quickly stop drains on the system that sap the energy.

They cure nervousness, despondency and all the effects of evil habits, excesses, overwork, etc.

They give full strength, development and tone to every portion and organ of the body.

Failure is impossible and age is no barrier.

This "Trial without Expense" offer is limited by the company to a short time, and application must be made at once.

No C. O. D. scheme, no bogus philanthropy nor deception, no exposure—a clean business proposition by a company of high financial and professional standing.

Write to the ERIE MEDICAL COMPANY, BUFFALO, N.Y., and refer to seeing the account of their offer in this paper.

DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS

Marvellous Cures Effected in Ingersoll and Vicinity.

Dodd's Kidney Pills Have Cured Hundreds of People There.

Ingersoll, Jan. 8.—London, Glencoe and St. Thomas cannot claim all the remarkable cures wrought in this district by that wonderful remedy, Dodd's Kidney Pills. Ingersoll is bubbling over with excitement over the cures in this town.

Farmer G. J. Cook, of West Oxford township, is the latest to tell of his rescue. He suffered the agonies of Kidney Disease in spite of doctors and their remedies, till he began using Dodd's Kidney Pills. A short treatment cured him completely.

Mr. Cook's case is startling, but not uncommon. Whenever a person speaks of Dodd's Kidney Pills in Ingersoll, he or she can tell of a cure by them of Bright's Disease, Lumbago, Lame Back, Female Trouble or some other kidney or bladder disorder.

Early Refrigeration.

The most ancient method of making ice is practiced in India. Holes are made in the ground, dry straw is put at the bottom of these, and on it at the close of the day are placed pans of water which are left until the next morning, when the ice that is found within the pans is collected. This industry is carried on only in districts where the ground is dry and will readily absorb the vapor given off from the water in the pans. The freezing, of course, is due to the great amount of heat absorbed by the vapor in passing from its liquid to its gaseous form.

Another process was practiced in the day of ancient Rome when the wealthy are said to have had their wines cooled by having the bottles placed in water into which saltpeter was thrown, the bottles being the while rotated.

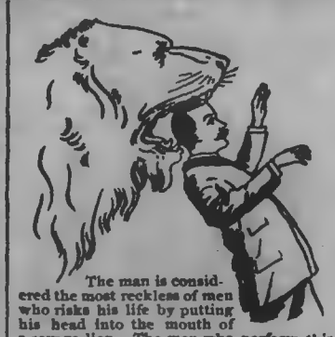
Dr. Cullen in 1755 discovered that the evaporation of water could be facilitated by the removal of the pressure of the atmosphere, and that by doing this water could be frozen. Nairn in 1777 discovered that sulphuric acid would absorb the vapor of water if placed in a second vessel separate from that containing the water, but connected with it. This discovery he put to use in 1810 by constructing an apparatus for absorbing the vapor of the water that it was desired to cool or freeze. This apparatus greatly facilitated the freezing operations of a vacuum freezing machine. —Cassier's Magazine.

Travel as an Educator.

The usefulness of travel for rightly trained and constituted lads is so generally recognized that it is not at all unusual for parents who wish to give their sons every chance possible to increase in wisdom to offer them the choice between spending several years in Europe or going to college at home. Each of us knows one or two men who have pursued education in this way, and we are used to compare them with their college bred coevals and pass opinions as to which method of intellectual development resulted best. Every year there are lads who were fitted for college—and perhaps entered—but went abroad. To compare them 6 or 8 or 10 or 20 years later with their schoolmates who went on and took their college degree is perhaps the most available test of the respective efficiency of the two methods, and it seems safe to say that, according to that test, the educational fruits of travel and study abroad compare very well with the products of the domestic tree of knowledge.—"The Point of View" in Scribner's.

Lion Taming.

Men who have had long experience with lions give them a very bad character. There is said to be no art in so called lion taming but the art of terrorism, and no rule but keeping the lions' stomachs full and their minds cowed. There never has been, and there never will be, say some, an appeal made to the lion's intelligence, because the limited amount of that quality which he possesses is entirely dominated by his ferocity.



The man is considered the most reckless of men who risks his life by putting his head into the mouth of a savage lion. The men who perform this foolhardy act are few and far between.

There are tens of thousands of men who daily do a much more rash and dangerous deed. They are the men who overwork and neglect their health. No man can do this with impunity. The inevitable result is serious illness and premature death. One of the most common results of carelessness in regard to health is consumption. There is one, and only one, unfailing remedy for this dread disease. It is Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It has a record of thirty years, during which time it has cured 98 per cent. of all cases of bronchial, throat and lung affections. It acts directly on the digestive and nutritive organism. It creates a healthy appetite for food, facilitates the flow of digestive juices and promotes the assimilation of the life-giving elements of the food. It is the great blood-maker, flesh-builder and nerve-tonic. In cases of nervous prostration it builds up the nerve fibres and gives sound, refreshing sleep.

"I took a severe cold with sore throat," writes Mrs. A. S. Everhart, of Oard Spring, Scott Co., Ind. "Soon I began to cough. My right side became sore so that when I coughed it seemed as though my side would burst. The physician said I had pleurisy. I took his medicine for some time and got no better. All through the spring and summer I used mustard plasters and fly blisters on my side and over lungs. Finally I began to ache so badly between my shoulders that I could hardly endure it and at times almost smothered. My breath was so short that I could scarcely talk. Several of my near relatives had died of consumption. I thought I would try Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. I took two bottles of it, and two of his 'Pleasant Pellets,' and am a new person. I would not take any money for the benefit received."

SONG OF MARGARET.

Aye, I saw her. We have met.
Married eyes, how sweet they be!
Are you happier, Margaret,
Than you might have been with me?
Silence! Make no more ado!
Did she think I should forget?
Matters nothing, though I knew,
Margaret, Margaret!

Once those eyes, full sweet, full sky,
Told a certain thing to mine.
What they told me I put by,
Oh, so careless of the sign!
Such an easy thing to take,
And I did not want it then.
Fool, I wish my heart would break!
Scorn is hard on hearts of men.

Scorn of self is bitter work.
Each of us has felt it now.
Bluest skies she counted mirk,
Self betray'd of eyes and brow.
As for me, I went my way,
And a better man drew nigh,
Pain to earn, with long essay,
What the winner's hand threw by.

Matters not in deserts old
What was born and war'd and yearn'd,
Year to year its meaning told.
I am come—its deeps are learn'd.
Come, but there is naught to say.
Married eyes with mine have met.
Silence! Oh, I had my day,
Margaret, Margaret!

THE CHILDREN'S AID SOCIETY.

Co-operative Clothing Coterie—Gifts Acknowledged.

The office of the Children's Aid Society at the Children's Shelter was a transformation scene yesterday afternoon, while a band of kind-hearted and capable ladies were busy making up and making over garments for the seven poor children lately found destitute—several of them begging—by the Society's officer. It would have been reward sufficient to the kind donors of money, clothes, etc., to see the childish gratification and happiness pictured on those young faces when one after the other these small people were inducted into comfortable and seasonable clothing. The small boy's hands with proud satisfaction found their way to the trousers pockets, and when the coat was donned was quite a little man, ready to make his way in the world, but it was no article of clothing that climaxed the joy of the miniature woman. It was her treasure—the wonderful blue-eyed, flaxen-haired doll, hugged closely, that made her forget her fine new jacket, brought and fitted so neatly for her by the kind Winnipeg lady. It was evident, too, that it was not prison fare to which these children were treated at the society's shelter. Two pathetic small figures presented themselves lately at the secretary's door. "Please, we came to see if we couldn't stay longer at the Shelter. We don't like it at home. There's nothing good to eat there and we haven't a nice bed either. We'll be good." The Society wish to express their indebtedness to the following ladies and gentlemen for their contributions:—Mrs. Vernon, $1; Mrs. A. C. Dunlop, materials for dresses, underclothing, etc.; Mrs. G. Graham, Mrs. Brundrette, Mrs. Firth, Mrs. Fairweather, Mrs. Campbell, Mrs. Boswell, Mrs. Turnbull.

Mrs. Frederick Haultain and Miss Warner have most kindly offered to instruct the children on Sunday afternoons.

THE Y.M.C.A. DEBATING CLUB.

The School the Better Safeguard Against Crime.

The Y.M.C.A. Debating Club had a very large and successful meeting last night in the Bible class room.

The following were elected to compose the executive of the society: Messrs. W. H. Hill, B. Anderson, T. Barrie, Bennett and McCallum.

The debate "Resolved that the school provides a better safeguard against crime than the gaol" was ably discussed. The interest being perhaps the best in the short history of the club. The affirmative speakers were Messrs. Anderson and Williamson; negative, Messrs. G. R. Irwin and Rev. Mr. Grant. Mr. A. E. Dixon, President, followed with an able summing up, and gave his decision in favour of the affirmative.

At the close the discussion was taken part in by Messrs. Hill, Stubbs and Bell.

Next Friday evening Mr. Sheriff Hall will give his paper, the reading of which was postponed from last week. The topic is "How to read and what to read." There will be a musical progamme as well and the meeting will be held in Association Hall. The public, including ladies, are invited.

WEDDING BELLS.

Nuptials of Miss Mary Stinson and Mr. Samuel McGee.

A very pretty wedding took place on Wednesday, Jan. 5th, when Miss Mary Stinson, third daughter of the late Richard Stinson, Dummer, was united in wedlock to Mr. Samuel McGee, Asphodel.

A very large number of friends were present and an enjoyable evening was spent.

The bride was the recipient of many handsome and costly presents as a token of the high esteem in which she was held. The nuptial knot was tied by Rev. F. W. White, at the residence of the bride's mother, South Dummer.

After the ceremony a sumptuous wedding dinner was served, followed by a pleasant social time. The happy young couple departed for their future home in Asphodel followed by a copious shower of rice and the best wishes of their many friends.

COURT BRIDGENORTH'S BIG NIGHT.

Successful Celebration of Their Anniversary.

Court Bridgenorth, No. 315, Canadian Order of Foresters, celebrated their anniversary last night with great success in their hall in the village, which was literally jammed for the occasion.

In the early part of the evening an oyster supper was served in a very tasteful and attractive manner and large numbers enjoyed the appetising menu provided.

At the conclusion of this feature adjournment was made to the assembly hall where the intellectual dessert was served. Mr. James Gregg, C.R., occupied the chair in a very effective manner and gave a most instructive opening address on the subject of Forestry and during the evening Mr. F. J. Jameson, member of the High Court Executive, delivered an instructive address upon the history of the Order.

The following interesting programme was well presented:

Instrumental	Miss Fitzgerald
Instrumental	Messrs McConkey and Telford
Vocal duet	Misses Nelson and Scrimger, Lakefield
Recitation	Master Clayton Telford
Instrumental	Jopling Bros. and Telford Bros
Recitation	Miss Barrie
Comic contributions	Mr Geo Adams
Reading	Mr Wilson
Recitation	Mr John Rossel
Recitation	Mr Walter Hooper

Mr. George Adams, of Peterborough, in his vocal and banjo specialties, was a host in himself and furnished no end of fun.

Altogether the evening was most enjoyably spent, and all present carried away delightful recollections of a very pleasant evening.

A jolly sleigh load of the Foresters of Peterborough drove out to assist their Bridgenorth brethren, and to congratulate them on their prosperity.

SUNDAY SCHOOL CONVENTION.

The Report of the Annual Convention of the Smith Sunday School Association Held in Gilmour Memorial Church.

The tenth annual Sunday School Convention of the township of Smith and village of Lakefield was held in the Gilmour Memorial church, Smith, on the afternoon and evening of Tuesday, Jan. 11th. There was a very fair attendance, but not as anticipated. The devotional exercises at the opening of each session were ably conducted by the pastor of the church, Rev. C. E. McLeod.

The chair at the afternoon session was occupied by the president of the Association, Mr. R. G. Clifford.

The minutes of the last convention held in Lakefield were read by the Secretary, Mr. J. H. Sherin.

Reports from the different schools were then called for, and without an exception every school in the Association reported either through a delegate, or through the secretary of the Association.

The financial statement for the year was very gratifying.

The sum of $21.50 was contributed to the Provincial Association.

It was decided that hereafter all schools should forward their contributions to the Township Secretary not later than October 1st in each year.

The next item on the programme was an excellent paper on Primary Work, by Miss White, of Lakefield.

Rev. Mr. Erb, of Lakefield, being absent, Rev. W. D. Harrison, of Bridgenorth, was then called for "An outline of the life of Christ." The subject was treated in a way that commended itself to the audience, as was shown by the discussion which followed. This brought the afternoon session to a close after which the meeting adjourned to the basement where the wants of the inner man were satisfied by a feast of good things provided by the ladies of the church.

The evening session opened at 7 o'clock and after a service of praise and prayer the election of officers for the ensuing year took place. The following were elected:—

President—Mr. Wm. Nicholls.
Sec.-Treas.—Mr. J. H. Sherin.
Executive Committee—Pastors, superintendents and secretaries of the different schools.

It was also decided that the next convention be held at Selwyn and in the Methodist church.

The new president was then asked to occupy the chair for the rest of the evening meeting. Having taken the chair he then called upon Dr. T. W. Harrison, of Keene to conduct a normal drill on "The Life of Paul," which Dr. Harrison did in his pointed and practical way. Rev. Mr. Shorey, of Peterborough, then gave an instructive and inspiring address on several phases of S. S. work. The question drawer was then opened and the questions answered by Rev. A. C. Reeves of Lakefield, after which the convention was brought to a close by singing and prayer.

DONT'S FOR DYSPEPTICS.

Timely Advice for the Use of Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets.

Don't starve yourself to death in the midst of plenty because you have Dyspepsia or Indigestion. You don't need to do so. Your Dyspepsia won't bother you if you take a couple of Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets after eating. You'll forget that you ever had Dyspepsia after you have used a couple of boxes of Tablets.

Don't abstain from eating your favourite foods because they used to cause Indigestion. You don't need to if you use one or two of Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets after having eaten.

Don't suffer because you are not quite sure that Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets cure Indigestion, Dyspepsia and all stomach stomach troubles, as surely as the sun rises. You don't need to do so. Get a box of the Tablets and try them. You'll never doubt afterwards. Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets have been tested too often, and have cured too many hundreds of thousands of cases to fail in yours.

Don't delay. You are unwise if you do. For who should you suffer an hour longer than is necessary? You don't need to suffer another day. You can't suffer from Dyspepsia, Indigestion, nor any other stomach complaint, if you use Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets.

Don't be obstinate and "pig-headed," and worry your wife and family because you are dyspeptic. It's your own fault that you are. You've been assured that Dood's Dyspepsia Tablets will cure you, and if you haven't taken advantage of this assurance, so much the worse for you.

Don't be a Dyspeptic. Don't have Indigestion. Take Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets, and be a man—a healthy, strong, manly, vigorous man.

Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets are sold by all druggists, at fifty cents a box, six boxes for $2.50, or will be sent on receipt of price by the Dodds Medicine Co., Limited, Toronto.

SCALES LIKE A FISH

Terrible Condition of a Baby from a Scaly Skin Humor.

Our baby boy was born July 1, 1894. In the fall his legs became rough, from some skin trouble, from his knees down to his toes, also his arms, breast, and abdomen. We tried a great many different kinds of remedies, but without success. In the summer of 1895 it became a little better, but in the fall, and all winter, it was a sight to behold. He had scales on his body and arms like a fish, and almost black. In fact we were ashamed with it, but could not help it. We were almost in despair until we had used CUTICURA REMEDIES for about four days, when we noticed an improvement. Every time my wife washed him, her apron became covered with a scale-like skin. To-day it is gone, his skin is as smooth as any child, and we owe it, with the blessings of God, to CUTICURA REMEDIES. If you can use this testimony, we give our full consent.

GEO. HUYSKEN & WIFE,
375 Maple Street, Detroit, Mich.

In all the world there is no other treatment so pure, so sweet, so speedily effective as CUTICURA, greatest of skin cures, blood purifiers, and humor remedies. CUTICURA REMEDIES daily perform more great cures of torturing, disfiguring, humiliating skin, scalp, and blood diseases than all other blood and skin remedies combined. Warm baths with CUTICURA SOAP, gentle applications of CUTICURA (ointment), and mild doses of CUTICURA RESOLVENT, greatest of blood purifiers and humor cures, constitute the only unfailing external and internal treatment for all forms of skin, scalp, and blood humor known.

The Canadian General Electric Company has recently closed a contract with the Bushnell Oil Company, Sarnia, for a 25-kilowatt direct connected, steel frame, incandescent lighting generator, coupled to an "Ideal" engine. This installation will will embody all the latest improvements in direct connected practice, which the Bushnell Company, from its connection with the Standard Oil Company of the United States, has learned to value through their experience there.

The Canadian General Electric Company is supplying a 1,000 light direct connected incandescent lighting plant for the Gutta Percha and Rubber Manufacturing Co. The installation will be, when finished, one of the most complete in the country. The machine is of the steel frame, ventilated armature type, direct connected to an "Ideal" engine, running at the slow speed of 280 revolutions per minute. The great saving in space, durability and high efficiency obtained by the use of these direct connected units, has led to their adoption as the standard machine where it is desired to obtain the best and most economical conditions in operating an isolated incandescent lighting plant.

Well Done People's Grocery!

You deserve the thanks of the people for the grand bill of fare you presented to the public at the Christmas Season, and for the nicely dressed window you have; the display of Turkeys, geese and other fowl was simply grand and I am not surprised that you did such a good trade and sold a lot of goods. I saw a load of Hogs at your door the other day, fat, and nicely dressed, what do you intend to do with them? Well, we pickle them, and then smoke them, then sell the Hams and Bacon; and let me whisper a secret to you, the people that buy them year after year, say there is nothing to equal them sold in this town.

Well what about Canned Goods? I see they are quoted $1.00 a doz. in Toronto. Can you supply them 3 for 25c.? Yes, and we promise to supply the people at that price as long as they last, for we have a large stock of this season's goods, which we bought at Soap Prices.

Choice stock of Groceries and Provisions, Fruit, Fish and Vegetables, always fresh, good and cheap. Free delivery. Glad to see all my friends and thank them for their kind patronage. Wishing you the compliments of the season, I remain your truly CAMPAIGN STARTED.

Liberals Actively at Work Over the Province.

HON. JOHN DRYDEN NOMINATED.

Addresses by Him and the Minister of Education at Oshawa on Saturday—The Liberal Party Fully Alive to the Situation—In the Thick of the Campaign.

Toronto, Jan. 17.—The final session of the Assembly elected in 1894 is over and we are already in the thick of the campaign for a new election, the exact date of which will be announced shortly. To say that the Liberal party enters upon the campaign with enthusiasm is to state the case very moderately. With such a leader and such a record as it is fortunate in possessing it has every reason to await the issue with confidence. Nevertheless victories are gained only by backing a good cause with active, vigorous fighting. That is how the Mowat Government achieved its quarter century of triumphs. That is how the Hardy Government must continue these triumphs. The Liberal party is apparently awake to the occasion. Already candidates have been placed in a large proportion of constituencies, and conventions have been called in most other cases.

HON. JOHN DRYDEN.

The Popular Minister of Agriculture Again Nominated for South Ontario—Stirring Speeches Delivered.

Oshawa, Jan. 17.—The Liberals of South Ontario met in convention here Saturday afternoon for the purpose of selecting a candidate to contest the riding at the coming Provincial General Election. Hon. John Dryden, the present member, was the unanimous choice of the delegates. Addresses were delivered by Hon. George W. Ross, M.P.P., Leonard Burnett, M.P., and Hon. John Dryden, M.P.P.

When Mr. Dryden advanced to speak it was some moments before he was able to make himself heard because of the cheering. He said, feelingly, that there was not a man in all this province who would not be proud to be put in nomination by such a large and representative convention. He expressed his heartfelt gratitude for the honor which they had conferred upon him by selecting him for the sixth time to bear the standard of Liberalism in the county. Each time he had led them to victory and was confident that he would again do so. After referring to the Opposition Mr. Dryden sketched the work he had done since assuming charge of the important Department of Agriculture; the appointment of a superintendent of Farmers' Institutes, devoting his whole time to that work, had resulted in greatly extending their usefulness; the number of institutes increased from 70 to over 700, and the attendance from a few thousand to 125,000. The publications in connection with the department sent to a member each year gave him a compendium of knowledge and instruction which would lift him out of ignorance, if he was in it, and enable him to do his best for the province. He believed that the three chief industries which must in this province take the place of wheat-growing were dairying, live stock and fruit-raising, and an effort was being made to stimulate and encourage and help the people so as not only to have an increased output to send away, but to have it of uniform and good quality. Associations had been formed to deal with these questions. The dairy associations sent out instructors to the various factories where the work is carried on, and if any difficulties were encountered as to quality these experienced men could put them right.

Then there were the dairy schools in Guelph, Kingston and Stratford, and the travelling dairy. He mentioned an instance where the bacteriological experiments at Guelph had been of infinite service in determining the cause of the "tainted cheese" in some of the eastern factories, and enabling them to overcome the difficulty. The result of these efforts was that we had captured very nearly 70 per cent. of the English cheese market, and we were reaching out for the almost unlimited butter market of Great Britain. The work of the live stock associations was also spoken of at some length. The removal of the quarantine regulations between Canada and the States, and the export of large quantities of inferior cattle from Ontario, with the consequent improvement of the quality and the price, were referred to with pride. In connection with the fruit industry, Mr. Dryden referred to the ten experimental stations, the spraying instruction and the present effort to exterminate the destructive San Jose scale. He also dealt with the opening of the experimental farm at Wabigoon, and the rich promise of northern Ontario this brought to the notice of the public.

Mr. Dryden defended the Ontario Agricultural College from the attacks made upon it by the members of the Opposition, particularly ridiculing Dr. Willoughby's statements in regard to the cost of that institution.

All of this was but one branch of the Government, and all of the others were equally progressive and equally strove to advance the interests of the people of Ontario. Mr. Dryden pointed out that the Opposition had not in all the time the Government have been in power been able to fix a single charge upon them; all of their attacks had been on side issues, and in this connection he reminded them of the recent libel suit successfully brought by him against Mr. Smith for bringing charges against him personally.

The Minister of Education.

Hon. Geo. W. Ross was received with enthusiasm. In opening his address he spoke warmly of Mr. Dryden's ability and sterling worth. He had sat by him in Council and near him in the Legislature, had heard him debate public questions of almost every kind, and if they had searched the province all over they could not have found a better all-round or more capable man, or a more frank one, or one whose judgment carried more weight than the distinguished man who represents South Ontario. (Cheers.) He was of a practical turn of mind, as shown by the wonderful work in connection with agriculture, which, of all occupations, required a practical man, not a man who flies kites with or without a tail. It was said of Sir Robert Peel that he had a great deal of insight and very little foresight; Mr. Dryden had both. When he undertook anything he saw the end from the beginning in a most remarkable way. It was easy to waste money in agriculture, as in the experiment of the late Dominion Government in buying butter at twenty cents a pound and selling it in England for fourteen cents. When he took over the Agricultural College there were 110 pupils; last year there were 287, a remarkable increase, showing that the farmers of this country and the young men who had been at the college realized its value and had advertised it through the country and distributed the knowledge they received there and so raised the general intelligence. What he understood about farming was that it required intelligence and keen, far-seeing minds. Mr. Ross spoke of his friend's (Mr. Dryden's) tenacity of purpose and skill in getting his own way in matters that came up in Council. He referred also to the remarkable expansion of the dairy industry under Mr. Dryden's care. Mr. Ross' eulogium of their member roused the electors of old South Ontario to loud and long-lasting applause. The Minister of Education was somewhat pressed for time, as he had to catch an early train, but he gave a clear statement of the general policy of the Government, setting forth their course in administering the various public institutions of the country and dealing particularly with the administration of his own department.

The meeting was closed with ringing cheers for the Queen, the candidate and the Liberal leaders.

Patrons Open the Battle.

Picton, Jan. 17.—The initial meeting of the electorate campaign now on, in the interest of Mr. John Cavan, M.P.P., the Patron candidate for the County of Prince Edward, was held in the Quinte Opera House here on Saturday. Notwithstanding the inclement weather the place of meeting was filled to overflowing, many remaining standing. About 500 persons were present. Mr. Caven addressed the meeting in a speech of one hour and a half's duration. A motion approving of and endorsing Mr. Caven's candidacy was carried unanimously. Mr. Caven thanked the audience and announced his candidature at the approaching elections.

CONSERVATIVE NOMINATIONS.

Brampton, Jan. 17.—The Conservatives of Peel have nominated Mr. Hilliard Cameron of Toronto to contest this riding with Mr. John Smith M.P.P.

London Jan. 17.—The East Middlesex Conservatives Saturday nominated ex-Mayor T. D. Hodgins of this city to contest the riding for a seat in the local Legislature.

Gananoque Scorched.

Gananoque, Jan. 17.—An alarm of fire sounded at 3.30 Sunday morning, when it was discovered the store occupied by Lalonde Bros., situated in the Turner block, was on fire. Much difficulty was experienced by the firemen, owing to the dense smoke, and the stock, consisting of boots and shoes, was almost an entire loss, as was also the stocks of L. Fraid, clothier, and J. B. Turner, grocer. On the second floor was the Independent newspaper office, and J. C. Ross, barrister, both of which were badly damaged. Losses are estimated as follows: L. Fraid, total loss, insurance $2,000; Lalonde Bros., total loss, insurance $5,500; J. B. Turner, stock badly damaged by smoke and water, insurance $1,500; insurance on building $7,000; O. V. Goulet, publisher, badly damaged by smoke and water, insured for $800; J. C. Ross, totally destroyed, no insurance.

Cuban General Killed.

HAVE YOU A VOTE?

THE PROVISIONS OF THE MANHOOD REGISTRATION ACT.

Young Men are Particularly Affected—Many of Their Names are Omitted as They are Not on the Municipal Assessment Roll.

The Act for the registration of Manhood Suffrage voters is about to be put in force for the first time since its passage, and as it will affect the approaching Ontario elections, it is well that its bearing should be fully understood, especially by the young men of towns and cities, for the benefit of whom it was specially prepared.

The Act, in short, makes provision for the placing on the voters' list of those whose names are not already there, as owners, as tenant, or as being assessed for income. By the new enactment all those who pay statute labour tax or who are British subjects and over twenty-one years of age, and are not on the voters' list, can have their names placed there by going before a registration board.

Those eligible to be registered and entitled to a vote by the Manhood Registration Act, must (1) have lived in the Province for one year previous to registration; (2) have been a resident of the town for three months, and (3) for one month continuously previous to registration.

At present only those are on the list who are entitled to vote at municipal elections. All others have to register, and as this class is largely composed of young men, their attention is particularly called to the fact, although the registration board has not yet commenced its sitting.

Every male person of the full age of 21 years, a subject of her Majesty by birth or naturalization, and not otherwise by law prohibited from voting, shall be entitled to be entered on the list of manhood suffrage voters for the polling sub-division in which he resides. Provided, that such person has resided within the province for the twelve months next preceeding the day on which the first sitting of the registrars was held for the preparation of the lists. And provided, that such person was in good faith, on the said last mentioned day, and for the three calendar months next preceeding the same, a resident of, and domiciled in, the municipality on the list of which he is to be entered; and was in good faith on the said day, and for the next preceeding thirty days, a resident of, and domiciled within, the territory comprising the electoral district on the list of which he is to be entered. And provided, also, that such person's name is not on the revised list of persons entitled to vote at both municipal and Assembly elections.

Members of a permanent militia corps enlisted for continuous service are to be registered on furnishing evidence that they are entitled to registration under the Dominion Franchise Act, and not otherwise. So, also, are students in attendance at an institution of learning in any city or town to which the Act applies, provided they are, during such attendance, residents of, and domiciled in, such city or town, and are not at the time of their application for registration under this Act registered or entered upon, and are not entitled to be entered or registered upon, any other list of persons entitled to vote at elections for the Legislative Assembly. Any person who has ceased to be entitled to vote under part I. of the last revised list, may, subject to other conditions of qualification, have his name transferred to the manhood suffrage list.

In Peterborough the Registration Board will be composed of the County Judge, the Police Magistrate, and the Clerk of the County Court. Such selection has been made for the purpose of having the law impartially administered and in all municipalities permission it made to have the Board composed of judicial or semi-judicial officials. These are known as ex-officio registrars and they are privileged to appoint such other registrars as may be necessary for the proper enforcement of the Act. It it in the power of the Government to appoint a chairman, pro tem, for the purpose of calling the Board together to arrange the necessary preliminary details for putting the purpose of the new Act into force.

At their first, or any subsequent meeting meeting, or vacancy, the board may appoint a chairman, who shall hold office during their pleasure or until the next general election. In the event of the Government not appointing a chairman prior to the dissolution of the Legislature, or of the appointed chairman ceasing to be a member of the board, then the two ex-officio registrars shall call the board together immediately after the issue of a proclamation.

Two days and a night will be occupied in the cities for the registration of voters. The sittings will be held in each division on the seventh day after the dissolution of the Legislature. In the event of the seventh day falling on a Sunday the sittings begin on Monday. They are to last from 10 in the morning until 9 in the evening, with intervals for meals. No provision has yet been made for registering voters in the larger towns at night, but it is expected that an amendment to the law enabling this to be done will be adopted. The registration of voters will begin immediately after the formal dissolution of the Legislature, when the Clerk of the Assembly will notify the chairman of the Registration Board, and the latter shall summon the Board together within the specified time.

Provisions are made in the Act dealing with absenteeism, and permitting the registration of persons suffering from sickness or other disability, or who are temporarily absent in the prosecution of their calling, as lumbermen, mariners, fishermen, commercial travellers and railway men, or are temporarily absent in attendance at an institution of learning. The Act also provides for the holding of supplementary sittings and the hearing of appeals from persons whose claims to registration have not been acknowledged.

Sons of Scotland.

Mr. Jas. Anderson, special organizer for the Grand Camp of Scotland, has been in town during the past few days engaged in re organizing the new camp for Peterborough. Mr. Anderson has met with the most encouraging success, having obtained a list of twenty-six new members in less than two days, including names from the ranks of the professions, merchants and best class of mechanics. It is expected that the Grand Secretary Capt. D. M. Robertson, of Toronto, and other grand officers will be present at the opening ceremonies.

WALLACEBURG, ONT.—The following letter will prove of interest to working men and others who may be in a condition similar to that of the writer:

"For three years I was subject to poor spells. I always felt tired, could not sleep at night and the little I could eat did not do me any good. THE PROVINCIAL ELECTION CAMPAIGN.

The present session of the Ontario Legislature, which is the last of the eighth Parliament, ceases to-day. It is probable that dissolution will be shortly declared, and the general elections will follow before very long, probably while the sleighing lasts.

The Hardy-Ross Government will, in the coming elections, appeal to the country for a renewal of the confidence that has been so emphatically reposed in them during the past. The Government never went to the country stronger in the confidence of the people, stronger in administrative ability, stronger in a record of capable administration, stronger in a record of wise and beneficial legislation.

Under these circumstances there is no possible doubt of the result. The Government will be handsomely sustained, for in addition to this merit of their administration, they have shown their strong grasp of the function of government. Here is contrasted the inefficiency of the Opposition. During the past few months and during the past session the Opposition have shown their weakness and unfitness to even capably criticise, not to speak of governing. The failure of the Opposition to criticise effectively and intelligently the public questions that arise was demonstrated time after time, and the Opposition's depressed standard of statemanship was strikingly shown by the petty issues they have brought up and by the pettifogging style applied to their discussion.

In West Peterborough there is no doubt of the result. The people have a candidate in the person of Mr. Stratton who is well known from his past satisfactory relations with the people. He is well known to the electors, for he has kept in touch with them during the past twelve years he has represented West Peterborough. He has kept in touch with the people not only during an election time, but from week to week and all the year round. He is perhaps the only member of the Legislature, who after every session, has visited the people, addressed them on the work that had been done and consulted their opinions as to the course he had pursued, and which he should pursue in the future in the interests of his constituents. His zeal, earnestness and his eminent success in promoting the welfare of West Peterborough, have been cordially endorsed and recognised at three general elections, and with the added experience of public life, with the same interest in West Peterborough and the advancement of the interests of its citizens, there is no room for doubt that the people will again heartily endorse the course pursued and enthusiastically give another renewal of confidence to Mr. Stratton, who has so satisfactorily represented the riding.

Mr. Stratton will address the electors on the dates and at the places mentioned below. The meetings are invariably called for 7.30 p.m.:—

Beamfort, South Monaghan, on Tuesday, January 18th.

Ballilieboro, South Monaghan, on Thursday, Jan. 20th.

Fraserville, South Monaghan, (Orange Hall) on Friday, January 21st.

Town Hall, North Monaghan, on Monday, January 24th.

Middleton's School House, Smith, on Tuesday, January 25th.

A large attendance of the electors is requested, as Mr. Stratton will enter very fully into the discussion of the questions at issue in the present campaign.

Mr. Garvin is invited to be present, and will be allowed the usual time for discussion.

AN evidence that the improvement of Canadian trade is not altogether due to holiday activity is found in the fact that wholesale trade in both Montreal and Toronto is picking up encouragingly after the holiday season. Travelling agents of wholesale houses report satisfactory orders and good remittances from country customers, so that the revival of trade is general and the prospects for another prosperous year are very encouraging.

THE bill of Hon. Mr. Hardy, to permit of the garnishee of salaries of civil service employees, is a step in the right direction. No man should be allowed to evade the payment of his just debts. If he will incur liabilities, he must expect to meet them, and civil service employees, above all, should be honest. In service they are representatives of the Government that employs them, which, as the source of authority, should set an example of just dealing.

OTONABEE.

Council Meeting.

The newly elected council met, after subscribing to qualification and taking declaration of office. Reeve Johnston took the chair. The following officers were appointed: D. P. McFarlane and Andrew Shearer, auditors; Wm. Drummond, collector; John Drummond, clerk and treasurer; Dr. Shaw, Medical Health Officer; John Bell and John Dinsdale, Sanitary Inspectors; John Doyell, member of the local Board of Health for three years. The appointing of an assessor was left to next meeting to see what action the County Council will take in fixing the time for assessing between 1st of Feb. and July. The salary for assessing was fixed at $70 if it can be done the latter part of April and the months of May and June.

On motion, the following persons are to receive for charity the following sums: Andrew McDermott, $4 per month; Jas. Metcalf, $3 per month; Jas. Rennie, $5 per month; St. Joseph's Hospital, $1 per week for Mrs. Barry; Mrs. Jas. Armstrong, $1 per week.

The following communications were received: From J. Ross Robertson, chairman of the Toronto Hospital for Sick Children, asking for aid. No action was taken. From W. J. Hall, asking the council if they were going to sell the wood on the base line near the river. The clerk was instructed to say in reply that it has no intention to sell the wood at present. From J. B. Laing, Provincial Municipal Auditor, re municipal audit, and how it should be conducted.—Received. From John Brecksenridge, clerk of Asphodel, re cost of school arbitration, also cost of $6 for repairing the Asphodel boundary. The clerk was instructed to reply that as Mr. Lancaster, who has charge of the boundary on behalf of the Otonabee council, was not consulted as to the expenditure, therefore the council cannot pay the amount; but, if necessary will expend an equivalent during the summer of 1898.

From Hon. Sidney Fisher, Dominion Minister of Agriculture, saying in reply to the clerk that no compensation can be given for the cow ordered to be slaughtered, as the slaughtering was not done by order of the Department.

The following accounts were ordered to be paid:—J. M. Drummond, salary, $240; refund postage, $20; Government returns, $5 00; James Hayes, gravel 90c.; B. R. Matthews, cedar, $6.03; Patrick Sullivan, gravel, $3.09; Philip Elmhirst, repairing culverts in Keene, $1.00; James Lang, gravel, $5.25; treasurer's cash book, $5.45; express, 85c.

Council adjourned until February 21st.

Those bought for that purpose are picked from amongst the butchers' cattle. Prices range from $3.75 to $4.25 per cwt. SLOAN'S INDIAN TONIC

Cures Erysipelas, Scrofula, Salt Rheum, Eczema and all other Eruptive Skin Diseases.

TRADE MARK.

A Marvellous Cure for Erysipelas by Sloan's Indian Tonic, in Lambton County.

Mrs. J. J. Porter, of Corunna, writes:—

I received the medicine all right, and am much obliged for it. I had Erysipelas every summer for five years, sometimes so bad my face, arms and body would swell to an enormous size and my eyes would be shut for days at a time. I tried two doctors but they did me no good, and I even went for change of climate, but all to no avail, until I got your TONIC. After taking one bottle the swelling ceased, and I improved every day and am now entirely cured.

Fred. W. Leiskau, Baden, writes:—

Please send me another bottle of Sloan's Indian Tonic. I bought one bottle from your agent early this spring, and I must say it is the best medicine in existence. I was troubled with a soreness in my right side and tried many doctors, but they could not cure me, and after using the one bottle I have had no trouble with the soreness. I am very glad I can state this.

THE INDIAN TROUBLE.

Afridis Have Again Taken Possession of Khyber Pass.

A CHANGE OF BRITISH GENERALS

Death of the Father of the House—Complete Submission Demanded of the Engineers Before the Lockout is Raised—The Ominous Situation on the Upper Nile —Cable News.

London, Jan. 17.—The Earl of Elgin, Viceroy of India, has wired the Government that the Zakka-Khel Afridis have re-occupied Khyber Pass and that the cutting of wires and firing upon escorts have recommenced.

A Change of Generals.

Calcutta, Jan. 17.—The Queen has approved the appointment of Gen. Sir Arthur Powers-Palmer, K.C.B., to succeed Gen. Sir Wallock Hart as commander of the Tirah field force on the Northwest frontier.

The report of the escape of Lieut. Turner of the British survey party, recently attacked by tribesmen in the Province of Mekran, Baluchistan, is confirmed.

PRACTICALLY A CASUS BELLI.

France Apparently Bent Upon Forcing Great Britain Into War.

London, Jan. 17.—Temporarily overshadowed, the movements of the French on the Upper Nile are again becoming unpleasantly prominent to those who imagined that Great Britain had undisputed claims upon those regions. It is immaterial to discuss the exact whereabouts of the French expeditions. It suffices that, according to the bulk of the evidence, they have penetrated to Bahr-El-Ghazel, the most fertile province of the Egyptian Soudan, with the distinct mandate of their Government. If this is true, and the declarations of successive British Cabinets mean anything, M. Hanotaux, the French Minister for Foreign Affairs, has brought about a casus belli.

Thus far, M. Hanotaux seems to have the advantage, but the game is dangerous. Fear of war with France will not stop Great Britain from recovering the whole of the Egyptian Soudan and driving out any French expeditions which may be found there, when, in the opinion of the Marquis of Salisbury, the proper time has arrived.

CARNIVAL SUITS TO RENT.

In the meanwhile, Prince Henry of Orleans is fitting out, at Marseilles, and evidently with the approval of the Government, an armed expedition to subdue the equatorial provinces which the Negus presented, claiming they belonged to Abyssinia in prehistoric times, but in reality these provinces are identical with those Great Britain is seeking to restore to Egypt. So, perhaps, there is some truth in the story that the activity of the British is due to the Egyptian intelligence department learning that the French Abyssinian troops have reached Fashoda, that King Menelik is preparing reinforcements with the intention of following up this success and that common policy, which is morally supported by Russia, unites France and Abyssinia.

Complete Submission Demanded.

Manchester, Jan. 17.—Interest in the engineers' strike has shifted to the attitude of the employers. They are disposed to stand out for a complete victory, and say the withdrawal of the demand for 48 hours per week does not end the differences. They still insist upon complete control of their works, and will effect a reconciliation only on the terms outlined at the last conference.

Eight Hours' Demand Withdrawn.

London, Jan. 17.—The official engineers' joint committee has notified the Employers' Federation of the withdrawal, on behalf of the men, of the eight hours demand.

FATHER OF THE HOUSE.

Death of the Right Hon. Charles Pelham Villiers, the Venerable Member of Parliament for Wolverhampton.

London, Jan. 17.—The Right Hon. Chas. Pelham Villiers, M.P. for South Wolverhampton, and known as the "Father of the House of Commons," having sat continuously in the House since 1835, died at nine o'clock Sunday night.

Sketch of His Career.

In addition to being the oldest member of the House of Commons, he was father of the English bar, for he was "called" at Lincolns Inn in 1827. Mr. Gladstone, seven years the junior of Mr. Villiers, entered Parliament two years before him, but while the service of Mr. Villiers has been continuous, that of Mr. Gladstone was broken when he retired from the House of Commons. Mr. Villiers was returned for Wolverhampton three years after the passing of the great Reform Act, and the last Parliament of William IV. Besides being the oldest member of Parliament he was the oldest surviving Parliamentary candidate. It was in 1826, when George IV. was King and Victoria was a young child, that he travelled down to Yorkshire from London and contested Kingston upon-Hull, under the Reform banner of Canning, though unsuccessfully. After his return for Wolverhampton he identified himself with the Liberal movement and in 1859 was appointed Judge Advocate General. Subsequently he was President of the Poor Law Board. He became a member of Lord Palmerston's second administration in 1859. As an independent Liberal he was one of the most able and eloquent leaders of the anti-Corn Law agitation and to the triumph of the cause his earnest speeches and persistent motions in Parliament contributed. In the session of 1865 he introduced a very important measure in connection with the poor law administration, the Union Charge Ability bill, which became law. In 1879 his constituents at Wolverhampton unveiled a marble statue of Mr. Villiers, when speeches in eulogy of his public services in connection with the anti-Corn Law movement were delivered by Earl Granville and Sir Robert Peel. Notwithstanding his extremely advanced age, his memory was singularly retentive and he was able to entertain his friends for hours at a time with lively scenes in the House of Commons during the first half of the century. Canning had passed away eight years before Mr. Villiers entered Parliament, but the two often met, as Canning was a bosom friend of the uncle of Mr. Villiers. The latter often went to the House to hear Canning speak and he described him as a wonderful orator. With Cobden and Bright he was intimately associated in the anti-Corn Law agitation and was always described as one of the triumvirate that brought about the repeal.

Among the famous personalities he could recall and vividly portray were the great Sir Robert Peel, Lords Melbourne Russell, Derby, Aberdeen, Brougham, the Duke of Wellington, Daniel O'Connell, Hume, Grote and Disraeli. He always delighted to recall the circumstance that he was in the House when Disraeli made the celebrated speech in which he said that one day the House would be compelled to listen to him.

The late Mr. Villiers was the third son of the Hon. George Villiers, son of the first Earl of Clarendon by the only daughter of the first Lord Boringdon. According to "Men and Women of the Time" he was born Jan. 19, 1802, but this date appears to be inaccurate, for the London papers of Jan. 4 say that on the previous day Mr. Villiers celebrated his 96th birthday, received a large number of his friends and congratulatory messages from all parts of the Kingdom.

WISDOM OF CHATHAMITES.

Dodd's Kidney Pills are First Favourites With Them.

Chatham, Jan. 17—The druggists of this town report most extraordinary sales of Dodd's Kidney Pills during the past few months. Every citizen is thoroughly acquainted with the sterling merits of these wonderful pills, which are admitted to be the only medicine that will completely and positively cure all blood and Kidney diseases.

J. J. O'Brien of this place publishes the statement that he was cured entirely of kidney disease by Dodd's Kidney Pills, after all other remedies had failed.

Hundreds of other cures of Bright's Disease, Diabetes, Paralysis, etc., are known of here, and Dodd's Kidney Pills are the only medicine used by our citizens in cases of diseases of the kidneys and impure blood.

Dear Sirs,—I can recommend Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup as the very best medicine for coughs and colds, sore throat and weak lungs, which I have ever used.

Zola Has Made a Sensation.

Paris, Jan. 15.—M. Zola's letter to President Faure and the action of the Government thereon resulting in its decision to prosecute him, have produced an amazing and alarming effect upon the public mind. The scandal has developed into a national crisis with public excitement at a degree of intensity that is difficult to understand. It is no longer a Dreyfus scandal, but a great Jewish and anti-Jewish agitation with an incredible intensity of popular passion.

Yesterday newspapers displayed prejudices which, while they are genuinely French, are also dangerous. M. Drumont, in La Libre Parole, leads the attack against Zola and the defenders of Dreyfus. He makes a bitter onslaught upon the Jews and alleges that they are engaged in a conspiracy against the State.

The other journals call for a great popular demonstration against any further agitation of the Dreyfus case and this movement is only too likely to succeed.

Father of the House Said to Be Dying.

London, Jan. 15.—The Right Hon. Charles Pelham Villiers, member of Parliament for South Wolverhampton and known as the "Father of the House of Commons," having sat continuously in the House since 1835, is believed to be dying.

Gen. Jament to Succeed.

Paris, Jan. 15.—The Cabinet to-day will nominate General Jament to succeed General Saussier as Commander-in-Chief of the French Army.

We know the great cures of Hood's Sarsaparilla are genuine because the people themselves write about them.

Don't Go On.

Don't go on suffering from nervous troubles that make strong men weak, impotent, and unable to do the right thing at the right time, all because the system is tobacco poisoned. We urge you to test Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, they make the blood pure and rich, tingling with life and energy, and the man who feels old they make young and happy again.

CATARRH! F. F. C. C.

Forsyth's Faultless Catarrh Cure.

A POSITIVE CURE FOR CATARRH AND COLD IN THE HEAD.

This effective remedy for Catarrh and Cold in the head is a fume inhalent—it goes direct to the seat of disease and gives relief in a marvellously quick time. It will cure the slightest cold in the head almost instantly, and, if faithfully and persistently used, it will cure the most stubborn and long standing cases of chronic catarrh of the head—it never fails to do its work—it is easily applied—it is harmless to use—you simply take a small portion of the remedy in the palm of the hands, rub the hands together, then partly open them and inhale the fumes from the remedy into the throat and nose, and rub a little of the remedy on sides of the nose and temples.

Dear Sir—I have been using catarrh remedy of different kinds for the last fifteen years, but find "Forsyth's Faultless Catarrh Cure" the best I have used, and have no hesitation in recommending it to any one troubled with catarrh or cold in the head.

Yours sincerely,
W. HARPER,
Hardware Merchant.
Lakefield, Ont., Feb. 7, 1896.

John Forsyth, Berlin:

Dear Sir—I take much pleasure in certifying to the great benefit I have derived from the use of your cure for catarrh. It has done me more real benefit than all the medicine I have taken, and I am completely cured now,

Yours faithfully,
ROBERT FOWLER,
Orillia, Sept. 12, 1896.

Dear Sir—I take pleasure in giving my testimonial to the efficacy and value of Forsyth's Faultless Catarrh Cure. I was induced through a friend to give it a trial for catarrhal cold in the head; the result was marvellous. I cannot speak too highly of its merits. I can faithfully recommend it to anyone troubled with chronic catarrh or cold in the head.

Yours truly,

An Irish Piper in Town.

Mr. Peter Dolan, a genuine Irish piper from the Green Isle, is delighting the hearts of Irishmen in town by his selections on the Irish bagpipes. He is on a visit to friends in town and vicinity, and can rattle off an Irish jig in such a manner as to warm the cockles of an Irishman's heart, and carry him back to the days when on the village green he danced with many an Irish colleen. Mr. Dolan will in all probability render a few selections on the pipes at the Catholic Association rooms this evening.

EDWARD LECLAIRE.

A New Firm.

Mr. A. E. Ford, who for the past few years, has built up a very good business in photography on Charlotte street, has sold his entire stock and gallery equipment, photos, negatives and a splendid assortment of frames, to A. Cunningham & Co., who are now prepared to continue the excellent work done by Mr. Ford. The members of the new new and enterprising firm are not strangers to Peterborough. Mr. Cunningham, whom many will remember in Mr. F. H. Green's gallery, is a practical photographer of good standing, and Mr. Wm. Potter, brother of Mr. J. G. Potter, of St. Andrew's church, is associated with him. Both gentlemen are determined to make this gallery a success. Already the reception room has been made more cosy, and everything will be done for the comfort and convenience of patrons. The room is centrally situated, being on Charlotte street near George, in near the different lines of railway, and being on the ground floor will be found very convenient for ladies and children. All negatives made by Ford & Ford will be kept, and photos can be printed at any time. The finishing department will be fully stocked with finishing materials, and all orders will be promptly filled. The studio was formally opened to-day.

FIRE IN SMITH.

Mr. Jas. Sanderson's Barns Destroyed—A Heavy Loss.

At about three o'clock this morning the barns on the property of Mr. Jas. Sanderson, of Smith Township, broke out in flames, and in a few hours the fine buildings were reduced to ashes, together with a large quantity of hay and between three and four thousand bushels of grain, representing the entire season's threshing. Two head of stock were also consumed, but the implements and the rest of the cattle were saved.

No possible reason can be assigned for the fire, other than that it was caused through the presence of tramps, which belief was caused by the fact that Mr. Mollmoyle, teacher of the section, who boards with Mr. Sanderson, heard strange noises around the house at night, and when the fire broke out footprints were found in the snow leading from the road through the lane to the barn and back again across the field to the road. The footprints from the barn across the field gave evidence of having been made by a man who was running.

When Mr. Mollmoyle first heard the noise he thought it was someone trying to get into the house and loaded his revolver, but on the noise ceasing he dismissed the thought from his mind. Before he went to sleep, however, the glare of the fire was reflected through his window.

The loss to Mr. Sanderson will be very heavy, as there is only $700 insurance on the barn and contents. The insurance is placed in the "Northern" through Mr. W. H. HOLL.

A HEINOUS OFFENCE.

William Cummings Committed to Goal for Five Months at Hard Labour.

William Cummings, who for some time has had a small table of knick knacks in the market hall, was arrested on Saturday on the serious charge of indecently assaulting a little girl of nine years of age.

The evidence was direct and convincing, some four or five witnesses having seen the act committed in the market hall at noon on Saturday, and other witnesses giving evidence as to the previous offences of a like character.

The magistrate imposed a sentence of five months at hard labour in the county gaol.

TOWN VS. MONAGHAN.

The Sewerage Arbitration Difficulty Settled at Last.

On Saturday afternoon, as arranged at the council meeting Friday night, Mayor Davis met the representatives of the North Monaghan council and a settlement of the difficulties, which arose out of the sewer arbitration, was amicably reached.

The town gives a cheque for $225.67 to the township, being the costs of the arbitration and the township gives the town a cheque for $62.50—the amount of the costs in the recent motion in Toronto.

SPORTING PASTIMES.

Hockey and Other Items of Local and General Interest.

HOCKEY.

The Peterborough II. team goes to Norwood to-night to play the return match in the Junior series of the O. H. A. The team will be composed as follows:—Goal, Geo. Dixon; point, R. Glover; cover point, R. Thorne; forwards, Harry King, Chris. Graham, Dick Watt and Wilfred Crossley. It will be observed that the team which the Peterboroughs are sending to Norwood is composed of purely junior players, who have participated in no senior match this year.

The Winnipeg team will arrive in Peterborough from Montreal on the 4.10 afternoon train on the C.P.R. They will be met at the station by Mayor Davis and the officers of the club and driven around the town, after which they will be left at their hotel. The game in the evening starts at 8 o'clock, when the puck will be placed by the mayor, who will give the signal for play to begin. The record which the Winnipeg team has made on its eastern trip is well known and the biggest crowd of the year will doubtless be at the rink to witness the match, at the conclusion of which the visitors will be banquetted.

After the Millbrook hockey club entered the O.H.A. they found that owing to some disagreement between the curlers and the rink owners, the rink would not be running this winter. Rather than let their games go by default, however, they decided to play out the schedule. On Friday night the Millbrookers drove to Lakefield, and after a most stubborn fight, were defeated by a score of 7 to 8. Under the circumstances Millbrook certainly deserves great credit for the plucky fight they made. They had not the slightest practice, having bought their sticks in Peterborough on their way out. When the Millbrook team can put up such a game without practice, it is hard to say what they would have done in the association this year if their rink had been going and they had received some good training. They will meet Lakefield again this week in the Peterborough rink if arrangements can be made.

ASHBURNHAM BRIEFS.

The Ashburnham school board will meet Wednesday evening, January 19th, to organize for the year.

END OF THE CENTURY BARGAINS.

THE PAPAL ENCYCLICAL

Read Yesterday in St. Peter's Cathedral—His Lordship's Lucid Explanation of its Significance.

The Encyclical letter recently issued by His Holiness the Pope, was read in St. Peter's Cathedral at both morning masses yesterday and in the evening His Lordship Bishop O'Connor gave an address explaining its provisions in order to make it more intelligible to popular understanding.

The Bishop gave a most interesting sketch of what may be called the Separate School question from the beginning and the rights conferred in relation to the Separate Schools by the Confederation Act in 1867 and the Manitoba Act in 1870. In the latter act the clause relating to Separate Schools was inserted in the interests of both Catholics and Protestants, as the respective populations were at that time nearly equal. Affairs went on in Manitoba under this Act until 1890, when the Legislature abolished the dual system of Separate Schools. While this may have been accepted by the Protestants, the Catholic people objected. The history of the appeals to the Privy Councils, and the subsequent events which are doubtless still fresh in the public mind, were clearly rehearsed. In regard to the "settlement" that was effected, the Holy Father took unusual pains to inform himself of the real circumstances, and sent out a special delegate to examine into all the circumstances. Upon that report His Holiness, to whom the Bishop paid a high tribute, not only as a saintly ecclesiastic, but as a statesman of brilliant abilities, whose high qualities all men, whether of his faith or not, recognized. The resulting encyclical pointed out with no uncertainty he duty of parents in regard to the education of their children, which was required to be distinctly Catholic in every respect—schools with Catholic teachers and Catholic books—schools pervaded with an atmosphere of Catholic influence.

The encyclical pronounced the so-called settlement and the resulting legislation as insufficient and defective, and far short of what Catholics had a right to demand. The duty of Catholics in regard to the situation was to maintain their ground with firmness and prudence. Whilst the present condition of things was unsatisfactory, a crumb was better than no loaf at all.

OBITUARY.

Death of George Grant, of Dummer, on Tuesday Last.

Another old landmark is gone in the person of Mr. George Grant, who died on the 11th inst. in his 66th year. Mr. Grant was born on the 28th of May, in 1832, in Dummer, and has lived almost continuously in the township ever since. He married in the spring of 1860, Miss Jane Taylor, of Dummer, who survives him. The issue of this union was two of a family, one died in infancy—the other a son, is married and lived in the homestead with his father. Mr. Grant was the last surviving son of the late William Grant, who emigrated from England to Dummer in 1831. He was a consistent member of the Methodist church from his boyhood, and a life long Reformer. Being of a retiring disposition and never aspiring to any public office, he was a quiet and inoffensive neighbour. His aged wife and his son and family have the sincere sympathy of the entire community. The funeral was largely attended on Thursday when the remains were interred in the Warsaw Cemetery. The pall bearers were his four brother-in-laws Messrs. Christopher Crowe, J. J. Crowe, Samuel Smylie and W. C. Doughty.

A NEW MISSIONARY ENTERPRISE.

That has Been Organized Under the Auspices of the Christian Alliance.

Pastor R. V. Bingham, of the People's Baptist Church, of Newburgh, N.Y., addressed the congregation of Bethany Mission at both meetings yesterday. In the morning he spoke from Heb. iv., 9, R. V.—"There remaineth, therefore, a Sabbath rest for the people of God." Although in the future tense when spoken, the apostle states that we which have believed do enter into that rest. From the Old Testament, Mr. Bingham pointed out that the complete observance of the Sabbath involved (1) the entire abandonment of the life to God and (2) the perfect adjustment of man to his fellow-man. This constituted "Rest," and this was a present experience to be enjoyed.

In the evening the hall was filled ere Mr. Bingham began to speak on the theme of missions. After various references to personal experiences in Africa, in which the speaker made earnest appeals for sympathy and help on behalf of the people of that dark land, he briefly outlined a plan of missionary work which, after thorough testing in East Africa, has by its marked success given promise of the solution of the problem of the speedy evangelization of Africa. The method adopted has been to send out with the regular missionary several lay workers who should make it their principal business to raise a revenue for the support of missionary. Up to the present this has been successfully accomplished by adding to the mission station a plantation of from 500 to 1 000 acres, where several hundred natives are employed under direction of missionaries' assistants. Thus while the missionary is seeking to instruct them in the truths of the Gospel, the native himself by his labour is earning a revenue for the support of the mission.

Although the first object of the work is to give the message of salvation to the people, the industrial system has proved a death blow to slavery wherever introduced and at the same time has lifted the native socially and intellectually as well as spiritually. A British Society established less than six years ago reports twelve stations formed, and this year state that they make their last appeal for funds, as the forty missionaries employed are receiving sufficient revenue from the industries to meet their support. All workers gladly labour for a simple maintenance, and all capital realized from the plantation in excess of the expense, goes to establish new stations. Although a Baptist enterprise, at the close of the meeting a number of donations were handed in amounting to about $20, all of which will go to the establishment of a station in Africa in connection with the church represented.

Special prayer meetings will be held in connection with Bethany Mission every night this week except Saturday.

CHURCH CHIMES.

The Christian Endeavour Society of the Charlotte street Methodist church will hold a literary meeting to-night.

The Woman's Auxiliary of the Charlotte street church meets at three o'clock to-morrow afternoon.

An art exhibit and concert will be held by the Junior League of the Charlotte street church on Thursday.

The anthem, "When I survey the Wondrous Cross," by T. C. Jeffers, was well rendered by the George street Methodist church choir last evening. This anthem is the composition of Mr. T. C. Jeffers, a brother of Mrs. Howson, the present organist of the George street church.

MURRAY STREET BAPTIST.

In the Murray street Baptist church yesterday morning Rev. A. T. Dykeman writes as his text: "They that wait upon the Lord shall renew their strength, Isa. 40:31." His heads were as follows:

Of all the necessities of the church, spiritual power is the greatest.

As the soldier needs strength for drill and warfare, so the soldier of Christ needs strength for spiritual warfare.

As the racer needs strength to win the race so the Christian must have strength for the Christian race.

As the servant needs strength in order to give satisfactory service to an earthly master, so we must have spiritual strength in order to give proper service to our heavenly Master.

The Christian must have strength to resist.

We must have strength to endure trials, afflictions, discouragements.

The source of strength: "God's grace is sufficient."

Intellectual and material forces are of no avail against spiritual force.

How to gain strength: They that wait upon the Lord shall renew their strength. "Wait upon" in this case means to look forward to, to expect. We must wait in an attitude of readiness.

There is a waiting of activity. There is also a waiting of inactivity.

The Indians believed that the strength of every white man they killed entered into the Indians who killed him. Every victory we gain over the enemy gives us the greater strength.

We gain strength in prayer.

As a plant when brought into the sunshine grows, so the Christian grows when brought into the sunshine of God in prayer.

"Knowledge is power." We gain strength by the study of God's word. We must be waiting in faith. Touch God by faith in Jesus Christ and divine power will permeate the entire being and transform the sinner into a Christian.

A duet, entitled "The prayer of the Wanderer," was sung by Dr. and Mrs. Scott.

In the evening the subject was "The Good Shepherd," and the text, "I am the good Shepherd." Jno. 10:27. The Jews were thoroughly impressed with the idea that God was their Shepherd. Repeated references were made in the Old Testament to God as a Shepherd.

Qualifications of a good Shepherd: 1st—Watchfulness. In Oriental lands constant watchfulness was necessary in order to protect the sheep from danger. Christ has His eye constantly upon us and sees our danger when we cannot.

2nd—Courage. The Oriental shepherd must be ready to face wild beasts, with which the wilderness was infested, in order to protect his sheep. Christ has faced our great enemy the devil.

3rd—Love for his sheep. So great was the Eastern shepherd's love for his sheep that he was ready to give his life to protect them. Jesus Christ laid down His life for us. The Oriental Shepherd knew his sheep by their names. Christ knows all His sheep individually. It was customary in Oriental lands to brand the sheep. A great divine has said: "Christ's sheep are marked in the ear and in the foot." Ear mark: My sheep hear my voice; Footmark: And they follow Me.

Safety of Christ's sheep: "They shall never perish neither shall any man pluck them out of My hand," Jno. 10:28. The pastor concluded with an earnest invitation to all to come to Christ, the good Shepherd.

The musical programme was carried out as announced in Saturday's issue.

MARK STREET.

Two excellent sermons were preached on on Sunday by the popular pastor, Rev. J. E. Moore, Ph. B. The morning text was "We are labourers together with God," and the evening subject, "God's tender care for old age." The text was very appropriate, being Psalm 37—25: "I have been young and now I am old, yet I have not seen the righteous forsaken, nor his seed begging bread.' Large congregations listened to both services.

The Sabbath school was also well attended. Others will also be made welcome.

Mr. Chas. Noyes will take the E. L. topic at the meeting on Monday evening. All welcome.

Tuesday evening at 7.30 the Prayer Meeting and the Music Committees of the League will meet at the parsonage to arrange topics, leaders, hymns, etc., for the meetings of 1898.

Wednesday afternoon at three o'clock the ladies will meet at the parsonage to organize a Ladies' Aid Society.

The usual church prayer meeting will be held at eight o'clock on Wednesday evening.

On Thursday evening the cottage prayer meeting will be held at Mr. Wand's. It will be led by Mr. J. Batten.

The choir concert will be held in the new town hall on Friday evening. An excellent programme has been arranged. Only a small admission fee will be charged and all will be welcome. Remember the date, Jan. 21st.

CANAL ITEMS.

Items of Interest at Lakefield—The Work Going on.

The work on that portion of the Trent Valley Canal through Lakefield is progressing very favourably at present, and if the fine weather keeps on a large amount of work will be done.

Contractor Aylmer has hopes of striking a gold vein at Lakefield.

A great many complaints are being made with reference to blasting. The stones are blown a great distance, and quite a number of windows have been broken in the village. It is also very dangerous for parties walking anywhere near the canal. The contractors should have the blasts covered to prevent damage.

Mr. Geo. Fitzgerald, foreman, who is building the stone wall between the Lakefield bridge and Hull's mill, is making good progress, and when completed it will be a very neat job.

A steam pump is at work night and day pumping out the water at the lower cut. The steam drill is also at work night and day.

DEBTORS AND CREDITORS.

Two Cases Which Throw Light on Their Relationship With Each Other.

Windsor, Jan. 15.—A short time ago the residence of Charles McLerie was burned, and the insurance money was garnisheed by a number of creditors to whom McLerie had become indebted while he was connected with the Windsor brewery. Mrs. McLerie claimed that the insurance was her own, that it could not be used to pay off her husband's debts. The creditors, however, showed that the husband had been given power of attorney to use his wife's name in his business transactions and claimed that his debts should be met by Mrs. McLerie. The judge took this view of the case, and granted the claims of the creditors.

CURRENCY OF INDIA.

Proposed Note Issue Against Gold to Relieve Stringency.

THE END OF ENGINEERS' STRIKL

Ex-Premier Crispi Makes a Stirring and Patriotic Speech on Italian Unity —Zola's Sensation in France— The Father of the Imperial House Said to be Dying —Cable Notes.

Calcutta, Jan. 15.—Sir James Westland, the Finance Minister of the Council, introduced a bill yesterday providing for the issue of currency notes in India against gold. Mr. Arthur, the paid Secretary of State in London, in behalf of the banks and chambers of commerce, endorsed the measure. The Finance Minister said the Indian money market was experiencing a period of extreme stringency. The local resources, he added, were unable to supply the demands of trade. The scarcity, he explained, was due to the banks remitting their capital home and keeping as little as possible in India.

This policy was adopted before the legislation of 1893, and was not in consequence of that legislation. But, while they were advancing towards the attainment of a 16d rupee this success militated against the transfer of sterling capital to India in exchange. The banks must operate upon commercial principles. Sir James Westland denied the allegation that the Government was holding money in order to starve commerce and force up exchange; but, the recent demands on the Government, he continued, had been so heavy that it had been obliged to ask the Secretary of State to intermit the drawings. The amount in hand was ample to assure the convertibility of the Indian notes. Therefore there was no risk from a currency point of view. In conclusion, the Finance Minister said: "The Secretary of State will draw on the Treasury, if it is requisite, to the full extent to which funds are available. But if the demand continues beyond that point he will, in issuing telegraphic transfers, set apart the gold received and transmit it to this country."

CRISPI ON ITALIAN UNITY.

The Ex-Premier Makes a Stirring and Patriotic Speech.

Palermo, Jan. 15.—A banquet was given here Thursday night in honor of ex-Prime Minister Crispi, who is a Sicilian by birth, in connection with the celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of the Sicilian revolution. Signor Crispi made an important speech, which moved his audience to intense enthusiasm.

The chief point of the speech was the ex-Minister's forcible contention that the unity of Italy was necessary to her existence as a nation. He asked would Sicily gain if she returned to autonomy, and the audience shouted an emphatic "No." Then Signor Crispi fervently declared:

"For us unity is life. Without it our existence would be uncertain. We should be the plaything of the bullies of the world. Surrounded by strong military governments, with the adjacent shore of Africa in the hands of a foreigner, who is strongly fortifying it, the Alps and the two seas would not suffice for our defence, which demands big battalions."

Signor Crispi concluded by urging all Italians to stand shoulder to shoulder round the throne, with the cry of "Long Live the King, Long Live Italy, one and indivisible."

Upon the conclusion of his speech Signor Crispi was greeted with prolonged and enthusiastic cheering.

ENGINEERS HAVE GIVEN IN.

Their Demand for 48 Hours Labor Per Week Withdrawn.

London, Jan. 15.—The committee of the Allied Trades Unions on the initiative of the amalgamated engineers has decided to withdraw the demand for 48 hours of labor per week, and the workmen's officials hope the employers will follow suit, withdraw the lock-out notices, and thus end the greatest labor dispute.

The decision of the committee of the allied unions means the withdrawal of the strikers' principal demand and the immediate or early end of the struggle. The statements of the strikers' representatives, however, are conflicting, as, while the decision mentioned above was announced emphatically at Glasgow and in Manchester, where the employers were advised to that effect, Secretary Barnes of the London Branch of the Amalgamated Society of Engineers declares the announcement is untrue.

The Amalgamated Society of Engineers issued a manifesto last night which ignores yesterday's reports. It merely recites the engineers' contentions and says they are willing to arbitrate the question of hours of work.

A Great Book Free.

When Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N.Y., published the first edition of his great work, The People's Common Sense Medical Adviser, he announced that after 680,000 copies had been sold at the regular price, $1.50 per copy, the profit on which would repay him for the great amount of labour and money expended in producing it, he would distribute the next half million free. As this number of copies has already been sold, he is now giving away, absolutely free, 500,000 copies of this most complete, interesting and valuable common sense medical work ever published—the recipient only being required to mail to him, at above address, 21 one-cent stamps to cover cost of mailing only, and the book will be sent postpaid. It is a veritable medical library, complete in one volume. Contains 1,008 pages, profusely illustrated. The free edition is precisely the same as that sold at $1 50, except only that the books are in strong manilla paper covers instead of cloth. Send now before all are given away.

Napoleon's Loss.

It is said that but for an attack of indigestion, brought on by over eating, Napoleon would have won Waterloo. Great issues depend on good digestion—good digestion depends upon Burdock Blood Bitters. "Two years ago my wife was very ill with dyspepsia. Six bottles of B.B.B. cured her, and she has no return of the malady." WM. DAY, Fort William, Ont.

Jumped or Fell 147 Feet.

New York, Jan. 15.—An unknown man threw himself or accidentally fell from a parapet on the Washington bridge over the Harlem River at 181st street yesterday. The distance from the point where he fell to the water is 147 feet, which is 12 feet further than the distance traveled by the Brooklyn bridge jumpers. The man was fished out by two laborers who saw him fall. He died later in the afternoon.

Stouffville Waterworks.

Stouffville, Ont., Jan. 15.—The Stouffville waterworks were tested yesterday and gave the most complete satisfaction. At the highest point in town, with a 7-8 inch nozzle, the water was thrown 80 feet higher than the highest building; and at the lowest point, where the pressure is more heavy, 50 feet above the highest building.

Died a Natural Death.

Berlin, Jan. 15.—Coroner Webb of Waterloo has received word from Government analyst Dr. Ellis of Toronto stating that no poison was found in the stomach of Paul Fink. The only reasonable conclusion now to be arrived at is that Fink's death was produced by natural causes.

Toronto Gets It.

London, Jan. 15.—Yesterday the Ontario Poultry Association decided to hold its annual show in Toronto next year, and Dr. A. W. Bell of that city was elected president. The show just closed was the most successful in the Association's history, there being over 2,000 entries and grand birds.

FIVE REMARKABLE TREES.

Which Rank Among the Curiosities of Plant Life.

The whistling tree, or Acacia fistula, is found in Nubia and the Sudan. The Arabs call it soffar, or piper, because of the whistling sound that it produces, and the specific name of fistula, a word also meaning pipe or flute, has been given it for the same reason.

Insects infest the tree and deposit their eggs in its shoots. A gall-like excrescence about an inch and a half in diameter is produced at the base of the shoots, and when the larvæ have emerged from circular holes in the sides of the shoots the holes, played upon by the wind, produce a whistling sound equal to that produced by a sweet toned flute.

The cow tree is so called because it yields an abundant supply of milk. To obtain the milk deep incisions are made in the tree, from which the fluid flows into vessels placed ready to receive it. This vegetable milk is white, somewhat viscid and has an agreeable flavor, and an analysis of it shows that it is very much like the milk of a cow in its composition. The cow tree grows on the slope of the mountain chain bordering on Venezuela.

The cloth tree is found at Otaheite, in the south sea. The bark is taken off in long strips and put to soak overnight in running water. The soaking softens it, so that the inner fiber may be easily separated from the rest of the bark. The fibers are put together in lengths of about 11 or 12 yards, and the lengths are placed side by side until they are at least 12 inches in width, and two or three layers of fibers are put one upon another.

The fibers adhere together in one piece, and the material thus formed is beaten upon a smooth piece of wood until it becomes as thin as muslin. It is then bleached in the air for a time, when it is ready to be made up into clothing.

The stinging tree of Queensland is pleasing to the eye, but dangerous to the touch. Its effects are curious. It causes great pain to the person or animal that has the misfortune to get stung by it, but it leaves no wound, no mark of any kind, and for months afterward the part stung is painful in rainy weather or when in any way it gets wet. Frequently it is necessary to shoot horses and dogs that have been stung by the tree, so maddening is its effect upon them.

The angry tree grows in Nevada, eastern California and Arizona. When in the least disturbed, this highly sensitive tree shows its anger by ruffling up its leaves and emitting a disagreeable odor.—D. V. F. in Philadelphia Times.

A Movable Code.

"'Other time, other manner,'" remarked the man in the big leather armchair, "ought to be amended to read 'Other countries, other manners.' Not long ago I went back to the small country town of my boyhood to make a short visit, and while there the whole town was set agog by the appearance of a highly interesting foreigner—a Hungarian of noble birth. No, he wasn't a barber in disguise. He was a genuine titled Hungarian. One of the clever, pretty girls in Smalltown had gone abroad to study music and had there met and made a serious impression on this Hungarian gentleman, who had crossed the water to make her a visit. He held a military position in his own country, and the tails of his military coat, lined with a brilliant red, nearly prostrated the entire community.

"One Sunday morning he accompanied the young lady to church, and of course Smalltown was out in full force to get a good look at him. Certainly his church deportment differed widely from anything ever witnessed in this country. He was seated in the pew with the young woman when her father came down the aisle. As the father entered the pew the tall Hungarian arose, placed his hand across his breast and bent double in a ceremonious bow, then seated himself, the red coattails being much in evidence during the salute. When the girl's mother entered a few minutes later, the same formal reception bow was made to her. As a rule, Americans do not rise and make sweeping bows in church; but, as is evident, such is the Hungarian fashion, and Smalltown was naturally much interested and agitated over this unusual display of foreign manner."—Detroit Free Press.

FIFTEEN YEARS OF AGONY.

Suffering Ended in a Few Weeks by the Use of Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Petrolea, Jan. 10.—From Ingersoll to Petrolea the way is marked at short intervals by houses which are pointed to as those in which Dodd's Kidney Pills have cured cases of Kidney Disease, Bright's Disease, Diabetes or other kidney or blood disorder.

John Russell, a farmer living near here, tells of his cure, after suffering fifteen years with Bright's Disease.

Three doctors treated him; many remedies were tried. All failed.

Then Dodd's Kidney Pills were recommended. He tried them. The invariable result followed. A few boxes cured him.

This story, with variations as to the disease, is told by hundreds in Petrolea. Dodd's Kidney Pills have not been known to fail one yet. Every case has been a cure.

A LIFE FOR LOVE.

Let us live, my dear; let us live and love!
We know not all that the blue skies mean,
But the beautiful lilies loll and lean,
And here is the sunlight on meadows of green
And rivers with silvery ripples between—
A world below and a heaven above.
Let us live, my dear; let us live and love!

Let us live, my dear, for a breath of love!
We know not the meaning of stars and skies.
We only see heaven in Love's glad eyes
And give him our sorrows, our songs and our sighs.
And a red rose is born for each red rose that dies!
For a world below or a heaven above
Let us live, my dear; let us live and love!

Let us live, my dear, in the lonely lands
For a kiss, a tear and a clasp of hands,
For whatever blessings a soul may miss
There is nothing in heaven as sweet as this,
Love's kiss—love's lingering, first sweet kiss.
With a world below and a heaven above
And a life, my dear, that is lived for love!

WANTED, SOME BURGLARS.

They Were Requested to Call and Steal Valuable Heirlooms.

A man rushed into the business office of one of the daily papers and stopped at the advertising window. There he secured a pad of paper and a pencil with a string to it. He wrote and erased, and then tore up what he had written, chewing the fragments savagely while he made another copy.

"There," he said at last, as he thrust the paper into the hand of the advertising clerk, "count the words and tell me what they will cost for one insertion. I reckon that will fetch them."

This was the advertisement:

"Burglars are requested to call some night this week on Mr. and Mrs. Erastus Brown, Ash court. A door and window will be left open and every facility offered for removing the spoils."

"But this is a very unusual form of advertisement," said the clerk, with a troubled look. "I don't know whether to put it under the head of personal or educational. What is your motiv may I ask?"

"My motive?" said the advertiser, "is to get rid of an awful incubus of inherited truck without any responsibility fastened upon me. I might burn the house down, but in that case I would be expected to save the heirlooms or perish with them. Say, young man, were you ever the victim of a legacy?"

"No," said the clerk, with a friendly grin. "What a funny question."

"No old maid aunt ever died and left you a dozen battered silver teaspoons that had come down from Oliver Cromwell?"

"Never!"

"Lucky chap! Never had a solid silver punch bowl bequeathed to you by a bibulous old uncle who was a disgrace to the family while he lived, but promised to return and haunt you if you didn't entertain his comrades once a year out of that bowl?"

"I should say not."

"Nor a great-grandmother who left you a silver soup ladle with a coat of arms of some unknown descent and got a ancestor which must be placed under your pillow every night for safe keeping?"

"No," said the clerk. "I belong to plain, everyday people, and we haven't a coat of arms to our backs."

"Be thankful, young man. You little realize what a blessed lot is yours. To crown our misfortunes, another relative died in Paris last week and left us her diamonds. But I draw the line at diamonds, and so does my wife. We take turns now sitting up with the silver. After the burglars come and clean us out we shall begin to live. Put that advertisement in a good place, and I'll let you know if we hear from it. S'long."—Chicago Times-Herald.

When a Japanese girl marries, she blackens her teeth, thus to a great extent marring and spoiling her beauty. American husbands would not dream of such barbarism, but on the contrary, want their wives to remain beautiful and attractive just as long as possible. In fact, every woman owes it to herself and society to preserve her beauty, attractiveness and amiability to the very end.

Thousands of women fail of this for one great prevalent reason. While they resort to every device to preserve their beauty of complexion by external applications and possibly take the best care of their general health, they are too frequently utterly neglectful of their health in a special womanly way. No woman can remain beautiful, attractive or amiable, who suffers from weakness and disease of the delicate and important feminine organism. A woman who suffers in this way will lose her clearness of complexion, her eyes will become dull, worry and pain will mark her face with wrinkles and she will become nervous, sickly, fretful and despondent. There is a sovereign remedy for all troubles of this description. It is Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

"My illness was caused by lack of medical attention during childbirth. It lasted for a period of three years, during which my suffering was almost indescribable," writes Mrs. Edith Petty, of Texanna, Cherokee Nat., Ind. Ter. "Owing to the injuries received—rupture, internal displacement, etc., I became a physical wreck. I was in a constant state of pain and nervous collapse. I became so nervous I feared insanity. My heart was affected and I had spells of palpitation and smothering. Was reduced in strength and could take no solid food. The doctors told me that recovery was impossible without a surgical operation. My monthly periods ceased entirely. My mother bought a bottle of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. I took twelve bottles. Thanks to an All-wise Providence and Doctor Pierce's medicines, the symptoms have all disappeared. I can now do a hard day's work, eat anything and everything I wish. I regard my recovery as permanent, for it is nearly two years since I stopped taking Dr. Pierce's medicines."

The Old Time Stagecoach.

In 1763 there were, strange as it seems, only six stagecoaches running in all England, and of course these were the only public vehicles for travelers. Even these were a novelty, and a person named John Crosset thought they were such a dangerous innovation that he wrote a pamphlet against them. "These coaches," he wrote, "make gentlemen come to London upon every small occasion, which otherwise they would not do except upon urgent necessity. Nay, the conveniency of the passage makes their wives come often up, who rather than come such long journeys on horseback would stay at home. Then when they come to town they must be in the wade, get fine clothes, go to plays and treats, and by these means get such a habit of idleness and love of pleasure that they are uneasy after." Even people who come to the city on steam cars are sometimes similarly affected by the visit, even unto this day.—Exchange.

A Natural Query.

"I am getting up a little article about men of wealth," explained the reporter, as he entered the great merchant's office, "as a sort of lesson for the young men of today. Would you mind telling me how you got your first real start in life?"

"Not at all, not at all," replied the old man pleasantly. "Do you want the truth, or the regulation biographical romance that is ordinarily used? It's immaterial to me."—Chicago Post.

GOD BLESS YOU, DEAR, TODAY!

If there be graveyards in the heart
From which no roses spring,
A place of wrecks and old gray tombs
From which no birds take wing,
Where linger buried hopes and dreams
Like ghosts among the graves,
Why, buried dreams are dismal things
And lonely ghosts are knaves!

If there come dreary winter days
When summer roses fall
And lie, forgot, in withered drifts
Along the garden wall;
If all the wreaths a lover weaves
Turn thorns upon the brow,
Then out upon the silly fool
Who makes not merry now!

For if we cannot keep the past
Why care for what's to come?
The instant's prick is all that stings,
And then the place is numb.
If life's a lie and love's a cheat,
As I have heard men say,
Then here's a health to fond deceit—
God bless you, dear, today!

Tennyson and Birds.

Agnes Weld, a niece of Tennyson, speaks thus of the poet in The Contemporary Review: "Much as Tennyson noticed every individual tree and plant, bird life had a still greater attraction for him. He was much touched by the fact that the caged linnet loses the red plumage from its head and breast at the first molt after its captivity, and never regains them, and he thought of devoting a whole poem to the deep yearning for liberty of which this was the sign and type. And one reason he climbed almost daily, when at Freshwater, to the summit of the Beacon down was because he loved to watch the wild, free flight of the sea gulls circling around its lofty cliffs."

Contagious Instinct.

MISSIONARY SUNDAY IN METHODIST CHURCHES.

SPECIAL SERMONS IN CHARLOTTE STREET AND GEORGE STREET EDIFICES.

They Were Preached by Rev. Mr. Jolliffe, of Colborne, and Rev. Mr. McIntyre, of Belleville—Interesting Discourses.

Yesterday was missionary Sunday in the local Methodist churches and services were preached to the George street and Charlotte street congregations during the day by Rev. T. W. Jolliffe, of Colborne, and Rev. C. E. McIntyre, of Belleville. Rev. Mr. Jolliffe took the morning sermon in the George street church and in the evening was at Charlotte street church, whilst Rev. Mr. McIntyre appeared in the Charlotte street edifice in the morning and went to George street at night.

Mr. Jolliffe's evening sermon was based on Romans, 1st chap., 16th verse:

"For I am not ashamed of the Gospel of Christ; for it is the power of God unto salvation to every one that believeth; to the Jew first, and also to the Greek."

In opening the speaker referred to the great statue of William Penn, which had been erected in Philadelphia, and which even the highest church steeples. Every word, he argued, that was uttered by the author of the text was worthy of the closest attention. Paul was no common man. He rose infinitely above the men by whom he was surrounded. Not many men rise to a position of greatness, but there are some who, like the statue of Penn, rise above, far above their fellows as in the instance of Paul. His words are worth close study. If there be a passage of scripture that bears the ring of sterling honesty, of loyalty and devotion to Jesus Christ, we have it in the words of the text—"For I am not ashamed of the Gospel of Christ; for it is the power of God unto salvation to every one that believeth."

At the time that Paul uttered these words, everything that contributed to man's temporal necessities was applauded. A great many were ashamed of the gospel on account of the lowliness of the birth of the carpenter of Nazareth—ashamed because of the persecution that fell to the lot of those who boldly announced their faith—ashamed because the teachings were considered too simple, self sacrifice was practiced by those who announced their allegiance to the Lord Jesus; and yet Paul says "I am not ashamed of the gospel of Jesus Christ."

There are those who take no account of missionary Sunday. They say that it is simply a novelty of the present age, but they are mistaken. The first meeting we hear of being held in the habitat of God's holiness was a missionary meeting. It was held for the purpose of finding a missionary. God knew that man had sinned and communed as to how he should find a remedy. Was there any who would undertake man's terrible condition and die for him. Jesus Christ volunteered to undertake the mighty work. He was the first missionary and He offered the grandest sacrifice known to man. He gave Himself that we might be redeemed.

REV. MR. McINTYRE.

In the evening Rev. Charles McIntyre, of Belleville, gave what might be termed "A Mission Talk," in the George street Methodist church. He opened by pointing out that the Missionary Society had used $6,000 in excess of their receipts last year. In the Women's Missionary Society they do not pay out a dollar until they take it in. In the general church missionary society things were run just vice versa. They paid out money before they had it in hand. The Peterborough district gave last year $2,021 57, out of this the George street church gave $633.

The speaker then considered the missions under the auspices of the Methodist church—French, Indian and Foreign. He next referred to the abundance of rich minerals which were locked up by nature in the northern regions. In a very years miners will be settled there. Supplies will of necessity follow, and thus large cities will be formed. Missionaries will then go there with the blessed Gospel and labour for the Master. All Canada was at one time missionary ground, so to speak. This was even the case with Peterborough itself once. The missionaries went from point th point preaching and as a result of their labour self-sustaining circuits sprang up. The guiding principle of the society is to send out a missionary, making him a small allowance or grant. Then the missionary holds meetings and tells the people what he is there for, also stating the missionary society is doing this and asking them to retain the Gospel in their land by helping to support him, so he will be able to expound it to them.

IN A VERY SHORT TIME,

if matters are successfully carried on, it is a self-sustaining circuit. The society has been steadily increasing the number of these circuits and missions. "We will never allow any one to say that the gospel was beyond his or her reach," said Mr. McIntyre.

The Missionary Society has missions in cities. In Belleville north, there is one which a few years ago was almost self-sustaining. This is where most of the Grand Trunk employees lived, but by some change in the management of that company the majority of the leading helpers of the mission were obliged to go elsewhere for employment. This is a great loss to the mission, and now it needs help. They have either to support it from the fund or else shut it up. "Which shall we do?" said he. "If you help us we may be able to carry it on successfully yet." "Oh!" but you say, "it is not far from the city. Let them go there and hear the Gospel." I answer that it is quite a distance from the city, and supposing it were not the Bible says: "Go and preach the Gospel to them," etc.; not, let them come and hear the Gospel.

Reference was then made to the work in Quebec, where those who turn to the Protestant faith and Christianity have so many severe temptations and trials; the the Northwest and French missions, where there was a good deal of the spirit of independence shown shown by the Christian converts at the last elections, when they stood up and told the priests to attend to their own spiritual avocation and not dare interfere with them in their politics. The Indian missions were shown to be in a fair state of prosperity, as were also the Japan and China missions.

Rev. Mr. McIntyre then concluded his remarks by an eloquent appeal for help for the missionaries.

Mr. McIntyre is a most fluent speaker and held the congregation's attention from the beginning to the end.

A LEAGUE OF LIFE

To be Formed by the Residents of Bruce County.

Thousands of Lives Saved by Mr. Davison's Rescue—Society to Protect Life by Means of Dodd's Kidney Pills, Earth's Greatest Medicine.

Wingham, Jan. 17.—Particulars of the marvellous escape of Mr. A. T. Davison, of Lucknow, have been read with intense interest by our citizens. Mr. Davison is well known here, and his scores of friends are heartily congratulating him on his narrow escape. His story, as published a few days ago, is startling in the extreme, and has been the cause of a movement to protect our citizens from dangers such as threatened him.

There are a good many people in Wingham who have been rescued from similar dangers and they are the warmest supporters of the movement. Statistics have been compiled showing that of every ten deaths in this county, nine are caused by some form of Kidney Disease. This is all to be changed.

Since the discovery of the famous cure for kidney diseases the number of deaths from these causes has been greatly reduced. This cure—Dodd's Kidney Pills—is being used with the most wonderful success throughout Canada. It has the record of never having failed.

The movement spoken of is to form a society to make known to victims of Bright's Disease, Diabetes and all other forms of Kidney Disease, that there is a positive, infallible cure for them in Dodd's Kidney Pills. A meeting is to be held shortly, when plans for working will be formulated.

It is not to be wondered at that Dodd's Kidney Pills are exciting such intense interest. They are the greatest medicine on earth beyond a doubt. They are the only remedy that has ever cured Diabetes and Bright's Disease. They have never once failed to cure Rheumatism, Lumbago, Dropsy, Heart Disease, Paralysis, Bladder Troubles, Blood Impurities and Female Weakness.

Dodd's Kidney Pills are sold by all druggists, at 50 cents a box, six boxes for $2.50, or will be sent on receipt of price by The Dodd's Medicine Co., Limited, Toronto.

SURRENDERS TO

OAK HALL — Gough Bros. — OAK HALL

CANADA'S GREATEST HUSTLERS.

"NORTHWARD the Sweep of Conquest Takes its Way!"

We come before the public again with an announcement so important—so sensational in its effect—that it leaves no room for doubt that the battle of business means THE SURVIVAL OF THE FITTEST.

We announce with pleasure the purchase of the Stock of the Millionare Santord's Clothing Company in Peterborough, known as "OAK HALL," Corner of George and Hunter Streets, by which we come into possession $16,430 Worth of Clothing OF UNMATCHABLE EXCELLENCE Purchased at a Rate on the Dollar of 62½ CENTS On the Manufacturer's Cost.

The offer of the Sanford Company to buy out Oak Hall has been open to us for some time. It has been known that this wealthy firm have been anxious to close up their Peterborough Branch rather than continue the fight against competition such as GOUGH BROS. have always put up. With a constituency extending over Ontario, and forming the largest syndicate of Clothing dealers in Canada, it was a mistake to plant an "Oak Hall" acorn alongside the Dauntless Goughs. And so, another rich scalp has been added to GOUGH BROS.' belt. And so, "The Corner" has been cornered again by the Wonderful Cheap Men.

To Wake Up the Town

ON WEDNESDAY MORNING, JANUARY 12th, we inaugurate a Clean Sweep of the whole of Oak Hall's stock—from the roof through every floor to the basement—from the door strip in front to the wall at the back. It begins and stops at the end.

Everything goes! Necessity has no law. Manufacturer's Prices dashed down without mercy! Not a garment left if we can prevent it.

A TRIUMPHANT SALE!

—A Sale to wake up the Town—a Sale that will be without precedent and hopelessly out of reach of competition—beyond the possibility of an equal in this or any other portion of Canada.

A Clothing Blizzard—Sweeping Oak Hall Counters and Shelves at Prices a QUARTER and a T[illegible] original values.

THE QUALITY of this High Class Stock of Clothing will speak—you can be absolutely sure of that. It all bears the label of the Sanford Manufacturing Company. You might be able to get as good Clothing in one or two other stores in Canada, but you can never equal the Clothing and our Prices both together. While it was a notorious fact that Oak Hall never could match or undersell GOUGH BROS., it was acknowledged that their Clothing always took high rank among the Highest Class Goods of America.

THIS SALE, therefore, appeals to the best class of people, who desire to put the stamp of their approval on HIGH QUALITY.

We want a Great Sale—a Great Crowd—a Great Celebration of our latest Famous Victory! The Millionare Merchant Clothier's Sacrifice to GOUGH BROS. will put many a coin in the pockets of those who buy during this Triumphant Sale. Don't forget to follow the Mile Posts to Well Done People's Grocery!

You deserve the thanks of the people for the grand bill of fare you presented to the public at the Christmas Season, and for the nicely dressed window you have; the display of Turkeys, geese and other fowl was simply grand and I am not surprised that you did such a good trade and sold a lot of goods. I saw a load of Hogs at your door the other day, fat, and nicely dressed, what do you intend to do with them? Well, we pickle them, and then smoke them, then sell the Hams and Bacon; and let me whisper a secret to you, the people that buy them year after year, say there is nothing to equal them sold in this town.

Well what about Canned Goods? I see they are quoted $1.00 a doz. in Toronto. Can you supply them 3 for 25c.? Yes, and we promise to supply the people at that price as long as they last, for we have a large stock of this season's goods, which we bought at Snap Prices.

MINES IN THE YUKON.

The Amended Regulations for Their Governance.

THE CASE OF MRS. STERNAMAN.

Hearing the Plea for Commutation—Dr. Thompson's Affidavit—Fluid Found in the Thoracic Cavity of the Body—His Excellency Gets the Case To-day—Ottawa News.

Ottawa, Jan. 18.—Amended regulations governing placer mining along the Yukon River and its tributaries, including the Klondike, as well as all other parts of the Yukon territory, were adopted in Council on Saturday, and will be printed and available in a week or two. The main points and most important changes are covered by the following summary: Every miner and employe of a miner will require to take out a miners' certificate, the fee for which will be $10; in the case of a company it will be $50 or $100, according to the amount of capital stock. A miners' license will confer a right to mine, fish, hunt and cut timber necessary for mining. Provision will be made for obtaining miners' certificates at a number of cities and towns, such as Montreal, Ottawa, Toronto, Winnipeg, Calgary, Vancouver and Victoria. The general size of mining claims will be 250 feet; discoverers' claim 500 feet. Every alternate ten claims shall be reserved by the Government of Canada. Sub-aqueous mining leases will be issued in five-mile sections, with a fee of $100 per mile per annum, and the usual royalty. The fee for recording and renewing mining claims will be $15. Any number of miners, not less than five, more than 100 miles distant from the office of a mining recorder, may appoint a recorder, who will record claims, and within three months transfer the record and fees to the nearest mining recorder. A royalty of 10 per cent. on the gold mined shall be levied and collected by Government officers appointed for the purpose; but provision is made for the exemption on the annual product of any mining claim up to $2,500, so that claims which do not produce more than $2,500 a year will not be liable for royalty. Provisions are made to prevent speculation in claims by throwing a claim open to entry which has not been worked a certain number of days, unless reasonable cause is shown, and by providing that a record shall not be issued for more than one claim to any miner in the same locality. There are other provisions guarding the public interest and revenue, and at the same time affording the most ample facilities for mining the enormous wealth of the Yukon.

MRS. STERNAMAN'S CASE.

Mr. German and Rev. Mr. Foote at Ottawa Trying to Save Her.

Ottawa, Jan. 18.—Last night the Ministers of the Crown deliberated on the fate of the unhappy woman who is lying in Cayuga Jail under sentence of death. To-day His Excellency will have the case in his hands. For nearly three hours yesterday morning Mr. German, M.P.P., counsel for Mrs. Sternaman, and Rev. Mr. Foote, whose church she attended, were engaged with the Minister of Justice and Messrs. Blair, Scott and Sir Louis Davies, discussing the question of executive clemency. Mr. German reviewed the evidence and made a very strong plea for commutation. He put in an affidavit from Dr. Thompson of Cayuga, the coroner, stating that he had found a quart of fluid in the thoracic cavity of the body, notwithstanding that it was sworn to at the trial that there was no fluid there. This fluid must have been injected by the undertaker, Snider. Dr. Harrison swore at the trial that there was no fluid in the body. Dr. Thompson did not mention this at the court because it was not asked of him. At the time he was not aware of the evidence of Dr. Harrison.

Mr. German also spoke at length on the fact that while Mrs. Sternaman knew that the embalming of the body in Buffalo would have destroyed all traces of poisoning, she did not do so, but brought it to his mother's place of residence.

Rev. Mr. Foote strongly urged the moral life of the woman as exceptionally upright, and further pointed out the friendly relations existing with her first husband and family.

Mr. German in conversation last night said: "Perhaps the wish may be father to the thought, but I am rather inclined to think that on the whole Mrs. Sternaman's death sentence will be commuted. I secured no definite opinion, of course, from the committee of Council, but rather incline to this opinion from what I saw. I was closely questioned on all points; and as to the feeling in the west, I am bound to say that if the sentence takes its course it will not be in line with public sentiment there."

9,000 OPERATIVES OUT

With the Serious Prospects of 125,000 Altogether Before the Cotton Strike Ends—Dirt-Throwing.

Boston, Jan. 18.—A reduction in the wages of about 125,000 operatives employed in nearly 150 cotton mills in New England which the manufacturers decided upon as a temporary remedy for a widespread depression in the cotton goods industry of the north, went into effect in a majority of the mills yesterday morning. In several mill centres, namely, New Bedford, Biddeford, Saco and Lewiston, Maine, dissatisfaction among the mill hands is intense and strikes are on. The 18 mills of the former city, which give employment to about 9,000 hands, have been shut down because the operatives have refused to accept the reduction, and the contest thus inaugurated promises to be one of the most stubborn in the history of the textile industry.

The situation in New Bedford is viewed from a very gloomy light by the depression which followed the failure of six mill corporations last spring. The 8,500 employes at the Laconia and Pepperell mills in Biddeford, Me., yesterday refused to go to work under the new schedule, and it is thought the strike there will not be settled easily. Some of the employes of the York mills of Saco also joined the Biddeford movement.

Dirt-Throwing at New Bedford.

New Bedford, Jan. 18.—A shut-down, the most complete in the history of the cotton mills of New Bedford, began yesterday morning. Not a spindle is turning, not a loom in motion in the factories of the cloth portions an hour after the usual time of beginning work. Nine corporations, operating 18 mills, in which upwards of 9,000 hands are employed, are involved in the strike. The cut-down is uniform all over the city, ten per cent. The total pay roll of these corporations is estimated at $70,000 weekly.

Both manufacturers and operatives seemed to be well prepared for the strike, and the situation was treated in a very matter-of-fact manner by both sides.

Only at the Acushnet mills gates did any disturbance occur, and that did not prove serious, although the managers were jeered loudly, and some frozen dirt and sticks were thrown about, but no one was hurt.

ELECTION CAMPAIGN.

Hon. R. Harcourt Enthusiastically Renominated.

HAVE THE PRESAGE OF VICTORY.

West York Liberals Meet—Mr. Robert Ferguson Again the Liberal Candidate for East Kent—Hon. Mr. Harcourt's Speech at Wellandport—A Veteran Liberal—The Other Side.

Toronto, Jan. 18.—Another member of the Ministry was renominated in his old constituency yesterday, namely, Mr. Harcourt in Monck. The Provincial Treasurer, whose brilliant management of the financial interests of the Province during the last two Parliaments has contributed materially to the popularity and strength of the Mowat and Hardy Governments, faced an enthusiastic convention, and may be depended upon to wage a vigorous and successful campaign in his county.

In West York, too, a meeting was held yesterday that seemed to have a presage of victory about it. Mr. James McMullen, M.P., Mr. A. Campbell, M.P., and Mr. W. J. Hill, the popular Liberal candidate for the riding, were the leading speakers of the afternoon.

Mr. Robert Ferguson, who has held East Kent true to the Liberal cause for a dozen years past by overwhelming majorities, was also renominated yesterday, and a plain, effective statement of the affairs of the province was laid before the electors by the Provincial Secretary, Hon. E. J. Davis.

In Toronto the Liberal party is alert and active. The annual banquet of the Young Liberal Club will be held to-morrow evening at the Rossin House, and strong and effective addresses may be looked for from Sir Richard Cartwright and Premier Hardy, who will be the leading speakers of the evening.

HON. RICHARD HARCOURT

Again Nominated in His Old Constituency—His Enthusiastic Reception and Rousing Speech.

Wellandport, Ont., Jan. 18.—The largest Liberal convention that was ever held in the County of Monck was held here yesterday, when it was moved by Augustus Hyett, Reeve of Pelham, seconded by George Brooks, Reeve of Camboro, That the Hon. R. Harcourt be again chosen as Liberal candidate for the coming election. He accepted the nomination amid loud applause, after which the following gentlemen addressed the audience: William Gibson, M.P. for Lincoln; J. T. Middleton, M.P.P., East Hamilton; John Brown, ex-M.P. for Monck; Donald Macnish, M.P.P. for West Elgin, and Hon. R. Harcourt.

When Mr. Harcourt rose to speak the gathering "whooped it up." They did not "rise as one man," according to constitutional practice, because they were all standing and had been for three hours, but they cheered the louder to make up for that omission. Mr. Harcourt spoke warmly in acknowledgment of the confidence reposed in him by the delegates, many of whom had known him from his boyhood. He adverted to the temperance question, citing the advances that had been made by the Government and dwelling particularly upon the new License Act, which was a great advance in temperance legislation, raising the age limit from eighteen to twenty-one, lowering the number of licenses from one for each 400 population to one per 600, preventing the granting of licenses near churches and schools or in residential districts, closing saloons, shortening the hours of sale, restricting druggists, etc. Mr. Harcourt referred to the timber policy of the Government and the large revenue secured by the province from the disputed territory won for it by Sir Oliver Mowat; to the efficiency and economy of the administration of public institutions, and the satisfactory condition of the finances of the province. The meeting adjourned with hearty cheers.

A Veteran Liberal.

A picturesque figure at the convention was Mr. S. G. Wiggins of Wellandport, a handsome, keen-eyed, clear-headed veteran of 83 years, still full of the fire of Mackenzie's rebellion. When any particularly good point was made by the speakers his deep-toned, cheery, characteristic "hear, hear" rang through the hall and gave that encouragement so dear to the campaigner. Mr. Wiggins is the man who, when Mr. Laurier was speaking at Welland a few years ago, kept himself in as long as he could, then rose to his feet, and, waving his white hat aloft, cried "The spirit of William Lyon Mackenzie is hovering over us." The echoes of the cheer that then rang through the hall have not died out in this county yet. Mr. Wiggins was born at Lundy's Lane, and the battlefield was his playground.

In East Kent.

Thamesville, Ont., Jan. 18.—The annual meeting of the East Kent Liberal Association was held here yesterday in the Ferguson Opera House. Mr. R. Ferguson, M.P.P., was the only one whose name brought before the convention, and he received the unanimous nomination of the Reformers of East Kent for the fifth time.

After the nomination addresses were made by Mr. Ferguson, Hon. E. J. Davis, J. F. Lister, M.P., and Messrs. Rankins, Walker and McCully.

Almost Distracted

Dreadful Suffering by a Newmarket Woman.

The Bones in the Nose Affected—Face Would Swell Until Her Eyes Were Closed—Now Relieved.

NEWMARKET, ONT.—"I have had a good opportunity of noting the great medicinal powers of Hood's Sarsaparilla. My wife has been a sufferer from catarrh for the past four years, and the disease had gone so far that the bones of the nose had become affected and particles had come away through an opening in the left side. Her eyesight was also affected to the extent that for nearly a year she was unable to read for more than five minutes at a time. She suffered and at times was almost distracted. She was treated by four different doctors, one of whom was a specialist. They all said they could not do anything for her, as the disease had gone too far. Her nose would swell about every three days until her eyes would almost be closed. Then it would break through and the swelling would subside for a day or two. About Christmas she commenced taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, and since that time has steadily improved. She has not been troubled with any swelling since, and the sore on the side of the nose has all healed. She is on the road to a complete cure. I cannot speak too highly of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and I cheerfully recommend it to any person who is suffering with catarrh." W. H. FURBIER.

HON. G. W. ROSS IN THE OPERA HOUSE.

Unusual interest will be taken in the announcement that Hon. G. W. Ross, Minister of Education, and Mr. J. R. Stratton will address a mass meeting of electors in the interests of the Hardy-Ross Government and the Liberal candidate for West Peterborough, in the Opera House, Thursday, Jan. 27th. Hon. Mr. Mr. Ross is one of the most capable Ministers of the Government, and one of the best, if not the best, and most effective speakers on political subjects in Canada. He is a most ready, brilliant and convincing orator and the Opera House should be crowded to listen to an able and exhaustive exposition of the public questions now engaging the attention of the people of this Province. Ladies will be made welcome and assigned to seats in the gallery.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

ARE you on the voters' list?

LOOK out for the date of registration.

IT takes a Hardy Government to stand the storm.

THE revised edition of the "gospel" of St. John is to be bound in pig.

THE fate of Ananias should be taken to heart by some campaign orators.

IF you are not a voter in the municipal elections you have a chance to register.

ALL that Mr. Whitney has left of his timber policy is the stump—and the deuce of it is he can't collect the dues.

THE Ontario Government can't, perhaps, make the bad boys in the Reformatory angels, but they are aiming to make them the next best thing—farmers.

ACCORDING to the Mail and Empire and the other organs, the Ontario Opposition practically runs the Government. They might tell us therefore the exact date of the elections.

THE rumour that Ananias is dead is evidently without foundation. Otherwise one can't account for a great deal that appears in the Mail and Empire.

MR. WHITNEY in riot of imagination placed the cut of American lumbermen in the Georgian Bay district at 600 million feet. Hon. Mr. Gibson, dispensing with imagination and depending upon carefully prepared reports of departmental officers, placed the cut of American lumbermen in the Georgian Bay district at a quarter of that amount, or 68 million feet less than last year. To make sure, the Opposition always make their yarns large enough.

Mr. Whitney, leader of the Opposition, went into the session that closed yesterday with a "little bit" of prestige. His summer tour, in which his bravado on the stump met with no contradiction—the statistical mysteries of Col. Matheson and St. John's then unchallenged pig prodigies, standing by themselves and uncontradicted, had a certain sort of weight. Many a foolish man, when he speed his horse by himself along the highway, argues himself into the belief that he has a flyer, but when his nag runs up against a horse that really can go the illusion is dispelled. Mr. Whitney and his confreres on the tump last summer had everything their own way, but when brought to book in the House and their reckless statements squared with facts, they found both themselves and their fairy tales discredited. Mr. Whitney and his friends have made but a sorry exhibition in the House. Their piggery issue has run suddenly down a steep place into the sea of investigation and become choked. Their saw log policy has resulted in a "jam." The Opposition declared that the auditing of public accounts was a sham, and they proved their case. They made the Public Accounts Committee a sham by making it a means of wasting time, and to prove that there was even a greater sham, St. John and his precious piggery humbug. It is small business to write of such matters, but they have been, and are still, the stock in trade of the Ontario Opposition. They challenged the attention of the House with such issues, and if the people accept such issues as a standard to judge them by, they have only themselves to blame. If the people felt the slighest inclination to dispense with the services of the present Government, the antics and attitude of the Opposition, who are applying for the position, would turn them from their purpose.

HARVEY

Council Meeting.

From Our Own Correspondent.

The Harvey council elect met at the town hall on January 10th, as provided by the Ontario statutes. The members made, subscribed and filed their several declarations of qualification and office with the clerk and took their seats at the council board. Minutes of last meeting read and confirmed. On motion a bylaw was passed re-appointing W. P. Chase and John Elliott as auditors for 1898. On motion a bylaw received the several readings re-appointing the clerk, treasurer, assessor and collector and passed. A bylaw was passed appointing health officers for 1898, viz.: A. G. Shearer, reeve (ex officio), Jas. Cairnduff, clerk (ex-officio), John Smith, Samuel Guthrie, sen., and Jas. A. Purdy. C. E. Bonnell, M.D., was re-appointed medical health officer. On motion the reeve was instructed to attend the land sales for taxes in arrear, on behalf of the interests of the municipality. On motion W. T. Elliott was appointed to examine and sell the timber on the 10th concession line between lots nine. The following accounts were read and orders drawn on the treasurer for payment, viz.:—C. E. Bonnell, salary as medical health officer, 1897, $50.00; Lewis & Pearson, repairs on road scraper, per Adams, 75 cents; James Cocos, deputy returning officer, expenses Poll No. 1, municipal election 1898, $5.00; H. A. Cairnduff, deputy returning officer, expenses Poll No. 2 and rent, 1898, $3.00; Nathaniel Pearson, rent of house Poll No. 3, municipal election, 1898, $2.50. On motion the council adjourned, to meet at the clerk's office on Monday, February 14th, 1898.

Mr. Beechinor was in a Terrible Condition.

Could Not Walk or Put His Hand to His Mouth.

Six Bottles of Nature's Medicine Effect a Complete Cure.

A STRIKE AND CONVINCING LETTER.

WELLS & RICHARDSON CO.,

DEAR SIRS:—For five years I suffered from sciatica and rheumatism, at times being so bad that I could not walk or put my hand to my mouth. If I attempted to do any work I would be crippled for weeks. I took medical treatment, Turkish and mineral baths, but all failed to meet my case. Some time ago I tried Paine's Celery Compound, and after using six bottles I feel like a new man, and can do a hard day's work and feel none the worse for it. I have also gained in weight and can say I am permanently cured.

Yours truly,

LOCKHART'S RETURN.

Sir Power Palmer Will Succeed to the Command in India.

HIS DISTINGUISHED CAREER.

The Cost of War Must Not Deter Britain From Keeping the Door of Chinese Commerce Open, Says the Chancellor of the Exchequer—A Soudan Capture—Cable News.

Calcutta, Jan. 18.—Sir William Lockhart, after completing the report on which he is engaged, concerning the future Indian frontier policy and the measures to be adopted, will return to England on three months' leave. Gen. Sir Power Palmer will act during his absence, being succeeded in his present command by General Elles. The force will otherwise remain unchanged, except for a temporary reduction of the headquarters staff.

Sir Power Palmer has been commander of the Punjab frontier force since 1895. He is now in his fifty-eighth year. He entered the Indian army in 1857, and during the mutiny he served with Hodson's Horse. In 1868 he was on the North-west frontier. He served in the Abyssinian war from 1867 to the end of 1868; was with the Duffla expedition in 1894 and commanded the Chin Hills expedition of the previous year. He also served during the Afghant war, 1878, and in the Soudan expedition, 1885. He received the rank of Major-General in 1893.

Even at the Cost of War.

London, Jan. 18.—The Right Hon. Sir Michael Hicks-Beach, Chancellor of the Exchequer, speaking at Swansea last night, echoed the declaration of Mr. Balfour, First Lord of the Treasury, on the Indian policy of the Government, at Manchester, and said the Government was determined, even at the cost of war, that the door of Chinese commerce should not be shut to Great Britain.

Dervish Post Captured.

London, Jan. 18.—A special despatch from Cairo says a party of friendly natives has captured the Dervish post at Sarfich, making ten prisoners and obtaining possession of quantities of supplies.

The Notes Were Forged.

London, Jan. 18.—At yesterday's hearing of the suit brought by Mr. Daniel Jay against Lady Tatton Sykes, most of the time was occupied with expert evidence to the effect that the signatures were forged. Sir Tatton's Yorkshire banker testified that the notes were forged, and the Monte Carlo cheques, previously referred to during the trial, were forged, adding that when Sir Tatton Sykes' attention was called to the matter he gave a genuine cheque for £9,000 in place of them.

Reindeer for the Klondike.

Copenhagen, Jan. 18.—An agent of the Canadian Government named Lowis is organizing an expedition (for the relief of the miners in the Yukon valley) similar to the one undertaken by Dr. Sheldon Jackson, in behalf of the United States Government. Six Laplanders and 114 reindeer are already en route.

Countess Russell Dead.

London, Jan. 18.—Frances Anna Maria, Dowager Countess Russell, widow of the celebrated Lord John Russell, is dead.

The Dowager Countess Russell was a daughter of the second Earl of Minto. She was born in 1815, and married Lord John Russell, as his second wife, in 1841. Lord John Russell died in 1878.

Serious Earthquake in Italy.

London Jan. 18.—A special despatch from Rome says there was a severe earthquake yesterday at Argenta, 18 miles southeast of Ferrara. A church and several buildings were wrecked and some persons were injured.

DR. BESSEY ACQUITTED.

Justice Rose Took the Case From the Jury and Discharged Him.

Toronto, Jan. 18.—Dr. William E. Bessey, of 48 Carlton street, was yesterday afternoon acquitted in the Criminal Assize Court of the charge of performing a criminal operation on Mrs. Jane Thomas, who lived at 187 Church street.

The evidence put in by J. K. Kerr, Q.C., Crown Prosecutor, was mostly medical, being that of Dr. Primrose, Dr. Dwyer and Dr. Brown.

After the latter had concluded J. I. Faulds, who, with Joseph Wright, appeared for the defence, argued that the Crown had not made out any case to go to the jury. Justice Rose concurred, and took the case from the jury.

FIFTEEN YEARS OF AGONY.

Suffering Ended in a Few Weeks by the Use of Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Petrolea, Jan. 10.—From Ingersoll to Petrolea the way is marked at short intervals by houses which are pointed to as those in which Dodd's Kidney Pills have cured cases of Kidney Disease, Bright's Disease, Diabetes or other kidney or blood disorder.

John Bassell, a farmer living near here, tells of his cure, after suffering fifteen years with Bright's Disease.

Three doctors treated him; may remedies were tried. All failed.

Then Dodd's Kidney Pills were recommended. He tried them. The invariable result followed. A few boxes cured him.

This story, with variations as to the disease, is told by hundreds in Petrolea. Dodd's Kidney Pills have not been known to fail one yet. Every case has been a cure.

The Best Ever Used.

MESSRS. T. MILBURN & Co.

DEAR SIRS,—I can recommend Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup as the very best medicine for coughs and colds, sore throat and weak lungs, which I have ever used.

Yours truly,
WM. FERRY, Manheim, Ont.

Hagyard's Yellow Oil cures sprains, bruises, sores, wounds, cuts, frostbites, chilblains, strings of hamsts, burns, scalds, sore nipples, etc. Price 25c.

TO BANISH DYSPEPSIA.

A Treatment of Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets Alone is Needed.

When it rains you use your umbrella. When it is snowy, slushy you use your rubbers. When it is cold you use your furs. People who are equally sensible in all respects use Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets when they have Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Biliousness, Heartburn, Sour Stomach, Nausea, Insomnia, Sick Headache, Flatulence or Nervous Prostration.

One or more of the members of every family in Canada suffer from one or other of these diseases. All their sufferings can be relieved, their diseases totally and permanently cured in every case, by the use of Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets. Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Sick Headache, etc., can be banished utterly from Canada, if the sufferers will each take a couple of Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets after each meal.

Think of it! The health and happiness of almost the entire nation is dependent on Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets. This is not an opinion. It's a fact.

Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets are the one and only remedy before the public to-day, that will positively, infallibly cure Indigestion, Dyspepsia and the other stomach troubles named above.

No undigested food can lie in the stomach if Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets be used. The first one taken begins the work of digesting it. The stomach rests and gains new strength and vigor. The bowels are regulated. In from one to three or four weeks you are cured for all time. You forget what dyspepsia or indigestion is, or what a sick headache feels like.

Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets are sold by all druggists, or will be sent on receipt of price fifty cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50, by The Dodd's Medicine Co., Limited, Toronto.

$30,000 A YEAR.

Ontario Gains This Amount by the Present Method of Dealing With Neglected Children.

Toronto, Jan. 18.—The report of the Department of Neglected and Dependent Children, which was presented to the Ontario House in manuscript, states that there are now 608 children in foster homes throughout the province and that the various Children's Aid Societies are doing a splendid work in the aggregate for neglected and homeless children. The principle of finding homes for children instead of keeping them in institutions for a number of years meets with continued favor from all classes, and is effecting a very substantial saving of public funds. It is estimated that if half of the children who are now in foster homes had been kept in institutions, the annual maintenance for them would be over $30,000, and, taking the past four years, the cost would have been fully $100,000. By finding homes for these children without unnecessary delay, the cost of large and expensive buildings and of many officials is avoided. The benefit to the children themselves, which, after all, is the chief consideration, is very pronounced.

Scott's Emulsion is not a "baby food," but is a most excellent food for babies who are not well nourished.

A part of a teaspoonful mixed in milk and given every three or four hours, will give the most happy results.

The cod-liver oil with the hypophosphites added, as in this palatable emulsion, not only to feeds the child, but also regulates its digestive functions.

Ask your doctor about this.

CATARRH! F. F. C. C.

Forsyth's Faultless Catarrh Cure.

A POSITIVE CURE FOR CATARRH AND COLD IN THE HEAD.

This effective remedy for Catarrh and Cold in the head is a fume inhalent—it goes direct to the seat of disease and gives relief in a marvellously quick time. It will cure the slightest cold in the head almost instantly, and, if faithfully and persistently used, it will cure the most stubborn and long standing cases of chronic catarrh of the head—it never fails to do its work—it is easily applied—it is harmless to use—you simply take a small portion of the remedy in the palm of the hands, rub the hands together, then partly open them and inhale the fumes from the remedy into the throat and nose, and rub a little of the remedy on sides of the nose and temples.

Dear Sir—I have been using catarrh remedy of different kinds for the last fifteen years, but find "Forsyth's Faultless Catarrh Cure" the best I have used, and have no hesitation in recommending it to any one troubled with catarrh or cold in the head.

Yours sincerely,
W. HARPER,
Hardware Merchant.
Lakefield, Ont., Feb. 7, 1896.

JOHN FORSYTH, Berlin:

Dear Sir—I take much pleasure in certifying to the great benefit I have derived from the use of your cure for catarrh. It has done me more real benefit than all the medicine I have taken, and I am completely cured now.

Yours faithfully,
ROBERT FOWLER,
Orillia, Sept. 12, 1896.

Dear Sir—I take pleasure in giving my testimonial to the efficacy and value of Forsyth's Faultless Catarrh Cure. I was induced through a friend to give it a trial for catarrhal cold in the head; the result was marvellous. I cannot speak too highly of its merits. I can faithfully recommend it to anyone troubled with chronic catarrh or cold in the head.

Yours truly,

High-Grade Cemetery Work
AT A MODERATE PRICE.

The element of permanence which attaches to the erection of any memorial to the dead renders it highly desirable that no mistake be made in the selection either of design or of materials.

A mistake is a serious matter. Let us help you to make a right decision. Our specialty is the erection of monuments which are unique without being grotesque, and artistic without being over-decorated.

We manufacture from all first-quality granites, and as WE SELL DIRECT TO CUSTOMERS we save the latter all agents' profits. Then, too, there is a decided advantage for the buyer in dealing with one responsible firm for both the manufacture and the setting of a monument.

All our work is guaranteed, NO CHARGE being made if not strictly according to contract. Write us for designs and estimates.

MR. C. B. McALLISTER'S (IMPORTED) "MELPHIS."

For the last several days a large number of those interested in the success of the Exhibition have been working in the Market Hall, where the show is being held, and the change effected in the place is such as to reflect great credit on the zeal of those who have so kindly lent their efforts to aid in the work. The northern half of the hall is lined with benching and partitioned off for the dogs and a double row of benching also runs across the hall from the doorways. In the space thus enclosed, the two prize rings have been erected and in them Mr. Chas. S one, of Toronto, will judge:—Mastiffs, St. Bernards, Great Danes, Greyhounds, Foxhounds, Beagles, Setters, (English and Irish), Dachshunds, Collies, Pugs and Bull Dogs. Mr. Herbert P. Mullens, of Toronto, will take Spaniels, (all kinds), Fox Terriers, Bull Terriers, Terriers (any variety) and Miscellaneous.

The entries for the Dog Show are most gratifying—between a hundred and a hundred and fifty being received. All of these were benched this morning and in consequence pandemonium reigned in the Market Hall to-day as each district specimen seemed desirous of drawing attention to itself as the crowds pressed past the benches.

A large number of the dogs shown are owned in Peterborough, but the majority are from outside points. The two Mastiffs entered are owned by Mr. Geo. Pratley and Mr. Samuel Munro, both of town.

There are no less than 16 St. Bernards and some remarkably fine specimens are on exhibition. The owners are Archdeacon Casey, J O Grant, Wm Steeksdale, R E Wood, W G Sime, E H White and Wm Head, all of town; Rev A W McKenzie, Lakefield; Thos J Lilly, Port Hope; Unique Kennels, Colborne; J R Clemens, Hastings; P Bighirst, Hastings; Philip Hart, Belleville; Mrs. H A Bates, Kingston; Thos J Lilly, Port Hope, and H G Charlesworth, Toronto.

MR. HENRY DENNE RE-ELECTED PRESIDENT.

OF THE LITTLE LAKE CEMETERY COMPANY.

The Annual meeting was Held and Reports Submitted Concerning the Work of the Year—The Election of Officers.

The annual meeting of the Little Lake Cemetery Company was held yesterday afternoon in the council chamber, with President Henry Denne in the chair.

After the reading and confirmation of the minutes of the last meeting,

THE DIRECTOR'S REPORT

Was read by Mr. E. A. Peck, Secretary-Treasurer, as follows:

To the Shareholders of the Little Lake Cemetery Company.

GENTLEMEN—The Directors of the Company beg to submit the following report for the past year.

They are pleased to state that arrangements were finally completed with the Peterborough Water Company for a supply of water for the ground, etc. The agreement made with the Water Company was for a supply of water for five years and provided that the Cemetery Company should pay the Water Company $20 towards the extension of the water main and should also pay annually $50, the Water Company agreeing to furnish water for the grounds and for drinking fountain between 20th of April and October during such five years and for house purposes during the whole period.

A drinking fountain, the need of which has been felt for years, has been erected.

In order to connect the Water Company's mains with the water service in the grounds and fountain, etc., an expenditure of $281 was necessary. The grant to the Water Company and the expenditures for fountain and connection of the water services as mentioned are, it is to be observed, for permanent improvements and are expenditures out of the ordinary character.

If the payments were excluded from the financial statement which is submitted, the balance in favour of the Company in the year's operations would be $350.00.

In recognition of the services of the Superintendent, an addition to his salary of $40.00 per annum has been made taking effect from the 1st March last.

The Directors desire to record their deep regret at the loss the Board has sustained by the death of Mr. John Burnham, Q. C., who has been a member of the Board for the past eleven years.

Dated the 17th day of January, 1898.

Submitted on behalf of the Board of Directors.

HENRY DENNE,
President.

The report was adopted.

THE FINANCIAL STATEMENT

Also a main of 1¼ inch pipe of 125 feet from the lodge on Maple avenue to the intersection of Lake avenue and three hydrants erected, and 125 feet of 1¼ inch pipe on Oak avenue to connect the mains on Oak and Conger avenues, and 100 feet of 1¼ inch pipe leading from Lake avenue to the lake for a blow off pipe, making a total of 2,148 feet of pipe laid in 1897 and 21 hydrants erected. Pipe laid previous to 1897—1,952 feet of 1¼ inch pipe, 3,965 feet of 1 inch pipe, 640 feet of ¾ inch pipe and 42 hydrants, making a total of 8,695 feet of pipe and 63 hydrants in the cemetery grounds up to November 24th. At the north east corner of the chapel a drinking fountain with two self closing faucets has been erected on a cut stone base, and a concrete ice box built fitted with coils for cooling, which makes the water cold in the hottest weather. The water was turned on from the Water Company's service on the 4th of August and the service is excellent.

I would recommend that deep drains be made and laid with tile in the walks between ranges No. 1 and 2 and between 3 and 4, on section C, to intersect the drain on Ravine avenue the coming season.

I append hereunto my financial statement for the year ending December 31st, 1897:

A CORRECTION.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Peterborough, Jan. 17th. 1898.

DEAR SIR.—In your issue of this evening, under the heading "A New Missionary Enterprise," is an article which, to say the least of it, is very misleading. In reference to it, I desire to make the following statements:—

(1) That the Baptist denomination, has no connection whatever, with the Christian Alliance, either in missionary, or any other Christian work.

(2) That all the missionary efforts of the denomination, whether at home or abroad, are under the direction of missionary boards, appointed from year to year by the annual convention.

(3.) That the only official of the Foreign Mission Board of Ontario and Quebec, is the Rev. A. P. McDiarmid, of Toronto, Ont.

Pastor R. V. Bingham, of Newburgh, N. Y., may be a Christian minister, above reproach, and the mission, whose claims he advocated yesterday, may be deserving of hearty support, but I hope the above statements will make it clear, (1) that he does not represent the Baptists officially, and (2) that the Baptist denomination is not connected with mission work, under Christian Alliance auspices.

Yours sincerely,
O. C. ELLIOTT,
Pastor, Park St. Baptist church.

[In reference to the above, it is to be said that the report was supplied and is to be supposed to be a correct account, so far as it goes of the speaker's remarks, and the denominational relations of the speaker were written down as printed. The misleading part, if any, was contained in the sub-heading to the article, which was not supplied by the writer.—ED. EXAMINER

CAMILLA.

Strike your guitar, fair Camilla, and sing the wild song you are dreaming.
Let the lithe fingers fly swift o'er its strings, for your dark eyes are beaming—Beaming with faraway fancies, Camilla, that pend for expression.
Only thy vibrant guitar is attuned for the sacred confession.

Now Camilla's fair fingers are plucking in rapture the pulsating strings,
And her faraway eyes are intent on the scene and the story she sings—
Singing her song of Felipe, her hero intrepid and true;
Singing his praise and recounting what deeds for her love he would do.

See the wild race after cattle, the broncho's wide nostrils blood red!
Hear the hello of the herder Felipe, who dashes ahead!
Hist, how the lariat sings as it flies o'er the horns of a steer!
See the wild plunge and the horse standing firm! Hear the bellow of fear!

Then, on the trail of Apaches, who leads the long marches by night?
Who but Felipe would dare to press on o'er the mesa to fight?
Who but Felipe sits firm in his saddle when rifles ring out in the dark?
Coolly he levels his weapon. The bullet flies true to its mark.

Such is the song sweet Camilla is singing with gaze far away:
Such is the song, for she knows not how long her Felipe will stay—
Knows not that lone in the waste of the sagebrush her master lies, slain.
Ah, sweet Camilla, thy songs for Felipe, the fearless, are vain!

Where Shall I Buy My Piano?

This is a question over which nearly every one puzzles once or more in a lifetime. You have no chance to experiment. You don't buy a Piano often enough. If you make a bad selection you are condemned to use an unsatisfactory Piano for twenty years or sacrifice the best part of what you have paid by making an exchange for something better. To your question "Where shall I buy my Piano?" there is one very satisfactory answer—

Buy It From

Mason & Risch

At any one of their stores, 32 King Street W., Toronto, 218 Dundas Street, London, 493 Main Street, Winnipeg, or 19 Philips Square, Montreal. There are many reasons for this. In the first place Mason & Risch are manufacturers of the highest grade Pianos made in Canada, but as they sell direct to customers they can sell you a piano at as reasonable prices as Pianos made by trade manufacturers but sold at a large increase of cost through middle-men who make a large and unnecessary profit.

Then Again We are Agents For

CHICKERING & SON'S PIANOS,

The oldest in America, the best in the world.

If Mason & Risch, or Chickering Pianos are too high priced, we can sell you the Vose, of Boston, the best medium priced American Piano on the market. Or Dominion Piano, a most excellent instrument, made in Canada, and sold at remarkable prices.

Anyway write to us and you will find us reasonable as to prices and terms.

No trouble to us to write letters.

BEATING THE DINGLEY BILL.

Mineral Water Importers Called in the Services of Jack Frost and Thus Escaped the Duty.

Washington, Jan. 17.—As an instance of the ease with which sharp men can avoid the high rates of duty imposed by the Dingley bill when they desire to do so, it is related that a number of wealthy gentlemen in Boston some time since purchased a mineral spring in Canada. They intended to ship the water to this country under the provisions of the then tariff law, which imposed a mere nominal tax on mineral water. The Dingley law soon after went into effect with a tariff of 24 cents per gallon on all imported water, which amounted almost or quite to a prohibitory tax.

The mineral water syndicate practically decided that their investment was a losing one and that the project must be abandoned, but as a last resort consulted a lawyer and asked him to get them out of their scrape. He directed them to freeze a quantity of the water and see if its properties were at all changed by the freezing. When it was ascertained that the freezing had no bad effect on the quality of the water, the shrewd lawyer said: "Then you need have no further trouble about the tariff. Simply freeze the water in Canada and import it into this country. There is no duty on ice."

It is a fact that the Dingley law retains ice on the free list, and so the syndicate ships its mineral water across the border in solid chunks at the lowest freight rates, and at the same time avoiding the use of casks that cost $4 each, and besides they save 24 cents on every gallon.

FIRE ON THE CANADA.

The Cargo of the Dominion Liner Damaged to the Extent of $30,000.

Boston, Mass., Jan. 17.—A fire started from some unknown cause in the hold of the Dominion Line steamer Canada about 10 o'clock Saturday morning, and for a time there was considerable excitement on board ship and about the Hoosac Tunnel docks, whom she was lying. Smoke was seen issuing from a new refrigerator containing grain and cotton, but the steamer's fire pumps and the city apparatus, which responded promptly to an alarm, soon had the fire extinguished.

The vessel's cargo, which was nearly all on board, was badly damaged by smoke, fire and water, the loss being placed at fully $30,000, although it will have to be overhauled before the exact extent of the damage can be ascertained. The damage to the vessel itself will be slight.

Sunday in Nova Scotia.

Halifax, N.S., Jan. 17.—By a decision of the Supreme Court of Nova Scotia Saturday the Act by which the Sabbath Observance Society sought to stop the operation of street cars on Sunday was declared to be ultra vires of the Provincial Legislature. The Sabbath Observance Society had officers of the Halifax Electric Tramway Co. summoned to the Police Court for employing men to perform servile labor on Sunday. The company asked the Supreme Court for a writ prohibiting the police magistrate from going on with the case on the ground that the Act was ultra vires. The writ was granted.

A Great Book Free.

When Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N.Y., published the first edition of his great work, The People's Common Sense Medical Adviser, he announced that after 680,000 copies had been sold at the regular price, $1.50 per copy, the profit on which would repay him for the great amount of labour and money expended in producing it, he would distribute the next half million free. As this number of copies has already been sold, he is now giving away, absolutely free, 500,000 copies of this most complete, interesting and valuable common sense medical work ever published—the recipient only being required to mail to him, at above address, 31 one-cent stamps to cover cost of mailing only, and the book will be sent postpaid. It is a veritable medical library, complete in one volume. Contains 1,008 pages, profusely illustrated. The free edition is precisely the same as that sold at $1 50, except only that the books are in strong manilla paper covers instead of cloth. Send now before all are given away.

A BULLET IN HIS HEAD.

An Asylum Guard Shoots Himself—Says He Intended to Fire at a Rat.

Toronto, Jan. 17.—George Wilson, a guard at the Asylum for the Insane, was walking around yesterday with a bullet in his head. He shot himself at the asylum in the morning. The bullet was located by the Roentgen process last night, the injured man walking from St. Michael's Hospital to Dr. E. E. King's office on Queen street east, where his head was exposed to the X-rays and the bullet located behind the temple. He went back to the hospital and will be subjected to an operation to-day.

Wilson says he saw a rat and took his revolver to shoot it. The weapon, he says, discharged accidentally while he was examining it and the bullet entered his forehead. The noise of the report alarmed the house surgeons, who attended the wounded guard and sent him to St. Michael's Hospital.

Mrs. Thomas May Recover.

There is some hope for the recovery of Mrs. Thomas, whose husband shot her on York street last Monday. The bullet that remains in her body has not yet been located by the surgeons at St. Michael's Hospital, and it is altogether likely that the X-rays will be brought into use to locate it some day this week. The patient showed signs of improvement yesterday.

GENERAL BOOTH.

The Salvation Army Chief Warmly Welcomed in New York—Will Spend Three Weeks in Canada.

New York, Jan. 17.—Gen. William Booth, chief of the Salvation Army, arrived here Saturday. Commander Booth-Tucker and a large delegation of Salvationists gave Gen. Booth a warm reception.

"The General," said Commander Booth-Tucker, "will stay at my home in Fordham until Monday, when he will leave by the 1 o'clock train from the Grand Central depot for Canada. I shall accompany him as far as Vancebore on the border, where he will be met by his daughter, Miss Eva Booth, who is in charge of the Salvation Army in Canada. He will remain three weeks in Canada, inspecting the work of the army and then will return to the United States. He will begin his American tour on Feb. 19 in Washington. After that he will visit Pittsburg, Columbus, Cincinnati, St. Louis, Kansas City, Denver, Los Angeles, San Francisco, Portland, Seattle and Spokane, at which last place he will be on March 12. Then the general will again cross over to Canada and visit Victoria, Vancouver and Winnipeg.

"On March 19 he will reach Minneapolis and then St. Paul. From March 25 to the 31st he will be in Chicago. From then till April 14 he will visit successively Cleveland, Buffalo, Boston and Philadelphia. Gen. Booth will conclude his American visit with a series of meetings and demonstrations in New York, from April 14 to 19. On April 20 the General will sail for England.

"Gen. Booth's idea is not alone to look over the work and progress of the Salvation Army in the United States and Canada, but in traveling through these countries he will confer with a number of the citizens of the leading cities concerning his schemes for the assistance of the poor. Gen. Booth will inspect and suggest improvements in the social institutions which we have established in this country, which now have accommodation for 4,000 persons."

THE DEAF HEAR.

DR. CHASE'S CATARRH CURE

Working Wonders in Toronto.

Gave MRS. BINDON her hearing when Specialists failed.

About 3 years ago, Mrs. Bindon, of 11 Maitland St., Toronto, was attacked with la Grippe, which affected her hearing to such an extent that she was completely deaf. It was a serious affliction and she tried many remedies and consulted a prominent specialist on ear diseases, but derived no benefit. By a happy circumstance she was led to use Dr. Chase's Catarrh Cure, and before she had completed 3 boxes her hearing had partially returned.

She persisted in the application of the remedy, so confident was she of ultimate cure, and by the time 12 boxes had been used her hearing was completely restored. For 3 months now she has been free from deafness, and no emancipated sufferer was ever more delighted than Mrs. Bindon. On Sunday she goes to church and enjoys the service, a thing she was unable to do before Dr. Chase's Catarrh Cure gave her back her hearing.

TRADE MARK.

A Marvellous Cure for Erysipelas by Sloan's Indian Tonic, in Lambton County.

Mrs. J. J. Porter, of Corunna, writes:—

I received the medicine all right, and am much obliged for it. I had Erysipelas every summer for five years, sometimes so bad my face, arms and body would swell to an enormous size and my eyes would be shut for days at a time. I tried two doctors but they did me no good, and I even went for change of climate, but all to no avail, until I got your TONIC. After taking one bottle the swelling ceased, and I improved every day and am now entirely cured.

Fred. W. Leiskau, Baden, writes:—

Please send me another bottle of Sloan's Indian Tonic. I bought one bottle from your agent early this spring, and I must say it is the best medicine in existence. I was troubled with a soreness in my right side and tried many doctors, but they could not cure me, and after using the one bottle I have had no trouble with the soreness. I am very glad I can state this.

THE PASTORAL LETTER.

Issued by the Archbishop of Toronto and Bishops of Hamilton and London Concerning the Pope's Encyclical.

Toronto, Jan. 17.—The joint pastoral letter of the Archbishop of Toronto and the bishops of Hamilton and London, publishing the Pope's encyclical letter, was read at the early mass of all the Roman Catholic churches of this city yesterday. The encyclical itself was read only as far as the introduction of the Manitoba school question proper.

These are striking extracts from the joint letter of the archbishop and bishops:

Venerable Brethren of the Clergy; Dearly Beloved Children of the Laity:

We have great pleasure in communicating to you officially an authorized English translation of the encyclical letter which our Holy Father, Leo XIII., has recently addressed to the Canadian hierarchy.

This important encyclical claims our serious attention in all its parts, and should be weighed and studied in its entirety. There is not a paragraph or a sentence in it that has not for us a definite meaning, and that does not deserve due consideration. Like the nicely balanced works of a clock, no part of it can be neglected or ignored without detriment to the meaning and understanding of it as a whole. We, therefore, bespeak for it a careful study and consideration.

We need hardly assure our Holy Father, on behalf of ourselves and clergy and laity, that we give our unreserved and hearty adhesion to all its teachings and directions.

The Catholic church has the right to provide for, to direct and control the education of its children; and this right is derived from the divine commission committed to her in the words of Christ: "Go ye therefore, teach all nations, teaching them to observe all things whatsoever I have commanded you." (Matt. xxviii., 19-20.)

In heartily accepting the teachings and obeying the directions contained in this noble encyclical we are not only acting as becometh good and loyal Catholics, but we are trusting to a heaven-directed guidance that has never yet failed the children of the church amid the greatest doubts and perplexities and in the darkest times.

This masterful encyclical has been justly described as "a message of peace to Canada." It is an appeal to the sense of justice of our people to restore to the aggrieved minority of Manitoba the educational rights of which they have been despoiled; it is a call on all fair-minded citizens to right the wrong that has been thus inflicted, and in this way to restore the reign of peace and good-will amongst us. If it is true that justice exalteth a nation, it must be equally true that injustice lowers and dishonors it. When, in the human body a member is hurt or injured, the whole body feels the pain and the shock; and so it is in the body politic. When any member of it suffers injustice or wrong, the whole body must be pained and disturbed; irritation, discontent and heart-burnings will exist where security, peace and good-will should hold sway. As good citizens anxious for the peace and happiness of our country, eager to promote its welfare and greatness, and to see all its sons laboring together in peace and good-will to build up a prosperous and successful state, we earnestly hope and pray that this message of peace, this plea for justice and right, coming to Canada from the great head of Christendom, will find a generous and noble response in all hearts, and will result in securing substantial justice to the aggrieved Catholics of Manitoba.

In this connection we unreservedly endorse the pastoral letter of Archbishop Begin, read on Sunday last in the Mother Church of Canada.

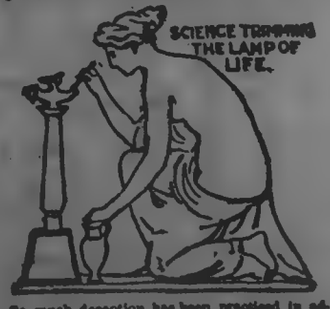
Free Trial To Any Honest Man

The Foremost Medical Company in the World in the Cure of Weak Men Makes this Offer.

HEALTH AND ENERGY ASSURED. HAPPY MARRIAGE, GOOD TEMPER, LONG LIFE.

In all the world to-day—in all the history of the world—no doctor nor institution has treated and restored so many men as has the famed ERIE MEDICAL CO. of Buffalo, N.Y.

This is due to the fact that the company controls some inventions and discoveries which have no equal in the whole realm of medical science.



So much deception has been practiced in advertising that this grand old company now for the first time makes this startling offer:—

They will send their costly and magically effective appliance and a whole month's course of restorative remedies, positively on trial without exposure to any honest and reliable man!

Not a dollar need be advanced—not a penny paid—till results are known to and acknowledged by the patient.

The Erie Medical Company's appliance and remedies have been talked about and written about all over the world, till every man has heard of them.

They restore or create strength, vigor, healthy vitues and new life.

They quickly stop drains on the system that sap the energy.

They cure nervousness, despondency and all the effects of evil habits, excesses, overwork, etc.

They give full strength, development and tone to every portion and organ of the body.

Failure is impossible and age is no barrier.

This "Trial without Expense" offer is limited by the company to a short time, and application must be made at once.

No C. O. D. scheme, no vague philanthropy nor speculation, no exposure—a clean business proposition by a company of high financial and professional standing.

Write to the ERIE MEDICAL COMPANY, BUFFALO N.Y., and refer to seeing the account of their offer in this paper.

$12,000,000 AT PAR.

To Run Fifty Years, is the Loan England is Willing to Loan China.

London, Jan. 17.—The Pekin correspondent of the Times says: "Saturday Sir Claude MacDonald, British Ambassador to China, in the course of an interview with the Tsung Li Yamen (Board of Foreign Control) stated that England was willing to assist China to liquidate the Japanese indemnity and would provide a loan of £12,000,000 at par, to run fifty years, the service to be 4 per cent. not, including sinking fund conditions as follows: First, the opening of three treaty ports—Ta Lien Wan, Siangin and Nan King—thereby increasing the customs revenue; second, a declaration that no portion of the Yang-Tse-Kiang Valley shall be alienated to any other power; third, the right to extend the Burmah railway through Hu Nan Province (the most southwestern in China).

"In the event of her default, China is to place certain revenues under the control of the Imperial Customs. On this basis the negotiations will proceed. China regards them as advantageous, but fears the threatened opposition of France and Russia, especially to the opening of Ta Lien Wan and Nan King."

The Times, commenting on the dispatch, suggests that Siangin, which its correspondent describes as in "Hungan" province, is a telegraphic error and means either Siang Yang, in House Pei Province, or Siang Tang, in House Nan Province. Nan King is in the province of Kwang Si. Thus, the Times points out, the acceptance of the conditions would open three ports at points widely distant.

A special dispatch from Shanghai says the whole British squadron is likely to assemble soon at the mouth of the Yang-Tse River in support of Great Britain's assertions to China.

The Meanest Man.

"About the meanest man I ever knew," said the steady liar, "was a fellow over in Indiana. His little boy got a leg cut off in a sawmill, and the old villain had a wooden leg made for the kid of green willow, in the hope that it might grow as the boy did and save him the expense of getting a new one so often."—Cincinnati Enquirer.

"On Guard."

When disease shoots the first arrow the truly wise man will come instantly on guard. He will not wait for the attack. He will not hesitate until the full force of disease and misery and death comes crashing about him.

When a man begins to feel "out of sorts," when his appetite is failing and his energy is not up to the mark, when he has bilious attacks and a feeling of lassitude and incapacity, if he is wise, he will take Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery right away. It will bring his appetite back again, and what is more it will bring back his digestive powers. It will give all the assimilative functions the edge and power to extract abundant nourishment from the food he eats. It will make good, pure, healthy blood and send it coursing rapidly through his veins and arteries into every organ and tissue of the body. It will put flesh on his bones and force in his muscles; it will give him strength and courage and cheerfulness, in a word it will give him complete health.

It excretes from the system every particle of dead, useless, flabby tissue. It even reduces the weight of the corpulent man at the same time that it builds up his strength and working power. The weight it adds to people who need it is the kind that comes of pure blood and every organ doing its work properly and thoroughly;—what pugilists call "fighting weight."

He Reclaimed His Jewels.

One day while Rabbi Meir was away from home teaching at college, his two children were suddenly taken ill and died. When on returning he inquired about them, his wife, Beruria, first gave him an evasive answer, and then, leading the conversation to another topic, related to him how a man who had left some jewels in her care had come to reclaim them. "Am I to give them back?" she asked. "How can you put such a question?" said he, "of course you are to return them to the owner." Beruria then took her husband into the chamber where the two children were lying, and, pointing to them, while her tears were overflowing and her heart was nearly breaking, she courageously said: "The owner has come to-day and reclaimed these jewels in our trust."—From The Talmud.

The King and the Haymaker.

George III. was one day visiting a small town in the south of England, and being anxious to see something of the country, took a solitary walk. He came to a hayfield in which there was one woman at work. The King asked where all the rest were and was told that they had all gone into town to see the King.

"Why didn't you go to?" asked he.

"Pooh!" she answered, "I wouldn't go three yards to see him. Besides, they've lost a day's work, and I'm too poor to do that with five children to feed."

His Majesty slipped a sovereign into her hand and said:

"When the rest come back, tell them that while they were gone to see the King the King came to see you and left you his portrait in gold to remember him by."

Chocolate Biscuit.

Chocolate biscuits are a novelty for a luncheon and are delicious when carefully prepared. Break six eggs, separating the whites and yolks. Add to the yolks half a pound of powdered sugar and beat the mixture thoroughly. Beat up the whites of the eggs to a stiff froth and add three-quarters of a cupful of flour that has been thoroughly sifted. Stir the flour in, taking care that the "cells" of the beaten eggs are not broken. After this add four tablespoonfuls of freshly-grated chocolate. Pour the batter in little paper cases and bake in a moderate oven until they are light and thoroughly done.—Boston Budget.

THE YOUNG WOMEN'S CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION.

MOST SATISFACTORY REPORTS PRESENTED ON SATURDAY.

This Excellent Organization is Doing a Good Work Along the Lines Laid Down For it, as Shewn by the Reports Submitted.

The annual meeting in connection with the Young Women's Christian Association was held on Saturday evening in the board room of the Boarding Home, which is conducted under the auspices of the organization. The Vice-President, Mrs. Stuart, presided, and Miss A. L. Clarke presented the following most satisfactory report of the BOARD OF MANAGEMENT.

The Board of management of the Y.W.C.A., in presenting their annual report, desire to give expression to their gratitude for the Divine blessing upon [illegible] past year. The work of the association has grown and prospered greatly, although its management has been saddened sorely by a double bereavement. They have not only had to mourn the loss of a beloved sister and fellow-worker, but in their deliberations they have missed the counsel and active support of their two most prominent and efficient officers. But it is not by power or by might, but by God's spirit, that good is accomplished in this world. He putteth down one and setteth up another, but His work goes on.

It having been decided by the Board of Management last year to extend the work of the association by opening up a boarding house for young women and girls, away from their homes, arrangements were made at the first regular meeting of the year for vacating the rooms over Mr. Long's store and taking possession of new premises, 163 Brock street, by the 1st of Feby. The association was exceptionally fortunate in securing as their general secretary and superintendent of this home the wife of a clergyman, Mrs. Walter Roger, a lady admirably adapted both to grace the head of an institution of this kind, and to manage its practical and often onerous details, while her moral and spiritual influence could not but be felt by every young person brought into contact with her. The second meeting of the year was held in the new quarters, the business of this and the few subsequent meetings having mainly to do with the necessary arrangements for the reception of boarders. A Glee Club and a Reading Circle were formed. Mrs. Wallis most kindly taking charge. A Bible class conducted by Miss Forsythe and lately by Mrs. Kennedy was opened on Saturday evenings. An advertising system was added, mistresses being charged 50c when supplied with servants.

In June a garden party was held at Castleneck, the grounds of which were kindly given by Mr. Dennistoun for the occasion.

On Sept. 27th a special meeting of the Board of Management was called by consent with Mrs. Harvie of Toronto, as to the best methods of carrying on rescue work in Peterborough. Mrs. Harvie recommended the formation of a Vigilance Committee and committees for jail and hospital work, for house-to-house visitation, for making clothing for kitchen and garden work, etc.

At the suggestion of the Secretary of the Children's Aid Society, the Board of Management called a mass meeting of women to discuss the same subject, Mrs. Harvie addressing the meeting. As a result of this meeting a Woman's Benevolent Association was formed, which acting in conjunction with the Children's Aid Society, secured from the town council a small yearly grant towards the maintenance of a children's shelter, Mr. Best giving a house on the corner of Charlotte and Stewart streets for the purpose. At the regular monthly meeting on the 11th of October, arrangements were made with Miss Burnham, of Port Hope, for a course of cooking lessons. A free lecture and demonstration lesson was given on the evening of Oct. 26th. Very successful classes were formed and most satisfactorily carried on.

The Society sustained a severe blow in the death of their most valued and much loved secretary, Miss Beck; their honoured president, Mrs. Brooks, suffered a sad bereavement, the loss of her husband. As in former years, on New Year's day and afternoon and evening, a reception for young women was held in the rooms of the Association. Music, recitations and games occupied the time. Refreshments were served and a very enjoyable time spent. A large number of young women were present.

A. L. CLARKE,
Asst. Sec, Y.W.C.A.

The report was received and adopted, after which Mrs. (Dr.) Scott submitted the appended

ADDIE SCOTT,
Treasurer.

The report was audited by Mary A. Nicholls and S. J. Moore, and was adopted.

Mrs. H. S. Roger, General Secretary of the Association, then presented the following:

REPORT OF BOARDING HOME.

In looking back on the past year, we have great reason for thankfulness. The Boarding Home was opened the 1st day of [illegible], with no funds in hand for its maintenance. Through the kindness of friends and different church organizations, the house was furnished. For a month we had no boarders and not until the end of April had we two. It was not until September, that there were more than four at one time. Since that the number has varied from six to eight. Altogether fifteen have boarded in the Home during the eleven months; some for a few days, others for months.

The Cooking Classes during November were well attended. The Gymnasium Classes have been taken advantage of by a number, 42 having paid the fee.

In connection with Employment Bureau, 110 ladies have applied for domestics, since March 1st and 124 girls have sought situations, and quite a number obtained the same.

Not as many as we would like to see make use of the reading room. Though quite a number have promised to attend the saturday evening Bible class, only a few come. Mrs Kennedy has been most faithful in her attendance. In response to requests for games, Mrs Geo Burnham kindly sent a crockinole board, and Mrs F H Hamblin the game of Halma. Both of these games have been much appreciated, especially on New Year's Day, when between fifty and sixty visited the rooms during the afternoon and evening. We have great cause for thankfulness, that though expenses have been great, we close the year with all our liabilities paid.

We are also thankful to be able to say all has been harmonious, no friction whatever, other between boarders or superintendent.

In the beginning of this new year our hope and prayer is that God's richest blessing may be on all who come and go from this Home.

M. L. ROGER,
General Secretary Y.W.C.A.

The report was adopted, after which the society adjourned.

SOCIAL OR PUBLIC SOCIETY.

REV. FATHER M'COLL'S SCHOLARLY ADDRESS.

In the Catholic Association Rooms Last Evening—A Large Audience and a Good Programme Presented.

The lecture room of the Catholic Association was crowded to overflowing last night to listen to Rev. Father McColl's address on "Social or Public Society." Mr. T. J. Begley, President, introduced the reverend gentleman, who prefaced his remarks by referring to the good work being done by the society, and the pleasure it gave him to assist the directors.

He had chosen as his subject for the evening that of "Civil Society," although he feared it would be hard to make it interesting to the audience.

In the first place he would remark that we are born to live in society. We cannot live isolated, but are dependent on our fellow-being to supply many of our wants. We must arrange to the best of our ability our surroundings so as to acquire as much as possible of intellectual and physical knowledge. We cannot do this to the best advantage by ourselve alone. We have to depend greatly on others for our knowledge. We are also dependent on others for the interchange of the commodities of commerce. There must be commercial intercourse between different peoples. We have also to unite to conduct many things in common such as mutual defence, care of the poor and lunatics and execution of civil government.

God has created us to live in society; it is a necessity of our nature and consequently in accordance with His will that we live in communication with one another. A public society is a number of families living together, bound by a common law framed for the public good and directed by a moral influence. Every law supposes a legislative executive administrative and judicial power; consequently to keep up mutual society there must be some kind of power to regulate the affairs of the community. This is a result of God's will and His teaching for the establishment of power is upheld by Scriptures as the speaker showed. Although depending on God's will as to its existence, yet as to its form this power arises in various ways. It may arise from the spread of the family principles, from warfare or from the pre-eminence of great men. But when once legitimately established and used for the common welfare we are bound to obey the laws and support the public power.

There are as the speaker showed many forms of power established—absolute monarchies, limited monarchies, republics and other kinds. Absolute monarchies are practically bad because the monarch rules generally for his own and not for the public welfare. Even republics may become tyrants in time if they cease to rule according to the natural laws of God.

All power comes from God to the people, and it lies in their hands to establish rulers and choose whatever form they wish. But once established the people are bound to obey its laws as long as they are for the public good. Legislation passed must be in harmony with the law of God, otherwise we would be governed in defiance of Him who is the source of all power. It is the duty of all citizens to use their best efforts in favour of good legislation, never to accept bribes or do anything to sustain an improper power, and to use with great precaution the means given them to secure the very best results.

During the evening a very interesting musical programme was rendered. The opening number was a vocal duet by the Misses Bellegham, which was well received and heartily encored.

Some national airs were next heard from a genuine Irish piper, fresh from the old sod.

A humorous farce, "The Klondyke at Home," furnished considerable amusement, and this was followed by a selection from the Glee Club, Mr. Frank Dwyer taking the solo.

After the lecture a pleasing violin solo was played by Miss S. Guerin.

A vocal solo by Miss Loftus and a farce entitled "The Haunted Motel," closed a very interesting programme.

A vote of thanks was presented to the speaker of the evening by Messrs. T. Cahill and J. Coughlin, and Rev. Father O'Sullivan also made a brief address.

HOCKEY.

The Winnipeg game to-night.

The Peterborough juniors have won their first round in their series by a total score of 22 goals to 6. They went to Norwood last night and defeated the home team by 5—1. The game started at 9 o'clock, and as it progressed, a very fine game of hockey was played. The Peterborough forwards did not play their combination game, although at times some good rushes were indulged in. The defence attended to all they had to do, Thorne playing a specially good game at cover, and Dixon gathering almost everything that was on the flags. McGregor at point and Pearce in goal played well for Norwood. The teams lined up as follows, with Mr. Bert Hendren as referee:

WRESTLING.

In the numerous holds and falls which wrestler Hugh Leonard describes, those who have a smattering of the sport will be interested in reading of well-known formations. One wrestler, by standing too erect, has given his adversary an opportunity of closing upon him. The aggressor seizes the right wrist and upper arm of his opponent with his left and right hands respectively, at the same time placing his right leg behind the opponent's right leg at the knee. The aggressor now swings his opponent over his right leg and buttock to the mat and down upon the carpet, following him up closely with his weight. Pressure of the upper man is gradually increased until the fall is secured. The half-nelson-and-body lift is a well-known combination. The aggressor slips his arm under his opponent's near arm around over the back of his neck. He simultaneously lifts his opponent clear of the carpet by the arm, which still remains around his body. He then swings his opponent to his side by straightening the half nelson arm and at the same time releasing the arm around the body. The opponent falls prone upon his back, or into position from which another hold may be secured.

Anyone of experience in wrestling will recall the famous strangle hold which was made notorious by Evan Lewis. Lewis, by reason of his great strength, practised this hold upon his opponents until a halt was finally called. Its action on the general content was sometimes as deadly as the solar-plexus blow in pugilism. Lewis would strangle his opponents into semi-unconsciousness and then roll them over on their backs, generally leaving the man in such a shape that wrestling out the match was out of the question. Leonard says of the strangle hold:—"It is barred in amateur and most other wrestling matches. A strangle hold is any hold where the pressure is brought bear across the throat, either with both hands or one hand and arm, aided by another part of the body. The ordinary grip around the neck is not a strangle hold."

There are many varieties of the half-nelson and full-nelson combinations, grape vine locks, hammer locks, which consist in wrenching the arm of the wrestler out behind his back, and a large number of wrist, body, leg, arm and flying falls practised by the professional wrestlers of the day.

GOUGH'S Greater Oak Hall

SPLITTING THE ACORNS IN TWO!

LIKE A BOMB-SHELL

Came the announcement a few days ago of the purchase by GOUGH BROS. of the Oak Hall Stock. Day and night, ever since, the thunder of Gough's Fusilade of Bargains has been both heard and felt all over the country. But yesterday, what were Bargains at Oak Hall, the lesser, did'nt GO. To-day they DO GO—at GOUGH'S GREATER OAK HALL—because they've GOT TO GO.

Was it Luck? Some people say we were lucky to make such a fortunate purchase. But luck takes a back seat compared with the master-stroke of business acumen in cornering this Matchless $16 430 stock of Oak Hall's at a Fractional Rate on the Dollar of

It was as natural as sunshine that the first week of our Triumphant Sale should bring a throng of buyers. THIS WEEK the Clothing Sensation of the Season is in full swing with all its potential momentum. Well Done People's Grocery!

You deserve the thanks of the people for the grand bill of fare you presented to the public at the Christmas Season, and for the nicely dressed window you have; the display of Turkeys, geese and other fowl was simply grand and I am not surprised that you did such a good trade and sold a lot of goods. I saw a load of Hogs at your door the other day, fat, and nicely dressed, what do you intend to do with them? Well, we pickle them, and then smoke them, then sell the Hams and Bacon; and let me whisper a secret to you, the people that buy them year after year, say there is nothing to equal them sold in this town.

Well what about Canned Goods? I see they are quoted $1.00 a doz. in Toronto. Can you supply them 3 for 25c.? Yes, and we promise to supply the people at that price as long as they last, for we have a large stock of this season's goods, which we bought at Snap Prices.

BENSFORT HEARD THE BOOM

Of the First Gun in Mr. Stratton's West Peterborough Campaign.

A MAGNIFICENT MASS MEETING.

A Rousing Campaign Address Received With Rousing Enthusiasm.

An Encouraging Augury of Victory—Addresses by Mr. T. Blezard, M.P.P.—Mr. Stratton Deals Fully With the Issues of the Campaign—Splendid Vindication of the Government's Record—Honest, Capable and Effective Administration—Opposition Campaign Orators Scored—Their Misleading Tactics Mercilessly Exposed.

It was a rousing meeting last night at which Mr. Stratton opened his fourth election campaign in West Peterborough, the largest, most enthusiastic and most encouraging ever held at Bensfort. The large school hall was well filled by stalwart representatives of the sterling farmers of what is claimed to be the most fertile township in the riding. And the earnest and close attention paid to Mr. Stratton's convincing address of an hour and a quarter's duration was only varied by the enthusiastic applause that greeted the many telling points made in his address.

Mr. John Riddel occupied the chair and invited any representative of Mr. Garvin who might be present to take a seat on the platform. There did not appear to be any one present in that capacity, but Mr. John Green, of Peterborough, arriving later was at once invited to the platform. He declined saying he came merely as an auditor to hear Mr. Stratton, and he added that the latter had not replied to Mr. Garvin's invitation to attend his meetings, insinuating that he was afraid to do so. Mr. Stratton replied that he intended running his campaign in a manner that best suited his own ideas, and Mr. Garvin was at liberty to pursue a similar course. Mr. Stratton pointed out that he had two weeks engagements within his own constituency, and was engaged to speak in other ridings. He was not afraid to have Mr. Garvin continue his farcial campaign in the way that he thought best. Mr. Garvin, or a representative would be welcome at any of Mr. Stratton's meetings, to which he was publicly invited by the posters issued. He (Mr. Stratton) was not afraid of any discussion of Provincial matters.

THE VETERAN FROM THE EAST.

The first speaker of the evening was Mr. Thos. Blezard, M.P.P., for East Peterborough, and was very warmly received. He said he was pleased to be among his neighbours across the river, and pleased to be present to assist his respected colleague, Mr. Stratton. He remarked that he ought to have some idea of the claims of the present government to recognition at the hands of the people whose endorsation they were seeking at the dissolution of the present parliament. He pointed out that we had a government that deserved a renewal of their lease of power—if they were not, then the present Opposition was not fit to succeed them. When he entered politics he was an ordinary voter, unacquainted with politics, and he was elected by a majority of 130. He had wanted to retire but his people declined to release him. He was not afraid to go back to them now, because he had done his best, and he was free to say that his friend, Mr. Stratton, had done much better for his constituents than he (Mr. Blezard) had been in a position to do. (Cheers) When he (Mr. Blezard) was on his first campaign he was followed by Mr. Carnegie, who so persistently declared that we were on the verge of direct taxation that he (Mr. Blezard) himself almost believed him. The Opposition are telling the same story now, and we all know what it amounts to. We had the richest and most prosperous province in the world because we had been honestly and capably governed for 25 years. If we ever came to direct taxation it would be by the action of the Opposition, who in the past had helped the Dominion Government in the attempt to rob this province of 100,000 square miles of territory, whose wealth of timber and minerals would for half a century. They had helped in the attempt to deprive this Province of the use of its streams for driving timber. The Opposition helped the Dominion Government to rob this Province of some $300,000 a year for licenses. The defeat of all these attempts was due to the vigilance of Sir Oliver Mowat. Mr. Blezard said that as much as he admired Sir Oliver Mowat, he was bold to say that he had even a higher opinion of Hon. Mr. Hardy as Premier. Sir Oliver was too kind and yielded too readily to the demands of deputations that waited upon him. Mr. Hardy had the courage of his convictions. No deputation could leave him without he knew both sides and all sides of the question and was not afraid to speak his mind in the interests of the province. He believed he would be triumphantly sustained at the coming election. Referring to the tour of the Ontario Opposition throughout the country and the misleading statements made on the stump that had to be taken back on the floor of the House, Mr. Blezard charged that these statements were made under the belief that the elections would come off before the meeting of the House, so that their extravagant statements could not be met and refuted; but they were compelled to face Parliament and to eat their words. He referred to one of the chief stock charges of the Opposition, the pig.ery charge of selling diseased pork. Mr. Blezard declared that the Government was not responsible, for they had turned the whole matter over to the officials of the Dominion Government, and there was a predominence of proof in support of the statement that the Government did not sell diseased pigs. Referring to the contest in West Peterborough, Mr. Blezard, after mentioning a few other matters of provincial interest, to Mr. Stratton's representation of West Peterborough. He had been twelve years the representative of the most important riding in the Province in Parliament, and there was none in Parliament better qualified for the duties of such a position, or one who worked more faithfully and successfully in the promotion of the interests of West Peterborough and the Province at large. He was recognized as one of the leading debaters of the House and was looked to to take a large share in the heavy debates that came before the House. "If ever," Mr. Blezard said, "there was a constituency that should be proud of its representative, that constituency was West Peterborough." (Loud cheers.) In addition to what they all knew he had done for his riding, he was honoured and trusted in the House. He was chairman of of the Committee of the Whole House, the most important committee of the Legislature, and a position that was next to the Speakership or to a Cabinet position, for either of which he was in every way capable. Mr. Stratton was chairman of the Printing Committee, a position in which his special knowledge of printing and his exceptional business ability were exercised to the very best advantage. With all these claims to the support of the electors, Mr. Stratton had been put to the expense of election, an expense which, if it had been saved, would have been so much to the advantage of Peterborough, for they all know that Mr. Stratton was not sparing of his means in the promotion of good works and worthy causes. Mr. Blezard asked the electors if they would

REFERRED IN WARM TERMS

to Mr. Stratton—a man who had no particular interest in the riding? Would they put such a man in the place of their trusted representative? (No, no!) He (Mr. Blezard) appealed to Conservatives, and not to Reformers, to rally round their old and trusted representative. The speaker had heard dozens of Conservatives say that they did not see any need of opposing Mr. Stratton especially if there was no hope of defeating the Government, which there was not. Mr. Blezard insisted that the Government would be handsomely sustained, because they had been a capable Government, because they had been an honest Government, because after twenty-six years of attention to all the needs of the Province they had a surplus of revenue over liabilities of over five and a half millions and on the past year's operations over $300,000 cash in the treasury. Mr. Blezard referred to the large amount given back by the Government to lessen direct municipal taxation and he justified such expenditure but he would leave details to Mr. Stratton who was perfectly competent to deal with such matters—as competent, Mr. Blezard averred, as any of the Cabinet Ministers. He again asked if they would prefer a mere stranger to such a representative, a man who rushed into a contest which such men as Max Dennistoun, Evie Bradburn and others under the circumstances saw the wisdom of avoiding—they saw the folly of making a fight. Mr. Blezard concluded his address amidst great applause.

Mr. Green was given an opportunity to speak, but he declined.

MR. STRATTON'S ADDRESS.

Mr. Stratton in rising to speak was received with enthusiastic cheers, which were frequently repeated during the course of his speech. He began his address by remarking that the last session of the eighth Parliament of this Province closed yesterday and it was anticipated that dissolution would follow immediately so that before long the electors would be again asked to give expression to their opinion respecting the course of the Government and their representative in this riding. As for himself Mr. Stratton reminded the electors that he had been for the past twelve years the representative of the riding in the Ontario Legislature, and he submitted that his representation had not been unacceptable or unfruitful to the riding, but that, as he had striven to make it, his course had been advantageous to all parts of the constituency and while the considerable attention he had felt bound to give to the discharge of his duties had conflicted in no small degree with the duty he owed to his personal affairs, to him to serve a riding with whose interests his own were so intimately bound up.

Though he had enjoyed the honour of being its representative for nearly twelve years in succession, he wished it to be distinctly understood that he did not consider that fact as establishing any claim on his part to the position. He held that it was a free gift on the part of the people, and in that sense he appealed for the support, not only of the Liberal electors, but also of the large independent element of the electorate whose confidence and support he had enjoyed in the past, and which he hoped he still enjoyed to a large extent, if he were to place confidence, which he heartily did, in the assurances of support which he had received from this as well as other sources. He felt that he would have just occasion to regret his past record as a representative if he could not employ that record as a basis of appeal for continued support. He felt, however, that he could appeal to his record of the past twelve years, for whatever may have been his shortcomings, he had endeavoured, to the fullest extent of his abilities and opportunities, to advance

THE INTERESTS OF THIS RIDING.

He had striven to be the representative of the whole body of the electorate, independent of party or other considerations. He had endeavoured to recognize every claim upon his services, no matter from what source it arose, so long as the promotion of the interests of the constituents of West Peterborough were at stake, and could be advanced by his efforts. If in any case the results were not up to expectations, his power, and not his will nor lack of effort, was at fault. He had endeavoured to deal justly with all the interestt concerned.

In adopting such a course in this respect as he had pursued in the past, and which, if honoured by a continuance of their confidence, he should pursue in the future, he took no special credit, for he simply regarded it a duty incumbent on one in the position of representative to place himself at the service of his constituents, even at the expense of his personal convenience, and to a large extent, personal interest.

While a representative of a riding may serve a constituency with the very best results, a large amount of the good he is able to effect is not a subject of record, but he could, he hoped, say without boasting that there were practical evidences of the success of his personal efforts to

of West Peterborough. He might point out that his efforts in the direction of improving the means of communication with the back country had not been without success. These means of communication were in a much better condition now than when he became representative nearly 12 years ago, and as a result of improved communication the condition of the people had improved through better means of reaching the county town and market; and journeys from the far north to town, which were a serious undertaking a dozen years ago, were, thanks to improved roads, every day occurrences, exciting no remark. By the appropriations he had been able to procure, the highways had been improved, the people of the northern part of the riding were able to come to town easily, dispose of their produce upon one of the best markets of the province and expend the proceeds among the merchants with benefit and advantage to each, for whatever benefits the country helps the town, and vice versa. And not only the northern but this part of the riding had been helped by his efforts. He might fairly claim some credit for promoting the construction of the Bensfort bridge, (though the people had done a great deal for themselves by their own exertions and expenditures) which permits a large number of the farmers of one of the richest agricultural townships of the riding to reach their market by a greatly shortened route. This is a benefit to both the town and the township. As a supporter of a government whose policy is to deal justly with the people and to promote their material interests, he had pressed the claims of his constituents for consideration with reasonable success, and the course he had pursued in the past, he

if he was honoured again with the confidence of the people.

Mr. Stratton went on to say that they all knew that he was a candidate, and that they would perhaps wish to know who his opponent was. His opponent, a Mr. J. W. Garvin, had been to Bensfort, to hold his first meeting outside of the town, and he (Mr. Stratton) understood that on that occasion two lawyers, Mr. A. P. Poussette, Q. C., and Mr. John Green, who was also a Q. C., but not a Queen's Counsel, but, as was evident from the statements he had been making, a Queer Character. (Laughter.) He also understood that Mr. Garvin had introduced himself as "a thoroughbred"—whatever that high-sounding aristocratic name meant. He also stated that he was a native of Simcoe County, where he had been reared on a farm, where he, perhaps, might have stayed to advantage, if success in his vocation was a desideratum—for success in his chosen calling did not appear to be very promising. He declared himself to be a politician by profession, as he had studied with that purpose, and he was doubtless a professional politician, for he had left no stone unturned to secure a nomination in the county where he was born and best known; but in the riding where he was best known the people wouldn't have him. Mr. Garvin was twice a candidate for the Conservative nomination last year in Simcoe, where he was best known, and he was the first time rejected by a vote of 113 to 35—the wise men of his party evidently did not take stock in his abilities or feel any sympathy with his ambitions. Later on he in his own county. This time the convention was smaller and Mr. Garvin was rejected by almost two to one—70 to 40. Then if the county, where Mr. Garvin is best known, did not want his services, why should the people of West Peterborough be bothered with a man of whom they know nothing, except that he was ambitious?

Mr. Stratton would like to ask if a school section of South Monaghan advertised for a teacher who, in response, came among them as a stranger, and who, after two years, found him so unsatisfactory that they were obliged to discharge him; and if that person remained in the locality, adopted an agency business and ran against their reeve, who had interests in the township, which required the attention of somebody having knowledge of its requirements, and whose interests were the people's interests—would they, under such circumstances, elect him to look after their affairs? (No.) He did not think they would. He thought they would be justified in sticking to the reeve who had served them well. (Cheers) They would not experiment with a practically unknown man when there were many others in South Monaghan who would MAKE CREDITABLE REPRESENTATIVES.

This was the position Mr. Garvin was in. He came to Peterborough as a school inspector; he failed to give satisfaction and the board dismissed him. He then took PERSECUTION BY TARIFF.

Narrow Gauge Regulation in the Interests of Monopoly.

According to the new tariff regulations of the United States, no seal fur garment or skin can be imported into American unless it bears a stamp indicating that the seal which furnished the fur was killed on the Pribyloff Islands, or a Consul's certificate to that effect These islands are leased to an American Company, to which, by the new Act, has been given an absolute monopoly of the right to supply seal-fur to the people of the United States. It would be interesting to know how much this Company has paid for the monopoly, for that it is a free gift is not credible. The first illustration of the working of this Act was the temporary confiscation of a seal-skin jacket worn by an English visitor to New York, who, however, managed to recover it by proving it was purchased before the Act came into force. But what must be thought in Europe of the intelligence of American legislators, when the garments of ladies who visit the States are liable to be confiscated, unless the material of which they are made can be proved to have been brought from a particular part of American territory? What, too, must intelligent American ladies think of their Government prohibiting them from buying any seal furs except those provided by one American Company? They will justly regard it as a mean form of social persecution, petty enough to be the act of an Eastern despot. Ladies in Europe and in Canada to whom a seal fur jacket, or cloak, is an ordinary article of clothing in winter will give the United States a wide birth. American ladies who own a garment of this class will fear to wear it, as they will render themselves liable to arrest, and to an official examination to test whether their furs are to be confiscated, or themselves heavily fined for wearing an article not the product of the Pribyloff Islands. Fancy the annoyance caused to a lady who is proposing to visit the States by her being compelled to get a Consul's certificate authorising her to take her furs to that country! American Consuls are usually very courteous; they show an anxious desire to encourage the visits of outsiders, but they will feel hampered in this by having to grant lady visitors a permit to wear their furs on the trip. Such petty. Inquisitorial interferences with the costume of lady visitors to their country will be sharply resented and condemned by the intelligent classes in the United States.—Finance Chronicle.

A NEW TRIAL ORDERED

Ottawa Cabinet So Decided on the Affidavits Submitted.

PRISONER'S JOY OVER THE NEWS

What the New Evidence to be Submitted Consists of—The Work of Mr. German, M.P.P., and Rev. Mr. Foote—Interview With Mrs. Sternaman at the Cayuga Jail.

Ottawa, Jan. 19.—The result of the appeal to the Government in the case of Mrs. Sternaman became known last night through the despatch of instruction to the Sheriff of Haldimond County not to carry out the death sentence on Thursday. Mrs. Sternaman will, therefore, not be hanged, neither has her sentence been commuted to penal servitude. The Executive has, in fact, taken altogether a new departure in Canadian criminal procedure. It has been ordered that the condemned woman shall have another trial. The proceedings upon the appeal on behalf of Mrs. Sternaman have been quite out of the ordinary course. The petition and evidence submitted in support of it, instead of having been dealt with by the Minister of Justice, as is usually the case, was considered by a sub-committee of council, Hon. Mr. Mills having associated with him Hon. R. W. Scott and Sir Louis Davies. The three Ministers, having heard the petition and evidence, took the case under advisement, sitting until midnight Monday. Yesterday their report was presented at a full meeting of the Cabinet, and, therefore, when council rose at half-past six, it had been decided that the report of the sub-committee, recommending a new trial, be concurred in, and the order issued for a stay of execution.

The new evidence in Mrs. Sternaman's case consisted of affidavits of eight of the jurymen to the effect that had they known their recommendation to mercy would have been disregarded by the judge in passing sentence they would have found the accused "not guilty." Besides, Mr. German submitted evidence that raised a doubt as to the correctness of the testimony that the body had not been embalmed, a process that would have accounted for the discovery of arsenic at the post-mortem.

THE NEWS AT CAYUGA.

Interview with Mrs. Sternaman in Jail—She is Overjoyed.

Cayuga, Ont., Jan. 19.—The suspense over the Sternaman case, which yesterday had become almost painful, was last night relieved by a despatch from the Secretary of State at Ottawa, stating that the Minister of Justice had granted the condemned woman a new trial. During the greater part of the day her case had been before the Dominion Cabinet and the outcome of the their deliberations was awaited with great anxiety.

Rev. Mr. Foote, her spiritual adviser, who went to Ottawa in her behalf, returned with but poor encouragement that anything could save the doomed woman from the gallows. Between hope and despair, her friends lingered all day long. Radcliffe, the executioner, was on hand, ready to perform the last gruesome act.

About 7.30 a report came from the Great Northwestern press authorities to the effect that the Ministers had granted a new trial.

The telegraph office was full of expectant citizens, and when the news was announced a loud cheer of satisfaction went up.

Then the question came, who should go to the condemned woman's cell and break to her the news that she was, for a time at least, to escape the awful doom the court had pronounced upon her? Rev. Messrs. Foote and Edgar, who had been in constant attendance on the unfortunate woman since her incarceration, were present, and together they went to break the news.

When they entered her cell Mr. Foote said: "Well, how would you like a commuted sentence?"

"I would like it." she replied.

"How would a new trial suit you?" Mr. Edgar asked.

"That is what I want," was her reply.

They congratulated her upon her escape from the jaws of death and the poor woman was so overjoyed that she scarcely knew what to say. It was not hard to realize the awful load which had been lifted from the poor woman. When seen by a correspondent she was happy.

"I am pleased to meet you, Mrs. Sternaman, under such favorable circumstances," said the reporter.

"Oh, I am so glad," she said, "that I have not got to be hung. Now I will have a chance to have all the facts brought out and clear myself.

"This is Heaven to me. You do not know how glad I am. Oh! how I have suffered, no one knows; but thank God it is all right now."

She related how the news was broken to her by Rev. Messrs. Foote and Edgar. She said: "I heard Mr. Foote and Mr. Edgar enter the hall and enter the room below me. They talked in very low tones for a short time. O my, the moments seemed like hours to me, and the thought rushed through my head: 'Am I to be hung, or am I to have a new trial.' Then they came upstairs in company with Mr. Murphy. I could see at once that they had good news for me."

She spoke in very tender terms of Mrs. Chipman, her first husband's mother, and how kind she had been to her in all her trouble. Her eyes brightened when her children were mentioned, and she asked: "Did you ever see them?"

I replied in the negative.

She then related how Mrs. Chipman, who she calls "mother," had moved into one of the quietest spots in Buffalo, so that her children would not be exposed to the public gaze.

Through the kindness of the sheriff this interview was granted before the official announcement had been received. On seeing her again when she was made aware of the announcement of the official telegram, which left no doubt in her mind that she was to have another chance for her life, her face shone brightly. "Oh, this is heaven, indeed, to me. How thankful I am to Mr. Foote for all he has done for me." Her face expressed the great joy she was realizing. The look of despair was gone. Her eyes beamed with delight. In talking to Mr. Murphy, the jailer, she said: "If you leave this door open tonight I would not walk out. I would rather stay here till spring and receive a new trial, when everything will be brought out, and I shall then be able to go out and face the world, having the satisfaction of being an innocent woman."

Mr. Murphy spoke of her former outdoor exercises. "I am afraid I shall not be able to go out in the yard for some time because of the cold weather. I have been in here so long."

She wore a plain black dress and her hair was neatly put up. It was a pleasure indeed to see the great joy the unfortunate woman was realizing. She has changed very little since her trial two months ago.

The court officials are much pleased at the decision of the Cabinet. Radcliffe, the hangman, also expressed his pleasure with the decision.

QUEEN VS. POIRIER.

Detective Crevier Tells of Finding the Bloody Shoe of a Woman—Admissions as Evidence.

St. Scholastique, Que., Jan. 19.—The court opened at 10.30 yesterday morning. The first witness was Detective Crevier, who said he found a woman's shoe in the kitchen. This shoe tallied exactly both in shape and size with the blood-stained marks on the floor by the bed of the murdered man. The piece of flooring on which the marks were found had been cut out and was exhibited.

High Constable Brazeau was the next witness. He corroborated Detective Crevier's evidence as to the finding of the shoe and as to the shoe marks on the floor.

Dr. Marion of Montreal also gave corroborative testimony.

Coroner Mignault then spoke to the finding of Poirier's body and to his search of the dead man's pockets. He proceeded to hand the exhibits round the court for inspection, but the defence strongly objected to this.

Judge Taschereau admitted as evidence the whole of the admissions made by the prisoner at her cross-examination before the coroner, and then the court adjourned until afternoon.

In the afternoon the Court House was so crowded that it took nearly 15 minutes for the jury to get to their seats. Coroner Mignault was again called into the witness box and said: When I had visited the Poirier house I found a lamp and a small bracket broken. I also remarked that Poirier was wearing black leather boots, but there was no blood on them, and witness produced the boots that Poirier had on the day of the crime.

After a few answers of no importance the court adjourned until 10 o'clock this morning.

TRIAL OF TOM NULTY.

The Murderer of His Sisters and Brother Now Before a Judge and Jury at Joliette, Quebec.

Joliette, Que., Jan. 19.—The Nulty murder trial was begun before the Court of Queen's Bench here.

The first witness was Mr. J. D. A. FitzPatrick, who produced a map of the section of the country covered by the murderer on the day of the tragedy.

Mr. Michael Nulty, the prisoner's father, next took the stand. He told substantially the same story as he related at the inquest. He added that when Tom came home he had said to him: "This wouldn't have happened if you had stopped at home," and Tom replied, "Yes, that is just it. I was not at home." His son acted strangely at times, and he did not think he was sane when he committed the murders.

The trial is likely to last nearly a fortnight.

FIFTEEN YEARS OF AGONY.

Suffering Ended in a Few Weeks by the Use of Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Petrolea, Jan. 10.—From Ingersoll to Petrolea the way is marked at short intervals by houses which are pointed to as those in which Dodd's Kidney Pills have cured cases of Kidney Disease, Bright's Disease, Diabetes or other kidney or blood disorder.

John Russell, a farmer living near here, tells of his cure, after suffering fifteen years with Bright's Disease.

Three doctors treated him; may remedies were tried. All failed.

Then Dodd's Kidney Pills were recommended. He tried them. The invariable result followed. A few boxes cured him.

This story, with variations as to the disease, is told by hundreds in Petrolea. Dodd's Kidney Pills have not been known to fail one yet. Every case has been a cure.

LEITER'S WHEAT [illegible]

He Owns About All the Contract Wheat in New York [illegible]

New York, Jan. 18.—The World prints the following telegram from Joseph Leiter is now transferring 2,000,000 bushels of his wheat from the Armour elevator into the holds of vessels in order to save storage and at the same time be ready to rush the grain to market when the time comes. From 9,000,000 bushels Leiter's line has increased to 15,000,000 bushels. He owns about all the contract wheat in this market, about 9,000,000 bushels. He has at Duluth about 1,000,000 bushels and at Minneapolis another 1,000,000. He controls about 300,000 bushels at Buffalo, and has some grain abroad. The owner hip of over 11,000,000 bushels of cash wheat, about a third of the visible supply, would make any interest at this time of the year a factor. Leiter's influence is the more commanding by reason of his grain being of the contract quality and amounting to at least 75 per cent. of the whole stock in storehouses available for delivery on speculative sales. But this does not end his interest. No one knows how large his purchases for future delivery are. The pit assumes that he is "long" 300,000 bushels for January, and that he has several million bought for May.

BIG BLAZE AT NEW HAMBURG.

A $15,000 Fire in the Commercial Hotel Block.

New Hambug, Ont., Jan. 19.—The Commercial Hotel block here took fire about 4 o'clock p.m. yesterday. The loss to the block and contents is about $15,000, on which there is an insurance of $12,500. The building is owned by Benjamin Spahr of Clifford, Ont., and is valued at $10,000. It is insured for $8,000. The block contained a hotel and two general stores. The stores were occupied by Duncan Ferguson & Co., and the hotel by Jacob Seyler, lately of Waterloo, Ont. Seyler's loss is about $5,000; insured for $2,000. D. Ferguson & Co. were insured for $3,000, which will more than cover their loss.

The Commercial Hotel block was insured for $6,500 in the Gore Mutual and Scottish Union, the hotel furniture in the Waterloo Mutual for $3,000, D. Ferguson's stock, $3,000, in Waterloo Mutual. The fire was got under control about 8 p.m.

Changes In India.

I was lately shocked by seeing a Toda boy studying for the third standard in Tamil instead of tending the buffaloes of his mand. The Todas, whose natural drink is milk, now delight in bottled beer and a mixture of port wine and gin. Tins and kerosene tins are employed instead of the primitive thatch. A Bengali babu, with close cropped hair and bare head, clad in patent leather boots, white socks, dhuti, and conspicuous unstarched shirt of English device; a Hindoo or Parsee cricket eleven engaged against a European team; the increasing struggle for small paid appointments under government—these are a few examples of changes resulting from the refinement of modern civilisation.—"Indian Anthropology."

WINNIPEG DEFEATED THE PETERBOROUGHS

IN AN INTERESTING MATCH BY THE SCORE OF 8 GOALS TO 6.

The Game Was Replete With Brilliant Plays on Both Sides and was Thoroughly Enjoyed by Over 1,200 Spectators.

It is difficult to recall an event of the kind in which the citizens as a whole took as much interest as in the presence of the Winnipeg Hockey team in town. When the 4.10 C. P. R. Express came in the station platform was crowded to such an extent that it was with difficulty the visitors were able to force their way across the platform. They were met by Mayor Davis and officers of the club and escorted to sleighs, after which a drive around town was indulged in, during which a call was made at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Hatton, Patron and Patroness of the club, where the visitors were entertained, light refreshments being served.

In the evening the rink was filled at a quarter past seven and by half past all the desirable places were secured. After that the spectators took their choice between swarming up the rafters and taking their their chances of getting a glimpse of the game over other people's shoulders.

The puck was not faced until about a quarter to nine, but the exciting incidents of the match which ensued more than made up for the delay on account of not being used to a small rink, the Winnipegs only played three forwards putting the extra man back on defence, and it was well they did so, as with the Peterborough rush line broke through again and again, from which it was argued that with a less strong defence to combat the local team would have given the visitors even a harder fight for victory. As it was, however, the Winnipegs acknowledge the result of the match was never a certainty at any time so close was the score. The visitors were faster skaters than the local men, two of their forwards in particular—LeVecque and Neeves taking precedence of any which have ever heretofore been seen on the local ice. The only fault to find, if fault there was any, was that a little too much individual playing was indulged in by the Winnipegs. The Peterboroughs on the contrary played as usual, most unselfishly, and it was their team work which enabled them to hold the Winnipegs down to such a close score. Although the Peterborough's played a fast game from the drop of the hat until time was called, yet they have done better this year and had they put up the game which they did against the T.A.C. team, the Winnipeg's certainly would have had another defeat marked down to them. The boys all seemed to be a little "off" in their shooting, although this may be accounted for by the fact that two cover points were played by Winnipeg, which would necessarily have a tendency to hurt the work of the rush line materially. The Peterborough defence put up a great game and in relieving, both Montgomery and Hollingshead made many brilliant rushes. The whole merit of the Winnipeg defence lay in the faculty with which they blocked and intercepted shots made on goal. Not once during the evening did one of them attempt to play anywhere near the forwards but played strictly close to their flags. The forwards did not go back with the puck when it was carried into their territory. At least all of them would not and consequently when their goal was relieved they were already far up the ice and frequently were on the Peterborough goal before the puck got there.

These were the main points of difference in the style of play in the two teams.

In the first half the game was played under Eastern rules, which also govern the hockey clubs in Manitoba, and in the latter half O.H.A. rules were followed. By the Eastern rules a player can stop the puck with his hand, and a player cannot put an offside man on side by passing the puck to him and skating up even. The puck must be touched by one of the opposite side before it is in play. This latter point caused a good deal of trouble in the first half of the game, and the spectators were at a loss to account for the large number of offside plays which were made by the local team, until this was explained to them.

The two teams were composed as follows:

Winnipeg		Peterborough.
Baker	goal	E Wasson
Swinford	point	W J Montgomery
Breen	cover point	Hollingshead
Macfarlane
Le Vesque	forwards	King
Thompson		Phelan
Neeve		Bellegham
		Davidson

Referee, F W Ashe, Norwood.

The puck was faced off at 8.44 o'clock—being placed by Mayor Davis, who gave the signal for play to begin.

Phelan took the puck, but the referee's whistle blew for an off-side, and in the ensuing face off with Neeve, and shot on goal, but Wasson was there, and his brilliant stop started the cheering, which was kept up all evening. Up and down the battle raged, first one side having the advantage, then the other. Bellegham and King made some nice runs down the ice together, and the latter nearly scored twice. In relieving, Hollingshead made quite a rush with Bellegham and also did some splendid lifting. It seemed as though the local team were getting slightly the best of it, when suddenly LeVecque broke through with the puck and took it skilfully down the ice. A whistle blew shrilly and the Peterborough defence made no effort to stay him and he scored a goal. A different complexion was thrown on the matter when Referee Ashe stated that it was not his whistle which was blown, but one by an outsider. This gave first blood to Winnipeg. Time 11 minutes.

LEVISQUE MADE A RUSH

In the face-off Phelan passed back to Hollingshead and the Winnipeg forwards followed in after it, but Holly succeeded in getting through their line and, with Bellegham, went dashing up the ice. A few skilful passes and the trick was done, Bellegham scoring in 1 minute.

In another half minute the crowd almost went wild with excitement, when Phelan and Bellegham went down the rink together and "Scotty" tallied another in half a minute.

The Winnipeggers then made a most determined effort to even the score and the whole forward line went down the ice together. They passed everybody but Wasson. He successfully blocked his goal and returned to Hollingshead, who made up the ice with King. Another rush of the visitors, however, resulted in the score being made 2—2. Time 6½ min.

The next two games also went to Winnipeg, in five and two minutes respectively. Then Roger Davidson came through with the puck and passed to Phelan, who tallied, making the score 4—2.

It would have been 4—4 before the whistle blew for half time, but seeing the danger in which their goal was being placed no less than three of the visitors promptly lay down in front of it to prevent any chance of the puck being scrimmaged through. Half time was called before any more scoring was done.

The game re-opened with a rush on the Peterborough goal and then another on the Winnipeg flags. For three minutes the play was even, and then LeVeque got a chance and scored.

Out of a scrimmage in front of the Winnipeg goal five minutes later, Roger Davidson scored for Peterborough. Score 5—4 in favour of Winnipeg.

In another 8 minutes Winnipeg again had a lead of two points.

Three minutes more and Bellegham scooped one through. Score, 6—5.

Five minutes fast play followed, and then Winnipeg's score was 7—5.

One of the visitors was accidentally hurt through receiving a stick handle in the ribs, and a halt was called until he recovered. On resuming play Phelan scored again for Peterborough. Score, 7—6.

With only a few minutes left to play, the Peterboroughs pulled themselves together in an effort to tie the game and some very fast play resulted, but luck was against the boys and Winnipeg scored another.

The fast play was continued and the Winnipeg forward team went down the ice in a rush past everything. When about ten feet from Wasson, LeVecque made one of his bullet like lifts, but Ernie was there and his brilliant stop of the shot was probably the most sensational play of the evening. The whistle blew shortly afterwards and the crowd dispersed thoroughly pleased with the character of the game which had been put up.

Later on the visitors were banquetted at McCallum's restaurant, where a most creditable menu was provided by the well known caterer, who excelled himself on this occasion.

R. A. MASONIC PRESENTATION.

Rt. Ex-Comp. R. E. Wood, Grand Superintendent, Handsomely Remembered.

Last night at the regular communication of Corinthian R. A. Chapter the routine of proceedings was delightfully interrupted by the presentation of a splendid Past Z jewel to Rt. Ex-Comp. R. E. Wood, whose term as Grand Superintendent of Ontario District closes with the annual meeting of the Grand Chapter in Toronto, on Jan. 26. Ex Comp Harry Rush, on behalf of the Chapter, made the presentation. The jewel itself, while orthodox in its symbolism, is of unique and elegant workmanship. The crown is brilliantly studded with diamonds and rubies. In addition to the evidences of the artificer's skill, unusual interest is added to the jewel by the fact that it is made of Klondyke gold, brought to Peterborough by Mr. Charles Gladman. The jewel is from the establishment of Messrs. Clarke & Gibson where it made throughout from the nugget.

Mr. Wood is justified in feeling very highly gratified by such a handsome evidence of the high esteem in which he is held by his brethren of the craft. It is a tribute to his zealous advancement of the interests of local Masonry and to the effective discharge of the duties of a grand officer.

DIOCESE OF PETERBOROUGH.

Important Parochial Translations.

The following diocesan changes in the Catholic Diocese of Peterborough have been promulgated by His Lordship Bishop O'Connor:

Rev. Peter J. McGuire, from Bracebridge to Hastings; Rev. T. F. Collins, from Brighton to Bracebridge; Rev. M. J. McGuire, from Lindsay to Brighton; Rev. C. J. Phelan, from Trout Creek to Lindsay.

These changes which will be of personal interest to a large number of the readers of the EXAMINER, will take effect the beginning of February. In this list should perhaps be included Rev. Father Fitzpatrick who had been previously promoted to be parish priest of the new parish, with Young's Point as the "see city" so to speak.

TWO ROBBERIES.

White's Butcher Shop and Anglesea's Bakery Burglarised.

Some time last night the door of Geo. J. White's butcher shop on McDonel street was forced and a quarter of pork, a quarter of lamb, a roast of beef and a quantity of sausage stolen. The door was found open when Mr. White went to open up the store this morning.

At half past three o'clock this morning when Mr. S. C. Anglesea's bakers went to work, they found that during the night the padlock of the bakery had been wrenched off. The burglars must have been disturbed, however, as nothing was missed.

up the insurance business, remaining in the town, and now he thinks the people of West Peterborough, one of the most important ridings in the Province, are gullible enough to elect a man who was a comparative stranger to the riding and who had very little interest in it. There were many Conservatives capable—almost as capable at Mr. Garvin—of representing West Peterborough. But the Conservative leaders found that the independent element of the riding was not with them in factiously opposing a candidate who had faithfully served the riding for a dozen years (cheers), and none of the able local Conservatives, eligible to be candidates, felt inclined to risk a contest. If Mr. Garvin should be elected and his services, as in the case of the school board, proved to be unsatisfactory, the people would not be able to discharge him as promptly as the school board of Peterborough did when Mr. Garvin refused to acknowledge the board's right to control his actions and hold him to the discharge of his duties. When Mr. Garvin was inspector in Peterborough to go on the political stump up in Simcoe; the board remonstrated and Mr. Garvin told them that they had no right to call him to account; that he was under no obligations to ask them for leave of absence. Would Mr. Garvin be likely to treat his constituents in West Peterborough any better than he treated his employers, the Peterborough school board? A man is the servant of his employers; a representative is the servant of the people, and he has no more right in one case than in the other to refuse to recognize his responsibility to the powers that appointed or elected him. It might be, Mr. Stratton said, desirable for the people to elect Mr. Garvin. That was a matter for them to decide. If they decided to elect a new and untried man in preference to one who had striven to serve them well, it was their privilege to do so as far as he (Mr. Stratton) was concerned. He was willing to leave the matter in their hands.

Mr. Stratton said he would ask if, in view of the past course he had pursued, it was unreasonable on his part to claim the favour of their continued support. It would not, perhaps, be denied that it was to

to have a representative who, in addition to working faithfully nearly twelve years for the advancement of its welfare, had gained a special and complete knowledge of its needs, who was acquainted with every corner of the riding, both personally and geographically, with as intimate a knowledge of the highways as the people who daily use them, who had personal acquaintance with nearly every elector in the riding and who had, through the intimate knowledge of the people and localities of the riding, a plainly superior advantage and power to effectively serve the public interests over any stranger who might consider himself called upon to volunteer services which had not been sufficiently appreciated in his native riding to receive more than passing attention to his solicitude for nomination, as was shown by the fact of his having, where he was born and reared and best known, twice sought and twice been denied the position of a candidate by overwhelming majorities of the respective conventions.

There was a homely proverb to the effect of the wisdom of praising the bridge that carried one safely over the stream, and its application in this connection was not difficult to make. (Cheers.) If the people believed that he had in the past, if they believed that his large material and business interests, his local patriotism and his pride in his native county gave him greater interest in West Peterborough, than a mere stranger, a practical foreigner, without any material interests in the county except what are prospective and arise out of a possible profit derived from the representation of the riding; if the people retained the confidence they had expressed in so flattering a manner on three previous occasions; if they believed that he was able to continue to serve their best interests as well, and aided by large experience, ever better than in the past, then, Mr. Stratton said, he appealed to them for a continuation of their generous support. He had reason to hope that he still enjoyed the public confidence, (You do!) and therefore that he should be trusted in he pledge which he now made, that if again honoured with re-election, he should do everything that lay in his power to faithfully represent West Peterborough and promote every interest of every part of the riding, as well as of the Province at large. (Applause.)

Mr. Stratton said that it might be expected that he would deal with some of the remarks made by Mr. Poussette at the meeting in that place on Tuesday night, but his statements, according to report as published in the Review, were so absurdly incorrect, his conclusions so grotesquely that they were hardly worth referring to—they were self-refuting, and would disceive no intelligent elector who reads the most modest country newspaper.

To show the nature of the statements made by Mr. Garvin's oratorical associates, Mr. John Green the new star in the political firmanent, senior legal adviser and political godfather of Mr. Garvin, is reported in the Review to have said at the Ennismore meeting, and no doubt previously uttered here, that "Mr. Hardy was depleting the forests of Ontario. The Moore Lumber Co. deal was condoned by the Government, but the late W. A. Scott, of Peterborough, owing to the wrong-doing of an agent of the Government, had had his limits confiscated by the Government. A deputation of Peterborough citizens, Grits and Tories, protested to the Government against the action. The Government then imposed a fine of $26,000. The reason for this fine, the Government claimed, was that Mr. Scott had shipped out more lumber than had been accounted for to the Government, but Mr. Scott's friends explained that not all this lumber had been taken off Government lands, a good deal of it came off Mr. Scott's own private lands. But the Government assumed it was all off Government lands. Mr. Green contrasted the treatment of Mr. Scott with that of the Moore Lumber Co., who had been found guilty of wrong doing, but had not been fined, they had only been warned."

The facts of the matter are that in the time of Sandfield Macdonald, it transpired that the late W. A. Scott had, to put it mildly, committed errors in returns that represented a loss to the Province to a very large amount.

When the Blake Government came into power in 1872 they dealt with these irregularities. They appointed a commission, composed of Ex-Lieutenant-Governor Kirpatrick, Ex-Lieutenant-Governor Richards, and Thos. Johnston, Assistant Commissioner of Crown Lands—all Conservatives—who investigated the charges. Mr. John Rogers, under whose charge these irregularities were allowed to go on, and the Scott estate was required to make good the deficiency, amounting to about $26,000. In taking such action the Government was simply protecting the interests of the people. Now it will be remembered that in 1896, 23 years later, it came to the ears of the Government that there was something irregular in the returns made by the Moore Lumber Company, and a commission of inquiry was appointed. The finding of the commissioners was that logs had been cut and taken in addition to those properly returned. It was found from examination of witnesses and the company's books in Detroit, that the information the Government had received was correct. After a good deal of investigation it was found that, although the head of the firm did not know of the state of things, there was a large shortage; and the Government collected from the firm $10,861.61, representing the shortage in dues, together with the costs of the investigation, $698.81, and the official was dismissed by the Government. This is all information that was made public in the House during the past three weeks, and what terms can be found to condemn a man who will wilfully, for the sake of political advantage, state an abominable falsehood. Mr. John Green owes the public an apology for deliberating that "the Moore Company had not been fined; they had only been warned." (Cheers.) Had this information not been before the country, Mr. Green might be excused. The electors should be well satisfied of the reliability of a speaker before they accept his statements, especially when he opens a campaign with what it is not too strong language to call a deliberate falsehood.

WAS REMOVED FROM OFFICE,

MAKING THE FALSE STATEMENT

Mr. Kendry said in Ennismore, according to the Review's report:

"Our logs were taken out of the province and out in the United States. The Opposition wanted a law passed prohibiting logs being cut anywhere but in Canada."

Mr. Kendry knew that a bill had been introduced in the Legislature, which provided that after the 20th of April, 1898, all logs and timber cut on Crown lands in Ontario must be manufactured in Ontario, and he has no excuse for thus deceiving the electors. Campaign speakers should be fair and supply the fullest possible information, and they should make themselves sure of the grounds they aim to cover, especially when the public prints are full of it. (Hear, hear.) Now the facts about this timber matter, Mr. Stratton said, were simply these. As far back as 1890, the first sale of limits after Hon. Mr. Hardy became Commissioner of Crown Lands, was made that the logs must be manufactured into lumber in Canada. It is true that Mr. Miscampbell moved a resolution along this line in the house subsequently to this sale, but every public man who desires to be honest, knows that there was no public agitation on the question among either the electors or lumbermen till after the presidental election in the United States and the tariff law known as the Dingley Bill was passed. This was only a few months ago, the Dingley Bill becoming law May 31st, 1897. This law increased the duty on imported lumber from $1 to $2, and also contained a retaliatory clause imposing an additional duty equal to the amount of duty Canada might impose upon logs or lumber for export. The lumbermen in Canada did not complain of the $2 straight duty, but the retaliatory clause was so obnoxious that it aroused a very strong anti-American sentiment. It brought the Georgian Bay lumbermen to arms, as it affected them exclusively as compared with the Ottawa Valley lumbermen, and they met and discussed the best course to be taken to PROTECT THEIR INTERESTS.

UNDER THE CONDITIONS

This was the beginning of the lumber agitation and Mr. Stratton said if his memory was not at fault that Mr. John Bertram was the first man to write a letter to the papers advocating action by the Government. Why did he and the lumbermen call upon the Ontario Government? Simply because they felt that the imposition of an export duty by the Dominion Government would bring into operation the retaliatory clause of the Dingley bill and raise the American duty on lumber to $4.00, besides diverting the revenue from Ontario timber land into the Dominion treasury. Then, as the agitation grew, the Opposition availed themselves, and legitimately, too, of the chance to sail with the wind, and in their campaign tour in the Province made the most of the situation. But the Government could not take action without proper consideration, as a very large source of Provincial revenue would be affected by any action taken and also very large commercial and industrial interests. They begun investigation into the subject. The situation had changed, owing to action outside the Province, and they prepared as wisely and prudently as they knew, to confront the new conditions. They were interviewed by Canadian lumbermen. They were interviewed by American lumbermen. They gathered all the information available. They had the important interests of the Crown domains to protect. They were called upon to act with a full sense of the responsibility their action involved. After having gained all the information possible, after making sure of the wisdom of their action with regard to the interests of the Province and with due respect for the other interests involved, they compelling all the timber cut on Crown lands to be manufactured in Ontario, and which yesterday afternoon received the Royal sanction and became law. The Government met the situation as promptly as it arose. True, the opponents of the Government clamour for the immediate enforcement of the manufacturing clause, but that could not be done without breaking the agreement under which leases to cut timber were issued. That would not only stain the honour of the Crown, but lead to costly lawsuits for breach of contract. The Opposition base this demand on the assertion that the American holders of Ontario limits are preparing to take out a much larger cut than usual, but the Government has collected exact information from the lumbering concerns to the effect that the export this year will be sixty millions less than last year, so that there will be no loss from the delay till the first of May and the Government while effectively protecting the interests of the country by their legislation, will, by the delay mentioned, have carried out its bargain with the lumbermen in an honourable manner, worthy of the dignity of a great Province. (Applause.)

in regard to the timber question and the circumstances as they exist, and it is to be hoped that the decision of the Legislature, which was unanimous, will justify the Government in the course it took. The speaker was somewhat surprised that a gentleman of the political experience of Mr. Kendry should have so far failed to grasp the facts of the timber question, as his statement made at Ennismore would imply.

Mr. Stratton next turned his attention to Education, and said that the educational system of the Province of Ontario has been pronounced by unprejudiced observers and capable judges to be equal to any and excelled by none, and its excellence was was largely due to the wisdom of the present Minister of Education, Hon. G. W. Ross, who had occupied that position for fourteen years, and who has been practically identified with educational affairs as teacher, inspector and Minister for over a quarter of a century. He was regarded as one of the foremost educators of the continent, and had besides shown capacity for administration that had been in evidence in his splendid management of the Education Department of Ontario since 1883, when he succeeded Hon. Adam Crooks, the first Minister of Education of Ontario. But Hon. Mr. Ross' success as a Minister had not relieved him of detraction, not so much as an administrator, as

FROM PLAINLY POLITICAL REASONS.

He had been accused as being a partizan minister of education and of serving political ends by his office. The Opposition have placed themselves on record as opposed to the educational department being under a minister of the Crown, in spite of the fact that Dr. Ryerson, who is quoted by the Opposition as an infallible authority and whose services to education deserve the most generous recognition, favoured a minister responsible to parliament. Mr. Whitney, the leader of the Opposition, has twice placed himself on record (in April of '91 and '94) as opposed to a minister of education responsible to parliament. But he has changed his policy and pronounces in favour of an Advisory Board, to whom the minister shall be responsible instead of to parliament. Mr. Whitney's plan was tried in 1874, but after two years trial was abolished by a bill suggested by Dr. Ryerson himself, and the abolition received support from both sides of the House. So that Mr. Whitney's latest proposition was the revival of an exploded and impracticable plan. Why should an Advisory Board be appointed in the case of one department more than another? Why not have such a board appointed for each department of the government as well—for the Provincial Treasurer, for the Crown Lands, for the Minister of Agriculture? Ministers are RESPONSIBLE TO THE PEOPLE.

If each one is surrounded with an Advisory Board he is responsible to that board and not to the parliament or people. (Hear, hear.)

The Minister of Education was responsible to parliament for all his acts and he recognizes this responsibility. Hon. Mr. Ross had been accused of being a Czar in his department, but no attempt has ever been made to fix a charge of partiality or despotic conduct upon him. Mr. Whitney and his friends would have the public believe that Mr. Ross acted without advice or without consulting anybody. The fact is that since Mr. Ross took office the School Act has been revised three times—in '85, '91 and '96. On every occasion a draft of the proposed amendments has been submitted to school inspectors and High School principals for opinion before the Acts were passed, and during their passage through the house abundant opportunity was presented for suggestions of improvement from the educationalists of the country. There was discussion in the House and through the press, and the whole legislation was done, so far as the minister was concerned, with full regard to his responsibility to parliament. And every regulation of the department, since Mr. Ross took office, has been submitted to parliament, and so far no such regulation submitted has been disapproved, and neither Mr. Whitney nor his colleagues have challenged one of them. Would an Advisory Board be any better than parliament, except that it would cost more money?

The charge of undue political influence in the Educational Department has never been pressed or supported by proof. Since the appointment of Minister of Education in 1876, the sum of nearly fourteen and a half millions ($14,441,141) had been distributed by the Educational Department, and it cannot be shown that one dollar was granted on the grounds of political favouritism. When so great a sum was distributed among so many municipalities such a charge, if it had the slightest grounds, could be easily proven. In the same time 325,208 persons have written, and 175,176 received certificates. No specific charge of political favouritism has been proved. Assertion without proof is cheapening the intelligence of the electors. Complaint was made by the Opposition that examinations destroy the individuality of the pupil. Examinations are to the pupils, as a test of the pupil's proficiency and as a satisfaction to parents. Dr. Ryerson, who is rightly accepted by the Opposition as a high standard, thought so, for in the last year of his office there were twenty-nine examinations. Now there are less than half as many—thirteen—and if we omit the examinations for Kindergarten teachers there are only eleven. When we recollect how teachers, especially, were examined 25 or 30 years ago and what the standard of teachers was, we must endorse the present system of examinations which is the same principle in all the provinces of the Dominion. The examiners are not appointed by the Government but by an educational council representing every University of the Province, as well as the High and Public Schools and there is not the slightest proof of favouritism based on politics. (Cheers.)

The cost of the text books was, the speaker said, a sore spot with Mr. Whitney and the other critics of our schools, and Mr. Garvin was fond of indulging in wild and absolutely misleading statements regarding the alleged monopoly in school books and it would therefore be proper to submit solid and reliable evidence to counteract the fairy stories that were being told on the subject. In November, 1897, the Minister of Education in the discharge of his duty as a minister and with the interests of the people in mind, arranged for a Royal Commission for the purpose of ascertaining if any reduction could be made in the price of school books and of inquiry in regard to the manner in which royalties affected the price of school books and whether the payment of a lump sum to authors instead of royalties was advisable.

THE ROYAL COMMISSION APPOINTED.

This Commission, composed of Judge Morgan, of York county, Jas. Bain, jr., Public Librarian, Toronto, and C. Blackett Robinson, President of the great Presbyterian Publishing House, Toronto, made an exhaustive enquiry, examined witnesses, who were experts in the book publishing business, and of undoubted ability and integrity and summarized the results of their investigation in a report presented to Parliament a few days ago. The report deals very fully with the whole subject.

Their report first deals with the Readers now used in the Public Schools, authorized in 1885. In regard to these the report states, after quoting the evidence (taken under oath) of Prof. Alexander, of Toronto, Prof. Reynar, of Victoria University, Prof. Clarke, of Trinity, and Chancellor Wallace, of McMaster University, who united in speaking in terms of high praise of the literary quality and value of the school books:

"For all these reasons and looking at the literary, artistic and educational merit of the Ontario Series of Readers and the excellence of the print and binding, we are convinced that these Readers are infinitely more adapted for use in Canadian schools than any other Readers and are furnished to the public at very reasonable prices and that as Chancellor Wallace puts it—"the public have nothing to complain of," and we are further satisfied that the publishers and the trade are not making an undue profit from the production and sale of these books."

(Cheers.) The report

DEALS WITH THE SEVERAL BOOKS

published by the several firms under agreement with the Government. With the great majority of books it is found that the capital invested is still unrealized, thus proving that there is no excess of profits in the publication of the books and that they could not be furnished for a lower price. The report found that one or two books had been published "without living profits of any kind."

In a few cases the report states that sufficient profit is realized so that a reduction might be made. In these cases three are High School books, one the Public School Geography, which has been in use since 1887 and as the publishers have realized their capital, leaving them, as the report says, "a resonable source of legitimate profit," the price might be reduced.

And when it is possible with any sort of justice to the publishers to make a reduction, a reduction in the price of school books will be made. This has been the policy of the department in regard to other books; when the publishers having realized on the capital invested, the price of books has been reduced.. Since 1883 when Hon. Mr. Ross took office, the prices of six Public School books have been reduced, by which a saving, estimated by the number of pupils using such books, have been effected by parents of $74,507, and action in the same policy will be carried out in regard to other books as soon as it is possible.

When such a Commission, composed of capable and honourable men, solemnly report that there are no excessive profits to the publishers of school books what becomes of the cry of "monopoly" raised by interested opponents of the Government? Monopoly means enormous profits, not fair living profits. Let one man or firm have the contract of the manufacture of mowing machinery and they would see the

PRICES GO UP WITH A BOUND.

Mr. Garvin at Ennismore, on Thursday night showed his unfairness or ignorance in dealing with the school book question. He had the "cheek," no other word would do, to compare a Third Reader, costing 30 cents, with a dime novel, or worse than that, a 9½ cent novel, to prove that there was a monopoly. The Reader, he said, had a sale of 50,000 or 100,000 a year, and sold at 30 cents, while the novel, (Conan Doyle's "Micah Clarke") a little larger book, sold for 9½ cents. Conan Doyle's novels are popular, and are sold by the million. While the first edition of one of his novels cost $1 or $1.25, the tenth or twentieth edition, printed on pulp paper, with trashy binding, was reduced 19 to 20 cents, according to the sloppiness of its printing and binding. Dishonesty could go no further than such a misleading comparison. (Cheers.) In regard to the same Third Reader, the Commission says that "the publishers are only making a fair business profit, and that the price should not be reduced."

The price of an article or book is regulated by the demand—if the sale is large the price becomes lower, as a rule the larger the sale the lower the price. If a thresher sets up his machine on a farm and threshes one bushel of wheat, he will charge $7 or $8 a bushel; if he threshes 100 bushel, he will charge 7 or 8 cents; if he threshed a million bushels, he would do it perhaps for a still lower price. If school books were sold by the million they could be sold at the rate of dime novels. But

and the price is, therefore, higher than if a larger number were sold.

Further interesting information was Mr. Stratton said, contained in the report of the Commission. The Commissioners stated that the system of paying a royalty to authors "insures a cheaper school book than securing the copyright by a lump sum." They also say that so excellent is the Ontario series of books that they are used, or most of them, in six of the chief other Provinces of the Dominion. They report, after diligent investigation, that the text books used in the schools of New York, corresponding to the Ontario series, cost $9.90, while the cost of the Ontario series of school books is only $4.95 or a hundred per cent. less. (Cheers.) The people could see what there was in the cry of the school book monopoly, and the facts presented were not hearsay nor ornamental assertions, but the report of a commission based on sworn evidence, and as reliable as the decision of a judge on the bench.

Under the present Government, Mr. Stratton showed that not only had the prices of school text books been reduced, but that the number had been reduced also. In the last year of Dr. Ryerson's reign there were 35 text books used in the public school course. Now the number of text books used in the public schools is only 11. In each case the Readers are counted as one book. The policy of the present Education Department is to use only one text book in each subject, so that pupils passing from one to another school in Ontario will not have to buy new books. Before Mr. Ross became Minister of Education there were used in the public schools 11 different text books in grammar, 9 in geography, 4 in arithmetic, 5 in history and 3 in reading—in all 32 books. Now there were only 5 text books, or one for each of the above subjects. (Hear, hear.) The policy of the Education Department was to and publication. When Mr. Ross became Minister of Education out of 184 books used in the High and Public schools, 49 only were written by Canadians and 135 by English or American writers. Now every book in the public schools is written and printed by Canadians. In 1883, 87 of the text books used in the High and Public schools were imported. Now, with the exception of two or three, the Modern Language books for High Schools, every text book was manufactured in Canada. (Applause.) Thus it would be seen the misleading and extravagant charges against the Education Department were without foundation. There was a sincere and honest desire to serve the best interests of the rising generations. The prices of school books were now as low as they could be made, and whenever it was found that the prices of books could be reduced, that course, as had been done in the past, would be pursued. If the educational interests of the Province could not be efficiently served by a capable, experienced and well-disposed minister like Hon. Mr. Ross, who is an educator of over a quarter of a century's experience, what could we expect from a man like Mr. Garvin, who couldn't even keep the situation of school inspector for Peterborough—who after two short years' service was found so unsatisfactory that a Board of Education, composed of a majority of Conservatives, had to discharge him. And yet Mr. Garvin poses as the coming Minister of Education in the mythical and far away Cabinet to be formed by Mr. Whitney. (Laughter and cheers.)

If, however, Mr. Stratton said, it should be suggested that an appeal to the support of the electors for re-election for another term was not fully justified by his own personal record, he was sure it could be shown that whatever might be lacking was more than supplied by the merits of the Government to which it has been his pleasure to give an independent support for the past twelve years, and which is worthy now as ever of the confidence of the country. The present Government was practically the same as that which has so magnificently managed the affairs of the Province for the past quarter of a century. Though the personnel had changed there had been no deterioration of administrative ability, and the present Administration was guided by the same general policy that had been pursued with such splendid results in the past. He might be permitted to indicate generally what that policy had been and still was. The past and present policy of the Ontario Liberal Government had been to apply the public revenues solely to and incidentally, and as had been the case, to materially lighten the burdens of the taxpayer and to develop the resources of the Province.

The present Government had control of the revenue and expenditures of Ontario from '72 to '98, a period of nearly twenty-six years. In that time there had been expended a grand total of about eighty-nine millions of dollars, with the result that every service of the country had been efficiently met, the ways of communication improved, railways aided and roads in new districts constructed, and the people of the remoter sections brought in touch with the older settled portions, the province, equipped with necessary public buildings, constructed out of current revenue without a cent of borrowed money or of debt, and without as much as a charge of one dollar of public money being corruptly spent. (Applause.) Furthermore, in the expenditure of the large total of 89 millions of dollars, in the numberless and diverse channels in which the public requirements demanded it should be directed, in the multiplicity of ways it has been spent, there has not been brought one charge capable of being for a moment sustained, that one dollar of this money had been expended in any way other than in conformity with the government's policy of applying the public revenue solely to the service of the province. (Hear, hear.) Nor was there any tenable claim that the public money has been extravagantly used. There might have been, and there have been, large increases in the public expenditure, but they have

by the legitimately increased demands of the public service. Our province had not stood still but had grandly advanced, and this advance had to be met with increased expenditure to meet the expanding demands of the public service. With all this the province had now to its credit the large surplus of assets amounting to about $5,500,000 over liabilities, and it is the only government on this continent whose name appears in the Dominion Year Book without a dollar of debt against it. This is certainly a proud record for any government, and it stands to reason that a government that has accomplished so much and so well in the financial management of our affairs without staining its hands with a single corrupt transaction, is deserving of continued confidence on the part of the people. Especially when, in addition to strictly honest management of our finances, there has been wise, prudent and economical management, considering the increased wants of the public service, which necessitated increased expenditure to constitute efficient services.

The government was vaguely charged with extravagance and with dissipating and wasting the much boasted surplus of Sandfield Macdonald. No such charge could be sustained for a moment. When Sandfield Macdonald was defeated he left in the treasury of $3,800,000, but if there had been a balance struck there would have been no such surplus, for it would have nearly all been wiped out to pay debts or obligations which Sandfield Macdonald left his successors to pay out of his apparent surplus. In the first place it took $300,000 to pay back to the Dominion, money advanced to meet the expenses of provincial government the first years after Confederation. This left $3,300,000 of the surplus. Then by special Act of the Legislature, there was appropriated $1,500,000 to aid railways, which had to be paid by his successors out of the surplus, which was thus reduced to $1,800,000. The Sandfield Macdonald successors had to pay to Quebec out of the surplus the sum of $200,000, that province's share of the collections from common school lands. This reduced the surplus to $1,600,000. Then the cost of the Rockwood Asylum, Kingston, $100,000, should have been paid by Sandfield Macdonald instead of being added to his surplus, which that payment brought down to $1,500,000. When Mr. Blake came into power he appropriated $400,000 to aid railways to meet engagements undertaken by Sandfield Macdonald and that came out of the Sandfield surplus, reducing it to $1,100,000. Sandfield Macdonald salted down an account of the Municipal Loan Fund, $500,000. This was a trust fund and he did not pay out a dollar of it, but it was afterwards paid out by the Mowat Government, and thus the surplus was reduced to the sum of $600,000. Thus we have nearly all of the Sandfield Macdonald accounted for spent to pay obligations for which his successors

WERE NOT RESPONSIBLE.

Mr. Blake afterwards appropriated $2,000,000 for railways which had to be met. So that the receipts of Sandfield's government vanished with considerable more to develop the Province which received full value. It is considered by many that another thing that should be charged to Sandfield Macdonald is the Teachers Superannuation Fund system, established by himself, under which he paid out only $6,000 and left it as a legacy to his successors, who have paid out under the system established by Sandfield Macdonald, over $1,400.00. Thus not only was his boasted surplus wiped out by payments for which his successors were not responsible but expenditures in excess were imposed. In addition to the baseless charge that the Government squandered the Macdonald surplus, vague charges of other extravagant expenditure were made. If the Government was extravagant the Opposition were consenting parties; as an example out of over thirty-three millions voted by Parliament for the public services in ten years, the Opposition assented to every dollar of expenditure, except the comparatively small sum of $89,000. If the Government was wasting the public money where were the watch-dogs of the Opposition? If there was extravagance they share the responsibility when they made no or little effort to prevent it. Another period was cited. In the five years from '88 to '92 a total sum of seventeen and a half millions was voted and the watchful Opposition only tried to prevent the expenditure of $350. The last session, however, the Opposition went to extremes and in a fit of obstruction divided the House, without rhyme or reason, on eight or more items of necessary expenditure, and there was not a tittle of proof that the items, all necessary to the efficiency of the public service, were excessive or unnecessary. Then the

that the expenditure had increased. That was a true charge and one to be proud of. We should blush if the province had not grown in the past 23 years, and if it did not need increased expenditure to provide for the growing wants of a growing province. But the increases had been legitimate and only grew with the growth and needs of the Province. The annual expenses of government of the Province had increased only 1 1-3 per cent. in 23 years. In 15 years, from 1881 to 1896, the expenditure of the town of Peterborough increased three times over, or from $39,695 in 1881, to $105,993 in 1896, and the town had comparatively little in the way of permanent improvement. In the matter of public buildings the Province had a proud record. The Province was well equipped with all necessary public buildings, all built out of current revenue and without a dollar of debt. (Cheers.) These include the Parliament Buildings, costing $1,256,985, put up with less than $1,200 contractors' extras. With the construction of these buildings the extraordinary expenditure represented by them, ceased, and the annual expenditure began to decrease. From 1891 to 1897 there had been a steady decrease of the annual expenditure, amounting to $1,638,503. Does this look like extravagance? and can Mr. Garvin or Mr. Green or any of his stumpers point

BANQUET AT LIVERPOOL.

An Important Speech by Mr. Chamberlain.

GREAT CHANGES IN COMMERCE.

Benefits to Trade Flowing From a Strong Foreign Policy—The West Indian Sugar Question—Belgium's Action Commended—A Word for Canada's Great Enterprise—Cable News.

Liverpool, Jan. 19.—The Liverpool Chamber of Commerce gave a banquet last evening to the Right Hon. Joseph Chamerlain, Secretary of State for the Colonies. Lord Strathcona and Mount Royal was also present.

Mr. Chamberlain was greeted with an ovation, and a special cheer was given for Mrs. Chamberlain, who was with him.

Mr. Chamberlain in the course of a vigorous and important speech, referred to the great changes in commerce during the last 20 years.

"Since the great powers were bitten with the megalomania with which the Germans are accustomed to taunt us, as if it were our exclusive peculiarity, the German Empire has increased six fold, and France four fold, while England," he said, "has only added a modest third to her colonial empire."

Answering the argument that it is useless to colonize barren wastes, he pointed to the magnificent enterprise of the Canadian Pacific Railway that had opened up a vast country of the greatest wheat fields and was about to open what were perhaps the greatest gold fields in the world.

"Looking to the certainty," he said, "that we are likely to be excluded by hostile tariffs from any country where the British flag does not float, our present policy is to take a very firm attitude and to maintain free markets. What the foresight of our ancestors has done for us in building a great empire, we continue to do for our successors. This is not the policy of aggression or lawlessness. We have a three fold duty: First, to keep what rightly belongs to us; second, in Lord Rosebury's admirable words, to 'peg out claims for posterity,' and, third, if anyone tries to rush those claims, gently to prevent them." (Laughter and cheers.)

Referring to "The fact that our sacrifices of territory and our general forbearance and deference to the sensibilities of our allies, have only resulted in our being told that we are the most hated nation in Europe," he repeated Lord Salisbury's warning, "There is a limit to this forbearance."

After a repetition of the old zollverein aspirations, which he described as "less absurd than some have supposed," Mr. Chamberlain said: "We must seek in our own family the strength and support we shall never find from foreign nations, and with this view, we must be ready to respond to any colonial overture without seeking pecuniary recompense, but looking to the wider interests of the future."

Then came the weightiest portion of the speech. Mr. Chamberlain reviewed at length the West Indian question and the report of the Royal Commission thereon, and emphasized the "great injury of the bounty system, which, while ruining the West Indies, brings a gain estimated at £2,000,000 yearly to Great Britain." The Government, he said, believed the country "generous and just enough to remedy this crying injustice." He was glad that Belgium had anticipated Great Britain in calling a conference on the subject and hoped this might succeed better than former conferences.

A Great Book Free.

When Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N.Y., published the first edition of his great work, The People's Common Sense Medical Adviser, he announced that after 680,000 copies had been sold at the regular price, $1.50 per copy, the profit on which would repay him for the great amount of labour and money expended in producing it, he would distribute the next half million free. As this number of copies has already been sold, he is now giving away, absolutely free, 680,000 copies of this most complete, interesting and valuable common sense medical work ever published—the recipient only being required to mail to him, at above address, 21 one-cent stamps to cover cost of mailing only, and the book will be sent postpaid. It is a veritable medical library, complete in one volume. Contains 1,008 pages, profusely illustrated. The free edition is precisely the same as that sold at $1.50, except only that the books are in strong manilla paper covers instead of cloth. Send now before all are given away.

PROGRESS OF THE CAMPAIGN.

Liberal Hosts Confident in the Justice of Their Cause.

MR. HARDY TO SPEAK TO-NIGHT

The Fight to be a Hot One All Along the Line—Conservative Activity Met by a United Phalanx of Liberal Workers—The Candidates Nominated in the Provinces.

Toronto, Jan. 19.—Though people can only speculate yet as to the date of the election, the activity of the politicians is as keen as if they knew when polling would take place. It would scarcely be correct to say that they are getting ready for the fray; they have already plunged into it, and they are in to stay until the last blow is struck. It will be a sharp struggle. The Conservatives are putting forth every effort to turn from office the Government that has administered the affairs of the province for a quarter of a century, but they will find the Liberals prepared at every point to resist the onslaught.

At the offices of the Ontario Liberal Association on Victoria street Mr. Alexander Smith, the Secretary, and his staff are hard at work despatching literature to the candidates, answering correspondence, receiving visitors and directing the movements of the campaign.

It is probable that the Premier will have something of importance to say to-night at the annual banquet of the Young Men's Liberal Club. He and Sir Richard Cartwright will be the principal speakers. In a few days the Ministers will be distributed throughout the country justifying their policy and administration before the people. Mr. Ross will speak at Barrie on the 24th, at Bowmanville on the 26th, and at Peterboro on the 27th.

Mr. Campbell Renominated.

Egansville, Ont., Jan. 19.—The South Renfrew Liberal convention re-nominated R. A. Campbell, M.P.P., unanimously.

Mr. Willoughby Chosen.

Watford, Ont., Jan. 19.—The Liberal-Conservative Association of East Lambton met here in convention, when Mr. W. G. Willoughby, who has been clerk of the township of Brooke for a long time, was made the unanimous choice.

South Essex Liberals.

Kingsville, Ont., Jan. 19.—The Liberals of South Essex convened here yesterday and unanimously nominated John A. Auld as candidate for the Provincial Legislature.

LONDON CITY HALL CRASH.

A Steel Girder to Replace the Beams That Broke—The Injured.

London, Ont., Jan. 19.—City Engineer Graydon has received instructions to have the damaged portion of the City Hall repaired. A steel girder will take the place of the beam which gave way, and the floor will be replaced as it was before the accident. This will not impede the progress of the idea of a new City Hall.

The injured in the City Hall accident all continue to improve rapidly. Yesterday Mr. Sweeney, who broke an arm and three ribs, and who could not move his neck for two weeks after, was a caller at the Mayor's office.

Mr. E. J. Cook, who had his collar bone broken in two places and was at one time not expected to recover, is now able to sit up.

Contractor Maurice Baldwin is around again. In addition to being crushed, he lost nearly all his teeth by coming in contact with a man's boot, while the latter was struggling to free himself.

Mr. Walter Beech, who was also seriously injured, will be able to be around again in a few days.

London, Jan. 19.—The Amalgamated Society of Engineers has formally endorsed the action of the joint committee of the trades unions in withdrawing the demand for 48 hours as a week's work, and has expressed the expectation that the lockout notices posted by the masters will be withdrawn. The attitude of the employers remains unchanged.

THE DEAF HEAR.

DR. CHASE'S CATARRH CURE

Working Wonders in Toronto.

Gave MRS. BINDON her hearing when Specialists failed.

About 3 years ago, Mrs. Bindon, of 11 Maitland St., Toronto, was attacked with la Grippe, which affected her hearing to such an extent that she was completely deaf. It was a serious affliction and she tried many remedies and consulted a prominent specialist on ear diseases, but derived no benefit. By a happy circumstance she was led to use Dr. Chase's Catarrh Cure, and before she had completed 3 boxes her hearing had partially returned.

She persisted in the application of the remedy, so confident was she of ultimate cure, and by the time 12 boxes had been used her hearing was completely restored. For 3 months now she has been free from deafness, and no emancipated sufferer was ever more delighted than Mrs. Bindon. On Sunday she goes to church and enjoys the service, a thing she was unable to do before Dr. Chase's Catarrh Cure gave her back her hearing.

I received the medicine all right, and am much obliged for it. I had Erysipelas every summer for five years, sometimes so bad my face, arms and body would swell to an enormous size and my eyes would be shut for days at a time. I tried two doctors but they did me no good, and I even went for change of climate, but all to no avail, until I got your TONIC. After taking one bottle the swelling ceased, and I improved every day and am now entirely cured.

Fred. W. Leiskau, Baden, writes:—

Please send me another bottle of Sloan's Indian Tonic. I bought one bottle from your agent early this spring, and I must say it is the best medicine in existence. I was troubled with a soreness in my right side and tried many doctors, but they could not cure me, and after using the one bottle I have had no trouble with the soreness. THE FORMAL ENDING.

The Lieut.-Governor Prorogues the House —The Speech From the Throne —The Final Proceedings.

Toronto, Jan. 18.—Yesterday afternoon the prorogation ceremonies of the Ontario Legislature were performed without much manifested interest on the part of the public. Twenty-six members were present, and prior to Sir Oliver Mowat's formal prorogation the bill affecting the sale of patent medicines and alcohol by druggists and others was amended by defining the word "manufacturer" to mean "a manufacturer for sale by wholesale." Two new sections to the Act were likewise passed. The effect and intention of these are to permit corporations (department stores in fact) having properly qualified chemists to sell similarly with druggists. The bill was read first, second and third time.

Formal Prorogation.

Then the formal prorogation took place. The band in connection with the detachment of the R.C.R.I. from Fort Stanley, which had attended Sir Oliver Mowat up from Government House, played the National Anthem as the Lieutenant-Governor entered the chamber in the full glory of his gold lace and cocked hat. He was supported by Commander Law, Capt. Crooks and Col. Graveley.

Sir Oliver duly read his formal speech as follows:

SPEECH FROM THE THRONE.

Mr. Speaker and Gentlemen of the Legislative Assembly:

In relieving you from further attendance upon your legislative duties, it affords me pleasure to express my appreciation of the diligence and zeal with which you have applied yourselves to public business during the session now brought to a close.

It is a source of satisfaction that the entire body of the public laws of the province has been again consolidated and revised, and that you have confirmed and approved the work so faithfully performed by the commissioners appointed for that purpose. The new volumes of the statutes will, without doubt, prove to be of great convenience to the public, and especially to the bench, the bar and the magistracy.

Pine Products.

I hope and trust that experience will prove the wisdom of the bill passed for the purpose of securing the manufacture of the pine products of our forests in our own country, and I cheerfully assent to it.

I have perused with interest the report of the Royal Commission on Reforestry said before the Assembly during the session, and have been gratified to learn that several inexpensive yet efficient methods for encouraging reforestry have been suggested, and I trust that the bill founded thereon which you have passed may greatly contribute to the end which you have had in view.

I assent with pleasure to the important bill having for its object the prevention of the spread of the San Jose scale, and trust that its effect will be to save our orchards from the destruction with which they are just now threatened.

The Election Law.

The bills to amend the Election law and the Manhood Suffrage Registration Act will, I do not doubt, be found to contribute to the more efficient working of these laws.

The measures repecting jails and the public service will, I trust, contribute to the more economical administration of the affairs of the counties and of the province, and I readily assent to them.

The measures which you have adopted relating to the municipal and assessment laws, to education, to mining, to the Division Courts and the examination of judgment debtors, and to prevent gambling at agricultural exhibitions, will, I am satisfied, prove to be advantageous to the public.

Railway Aid.

The appropriations made by you to aid railway enterprises will, I feel confident, conduce to the material progress and advancement of the country, and to the extension of settlements in the newer parts of the province.

I thank you for the liberal yet judicious appropriations made for the public service for the present year.

Congratulations.

At the close of this last session of the eighth Parliament of the province I cannot help congratulating you upon the wisdom and prudence which have guided your deliberations during the several sessions of this legislative term—upon the many good and useful laws which have been passed, upon the desire for economy in the administration of public affairs which you have constantly manifested, and upon the loyalty and patriotism which have characterized all your proceedings. I venture to hope that your successors may prove not less zealous in these respects than you have been, and that they may show as wise an appreciation of public duty and as earnest a solicitude for the protection of the great interests committed by the constitution to the charge of the Provincial Legislature as has marked your course during the Parliamentary term now about to close.

Hon. J. M. Gibson then observed: "It is His Honor's will and pleasure that this Legislative Assembly be prorogued; and this Legislative Assembly is accordingly prorogued," and the session was over.

LYING PAMPHLETS.

The Northern Pacific Railway Folders Inimical to Canadian Interests. —A B.C. Protest.

Vancouver, Jan. 18.—Comment is being made by the merchants of Vancouver and Victoria on United States pamphlets being distributed detrimental to the Canadian outfitting trade, particularly to one recently issued by the Northern Pacific Railway, entitled "Key to Klondike."

The local press commented on the matter and it is likely to be taken up by the Vancouver and Victoria Boards of Trade. The Northern Pacific folder referred to strongly recommends outfitting in the United States. As a matter of fact the miner saves from 12 to 40 per cent. by outfitting in either Victoria or Vancouver.

The very marked absence of any reference to Victoria and Vancouver as the chief points of departure for the Canadian gold fields in the folder is strongly commented upon, and it is thought that, in view of the wide distribution of this misleading Northern Pacific publication, the Boards of Trade of the two Canadian coast cities will take joint action in calling attention, not only to the saving to be made in purchasing in Canada, but to the advantages in starting from Vancouver or Victoria, from which steamers sail regularly, and where accurate information can be obtained from Government officials as to the regulations under which the Canadian gold fields are administered. Such information can only be correctly and fully obtained in Canada, and a gold-seeker so posted need have no fear of detention and annoyance on reaching the confines of the Canadian Yukon by reason of his running counter to some regulation.

In all forms of stomach trouble Munyon's Dyspepsia Cure will promptly cure where there are such symptoms as pain or soreness in the stomach, indigestion or distress after eating, pressure and fullness in the stomach, shortness of breath, poor appetite, coated tongue, sour or bitter raising from the stomach, heartburn, wind on the stomach, constipation, dizziness, faintness and lost energy.

When these symptoms are associated with biliousness, yellow-coated tongue, nausea, bitter taste in the mouth and sallow skin take Munyon's Liver Cure in alternation with the Dyspepsia Cure, an hour apart. Where there is obstinate constipation keep the bowels open once a day by using Munyon's Constipation Cure until they become regular under the effect of the Dyspepsia Cure. When there are troublesome heart symptoms alternate Munyon's Heart Cure with the Dyspepsia Cure. If there is great nervousness or inability to sleep, alternate Munyon's Nerve Cure with the Dyspepsia Cure. If the blood is poor in quality alternate Munyon's Blood Cure and Dyspepsia Cure. BENSFORT HEARD THE BOOM.

to a Conservative Government that ever lowered the expenditures. (Cheers.)

One of the items that had not decreased, however, was the most important, that of education. In 1897 we expended the year previous $702,569, and a gradual increase from 1893, when the total yearly expenditure for Education was $602,520. The most notable increases are in the grants to Public and Separate schools. The grant in 1872 was $204,750. This year the appropriation was $454,712, and the Poor School grants — a great boon to the new districts—had increased from year to year till it is now $50,000 a year. Altogether in the Province of Ontario over $1,200 a day was devoted to the public and separate schools.

The next most important department of public expenditure is that for the maintenance of our Public Institutions. The amount to be spent this year is $814,889, one-fourth of the gross revenue of the Province, an increase of $625,975 over the amount expended for these purposes at the time of Sanfield Macdonald. Had this expenditure remained stationary as it was under his Government there would have been a surplus in this department alone of over ten millions of dollars. And it must be remembered every dollar spent on these institutions represents the value of a dollar and no member of the Opposition has been, or is, able to demonstrate where extravagance exists, or to point to any country on the face of the globe where these unfortunates are better maintained and as cheap . (Cheers.) And it must also be remembered that the money thus spent, means a corresponding relief to the municipalities from which the inmates of our public institutions come. But for the provincial institutions these unfortunates would have to be maintained at much greater expense by the municipalities, or not maintained at all, which would be a disgrace to Christian civilization.

The expenditure on colonization roads was a most defensible one and the only fault to be found with the Government was that the expenditure was not large enough. The older settled districts from their advanced condition receive large appropriations from the Government funds on service not extended to new districts and it was eminently proper that the remoter settlements in the way of grants for colonization roads, for which the average annual grant is about $90,000. This expenditure was not only a benefit to the new townships, but to the towns to which colonization roads gives access.

Another branch of the policy of the Government of Ontario has been the lightening of the burdens of the taxpayer.

Of the 89 millions expended by the Government in the past twenty-five years, almost one-half over forty-three millions has consisted of money returned to the people in a way that directly lessened local taxation. These payments were for the following services: Education, $14,835,186; Agriculture and Arts, $3,471,715; Hospitals and Charities, $2,768,988; Asylums, $15,430,078; Administration of Justice, $3,694,504, Colonization Roads, $2,808,097.

All these sums represented the amounts that were actually expended for the

and did not include the amount of the departmental and legislative expense connected with their administration.

To show to what extent the County of Peterborough had participated in this distribution, it was mentioned that for aid to railways the Province had paid $77,620. Under Municipal Loan Fund distribution, $49,208; public works and improvements, dams, locks, slides, piers, etc., $52,000; Agricultural Societies, Mechanics' and Farmers' Institutes, $53,815; for patients, from town and county, maintained in asylums, $120,688; for prisoners from town and county in Central Prison, $10,440; Reformatory for Boys, $12,327; Deaf and Dumb, $12,000; Administration of Justice, $42,702; Colonization Roads, $116,685; the Nicholls Hospital, St. Joseph's Hospital and Protestant Home have received $20,571; Public and Separate Schools, $113,918; High Schools, $60,483, altogether totalling the large sum of $752,511, all paid by the Provincial Government to the County of Peterborough for the lessening of direct taxation. Thus was afforded local illustration of one feature of the Government's policy, that of lessening the burdens of the municipal taxpayers. (Cheers.)

Mr. Stratton fully dealt with the "piggery" issue, but it is necessary to hold over a report of his remarks for a future issue.

At the conclusion of his effective address, which was listened to with the greatest attention and favoured with frequent demonstrations of approval, Mr. Stratton resumed his seat amidst enthusiastic applause.

Mr. Stratton addresses the workers and his supporters in the committee rooms tonight, and to-morrow night he addresses the electors at Bailliboro.

After a vote of thanks to the chairman, three cheers for the Queen, and three rousing cheers for Mr. Stratton were given, and the meeting dispersed.

Last night's meeting at Bensfort struck the key note of victory that will sweep from Rice Lake to Cavendish, resulting in the triumphal return of Mr. Stratton for another term as a supporter of the best administration ever enjoyed by this or any other Province.

MUNICIPAL AUDITING IN ONTARIO.

The Necessity and Advantage—The Work of the Provincial Municipal Auditor.

The Legislature of Ontario passed an Act two Sessions ago for the appointment of a municipal auditor for the Province who is charged with the duty of investigating the financial affairs of the various municipalities of Ontario. He is at the call of any corporation to give advice on its book-keeping, etc., and, under certain conditions can be appealed to by rate payers who suspect irregularities. His first report has just been presented. He found irregularities in three places, in only two of which there was manifest fraud, the third being simply defective book-keeping. These places were County of Simcoe, County of Frontenac, and town of Niagara Falls.

Investigations were also held in the town of Niagara, the townships of Manvers, Roxborough, St. Joseph and Ridgetown Collegiate. "A great deal of my time," says the auditor, "has been taken up in the preparation of municipal cash books. These books are intended for villages, towns, townships, counties and cities under 15,000, and their use is compulsory.

"The bank account is fully displayed, and there is a column for each important class of receipts and disbursements. On the first of every month the balance should be struck and carried forward to the next, and if a monthly extract is insisted upon by the municipality, as should be done in every case, a fraudulent entry should be detected at once."

The auditor suggests some changes in the present law, as follows:—

(a) All municipalities should have the same privileges as towns and cities, that is, of appointing one skilled auditor.

(b) Auditors should be compelled to have a stamp, to be used when passing accounts.

(c) Auditors should be appointed in November or December.

JUDGING COMPLETED AT THE DOG SHOW.

BUT THE PRIZES HAVE NOT ALL BEEN AWARDED FOR POULTRY YET.

The Exhibition is Being Liberally Patronized by the Citizens—The Ladies Largely in Evidence—List of Prizes.

The judging at the Dog Show commenced at one o'clock yesterday afternoon, and in consequence there was a big crowd in the hall to witness the event. Messrs C. A. Stone and H. P. Mullens, of Toronto, each had a prize ring and divided the work of judging in the different classes. After finishing their work both expressed the opinion that Peterborough should be well satisfied with its first venture in the way of a Bench Show, as although the entry list was not as large as it would undoubtedly be next year, yet the high standard of the dogs shown was most pleasing to note, and argued well for the development of the different classes in the vicinity. The result of the judging was as follows:—

Note—The prizes are awarded as follows: 1st $4.00, 2nd $2.00, 3rd $1 00. Very highly commended; highly commended; and commended. For the latter three the abbreviations of V. H. C., H. C. and C. are used.

We Like the Prize Tea Well

So say our customers who buy this choice Japan or Black Tea at 20c per lb. and get their choice from 200 useful articles free of cost. We have buyers for it from near and far. And what the people think of the tea is like the Queen of Sheba when she saw the riches and grandeur of King Solomon, she said that the half had not been told, so it is with us, we have not space to tell you all that is said in praise about our Teas. Some say fine flavour, good body, fragrant, &c. Canned Tomatoes are quoted in Toronto at $1.75 per doz, we are selling finest brands at 10c per can, or 1 Tomatoes, 1 English Peas and 1 Corn for 25c, cheapest and best offered. We have a large stock of different kinds. We have over 400 Jars filled with Raspberries, Thimbleberries, Red Plums, Lombards, Black Currants, Gooseberries, Citrons, Quinces, Peaches, &c., home made, also a large variety of Pickles 10c per bottle. Our stock of general Groceries is fresh and well selected, comprising the best lines in Teas, Sugars, Coffees, Spices, Essences, Canned Goods, Raisins, Currants, Figs, Nuts, Hams, Lard and Bacon; Butter and Eggs, Oranges, Lemons, Apples &c., also Potatoes, Cabbage, Carrots, Parsnips, &c.

Our Celery is so nice, clean tender and crisp—as the people say; we have supplied it lately to several society dinners. When it is a question of Celery we are in it every time, we could fill a newspaper with what has been said about it, but we won't.

We invite everybody to come and buy the good things that we offer you. We will wait on you promptly, say a kind word, and give you a smile, and welcome you back again to the place where you get the good things to eat, at The PEOPLE'S GROCERY, 233 George St.

CANADA IS PROSPEROUS.

Sir Richard Cartwright Discusses the Fact Last Night.

THE PREMIER IN SPLENDID FORM.

Our Exports Have Shown a Marvellous Expansion. Since Liberals Came Into Power—A Grand Record for 18 Months—Premier Hardy Also Holds His Own For Ontario.

Toronto, Jan. 20.—Many and successful have been the banquets held under the auspices of the Young Men's Liberal Club of Toronto, and great speeches have been made at their banqueting table, but no more successful gathering has been held than that at the Rossin House last night under the presidency of Mr. R. J. Gibson, and no more interesting speeches made before the Young Liberals than those of Sir Richard Cartwright and the Premier of Ontario. The tone of the addresses proves that the national horizon is rapidly widening and that developments within the Arctic circle and in the far East, with which we would have had but a remote connection in pre-Confederation days, are now of importance to every Canadian, whether of the East or of the far West. The words "foreign policy" used by Mr. Bertram indicate that the days of localism are almost gone.

Sir Richard Cartwright made an exceedingly happy and inspiriting speech. He pointed with pardonable pride to the expansion of trade as an evidence that Liberal Government had been very far from the disastrous thing predicted by the Conservatives eighteen months ago. In the first year of Liberal rule the exports had increased from $109,915,000 to $128,983,000, an increase of fourteen millions, the greatest within a twelve-month within his knowledge. In the first five months of the present fiscal year the export of Canadian products had reached the great total of $74,896,000, another increase of fourteen millions, as compared with the same five months of last year. In all, therefore, Liberal rule had been accompanied—he did not pretend to say it was wholly due to Liberal rule—by the enormous expansion of twenty-eight millions in our exports within seventeen months. No wonder the tables trembled under the fists of the applauding Liberals. The record was one worthy of the tumultuous cheering with which the statement was greeted. In the latter part of his speech Sir Richard dealt with the problems of Klondike development and of the relations of Canada as a North American State to the empire. The greatest fact of the century politically was that two-thirds of the Anglo-Saxon race found their homes in the North American continent. To the sentiment that Anglo-Saxons north of the line were not prepared to barter their national existence for trade there was a splendid response, and this was no less marked when Sir Richard declared it to be the duty of Canadians to the Anglo-Saxon race to do everything possible to remove all prejudices and misunderstandings between the two great branches of the race. Behind the words of Sir Richard was unquestionably the thought that some day it may yet be possible to realize the dream of an Anglo-Saxon world-wide confederacy, guiding men onward to that day when the war drum beats no longer and the battle flags are furled.

His closing references to the coming provincial campaign, and the splendid record and reputation of the Government of Ontario, to its freedom from one speck of corruption, were received with the utmost enthusiasm.

Mr. Hardy was in magnificent form, and slashed away at the Opposition with splendid and characteristic vigor. The hollowness of the Opposition policy, or lack of policy, was shown, and how the lion-like roar of the Conservatives in the country had been changed to a donial in the House of the words attributed to them by their own journalistic friends. His praise of the excellent candidates coming forward for the first time to carry the standard of Liberalism in the campaign—not a few of them of historic name—was a graceful tribute to companions in arms, and will be appreciated by the gentlemen referred to. As to the date of dissolution the Premier was discreetly silent, but he warned his hearers that it would be soon.

To the right and left of the Chairman sat Sir Richard Cartwright and the Premier of Ontario; Mr. Warburton, the Premier of Prince Edward Island; George Bertram, M.P., James Innes, ex-M.P., J. S. Willison, W. Buckingham, G. E. Casey, M.P., President J. H. Mackenzie of the Reform Association, Alex. Wheeler, G. C Campbell, Hugh Blain.

AS EXPECTED.

The Denver Newspapers Win the Fight With the Departmentals.

Denver, Col., Jan. 20.—The boycott of the newspapers of Denver, begun ten days ago by fourteen department stores, was ended last night by the unconditional surrender of the stores. The stores made the demand that the papers reduce their advertising rates 50 per cent. or they would cease to advertise. The fight has stirred up the community greatly, the result being that the stores were almost forsaken by buyers, and the proprietors had to surrender or go out of the business. Labor unions held meeting after meeting to contrive plans to spread the agitation and keep the people away from the department stores.

At a late hour last night the newspaper offices were visited by a representative from each shop. They acknowledged that they were beaten, and would resume their advertising contracts as soon as arrangements could be made.

GRAVEYARD INSURANCE CASE

Is What the Poirier Tragedy at St. Scholastique, Quebec, Appears to Be.

St. Scholastique, Que., Jan. 20.—At the trial of Mrs Poirier yesterday for complicity in the murder of her husband Cure Pinault testified that he had known of the illicit relations between Mrs. Poirier and Parslow, her paramour and accomplice, and had written to the deceased on the subject, whilst he was away in the States, and had received a reply from him, declining to accept his statements, because he knew his wife better than the priest did.

The greater part of the morning was occupied with evidence concerning the policies in the Standard Life, which Mrs. Poirier persuaded her husband to take out in her favor. Just before the last one was written, in September last, the prisoner enquired of the company's agent whether the policy would be paid if her husband died other than a natural death.

Agent Champagne answered that the company would pay the policy, but was surprised at receiving such a letter.

The next witness, Mr. Prosper la Chapelle, farmer, St. Canute, said: I met the prisoner a week before the crime was committed and was speaking with her. She spoke harshly of her husband and of his conduct, saying he was a drunkard and loafer. I was surprised. I had known Poirier for several years and considered him a good and honest man and thought they were living happily together.

After different questions had been answered the court adjourned until 10 this morning.

Penitentiary Convicts Flogged.

Montreal, Jan. 20.—Contrary to what was given out yesterday, two of the ringleaders of the recent disturbance at the St. Vincent de Paul Penitentiary were flogged at that institution. Cardinal and Boudrias are the men who have already been punished, and it is said that a third, named Landry, will be whipped in a few days. Boudrias felt his punishment very keenly, but Cardinal began a quickstep as soon as the ordeal was over, and said he would not object to take as much more if they would give him a plug of tobacco. It is said that Mr. Foster, the acting warden, decided that discipline could not possibly be maintained unless an example was made of the leading rioters.

Fatal Slip of a Railroader.

Toronto Junction, Jan. 20.—It was just three weeks ago yesterday that the marriage of Florence Ada Pepplatt to William Field took place. To-day the bride of three weeks ago is a widow, and the sympathy of the populace goes out toward her. Mr. Field was a brakesman on the C.P.R., and yesterday morning about 4 o'clock, as the train was pulling out of Claremont station, he was walking on the top of the cars towards the engine, when he accidentally slipped on the frosty roof and fell to the track between the cars. He was instantly killed, and the body was greatly mutilated, about 19 cars passing over him. The remains were brought to the Junction.

Casselman District Fire Sufferers.

Casselman, Jan. 20.—Dr. Hurdman, who was appointed by the Ontario Government to give free attendance and medicine in the fire district, states that most of the sufferers have now been housed and are not suffering as much as was anticipated from the rigors of winter. The health of the inhabitants of the desolated district is good. Though large sums have been granted and expended, the advent of spring and the necessity of plowing and seeding will make additional help necessary.

Canadian Boy in Trouble.

New York, Jan. 20.—Recorder Goff in court yesterday declined to send to the Elmira Reformatory Ernest Corser, a young Canadian, who pleaded guilty to grand larceny in the second degree, in stealing $48. The recorder said that boys were frequently detained there for a much longer period than a court would think of fixing sentence. He therefore sent Corser to the penitentiary for three months.

A Bad Showing.

Toronto, Jan. 20.—The creditors of the Army & Navy Clothing Co. met yesterday at the office of Assignee Henderson, Front street. The hypothecation of goods to the value of $22,019, on which $18,255 was advanced, caused some discussion. The statement shows total liabilities of $104,751 and assets of $56,073. The following gentlemen were appointed inspectors: Messrs. George Kerr, W. Francis, Edward Still, M. McKenzie and N. Garland.

WESTERN DAIRYMEN.

Opening of the Annual Convention at London.

BUTTER AND CHEESE COALITION.

President McLaren's Reference to the Amalgamation—The President's Report Also Sketches the Progress Made During the Year—His Appreciative Eulogy of the Dairy Cow.

London, Jan. 20.—The annual convention of the Butter and Cheese Association of Western Ontario began in the Grand Opera House here yesterday afternoon. There was a large attendance of delegates from the western section of the province, together with prominent visitors from other parts.

The President's Address.

The President, Mr. A. F. MacLaren, M.P., of Stratford, read his annual address. He traced the history of the association in an interesting way since its inception in 1868, when the first meeting was held in Ingersoll. During all the years since elapsed, the great cheese industry had gone forward with leaps and bounds. He felt that a good work had been done in joining hands with the Butter Association. It was marvellous to note how many cheese factories had been recently converted into creameries for the purpose of making butter during the winter months; and the time had arrived when good combination men were needed. Every cheese maker should also learn how to make butter and make it properly. He praised Messrs. Clark, Morrison and Miller, and referred in severe terms to those factories who neglected to employ an inspector. Buttermaking Inspector Sprague had also done good work.

If the association was to keep pace with the times more instructors must be employed, at least ten for cheese and ten for butter. The Government had been assisting them liberally, and a fee of 25 cents a year from each factory would enable them to employ more instructors. The Legislature should invest the association with authority to empower instructors to act as health officers, as some of the factories are in a very filthy and deplorable condition.

He warned the association that the other provinces, as well as the United States and New Zealand, are watching them closely and pushing very hard to achieve a similar position in the markets of the world. There must be no idling and going to sleep. To-day our chances were greater than ever. Education had accomplished much, and yet people asked what use were dairy conventions and so on. Dairy farmers should learn from their neighbors, should visit the best dairy farms in America, and act accordingly. The cow should be treated almost as well as if she were one of the family.

The president dealt with better methods of boxing cheese. The cracking of cheese could readily be overcome, with proper care. Cheeses were often hauled to the railway in rain and mud. If dairymen would think for one moment of what a Klondike the Grand Old Cow and the dairy business would be to them if handled properly, he had no doubt there would speedily be a great improvement. Concluding, the president warned dairymen against allowing cows to eat turnips, drink impure water, go without salt, eat apples or refuse from cider mills, rape or rye, be abused, whipped, run by dogs or excited, allowing milkers to milk with dirty hands, or cheese-makers to buy second-hand supplies. He also urged care in packing of cheese and gave many other useful suggestions.

Directors' and Treasurer's Reports.

The directors' report was also presented by the president, dealing in detail with the doings of the past year.

Secretary-Treasurer Geo. Hately of Brantford read his annual statement of receipts and disbursements. Receipts totalled $5,831.38, the expense being $5,553.90, leaving a balance of $277.48.

Among the prominent visitors already here are: Prof. Shutt of Kingston, Prof. Robertson of Ottawa, Mr. D. Derbyshire of Brockville, President of the Eastern Association; Mr. Nelson Bruzelle of Cowansville, Que., Mr. McAllaster of Michigan, and Prof. Drummond of Kilmarnock Dairy School, Scotland.

The Evening Session.

At the evening session Mayor Wilson read an address of welcome on behalf of the citizens of London. C. C. James, Deputy Minister of Agriculture, and D. Derbyshire were the principal speakers at the meeting last night.

DID FARMER BROWN SUICIDE?

Detective Murray Working on a Case Up in Huron County.

Blyth, Ont., Jan. 20.—James Brown, a well-to-do farmer of Hullett Township, was found hanging dead in his barn last July. It was looked upon as a case of suicide and little more was thought about it. A bruise on the temple, however, and some gossip as to the dead man having been jealous of Albert Haggitt, a hired man, whom he dismissed on the day of the tragedy, led to placing the case before the Provincial authorities, who sent Chief Detective Murray to look into the affair. After Brown's death Haggitt again went to work for the widow, who, when she got $1,000 insurance on her husband's life, sold the farm and went to live with her father. Haggitt lingered around the neighborhood until he heard that Detective Murray was coming; then he went to the States, and is there now. Whether the detective can work up a case which will involve Mrs. Brown and the hired man remains to be seen, but that appears to be the line intended.

Suffered Agony With Pains in the Stomach—Hood's Cured.

The testimonials in favor of Hood's Sarsaparilla are as worthy of confidence as though they came from your most trusted neighbor. They are written by honest people who are grateful for the cures accomplished by this wonderful medicine. Read this statement:

"I was afflicted with severe pains in my stomach from which I suffered much agony at times. I was afraid to go any distance from home for fear of having an attack. I was treated for neuralgia of the heart without avail. At last my mother wrote and urged me to try Hood's Sarsaparilla. I have her letter before me at the present time and it reads as follows: 'My dear child, it grieves me to learn that you suffer so with your stomach. Do get a bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla and let me know the result, for I am confident

It Saved My Life.'

I am glad to state that I abided by my mother's advice and I am now healthy and strong. I never think of being without Hood's Sarsaparilla in the house. It is a great help to mothers while nursing. I have given it to my baby with satisfactory results. I cannot state all I would like of the many benefits I have known Hood's Sarsaparilla to give to other sufferers. I gladly recommend it." MRS. CURED BY

DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS

I have been troubled for some years with urinary trouble. I could not hold my urine. Was constantly broken of my rest, as I had to get up six or eight times every night. I tried doctors and many remedies without getting any relief until one of my friends advised me to try Dodd's Kidney Pills. I felt relieved from the first box and six boxes completely cured me. I cannot thank you enough for the new lease of life and comfort your Dodd's Kidney Pills has given me.

GOD SAVE THE QUEEN.

A CLAIM ON CANADA.

Sir Michael Hicks-Beach's Speech at Bristol.

SUPPORT OF THE BRITISH NAVY.

The Granaries Proposal Ridiculed—England Has Plenty of Friends Ready to Supply Her With Corn—Illness of Mr. Gladstone—An Official Medical Statement—News by Cable.

London, Jan. 20.—Sir Michael Hicks-Beach, Chancellor of the Exchequer, speaking at Bristol last evening, ridiculed the notion of providing granaries, as has been suggested in some quarters. He said he was convinced the British Navy was strong enough to hold its own, and in any war England would have many friends ready to supply corn.

Referring to the coming budget estimates he said these would show that the Government was fully alive to keeping up the standard of the army and navy; though, he declared, it was not creditable to Canada or fair to English taxpayers that such a colony should practically contribute nothing to the naval defences of the Empire. He hoped Canada would soon turn her attention to this matter, adding that he was convinced that if she did not, the day would come when she would have "a rude awakening which would be entirely her own fault."

In concluding his speech, the Chancellor of the Exchequer announced that China had approached England for assistance to pay the Japanese indemnity, and that the negotiations were still pending. The newspaper statements on the subject were erroneous and incomplete. The Government was pursuing the negotiations, and he believed the country would approve them. He could see no reason why foreign powers should object, but if the negotiations failed, Great Britain would take her stand on existing treaty rights.

Replying to a deputation of sugar refinery workmen that waited upon him yesterday, Sir Michael Hicks-Beach said the Government had readily accepted Belgium's invitation to a sugar conference and would do its best to secure a satisfactory result. He added that he believed the feeling of the country was so strong in favor of cheap sugar that any proposal to prevent the importation of bounty-paid sugar would meet with the greatest opposition.

MR. GLADSTONE'S HEALTH.

A Report That He Was Seriously Ill at Cannes Caused Excitement.

London, Jan. 29.—The Pall Mall Gazette yesterday afternoon made the following announcement in big type:

"With deep regret we learn on most excellent authority that Mr. Gladstone's health causes the gravest anxiety to those about him. His sojourn at Cannes has not had the effect of fortifying his strength, as anticipated."

§ The news placard of the Pall Mall Gazette read:

"Critical Condition of Mr. Gladstone."

The announcement is causing much anxiety.

Mrs. Henry Gladstone, daughter-in-law of Mr. Gladstone and Mr. George Armistead, an intimate friend of the family, were interviewed during the afternoon regarding the state of Mr. Gladstone's health. They both said there was nothing in the latest information they had received to justify the alarmist reports. Mr. Gladstone is suffering from a return of his neuralgia; but a letter received yesterday morning said he was better, and that his physicians were satisfied with his progress towards recovery.

The publication of the Pall Mall Gazette report caused numbers of inquiries to be made at No. 4 Whitehall Court, the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Gladstone.

The Westminster Gazette, although minimizing the alarming reports concerning the health of Mr. Gladstone, is "constrained to admit the fact that Mr. Gladstone has suffered great pain most of the time he has been at Cannes, being unable to leave his sofa."

Continuing, the Westminster Gazette remarks: "So far as the vital organs are concerned, however, he is no worse. On the other hand, continuous pain in a man of Mr. Gladstone's age is undoubtedly a symptom to cause anxiety."

Fairly Satisfactory.

Cannes, South of France, Jan. 20.—The health of Mr. Gladstone is fairly satisfactory. He went out for a drive yesterday.

Official Medical Statement.

London, Jan. 20.—An official medical statement issued last night reasserts that there is no cause for alarm as to Mr. Gladstone's health, although it has not benefitted as much as had been hoped at Cannes. The facial neuralgic pains persist with daily fluctuations owing to the cold winds and wet weather, but the complaint is quite local. His physical powers have not suffered; his strength is good, his appetite excellent; he joins the family at meals and makes regular drives, weather permitting.

It is not true that the family has been summoned.

Will Open on Monday.

London, Jan. 20.—At yesterday's conference of the Federation of Master Engineers, called to consider the situation in view of the withdrawal of the 48 hours demand, it was resolved to re-open the works on Monday next, providing the union accept the conditions of management mutually adjusted by the recent Westminster conference.

Zola Will Fight It Out.

Paris, Jan. 20.—It is said that Emile Zola has already prepared his defense, and that he will call 250 witnesses, including handwriting experts, when he is tried for publicly accusing a number of French officials of perjury in connection with the Dreyfus proceedings.

Effect of the Light Sentence on Prince.

London, Jan. 20.—The widespread dissatisfaction caused by the light sentence upon Archer, alias Prince, the slayer of William Terriss, receives point in two cases mentioned in yesterday's newspapers. The first of them is the case of a former music hall performer who was arraigned in court and remanded upon the charge of waylaying the manager of the Tivoli Music Hall and threatening him with the fate that befell Terriss. In this instance the ex-performer made the same accusation against the manager that Prince did against Terriss, that of blackmailing him and preventing him from receiving assistance from the Music Hall Charity Committee.

The other case was that of a discharged coachman, who threatened the life of the lady who had dismissed him from her employ. In making his threats the coachman quoted the Terriss case, and declared that he was prepared to do as Prince had done and suffer for his act in the same way.

RUSSIA WANTS MANCHURIA.

Loan Not Settled Yet—Opening of Talien-Wan Causes the Friction.

Pekin, Jan. 20.—The Tsung-Li-Yamen (the Chinese Foreign Office) has had another conference on the subject of the loan, which is still unsettled. Besides the right to extend the Burmah Railroad through Yun-Nan Province, (the most southeasterly province of China), Great Britain asks the right to build railroads through the Province of See-Schuan (north of Yun-Nan) and a third treaty port is demanded, the indentity of which, no doubt, is Siang-Yin, situated just south of Sung-Ling Lake in the Province of Hu-Nan, which Japan proposed to open at the time of the Shimonoseki negotiations.

The proposed opening of the port of Talien-Wan (on the Liao-Tung peninsular, and north of Port Arthur, a position which would command the railroad connecting Port Arthur with the north and Manchuria) continues to be the chief difficulty, Russia desiring to keep the whole of Manchuria for herself. Neither power is willing to yield on this point, and the question is no longer a commercial one. It has become political.

Centurion at Nagasaki.

Yokohama, Jan. 20.—The British battleship Centurion, flagship of the British squadron in Chinese waters, has arrived at Nagasaki.

The organ of the Government reproaches Russia, Germany and France with following a selfish policy in the far East, and adds:

"Japan will avoid alliances; but she is prepared to act vigorously if necessary, for the maintenance of peace."

British Warships at Kiao-Chou.

London, Jan. 20.—The British Admiralty has just issued a list of the whereabouts of the warships of Great Britain in the far East. It shows that the first-class twin-screw armored cruiser Undaunted (of 5,000 tons, 8,500 horse power and 12 guns) and the twin-screw sloop Algerine (of 1,050 tons, 1,400 horse power and six guns) are at Kiao-Chou Bay.

Seven Lives Lost, It Is Feared.

Belfast, Jan. 20.—The British steamer Herbert, hailing from Leith, Scotland, has foundered on the County Down coast, about six miles from Quan Island. The captain was saved, but it is believed that the other members of the crew, numbering seven, are lost.

Anti-Hebrew Riot at Algiers.

Algiers, Jan. 20.—The students here engaged in a violent anti-Hebrew demonstration yesterday evening. They were dispersed by the police.

FIFTEEN YEARS OF AGONY.

Suffering Ended in a Few Weeks by the Use of Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Petrolea, Jan. 10.—From Ingersoll to Petrolea the way is marked at short intervals by houses which are pointed to as those in which Dodd's Kidney Pills have cured cases of Kidney Disease, Bright's Disease, Diabetes or other kidney or blood disorder.

John Russell, a farmer living near here, tells of his cure, after suffering fifteen years with Bright's Disease.

Three doctors treated him; may remedies were tried. All failed.

Then Dodd's Kidney Pills were recommended. He tried them. The invariable result followed. A few boxes cured him.

This story, with variations as to the disease, is told by hundreds in Petrolea. Dodd's Kidney Pills have not been known to fail once yet. Every case has been a cure.

Forsyth's Faultless Catarrh Cure.

A POSITIVE CURE FOR CATARRH AND COLD IN THE HEAD.

This effective remedy for Catarrh and Cold in the head is a fume inhalent—it goes direct to the seat of disease and gives relief in a marvellously quick time. It will cure the slightest cold in the head almost instantly, and, if faithfully and persistently used, it will cure the most stubborn and long standing cases of chronic catarrh of the head—it never fails to do its work—it is easily applied—it is harmless to use—you simply take a small portion of the remedy in the palm of the hands, rub the hands together, then partly open them and inhale the fumes from the remedy into the throat and nose, and rub a little of the remedy on sides of the nose and temples.

Dear Sir—I have been using catarrh remedy of different kinds for the last fifteen years, but find "Forsyth's Faultless Catarrh Cure" the best I have used, and have no hesitation in recommending it to any one troubled with catarrh or cold in the head.

Yours sincerely, W. HARPER, Hardware Merchant.

Lakefield, Ont., Feb. 7, 1896.

John Forsyth, Berlin:

Yours faithfully, ROBERT FOWLER,

Dear Sir—I take pleasure in giving my testimonial to the efficacy and value of Forsyth's Faultless Catarrh Cure. I can faithfully recommend it to anyone troubled with chronic catarrh or cold in the head.

FULLY ORGANIZED, READY FOR THE FRAY.

Committee Rooms Crowded With Mr. Stratton's Working Supporters

A SPLENDID RALLY OF WORKERS.

MR. PETER HAMILTON CHAIRMAN.

Strong and Energetic Ward Committees Chosen—Rousing Address by Mr. Stratton—Other Speakers Address the Meeting—A Magnificent Beginning — Hundreds of Enthusiastic Workers in Harness for the Liberal Candidate — Manhood Registration Explained.

Without doubt the largest, most enthusiastic and most representative campaign organization meeting ever held in Peterborough, was held in Mr. Stratton's committee rooms, over Loch's fur store, last night, for the purposes of organizing for the coming election contest. The best workers mustered in strong force, and the spirit and confidence with which the contest is entered, coupled with a determination for energetic work, points to a most triumphant issue of the campaign. Organization was completed, and hundreds of zealous and experienced workers are now in harness, and making a united effort for the success of the Government candidate in West Peterborough.

A FEW SPEECHES.

Dr. Bell, President of the West Riding Reform Association, occupied the chair, and after expressing the pleasure it gave him to see so large a representation of the supporters of the Ontario Government present, said it was a forecast of success, and was especially encouraging when we had a candidate like Mr. Stratton, whose ability, zeal and energy had been worth a great deal to West Peterborough and to the Province. His ability and activity have placed him in the front rank of members of the House, and he has shown qualities as a debater and in executive ability that indicated that in case of a vacancy in the Cabinet he was the man to fill it, and he would do it worthily. (Cheers.) Dr. Bell referred to the duty of the meeting in the direction of obtaining a triumph. Each one should work with a sense of his individual responsibility for the success of the elections. We had heard something of the cry for a change. That would not be bad, if we needed a change, or if we could do better. But there's no chance of that with the present Opposition. If the Opposition got into the House and formed a Cabinet there would not be a single member who had any executive experience.

A voice—"There's no danger of their getting a chance."

Dr. Bell concluded by saying that he intended to go to work, and he hoped that every member of this large and influential meeting would do the same.

Mr. Stratton on rising to address the meeting, was enthusiastically applauded. He was very greatly encouraged by the splendid turn-out that had assembled on such short notice. The Legislature had been in session for seven weeks, and he had not had time to pay as much attention as he would wish to the affairs of the riding. He had returned at noon on Saturday, and had held his first meeting at Bensfort last night. It

WAS THE BEST MEETING

he had ever held in that township, and he knew that he had more votes in that part of the township than ever before, and that he would have a better majority than at the last election. It was very encouraging to start the campaign with such cheering prospects. It was very encouraging to receive so many assurances of support. He believed that his supporters had been honest towards him in their attitude, and he had endeavoured to deal honestly and openly with them. His opponents had shown their weakness by resorting to unworthy misrepresentations in dealing with himself and the record of the Government. Mr. Stratton said it was very gratifying that thirty years of government in Ontario could be looked back upon with so much pride. We had as a result of that thirty years of administration the best equipment of public buildings of any province or state on the continent, the best Parliament buildings, all built out of current revenue without a dollar of borrowed money or debt—without a dollar of debt and without a dollar of the public money gone astray. The legislation was up to the mark and in advance of any other civilized state in the world—a model to other countries. Our educational system was pronounced the best in the world—as the award of the judges at the Chicago Exposition, which gave our educational system the first, declared was the completest and best all-round system in the world. Our agricultural lands were peopled with a sturdy class of population. We should be proud of a government that could go to the country and say truthfully that it was all accomplished without a dollar of debt (cheers) and with a clear surplus of assets over liabilities of over five and a half millions of dollars, after having spent over 93 millions; this was a grand record, and we had to-day as good rulers as and the present Government, which was a continuation of the past, had done its share. It was conspicuous for advanced legislation, up the latest requirements of the country and at the head of the Government was a minister, Hon. Mr. Hardy, specially equipped for all the needs of his position with a clear conception of what the country required with a full grasp of the situation that confronted a Government. Under these circumstances it was to be expected that the Government would command the confidence of the country to a very high degree, and that fact should encourage us in continuing boldly in the work of the West Riding campaign.

This meeting, they were aware, was for the purpose of organization, for electing chairmen for the town committees and selecting the committees with ward heads to work under their direction. Thus we should be ready for the fray. They were doubtless aware there had been a change in the law in regard to the registration of Manhood Franchise voters and he briefly explained that as soon as the writs were issued for the elections the Clerk of the House would notify all persons charged with the local duties of registration; in this case Judge Weller, County Judge; Mr. D. W. Dumble, Police Magistrate, and Mr. John Moloney, Clerk of the Crown, and they would appoint subordinate officials to assist in the registration and registration would be made for two days and one night up to ten o'clock. All young men not on the roll as voters at municipal elections and elections to the Legislative Assembly would be eligible for registration under the following conditions. They must be:

Twenty-one years of age.
British subjects.
Residents of the Province one year before the date of the election.
Residents of the town three months, and Residents of the polling sub-division one month.

The procedure to be taken in the case of persons who were ill, of residents who who absent on temporary occupation, of students, etc., was referred to. These could be registered through the affidavits of those who knew the circumstances on behalf of those thus situated and legally entitled to register. Registration would take place within seven days after the issue of the writs, and there would be as many registration booths as was considered necessary for

EFFECTIVELY PERFORMING THE WORK.

In this connection the duty of the committees was pointed out and diligence urged. A man would be kept in the committee rooms during the day and evening to receive names.

It was, he concluded, extremely gratifying to see this exceedingly large representation and enthusiastic attendance of workers at the opening meeting of the campaign. He was greatly encouraged and deeply grateful for the warm interest thus manifested. He was pleased with this, for it would be necessary that he should leave considerable work to his friends. He was under engagement to address meeting in other ridings in East Peterborough, in Ontario and Victoria Counties.

As to the result of the contest in West Peterborough, he had no doubt—it was merely a question of majority. We should see, he firmly believed, a bigger vote for the Government candidate and a bigger majority than had ever been polled in the riding. Conservatives will feel that there were many prominent Conservatives in the riding whom they would have been glad to support, instead of being asked to pin their faith to a new and untried man. He had confidence in the friendly attitude of the workingmen. He thought they could put confidence in a Government that had put more law on the statute books in the interests of the workingman than any other Government he knew of.

Mr. Stratton, in concluding his remarks, was most enthusiastically applauded, one among many other evidences of the high place he held in the estimation of the very large gathering of workers present, and of their readiness to put up splendid work in pushing his candidature to triumphant success.

THE CHAIRMAN ELECTED.

Mr. Peter Hamilton was unanimously and enthusiastically elected chairman of committees for the town and Mr. Richard Hall, vice-chairman.

Mr. Hamilton, in accepting the position, said he did not expect to again occupy the chair. Mr. Stratton had asked him to take the chairmanship; he was a very busy man, but he felt that he was in a sense "the father of the boy (laughter,) and he could not refuse. When he first contemplated being a candidate Mr. Stratton had spoken to him (Mr. Hamilton) as to the wisdom of contesting this strong Conservative riding. He had not discouraged him and the result showed that Mr. Stratton had the stuff in him of which winners were made, and his successful political career had justified the confidence reposed in him twelve years ago. Everybody, Mr. Hamilton said, had an inherent sense of justice. He had many men employed who had served him faithfully, and his sense of justice led him to appreciate their friendly services, and to treat them in a spirit of friendly interest. Town councillors were very much complained of, but he believed that in the main they did their best for the town and the town should be grateful.

"If ever any riding," Mr. Hamilton said, "was under deep obligation to any representative, that riding was West Peterborough and that representative was Mr. J. R. Stratton." (Cheers.)

His services had been willingly and freely placed at the disposal of his constituents—he was as ready to befriend those who had opposed him as those who had helped him, and he did this cheerfully as a matter of right, and not as conferring any obligation. The riding of West Peterborough to Mr. Stratton for the good services he had rendered the past twelve years. We sometimes forget what we owed to those who have done so much to help the town. He referred to Mr. Geo. A. Cox, who had reason to feel that what he had done to build up and advance Peterborough had not been as well appreciated as it might have been, and he believed if the people had it to do over again they would treat Mr. Cox and his services differently from what they had done. We should at least be just and fairly appreciate those who served us faithfully, especially those whose interests were in the town and who had shown that they were loyal to the town and county, and as willing as they were able to advance its interests. He would not say one word in disparagement of Mr. Garvin, but he felt the people would not show good judgment if they for a moment compared his claims for popular support with those of the present representative. Mr. Garvin had never done anything to show that he could do anything to advance the interests of the town. The town owed it as a duty to remember the services of a representative who had faithfully served its interests and had always cheerfully helped every good cause. He hoped the town would do itself justice by giving a liberal support to the man that has done so much and was able and willing to do so much for the town. Mr. Hamilton concluded his remarks by saying that if he were not present in the committee rooms every night it must not be thought that he was not

OWED A DEBT OF GRATITUDE

MAY MOVE TO CORNWALL.

Negotiations are Being Made With the Toronto Rubber and Shoe Co. of Port Dalhousie—What is Peterborough Doing?

The appended despatch from Cornwall is taken from Wednesday morning's Montreal Star:—

"The advantages which Cornwall offers in the line of water power, and since the construction of the Ottawa & New York in railway facilities, have begun to attract the manufacturers all over the country. The town council are at present negotiating with the Toronto Rubber and Shoe Company, of Port Dalhousie, with a view to the removal of their factories to Cornwall. The company desires to obtain a site where they can enlarge their present business, and at the same time obtain a water power of 300 or 400 horse power. At present they employ some two hundred hands, to whom they pay on an average $6,000 a month in wages. A committee of the town council is now in communication with Mr. Jas. Robertson, the president of the company, and it is likely that he will visit Cornwall in the near future to inspect the site offered by the council. The committee is confident of being able to secure the approval of it, and expect to see the company remove here in the summer.

BIRD AND DOG SHOW.

THIS IS THE LAST DAY.

EXHIBITION CLOSES AT TEN O'CLOCK THIS EVENING.

Grand Parade of Winning Dogs in the Prize Ring at Eight O'clock To-night—Notes of the Show.

The Poultry and Dog Show closes to-night at 10 o'clock.

Mr. Daniels concluded the judging of the poultry to-day and the prize tickets are all attached to the coops. The list will be published to-morrow.

Mr. F. J. Runnels, of Hastings, was up at the dog show to-day. Mr. Runnels is the breeder of Mr. J. P. Covey's grand St. Bernard, "Buffalo Bill," which was awarded first prize. Of this dog, which was never shown before, the judges say that he would certainly win at New York. Mr. Runnels still owns the dam of "Buffalo Bill," and has several other of his pups, which he thinks will be quite as good as "Buffalo Bill" when they are full grown. It is a great feather in his cap to win over the big breeders who exhibited. He received quite a few orders for pups whilst in the building.

Mr. Daniels, who is judging the poultry, is delighted with the exhibition made. In Asiatic classes he never saw finer birds shown in the Dominion. The light Brahmas exhibited by Mr. Isaac Dormer, of town, being unequalled in his remembrance. The black Minorcas, in the Mediterranean class, were also away above the average. In this connection it is pleasing to note that the winning strain all through were bred by Mr. Harry Lush, of town. In the American class the Barred Rocks and Golden Wyandottes were also especially worthy of notice in the judges opinion, as were the bronze turkeys, geese, ducks and pigeons.

In chatting with Mr. Mullane, he said that local dog owners should not be in the least discouraged, if they did not receive prizes, as the winners were all dogs of the very highest standard. In the fox terriers Aldon Radiance and Aldon Sequel were shown in the smooth and wirehair varieties, and of course swept everything as they had just returned from New York, where they won from the cracks of America, the former being considered the best of her class in existence. In collies the winner of the recent Montreal dog show took first, but second and third went to Mr. McAllister of town. Mr. W. H. Moore's "Mountain Chief," took the V. H. C. diploma, and Miss Boucher's "Laddie" was highly commended. The first prize in collie bitches went to the winner at Montreal and other shows, whilst Mr. E. H. White of town took second. The V. H. C. went to Mr. McAllister's "Grass Widow," and J. Fred Davidson's "Swan" was commended. In the mastiffs, Mr. Samuel Monroe and Mr. George Pratley were both winners. Mr. Wm. Stockdale's St. Bernard dogs was commended. Mr. E. A. White's bitch took a V. H. C., as did Mr. Wm. Head's. There was a good deal of interest taken in the Fox hound class, Messrs. H. Burdett, John Clancy, A. Corcoran, Wm. Snowden and John Watt were all winners. H. C. Winch and F Bradburn took first and second in the bitches. Walter Head was a winner in Irish setters, as was Bert D. Jones in black cocker bitches. In the cookers of any other colour Thos. Warren's "Nellie" was highly commended and W. Buchanan's entry in field spaniels received favourable mention. Mr. R. H. Fairweather's entries got 3rd and H.C. In wirehair fox terriers and in smooth bitches Alex. Patterson's "Queen" was commended. D. C. James and Dr. Poole took 1st and 2nd in dachshund dogs, and in bitches the order was reversed. Dr. Poole getting first.

Mr. G. W. Hatton's Manchester Terrier was awarded third prize in the miscellaneous terriers, and Mr. Alex. Gibson's Yorkshire secured a V. H. C. diploma. In the bitches of this class Mr. Hatton's Manchester "Fly" took 2nd.

In the miscellaneous class Mrs. W. G. Sims' Pomeranian "Punch" got 3rd. This entry was a tie with Miss Boucher's collie "Laddie," for the best lady's dog owned in Peterborough.

Mr. Isaac Downer swept everything in Light Brahmas, and his coops are decorated with prize tickets. No outsider got a first prize over him.

Mr. Wm. Collins has been kept busy looking after the big entry list in the poultry department. What the Association would have done without him would be hard to say.

Mr. C. Y. Ford, of the Kennel Gazette, states that the show in St. Bernards was ahead of that of the Toronto Exhibition and that Peterborough should be proud of the success attained.

There were over a thousand visitors at the exhibition yesterday.

The judges were delighted with the attention which Dr. Poole gave the dogs in actually grooming and exercising them himself. As the Dr. has made a special study of dogs as a Veterinary Surgeon he was able to keep all which were entrusted to his care in the best of condition and the dogs show the result of his attentions, many of them looking far better than when they entered the show.

SUDDEN DEATH

Of Thos. Brown, who Was Visiting Here From the West.

The sudden death occurred on Monday night of Mr. Thomas Brown, of Sidney, North Dakota, who with his son Charles and the latter's wife, is visiting friends and relatives in the county. At the time of his death the deceased was staying with his brother in-law, Mr. Samuel Sargent, of Otonabee. He showed no signs of indisposition except by complaining slightly of a pain in his side on Monday evening, but nothing serious was apprehended and he retired about half past ten. Not coming down to breakfast in the morning, his son went to awaken him and found him lying in bed, dead. From the position of the body death must have come quickly and painlessly immediately after retiring, as the deceased had not apparently moved after once getting beneath the clothes. Deceased was a brother of Mr. John Brown, of Chicago, formerly in the furniture and undertaking business in Peterborough. He removed to Dakota some fourteen years ago and with his wife and family settled in Sydney. Mrs. Brown died in 1888. She was a sister of Mr. Samuel Sargent, of Otonabee. Nine children survive. All are in Dakota with the exception of Charles, who was accompanying his father and who lives in Manitoba. The body will be taken to Dakota for interment.

THE PETRIFIED MAN.

GREATEST NATURAL WONDER OF THE AGE.

A Remarkable Story—The Curiosity to be Again Shown in Peterborough.

The stone man, one of the greatest marvels of the age, which was shown here a few weeks ago, will be again placed on exhibition in Peterborough for a few days. It is to be seen on the corner of Water and Hunter streets, opposite the Post Office, in the store formerly occupied by Mr. W. H. Hill as an insurance office.

For the last couple of weeks the petrified man has been on exhibition in Toronto, where it was examined by many prominent scientists and men of learning, including Chancellor Burwash, Professor Robertson, and Mr. David Boyle, the well known archæologist. All united in pronouncing it a genuine case of petrification.

The curiosity is under the management of Mr. Jas. McCreary, late principal of the west ward school. He is taking the body to Montreal and the South, but before doing so he has decided to place the curiosity again on exhibition in Peterborough, that all the people may have an opportunity of witnessing this strange freak of nature.

The body is the perfectly petrified remains of a Canadian guide named LeCount, who, while conducting a party of Englishmen from from Fort Garry, now Winnipeg, to St. Paul, Minnesota, was shot through the heart by one of the Englishmen, who had become insane on the voyage. He was buried to a swamp by his wife and two young sons, who were accompanying the party, and there it remained until it was discovered by accident.

In June 1896, while a roadway was being constructed across the farm of a man named McPherrin, near the village of Warren, in northern Minnesota, the labourers struck a hard object about two and a half feet below the surface. On raising it it was found to be the perfectly petrified body of a man about five feet six inches in height, with a bullet hole through the chest. The two sons of LeCount, who yet live in Cook county, Minnesota, identified the body as that of their father, and their identification was fully sustained.

A struggle for the possession of the body was begun between the sons of LeCount and parties who had bought the curiosity from the original finders. After various lawsuits the strange object was finally put up at auction and bought for $1,000 by Mr. T. M. Graham, of Grand Forks, Minnesota, a brother-in-law of Mr. McCreary. The great scientific value of the body being found out, Mr. Graham was made an offer of $1,500 for it, which he refused. It was placed by him under the management of Mr. McCreary, who has charge of it.

It is undoubtedly one of the greatest natural marvels of all time, being the only known case of genuine total petrification. The price of admission has been lowered from 25 to 10 cents. Everybody should see it.

DIRECTORS' REPORT.

In presenting the annual report for the year 'If your directors have pleasure in looking back upon the past year's exhibition with great satisfaction, as success attended many phases of the exhibition.

Notwithstanding the inclemency of the weather it was gratifying to us to see that the attendance was so large under the circumstances. The exhibit of live stock from all points in Ontario, was the largest and best in the history of the Society, and the great interest manifested in this part of the exhibition evinces the fact that the farmers are giving their attention to the dairying industry which is the hope and future of the successful agriculturist, and that the reputation of our farmers for progressiveness is such as to warrant those who are owners of such valuable herds in bringing them the distances that they do for exhibition purposes.

The roots and fruits were not as largely exhibited nor of as good quality as those exhibited at some previous exhibitions, but were as satisfactory as those shown at surrounding exhibitions as far as we observed.

The inside exhibits was as usual very good, and the outside exhibits, which go to add strength and attraction to our annual show, were satisfactory.

We have to report for the first time under the present management a deficit, but the unfortunate state of the weather was the cause of the shortage in this connection. It will be remembered the day we anticipated having the largest attendance, it rained heavily until midday, which prevented the large attendance which we expected. The membership of the Exhibition was the largest in its history.

We have to thank the County Council and the Town Council for the interest they have generally manifested in the success of our annual show. We have also to thank the citizens who have from year to year contributed, and the public for their large patronage.

We desire also to express our appreciation of the labours of the Peterborough Fire Brigade, who turned out to save our buildings from destruction by fire during the summer.

We also desire to convey to the judges our thanks for the satisfactory manner in which they performed their duties.

We sincerely trust that the members to be elected to day will be composed of those who will in the future, as in the past, use their best efforts to keep the Peterborough Central Exhibition in the position of the foremost County Show in Eastern Ontario.

All of which is respectfully submitted,
GEO. E. ELLIOTT,
President.

The report was received and adopted, as was the financial statement, which was submitted as follows by W. J. Green, Secretary-Treasurer:

SUBSTITUTES FOR PRAYING.

Parrots and Prayer Wheels Among the Calmuck Tartars.

Finally if you spend most of your time, as I did, among the natives on the hurricane deck, your attention will be attracted by a third class of worshipers—namely, the Calmuck Tartars, who live in felt tents or kibitkas (kee-beet-kas) along the lower Volga, and who wander, with great herds of cattle and camels, over the steppes of eastern Europe and western Asia. These flat faced, ill looking nomads are all Buddhists, and not only do they pray, but they may fairly claim the credit of having reduced devotion to a science.

Praying five times a day, as the Mohammedans do, or even twice a day, after the custom of the fire worshipers, seems to have been too severe a tax upon the energies of the original Buddhists, and they set their ingenuity at work to devise some means of lessening the labor. The first expedient that occurred to them was teaching parrots to pray and then claiming the credit of the prayers thus said by proxy. This answered the purpose very well at first. But teaching parrots was troublesome, and besides that, the parrots in spite of all precautions would occasionally pick up scraps of profane learning, which they intermingled with their devotions in a manner not at all edifying. So the Buddhists finally abandoned the instruction of parrots and calling in the aid of applied science invented the prayer wheel.

Nobody, it seems to me, but the laziest of Asiatics would ever have thought of introducing labor saving machinery into the realm of the spiritual. But the Buddhists not only thought of it, but put the idea promptly into execution. The prayer wheel used by the Calmuck Tartars on the lower Volga is a small wooden cylinder 6 or 8 inches in length and about 2 inches in diameter, turning upon a vertical axis, the lower end of which is extended and thickened to form a handle. This cylinder is stuffed full of short, written prayers, and every time it is turned upon its axis all the prayers that it contains are regarded as duly said. Could anything be more simple or satisfactory? There is no shutting of the eyes, no getting down on the knees in uncomfortable positions, no facing in any particular direction. All that the supplicant has to do is to give his wheel a twirl and it grinds out prayers with a rapidity and fluency which leave nothing to be desired. But from an occidental point of view the whole performance is, of course, an absurdity. I could feel some respect for the prayers of the Mohammedans and of the fire worshipers, but the wooden wheels of the Calmuck Tartars excited only contemptuous amusement.—George Kennan in Independent.

WISDOM OF CHATHAMITES

Dodd's Kidney Pills are First Favourites With Them.

Chatham, Jan. 17—The druggists of this town report most extraordinary sales of Dodd's Kidney Pills during the past few months. Every citizen is thoroughly acquainted with the sterling merits of these wonderful pills, which are admitted to be the only medicine that will completely and positively cure all blood and kidney diseases.

J. J. O'Brien of this place publishes the statement that he was cured entirely of kidney disease by Dodd's Kidney Pills, after all other remedies had failed.

Hundreds of other cures of Bright's Disease, Diabetes, Paralysis, etc., are known of here, and Dodd's Kidney Pills are the only medicine used by our citizens in cases of diseases of the kidneys and impure blood.

If you are starting on a long walking tour, thoroughly soap the inside of your stocking heel with the common yellow soap used in laundries. This will prevent your heel blistering.

"Hood's Sarsaparilla has cured me of scrofula. I was weak and debilitated and Hood's Sarsaparilla built me up and made me strong and well. After a severe cold I had catarrhal fever. I again resorted to Hood's Sarsaparilla which accomplished a complete cure." SARAH E. DEVAY, Annapolis, Nova Scotia.

CHINA SETTLES WITH GERMANY.

Kiao-Chou Bay to be Leased With Surrounding Territory.

Peking, Jan. 19.—The Yamen has cabled Chinese ambassadors throughout the world to the following effect:

A settlement of the difficulty with Germany has been effected. Kiao-Chou Bay is to be leased, a belt surrounding the bay, 100 li (about 30 miles), to be the boundary.

All the German troops outside the prescribed limits are to be withdrawn. Two of the culprits, charged with the murder of the missionaries, are to be punished with death, and the rest with imprisonment. Permission will be granted for the building of churches in the cities of Tai Ning, Tsao Chow Fu and Chu Yeh, and dwelling houses for the missionaries in the seven places in the districts of Tsao Hien and Shan Hien will be erected, for which purpose a sum of 225,000 taels will be allowed.

This amount is to be taken also as a compensation for the killing of the missionaries. The sanction of the throne to the above mode of settlement has been secured.

An All-British Cable.

Montreal, Jan. 19.—The Star special cable from London, says: "The startling events in the far East are forcing again to prominence the Pacific cable question. The Daily Mail insists day after day upon the urgent need of an all-British cable. To-day the Times devotes a column and a half to the Pacific cable project. 'The Empire must have communication free from foreign control.' "

Bread Riots in Italy.

Ancona, Italy, Jan. 19.—There have been bread riots here, arising from a demonstration of women organized by the Socialists that proceeded to the Town Hall to beg a reduction in the price of bread. The Mayor promised the measures, but the men then joined the demonstration and stoned several shops. In the melee that ensued several were hurt. Several arrests were made.

THE SWANSEA SPEECH.

A Decided Triumph for the Chancellor of the Exchequer—All the Newspapers Praise the Utterance.

London, Jan. 19.—The country generally is greatly pleased by the announcement made by the Chancellor of the Exchequer, Sir Michael Hicks-Beach, at Swansea, last night, in which he echoed the previous declarations of the First Lord of the Treasury, Mr. A. J. Balfour, at Manchester, on the Indian policy of the Government, and added that the Ministers were determined, even at the cost of war, that the door of Chinese commerce should not be shut to Great Britain.

This declaration is recognized as clearly defining the Government's position and both the Liberal and Conservative newspapers commend the plain speaking. The Globe, yesterday afternoon, said: "What we want in China is trade. We want to make a market for the commerce of the whole world. Sir Michael Hicks-Beach's announcement of the determination of the Government is clear and resolute, and will tend to peace. It was a pity that other Cabinet Ministers have not spoken thus on other occasions. When the loan is definitely settled Russia, France and Germany will have to let us know, not only whether they intend to acquiesce in the principles we have laid down, but they will have to be definitely asked to give a plain answer on the specific points which have been discussed. In carrying out the policy promulgated the Government will have the support of the people of this country and also of two countries, who, above all others, are eminently concerned. Both the United States and Japan recognize the wisdom and the benefits which are likely to be derived from ports free and open."

The St. James' Gazette also believes that the "firm statement tends to peace."

The Pall Mall Gazette remarks: "The Government is determined that the Chinese door shall be kept open, even at the cost of war. These are grave words, but they would be more serious still if they did not represent a serious intention. It is the power that talks of war and then recoils from acting that gets embroiled."

The provincial newspapers also approve of the speech of Sir Michael Hicks-Beach.

The Westminster Gazette, in its financial article, says: "The stock exchange was not so cheerful. Consols have fallen. Some unsteadiness was caused generally by Sir Michael Hicks-Beach's speech, which has aroused some uneasiness."

Other papers say the speech was received on the stock exchange with general approval.

BRITAIN HAS DECLINED.

Will Not Reopen the Sealing Question at the Request of the United States.

London, Jan. 19.—Great Britain has again declined to re-open the sealing question. It seems that her previous refusal gave as its reason that while negotiations were pending between the United States and Canada, Great Britain could not re-open the matter. To this the United States replied that no negotiations were pending and renewed the request, but the Foreign Office sends its regrets that the Government does not see its way to re-open the question. The United States Ambassador, Col. John Hay, and Mr. Spencer Eddy, his private secretary, left London yesterday on their way to Egypt.

Women are not the only ones who are sensitive about their ages. A man doesn't like to be told that he is getting old. Health keeps a man young. It doesn't make any differences if he has lived eighty years. If they have been healthy years he will be hale and hearty and won't look within twenty years as old as he is. Good digestion and rich red blood make people look youthful. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery make rich, red blood. It makes health in the right way. It works according to the right theory, and in 30 years of practice it has proved that the theory is absolutely correct. It begins at the beginning—begins by putting the stomach, liver and bowels into perfect order, but it begins its good work on the blood before it finishes with the digestive organs. It searches out disease germs wherever they may be and forces them out of the body. All druggists keep the "Discovery."

Worms cannot exist either in children or adults when Dr. Low's Worm Syrup is used. 25c. All dealers.

WHERE LOVE SHALL LEAD.

Where love shall lead
The rose, my dear, from the thorn may bleed
But sweet to the rose in darkness dying,
Its wounded breast o'er the red thorns lying,
The thought that still
It does love's will—
A joy in life and a joy in dying!
Love is calling, and hearts must heed.
Sweet is the pathway where love shall lead.

Where love shall lead
There rings the cry of a world in need.
Spirits sweet in the shadows sighing.
Famished souls for the life bread crying.
Yearning still
To do love's will,
Listening ever for love's replying.
Love has called to a world in need.
Sweet is the pathway where love shall lead.

The Moslem's Rosary.

The rosary consists of 90 beads, and a distinct ejaculation is appropriated to each as it passes between the fingers. Each ejaculation generally consists of two words, and declares a name or attribute of God. Almost all Moslems in the upper and middle ranks of life carry in their pockets or bosoms a string of beads for this purpose, which they use not only on the occasion I am describing, but while sitting and smoking their pipes, walking in the streets or even while engaged in conversation.

When a Moslem has gone over his beads at the regular time of prayer, he folds his hands, and then, holding them up open, as if to receive something from above, he prays for such blessings as he desires for himself or his household. When this is concluded, he strokes his beard with his right hand and says, "Praise be to God!" This concludes the whole.—Mind.

BEFORE I KNEW.

It was on a beautiful day in autumn that I first set eyes upon Dunsforth mansion. I alighted at the porte cochere somewhat weary and not a little curious about my immediate future. But all my tired feeling fled when I gazed at the scene before me.

The owner of Dunsforth mansion was a woman, a rich widow, and I had been engaged as tutor to her two children. I had not yet seen her, having been appointed by her solicitor, an elderly, kind faced gentleman, who told me that I would surely be well suited with my surroundings and with my future employer.

My father had died recently, and as his estate was in litigation, which was likely to last for some time, it was incumbent upon me to seek employment almost immediately. My mother had enough to live upon for the present, but until we realised on my father's inheritance things looked rather blue.

I mused on our lot quite awhile and was finally startled out of my reverie by voices in the avenue. A beautiful woman with soft, fluffy hair, a delicate, high bred face, robed in mourning garb, came up toward me from the avenue. She chatted gayly with a little boy, whom she was leading by the hand. I knew at once that the lady was Mrs. Dunsforth. Her lips and eyes as she smiled betrayed a genial nature, and there was a cordiality in the grasp of her hand that made me at once at home at Dunsforth mansion.

We chatted about the weather as we walked toward the house. She did this to relieve me of my embarrassment, I knew.

"Charlie," she said before we reached the hall door, "this is your new tutor."

The little boy whom she had been leading by the hand came forward. He was 6 years old, the very opposite of his mother, with hair that was almost black, large brown eyes and a little, fragile body. I stooped to greet the little man, and he sprang forward and caught my hand.

"You are nice," he said, blissfully ignorant of my vivid blushes. "I like you already."

My heart went out to the child. "I am glad to hear you say that," I replied. "I know we will be great friends."

"My little Charlie is a very stanch friend once he has made up his mind to like any one," said Charlie's beautiful mother, with a proud look at her son.

"You are not at all like Professor Dolittle. He was always cross and he had a big wart on his nose," continued Charlie innocently.

I laughed aloud, caught the little fellow by the shoulders and drew him toward me.

"What's your name," he asked.

"John Middlebrook," I said, "Mr. Middlebrook," correcting myself.

"Mr. Middlebrook," said the child musingly. "Why, your name begins with an M, just like my Aunt Marjorie's."

"And what is your Aunt Marjorie's name?"

"Her name is Miss Manderville, don't you see," with a poke at my arm.

We had reached the drawing room by this time, for the hall door was open, letting in the sweet, crisp autumn air. Charlie scampered off and soon returned with his elder brother, who strongly resembled his mother. He had the same light curly hair, calm blue eyes and expressive, kissable lips. He was a bit more quiet than the youngster I had first met, more observing and thoughtful.

"This is Joe," said Charlie, bringing him up to me; then turning to his brother: "Joe, this is our new teacher. His name is Mr. Middlebrook. I like him ever so much, don't you?"

Joe shook my hand warmly, though he was not so effusive on short acquaintance as his younger brother.

I was soon installed in my new home, and thanked fate for having cast my lines so pleasantly. The winter went by in a quiet, steady way. My tutorship of those two splendid boys was a pleasant task, and their mother was ever the same cordial friend she seemed on the first day of our meeting.

Although Aunt Marjorie was frequently the theme of conversation between the children and their mother and seemed to be held in the same affectionate regard by both, I had not yet met her. In my leisure moments I pursued my study of the law, which had been so rudely interrupted by my father's untimely death.

One morning when I came down to the breakfast room I found her standing at one of the windows—Aunt Marjorie—of whom I had heard so much. Mrs. Dunsforth introduced me to her. "My dear sister, Miss Manderville," she said, "Mr. Middlebrook, the boys' tutor and good friend to us all."

Aunt Marjorie held out a little, fair hand with beautiful pink nails, dimples that did not come from fat, but were just made to intensify the beauty of that fair member. From her hand I glanced into her face, a shy, sweet face, with unspeakably sad eyes and a mouth which showed that it had twitched with pain.

She was fair, like her sister, and perhaps five or six years younger. In our intercourse during the next few days I found her a sedate, even tempered woman, who, I knew, had met with some great sorrow in her young life. But there came a time when I realised Aunt Marjorie was taking a deeper interest in me. She came to the schoolroom now and then and took part in the boys' lessons. She conversed with me at table and seemed delighted to know that I was keeping up my law study. Her sister, to whom I had mentioned my reverses of fortune since my father's death, had evidently informed her of that fact, and I read a kindly pity in the tender eyes of Aunt Marjorie.

I might as well say it—I loved her, loved her with a feeling akin to idolatry. I did not know whether my love was reciprocated, and for that I did not care. I was satisfied to dwell upon my feelings for her. My silent worship of her filled my life with a romance that was irrepressibly sweet.

At last it came as it was to be. I spoke to her of my love, and she listened graciously. It was on one of the first balmy spring nights. We stood by the open window and looked out upon the starlit sky, the dawn, dazzlingly beautiful in the brilliant moonlight with the dew scintillating on the grass blades.

"Marjorie, I love you!" I faltered. "Hear me and then answer me."

She paused a moment after my fervent avowal and the assurance that the litigation which held my father's estate in jeopardy was drawing to a close and that I would soon be able to take good care of so sweet a wife. As I looked down into her face I thought I read love for me in her tranquil eyes.

"We love each other, John," she said very quietly, but very tenderly.

I took her in my arms and kissed her passionately. She tolerated my caresses for a moment, then gently pushed me aside.

"I love you," she said. "I don't know why I tell you this when I must tell you in the same breath that I can never be your wife."

Her face grew white and wan. Dull suffering was in her eyes, and a shudder shook her delicate frame. I felt the coiness of the moment and clutched at the window hanging for support. Then, taking both her hands in mine, I looked steadfastly into her face and asked: "Marjorie, what do you mean? Why can you not be my wife?"

She caught my arms and put them around her neck. "John," she whispered huskily, "I am married!"

A burning kiss on my mouth, and she was gone. I was conscious only of the sudden emptiness of the room. Wretched and heartbroken, I sought my own chamber, and there, I may as well say it, I cried for the first time since my father's death.

I was able now to account for many things about Aunt Marjorie which I had not heretofore understood. She was frequently absent from her sister's house. She was moody to sullenness at times and then again warm hearted and gay.

Months went by, and the winter came again. Before the others Marjorie and I were as good friends as ever, but we were never alone together again. Her eyes seemed more melancholy than ever, and I was thankful for my task of teaching Mrs. Dunsforth's sons, and for the rest of the time I buried myself in study.

Spring came and with it another episode in my life at Dunsforth mansion. This time it was a rainy, chill spring day. The weather had been capricious for a week, and on the evening in question I was sitting alone by the fire in the library. My pupils had gone to bed, Mrs. Dunsforth was away on a visit to neighbors, and Marjorie had been absent for several days.

Suddenly the door opened, and there entered with the gust of chill wind a gaunt looking stranger. He walked straight up to the fire and held out his thin, trembling hands without speaking or looking around. For several moments I was too perplexed to speak. Was this an apparition, or was it a man of real flesh and blood, though he seemed to have but little of either. He was scantily attired; his hair was dishevelled and quite black. The face was ghostly white and the eyes dull and glassy. There was an air of refinement about the man, though, which caused me not to fear him.

"You are cold," I said.

He turned and bent his eyes upon me.

"Who said I was cold?" he asked abruptly.

"I did."

"You? Well, what of it? Who makes it cold? It's nice enough for anybody who has not been out in a long time. What makes you look at me so? Do you think I am crazy?"

I riveted my eyes upon him. "I didn't say you were crazy. Sit down; let me talk to you."

"I thought so. You think I am mad. I have just broken out of a madhouse. Are you going to send me back?"

"You need not fear me. I have no cause for sending you anywhere. Come, warm yourself. You are no more crazy than I am."

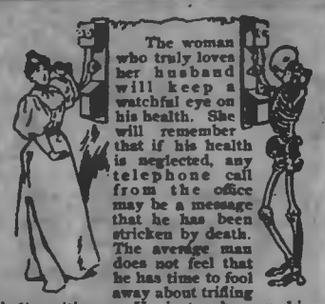
A grateful glance came from the dull, lusterless eyes, and after a little I persuaded him to lie down on the lounge. Soon he fainted away from the exertion of the long tramp he must have had, for the nearest insane asylum was 30 miles away. That much I knew.

He remained prostrated for a week in the comfortable bed of the guest chamber, to which I had carried him on the night of his arrival. Mrs. Dunsforth took as much interest in the strange visitor as I did, and now and then the boys came in and laid flowers from the greenhouse on his bed.

In a week from the night of his coming to Dunsforth mansion he died. Marjorie was absent while our strange guest was sick. She returned on the evening before we buried him. I heard her come up to her sister's room. The crazy man was lying in his shroud in the room below. After awhile the two sisters came down and went directly to the death chamber. I did not see them again that night. I had promised Mrs. Dunsforth that I would keep the watch beside the corpse, and at midnight I began my vigil. No one was in the room when I came in, and no one disturbed my lonely hours. Just as the night faded away into the gray dawn and the purple clouds crept up the horizon the door was softly opened to admit Marjorie. Her face was swollen with weeping, and her step was faltering as that of one who had not slept for many nights. She walked slowly to the bier and gazed distressedly at the face of the silent sleeper. Then she came over to me where I was sitting near the grate, with its fast dying embers.

"My husband, John!" she sobbed, pointing at the shrouded figure, gaunter and whiter than any dead man I had ever seen. In a moment I understood it all. She had been married to a lunatic. This, then, was the tragedy of her life that bade her tell me that she could never be my wife. Anguish at her spoiled, unhappy life filled my soul. I kissed her hand as I would have kissed the hand of a saint. She said not a word to me beyond a tender "thank you" for my sympathy. I arose and left her with the dead. I knew that now the obstacle to our union was removed; that she would be mine in good time, for had she not told me that she loved me!

While I am writing this story she is sitting beside me, a happy, blooming wife. We waited a year, then slipped away one day to be united forever. We are often at Dunsforth mansion, where our romance began, and my little charges are as fond of me as their "Uncle John" as they were when I was Mr. Middlebrook, whose name began with an "M," just like Aunt Marjorie's.—St. Louis Republic.



The woman who truly loves her husband will keep a watchful eye on his health. She will remember that if his health is neglected, any telephone call from the office may be a message that he has been stricken by death. The average man does not feel that he has time to fool away about trifling indispositions. He is too busy making money. He says he leaves sickness to the women folks.

That is the way men commit suicide—tens of thousands of them. A woman can stand between this danger and her husband if she will. A little watchfulness—a suggestion now and then and a little of a good general remedy always at hand may save her husband's life. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is a remarkable remedy for hard working men and women. In a certain sense, it is a cure-all, for the reason that it goes down to bed-rock and cures the disorders that are responsible for the majority of serious illnesses. It strengthens the stomach, and makes the appetite keen and hearty. It invigorates the liver. It aids the natural processes of secretion and excretion. It makes the assimilation of the food perfect. It purifies the blood and fills it with the life-giving elements that build new and healthy flesh tissue. It tones the nerves. It is the great blood-maker and flesh-builder. It cures 98 per cent. of all cases of laryngial, bronchial, throat and kindred affections, which, if neglected, lead up to consumption. It is also an unfailing remedy for all nervous disorders. An honest dealer will not urge a substitute.

"Last winter I took sick with what the doctors called la grippe," writes Mrs. Sarah Farley, of Fairfax, Atchison Co., Mo. "Was sick for about four months and nothing that I took seemed to do me any good. My friends thought I had consumption. I coughed up blood for a long while, and nearly gave up all hope of ever getting well. I heard of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and thought I would try it. I had not finished the first bottle when I began to get better. I have taken two bottles of the 'Golden Medical Discovery' and one of the 'Favorite Prescription' and feel better than ever before in my life."

interested, but that he was with them heart and soul in the work of

for Mr. Stratton that had never been surpassed in this or any other riding of Ontario. (Loud cheers.)

Ward chairmen and strong ward committees were selected, but before and after their selection others present briefly addressed the meeting.

Mr. Richard Hall was very warmly received, and spoke of the great pleasure it gave him to see so very large a gathering of earnest workers present, which indicated that a deep interest was taken in the campaign. He took advantage of the occasion to thank those who had helped him when he ran, and he felt that the want of success was not due to any lack of effort on the part of his friends. He was especially grateful for the hard work Mr. Stratton had done on his behalf. He had no doubt that Mr. Stratton would again be elected by an increased majority—a natural result, he thought, in view of his record for the past twelve years. He has always been affable, approachable and obliging, ever ready to help all who had claims upon his services. There was something beyond politics in looking at the matter of the representation of the province, riding and town. We should look to their interests and see what would best serve them. We should have a representative who possesses ability and influence to help us and not a man who, if he chose, could at any time slip his pen behind his ear and leave us, and we might not miss him very much. We needed in the interests of the town, a representative like Mr. Stratton, and we should unitedly work to place him by a majority that would express hearty appreciation of faithful and effective service.

Mr. J. W. Fitzgerald in the course of a brief address said he believed that as far as they could the Opposition, or folorned hope party, would, as the coming political contest, make it the effort of their lives. Not a stone would be left unturned, not a falsehood untold, not an accusation which envy and jealousy could invent, but would be used against the government of Hon. Mr. Hardy, the best and most capable government that any Province of Canada has ever had. He referred to the necessity of not being over confident; though local active partizans might now seem apathetic, yet they might rally round their candidate and force the fighting, and make an effort, if not to win, at least to reduce Mr. Stratton's majority. He hoped this would not be the case. No man, so representative has done a tithe of what Mr. Stratton has done for this constituency in every possible way. Not a settlement or road in the back country of this riding that he has not annually visited, for a matter concerning the town's advancement that he had not attended to, and it would be very marked ingratitude indeed if these services did not entitle him to the warmest approbation and support of the great majority of the electors of West Peterborough—a support which he is sure to get at the hands of the people. The Mail and Empire of yesterday said:—"With the departure of Sir Oliver, the "genius for legislation, as well as the "moral strength of the Government has "disappeared." Sir Oliver did not say that. While the Dominion and this Province look upon Sir Oliver Mowat as a most able and astute statesman, yet in all his work of Government he had able colleagues and none more ripe; nor has this the man he named to take his place, the Hon. A. S. Hardy, who had long borne the brunt of battle and had been at the inception and back of every legislative measure of importance that has been passed into law during many years. The fact was Sir Oliver left the real genius behind him to fill the place that he has so long adorned. Ontario had yet produced but few men of Mr. Hardy's broad and generous instincts, of his grasp of public questions and his skill to deal with them. He was a man wonderfully endowed, with a perception as keen and unerring, and a mental vision, as quick, clear and penetrating as are the X rays of electrical science. When the body of people to which the speaker belonged was sorely pressed for justice a few years ago in the matter of Separate Schools, it was the Liberal Government of Sir Oliver Mowat, aided by Mr. Hardy and his colleagues, and saw justice or a large measure of justice done them. What was the cry of the Mail and Empire then? There was another cry now—"It is time for a change." When Sir John Macdonald and Sir John Thompson, two great and good men, departed, the genius for legislation, as well as the moral strength of the Government at Ottawa disappeared, and a "nest of traitors" took its place. This was "a time for a change," and it took place with a vengeance, for the Dominion from east to west, in its wrath and indignation, at the first opportunity hurled from power the "nest of traitors" and planted in their place honourable, patriotic men, Sir Wilfrid Laurier, Sir Richard Cartwright, Hon. David Mills et al. It was the reverse of this that would happen if the Mail and Empire cry was ever acted upon. It would be by putting a lot of inexperienced, incapable men, whose capacity for legislation seemed to be limited to the consideration of a few pines, a sick pig and small potatoes generally, and putting out the model Government in the Dominion. After congratulating Mr. Stratton on the renewed warmth and enthusiasm of his reception, and the several working committees appointed, on the young blood, on their numbers, Mr. Fitzgerald concluded an encouraging and inspiring speech by urging strongly the wisdom of not underestimating the forces behind the opposing candidate. (Cheers.)

WHO STOOD BY THEM

Mr. J. J. Hartley was pleased indeed to see so splendid a beginning. We had no reason to change our mind respecting the Government, and we had no reason to change our mind regarding our candidate, Mr. Stratton. (Cheers.) Mr. Hartley said the present rooms, though they had been sufficient in past campaigns, would be too small for this one. He believed in working for a majority—for there was

NO DOUBT OF THE RESULT.

It could hardly be otherwise than that Mr. Stratton should be elected for he had shown himself to be the man we needed. He was energetic, faithful and had ability and influence to advance the general as well as the material interests of the town, and we should retain him. We were all agitating and working for the upbuilding of the town, and were endeavouring to bring new manufactories to Peterborough, which were what was needed. Would it then be wise to exchange the representative we had, who had in the past and in the future would be able to render valuable assistance in this direction? Would the people be wise to exchange such a representative for a man who, though his moral qualities might be all right, and who had a sort of book ability, had none of the practical ability, business experience and business influence that would enable him to advance the interests of the town. He closed by urging the committee to get to work and roll up as great a majority as possible.

Mr. Wm. Lee, a veteran in the Liberal ranks, whose face was a familiar one around Liberal committee rooms in times past, was present and spoke of his political experiences in the Northwest, and spoke encouragingly in regard to the present contest. The Ontario Government was the best Government he knew of, and they could find no better representative than Mr. Stratton.

Mr. A. G. Gough spoke very warmly of Mr. Stratton as a representative and as a business man with large interests at stake, in the town, whose future prosperity depended upon increase of our manufacturing industries. He felt the necessity of having as representative a man like Mr. Stratton, who had the ability and experience to secure what we want—far superior to a man without experience or business qualification.

Mr. Andrew Macfarlane said that if the riding did itself justice and voted in the interests of the town and in the interests of the province Mr. Stratton's majority should be two thousand, and he would go to work with that end in view. He felt satisfied that the citizens would take the view of Mr. Gough, that the interest of the extension of our manufacturing establishments needed a man that knew what we wanted and had the ability and business aptitude to carry his desires into effect.

Mr. E. B. Stone made a rattling five minutes speech, pointing out the good work and record of the Ontario Government.

Rev. Mr. Grant said Peterborough had been honoured by having Mr. Stratton as its representative.

Mr. G. S. Amee briefly spoke, and said the Ontario Government was the best government he knew of. They were guilty of no extravagances, no scandals—everything was clean and above board.

Mr. H. C. Stabler said he would be an active worker in this campaign. He wanted good honest government and that he believed we were now having. The workingmen of Peterborough should vote for Mr. Stratton. He believed they would. He was the right man in the right place. He was not afraid to put his capital in manufacturing enterprises in Peterborough and did not always do so with a profit, but he had in some cases helped to keep establishments going to give employment to workingmen. He had always encouraged manufactures and he, Mr. Stabler, knew of many fair-minded Conservatives who were going to support Mr. Stratton in the interests of the town.

Councillor Wm. White was surprised at at the great size and enthusiasm of the first rally. A crowded room the first night was something new and spoke volumes for the result of the contest.

Mr. A. C. McCallum said that hitherto he had not taken an active part in elections, but he was going to work in this contest. He knew of Mr. Stratton's abilities and these justified his hearty support.

The meeting then closed after the usual cheers with the understanding that the committees for the various wards would meet at the committee rooms to report and complete unfinished details of organization.

There will be a grand rally of all committees and workers on Saturday evening at the rooms, when Mr. Stratton will be present to report progress and consult with his friends and supporters.

A MOTHER'S THANKS FOR A DAUGHTER'S HEALTH.

How often we see a young girl, whose pale face and feeble form, gives evidence of the destroying power of wrong action of the heart. Weakness and pallor exist where bounding health and rosy cheeks should reign. Through one cause or another the heart muscles become weakened, the blood does not circulate freely, especially to the extremities. From such symptoms spring cold feet and hands, tired all-gone feeling, general debility, watery blood, anæmia, etc.

Mrs. Alexander Allan, 37 Albert street, Peterborough, Ont., illustrates this point as follows: "My daughter was very much troubled with her heart, and this through wrong action, caused nervousness. She was very weak and all run down.

"Although she took all the medicines likely to effect a cure, they did her little or no good, until finally she began to use Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills. They have enriched her blood, toned up her system and restored new life. For all who suffer as she did, I feel certain that there is no remedy equal to Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills."

GOUGH'S Greater Oak Hall

SPLITTING THE ACORNS IN TWO!

LIKE A BOMB-SHELL

Came the announcement a few days ago of the purchase by GOUGH BROS. of the Oak Hall Stock. Day and night, ever since, the thunder of Gough's Fusilade of Bargains has been both heard and felt all over the country. But yesterday, what were Bargains at Oak Hall, the lesser, did'nt GO. To-day they DO GO—at GOUGH'S GREATER OAK HALL—because they've GOT TO GO.

Was it Luck? Some people say we were lucky to make such a fortunate purchase But luck takes a back seat compared with the master-stroke of business acumen in cornering this Matchless $16,430 stock of Oak Hall's at a Fractional Rate on the Dollar of

62½ CENTS

On the Manufacturers Cost.

It was as natural as sunshine that the first week of our Triumphant Sale should bring a throng of buyers. But the campaign is only started and there's to be no Prorogation until the slate is cleared and every vestige sold. The nimble nickle has more charm for us than the slow shilling. THIS WEEK the Clothing Sensation of the Season is in full swing with all its potential momentum. Just in the right time, too, when it is most needed to afford Peterborough's male population an opportunity to be warmly clothed for the winter at about Half Ruling Prices.

THE WARM FIGHT ON.

The Election Campaign Progressing in the Province.

MORE CANDIDATES NOMINATED.

Mayor Mulhern in Stormont and Mr Samuel Grandy, Who Nearly Defeated Mr. T. Dixon Craig, for East Durham—A Patron Candidate Likely to Retire—Events to Come.

Toronto, Jan. 21.—Amongst the political events of yesterday must be mentioned the nomination of candidates in Stormont and East Durham, whose selection will inspire confidence in the Liberal ranks in these constituencies. In the former the choice fell upon Mayor Mulhern of Cornwall, a young man who combines the elements of popularity with first-class abilities. He is now serving his third term in the Mayoralty, a fact which attests the good opinion of those who know him best. It is believed that Mr. Adams, the Patron candidate, will retire, and thus leave the field open for a straight fight between Mr. Mulhern and Mr. McLaughlin, the Conservative candidate.

Mr. Samuel Grandy, who came within 62 votes of defeating Mr. T. Dixon Craig in East Durham, was named as the standard-bearer in that riding, and that he will make a good fight is beyond doubt.

The Liberals of East Toronto met in large numbers in Dingman's Hall last night and organized for the election. The belief was general that, with a united and determine effort, East Toronto can be won over to the cause of Liberalism and good government.

Mr. Harcourt will accompany Mr. Hardy to Brantford on Wednesday, when the Young Liberals of that place will tender the Premier a reception. On Saturday afternoon Mr. Harcourt will speak at the Lincoln County Liberal Convention at St. Catharines. Mr. Davis will attend the Halton Convention at Milton on Thursday, the 27th.

The Conservatives of Brockville met in convention and nominated ex-Mayor Culbert.

THE JOLIETTE MURDER.

The Fourth Day Sees the Prisoner's Mother on the Stand—Reporters Testify to Tom's Confession.

Joliette, Que., Jan. 21.—The fourth day of the Nulty murder trial opened at the usual hour yesterday morning. Mr. Morin was recalled to identify the ax with which the murders were committed; also to state whether there were blood stains and hair on it when first seen by him.

The counsel for the defence interposed the protest that the defence admitted the murders and did not think it right to occupy the time of the court in hearing the details of the tragedy repeated. The witness was thereupon excused from further examination.

Mrs. Michael Nulty, prisoner's mother, was examined. Her testimony was to the effect that her son Tom had only made casual allusions to marriage. She remembered having advised him not to do so, as there was no room in the house to spare. Tom had replied that if he did marry he would live with his married sister. Coming to the father's alleged intention to make little Patrick his sole heir, the witness swore that her husband was not partial to Patrick, but loved all alike, and that he never intended to disinherit Tom.

Two reporters who had heard the prisoner's confession also testified. The prisoner, they said, had been duly warned that his confession would be used against him and that he need not tell anything unless he liked. This evidence was adduced to offset the insinuations made by the defence that Detective McCaskill had wrung the confession from the prisoner by improper methods.

THE MASSEY SUITS.

Actions in the Court Amalgamated—Heard at the Next Sittings.

Toronto, Jan. 21.—By consent of both parties the two suits brought by the grandchildren of the late Hart A. Massey against the Massey estate were yesterday amalgamated and set down for hearing at the next sittings of the non-jury court.

The actions were to set aside the sale by the executors to Hart A. Massey of 113 shares in the company, and the second to set aside the sale of 106 shares made by the company to Hart A. Massey in 1885 and of 42 shares sold by Hart A. Massey to himself in 1896. It is sought to have the children declared owners of 50 more shares than they have been allotted, to have an account of the dealings of the Massey Harris Co. with regard to the shares and an injunction to prevent any disposition being made of the company's books of the time covering the dispute. Arthur Lyman Massey, son of the late Charles A. Massey, is the chief plaintiff.

MRS. POIRIER ON TRIAL.

The Evidence at the Trial Is Very Damaging Against the Accused—Finding a Dead Husband.

St. Scholastique, Que., Jan. 21.—At half-past ten yesterday morning proceedings in the Poirier murder trial re-commenced. Joseph Mounier, who yesterday afternoon had given very damaging evidence against the prisoner, was cross-examined as to having made a statement in public that he hoped that the woman would be hanged. Now, however, he would make no definite admission of having done so.

Adelard Robert proved having filled Sam Parslow's whiskey bottle a day or two before the murder. It was the same bottle as that produced in court.

Delia Lachapelle testified to having been in the company of the prisoner and Sam Parslow when the latter had read aloud an account of the Rawdon horror. Witness remarked that Tom Nulty would be hanged, but Mrs. Poirier had replied, "I don't think he will, we don't hang murderers nowadays; you will see a worse crime than Nulty's was before many days are past."

On another occasion prisoner had given witness to understand that she did not love her husband.

Adrien Rioux, postmaster of St. Canute, said that whilst Sam Parslow was in Montreal he had written several times to Mrs. Poirier. She had not, he believed, replied to these communications.

Antoine Charbonneau, who had taken charge of the place directly after the coroner's arrival, proved that he had admitted no one to the house. He had, however, found at the bottom of the stove a charred heap of papers, cloth and woollen stuff; of this he was quite certain. The remains could not possibly have been those of a wood fire.

At 12.30 p.m. the court adjourned.

In the afternoon Mr. Philias Des Ormeau, farmer of St. Canute, was the first witness. He said: "On Nov. 22 last I was called by Coroner Mignault as caretaker of Poirier's house, with Antoine Charbonneau and John Hall, both of the same place." He corroborated Charbonneau's evidence as to the ashes found in the stove. "It is myself, who found the hooks and eyes in the stove the second day after the murder, which were produced in court."

The next witness was Joseph Cyr. He lives opposite Poirier's house and said: "I knew Poirier for over six years as an honest and sober man. He was very well esteemed in the parish." The witness then produced pillows, quilts, sheets and blankets, which were on the bed where Poirier had been murdered, and these articles were handed around to the jury for inspection.

Mr Noe Bouverette, blacksmith of St. Canute, a neighbor of Poirier's, said: "On Nov. 22 last Mrs. Poirier called at my shop to go and open the door for her, because it was locked and she had no key. I took off a second window and went in and opened the front door to let her get in. She there asked to see in the room if her husband was there, because she said 'I am afraid to go myself.' I found Poirier dead, lying across the bed and I told her, 'Your husband is there, but he has his throat cut.' We went, and she went home without saying anything."

The court adjourned until to-day.

ALLEGED CUBAN TRAITORS.

A Report That the Brother of the Cuban President Has Surrendered.

Havana, Jan. 21.—The Spanish authorities report that the insurgent General Juan Masso Parra, with the forces under his command, Lieut.-Cols. Augustine Feria and Jose Cannon Hernandez, Majors Feliciano Quesada, Saturnino Leon and Victoriano Gomez, with six other officers and 110 privates, well armed and well supplied with ammunition, have surrendered at Fomento to the Spanish General Aguirre and Senor Marcus Garcia, Governor of Santa Clara Province. The insurgents are said to have formed in line and delivered up their arms according to the ordinance, shouting "Long Live Spain!" "Long Live the Queen Regent!" "Long Live Spanish Cuba!" and "Long Live Autonomy!" General Juan Masso Parra is a brother of Senor Bartolome Masso, President of the Cuban Republic.

During the last 10 days the insurgents are said to have lost 115 killed and 24 taken prisoners, with 242 Remington rifles.

FIRE ON BOARD SHIP.

The Terrible Plight in Which the British Steamer Stockholm City Ran Into Newport News, Va.

Newport News, Va., Jan. 21.—The British steamship Stockholm City, Captain Richards, arrived last night from Manchester with her saloons, cabin, bridge, wheelhouse and all woodwork amidships burned. The officers and crew were almost naked, having lost most of their clothing. Fire was discovered in the bunkers last Sunday night. After three hours' hard work it was thought to have been extinguished. On Monday morning the flames again burst from the bunkers and spread rapidly to all the woodwork nearby.

The chief engineer rushed from his cabin in night attire, barely escaping with his life. In a short time the officers' quarters and the coal bunkers were in flames. Many times it looked as if the ship and all on board were doomed. It was not until late in the day that the fire was got under control. Everything combustible was burned.

BIRD AND DOG SHOW PROVED A SUCCESS.

IT CLOSED LAST EVENING AFTER A THREE DAYS' EXHIBITION.

The Exhibitors Were Thoroughly Satisfied and the Public Were Well Pleased—It Will be an Annual Affair.

The Poultry and Dog Show was brought to a close last night at 10 o'clock after a most successful three days' exhibition, in the market building. The affair was not patronized as largely by the farmers as was expected, but the townspeople turned out in large numbers, there being over a thousand visitors on the second day.

One of the most pleasing features is the praise which is so freely bestowed on the management by the exhibitors. The poultry men are unanimous in urging that the directorate apply for the Ontario Exhibition of Poultry for 1900, and are sure that arrangements can be made to have it held here. The market hall, they state, cannot be surpassed in the Dominion as a place in which to hold an exhibition of this kind. As coops are supplied by the management of the Ontario Exhibition, and the Ontario Government gives an annual grant to it of $1,000, it would certainly be an acquisition to have the show held here. The dog men bestow the highest encomiums on the members of the committee who had this department in charge and state that if more classes are arranged for and the amount of the prize money in each lessened, that the market hall would hardly hold the dogs which would be entered. They are very much pleased by the manner in which dogs were looked after this year.

Another supper took place last evening at McCallum's restaurant.

Mr. Daniels, of Toronto, concluded the judging of the poultry yesterday and the prize list is announced as follows:

$1 00 for 1st; 50c. for 2nd.

Severe Headaches

Resulting from Catarrh Cause Great Suffering

The Great Blood Purifier, Hood's Sarsaparilla Cures.

Sufferers from any disease caused by impure blood should never be discouraged about taking Hood's Sarsaparilla because other medicines have failed to give relief. Remember Hood's Sarsaparilla cures when all others fail. Read this statement:

"C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.:

"Dear Sirs:—I think it my duty to let you know what Hood's Sarsaparilla has done for me. I was suffering with severe headaches daily and also with catarrh. One day a paper was left at my house and in looking it over I read of your great medicine's value to my fellow sufferers. I reasoned that if it cured them, why would it not cure me, although I must own I had some doubts about it, as I

Had Tried So Many

so-called cures which had failed even to relieve me. At last I procured a bottle and after taking all the medicine the headaches had left me and my catarrh trouble was much better. I continued taking Hood's Sarsaparilla and have derived so much benefit from it that I would advise any one troubled with impure blood to try Hood's Sarsaparilla, the great blood purifier. I feel better now than I have for years, thanks to Hood's Sarsaparilla." MRS. E. GREY, 27 St. Nicholas St., Toronto, Ontario. Remember

THE CAMPAIGN.

The Hardy-Ross Government is appealing to the country for a renewal of confidence, and from every section of the Province come indications that they will get it. Confidence is a good cause, and being in the right, is half the battle; and the battle is half won before it begins. Notes of enthusiastic preparation in the Liberal ranks ring from one end of the Province to the other, and the assurances of victory have never been so emphatic in the past twenty-five years.

The opening of the contest in Mr. Stratton's interest, at Benefort Tuesday night, was a splendid augury of success. Never has there been held in this township a campaign meeting to compare with it in the matter of attendance or evidences of sympathy with the candidate. The occasion developed the fact that fair-minded electors are willing to judge a candidate on his merits and on the character of his record; and the assurances of support Mr. Stratton is receiving from quarters in which it has been wanting in the past conjoined with the enthusiastic rally of tried supporters around him, furnishes an assurance that he will receive a more generous and more enthusiastic support in the present contest there has ever been accorded him before.

From this time forward the campaign will be prosecuted with unresisting vigour till the close of the poll heralds another victory.

HON. G. W. ROSS IN THE OPERA HOUSE.

Unusual interest will be taken in the announcement that Hon. G. W. Ross, Minister of Education, and Mr. J. R. Stratton will address a mass meeting of electors in the interests of the Hardy-Ross Government and the Liberal candidate for West Peterborough, in the Opera House, Thursday, Jan. 27th. Hon. Mr. Mr. Ross is one of the most capable Ministers of the Government, and one of the best, if not the best, and most effective speakers on political subjects in Canada. He is a most ready, brilliant and convincing orator and the Opera House should be crowded to listen to an able and exhaustive exposition of the public questions now engaging the attention of the people of this Province. Ladies will be made welcome and assigned to seats in the gallery.

DURHAM LIBERALS.

Meet at Millbrook and Select Mr. Samuel Grandy, of Cavan, to be the Standard Bearer.

Millbrook, Thursday, January 20th.—The East Durham Liberal Association met in convention here to-day for the purpose of selecting a candidate to contest the riding at the coming Provincial general elections.

Dr. Powers, of Port Hope, the President of the Association, occupied the chair, and with him on the platform were: Messrs. Arch. Wood, W. S. Pickup, Millbrook; R. P. Ross, Dr. Corbett, S. Long, Col. McLean, Port Hope; T. W. McGuire, Manvers, and John Pritchard, Cavan.

The chairman in calling the meeting to order, briefly reviewed the political situation of the riding. The voters' lists had been carefully looked after and he was confident that the prospects for electing a Liberal in the riding had not been as good in many years.

Before the nominations for candidate were proceeded with, Reeve W. S. Pickup, of Millbrook, moved, seconded by Mr. Samuel Caldwell, of Hope: "That we, the Liberals of East Durham, assembled in convention, hereby pledge ourselves to support the nominee of this convention." This was unanimously carried and the following names were then placed in nomination: Messrs. W. H. McCallum and W. H. Walker, of Hope; Mr. W. S. Pickup, Millbrook; Mr. John Fallis and Samuel Grandy, Cavan, and T. W. McGuire and Dr. Naismith, of Manvers. Messrs. McCallum and Fallis retired. After several ballots had been taken, the choice of the convention fell upon Mr Grandy.

Mr. Grandy, in accepting the nomination, said that he did so rather reluctantly as he considered there were stronger men in the Liberal party in the riding than he but owing to the unanimous nomination he had received, he would throw himself into campaign with all possible vigor. He had run in East Durham before in 1891 against Mr. Craig, and came very nearly being elected. He thought he had not lost any friends since then, and with the gain the Liberal party had made he was sure that it required only a little hard work, to send a supporter to the Hardy Government, at Toronto, from East Durham.

The meeting then dispersed with cheers for the Queen and Mr. Grandy.

Mr. Grandy was for many years Reeve of the township of Manvers, but now resided in Cavan for some time. In 1891 he ran against Mr. T. D. Craig, M. P., for the Dominion House and was defeated by only about sixty votes. He is very popular and will undoubtedly make a good run.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Eason of Otonabee celebrated their silver wedding on Monday evening, the 10th inst, with their children and about thirty invited guests, at Ennonville Corners. Mr. and Mrs. Eason were the recipients of a number of handsome presents as tokens of the love and esteem in which they are held by their friends and neighbours. All the members of the family were present, consisting of two sons and three daughters. It somewhat marred the pleasure of Mr. and Mrs. Eason that no grandchildren were present, but in all probability if God spares their lives 25 more years, a number of grandchildren will be present to celebrate the golden wedding. A very pleasant and enjoyable time was spent for several hours, and after congratulating Mr. and Mrs. Eason, the guests retired to their homes. The following is a partial list of those present and the gifts: D Eason, silver butter knife and sugar spoon; Geo Fife, parlour lamp; J J Eason, linen towels; John Fife, silver teapot; Allen Eason, linen towels; T A Eason, table linen; Milton Eason, silver cruet; W Spiers, linen; A Eason, linen; John Bryson, teapot and pitcher; D Eason, sr, silver butter dish and silver platters; A W Dickson, silver ink stand; Adeline Eason, bread and butter plates.

THE BRITISH ARMY.

Lord Wolseley Believes It Is Effective.

HE ADVOCATES BETTER PAY.

A Responsible Statement Made That Government Has Decided to Add 7,000 Men to the Navy—Affairs in the Far East—Signor Nicolini Dead—Other News by Cable.

London, Jan. 21.—General Lord Wolseley, field marshal and commander-in-chief of the British army, speaking at a banquet in London this evening, refuted what he called "pessimist rumors current about the army."

Lord Wolseley asserted that if England declared war to-morrow she could have one of the finest and most fully equipped army corps in readiness for any British port before ships could be prepared to embark them. He said furthermore that, if the men were better paid, there would be no difficulty in obtaining recruits.

The Daily Mail, commenting on the recent Ministerial speeches and the proposed additions to the army and navy, thinks "it all proves that Lord Salisbury can be resolute when necessary."

There has been a responsible statement that the Government has decided to add 7,000 men to the navy, and that the first-class battleship Hannibal, now at Portsmouth, is to be put at once into commission. There is, however, no official information or confirmation in either case.

CHINA WAVERING.

While Recognizing the Advantage of British Terms Is Afraid of Russia.

London, Jan. 21.—The Pekin correspondent of the Times, telegraphing yesterday, says: "At his second interview with the Tsung-Li-Yamen yesterday (Wednesday) the remonstrance of the Russian Charge d'Affaires, M. Vavliff, was in the nature of intimidation against the opening of Ta Lien Wan. He threatened reprisals and a withdrawal of friendship and protection. The Chinese, while recognizing the advantage of the British terms as affording the best hope of maintaining the integrity of the Empire, are wavering."

A despatch to the Times from Shanghai says:

"It is stated in official quarters here that Germany will make Kiao-Chou an open port, without exclusive privileges to Germans, and broadly on the lines adopted at Hong-Kong, the land being held under Crown leases."

German Missionary Safe.

Berlin, Jan. 21.—The German missionary, Homeyer, of the Namefung station, who was recently robbed and wounded near a place called Langthen, has returned to Namjung. He is now out of danger. The Chinese authorities have taken measures to protect the missionary station, and have promised satisfaction.

IZZET MARRIES A PRINCESS.

The Execrated Favorite of the Sultan of Turkey Especially Honored.

Vienna, Jan. 20.—A sensation has been created in diplomatic and official circles here by the news just received from Constantinople that the Sultan, as a crowning mark of his good will, has caused his universally execrated favorite, Izzet Bey, to marry the Princess Medinan Hanem Djellal, half sister of the late Khedive Tewfik of Egypt, and so first cousin of the Sultan, a member of the Imperial Ottoman family. The Princess is well known for her wealth and beauty and is much liked by the Sultan.

For the past three years Izzet, a man of the humblest Arab extraction, who was educated as a lawyer, has been the most powerful man in Turkey. As he is regarded as primarily responsible for the Armenian massacres, as well as for all the troubles which the foreign powers have had with the Sultan during the last two years, the news of this fresh mark of favor conferred upon him by his Imperial master has caused a feeling of uneasiness and dismay here, and is held to indicate the imminence of further difficulties at Constantinople.

SIGNOR NICOLINI DEAD.

The Husband of Adelina Patti Dies at Pau, France, From Bright's Disease.

London, Jan. 21.—A despatch to the Daily Telegraph says that Signor Nicolini, the husband of Adelina Patti, died yesterday at Pau, France, from a painful internal malady, from which he had suffered for nearly a year.

Signor Nicolini had been a sufferer from Bright's disease and other diseases for a long time. He had been aware a year or more before his death that he could never get well, and this knowledge was shared by Mme. Patti. The fact that he knew his disease must terminate fatally seemed to draw him closer to his wife. The devotion of the two was remarkable. For months she was hardly away from the sick room. Ever since her husband was taken ill Mme. Patti has given up all social and professional engagements to do for him what is usually expected of a trained nurse. Signor Nicolini was married to Mme. Patti in Wales in 1886. He had long been a famous tenor singer.

British Masonic Benevolence.

London, Eng., Jan. 21.—The annual contribution for the year 1897 for three Masonic institutions, the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution for Indigent Masons, the Royal Masonic Institution for Girls, and the Royal Masonic Institution for Boys, amounts to £71,837, or $359,185, about $1,000 for each day in the year. In seven years (1891-7) the total subscriptions for the same charities amounted to $2,500,000. The Board of Benevolence in connection with the Grand Lodge of England relieved last year 330 cases, expending in this relief about £9,000 sterling, or $40,000.

Seven Men Drowned.

London, Jan. 21.—The small Leith steamer Herbert has foundered off Gunn Island, County Down, Ireland. Seven men were drowned and the captain alone was rescued.

London, Jan. 21.—The late Mr. William Terriss of the Adelphi Theatre, victim of the assassin, Richard Prince, left nearly £90,000 to his widow and children.

WESTERN DAIRYMEN.

The Second Day of the Convention—Dr. Connell on Bacteria—Mr. Ruddick on Curing Cheese.

London, Ont., Jan. 21.—A meeting of the Cheesemakers was held yesterday afternoon at the Grigg House for the purpose of considering the advisability of a separate organization of the cheesemakers, with representation on the Dairy Board. The reading room of the hotel was packed, and several enthusiastic addresses were given. Mr. Anderson occupied the chair.

The session of the Butter and Cheese Makers' Association opened yesterday morning at 9 o'clock, and despite the inclement weather was well attended. President A. F. McLaren was in the chair.

The instructors' report was pretty fully discussed by Messrs. E. Hopkins, G. H. Barr, Harry White, J. M. Muir, Adam Bell, Robert Johnson, William Bothwell, W. N. Gray, C. W. Riley, R. M. Ballantyne, J. W. Cook, J. H. Thomas, Robert Robertson, W. P. Hibbard, I. W. Steinhoff and others.

Dr. W. T. Connell of Queen's College, Kingston, spoke on "Bacteria in Dairying." He gave much good advice regarding this the lowest form of animal life, which thrives best at 98 degrees. Cold does not kill the bacteria, and dark, damp cellars are very productive of the disease. Dry cellars expel it and the direct rays of the sun are sure death. Bacteria causes sourness and curdling.

Cheese Curing Experiments.

Mr. J. A. Ruddick, Illinois, was the next speaker. He spoke on "Cheese-curing Experiments," and followed along the line introduced by Dr. Connell. The cause of shrinking and discoloration in cheese was given. Improved construction would be a pronounced factor in curing cheese, with a uniform temperature. Moisture dries out of cheese as it does out of wood. If the curing room is allowed to be too dry the cheese will suffer in weight. When there is a tendency for the cheese to mould there should be plenty of light admitted to the room. Curing deserves more attention than has been given to it in the past.

A nominating committee was elected, composed of Messrs. Robert Johnson, Blyth; John W. Cook, Ingersoll; S. G. Kitchen, St. George; George Goodham, Ilderton; Harry White, Pottsville. The committee met in the afternoon and will bring in their report this morning, and the new officers will be installed.

President McLaren presented four gold medals, won at the Industrial and Western Fairs in competition for the best display of butter.

95,000,000 WHITE FISH.

The Canadian Government Experiment in Hatching Them at Sandwich.

Windsor, Ont., Jan. 21.—The Customs officials have received orders that hereafter the Canadian tariff laws must be strictly enforced to the very letter, the result of a big kick on the part of Windsor merchants, who say they feel the effect of Detroit's ten-cent stores. Hereafter the officers will be obliged to collect duty on all articles, no matter what the value.

The County Council is going to do its share toward the stamping out of the San Jose scale by appointing a fruit tree inspector, whose duty it will be to go around and point out the diseased trees to the farmers.

The Canadian Government is hatching out ninety-five million eggs of white fish at Sandwich to stock Lakes Erie, Huron, Ontario and St. Clair. William Parker, the superintendent, estimates that he will hatch at least eighty per cent. of the eggs, which is many times greater than the percentage if they were left to nature. In a river like Detroit, he said, the fish do not get a fair chance. They deposit their eggs on the mud or sand, and every vessel that passes churns up the water and deposits more mud or sand on them, and the young fish are smothered. Canada has kept well to the front in the artificial propagation of fish.

BRITISH WARSHIPS MOVING.

Her Majesty's Ship Pheasant Coaling for the Orient at Victoria, B.C.

Victoria, B.C., Jan. 21.—The British fleet in Chinese waters is to be strengthened by vessels from this station. A telephone last night from Esquimalt conveys the information that H. M. S. Pheasant, one of the smaller vessels of the fleet, will sail to-day for the Orient, and that H. M. S. Imperieuse, the flagship of the station, will probably sail on Saturday.

Other vessels at present at Esquimalt, the Icarus, Leander and Phaeton, have received orders to be ready to leave at 45 hours' notice to cross the Pacific.

The officers pleaded ignorance of any contemplated movement of the fleet, when questioned, but admitted that the Pheasant and Imperieuse were being coaled and provisioned. The residents of Esquimalt, however, state positively that the vessels have orders as above.

FIFTEEN YEARS OF AGON.

Suffering Ended in a Few Weeks by the Use of Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Petrolea, Jan. 10.—From Ingersoll to Petrolea the way is marked at short intervals by houses which are pointed to as those in which Dodd's Kidney Pills have cured cases of Kidney Disease, Bright's Disease, Diabetes or other kidney or blood disorder.

John Bussell, a farmer living near here, tells of his cure, after suffering fifteen years with Bright's Disease.

Three doctors treated him; may remedies were tried. All failed.

Then Dodd's Kidney Pills were recommended. He tried them. The invariable result followed. A few boxes cured him.

This story, with variations as to the disease, is told by hundreds in Petrolea. Dodd's Kidney Pills have not been known to fail one iyet. Every case has been a cure.

Head and Throat Catarrh.

Catarrh in the head and throat for years. Some of the best doctors in Toronto tried hard but could not cure me. They said no more could be done. I became alarmed at the repeated failures and tried Dr. Ward's Blood and Nerve Pills as a last resort. The result is my catarrh is cured, strength and appetite are restored, and I am now strong and well as ever. Franz Fildes, Lithographer, Clarence House, London, Ont.

Brain Worry and Breakdown.

I lacked confidence, snap, vim and energy. My vitality was low, my brain was worried and troubled so much that my system broke down. I got no benefit from all the other remedies I tried until at last I used Dr. Ward's Blood and Nerve Pills. They restored my health to robust vigor, and increased my weight surprisingly. My nerve power came back and I feel like I used to feel. I urge others to try them if they want to enjoy life. H. B. Williams, Guelph, Ont.

HOCKEY

The hockey boys are going to Toronto, accompanied by a big crowd, on Monday afternoon. They will take advantage of the cheap rates afforded by the curlers' excursion.

Millbrook and Lakefield played off their second game in the junior O.H.A. series Wednesday afternoon at the rink. Millbrook has no ice this winter, and therefore the game had to be played here. Last week the team went to Lakefield and was beaten by eight goals to 7, but they more than made up the difference here Wednesday, when they won from Lakefield by the score of 7—3. The game throughout was most evenly contested, but Millbrook won out by its superior combination. Many of the latter team are old lacrosse players, and this was one of the factors which contributed to Lakefield's defeat, as the Millbrook boys are the heavier checks.

The score at the end of the first half stood 3—2 in favour of Millbrook, and it looked for some time as though the Lakefield boys would even the score, but two more goals scored by Millbrook gave them a cinch on the game. Lakefield scored another and Millbrook two more before time was called. The teams were composed as follows:

Lakefield		Millbrook.
Geo Newberry	goal	Dan Tucker
Gus sawyers	point	Walter Cassels
H Moore	cover point	A Leach

S Ridpath		T Nattrass

NICHOLLS HOSPITAL ANNUAL MEETING.

MR. RICHARD HALL IS AGAIN ELECTED CHAIRMAN.

The Receipts from Pay Patients Less by $1,000 than in 1896 through the Good Health Enjoyed by the Community—This also Reduced the Government Grant by $225.

The annual meeting of the Nicholls Hospital Board took place yesterday with Mr. Richard Hall, the chairman, presiding. Among the other members present were Messrs. R. S. Davidson, W. Aldridge, Jas. Stevenson, W. H. Hill and Dr. Fife.

Mr. J. Crane, secretary-Treasurer, presented the following financial statement for the year ending Dec. 31st, 1897:

RECEIPTS.

Cr.

Assets	$ 124,000 00
Due Ontario Bank	1,031 06
	$125,031 06 $125,031 06

As will be noticed the excess of expenditure over receipts is $1,031.06, which was occasioned by the total amount received from pay patients, being about $1000 less than that received in 1896. The provincial grant was also $225 less as there were fewer free patients treated. The good health enjoyed by the citizens, as shown by the recent report of the Medical Health Officer of the town, is also a direct reason for the falling off of the receipts. There is a reduction of about $150 in the expenses as compared with last year, even though there was an extraordinary expenditure of $600, which would make in reality a reduction altogether in the ordinary running expenditure of $750.

The report was adopted.

THE OFFICERS.

Officers for the ensuing year were then elected as follows:—

Chairman—Richard Hall.
Honorary Secretary—R. S. Davidson.
Sec.-Treas.—J. Crane.

STRATTON SPEAKS AT BAILLIEBORO.

ANOTHER ROUSING CAMPAIGN MEETING.

Large Attendance—An Able Presentation of Provincial Issues Enthusiastically Received.

The rousing first meeting in Mr. Stratton's campaign at Bensfort, was followed by a similar one at Bailliebore last night.

In spite of the stormy evening the hall was well filled with an audience of the intelligent farmers of the vicinity.

Mr. John Porter was voted to the chair, and the usual invitation was given to any speaker, in Mr. Garvin's behalf, to take a seat on the platform, but no one responded, though two of his prominent supporters from Peterborough were present in the audience.

The first speaker of the evening was Mr. F. D. Kerr, who said the electors had met to take part in the discussion of public issues, and to discuss whether the people would continue the flattering confidence they had reposed in Mr. Stratton or transfer their allegiance to a stranger. The Opposition made the claim that the present Government had had so long and successfully governed the Province of Ontario. The Opposition claimed that the Government had made many mistakes. We all as individuals or Governments make mistakes, but it was a matter of fact that the Liberal Government had made fewer mistakes in twenty-five years than any other Government that ever existed. They have in the past twenty five years spent eighty-nine millions of dollars, and there is not a possibility of sustaining a charge that a single dollar had been corruptly expended. The Opposition charged extravagant expenditures. The Opposition charged that the Government had been too long in power, but we could not have too much of a Government that had spent many millions of dollars, and not a dollar has stuck. Look at the boodle reign in the Dominion and Quebec. Do they want a change in the direction of having more boodle in circulation? We did not want such a change. Reference was made to the record of the Ontario Government in the way of encouraging agriculture, and it was contrasted with the indifference, if not hostility, of the Opposition to the wants of the farmers. The Ontario Government was a business government and didn't talk as much as they accomplished. They had dealt practically with the timber question and had done so in a business like manner. The speaker suggested that the Opposition dealt in small issues and were justified in such a course because on all large issues. the Opposition could not but agree with the government's position.

Mr. Stratton said that before entering upon a discussion of public questions at issue in the campaign it would be advisable to pay a little attention to the utterances of the political missionaries who had recently visited this and other parts of the riding. He had not had the pleasure of hearing these gentlemen and he would therefore have to trust to the reports of their addresses as they appeared in the Review newspaper, but this might not be depended upon for it was a favourite practice of the Opposition orator to go about the country making extraordinary statements and then when brought to book deny these reckless statements or put the blame on incorrect newspaper reports and he, Mr. Stratton, did not much blame them. If he had made such reckless and misleading statements as had been made by some of the speakers in Mr. Garvin's behalf and by that gentleman himself, he would be glad of some hole to crawl into and the smaller the better. (Laughter.)

In speaking at Bailliebore Mr. Dennistoun, a lawyer from Peterborough,—and it was strange to see what a special interest the limbs of the law took in Mr. Garvin's campaign—said according to the Review's report that, "The Reform Government of to-day was not the Liberal Government they had been supporting a year gone by." This was only a half truth. True there had been a but the policy, the principles, the animating spirit of the present Liberal cabinet was the same as that which had for so many years given the province the best government, the best code of statutes of any government that had existed the past century or for the matter of it any other century of history. It was true that Mr. Pardee, a prominent member of the Mowat Government, died about a dozen years ago, and was succeeded by Hon A. S. Hardy, the present Premier, who in the first sale of timber lands under his jurisdiction embodied the condition that all logs cut on these lands should be manufactured in Ontario, thus anticipating what Mr. Whitney claims as his policy by over half a dozen years. Hon. C. F. Fraser died after the last general election, and was succeeded by Hon. Mr. Harty, of Kingston, who has kept up the high standard of official integrity that distinguished Mr. Fraser's department, especially in relation to public works, and of whom somebody said the Ontario Parliament buildings in Queen's Park were the only monument he needed —as they were an embodiment in stone of unbending integrity and undeviating regard for the public interests, for costing over a million and a quarter of dollars, the most reckless opponent had that a single dollar had been improperly or wrongfully expended. True Sir Oliver had retired from the premier's seat, but he had a worthy successor in Mr. Hardy, whom Sir Oliver named to follow him, who had imbibed Sir Oliver's spirit, and had had his training under Sir Oliver Mowat. Though the late premier was no longer a member of the Cabinet, he occupied the position he was well qualified to adorn, and that was a position in which he could watch the course of legislation, and had the authority to assent to or decline to assist the laws passed by the Legislature. Though there had been personal changes in the Cabinet, the ruling spirit of economy was still there. The genius of legislation still was in the cabinet councils, and directed the course of law making. The same honesty of purpose, the same progressive spirit prevailed. In the spirit of the old song that expressed the unperishable nature of great principles—

NEVER HAD A HINT

John Brown's body lies mouldering in the tomb,
But his soul goes marching on.

Though the bones of former members of the Cabinet were in the tomb, the undying spirit of nobler aims inspired the councils of the present Cabinet.

On the same occasion Mr. Dennistoun said that "Mr. Hardy had always been known as the wicked partner, and his conduct as a politician amply justified the expression." Did Mr. Dennistoun give you any instances where Mr. Hardy's conduct justified the statement he made? He did not, for he could not and speak truthfully. It is a

VERY BASE THING TO DO to make assertions that robbed the first statesman of the first Province of the Dominion of his political character without submitting a word of proof. No one knew better than Mr. Dennistoun, a lawyer, that assertions without proof are utterly worthless in a court of law and are as worthless and more defenceless in the court of public trial when the trial of a government is taking place, and where the largest interests of a great province are at stake. They should always distrust public men who would make such sweeping statements. Mr. Dennistoun said that "in the last Dominion elections the Conservative party was in the same unfortunate position as the Liberal party was to-day." "In the same position?" asked Mr. Stratton, and he went on to point out that the Liberal party of Ontario was a unit to day, all working energetically, harmoniously and with splendid augury for success in the support of the Government in which they had implicit confidence. He recalled the condition of the Conservative party in the last Dominion election, for a period of a month or two preceding, when the Conservative ministers went on strike and the revolting ministers knifed their venerable leader, railing on him as an imbecile—a political fool—and provoking the retort on the part of the leader that his rebel colleagues, the mutineers that had conspired to maroon him were a "nest of traitors." The "Liberals are in the same position" are they? Are any of the Liberal cabinet ministers on strike? Are they under the fifth rib? Is there any "nest of traitors" in the Ontario Liberal cabinet? Mr. Dennistoun, in order to have a fling at the Liberals, asperses his own party. He says, as reported in the Review, there was "no predominant intellect among the leaders of the (Conservative) party." What about Sir Charles Tupper? Was Mr. Dennistoun's statement a voice from another "nest of traitors?" Is Sir Charles an "imbecile." No, Sir Charles is "on deck" still and aiding Mr. Whitney, so it is stated, to carry the provincial election. Mr. Dennistoun also said at Bailliebore that it "was the duty of all good citizens to place country before party." That was something that could be heartily endorsed. That was all we asked or wanted in the provincial campaign. That was all we asked or wanted in the West Peterborough campaign. He (Mr. Stratton) asked the people to judge the present Ontario Government on its record. He asked the electors to judge their representative for twelve years and the candidate supporting the Government in this campaign by his record. If the people do that, looking to the interests of the country and to the interests of the riding without reference to party, but with a single eye to the interests of the province and the riding, he (Mr. Stratton) would have no fear of the result.

Mr. Stratton then said he would turn his attention to another of Mr. Garvin's political advocates, who had particularly distinguished himself in the way of making statements that were not on speaking terms with the truth, and who displayed not only a bold disregard for truth, or an ignorance of what he was talking about that was equally inexcusable and wrong whether it arose from ignorance or intent. Mr. Poussette, a Peterborough lawyer, said at Bailliebore that "farmers had often good cause to complain of the men selected to be candidates." This was one of the few statements made by this gentleman on a platform that the speaker or the facts could agree with. This was the time they had really reason to complain of the Conservative candidate. For, apart from intrinsic objections, the farmers had no hand in selecting the candidate. It was well known that no local Conservative of standing, or indeed any other, would take the risk of a contest. The farmers of South Monaghan or any other township were not asked to help select a candidate. A couple of town Conservatives, for purposes of their own, and doubtless with spoils in view, engineered a convention of sympathisers in the desire to have a contest at any cost, and a convention of town people was convened, and as the meeting was held at night and in a secret society hall, there were at the outside not more than

TWO FARMERS PRESENT.

Really "the farmers," as Mr. Poussette said, "had good cause to complain of the men selected to be candidates," especially as a candidate had been thrust upon the farmers without their having a voice in the matter, at a so called convention which was nothing more than a town caucus. But if the farmers had "good cause to complain of the men selected as candidates, they had even better cause to complain of the men sent out to worry the farmers into endorsing a "hole and corner" candidate. Mr. Poussette was a lawyer, and a Q.C.—a Queen's Counsel, and the statements he made on the platform showed that he was either wilfully misrepresenting facts or that he was wofully ignorant. Speaking in that very hall a night or two ago, Mr. Poussette said, as reported in the Review:

"At Ottawa was an Auditor General who was independent of the Government, who carefully scrutinized all accounts and expenditures. This watch-dog of the Dominion treasury had been appointed and protected for governmental control by the late Hon. Alex. MacKenzie who, as an honest man, had adopted such a method of safe-guarding the treasury from the numerous of his hungry followers. The Liberal Government of Ontario claimed to have an Auditor-General and wilfully tried to deceive the electorate, for the Ontario Auditor-General was subject to dismissal by the Government in power and therefore dare not take independent action as was done by the Auditor-General at Ottawa. Among many reforms Mr. Whitney proposed to imitiate the Hon. Alex. MacKenzie in the respect referred to in order to adequately protect the public."

It could be hardly possible that Mr. Poussette could be ignorant of the truth, which was exactly

OPPOSITE TO WHAT HE HAD STATED.

Mr. Stratton held in his hands a copy of the statutes of 1896 containing the Act appointing the Ontario Auditor-General and defining his duties, which meant that every item was scrutinized by him and passed through half a dozen hands before its expenditure was authorized and unless the money to cover the expenditure had passed Parliament it "did not go." The Ontario Auditor General was not the servant, but in his official capacity was the master of the Government and was only responsible to Parliament. His appointment was confirmed by Act of Parliament and he could only be dismissed by Parliament. The Government had no more power to dimiss the Ontario auditor-general without consent of the Legislative Assembly, than they had to dethrone the Queen. They could no more do away with the Act of Parliament appointing him than they could repeal the Confederation Act by an Order-in-Council. Mr. Stratton urged the farmers to beware of such men who came to them with wilful perversion of the truth. Language could not be used on a public platform strong enough to condemn such conduct. Such an attempt to deceive the electors was on a par with the tactics of the hay-fork swindler, in his attempt to swindle the farmers. The only true thing said by Mr. Poussette at Bailliebore, as reported in the Review, was that the farmers had cause to complain of the candidates selected, but he would have spoken a greater truth if he had said the farmers had greater cause to complain of the men sent out to bolster up, by false, statements, the cause of a candidate selected at a caucus without consulting the farmers.

Mr. Garvin, the candidate the farmers were asked to accept at Bailliebore, asserted that the government was guilty of squandering the public funds. But he didn't give an example because he couldn't do so, nor could any other man. There were two ways of looking at things, and the supporters of the Government and the Opposition differed as to means of doing things, but the Opposition had failed to furnish a single example of squandering the public funds. Mr. Whitney had made wild charges in this direction on the stump but in the House, where he was he didn't open his mouth on the subject with any proof of any kind whatever. Another of Mr. Garvin's charges was that the government had seized every official position to keep themselves in power, but he didn't mention an instance, and the only one mentioned by the Opposition that had any force was the government's taking into their hands the appointment of Division Court clerks and bailiffs, and they were justified in so doing, for the change had resulted in the removal of conditions that were created under the system that had previously prevailed that permitted great possibilities of laxity of attention by officials to their duties without proper check. Such a state of things was wrong, and the legal profession and all concerned were glad that the appointments were taken out of the judge's hands. Another matter complained of was the "seisure" by the government of the power to issue licenses. Mr. Stratton justified such action as having been done to meet the wishes of ministers, temperance advocates and the municipalities themselves and no municipality desired to return to the old system, for the new way had worked admirably, and had resulted in a great reduction of the evils of the drink traffic. Mr. Garvin insinuated that the Patrons had forced the Government to take action in the matter of Government House. Mr. Stratton showed how he had favoured a reduction of expenditure in this connection, explaining the course the Government was taking to realize on the expensive residence and grounds, which was erected prior to Mr. Mowat taking office, with the result that enough will be realized to build a smaller residence for the Lieut-Governor, and provide a fund for meeting the expenses of its maintenance. Mr. Garvin's rash statement regarding the treatment of timber by the Government was referred to and it was pointed out that, though the timber might not be so abundant as it was a few years ago, yet that deficiency was to a large extent made up by the great increase in value, a fair estimate gave reason to say that at the past average rate of cutting there was enough timber and the recent practical action taken by the Government to protect timber from fire and for reforestering large areas, would result in extending the time greatly In regard to Mr. Garvin's complaints in reference to the Normal School and Penetanguishine Reformatory, there were many in West Peterborough, as well as all over the province, that wanted their sons to enter the Normal school. There was no room for them in the existing institutions, and the Government had decided to build a new Normal School building in London. There was one in the east, in Ottawa, another in the centre at Toronto, and the Government though it was fair to intending pupils to put one in the west at London. As to the Reformatory, there was need for increased asylum accommodation to take away the stain of keeping these unfortunates in our jails, and it was decided to convert the Reformatory into an asylum, and establish the Reformatory in Oxford County, where the boys could be taught farming, which could not be done at Penetanguishene as the land was unsuitable. Incidentally referring to the timber question, Mr. Stratton pointed out that the Government had been economical and prudent in their treatment of it with the view of securing the greatest possible amount of revenue for it.

The Eagledue mining arrangement, or "deal," as it was called by the Opposition, was fully explained. It was necessary to divert the stream of British capital that was finding its way to South Africa and Australian gold fields to Canada, whose untold wealth of minerals required capital for its development. Col. Eagledue, representing a wealthy British syndicate, was given the right to prospect on an area about equal to the size of an ordinary township, on the condition that the large sum of $120,000, be expended in exploration in three years, and if they discovered gold in paying quantities it did not become theirs and they had only the same as other prospectors to locate a claim and secure it in the regular way. The arrangement was a business one which was approved of by all reasonable men and the leader of the Patrons, was that it was the only such bargain made and that it would be a good thing if other syndicates could be induced to invest capital on similar terms.

Mr. Stratton then went on to deal with the increased expenditure showing how it was justified by the demands of the public, and how it was distributed to lessen the burden of direct taxation. The Ontario Government levied no taxes, and of the large amount it was necessary to spend the government did not spend a large part of it, it was

and the people themselves spent it. A large amount was spent upon education and this the people demanded and deserved, and neither the people nor politicians could complain. Another large amount, the largest in the list of classified expenditures, was that for providing for and maintaining unfortunates in our asylums, and there was not a province nor state that maintained these persons so well and so cheaply as Ontario. After going through all the departments, by which the people directly benefitted, and pointing out the immense expenditure that had been made to decrease local taxation, Mr. Stratton pointed out that all this had been done, and the past year the government had a surplus or current account on the past year's operations of over $300,000 in the treasury, and there was a surplus of assets of over five and a half million dollars, drawing interest from the Dominion Government at the rate of five per cent., and if it were converted at the current rate of interest in England, that was, 3½ per cent., this five and a half millions of surplus would represent the magnificent total of nearly seven millions. Was the Province, then, in a bad shape, and was there the least prospect of direct taxation? It might be asked why, if the Government had a surplus, the railway liabilities to accrue, amounting to $3,060,000, were not paid off? Would it be good policy to withdraw money drawing five per cent. interest to pay liabilities that were being gradually extinguished by payments from current revenue, and that were bearing a much lower rate of interest, and lose $62,000 a year in the process? It would not pay. The Government were acting in these matters like business men anxious to discharge their trust to the best advantage of the people. After all had been done—after thirty years of practically Liberal administration in Ontario (for Sandfield Macdonald was a Liberal), after expending in that time about ninety-three millions of dollars without one tenable charge of crookedness, the province could look the world in the face and say that it owed no man a cent. (Cheers.)

THE PIGGERY CASE.

One of the matters that wasted the whole of the time of the Public Accounts Committee during the past session was that "squealing farce," the notorious St. John "piggery issue," which Mr. Garvin and his friends, Mr. Stratton supposed, had referred to at Bailliebore and—

A voice—"They never mentioned it!"

Mr. Stratton—"They are getting ashamed of it, as they are of many of the other false and petty cries they raise. (Laughter.)

A voice—"They are keeping it for Centreville!"

Mr. Stratton said Centreville was to be pitied if the people there would suffer from such a surfeit of diseased pork and diseased political malice as the Public Accounts Committee had suffered. He then briefly explained the piggery matter. Many were under the mistaken impression that the piggery matter was something new, something recent, but it happened nearly two years ago, and was conveniently resurrected on the eve of an election. For the purpose of using up the refuse of the public institutions the Government maintained piggeries at them, and the hogs fattened by this refuse yielded a considerable sum. The Toronto City Council declared that all piggeries must be removed from the city limits. Accordingly an acre of land was purchased at the Humber and a piggery built and equipped with the best appliances, and stocked with pigs, and the profit of their sale at the time cholera attacked the herd was at the rate of $2,000 a year. In 1895 the hogs took sick; the caretaker as any farmer would do, called in a veterinary surgeon. He said the hogs were overfed; they were fed less and still continued to die. Dr. Smith, the president of the Veterinary College, Toronto, and Dominion Inspector, appointed by the Conservative Government, was sent for and in which Mr. Sweetapple, another professor in the College, agreed. Dr. Smith in the name of the Dominion Government, took charge of the piggery, took it entirely out of the hands of the Ontario Government, who had nothing to say in the matter. He ordered the caretaker to kill and burn the diseased hogs, to slaughter the sound ones and put them in cold storage for sale, and out of 300 odd pigs all were burned but 97, and these were stored in the Central Prison refrigerator and sold after the most careful inspection by Dr. Sweetapple, to Mr. Harris, one of the largest buyers of pork in the province, and by him resold, and there never has been a word of complaint that the meat was not of the best quality, and it was only after the lapse of two years, when the men employed to kill the pigs found that they could not force the Government to give them more than ordinary pay for their work they made a scandal of the matter to Mr. St. John, who after nearly two years, brought the matter up in Parliament for the sole purpose of making political capital; and his name would go down to posterity linked with pigs. If he had taken action at the time the cholaraic pigs were killed, he might have got credit for instituting a "fresh" pork crusade, but after waiting for nearly two years, he had become the author of a pickled pork propaganda, and instead of getting the Government into a pickle, had dropped into it himself, and would be embalmed in the history of political pigs as St. John, the apostle of measly pork. (Applause.)

Mr. Stratton concluded a capital address, fair, moderate and convincing, which was listened to with the closest attention, by summarizing the claims that the Government and the representative of West Peterborough for the last twelve years had upon the support of the electors.

After votes of thanks to the chairman and the usual cheers, the meeting closed.

TWO INKY WAYS.

There was a man who advertised
But once—a single time.
In spot obscure placed he his ad.
And paid for it a dime.

And just because it didn't bring Him customers by score,
"All advertising is a fake,"
He said, or rather swore.

He seemed to think one hammer tap
Would drive a nail clear in;
That from a bit of tiny thread
A weaver tents could spin.

If he this reasoning bright applied
To eating, doubtless he Would claim one little bite would feed
Ten men a century.

Some day, though, he will learn that to Make advertising pay
He'll have to add ads. to his ad.
And advertise each day.

Women are not the only ones who are sensitive about their ages. A man doesn't like to be told that he is getting old. Health keeps a man young. It doesn't make any difference if he has lived eighty years. If they have been healthy years he will be hale and hearty and won't look within twenty years as old as he is. Good digestion and rich red blood make people look youthful. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery make rich, red blood. It makes health in the right way. It works according to the right theory, and in 30 years of practice it has proved that the theory is absolutely correct. It begins at the beginning—begins by putting the stomach, liver and bowels into perfect order, but it begins its good work on the blood before it finishes with the digestive organs. It searches out disease germs wherever they may be and forces them out of the body. All druggists keep the "Discovery."

Particulars of the Award Made by the International Arbitration—Farmers for Free Binder Twine.

Ottawa, Jan. 20.—Particulars of the award by the International Arbitrators on the Behring Sea seizure claims are published. They show that the award has been based on the actual damages established, with interest added, and without taking into calculation the "prospective damages" or the loss of the sealers through being deprived by the seizures of the opportunity of completing the season's hunting, for which they had outfitted. The total is thus made up:

	Damages.	Interest.	Award.
General claims	$2,641,888	$149,790	$413,979
Personal claims	30,000	19,475	49,475
Totals	$294,188	$169,265	$463,454

The Free Press says the proposition of the cordage manufacturers to restore the duty upon binder twine has raised a storm among the farming classes, the effects of which have not been slow in reaching Ottawa. Representations have been made in the very strongest way to have binder twine retained upon the free list. Probably a farmers' deputation may follow.

Mr. Bertram, M.P. of Toronto Centre, is mentioned as likely to either move or second the address in reply to the Speech from the Throne.

About a dozen models of the statues of Her Majesty and of Hon. Alex. Mackenzie by Canadian artists, have been submitted and will likely be placed on public exhibition.

Among Torontonians here yesterday were Robert Jaffray, A. B. Aylesworth, S. F. McKinnon and S. R. Wickett.

George Taylor, M.P., was in town yesterday.

The Cabinet was busy yesterday afternoon with the estimates.

Major Sutherland, M.P., is here.

Yukon Mining Certificates.

Ottawa, Jan. 20.—The "free miners'" certificates, which every man who intends mining in the Yukon must take out at the price of $10 per head, will be ready for the public in a day or two. Personal application will be required on the part of those desiring them, as the certificates must be countersigned in the presence of the Government officers in Toronto, Montreal, Victoria and Vancouver. These licenses will be issued by the Collector of Customs in Winnipeg, Calgary, Edmonton, Prince Albert and Kamloops, and the agent of the Dominion Lands will be the authorized person. Inspectors of Mounted Police in the Yukon, as well as the gold commissioners of the country, will also be clothed with authority to issue these licenses.

Owing to the great interest which is being manifested in Klondike matters in England similar provision will be made for acquiring licenses at the offices of the High Commissioner in London and the agents for Canada at Liverpool, Dublin and Glasgow. These licenses entitle the holders not only to mine and prospect, but also to free fishing and shooting and whatever timber they may require for their own use, either in the construction of dwellings or boats, or what may be necessary in mining operations.

The Hudson Bay Company realizes the great possibilities for trade which will be afforded by the Yukon rush, and will endeavor to capture a big share of the business. The company has just issued a beautiful folder, with an excellent map showing the different routes to the Klondike, giving the kind of outfit required, and above all emphasizing the point that, to avoid difficulty with the customs, such outfit should be purchased in Canada.

Enlisting for Mounted Police.

As foreshadowed the other day, enlisting for the Northwest Mounted Police force has commenced. The department will not send any men from Eastern Canada to Regina, but any man presenting the necessary physique and conditions, presenting himself at headquarters at Regina, will be engaged. Applicants must be between the age of 22 and 40, active, able-bodied men of thoroughly sound constitution, and must produce certificates of exemplary character. They must be able to write and read either English or French, understand the care and management of horses and be able to ride well. The term of engagement is five years. The minimum height is 5 feet 8 inches; minimum chest measurement 35, and maximum weight 175 pounds. The rate of pay for the first year is 50 cents per day, increasing to the last year, conditional upon good conduct, up to 70 cents per day.

Stage Line to the Yukon.

A deputation, representing the Commonwealth Mining Company, consisting of S. O. Shorey, J. C. Holden, Senator Thibaudeau, Mr. Bolque, Montreal; J. R. Barber, Georgetown; C. Riordan, Toronto; J. B. Powell of Nelson, B.C., and others, waited on the Government yesterday. The company has a scheme for a stage line between Edmonton and Dawson City, in the Yukon, which they say can be traveled in about 12 days. The distance is about 1,500 miles. They ask the Government to guarantee interest on bonds to the extent of $2,000 per mile for 1,500 miles. Sir Wilfrid Laurier, Messrs. Blair, Tarte and Sifton saw the deputation.

Unorganized Territory.

Legislation will be introduced next session defining the position of the unorganized territories in the Northwest under the jurisdiction of the Federal authority. The claim of the Executive at Regina that they have control over the Yukon will not be recognized.

Verdict for Lady Sykes.

London, Jan. 18.—A verdict in favor of Lady Tatton Sykes was rendered today in the suit brought by Mr. Daniel Jay, a money-lender, to recover £15,870, loaned to the defendant on promissory notes, signed apparently by her husband, Sir Tatton Sykes, but which the latter repudiated on the ground that the signatures were forged.

The foreman said the jury found that the signatures on the promissory notes, letters of authority, and letter dated Jan. 2, 1897, were not in the handwriting of Sir Tatton Sykes. The jury, therefore, non-suited the money-lender, Mr. Daniel Jay.

Conductor No. 835, 15 Bellair Street, Toronto, says: "About fifteen months ago I began to have a pain across the small of my back and under my heart, which, until I commenced the use of Doan's Kidney Pills, daily grew worse. For a long time the pain in my back was so severe that I could hardly turn in my bed or arise therefrom. I was much troubled with dizziness and constant and severe cramps in my legs. My urine was red color, with sandy sediment and scalding sensation in passing. Seeing Doan's Kidney Pills advertised I procured a box and had not taken half of them before I experienced marked relief and my improvement was constant until my complete cure. It took just two boxes to cure me of all my pain and troubles, and I am confident that Doan's Kidney Pills, which worked such a perfect cure in my case, are the thing for anyone troubled as I was."

A RAJAH'S TREASURE

BY C. B. LEWIS.

Six or seven years previous to the outbreak of the Indian mutiny the rajah of the province of Gwalior was dethroned for treason to the English. He had long been a ruler over one of the largest provinces in India and was known to be one of the wealthiest in the empire. He had an army of 2,000 men, a herd of 200 elephants and lived in a style no European monarch could approach. While professing to be friendly to the English he plotted against them, and when this was discovered steps were taken to curtail his powers. His army was reduced to a bodyguard of 100 men. His right to issue edicts and make local laws was abrogated. English civil officers were stationed here and there to collect the taxes, and the proud and powerful rajah held only his empty title. He bowed to the terms imposed by a superior force, but became one of the bitterest foes the English had to deal with and was first and foremost in bringing about the mutiny. The date of the outbreak was known by the deposed rajah weeks in advance. It was afterward charged that he set the date himself. At any rate he was so well prepared that his troops were almost the first in the field against the English. Although his army had been disbanded for three or four years, he had secretly purchased and stored away large amounts of equipment, and for two months previous to the outbreak he was secretly enlisting and arming his subjects.

Two weeks before the uprising the rajah made preparations to secure the safety of the great treasure. In his palace, 80 miles from Gwalior, he had a secret chamber, in which the wealth had been stored for three generations. No European had ever set foot in the palace, but it was currently reported that the value of the gems and jewels, many of which had been handed down from his great-grandfather, aggregated $10,000,000. It was afterward believed that this sum was too small by half. One day the rajah left his palace with an escort of ten of his oldest and most trusted soldiers, and each soldier had charge of a packhorse carrying a share of the treasure. His band traveled to the northwest for two days and then halted amid the ruins of an ancient city between the town of Jeypore and the river Ganges. So much was learned years after. At the end of five days the rajah returned to his palace, accompanied only by a servant who had acted as cook. This servant was locked in a dungeon and never seen again. No one dared to ask what had become of him or the soldiers, and if any one suspected that the rajah had removed his treasure from the palace he wisely kept his thoughts to himself, well knowing what would follow a word of gossip.

Two months after the rajah had taken the field against the English at the head of a thousand men he was killed in battle. A month later his palace was captured, looted of such treasure as the soldiers fancied and then destroyed by fire and explosion. The treasure room was found by the soldiers, but it was empty. From some of the servants it was learned how and when the wealth had been removed, but it could not be searched for until the rebellion had been put down. During the mutiny the soldiers were permitted to loot right and left, but when peace came the government reserved the right to search for all treasure hidden away. But little has ever been written on this subject, though it is a fact beyond cavil that money, gems and other things, valued at tens of millions of dollars, were recovered and turned into the government treasury.

No sooner was the civil government at Gwalior in working order than a party in charge of an official was started out to search for the rajah's treasure. By this time not a soldier or servant who knew anything of the matter could be found. It was simply known that the party had gone away to the northwest. After several days' search the treasure hunters came upon the ruins, and thinking the spot to be a likely place they began work. Here was a space of half a mile square of standing and fallen walls, with trees and bushes and vines growing in the greatest profusion, and a thousand safe spots in which to hide the treasure. The party, which numbered 4 Englishmen and 60 natives, went to work, however, and it was five months before they quit in despair. They reported to the government that it would take a thousand men fully two years to clear away the debris.

Soon after it had become generally known that the party had given up the search a native was arrested at Delhi charged with the murder of two European women at the outbreak of the mutiny. When he was put on trial, an English ensign testified in his behalf and proved that it was a case of mistaken identity. As soon as the native was released from custody he went to his preserver and declared that he was one of the rajah's soldiers who took away the treasure. It was buried in the ruins, he said, and when the work had been finished the rajah gave the party several bottles of wine to drink to his health. This wine was poisoned. Every man who partook of it except this one died within two hours. He was made very ill and simulated death to escape the rajah's dagger.

When the cold blooded ruler departed, leaving the dead to be devoured by beasts of prey, the sole survivor crawled away, and after a time recovered and made good his escape. He fought against the English to the last, but was ready to divide the hidden treasure with the man who had saved his life. Just at this time the government offered 25 per cent to finders of treasure, and the officer and native proceeded to Jeypore and made up a party. In due time they reached the ruins, but only to find the treasure gone. The native pointed out the spot where it had been concealed, and there was no doubt of his veracity, but some one had removed the wealth. As it had been taken away during the war it was almost useless to hope for a clew, but the native declared he would devote the remainder of his days to following the matter up.

It was three years before anything more was learned of the rajah's treasure. Then a native who was confined in prison at Lucknow for theft told a story which later on reached the ears of government officials. During the last six months of the war the regiment to which he belonged was encamped for some days near the old ruins. Nearly all the natives had come to realize that the English rule would soon be restored, and this man and five comrades decided to desert their colors and make their way to the east. Believing they would be pursued if they started off across the country, they secreted themselves among the ruins until their comrades marched away. They clambered over walls and stone heaps and crept amid vines and bushes until reaching the center of the ruins and finding a hiding place. In removing some of the debris for their own convenience they came across the treasure, which was in teak wood and iron boxes.

Here was the ransom of the greatest king in the world to be divided among six soldiers, not one of whom had ever been possessed of $25 at once in his life, but yet the devil of avarice soon entered into all hearts. In making a division of the spoils they quarreled, and within five minutes of the first hot words three of them lay dead. The three survivors were content that their shares had doubled, but the question was what to do with the treasure. They could carry only a few handfuls of it away on their persons, even if they could find purchasers in those turbulent times. After remaining in seclusion for two weeks and at a time when the neighborhood was clear of troops the treasure was carried a distance of nine miles toward the Ganges and reburied in a thicket. The three men then started for Delhi, each having a few of the gems with him, but within a week they were captured by mutineers and two of them shot down. The third was saved by influence and joined the troops and served to the end of the war. He was at Lucknow enlisting a party to go after the treasure when he committed a robbery and was sentenced to jail for a year.

The government lost no time in investigating this story. The prisoner retold it to officials and added such detail as made it plain that he was telling the truth. He was promised a pardon and 10 per cent of the value of the treasure for acting as guide, and he led a party straight to the spot. The hole where the treasure had been buried was speedily found, but of the gems and jewels not one remained. The despoilers had in turn been despoiled.

It was a year before another clew was found, and then it came through a woman. She was the wife of a ryot, or farmer, and from a hiding place in the thicket had seen the three soldiers bury the boxes and caskets. Her husband was in the rebel army, and after a few weeks, finding the soldiers did not return for their booty, she dug it up and reburied it in one of the cultivated fields. Her husband was killed in battle, and at the close of the war, when bands of natives were riding about and plundering right and left, her hut was one day visited by a band of six scoundrels who threatened her life. Being greatly terrified by their actions, she told them of the treasure, and they were speedily in possession of it. They decided to convey it down the Ganges by boat. It was taken to the river on horses by night, but instead of purchasing a craft they seized one by force and murdered the crew of three men. This craft, with the six robbers on board, was seen by various parties during the next four days, but it was a month later before the government got track of it. Every effort was then made to discover what had become of the men and their plunder.

It was found that the boat had reached Allahabad, where two men went ashore to purchase supplies, and she was again seen by various parties 80 miles below the city. Then all traces of her were lost. Every seaport was watched and every dealer in gems notified, but it was months before any new developments took place. Then a villainous looking native offered some diamonds and rubies for sale in Bombay and was arrested. He had on his person about $50,000 worth of unset gems. For several weeks he refused any explanations, but at length confessed that he was the leader of the gang who got the treasure from the woman.

After passing Allahabad they started to divide the treasure. As all were grasping and avaricious a quarrel arose, and in the height of this quarrel the boat ran upon a snag and received such damages that she soon filled and went down. Five of the men and all the treasure except that found on this man went to the bottom in 40 feet of water. The fellow stubbornly refused to name the locality or to go with a party, and after a few weeks died in prison of fever. A dozen different parties searched for the wreck at much trouble and expense, but it had been covered by mud or sand and could not be found. Of the vast treasures of the rebel rajah, computed on good authority at from $17,000,000 to $20,000,000, the trifling amount found on the robber was alone recovered. Only last year a party under orders of the government made a new attempt to discover the wreck, but after a search of four months gave it up in despair.

Paid Well For the Dinner.

It was an apparently innocent little dinner invitation which drew a number of California street heavyweights to the handsome home of a capitalist on Pacific avenue who is no longer popular in the Pacific Union club. After the dinner, which was elaborately planned, perfectly served and thoroughly appreciated, the host led the way to the billiard room, where he produced, for the inspection of his friends, a new roulette wheel which he had just purchased.

After it had been examined and duly admired monsieur proposed that his friends tempt fortune with it, announcing that he would be banker and smilingly inviting them to "break him." The guests scarcely expected this sort of diversion, but they could hardly decline the "entertainment" which had been provided for them. Having carelessly undertaken to call the turn on the black or the red, they expected to lose a trifle to their host, but they did not anticipate any such financial catastrophe as overtook each of the players.

The bank won steadily. Soon all the player guests were "broke," but the host offered, in an offhand way, to stake one and all, guarding against a loss of the frequent loans, however, by taking the checks of his friends. For this purpose, with admirable forethought, he had provided himself with blank checks on every bank in town.

There was no escape for his victims. They were all thoroughly trapped and well scorched before they were released. The guests caught the first car home in the morning, the urbane host, with unparalleled generosity, presenting each guest with a nickel to pay his fare.—San Francisco News Letter.

To be the mother of many children is ranked among nature's chief blessings but when the cares of the busy housewife are added to the trials of frequent motherhood, it is too great a burden for a woman who is not in prime health and condition. Every woman who is called upon to bear the ordeal of bringing many children into the world needs the support and reinforcement of that wonderful strength-promoting "Favorite Prescription" originated by Dr. R. V. Pierce, chief consulting physician of the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, Buffalo, N. Y., and one of the most eminent of living specialists in treating the ailments of women.

Mrs. David H. Langley, of Lancing, Morgan Co., Tenn., in a recent letter to Dr. Pierce, writes: "I am now thirty-six years old and have given birth to ten children. Eight only are living. I have twin boys six years old. The same spring after they were born I was confined to my bed all spring and summer with female complaint; had it so badly I could hardly walk around the house without feeling worse. I was restless at night, sleep almost left me, and I was almost a skeleton. I did not call my doctor as I had tried the doctors twice before when I was down with the same trouble, and my husband paid out a great deal for me. I received no lasting benefit; I had almost lost all hope of ever being able to do anything. My husband had to work very hard and I could not even attend to the babies. No one can know the distress of my mind as well as body. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription was the only medicine that seemed to do me any good. After I had taken the first bottle and part of the second, I could sleep well and all my troubles began to get better. I believe I took eight bottles and then I felt like a different person. I gave birth to another baby and my old complaint came back. I began using the 'Favorite Prescription' and was soon relieved and was able to do my work, including the washing."

Mothers would be immensely helped in raising their children strong and healthy by the sound professional advice contained in Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser. This book will be sent free for 31 one-cent stamps to pay cost of customs and mailing only. Address, World's Dispensary Med. Assn., Buffalo, N. Y., or send 50 stamps for a cloth-bound copy.

Her Motive.

"That Bascomme woman is always making her husband tell her that he loves her right before folks."

"Yes; she knows that it is an awful exasperation to him to say it."—Indianapolis Journal.

The churches of Naples are so overrun with mice that most of the pastors have been obliged to keep cats in them, at the risk of provoking comic scenes like those sometimes witnessed in theaters when a cat walks across the stage.

It is necessary to hope, though hope should be always deluded, for hope itself is happiness, and its frustrations, however frequent, are yet less dreadful than its extinction.—Dr. Johnson.

Free Trial To Any Honest Man

The Foremost Medical Company in the World in the Cure of Weak Men Makes this Offer.

HEALTH AND ENERGY ASSURED. HAPPY MARRIAGE, GOOD TEMPER, LONG LIFE.

In all the world to-day—in all the history of the world—no doctor nor institution has treated and restored so many men as has the famed ERIE MEDICAL CO. of Buffalo, N. Y.

This is due to the fact that the company controls some inventions and discoveries which have no equal in the whole realm of medical science.

So much deception has been practiced in advertising that this grand old company now for the first time makes this startling offer:—

They will send their costly and magically effective appliances and a whole month's course of restorative remedies, positively on trial without expense to any honest and reliable man!

Not a dollar need be advanced—not a penny paid—till results are known to and acknowledged by the patient.

The Erie Medical Company's appliance and remedies have been talked about and written about all over the world, till every man has heard of them.

They restore or create strength, vigor, healthy tissue and new life.

They quickly stop drains on the system that sap the energy.

They cure nervousness, despondency and all the effects of evil habits, excesses, overwork, etc.

They give full strength, development and tone to every portion and organ of the body.

Failure is impossible and age is no barrier.

This "Trial without Expense" offer is limited by the company to a short time, and application must be made at once.

No C. O. D. scheme, no begging philanthropy nor deception, no exposure—a clean business proposition by a company of high financial and professional standing.

Write to the ERIE MEDICAL COMPANY, BUFFALO, N. Y., and refer to seeing the account of their offer in this paper.

GOUGH'S Greater Oak Hall

SPLITTING THE ACORNS IN TWO!

LIKE A BOMB-SHELL

Came the announcement a few days ago of the purchase by GOUGH BROS. of the Oak Hall Stock. Day and night, ever since, the thunder of Gough's Fusilade of Bargains has been both heard and felt all over the country. But yesterday, what were Bargains at Oak Hall, the lesser, did'nt GO. To-day they DO GO—at GOUGH'S GREATER OAK HALL—because they've GOT TO GO.

Was it Luck? Some people say we were lucky to make such a fortunate purchase But luck takes a back seat compared with the master-stroke of business acumen in cornering this Matchless $16,430 stock of Oak Hall's at a Fractional Rate on the Dollar of

On the Manufacturers Cost.

It was as natural as sunshine that the first week of our Triumphant Sale should bring a throng of buyers. But the campaign is only started and there's to be no Prorogation until the slate is cleared and every vestige sold. The nimble nickle has more charm for us than the slow shilling. THIS WEEK the Clothing Sensation of the Season is in full swing with all its potential momentum. Just in the right time, too, when it is most needed to afford Peterborough's male population an opportunity to be warmly clothed for the winter at about Half Ruling Prices.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOUR.

Meeting of St. Andrew's Branch of the Young People's Society.

Last Monday evening St. Andrew's Y.P.S.C.E. was left in the hands of the Missionary Committee, Miss Anderson introducing the topic: "Fishers of Men—How to Win Souls." She urgently pressed the necessity of soul winning—first we must have a personal knowledge of Christ as our Saviour, St. Paul could point others to Christ because he had a personal knowledge of Him. The Bible is full of example teaching the promise of power and blessing in individual witnessing, and such work must be done by faith—faith working through love—faith that the Lord desires in order to be successful instruments in His hands. We are not to be afraid on account of our weakness. We learn from Scripture what glorious promises God from time to time gave those who had to speak for Him. Let us surrender ourselves, knowing He who redeemed us for this end will to this end bless us. Christian Endeavourers be witnesses for Jesus, live as those who are wholly given up to Him, and watch and work for His honour. Through the entire meeting a missionary spirit prevailed. Many helpful suggestions were given, showing the right sort of equipment to be used in soul winning. We do not need to preach in public in order to carry Christ to others. The workshops, the store, the college, the home, will yield us hearers if our hearts are set on winning for Christ. After the secretary had read his annual report and the moving of its adoption, the meeting closed with prayer for the deepening of spiritual life. The benediction was then pronounced.

Cure Yourself of Rheumatism.

The application of Nerviline — nerve-pain cure—which possesses such marvellous power over all nerve pain, has proved a remarkable success in rheumatism and neuralgia. Nerviline acts on the nerves, soothes, then drives pain out and so gives relief. Try it and be convinced.

Hagyard's Yellow Oil cures all pain in man or beast; for sprains, cuts, bruises, callous lumps, swellings, inflammation rheumatism and neuralgia it is a specific.

Hamilton Liberals Nominate Gibson and Middleton

AMID VERY GREAT ENTHUSIASM.

No Thought of Nominating Any Other Persons in the Convention—The Minister Vindicates the Hardy Government—Music in the Campaign—Progress of the Fight Elsewhere.

Hamilton, Jan. 22.—The Liberals of Hamilton last night, in monster joint convention assembled, renominated their present able representatives, Hon. J. M. Gibson and Mr. J. T. Middleton. The meeting was held in Association Hall, a very large room, which was completely filled with enthusiastic Liberals, who throughout the proceedings displayed the most hearty approval of the conduct of their representatives and the most complete harmony. There was no thought of nominating any other person than Messrs. Gibson and Middleton, so that the large attendance was remarkable, as there were no outside speakers and the candidates are so well known as to be anything but novelties here. The meeting was a gratifying tribute to the worth of the candidates and the pure administration of the Hardy Government. The presence of the Laurier Quartette of London added to the success of the convention.

After Mr. Middleton had closed a stirring address with the three watchwords employed in the last campaign, "Work and Win," Hon. J. M. Gibson rose to speak. He was cheered with a lustiness quite unusual in such gatherings, and when he could be heard he earnestly thanked his supporters for their kindness to him since he first entered Parliament nineteen years ago. He reminded them that this was the first time that Mr. Hardy had asked the people "Have you confidence in me as leader of a Government? Are you willing to renew for five years to come the confidence I and my colleagues have enjoyed at your hands?" (Cheers.) Much of the success of Sir Oliver Mowat's phenomenal record of long-continued Parliamentary control was due to the present Premier, Hon. A. S. Hardy—(cheers)—who always was the most active, most reliable and most generally useful colleague; a man of brilliant ability, who had sacrificed his financial interests by being in politics; a man without one dishonest streak in his make-up. (Cheers.) The affairs of the province were as safe in his hands as they ever were in the hands of Sir Oliver Mowat. Mr. Gibson then devoted himself to the present campaign. The Opposition speakers had gone up and down the country criticizing the Government for having spent the surplus left by the John Sandfield Macdonald Government. They seemed to think that the Government was living a riotous life on the Macdonald surplus. The surplus left by John Sandfield Macdonald was $3,820,000, and the Governments that had succeeded them would be little better than an aggregation of imbeciles if they had not spent that surplus over and over again, and they had done that. (Applause.) Mr. Gibson detailed the grants made but not paid by the John Sandfield Macdonald Government before their retirement, showing that only $14,000 of the surplus was not already pledged. He mentioned the increased expenditure of the Government for improved public services and institutions since the time of the John Sandfield Macdonald Government. They might easily have had an enormous surplus by this time if they had chosen not to give improved services. If they had kept the expenditure for public services at the same figures as the John Sandfield Macdonald Government they could easily have had a surplus of $28,000,000. It was perfect nonsense, perfect silliness, perfect trash, for people to travel up and down the country and accuse the Mowat Government of squandering the surplus. They accused the Government of living on capital, but he pointed out that the revenue from the Crown Lands Department, from ground rents, timber dues, etc., had amounted to $21,905,000. From that he deducted $2,468,317 for fire ranging, inspecting, etc.; $750,000, the proportion of departmental expenses fairly attributable to the woods and forests; $2,967,994 for colonization roads, a total deduction of $6,181,311, leaving a surplus of $15,724,000. There was spent in this time on capital account $6,500,000 in aid to railways, $3,500,000 on public buildings and works, and $1,300,000 on the new Parliament buildings; in all $16,300,000, so that the money was simply reinvested and not spent in current expenditure. He scored Mr. Whitney for his exaggerations while speaking throughout the province, and his repudiation of the reports in the newspapers when challenged in the House. The case of the man Wickett, foreman in the Colonization Roads Department, who was stated by Mr. Whitney to have received more for overseeing a job than the men who built the bridge, was instanced, and shown to be an entirely different transaction, and one in which the most rigid economy was exercised. Mr. Gibson dealt with the timber question very briefly, summarizing the able address on this subject which he delivered in the House. He appealed to the Liberals to be active in the campaign, as earnest and persistent work was being done by the Opposition to win the Hamiltons. He was confident of the result in East Hamilton; he liked Mr. Middleton as a candidate, and had confidence in him. He had not the same confidence in his opponents. (Laughter and applause.) As to his own opponent, while he esteemed him personally, he did not think his Worship would have any influence in the House, either with the Government or with the Opposition. (Cheers.)

Mr. Harty Will Probably Run Again.

Kingston, Jan. 22.—The Executive of the Conservative Association met last night, and arranged for a nomination convention next week. It is generally agreed that Hon. William Harty will be the Liberal nominee.

Patron in South Wellington.

Guelph, Jan. 22.—The Patrons and Independents in the South Riding of Wellington met in the City Hall yesterday afternoon for the purpose of ratifying their platform and nominating a candidate to contest this riding in their interests in the forthcoming Provincial elections. A large number of delegates from the country and the city were present. Mr. William McCrae presided over the meeting. Another plank was added to their platform, that of a secret ballot.

The result of the ballot was: James Anderson, Springfield, 34; Allen Stewart, Puslinch, 19. It was on motion decided to tender Mr. Anderson a unanimous nomination. Mr. Anderson has decided to stand.

Addington Liberals' Choice.

Enterprise, Ont., Jan. 22.—A very large and enthusiastic meeting of the Liberal Association met here, when Mr. Frank Wartman of Colebrook was chosen as the Liberal candidate for the coming Provincial election.

TOM NULTY'S TRIAL.

Detective McCaskill Said the Prisoner Was a "Jumper" and the Confession Was Thrown Out.

Joliette, Que., Jan. 22.—In the Nulty murder trial yesterday afternoon Detective McCaskill was put on the stand. In answer to a question by the defence, the witness stated that the prisoner was a "jumper," or one who would yell out and jump when shouted at or nudged, when taken off his guard. The defence thereupon claimed that the confession, as given to the detective, should be thrown out, as it was probable that the officer had taken advantage of Tom's highly nervous temperament to secure an admission of his guilt. The judge decided that the defence should be given the benefit of the doubt and ruled out the confession.

High Constable Le Vesque was examined. He was driving towards Joliette with Detective McCaskill and the prisoner, when the latter confessed to having committed the crime. Witness did not think any undue influence had been used to obtain the confession.

Detective McCaskill was recalled. He had found the white shirt which Tom wore on the morning of the murders rolled up and laid across a rafter in the garret of his home, while his pants and vest were found in a tin trunk.

The deposition of Mrs. Boudrier, the prisoner's sister, taken by royal commission, was read. In it she told of her brother's visit on the same morning as the murders, when he had coolly informed her of the death of the sister Elizabeth, saying her throat had been cut. He made no mention of the fate of the others. The case is still in progress.

Bravery Rewarded.

Hamilton, Jan. 21.—Albert J. Cummer of this city has been awarded the Billings silver medal of the Royal Canadian Humane Society for his conspicuous bravery in saving the life of Miss Amelia Hall from drowning, in the iceboat accident on the bay on Jan. 4. The presentation will be made by Mayor Colquhoun in the Council chamber on the 31st inst.

The wholesale butchers of the city, led by Ald. Hill and Messrs. W. Kearns and W. Springer, waited upon J. I. Flatt, M.P.P., yesterday, and after thanking him for his market legislation, presented him with a handsome ring.

Wants High Prices for Toll Roads.

Hamilton, Jan. 22.—J. A. Carpenter, secretary of the three toll roads lying to the east and south of Hamilton, has notified the County Roads and Bridges Committee that the companies will sell out at the following figures: Hamilton and Saltfleet Road Co., $16,466; Barton and Stoney Creek Road Co., $37,333; Barton and Glanford Road Co, $36,607. The figures are regarded as outside the range of consideration.

Fishermen in Peril.

Sandusky, Ohio, Jan. 22.—One hundred fishermen's huts on the ice in Lake Erie, off Put-in Bay, were swept away in last night's gale. Two hundred men, women and children narrowly escaped drowning by the ice breaking up and carrying them out into the lake, and by the huts catching fire. They were rescued after a long and terrible fight with the elements.

MURDER OF ISIDORE POIRIER.

The Jury Visited the Scene of the Murder Yesterday.

Ste. Scholastique, Que., Jan. 22.—A little past ten yesterday the court opened. There was a large crowd.

Mr. A. E. Poirier, counsel for the defence, asked to have produced the applications for insurance in the Standard, made by the late Isidore Poirier, on his life, in the years 1894 and 1897. This demand was granted by the court.

Noe Bouverette, the last witness heard Wednesday, continued his evidence: "On Sunday, Nov. 21, I was with my wife, in the kitchen, and I saw Sam Paralow in the yard of Poirier's house, harnessing Poirier's horse. A few minutes after he unharnessed it and went into the house with Mrs. Poirier. Ten minutes after he came out and harnessed the horse again, and Mrs. Poirier started for her father's house. I don't remember if Sam went into the house or not."

All the forenoon was taken up with this witness.

At 2 o'clock the court opened, and Mr. A. E. Poirier, counsel for the defence, asked that the jury be sent to St. Canute to visit the scenes where the murder was committed. With the consent of Mr. F. X. Mathieu, the Crown prosecutor, this demand was granted.

Two special constables were appointed, and under the direction of High Constable Brazeau, they started for St. Canute at 2.30 and the large crowd which had assembled dispersed. At 4.30 the jury returned and were locked up for the night, the court having adjourned until to-day at 10 a.m.

It is probable Detective McCaskill will be the first witness called by the Crown at the opening of the court this morning.

BUTTER FLAVOR.

According to Prof. Ruddick This Is the Most Important Thing to Be Considered—Dairymen Officers.

London, Ont., Jan. 22.—At the opening session of the Cheese and Butter Association yesterday morning Mr. J. A. Ruddick, principal of the Kingston Dairy School, discussed butter. He said that the quality of butter was decided on flavor, body or grain and salt finish. Flavor was the most important, and was influenced by food, period of lactation and bacteria. Even good food, if not wisely fed, would make inferior flavor. Milk exposed in the stables or to the odor of foods of strong flavor, such as ensilage, would absorb bad odors. Butter from cows long in milk was inclined to be tallow. He reviewed exhaustively the subjects of washing, salting and packing, which led to a useful discussion among the members.

Professor Robertson introduced the question of how to obtain the proper body of butter for the export trade. He strongly contended that to obtain the right quality the butter should be worked twice. Without this the proper waxiness would not be found when the butter was a month old.

Warden Leitch raised a storm of applause by vigorously stating that it was the farmers whom the dairymen should get after. They were the first producers yet, and should know how to care for their cows, what grasses to grow for feed, and how they should be fed. The cheesemen were one of the most intelligent classes in the country, and came out in large numbers to learn more. But the farmers could not be dragged out. Means should be taken to get them out. The cow and the feeding was the first point in making a success of the industry.

Resolutions were adopted thanking the Mayor and corporation of London for the handsome donation of $150 towards the expenses of holding this convention; also that in the opinion of this meeting no law should be enacted to prevent the sale of cheese for future delivery until such time as the Dairymen's Boards of Trade in Canada have had ample opportunity for considering and expressing their views on the same.

The report of the Nominating Committee was agreed upon as follows: Hon. President, Hon. Thomas Ballantyne; President, Harold Eagle, Attercliffe Station; 1st Vice-President, R. M. Ballantyne, Stratford; 2nd Vice-President, Aaron Winger, Ayton; 3rd Vice-President, James Connolly, Porter's Hill.

Retiring President McLaren was chosen to represent the Association at the Industrial Fair.

After luncheon, A. H. Curler read a very interesting paper on "Unimproved Opportunities in Dairying."

The convention finally adjourned in the afternoon.

At a special meeting of the association held yesterday afternoon an organization for mutual protection was formed and officers elected as follows: President, J. T. Henderson, Pine River; Secretary, F. Brooks; Treasurer, William Edgar, Culloden. The Executive will meet at Woodstock on [illegible].

Nervous Prostration

Sick Headache and Dizziness—All Cured.

Little Girl Has Grown Plump and Rosy Since Taking Hood's.

Nervous mothers and sickly children endure a vast proportion of the suffering which is caused by impure and impoverished blood. Hood's Sarsaparilla gives relief by purifying and enriching the blood. Read this statement:

"I was bothered with sick headaches and dizziness. I also had nervous prostration and weakness in my stomach, which made me feel very ill indeed. I decided to try Hood's Sarsaparilla, which was highly recommended by many, and by the time I had taken four bottles I was in perfect health. About a year ago my little girl, then six years old, had bronchitis and chicken pox. We were told that her was the careful treatment she might receive at the hospital. We took her there and for eight days they had no hope of her recovery, but later she had a change for the better. Her sickness, however, left her very delicate and weak, and she did not grow any for a year. It was then I thought I would try Hood's Sarsaparilla, inasmuch as I had used it for myself and found it such a good medicine for building up a constitution. She had not taken two bottles before she had improved wonderfully. She has grown rosy and plump and is quite herself again. I have great faith in Hood's." MRS. M. FRANCE TO THE FORE.

She Has Bought Three Chinese Steamers and Wants More.

MENACING ASPECT OF AFFAIRS.

A Fleet of Nine Japanese Warships Leave for Chinese Waters in a Week—Do These Moves Mean War?—China Still Trying to Go It Alone—General News by Cable.

London, Jan. 22.—A special despatch from Shanghai, dated Friday, says that France has purchased three Chinese steamers and is trying to acquire others for conversion into transports.

French Ships of War to Sail.

Paris, Jan. 22.—The French warships Bruix and Vauban will sail for China on Jan. 24 (Monday next). Admiral De Beaumont has been appointed Commander-in-Chief of the French squadron in the far East. He will hoist his flag on board the Vauban.

The Bruix is a steel vessel of 4,754 tons displacement and 9,049 indicated horse power. Her speed is estimated at over 18 knots, and she carries a crew of nearly 400 men.

The Vauban is a steel vessel of 6,208 tons and 4,560 indicated horse power. Her nominal speed is about 14½ knots, and she carries a crew of 440 men.

Menacing Aspect of Affairs.

London, Jan. 22.—The morning papers comment editorially upon the menacing aspect of affairs in China. Despatches from Paris say that the report is current there that China is trying, by the offer of high interest, to obtain a loan without assistance and without the guarantee that Russia and England demand.

JAPS BUYING WARSHIPS.

The Eastern "Mistress of the Seas" Is Sending Nine Battleships Into Chinese Waters.

London, Jan. 22.—It is reported that Japan has purchased the Brasilian cruiser Ateen, now building on the Tyne, for £370,000, and has also bought the Brasilian ironclads Deodora and Floriano, which are constructing in France. Agents of the Spanish Government have been in London trying to arrange for the purchase of these vessels, but it is understood they were unable to raise the necessary money.

Nine Japanese Warships.

Yokohama, Jan. 22.—A fleet of nine warships will leave in the course of a week for Chinese waters, the Mikado inspecting the Yashima and the Fuji, steel battleships of 12,450 tons displacement.

Decrees have been issued appointing Lieut.-Gen. Viscount Kawakami chief of staff, and creating a supreme military advisory council, consisting of the Marquis Yamagata, Marquis Oyama, Marquis Saigon and Prince Komatsu.

Japan Prepared for War.

London, Jan. 22.—The St. James Gazette yesterday afternoon, commenting upon the despatch from Yokahama saying that a fleet of nine Japanese warships will leave Japan in the course of a week for Chinese waters, says: "Japan is prepared for war. That, in a nutshell, is the news from Yokahama, and it is really the first news from Japan since the beginning of the Chinese crisis. It is obvious that the Japanese Government has stopped telegraphic communication, which it never does except when mobilizing the army or navy. That is precisely what it has been doing. It is almost certain that the destination of the fleet is Wei-Hei-Wei, and there is no doubt the movement means that the status quo in China, so far as Manchuria and Corea are concerned, shall not be altered by Russia or any combination of Russia's allies, in defiance of Great Britain and Japan."

THE UNIONIST WON

The Parliamentary Seat Vacant in a Division in Dublin.

Dublin, Jan. 22.—A Parliamentary bye-election was held here yesterday to fill the vacancy in the St. Stephen's Green Division, caused by the appointment of Mr. William Kenney, Q.C., Solicitor-General for Ireland, to a judgeship of the High Court. It resulted in the election of the Unionist candidate, Mr. J. M. Campbell, by a majority of 188 over his Nationalist opponent, Mr. George Noble Plunket. The voting was as follows: Campbell, Unionist, 3,595; Plunkett, Nationalist, 3,387. Unionist majority, 188. At the special bye-election in August, 1895, after Mr. Kenney was appointed Solicitor-General for Ireland, he carried the St. Stephen's Green Division against Pierce Mahoney, Parnellite, by a majority of 482.

Germany Will Make No Kick.

London, Jan. 22.—According to a special despatch received yesterday from Berlin, it is semi-officially announced in that city that Germany will not object to the appointment of Prince George of Greece as Governor of the Island of Crete, "provided the other powers unanimously consent."

Walk-Over for Mr. Plunkett Barton.

Dublin, Jan. 22.—Mr. Dunbar Plunkett Barton, Q.C., member of Parliament for the Middle Division of Armagh, has been returned to the House of Commons without opposition, on his appointment as Solicitor-General for Ireland.

Four Dead, Six Missing.

London, Jan. 22.—The British steamer Marcea, Captain Land, which arrived at Cork Jan. 8, from Baltimore, and was bound for Newport, is ashore west of St. Govon's Head, on the southwest coast of Wales. Thirteen of the crew have been safely landed, but four were killed on board the steamer for some cause, and six who left in a boat are missing.

Engineering Dispute About Settled.

London, Jan. 22.—The engineering dispute is regarded as almost settled. The employers have granted a delay of a week, when it is fully believed a satisfactory agreement will be reached.

No Truth in It.

Victoria, B.C., Jan. 22.—There is no truth in the report sent out from here yesterday that the flagship Imperieuse or other vessels on this station had been ordered to China. The ships had been provisioning for a cruise to South America, but the orders have been countermanded.

Belgian Miners Dashed to Pieces.

Brussels, Jan. 22.—While a cage containing 15 miners was being hoisted in the shaft of Bonne Esperance mine at Wasmes, in Hainault, the cable broke and the occupants of the cage were dashed to pieces.

Yorkville Fire Station,
Toronto, March 3rd, 1897.

Dear Sirs,—Having used Dr. Chase's Pills for costiveness, I am very pleased to say that I consider them superior to any pill I ever used, as they have perfectly cured me of this trouble. Thos. J. Wallace Fireman.

Twinging Shooting Pain.

Mr. Wm. Dyson, Guelph, Ont., says: "My experience with Doan's Kidney Pills proves them to be a splendid medicine for any one troubled with backache or urinary difficulties. I had bad pains in my back and shooting pains all over my body, together with dizziness and sleeplessness. Through the use of Doan's Kidney Pills I am now entirely cured and feel braced up as young as ever I was."

LIVER, LANGUOR AND CONSTIPATION.

When your liver gets sluggish, inactive, your whole health suffers, your bowels become constipated, tongue coated, complexion muddy, your head aches, you have the "blues."

Helping the liver to resume its proper function, removing the bile that is circulating in the blood and poisoning the system, is the work of Burdock Blood Bitters.

In all these years of its existence B.B.B. has yet no rival for diseases of the stomach, liver, blood and bowels,—never fails in the worst cases of constipation. Here's a remarkable instance·

Miss Mary R. Anderson of Frankford, Ont., says that for five or six years she suffered from liver trouble and constipation so severely that she nearly went out of her mind, she tried doctors in both the country and town, and took medicines too numerous to mention, but all to no purpose. Then she started taking Burdock Blood Bitters which succeeded beyond all expectations, requiring only two bottles to effect a complete cure.

Certificates will only be issued to the applicants in person and are not transferable.

News From Dawson City.

Advices received at the Mounted Police Department indicate that not only have the stories of shortage of food at Dawson City been greatly exaggerated, but as a matter of fact the supply is considerably better than for several seasons past. One letter mentions that a short time ago a herd of caribou crossed the Yukon River within a few miles of Dawson City. The population turned out in pursuit, and at the time the letter some 50 head had been secured.

ALLISON INDIFFERENT.

Many Clergymen Desire to Speak With the Condemned Man.

Berlin, Ont., Jan. 22.—Twenty-five or more ministers have applied to Sheriff Springer for admission to the condemned murderer Allison. They have been refused, however. The Salvation Army also wanted to take him up and get him converted, but their request was also refused.

Allison has two weeks more to live, and as the day of doom, February 4th, draws near, he remains as indifferent and stoical as ever. The death warrant has not yet arrived. Radcliffe, the executioner, will arrive here on the Monday before the execution. Sheriff Springer will probably not attend the execution, but will have a representative in the person of Governor Cook.

The sheriff has given notification that only magistrates, medical men and one accredited representative of each newspaper will be admitted. Allison's father has only visited his son once since he was condemned.

NOW A VERY HAPPY MAN.

Mr. T. R. Baxter says:

"After the use of Seven Bottles of Paine's Celery Compound I was Perfectly Cured and Feel Young Again.

The Great Medicine is Triumphantly Victorious After Medical Men Fail.

This Almost Miraculous Cure Has Vastly Increased the Fame of Paine's Celery Compound In the Maritime Provinces.

Assurance and Hope for the Most Desperate Cases.

Wells & Richardson Co.,

Dear Sirs:—I desire to let you know about my wonderful cure by your precious medicine, Paine's Celery Compound.

I was afflicted by three complaints that made my life a misery and a burden. I had erysipelas for forty years, bleeding piles for fifteen years, and sciatica rheumatism for over a year.

I tried the doctors and all kinds of medicines, but no help or relief was afforded me, and I could not eat or sleep. I was then advised to use Paine's Celery Compound, and, oh, what a mighty change! The use of the first bottle enabled me to eat and sleep, and after using seven bottles I was quite another man—was perfectly cured, and felt quite young again. All that I have written can be proven by merchants, doctors, magistrates and three ministers of the Gospel, and by scores of other people. I shall always thank you and your wonderful medicine, Paine's Celery Compound.

Thos. R. Baxter,
Karsdale, N.S.

I hereby certify that Paine's Celery Compound has made a well man of Thomas R. Baxter.

A LUMBERMAN'S LIFE.

CONSTANTLY EXPOSED TO INCLEMENT WEATHER.

He Falls an Easy Victim to Rheumatism and Kindred Troubles—A Twenty Years' Sufferer Tells How he Found Relief.

From the Richibucto, N.B., Review.

Mr. Wm. Murray, of Cormiersville, N.B. is an old and respected farmer, and a pioneer settler of the thriving little village he now makes his home. While Mr. Murray was yet a young man, he, together with his father and brother, founded one of the best mill properties to be seen in those early days. The mill consisted of a sawmill and gristmill, and were operated and managed by the two brothers. Labour saving appliances being then comparatively unknown, the young men were exposed to dangers and difficulties almost unknown to the present generation. One of the greatest evils in connection with the business was exposure to wet and cold, which, though unheeded at the time, have crippled it victim with rheumatism. In a late conversation regarding his disease, Mr. Murray told the following story of his long misery and final cure by the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills: "For over twenty years I have been a sufferer from rheumatism. I attribute the cause of the disease to the time when as a young man I worked at our mills. In the winter we would haul logs on the pond where the alternate thaws and frosts of early spring would imbed them in the ice and slush. When the time came for starting up the mill I would go out on the pond sometimes in water up to my knees and work away from morning till night chopping logs out of the slush and ice. I was generally wet from head to foot, and every second night of the week I would, without changing my clothes, stay up and run the mill till daybreak. So you see I was for two days at a time in a suit of partially wet clothes, and this would last till the ice had melted in the pond. After a few years' rheumatism fastened itself upon me as a reward for this indiscretion, and ever increasing in its malignity it last became so bad that for weeks in succession I could only go about with the aid of crutches. At other times I was able to hobble about the house by the aid of two canes, and again at other times it would ease off a little and I was able to do a little work, but could never stand it for more than a couple of hours at a time. The least bit of walking in damp weather would overcome me and I remember one stormy night when I tried to walk from Cocagne Bridge to my home, a distance of five miles, that I had to sit down by the roadside six times to ease the terrible pain that had seized my legs. During all these years of agony I think I tried all the patent medicines I could get a hold of, but they did me no good at all. I consulted doctors, but my sufferings remained undiminished. In the fall of 1895 I went to see a doctor in Buctouche to see if there were any means by which I might at least be eased of my suffering. The doctor said frankly, "Mr. Murray you cannot be cured, nothing can cure you." I was not satisfied and then I determined to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I procured half a dozen boxes and began taking them at once. I soon felt a change for the better, and after my supply had been finished I got another half dozen boxes and continued taking them according to directions. That dozen boxes was all I took, and you see me now. I am alive and smart and can do any kind of work. I did my farming this spring, and could follow the plough for days without feeling my rheumatic pains. Yes, Dr. Williams' Pink Pills did me a world of good, and I strongly recommend them for the cure of rheumatism.

Mr. Williams' Pink Pills create new blood, build up the nerves, and thus drive disease from the system. In hundreds of cases they have cured after all other medicines had failed, thus establishing the claim that they are a marvel among the triumphs of modern medical science. The genuine Pink Pills are sold only in boxes, bearing the full trade mark, "Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People." Protect yourself from imposition by refusing any pill that does not bear the registered trade mark around the box.

A Successful Grit Banquet.

Toronto, Jan. 20.—Very successful proved the annual banquet of the Toronto Young Men's Liberal Club, held at the Rossin House last night. Over a hundred sat at table, with President R. J. Gibson in the chair and Vice-President Ramsden in the vice chair. The honored guests of the evening were: Sir Richard Cartwright, Premier Hardy, Premier Warburton of Prince Edward Island, Geo. E. Casey, M.P., J. S. Willison, James Innes, ex-M.P. (Guelph), Alex. Wheeler, Hugh Blain and J. H. McKenzie.

Mr. Charles Brown, Norwich, Killed.

Norwich, Jan. 20.—The body of Charles Brown, formerly of Norwich, was found under the railroad bridge at Burgessville yesterday. He was on his way from Embro to his home here, and it is thought he must have fallen off the train. His wife and family were expecting him to look after moving their household goods to Embro, where the deceased has been carrying on a butcher shop for some time. The body has been brought to Norwich, where a coroner's inquest was held.

FIFTEEN YEARS OF AGO

Suffering Ended in a Few Weeks by the Use of Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Petrolea, Jan. 10.—From Ingersoll to Petrolea the way is marked at short intervals by houses which are pointed to as those in which Dodd's Kidney Pills have cured cases of Kidney Disease, Bright's Disease, Diabetes or other kidney or blood disorder.

John Russell, a farmer living near here, tells of his cure, after suffering fifteen years with Bright's Disease.

Three doctors treated him; many remedies were tried. All failed.

Then Dodd's Kidney Pills were recommended. He tried them. The invariable result followed. A few boxes cured him.

This story, with variations as to the disease, is told by hundreds in Petrolea. Dodd's Kidney Pills have not been known to fail one yet. Every case has been a cure.

Don't Go On.

Don't go on suffering from nervous troubles that make strong men weak, impotent, and unable to do the right thing at the right time, all because the system is tobacco poisoned. We urge you to test Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, they make the blood pure and rich, tingling with life and energy, and the man who feels old they make young and happy again.

Dr. Low's Worm Syrup is a safe, sure and reliable worm expeller. Acts equally well on children or adults. Be sure you get Low's.

WE WANT IT HERE.

According to a despatch which appeared in the Montreal papers a few days ago and which was subsequently published in the EXAMINER, the Toronto Rubber and Shoe Company has apparently reconsidered its intention of not removing its factory from Port Dalhousie and is being pressed by the Montrealers to locate in that city. Is not this a matter for the Manufacturers' Committee of the Town Council and the Board of Trade to take up at once and bring the strongest pressure possible to bear to influence the Company to again take into its consideration the advantages which Peterborough has to offer to manufacturers? Such an establishment, paying out annually $30,000 in wages alone, would mean a great deal to the town, as the money would all be spent with the local merchants. Peterborough wants such a manufacturing industry, which will give employment to labour, as does the Canadian General Electric Company, and the citizens will endorse any effort which the Manufacturers' Committee in its wisdom may see fit to take in the matter. Time, however, must be taken by the forelock, and the Committee is urged to take immediate action in the interests of the town at large and the labouring classes and mechanics in particular

A SERIOUS ACCIDENT.

Little Bert Gillespie Kicked in the Forehead by a Horse.

At noon to day a large number of children were sleighriding down Armour's Hill, on Elizabeth street, Ashburnham. As the hill is a steep one the velocity attained is great and the sleighs sometimes get quite beyond the control of their owners. This was evidently the case today when little Bert Gillespie, son of Mr. Jas. Gillespie, of Ashburnham, went crashing into a team of horses and was kicked on the head by one of them. The lad was rendered unconscious by the blow and was removed to his father's residence. Fortunately only a deep scalp wound was inflicted.

SONS OF SCOTLAND BENEVOLENT ASSOCIATION.

Re-organization of Clan Alpine Camp—Visit of Grand Lodge Officers—A Rousing Time.

There was a grand rally of the Sons of Scotland on Friday evening on the occasion of the re-organization and rejuvenation of Clan Alpine Camp. The meeting was held in the Sons of England's handsome hall on Hunter street, and the new enthusiasm which has been infused in both old and new members promises well for the future of the Camp. Mr. Anderson, the special organizer, who has been instrumental in increasing the membership and in bringing about so healthy an interest in the affairs of the local camp is specially deserving of credit for the good work he has done.

The objects of the Sons of Scotland is to encourage a love of all that has made Scotland great and honoured among the nations and to cultivate a taste for Scottish characteristics. It also provides a scheme of insurance and other benefits, founded on the principles of mutual benefit associations. Membership is confined to Scotchmen and their descendants and is divided into two classes, "Active" and "Honourary." The schedule of rates is limited to ages from 18 to 50. During the past year the progress of the order has been marvellous. The reserve fund in 1896 was only $1,090, to-day it is $52,638. No other society, it is claimed, has had a like record.

Interest in the meeting on Friday night was increased by the presence of Grand Secretary Capt. D. M. Robertson, B. A., of Toronto, and Mr. Dickson, District Deputy, from Campbellford, who had paid an official visit to Peterborough to assist in the ceremony of initiating the new members as well as in presenting the objects of the Order, and in rallying its members.

Grand Secretary Robertson expressed the pleasure it afforded him to see so many Scotchmen present. He gave a clear and concise history of the organization of the Grand Camp, and explained the provisions of their incorporation under the Insurance Corporation Act, and the various improvements of their constitution and laws up to date. He urged individual effort on the part of the members, and was confidence if that was done, that Peterborough would soon have a prosperous Camp. No man was right without some patriotism, and that virtue was one which Scotchmen were never deficient in.

Mr. Dickson, D D., spoke very encouraging words relative to the remarkable progress of the Order. He believed that there were between 1,500 and 2,000 Scotchmen in Peterborough, and it would be a reflection on the Sons of Auld Scotia if they could not maintain one of the biggest Camp of the Order. The association was the most economically managed Order of the kind, and now that the good work was booming all over he had little doubt that the important town of Peterborough would soon be a great camp town.

Speeches were made by some of the old officers and members of the camp, including Bros. Alex. Campbell, Thos. Gemmell, Dr. Carmichael, John Mathieson and Arch. Morton. Mr. G. W. Mulligan gave a rousing song during the evening.

The new members were then initiated, and it was decided to hold another special meeting next Friday evening to initiate a larger number of new members who were not quite ready for this meeting. A new charter is to be issued for the Camp.

The following is a list of the old officers of the camp, who will hold their positions for the present:—

Alex Campbell	Chief
John Mathieson	Chieftain
Thos Gemmell	Past Chief
J E Noble	Chaplain
Arch Morton	Rec Sec
Dr Caldwell	Treasurer
W Henry	Fin Sec
Jno Cunningham	Marshal
G W Moncrief	S Bearer
Jas Levell	S Guard

THE SANDERSON FIRE.

A Tramp Arrested on Suspicion of of Having Been the Cause of it.

Suspicious developments are being unearthed in connection with the recent fire at Mr. Jas. Sanderson's farm in Smith.

On Tuesday morning Constable Doig, of Lakefield, arrested a tramp on suspicion of having something to do with it. On being examined it was found that the back of his coat and his trousers were freshly burned. The tramp, who was about as tough a looking specimen of humanity as one could wish to see, was an Italian, and as he apparently could not understand English, nothing could be obtained out of him.

In the afternoon court was held in the town hall, before Police Magistrate Edmison. Tony Sabatino, a local Italian, was engaged as interpreter, but nothing satisfactory could be obtained out of the prisoner, with regard to his movements during the past day or so.

Mr. Geo. Garbutt was called and stated that on Monday night on coming home he had found the tramp in his barn. He tried to make him understand English, but did not succeed. It appears that the tramp had been around the house in the day time, and the boy staying there had ordered him off, but without success, when he got a gun and fired a shot at him, which was successful in sending the tramp off. But it seems he returned in the evening. Mr. Garbutt allowed him to remain in the stable all night and in the morning gave him his breakfast and then sent him to Lakefield.

Constable Doidge secured the tramp's boots and took them out to Mr Sanderson's and found that they fitted the marks exactly.

Magistrate Edmison remanded the tramp to the Peterborough goal.

Remember the Curling and Hockey excursion to Toronto and Hamilton. Good going on the 26th and on the p.m. trains on the 24th. Toronto $2.00. Hamilton $2.50.

SOUTH MONAGHAN STILL SOLID FOR STRATTON.

Fraserville Falls Crandly Into Line.

LARGE ATTENDANCE OF ELECTORS

A Splendid Meeting Last Night—The Largest Political Gathering Ever Held in that Place—Public Questions Lucididly Presented—Enthusiastic Reception of the Liberal Candidate.

Last night Mr. Stratton held the third meeting of his campaign series and the third in South Monaghan, at Fraserville. The new Orange Hall was filled with a solid representation of the thrifty farmers of the vicinity, and it was said by residents to have been the largest and most successful political meeting ever held in that part of the township.

The meeting was overwhelmingly, if not unanimously, in favour of Mr. Stratton's candidature, and the manner in which he put forward the claims of the Government to a renewal of their trust and the appeals he made on his own behalf were received with demonstrations of approval, which indicate that this part of West Peterborough will join with the others in splendidly endorsing the Government and splendidly returning the candidate who has given it such for the past twelve years. Mr. Stratton's meetings in South Monaghan have been the largest he has ever held in that township and they furnished warm indications of the high place he holds in the confidence of the people.

Mr. Wm. Lang was voted to the chair and invited any representative of Mr. Garvin who might be present to take a seat on the platform and he would be allowed the usual time to address the meeting.

THE FIRST SPEAKER

was Dr. Bell, who briefly addressed the gathering. He referred to the cry for a change that was being raised. There was a time for all things, and the time for a change was ripe at the last general Dominion elections, and the cry was most loudly heard, or at any rate most effectually applied by the members of the Conservative party, who recognized that when cabinet ministers were at each other's throat it was time for a change. Dr. Bell said that that cry had no force in the face of the Ontario Liberal ranks, nor in face of the unbroken harmony that prevailed in the splendid administration the province has received at the hands of the Ontario Government, which was the same as of yore, though under a changed leader who had a good training under Sir Oliver Mowat and was well qualified for the duties to which he has been worthily promoted. Nor did the cry for a change apply to their present representative, who had served them faithfully for the past twelve years. (Cheers.) He had represented the riding well and had taken a prominent place in the Parliament of the Province, where he had done credit to himself and to West Peterborough. Through the prominent position he had gained, and his loyalty to West Peterborough, he had given the town and county a name in the Province, which could not but have a beneficial effect in advancing its material interests. A representative who was well known abroad as well as at home, a representative who never lost an opportunity of advancing the interests of his riding, who had the experience, who had the ability and business shrewdness to effectively serve the interests of West Peterborough, was the man whose services should be retained. And Mr. Stratton had won so prominent a place in the arena of debate, and was recognized as so excellent a worker on the Parliamentary committees he was at the head of that he was marked as the choice for a Cabinet position at the first vacancy that might occur. (Cheers.) Dr. Bell spoke of Mr. Garvin as an almost total stranger, who had no claims by what he had done or promised to be able to do, upon the suffrages of the electors of West Peterborough, and Dr. Bell asked if they were going to replace a who had served every interest of the riding faithfully and willingly and had cheerfully done all he could, and that has been a great deal, by a comparative stranger to the riding and its needs, who, if elected, would aspire to the position of the Minister of Education, when, as a matter of fact, he had not been able to perform the simple duties of a school inspector! Dr. Bell said that the Hardy Government should be sustained for the practical demonstration they had given of the benefit of Liberal principles. He remarked that Liberal principles of government applied to the Dominion, for the past eighteen months had given better accomplishment of good results than had attended eighteen years of Conservative rule. In the first year of the Liberal government at Ottawa, the exports of the country, which meant so much money in the pockets of the people, had increased to the enormous sum of fourteen millions, and the indications were that the second year would yield as good, if not better, results in this respect. The advent of the Liberal leader to power had given confidence at home and abroad, and the natural conditions were made ripe for the best results. It was pointed out that the present Ontario Government had given the province a splendid system of laws, touching upon every popular interest and in favour of the people as against class interests. They had protected our rights and saved our territory, rich in timber and minerals, to the province to be an almost exhaustless source of revenue and an impregnable barrier between the people and direct taxation. Reference was made to the course the Opposition took in aiding the Dominion Government to despoil us of these sources of wealth. Dr. Bell spoke of the liberal treatment the Government had extended to the Province in the shape of well maintained services, which were of direct benefit to the great mass of the people. And they had a magnificent surplus of assets over liabilities; they had a record that for the long course of 25 years had not been stained with a dishonourable act. Would they exchange a government that they had tried and found true to their trust, for a party of men who had been an utter failure as oppositionists, therefore could not be expected to be successful as administrators? Dr. Bell closed with an appeal to the electors to rally around the member who had served them so faithfully, and who deserved such a recognition at their hands. He urged united action to give a decisive expression of the approval they must feel.

The chairman extended an invitation to any friends of Mr. Garvin to address the meeting, but no one responded, though representatives of Mr. Garvin from town were present.

MR. STRATTON'S ADDRESS.

Mr. Stratton began by saying that he was very glad to be present and referred to his happy school days in the old log school across the corner and he supposed he had been in old Mr. Smith's orchard as often as any of the boys (cheers and laughter). He was very glad to be present for he felt that he was among friends. They had known him from boyhood and he appealed to them and asked if they could say that he had ever betrayed any trust that had been reposed in him—in either his personal or representative capacity. In the latter respect he had tried to do the best he could for all parts of the riding and there was not a friend or opponent that could say that he had failed or neglected to respond to any appeal for any good services that could be expected at the hands of a representative. He felt that he represented the whole riding, Conservatives and Liberals alike and he had tried faithfully to impartially discharge his trust. After referring to the record of the Government and its claim to support and his own claims, he referred to Mr. Garvin's candidature, and to the misstatements made by him to the effect that it was to Mr. Stratton's influence that he (Mr. Garvin) was dismissed from the position of inspector of the Peterborough Schools. This was a direct misstatement, as the members of the Board of Education of Peterborough, all honourable gentlemen and nearly all Conservatives, who had unanimously agreed to his dismissal, could testify. Mr. Garvin did this to gain sympathy, and Mr. Stratton was sure the fair, thinking electors of South Monaghan would judge such a man by the place he occupies in the country as a mere stranger and with few, if any, material interests in West Peterborough.

Mr. Stratton, after again expressing his pleasure at being present, and at the large attendance of the electors at the third meeting in good old South Monaghan of this campaign, dealt jocularly with the varied medley of "cries" that had served the Opposition as ammunition at the past three or four general election campaigns. Since he had last met the electors there had been a change of Premiers. Sir Oliver Mowat had become L.-Governor of the Province, but great and able a statesman as he was, he had a worthy successor in Hon. A. S. Hardy, the present Premier, who was equipped in the highest degree with the qualities that go to constitute an ideal statesman and premier—with firmness, with a deep sense of his trust—with executive and administrative ability, in which nature's liberal endowment has been developed by twenty-four years representation in Parliament, of which 20 years has been passed as Cabinet Minister under that most capable tator, Sir Oliver Mowat. He referred to Hon. Mr. Ross, Minister of Education, whom the electors would have the pleasure of hearing in the Opera House on Jan. 27th, who had twenty-seven years experience as an educator and minister, fourteen years of which had been passed as Minister of Education. He was a man of broad culture, ripe experience, and regarded as one of the foremost public men of the Dominion. With these there were associated in the Cabinet the heads of the other departments, who had by several years of capable service demonstrated their fitness for the positions they occupy.

Referring to the Opposition candidate, Mr. Garvin, it was pointed out, that in the ranks of the great Conservative party there were who would creditably represent the party, which some thought was to a certain degree humiliated by having to fall in line with a comparative stranger to the riding and one whom the vast majority of the electors never heard of before. He had nothing to say in personal disparagement of Mr. Garvin, and Mr. Garvin needed no praise from any one—he had a sufficiently high estimate of himself to answer all practical purposes. If the people preferred a stranger to a representative that had used every effort to serve them successfully, they were the masters and it was the duty of every candidate to bow to the will of the electors. The complaint of the Opposition respecting the audit of the public accounts was met by the statement that it was the same as that practised in the Dominion Parliament, whose auditor-general, like the auditor-general of Ontario, was appointed under authority of Act of Parliament and could only be removed by Parliament. The Ontario auditor-general had a controlling oversight over all the expenditure authorised by Parliament. In dealing with the timber question Mr. Stratton brought out the fact that at the first sale of timber lands in 1900 the condition was attached that all logs cut on those lands should be manufactured into lumber in Ontario. Nearly all logs cut for export were cut off limits solds prior to 1872 or before Sir Oliver Mowat or Mr. Hardy came into power. The entire manner of dealing with timber interests by the immediately previous and present Government was characterised by the guiding principle of securing the largest possible amount of revenue from that yielded the Province nearly a million dollars a year. The Eagledue mining deal was explained, as reported previously, and it was demonstrated that the Government in a laudable and earnest desire to promote the development of the best resources of Ontario, had taken this one step in a direction that promised to make the $120,000 to be spent in mining prospecting, according to the conditions of the agreement, the advance guard of a great influx of British capital waiting for the profitable investment which our immense deposits of minerals provided. In their general mining policy the Government had kept in touch with the revived interest created by recent discoveries in our own Province and other places, and the aim of the Government has been to proceed in two principal directions—the compulsory development of mining lands, and the lightening of the hardens to be borne by the actual operator. In the sale or lease of mining lands working conditions are imposed, so that mines cannot be held for speculative purposes. The public interests in mining lands are protected by royalties on the output of from two to three per cent. of its value, and the royalty goes into the Government coffers, and special provision is made that this royalty shall not in the start be made burdensome to miners. Under the Government's policy a mining bureau has been established and summer mining schools provided for. There could be little doubt that the gratifying development that the mining industry of this province had witnessed was due to the liberality of the Ontario mining laws, and this policy as administered will doubtless convert a hitherto dormant source of revenue into magnificent productiveness.

"In regard to the Eagledue matter there had been a great cry raised by the Opposition against it at one time as a robbery of the province, but we hear no more of it now. Public opinion had compelled the Opposition to agree to the wisdom of the agreement, and they had nothing to say about it now. It was laid at rest in the silent tomb along with other dead issues, such as the "Rose" Bible, the "lone pig" and half a dozen other still born political fads. Referring to the cries of the past that were silent now, Mr. Stratton pointed out that if they had had any reason for existence these reasons were as effective now as then. We heard nothing of them now, therefore they were to be condemned as spurious and hollow cries raised at the time to create political capital and had no more basis of merit than other appeals that were being heard in this contest. With the twenty-five years record of a great and good Government presented for the consideration of the people, with the duty of deciding whether the trustees of the provincial interests had faithfully fulfilled that trust and whether (as they were) they were entitled to a renewal of confidence, it was the height of absurdity to have such petty matters as an exploded piggery scandal thrust upon the people as the main reason why the Opposition should be placed in charge of the interests of this great province.

Mr. Whitney and his associates were fond of making rather sweeping charges respecting our finances. Mr. Whitney had charged that we were on the verge of direct taxation, the same old text from which "Charlie" Rykert was sermons 24 years ago; that our resources were being ruinously squandered, and that incapacity and extravagance characterized the management of our financial affairs. Mr. Stratton pointed out that these gentlemen never came down to particulars—they only made general charges, which could be more speedily refuted and disproved. Mr. Stratton then dealt in rapid review with our financial history since we started provincial housekeeping 1867. He showed how the alleged surplus of $3,800 00 had been spent to meet obligations which Sandfield Macdonald had created, and which had to be met by his successors. In addition to that it was shown that the Mowat Government had spent over six millions in aid to railways and to secure an effective service for every department of public requirement. In this manner a grand total of over eighty-nine millions has been spent for the people, and, in proof that the provincial funds had been economically expended, it was shown that out of a grand total of over forty-seven million dollars asked to be voted by the House in the fourteen years, from 1884 to 1897, the Opposition had taken exception to only $233,146, equal to about half a cent on the dollar. In other words, of the expenditure proposed by the Government in fourteen years, every dollar was approved of by the Opposition, with the exception of half a cent and one feature of the expenditure of the Government was that nearly half of it was a direct gift of money to the people to lighten local taxation. For the several services—Education, Agriculture and Arts, Hospitals and Charities, Administration of Justice, Public Asylums and Colonization Roads, the vast total of over forty-three million had been returned to the people. Do the people complain of these expenditures? The Opposition do so by generally condemning the Government's financial management. But they take precious good care not to say

WHAT THEY WANT CUT OFF.

Would they desire the grants to education to be curtailed, would they wish the grants to Public and Separate Schools withdrawn, which save the people nearly half of the cost of schools on the whole, for which they would have to tax themselves were it not for the liberal share the Government provides? Would they want the grants withdrawn from the institutions for the insane, the deaf and dumb and the blind and leave these afflicted unfortunates without the care they now receive? Would they by reducing or withdrawing the grants to these institutions throw the care of the inmates on the municipality or the homes, generally of the poor, where they cannot from lack of means or conveniences get the care they should receive? Let them state what expense in the items named they would cut off. If the Opposition cannot come to particulars they practically confess that these services are necessary, and if necessary they should be maintained, and how shall they be maintained without money. They must be maintained and the policy of the government is to deal with the utmost liberality with institutions and services that are maintained in the direct interests of the people. The government are the trustees of the people and responsible to the people for the resources intrusted to them, and if they consult the best in the discharge of that trust shall the people dispense with their services when they appeal to the people for an expression of opinion as to the manner in which they have performed their duty towards the people.

INTEREST OF THE PEOPLE

Mr. Stratton again referred to the false statement made by Mr. Poussette, that there was no provincial auditor independent of the government, and proved that Mr. Poussette was wrong, that he either wilfully or ignorantly stated what was absolutely false. But such were the tactics which were being pursued—a policy of false statements, and no definite statement was made by any of the speakers on Mr. Garvin's behalf, but was capable of flat contradiction. He then referred to the

of the government, which was to give the people of the province the best education possible, and refuted the charge that the Government favoured the High School at the expense of the Public School. The grants to Public Schools were made in proportion to the attendance of pupils—the greater the number of the pupils the greater the grant. A lump sum was voted for High Schools and divided amongst them, and the result justified the expenditure on High Schools. Through them teachers were educated and to the poorest parent they presented the privilege of giving a clever son or daughter an education that was the next best to a university education. But for the High Schools the higher walks of educational advantage would be closed to the average farmer and citizen and only the children of the wealthy could receive a college education. In all parts of the world, men trained in our excellent schools were to be found. Were they hewers of wood and drawers of water? By no means. Canadian graduates of our High Schools and colleges were holding down the chairs of principals and professors in many of the universities in the United States, and all over that country Canadians were found in the highest positions of trust, in manufacturing establishments, and also in important positions where level heads, educated intellect and trustworthy qualities commanded recognition. Results, the speaker said, were the

and such results, added to the evidence we had in possessing a population in Ontario unsurpassed in intelligence and in the widest general diffusion of educational culture of any country in the world—yes, in the world—such results demonstrated that our educational system was sound and efficiently administered; and that the policy of the present Government in spending money liberally to maintain schools was in the interests of the province. The expenditure upon education in Ontario was nearly two hundred dollars a day, but it was not the Government that spent it, it was the people. The more pupils they sent to our schools the more money was granted. The same principle was applied to the maintenance of our public institutions, in which over five thousand persons were comfortably maintained and cared for, with a result of not only direct saving to the municipalities from which these persons came, but with the more important result of giving to lives that had no other hope of comfort, the relief which their necessities made imperative, and which the Government of a Christian country was bound to extend. In connection with the maintenance of these institutions, the Opposition charged that we do not buy supplies by tender and that the Government favoured their friends. Such accusations had no force, either in point of fact or policy. The general tender system was found to be impractible by Sandfield Macdonald and abolished. What articles it was wise to tender for were now obtained by public tender, such as flour, coal, wood and butter; and meat was bought by an expert buyer by special arrangement. But there were many other articles needed which, in the nature of things, could not be bought by tender. If a patient became ill, would it be practicable to tender for a barrel of pills or a barrel of castor oil? It was impracticable to tender for water, tea, furniture and crockery broken by patients, cutlery, railway tickets for conveying patients, postage stamps and telegrams; and a countless number of miscellaneous articles that could not be practically purchased by tender. Mr. Stratton pointed out that the expenditure on the several institutions and services in which the money was returned for

was regulated by the demands of the people themselves—the educational grants depended upon the number of pupils sent to the schools, and the grants for administration of justice to municipalities, depended upon the amount of crime that prevailed—so that in this sense it did not seem that though justice was at the bottom of the expenditure, that it was hardly the fair thing — for the better the people behaved themselves, the less money they got on account of administration of justice. Reference was also made to to the great "piggery" issue, which had run its short course in the House, had caused a very large expenditure for a fruitless investigation, for when the report of the investigation into the subject was laid on the table no one—not even St. John, the father of the pig-stye policy of the Opposition—was found to move its adoption except the chairman as a matter of routine. The School Book question was also dealt with, and it was plainly shown that according to the report of a Royal Commission, based on sworn evidence, the prices charged for school books was not excessive according to their literary and educational value, and that the people had nothing to complain of, in regard to the price of books. If the people bought school books by the million, instead of the hundred thousand, school books, like other books, could be greatly lessened in price. But the demand was limited. No one who honestly considered the facts would hold the Government responsible for the high price of Ontario school books, which were better and 100 per cent. cheaper than the same kind of school books in the United States.

Mr. Stratton closed a most effective address, which was listened to with sympathetic attention, by appealing to the electors to exercise their franchise with a view of selecting a representative best qualified to serve the interests of the riding and the province.

The meeting closed with enthusiastic cheers for the Queen, the candidate and the Hardy-Ross Government.

PAIN IN THE HEART.

Too serious a condition to neglect.

A Guelph harness maker tells how he was cured.

Mr. Wm. Dyson, the well known saddler and harness maker of Guelph, Ont., makes the following statement: "I heartily recommend Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills to anyone suffering from nervousness and heart trouble. They are a splendid medicine for such complaints. For a long time I was afflicted with nervousness and pain in my heart, which was especially severe at night, often destroying my rest. These pills cured me and invigorated my nervous system which is now strong and healthy. They restored restful sleep besides removing the distressing heart pains which formerly gave me so much anxiety and trouble."

Calgary, Jan. 21.—Mr. W. A. Myers, who disappeared from Rossland, B.C., Christmas day, has arrived at Calgary, having walked the entire distance of the Crow's Nest Pass Railroad. The rival newspapers in Rossland exulted over his failure and published misleading reports concerning him, and this, together with financial reverses, seem to have unbalanced his mind, as he left honorably, and of his own accord.

Excursion Rates Unchanged.

New York, Jan. 21. — The General Passenger Agents' Association met yesterday in this city. The excursion rates of last summer will be maintained this year. W. E. Davis, general passenger ticket agent of the Grand Trunk Railway system, was elected president of the Association, and George C. Wells of Montreal, chief clerk of the Canadian Pacific, was re-elected secretary. Syracuse was decided upon as the next place of meeting.

Women are not the only ones who are sensitive about their ages. A man doesn't like to be told that he is getting old. Health keeps a man young. It doesn't make any differences if he has lived eighty years. If they have been healthy years he will be hale and hearty and won't look within twenty years as old as he is. Good digestion and rich red blood make people look youthful. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery make rich, red blood. It makes health in the right way. It works according to the right theory, and in 30 years of practice it has proved that the theory is absolutely correct. It begins at the beginning — begins by putting the stomach, liver and bowels into perfect order, but it begins its good work on the blood before it finishes with the digestive organs. It searches out disease germs wherever they may be and forces them out of the body. All druggists keep the "Discovery."

Want the Lumber Duty Reduced.

Buffalo, Jan. 20.—At a regular meeting of the Black Rock Businessmen's Association last night, a report on lumber tariff was submitted by a committee. The association adopted a resolution requesting Representatives Alexander and Mahaney to support any measure providing for the reduction of the present duty on Canadian lumber. The duty is $2 per thousand feet.

Yesterday Messrs. B. Tooke and F. C. Shelton of Montreal and W. A. Green of Berlin saw the Minister of Finance about the duty on cotton which comprises the raw material for collars and shirts. In view of the fierce competition of German and British manufacturers they claim that a continuation of the existing circumstances will certainly drive them to the wall. They ask for a reduction of duty on cotton used in shirt making, or else an increase in duty on the manufactured article.

OUR FOREIGN TRADE.

An Increase in the Total Trade of $26,000,000.

THE EXPORTS OF FARM PRODUCE.

Inland Revenue Also Greatly Increased—A Gratifying Official Statement—The Figures in Detail Which Show How Canada's Trade is Expanding Abroad—Other Ottawa News.

Ottawa, Jan. 21.—The Customs Department has made up the returns of Canada's foreign trade for the six months ending December 31, 1897, and the statement is one that will be most gratifying to every Canadian, showing as it does an increase in the total trade of $26,000,000. The following is a statement of the imports for the six months:

	1897.	1896.
Imports	$62,701,000	$58,102,000
Dutiable	84,350,000	81,989,000
Duty collected	10,341,000	9,633,000
Free goods	25,618,000	21,634,000
Coin and Bullion	2,782,000	4,478,000

Returns from the port of Vancouver not being complete, the estimated amount short in the imports is $847,000, which, added to the totals, would make the increase for the six months over the corresponding six months in 1896 about $26,000,000. The increases in the imports are very heavy in the iron and steel schedules, and the importation of provisions is more than doubled, largely accounted for no doubt by the Klondike trade. There is a large decrease in the importation of sugar, and there is a slight decrease in the woollen schedule The exports, classified and compared with 1896, were as follows:

	1897.	1896.
Minerals	$ 7,656,000	$ 5,314,000
Fish	7,100,000	7,230,000
Animals and produce	32,467,000	25,950,000
Forest	19,767,000	18,768,000
Agriculture	26,771,000	14,247,000
Manufactures	5,736,000	5,182,000
Miscellaneous	174,000	248,000
	$99,673,000	$76,886,000
Produce of Canada	$89,779,000	$69,911,000
Coin and bullion	987,000	3,212,000

It will be seen that there is a very heavy increase in the exports of farm produce and of meat, cheese and butter and a slight increase in manufactures. The rapid mineral development of Canada is indicated in the increase in exports for the half year of $2,800,000. The only decrease in the list is in the fisheries, and that only amounts to $130,000. The returns for December alone show that exports increased nearly $6,000,000 in the one month, and the imports increased by $1,736,000. The duty collected during December on dutiable imports increased by $954,000.

Inland Revenue.

The annual report of the Department of Inland Revenue for the fiscal year ending 30th June, 1897, has been printed. It shows that the quantity of spirits produced during the year was 2,979,958 proof gallons, as compared with 4,883,210 the previous year. Indian corn constituted the bulk of the raw material used in the production. There was taken for consumption during the year 2,907,809 gallons of spirits, as compared with 2,468,000 in 1896. The consumption of malt liquor was 17,888,000, as compared with 18,044,000 in 1896. The number of cigars consumed was 113,276,000, as compared with 108,290,000 in 1896. There was an increase of 350,000 pounds of tobacco from foreign leaf used and the consumption of tobacco from Canadian leaf very largely increased, the figures being 726,000 pounds in 1897 and 463,000 pounds in 1896. The duty collected on spirits was $4,770,000, an increase of $760,000 over 1896. The duty on malt was $1,036,000, an increase of $250,000 over 1896. The duty on cigars shows a slight increase, and on cigarettes an increase of $36,000. The number of cigarettes taken out for consumption was: Of Canadian manufacture, 92,134,000, and of foreign manufacture, 1,664,000, a total of 93,800,000 cigarettes smoked in Canada during 1897, as against 80,461,000 in 1896. Cigarettes of Canadian manufacture in 1896 numbered 77,664,000, so that there was an increase in 1897 of about 15,000,000 native-made cigarettes consumed. The total revenue for the year of the whole department was $9,182,000, as against $7,956,000 in 1896. It is explained that the great increase of revenue—nearly a million and a quarter as compared with 1896—must be held to be almost wholly in anticipation of the current year's receipts. The consumption of snuff was about the same as the previous year. The consumption per head of the various articles paying excise duties, compared with 1896, was as follows:

	1897.	1896.
Spirits	.723	.693
Beer	8.469	8.598
Wine	.084	.070
Tobacco	2 24	2.12

The average consumption of spirits since Confederation per annum has been 1.03, and while the consumption in 1897 was more than in 1896 it was less than in 1894 and 1893. The consumption of beer averaged since Confederation 2.92 and of tobacco 2.17.

Lee's Well-Advised Caution.

New York, Jan. 21.—A special cablegram from Havana says: General Lee probably averted war between Spain and the United States by refusing to summon a warship during the recent riots here when beseeched to do so. He expects to ask for a war vessel quick enough to be present in case a future riot should take an anti-American turn. He is watching the situation closely, and is better informed of what is going on than is General Blanco himself.

The annexationist feeling is growing among the Spanish merchants. They themselves may soon ask General Lee for protection.

THE CLEANLY ISLANDS.

A Region Where the Very Dust Is of a Cleansing Nature.

Fortunate islands, the ancients called them. What measure of good fortune they associated with cleanliness is indeed uncertain. From the duration and elaboration of their baths one might presume that the Romans—not the holy, but the pagan Romans—placed it at least a degree above godliness. Yet some influence surely must have traversed the law of heredity, for they scarcely seem to have transmitted this disposition to their posterity.

Whether, however, the title of Fortunate, given to these islands, had or had not a reference to this quality, which we place proverbially only next to godliness, the quality itself is strikingly conspicuous. The islands had other names. The Hesperides is the most familiar of them, and in Tenerife the original "dragon" tree may be seen beneath which that sleepless dragon coiled himself who acted as watchdog for the maidens guarding the golden apples. Today we call "golden apples" oranges—in the language of the country, narangas. We have changed the name of the islands, too, and call them the Canaries. No canary birds seem to live in them, however, and there is a notion that the name is derived ultimately from "canis," the dogs, especially those of the island of Lanzerote, the most easterly, being famous. The flora of the islands are subtropical, with palms (is not the chief town of the Grand Canary Las Palmas?), bananas, eucalyptus, cactus and the aforesaid "golden apples." Luxuriant vegetation is the glory of Tenerife; a climate wonderfully equable is common to them all, but Grand Canary is especially blessed in its dryness and freshness.

At Orotava are more grandeur of gardens and spacious hotels. At Las Palmas, facing the northeast trade winds, are the constant fresh breeze off the sea, accommodation as comfortable as could be desired and the quality of cleanliness in its superlative degree. Where all is so dry it is difficult to be dirty and a positive triumph of innate instincts over circumstances on the part of the proletariat that so many of them continue to be filthy. The Englishman may even be astonished at the dirt, as he will be astonished at his own cleanliness. The astonishment is the greater because the place is pervaded by a fine dust, but the very dust is of a cleanly, almost of a cleansing, nature.

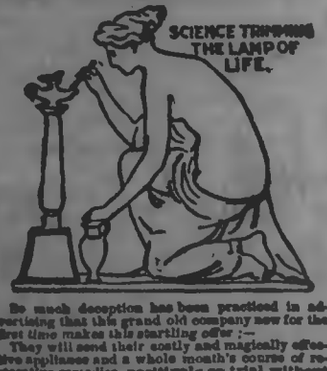
Free Trial To Any Honest Man

The Foremost Medical Company in the World in the Cure of Weak Men Makes this Offer.

HEALTH AND ENERGY ASSURED. HAPPY MARRIAGE, GOOD TEMPER, LONG LIFE.

In all the world to-day—in all the history of the world—no doctor nor institution has treated and restored so many men as has the famed ERIE MEDICAL CO. of Buffalo, N. Y.

This is due to the fact that the company controls some inventions and discoveries which have no equal in the whole realm of medical science.



So much deception has been practiced in advertising that this grand old company now for the first time makes this startling offer:—

They will send their costly and magically effective appliance and a whole month's course of restorative remedies, positively on trial without expense to any honest and reliable man!

Not a dollar need be advanced—not a penny paid—till results are known to and acknowledged by the patient.

The Erie Medical Company's appliance and remedies have been talked about and written about all over the world, till every man has heard of them.

They restore or create strength, vigor, healthy vigor and new life.

They quickly stop drains on the system that sap the energy.

They cure nervousness, despondency and all the effects of evil habits, excesses, overwork, etc.

They give full strength, development and tone to every portion and organ of the body.

Failure is impossible and age is no barrier.

This "Trial without Expense" offer is limited by the company to a short time, and application must be made at once.

No C. O. D. scheme, no begging philanthropy nor deception, no exposure—a clean business proposition by a company of high financial and professional standing.

Write to the ERIE MEDICAL COMPANY, BUFFALO, N.Y., and refer to seeing the account of their offer in this paper.

It lies in power on the banana leaves and palm trees. After a country drive it may make a dark coat look as if its wearer's profession had to do with a flour mill, but a shower of rain sweeps it off the foliage, and a shake and a brush of the garment, and they are all more spotless than they were before.—Pall Mall Gazette.

Footgear and Gloves.

Woman is largely judged by her extremities, by the way she dresses her feet and hands, and so she should have a care in selecting footgear and gloves, says a New York fashion writer. At no time are her feet so conspicuous as when in evening attire, unless she happens to be a member of the Rainy Day club. Evening slippers are very smart at present. Two general styles prevail for house and full dress wear—the single strap or the double strap crossed and the laced low shoes. Black satin slippers elaborately embroidered in cut jet are very swell and make even the clumsiest foot look slim and dainty. Possessors of feet broader than or longer than four should, when possible, stick to a black evening slipper, for the light colors make large feet look larger. Silver and gold buckles, jeweled butterflies and bugs, gold and silver embroideries, fluffy bows and rosettes all look too beautiful for anything in the shoe man's window, but they are intended for little feet. Women with big feet can apply philosophy to evening slippers as well as to everything else in life. For everything you miss you gain something else, and the gain in this case is immediate, for it is in dollars and cents. All of these gimcracks on slippers make them just that much more expensive.

The proper thing to wear with ball gowns and other elaborate frocks is a slipper made from the piece of the gown worn unless it happens to be a striped or flowered brocade. Then a slipper made of the prevailing tint should be worn. Bronze slippers are much used for house wear again, and they are pretty and inexpensive too. What woman does not remember her childish joy over her first pair of bronze slippers?

Short on Fingers; Long on Sense.

We are becoming an optimist more and more all the time. We have come to the conclusion that nearly everything that happens, though it cannot be seen at the time, is for the best. About 20 years ago when we were stealing a ride on a binder we got to poking wheat straws in the cogwheels to see them cut the heads off. Somehow the machine caught one of our index fingers and cut it off at the first joint. All these years have passed and we have just found out what that stub of a finger is good for. It comes handy to a teething baby, there being no nail on it to cut the baby's mouth.—Norwich (Kan.) Courant.

Eternal Vigilance

Is the price of perfect health. Watch carefully the first symptoms of impure blood. Cure boils, pimples, humors and scrofula by taking Hood's Sarsaparilla. Drive away the pains and aches of rheumatism, malaria and stomach troubles, steady your nerves and overcome that tired feeling by taking the same great medicine.

Hood's Pills are the best family cathartic and liver tonic. Gentle, reliable, sure.

A Delightful Picture.

A homelike picture of Mrs. Washington and her favorite granddaughter is given by Mrs. James Gibson, who frequently visited her when, as the president's wife, she resided in Philadelphia, then the capital of the United States. Mrs. Gibson's language is quoted by Miss Wharton in her "Martha Washington."

Mrs. Washington was in the habit of retiring at an early hour to her own room, unless detained by company, and there, no matter what the hour, Nellie (Miss Custis) attended her.

One evening my father's carriage being late in coming for me, my dear young friend invited me to accompany her to grandmamma's room. There, after some little chat, Mrs. Washington apologized to me for pursuing her usual preparations for the night, and Nellie entered upon her accustomed duty by reading a chapter and a psalm from the old family Bible, after which all present knelt in evening prayer.

Mrs. Washington's faithful maid then assisted her to disrobe and lay her head upon the pillow. Nellie then sang a verse of some sweetly soothing hymn, and then leaning down received the parting blessing for the night, with some emphatic remarks on her duties, improvements, etc. The effect of these judicious habits and teachings appeared in the granddaughter's character through life.

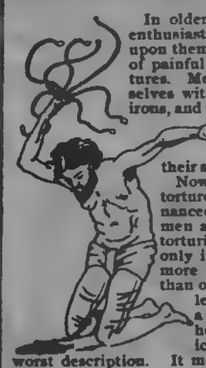
A Well Used Cradle.

The Chicago Inter Ocean says: "Mordecai Hardesty, the first white child born in Indianapolis, was rocked through infancy in a cradle in the possession of Mrs. Brandt, wife of the Rev. J. L. Brandt, pastor of the Christian tabernacle of Valparaiso, Ind. The cradle is known to be 106 years old. It was brought from Virginia to Indiana at an early day. Altogether 40 sons of Indiana have been rocked in this same relic, which is still doing service in the home of the Rev. Mr. Brandt. The cradle was hewed from the log, is 3 feet 3 inches long and from its long continued use closely resembles ebony."

Sad Misunderstanding.

"It was all I could do to keep from laying violent hands on him," said the keeper of the high class cafe as the pale young man departed. "The idea of his calling this place a beanery!"

"He meant to give you a compliment," said the listener. "Are you not aware that he is a Bostonian?"—Cincinnati Enquirer.



In olden times mistaken enthusiasts used to inflict upon themselves all manner of painful and horrible tortures. Men scourged themselves with whips and hot irons, and rubbed vinegar into the wounds and wore haircloth next to their skin day and night.

Nowadays such cruel torture is discountenanced. Nevertheless, men and women go on torturing themselves, only in a different and more serious manner than of old. They neglect their health, and neglected health means physical torture of the worst description. It means slow starvation. Because a man forces food into a weak and impaired stomach, it does not follow that he feeds his body. The life-giving elements of the food taken into an impaired stomach are not assimilated into the blood. Instead, the impurities of the sluggish liver and bowels are taken up and carried to all parts of the body. The consequence is that the body is not only starved but poisoned. The immediate result is physical suffering from which the old time zealot would have drawn back in horror. The final result is disease and death. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is a scientific remedy that acts according to natural laws. It is not a violent spur to nature or a mere artificial appetiser. It gently, but surely and permanently, promotes the natural processes of secretion and excretion. It creates appetite, makes the assimilation of the food perfect, invigorates the liver and purifies and enriches the blood. It builds up firm, muscular flesh. It cures nervous exhaustion, debility, sleeplessness and all the evils that follow in their train. Found at all medicine stores. Accept no substitute that may be represented as "just as good."

"I can heartily recommend Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and 'Pleasant Pellets' to anyone troubled with indigestion and torpid liver," writes M. G. Crider, Esq., of Leonard, Harlan Co., Ky. "My disease was chronic. Our family physician could do nothing for me. I could not walk nor help myself. I could not eat anything but it caused a horrible distress and gnawing in my stomach. I have taken four bottles of your 'Golden Medical Discovery' and one vial of your 'Pellets' and can work all day."

Cheese is 6d lower in Liverpool.

Dun & Co. report 53 business failures in Canada this week, as against 45 last week and 65 the corresponding week of last year.

It begins to look as though July wheat in Chicago would be the active month in the near future. There is a heavy short interest. Nobody has been selling it to any extent except the shorts. The St. Louis speculators who have been on the bear side of late have sold the July at 1oc to 10½c under May. The Leiter interest have been looking for a movement in July for some time. They bought about 500,000 bushels yesterday and sold an equal quantity of May.

A BAD RUNAWAY.

Which Occurred at About Three O'clock this Morning on George Street.

A terrific runaway took place at an early hour this morning when a livery horse got away from two young men who were returning from the Keene carnival.

The animal took fright at the C. P. R. station and bolting, upset the cutter and threw both occupants out. It ran up George street, and turning west at the corner of Hunter, passed between Mr. J. D. Tully's drug store and the billboard on the telegraph post. It was stopped by being caught in the pile of lumber in front of Mr. F. E. Jones' new livery stable, which is in course of erection. All the damage occasioned was the breaking of the shafts.

Remember the Curling and Hockey excursion to Toronto and Hamilton. Good going on the 25th and on the p.m. trains on the 24th. Toronto $2.00. Hamilton $2 50.

THE Y. M. C. A. DEBATING CLUB.

Sheriff Hall's Paper on "How to Read and What to Read."

The interest in the Y. M. C. A. Debating Club has steadily increased since the organization meeting in November. The seventh session last night took the form of an open meeting, which was attended by a goodly number—not members of the club alone—but also including a fair delegation of ladies.

Mr. C. H. Bradburn, 1st Vice-President of the club occupied the chair.

Sheriff Hall's paper on "How to Read and What to Read," was the feature of the evening and the speaker presented his subject in a masterly and interesting way. The vein of humour running through the paper added much to the interest.

The paper was followed by an animated discussion, in which a large number of the members joined.

The Sheriff was tendered the thanks of the audience for his kindness.

Mr. E. W. Maybee sang "The Way of Peace," which was heartily applauded, as also was Mr. Mulligan's selection.

The programme for the meeting next Friday evening will be—"Resolved, that the influence of the platform is greater than the pew."

The club's executive committee will meet on Monday evening at 7.30 to arrange the programme for the balance of the season.

Is Only One Sensation in Heart Disease—Maybe it's Yours—Dr. Agnew's Cure for the Heart Never Fails to Give Relief Inside of 30 Minutes.

"I am glad I used Dr. Agnew's Cure for the Heart. The remedy is a wonderworker. My case was chronic, having had much uneasiness about the heart, with palpitation more or less severe since I was a boy. I had abnormal action, thumping, fluttering and choking sensations. I tried many remedies, but without any benefit. After using five bottles all the distressing symptoms left me." Rev. L. W. Showers, Elderton, Pa. Sold by H. S. Macdonald.

SKIN HUMOR ON BABY

Head and Entire Body Covered. Itching Intense, Would Scratch THE Blood Came.

Had to Put Mittens on His Hands To Keep Him from Tearing His Skin.

One Application of CUTICURA Soothes Him to Sleep. Complete Cure.

When my little boy was about three months old his head broke out with a rash, which was very itchy and ran considerable watery fluid. We tried everything we could, but he got worse all the time till it spread to his arms, legs, and then to his entire body, and he got so bad that he came near dying. The rash would itch so that he would scratch till the blood ran, and a thin, yellowish stuff would be all over his pillow in the morning. I had to put mittens on his hands to keep him from tearing his skin around his wrists. He got so weak and run down that he took fainting spells like we would think him dying. He was almost a skeleton, and his little hands were thin like claws.

He was bad about eight months when we tried CUTICURA REMEDIES. I had not laid him down in his cradle in the day time for a long time. He had got so that he just slept in our arms all the time. I washed him with CUTICURA SOAP, and put on one application of CUTICURA, and he was so soothed that I put him in his cradle. You don't know how glad I felt he felt better. It took one box of CUTICURA, pretty near one cake of CUTICURA SOAP, and about half a bottle of CUTICURA RESOLVENT to cure him. I think our little boy would have died only for CUTICURA REMEDIES, and I shall always remain a firm friend of them. MRS. M. C. MAITLAND, Jasper, Ont.

Cuticura Remedies have effected the most wonderful cures of torturing, disfiguring, humiliating skin and scalp humours of infants and children, as well as of adults of every age. No statement is made regarding them that is not founded by the strongest evidence. They are the most speedy, economical, and infallible skin cures, blood purifiers, and humour remedies of modern times.

Sold throughout the world. POTTER D. & C. CORP., Props., Boston. "How to Cure Baby Humours," free.

SPORTING PASTIMES.

Hockey and Other Items of Local and General Interest.

HOCKEY

The axe has fallen, and, as was generally anticipated, Berlin's crack team was been declared professionals, and expelled from the Ontario Hockey Association.

This action was taken at a meeting of the Executive held on Thursday night in Toronto, with these members present; C. A. Brown, A. R. Martin, A. Creelman, J. D. McMurrich, A. H. Beaton, J. S. Robertson, A. A. Macdonald, F. J. McLennan, Lionel King and E. P. Brown.

The meeting lasted nearly four hours, and it was a lively one throughout, Berlin made a strong defence. Affidavits were submitted from each of the seven players; from Mayor Rumpel, whose generosity in giving the $10 to each member of the team after winning a match was the cause of the trouble; and from Dr. Cline and Carl Meinke, who asserted that the money was given as a souvenir, and it was so understood. In the players' affidavit the statement was also made that the money had been returned to Mayor Rumpel.

There was practically no opposition to the resolution professionalizing and expelling the team when the vote was taken, although up to this stage of the proceedings the proposal was made that the case be dealt with in some less drastic manner.

The players who are effected by the decision are "Jimmy" Macdonald, of Toronto; Farrell and Stephen, of Montreal; Robson, Boehmer, Gibson and Clark. They are all famous players, and well-known throughout Western Canada.

The regulations were amended so that when the conduct of any club or player is such as to incur suspicion, the Executive shall have the power to suspend the club or player.

The expelled players will have to seek reinstatement at the hands of the O.H.A. At least that is the statement a member of the Association, made last night. This means that the O. H. A. will resent any interference with its affairs on the part of the A.A.A. of C.

The names of the mover and seconder of the resolution was not given.

A MINISTER'S STORY

Rev. F. Elliott, of Richmond Hill, Relates a Happy Incident.

Held Bedfast by Kidney Trouble—He Could Not Turn Himself—Dodd's Kidney Pills Cured Him—"A Good, Honest, Reliable Medicine."

RICHMOND HILL, Jan. 22.—Rev. F. Elliott, a popular and prominent clergyman of this place, has written the story of his sufferings and recovery from Kidney Disease. The sketch is of deep interest to thousands of Canadians.

Rev. Mr. Elliott says he feels it his duty to tell of the medicine that cured him—Dodd's Kidney Pills. Only "good-will to men" could induce him to allow his name to be published in this connection. The testimonial is entirely unsolicited.

"I suffered so severely from Lame Back that I could not turn, nor get out of bed. I began using Dodd's Kidney Pills, and my pains and lameness soon disappeared. I consider Dodd's Kidney Pills a good, honest, reliable medicine for the diseases they are recommended for."

These are Mr. Elliott's own words, and such is the result every time Dodd's Kidney Pills are used. Any person who suffers from Bright's Disease, Diabetes, or any other Kidney Trouble, after having the assurance of such a worthy and eminent clergyman as Rev. Mr. Elliott, deserves no pity. The cure is within easy reach, and if they refuse to stretch out a hand to grasp it, no one can be blamed but themselves.

Dodd's Kidney Pills positively and permanently cure Lumbago, Dropsy, Paralysis, Heart Disease, Gout, Sciatica, Gravel, Stone in Bladder, Female Weakness, all urinary disorders, Neuralgia, Lame Back, and all other Kidney Diseases. They are the only remedy on earth that has ever cured Bright's Disease and Diabetes. They are sold by all druggists, or will be sent on receipt of price, fifty cents a box, six boxes for $2.50, by The Dodd's Medicine Co., Limited, Toronto.

CAUSE OF ITS RANCOR.

Mail-Empire Had to Drop False Charges Against Mr. Sifton.

INVASION OF CANADA BUGABOO.

The Yukon Relief Expedition Will Be Escorted by the Northwest Mounted Police—No American Troops Will Accompany the Expedition—More of the Regulations—Ottawa News.

Ottawa, Jan. 24.—When the American press announced that a beautiful American girl had been abducted and was in captivity in Cuba by the orders of Gen. Weyler, they proceeded to publish columns of stuff about the girl and threats of what the United States would do to the wicked Spaniards. In course of time the Captain-General was heard from. He merely remarked that there was no such captive. Some American newspapers announced that the Washington provisions destined for the northern gold fields by way of the Yukon River for purposes of relief would be accompanied by 100 soldiers of the United States army. Thereupon the Toronto Mail and Empire broke into denunciations of Mr. Sifton for granting permission to these troops to enter Canadian territory, albeit the American press, the source of the Mail and Empire's information, stated that such permission had been obtained from Sir Julian Pauncefote, the British Ambassador. The Opposition organ has regaled its readers with one, two and three articles a day on the "insult to Canada." In fact that journal has displayed considerable rancor ever since it was forced to drop the false charges it brought against the Minister of the Interior last summer, i.e. that Maxime Lepine, the ex-rebel, had been appointed by Mr. Sifton to an office in the Northwest. When assured from Ottawa weeks ago that no escort of United States soldiers was to go into the Yukon with the relief train, it quoted a despatch from Portland, Oregon, in refutation and continued publishing articles based on the presumption that the most reliable information was to be obtained from Portland, Oregon, sources. The Canadian correspondent of the London Times cabled that paper, while Mr. Sifton was still at Washington, that public opinion was opposed to the course of the Government in admitting armed foreign troops to the Yukon, and now the London Globe is quoted as accepting this information and saying that it was not surprising that Canadian feeling was outraged and that the Ottawa Government had been tricked. Portland, Oregon, again. If the agitation over the Cuban outrage collapsed because there was no girl, then the Yukon outrage must collapse for want of soldiers, or, as the high-sounding phrase has it, "foreign armed troops." It is surprising that the Mail and Empire refuses to accept the statement that no escort of American troops is to accompany the relief through Canadian territory. The relief train is to consist, it is said, of 100 ponies and 36 packers. They will be assisted through the territory under United States jurisdiction by 50 of the United States infantry, detailed to see that the provisions are not stolen or diverted. At the summit of the White Pass, where Canadian territory begins, the United States infantry will return to Skaguay and 50 of the Canadian Mounted Police will escort the train into the Yukon. Will the Siftonphobes continue to beat the alarm drum?

FOR INTENDING KLONDIKERS.

Customs Regulations Which It Would Be Well to Study Up.

The Commissioner of Customs has been at work for some time collecting information with a view to dealing fairly with foreigners destined for Dawson. Regulations have been adopted governing the handling of foreign goods passing in transit through Canada from Juneau, Alaska, and Circle City or other points in Alaska, via the Chilkoot or White Passes. They are as follows:

1. Imported goods in transit as above described shall be reported at the Canadian custom house, Lake Tagish, and may be entered for exportation there on the usual form "in transitu" in duplicate.

2. The goods may then be delivered without payment of duty, to be carried to their destination out of Canada by any transportation company which has duly executed a bond in the form prescribed by the Minister of Customs for the due and faithful delivery of all packages carried by such company and for general compliance with the customs law and regulations governing such traffic. A duplicate of the entry in transitu, duly signed and marked with the proper customs stamp, shall accompany each shipment of goods conveyed by a bonded carrier, so that the same may be returned to the customs house at Fort Cudahy, with a certificate thereon as to the landing of the goods in the United States or of their being passed outwards from Canada within six months from date of entry.

3. If the goods when entered in transitu for exportation are not delivered to be forwarded by a bonded carrier, as provided in the last preceding section, the duty thereon is to be deposited with the customs officer at Lake Tagish subject to a refund at the port of Fort Cudahy when the goods pass outwards thereat, or upon the certificate of an officer of the United States or of the Canadian customs that the said goods have been landed in the United States within six months from the date of their in transitu entry. The duty deposited in such case is to be endorsed on the entry and certified by the customs officer in charge, and the duplicate of the entry duly certified and marked with the customs stamp is to be delivered to the person making their deposit of duty.

4. A report of such entry in transitu shall be forwarded by mail without delay by the customs officer at the sending port to the collector of customs at Fort Cudahy for the collection of duties entered in transitu and not duly reported.

5. The articles usually classed as traveler's baggage are to be passed free without entry.

THE ELECTION CAMPAIGN.

Two More Candidates Placed in Nomination—One a Liberal and the Other a Patron Independent.

Toronto, Jan. 24.—Two more candidates were placed in the field on Saturday, one a Liberal, the other an Independent Patron. Lincoln Liberals met at St. Catharines and nominated Mr. James Doran of Grimsby, who is conceded to be a strong man politically. Interest was added to the meeting by the presence of Hon. Richard Harcourt, who delivered an effective adddress upon the issues of the campaign.

Mr. John W. Davis was selected by the Patrons and Independents of Centre Grey to represent them in the contest, Mr. Gamey being obliged to retire because of the unsatisfactory state of his health.

Kingston Conservatives Divided.

Kingston, Jan. 24.—The local Conservatives are declaring with emphasis that Dr. Edward Ryan will be their nominee for the Legislature. They say Mr. Whitney favors him. The Young Conservatives want Ald. James Minnes, jr., as the candidate.

DEATH CAME SUDDENLY.

George S. Counsell, County Clerk of Wentworth, Passes Away.

Hamilton, Jan. 24.—People around the court house on Saturday morning were terribly shocked at the news of the sudden death of George S. Counsell, for the past 37 years clerk of the county of Wentworth. No one had imagined Mr. Counsell had been at all ill, and, in fact, his sudden taking off was as much a surprise to his family as to his many friends. He fell dead in the bathroom after taking his usual morning bath. In his office work he was most faithful and painstaking, and no man could have been more careful in the guarding of the interests of his employers. His character was one of which any man might be proud—sweet and honest, without any thought of evil, and in his dealings with men he treated every man as his friend. His habits were of the simplest, and outside his office work all his life was centered in his home and family. In his simplicity of habit and openness of character he was almost a unique figure in the position he occupied, and those who did not know him well might almost have imagined him to be eccentric. Many a friend will mourn when Mr. Counsell's death is announced; he left no enemies. Deceased leaves a widow and two estimable daughters to mourn the loss of a loving husband and kind father. C. M. Counsell is a brother of deceased, and Mrs. Edward Martin and Mrs. McGiverin are sisters.

Confessed to Murder.

Soda Creek, B.C., Jan. 24.—On December 30 Lewis G. Elkins, a young Englishman, was shot dead by an Indian at a trading post near Tatla Lake. His brother found the body, and, together with three companions, started in pursuit of the murderer and caught him near Chiloo Lake. They are now en route to One Hundred and Fifty Mile House with the prisoner. The Indian has confessed the crime.

THE INSANITY PLEA

Is Being Worked by the Defence for Tom Nulty.

FATHER'S EMPHATIC TESTIMONY

He Describes His Incarcerated Son's Actions, and Tells of His Near Ancestors' Mental Failings—Great Interest Manifested in the Poirier Murder Trial at St. Scholastique—To Resume To-day.

Joliette, Que., Jan. 24.—The Crown heard its last witness in direct examination in the Nulty murder trial Saturday afternoon. The prisoner's father was then called by the defence and was examined at length respecting Tom's history. The witness said his son had been dutiful and gentle in his early days. He had taught him the catechism, as Tom could not read, and he had in due time taken his first communion. When 13 years of age the prisoner had cut his leg badly and suffered intensely for a long time. Since that accident he had been a changed boy. He was subject to fits, in which he would weep and laugh almost at the same time, at other times he would run around the stove on all fours squeaking. He was an extremely nervous boy, and when spoken to suddenly would strike or throw something at his tormentor. He had even struck at him (the witness) when he unwittingly had startled him. He further said his son was troubled with severe headaches, which attacked him suddenly. Tom had three or four bad spells during the past four months; he could not say exactly when he had the last fit. Witness continuing, said Tom was an inveterate night prowler, and he was seldom in bed till very late hours. The parent's ancestry was also raked up. The witness testified that Tom's grandfather on the father's side was a drunkard, while his grandmother was quite crazy at times. Coming to the day of the crime, witness said his son had met him on the road and had loaned him two dollars. He did not see him again until midnight. Tom had joked and laughed with a companion that night, even while the father was placing the bodies in their coffins. The defence are making strong endeavors to support the plea of insanity.

THE POIRIER CASE.

One Witness Swore He Saw the Accused Woman Kiss Parslow on the Balcony—Jurymen's Exercise.

St. Scholastique, Que., Jan. 24.—There was such a crowd in the Court House Saturday afternoon that several hundred people were unable to obtain admittance. Proceedings were commenced by the foreman of the jury asking Judge Taschereau to admit the gentlemen of the petty jury to take some exercise outside of the prison. The judge, however, was unable to grant the request, but he permitted the jurymen to go into the prison yard under the care of special constables.

Adelaine Le Claire, wife of Joseph Munier of St. Jerome; Damase Leonard, a notary of St. Monique; Pacifique Potvin of St. Jerome, and James A. Hill, a farmer of St. Columbin, and a former neighbor of the Poiriers, gave evidence. Hill saw Sam Parslow around the house at all hours day and night. One Sunday afternoon he passed in front of the house and saw on the balcony Sam kissing the prisoner. Three years ago he met them at his father's during a ball and they stayed all the time together, and Sam had his arm around the neck of Cordelia. On this occasion she drank too much for a woman. The witness corroborated the other evidence and the defence will have much to do with him.

The court was adjourned until 10 o'clock to-day for the hearing of Detective McCaskill's evidence.

CHINESE NEW YEAR'S DAY.

How the Celestials of the Queen City Celebrated the Event.

Toronto, Jan. 24.—Saturday was a most interesting day to about 60 of Toronto's citizens. It was New Year's Day to the people of China, and all her sons, who are scattered wide over the face of the earth. The day was also important from the fact that it was "settling-up day." No Chinaman, if possible, will begin the New Year in debt. The Celestial thinks it bad luck to owe a man a "centee," on the sacred holiday.

The 22nd of January is not always New Year's Day. Sometimes the festival falls in February. The date depends on the moon, similarly to our Easter. In the homeland it is a period of great rejoicing and no work is done for a month. Outside of China, however, that is impossible, as the laundry has to go on. But the general festivities go along with the work just the same. On Saturday they called on each other, shook their own hands (not each other's) and then exchanged cards. In many of the shops sandal wood was burnt to give a sweet smelling odor to the atmosphere.

Large shipments of candy, nuts, cake and various sweets were received and were scattered among each other and friends with a lavish hand. But, mingled with their happiness on Saturday was a tinge of fear for the safety of the empire at home. Like all Orientals, the Chinese are very superstitious regarding any changes in the sun's phase. On Saturday, for the first time in centuries, there was a partial eclipse of the sun and this was looked on as a most disastrous omen.

THE OPPOSITION POLICY.

It is charged that the present Opposition has no policy in the present campaign. There is doubtless some ground for such a charge. The "Ross Bible" policy, the green Eye-opener policy seem for the present to be laid by, but carefully preserved for possible future use. The piggery policy—the policy of pork pie, has died a natural death—smothered in its own fat. But Mr. Whitney and his friends have a policy, and it has been promptly developed in the present contest, especially in West Peterborough. It is the policy of mistatement, the policy of perversion of facts, the policy of slander, and in a word, to use plain, down right Anglo Saxon, the policy of telling what is not true. At Benefort the ball was opened, and the policy continued atEnnismore. Deliberate mistatement, flat falsehood and perversion of the truth with a view of deceiving the electors has been employed by the Opposition stump-orators, and hardly one of them could make a definite statement with regard to the Government but what was capable of direct and easy disproof from statistics or from public documents. Men who resort to such tactics defeat their ends for the electors are not the fools such tactics assume them to be. This is an age of intelligence. The people read and are well informed on general matters, and know when they hear the truth. They may not be possessed of all the details, but they have enough general knowledge to check the wild assertions of the campaign falsifier. And when men begin a campaign of falsification it cannot be expected that their subsequent statements will be received without suspicion. The local politicians are not the only sinners in this respect. Their chief organ, the Mail and Empire, is a past master of falsification. The following is furnished by the Globe as a specimen brick:

"The Mail and Empire founds a column of abuse of the Ontario Government on a collection of "facts" such as the following:—

(1) Mr. Hope, a possible appointee to the Registrarship of Wentworth, is said to be a brother-in-law of the Hon. Mr. Gibson.

(2) Mr. A. M. Ross, a Provincial Treasurer, "bagged the valuable Clerkship of the County of York," and "his revenues cannot be less than $10,000 a year."

(3) "In a few days Mr. A. L. Gibson, the Registrar of Huron, will resign: He has been holding the place against all comers for his brother Thomas" etc.

Now what are the real facts in these cases? They are:

(1) Mr. Hope is not a relative of Hon. J. M. Gibson, nor of Mrs. Gibson. He is, it is believed, a faraway relative of a former wife of the Hon. J. M. Gibson's, who died some fifteen years ago.

(2) The County Court Clerkship "bagged" by Mr. A. M. Ross, does not not yield that gentleman a third of the sum charged. The net income therefrom during the last two years was $2,423 and $2,754 respectively. Under Conservative tenancy the revenue was $10,000 and over, and the Mail was silent under the outrage.

Hon. Mr. Hardy cut down the emoluments of the office in 1878.

(3) There is not a word of truth in the allegation. The Mail and Empire is the only paper throughout the Province that we have noticed which has had an ill-natured word to say on the retirement of Mr. Thomas Gibson, a man who is honoured throughout the Province and has the respect of every member of the Legislature.

This is pretty well for one article. Is it to be a campaign of nothing but slander?"

"THERE is no sectarian issue in this contest," says the Mail. Why not? The Opposition in the last half dozen contests went to the country on a sectarian cry. One after another of these "cries" was discarded when the people would have none of them. If these "cries" were justified, if they had any force then they have the same force now, for they same Government is practically in power with the same policy it has always had—the maintenance of the rights of every class and creed. If the Opposition was therefore insincere in their policy, if policy it could be called, in past campaigns, have they any reason to expect the people to trust them now. They are, perhaps, more sincere now than ever before in their policy—and that simply is, to get office. Let them be judged on their past policy. The Opposition have shown their incapacity to be critics. How can they expect to succeed as administrators?

LAKEFIELD.

From Our Own Correspondent.

On Monday evening last a meeting of the town council was held, Reeve Lillicrap in the chair, with Councillors Braden, Burgis and Moore. After the regular business, Messrs. C. Quinn, J. C. Sherin, J. Griffin and others presented a petition to the council with 210 signatures, asking the council to memorialise the Government to place a swing bridge over the Trent Canal at this point, instead of a high level bridge, as at first proposed. A number of gentlemen present took part in the discussion, but the council declined to take action until the plans of the two bridges were laid before them, which was to take place on Tuesday afternoon. The council adjourned until Tuesday evening.

The adjourned meeting of the village council was held in the town hall on Tuesday evening, at which there was present Reeve Lillicrap, in the chair, and Councillors Burgis, Braden and Moore.

The meeting was called for the purpose of discussing the high level bridge. A number of ratepayers were present and evinced considerable interest. The plans were shown and explained by Mr. Morrow, of the engineering staff. A standing vote was taken which was unanimously in favour of a swing bridge.

It was moved by Councillors Moore and Burgis that this council again memorialise the Minister of Railways and Canals in favour of a swing bridge over the Trent Valley Canal in this village, and that the reeve and clerk sign and seal the same.—Carried.

Bylaw No. 296, entitled a bylaw to appoint an assessor, collector, constable, health inspector, etc., for the village of Lakefield for the year 1898. Mr. Hugh Morrison was appointed to the position at a salary of $325 per annum.

Moved by Councillors Braden and Burgis, that the standing committees for 1898 be as follows:—

Finance—Councillors Fraser and Burgis.

Roads and Sidewalks—Councillors Braden, Burgis and Fraser.

General—Councillors Moore and Burgis.

The council then adjourned to meet at the call of the reeve.

AN AURORA LETTER.

A Correspondent Approves Rev. F. Elliott, of Richmond Hill.

Dodd's Kidney Pills a Heaven-sent Medicine—Their Work in Aurora—Cure Every Case of Bright's Disease, Diabetes, Heart Disease, Lumbago, Lame Back and all Other Kidney Diseases.

AURORA, Jan. 24.—Dear Sir—The article published a few days ago, relating to the recovery of Rev. F. Elliott, of Richmond Hill, has been discussed at length in this town. It states facts similar to those of many cases here, all of which are well known to our citizens.

It is refreshing to find such a prominent and respected clergyman as Rev. Mr. Elliott taking so pronounced a step as he has done, in publicly recommending Dodd's Kidney Pills. His experience with this wonderful medicine is exactly similar to that of Aurora people. There is no medicine to be procured that can approach Dodd's Kidney Pills, which never fail to cure.

Bright's Disease and Diabetes, so long said to be incurable, are cured by Dodd's Kidney Pills as easily as a puff of wind blows out a candle flame. They have been used in this town by scores of people who were given up to die by their doctors, and who surprised and delighted their friends by their rapid and thorough recovery, after having used these Heaven-sent pills.

There is no medicine on earth that can compare with Dodd's Kidney Pills for Rheumatism, Lumbago, Lame Back, Heart Disease, Paralysis, Gout, Gravel, Stone in Bladder, Urinary Troubles, Blood impurities, Female Weakness and all other Kidney Diseases. The Pills are simply infallible in these ailments.

It is the duty of every man to lighten the sufferings of his fellows as much as possible, and for that reason, I write this to proclaim to all victims of Bright's Disease, Diabetes, and any other Kidney Diseases I have named, that Dodd's Kidney Pills will cure them as certainly as night follows day, if they are given a chance.

All sufferers can get Dodd's Kidney Pills at any drug store. They cost only fifty cents a box, six boxes for $2.50, on receipt of which price they will be sent by The Dodd's Medicine Co., Limited, Toronto.

THAT SEALSKIN ORDER.

A United States Special Agent Admits That It Cannot Be Enforced.

London, Jan. 24.—Major Williams, a special agent of the United States Treasury Department, has been in London for a week, looking for information to assist the Department in the enforcement of the sealskin exclusion. He said to a representative of the Associated Press: "I have come to the conclusion that it is impossible to enforce the law in its present form, and that it is necessary to amend it. It is impossible to identify many of the skins after they have passed through the hands of the wholesale dealers, as most of the retailers, for the sake of selling, would guarantee that the skins were not caught in prohibited waters. The important exporters with whom I have conferred are disposed to co-operate with the Government in carrying out the law; but the small dealers are likely to evade it."

Was He in the Valley of Dry Bones?

Orangeville, Jan. 24.—Rev. D McKenzie, who has publicly stated that he has voluntarily resigned his charge because he did not consider that the relations which should exist between pastor and congregation have prevailed between him and St. Andrew's, in his farewell sermon took his text from the 37th chapter of Ezekiel, in which the prophet records that he was transferred to a dark valley in which there was a pile of dry bones. The prophet was asked by the Lord whether the bones could be made to live again, and answered: "O Lord God, thou knowest."

Women are not the only ones who are sensitive about their ages. A man doesn't like to be told that he is getting old. Health keeps a man young. It doesn't make any differences if he has lived eighty years. If they have been healthy years he will be hale and hearty and won't look within twenty years as old as he is. Good digestion and rich red blood make people look youthful. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery make rich, red blood. It makes health in the right way. It works according to the right theory, and in 30 years of practice it has proved that the theory is absolutely correct. It begins at the beginning—begins by putting the stomach, liver and bowels into perfect order, but it begins its good work on the blood before it finishes with the digestive organs. It searches out disease germs wherever they may be and forces them out of the body. All druggists keep the "Discovery."

An Aged Spinster Burned to Death.

Glen Robertson, Jan. 24.—Mary McCullough, a spinster, of this village, aged seventy-nine years, has died from frightful burns and shock. She lived with her niece, Mrs. D. J. McCulloch, and was left alone in the house. A few minutes later she was seen to rush from the house with her clothing in flames and throw herself in the snow. Friends arrived and threw snow over her, quenching the flames. Doctors were called, but she expired.

Found a Dead Child.

Toronto, Jan. 24.—On Saturday afternoon Fred Hustwitt, 904 Rusholme road, and Harry Huddard, 10 Sylvan avenue, found in a vacant lot the dead body of a fully developed newly-born male child. It was wrapped up in an old newspaper and a night shirt, and contained no marks that would lead to the identification of the parties who had abandened it. An investigation will be held.

Montreal, Jan. 24.—The appointment of Mr. R. Dandurand to the seat in the Canadian Senate rendered vacant by the death of Senator Bechard gives general satisfaction here.

Severe Bronchitis Yields Promptly to Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine.

I used your Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine for severe attack of Bronchitis. I got better from the time of taking the first dose. Having a family of young children, my doctor's bill have annually came to a considerable sum. I believe a bottle of Dr. Chase's Syrup occasionally will aid me in reducing them very materially.

FIGHTING DEPUTIES.

A Serious Outbreak in the French Chambers.

THE PROSPECTS OF A BIG WAR.

The Relations of England and Russia Are Now Such That One Power or the Other Must Give Way—Britain's Stand for Free Trade—What the Papers Say—Cable News.

Paris, Jan. 24.—Owing to a free fight in the Chamber of Deputies Saturday the session was suspended. The trouble resulted from the discussion of the interpellation of the Government of ex-Minister Cavignac, on the subject of the semi-official note issued on January 17, in which the Government declined to make public the confession made by ex-Captain Alfred Dreyfus to Captain Lebrun-Renaud, the officer who had charge of him when he was court-martialled.

The newspaper men and public, pouring into the lobbies of the House, found them occupied by armed troops, which had been summoned when the disturbance began in the Chamber. On learning this, many of the deputies protested. A majority feared a renewal of the disorders and M. Brisson assumed the responsibility of deciding not to resume the sitting.

The spectators, who had in the meanwhile assembled in excited groups outside the Palace Bourbon, or Chamber of Deputies, were calmed by the announcement of the decision.

BRITAIN AND RUSSIA.

Prospects of a Big War Over the Chinese Difficulty—One Power Must Give Way.

London, Jan. 24.—The Daily Standard in an editorial presents what is presumably the official conservative view of the China situation. It says: "A calm survey of the situation as it exists on the spot scarcely encourages the hope that by the mere lapse of time everything will arrange itself. Russia and Great Britain are now in a position in which it is clear that one or the other will have to give way. It ought not to be Great Britain. If our Foreign Office on this occasion permits the threats of the Czar's Charge d'Affaires to coerce the Tsung Li Yamen into a rejection of our terms, there will be an end to our influence at the Imperial court. It is not the first, but it is unquestionably the crucial trial of strength. St. Petersburg has chosen the ground and thrown down the challenge."

British Ships Leave Port Arthur.

A semi-official communication received at St. Petersburg, purporting to emanate from London, says that the British war vessels at Port Arthur have been ordered to leave there without delay. Regarding this communication, the following semi-official note has been published in London: "The British vessels which recently visited Port Arthur merely touched there in the course of their ordinary cruises, and would naturally leave after a short stay. The question of calling and departure is one at the discretion of the British admiral on the station."

A Coaling Experiment.

This week there will be combined coaling operations at Portsmouth, with the view of testing the facilities for coaling a fleet in case of an emergency.

Hicks-Beach the Lion.

Discussing the situation in China, the London correspondent of the New York Sun cables his paper:

"The most wholesome and refreshing feature of the situation is the eager and unanimous welcome which all Great Britain has given to the virile and vigorous policy to which the Salisbury Government has committed itself. No declaration of the Ministry has ever been received with such satisfaction and unanimity. Englishmen of all parties received Sir Michael Hicks-Beach's words with immense relief, and the country has witnessed in the past few days a wonderful revival of self-respect, which has acted like a tonic and an inspiration to public spirit. It is for this reason, perhaps, that the talk about war has excited little alarm or apprehension in the country at large, and the [illegible] headlines in to-day's journals [illegible] popular enthusiasm. The more serious weekly reviews published, while recognizing fully the grave issues of the Government's decision, join in the universal approval."

Weekly Reviews in Line.

The Spectator says: "The country as a whole has hardly yet fully awake to the situation, is resolutely with the Government, and the classes will follow the two front benches eagerly if America declares [illegible] but in any case with [illegible] The notion that this country has been of late too submissive to the Continent has gone deep into their minds. They are sure the cause of the freedom of commerce is a worthy cause, and they are convinced that as the war must be maritime, the chances for and against their country are at all events fairly equal. The whole Kingdom, therefore, though utterly disliking war, would consider this a war of self-defence, and will support its statesmen of both parties in most determined action."

Saturday Review Approves.

The Saturday Review says: "In this policy, England has the support of Japan and the United States, and the strength of either of these powers, added to England, in the Pacific, puts resistance on the part of Russia, Germany and France, singly or in combination, out of the question. Perhaps the enthusiasm with which the American newspapers have applauded the declaration of the Chancellor of the Exchequer arises from the fact that he has virtually proclaimed a Monroe doctrine for the far East. The Saturday Review remembers no occasion on which a Cabinet Minister, speaking of such a crisis, has used the actual word war in reference to a foreign power. It is a new departure, but it is calculated that the indiscretion has produced a good effect both at home and abroad."

Other Expressions.

The Radical Speaker, instead of opposing the Government policy, labors to make sure that Lord Salisbury will not back down when the test comes. It urges the Government to make it clear to the world that it is not bluffing, but is ready to follow words with action.

On the same subject, the London correspondent of the New York Evening Post says:

"England has spoken the one word which Lord Palmerston once said was forbidden in diplomatic intercourse.' Quite characteristically, she has spoken it through the mouth of a typical English country squire in the Cabinet, who rarely uses expletives, but who, when he does swear, comes out with a heartfelt 'Damn it.' It was Sir Michael Hicks-Beach who told France recently that England would not be worried out of Egypt. It is Sir Michael Hicks-Beach who, this week, declares with equal emphasis that England will not hesitate at war if any other power attempts to close the door on China. Commerce must be kept free for the whole world in China, even if England has to fight for it.

Matters Brought to a Head.

"Diplomatic purists at home and abroad declare themselves shocked by this calculated indiscretion, but, grave though the situation be, it so clearly represents the present mood of English opinion that necessarily it has brought matters to a head. How England receives this final word is shown by the fact that consols did not drop a single point after the speech.

"The leaders of the Opposition, M. H. H. Asquith and Sir H. Campbell-Bannerman, hastened publicly to support the Government. The press of all shades of opinion did the same with practical unanimity. What almost everyone feels is that England must make a determined stand for free markets. If she should yield now, the battle would only have to be fought again on the completion of the Siberian Railway and other developments which are calculated seriously to weaken England's position."

DANGER LIES IN JAPAN.

If the Mikado Breaks From Restraint There Will Be War.

London, Jan. 24.—While events are moving with somewhat dramatic rapidity in the far East and complications may any day develop a situation fraught with momentous dangers, when the known facts and the position of affairs are analysed there is really not much reason at the present moment to suppose that a solution of the crisis will be found in a resort to war. There is reason to believe that diplomatic circles do not fear that it will be necessary to appeal to arms, unless (and this is the dangerous feature of the situation) Japan breaks from her moorings. So far as the European powers are concerned, the diplomats throughout are satisfied that the Chinese question will not break the peace of the world, but they have always feared that Japan will prove a firebrand. Japan is excited and does not know exactly what she wants, or what threatens her, but she has a general suspicion that unless she asserts herself she will be deprived of any portion of the plunder. Unless she can be restrained from impetuous action, the departure of her fleet from Yokohama for Chinese waters may prove to be the striking of the match which may lead to a dreadful conflagration.

Germany Called Upon to Act.

London, Jan. 24.—A special despatch from Berlin says that in view of the despatch of a Japanese fleet to Chinese waters the Neuste Nachrichten demands that Germany send two torpedo divisions to Kiao-Chou Bay.

Gladstone Longs for "Rest."

Cannes, Jan. 24.—Mr. and Mrs. Gladstone drove out at noon Saturday. Mrs. Gladstone was helped from the steps into a carriage by a nurse and valet. Mr. Gladstone wore a thick overcoat, with the collar turned up and a soft hat, only exposing his cheeks and eyes. He descended the steps in the slowest manner, leaning heavily on a stick, and using the balustrade, and was lifted into the carriage. Then he was wrapped in furs.

The alarming rumors regarding Mr. Gladstone's health were further confirmed. He is extremely weak and so dejected as a result of neuralgic pains that he has expressed a desire that all were over.

Mr. Gladstone is Better.

Cannes, Jan. 24.—Mr. Gladstone is feeling better and attended service Sunday morning at the English Church.

A telegram of inquiry as to his health was received from the Queen.

Napoleon's Loss.

It is said that but for an attack of indigestion, brought on by over eating, Napoleon would have won Waterloo. Great issues depend on good digestion—good digestion depends upon Burdock Blood Bitters. "Two years ago my wife was very ill with dyspepsia. Six bottles of B.B.B. cured her, and she has no return of the malady." WM. DAY, Fort William, Ont.

LISTEN TO THE FACTS:

Dear Sirs—

There are many remedies advertised to cure Kidney troubles, but in my opinion the best and most successful is Dr. Ward's Blood and Nerve Pills. In my case they succeeded after the failure of the others.

I spent $200 in doctoring but received very little benefit until I began using Dr. Ward's Blood and Nerve Pills. Before I had finished the first box I gained flesh, appetite and sound sleep, and three boxes entirely cured me. I have had no kidney trouble since.

THE SUN'S ECLIPSE.

Prof. Sir Norman Lockyer Get a Favorable View in India.

Bombay, Jan. 23.—The eclipse was accompanied here by a rapid fall of temperature. An earthy smell pervaded the air, and the scene resembled a landscape under a wintry English sun.

The duration of totality was two minutes, with a marvelous corona of halo, silver and blue.

The conditions were favorable at both Prof. Sir Norman Lockyer's camp, near Visiadroog (on the Malabar coast) and at Prof. Campbell's camp, near Jeur. The native astrologers predicted terrible calamities. The natives swarmed to devotional exercises and there was general fasting, but no great alarm. The Nizam of Hiderabad liberated 50 prisoners, giving each a gift of money and clothes.

The Situation in Egypt.

London, Jan. 24.—As usual there is every explanation of the sudden rush of British troops to Egypt—except the right one. What really seems to have happened is that Col. Parsons, while en route to take over Kassala from the Italians, found King Menelik of Abyssinia in the greatest state of wrath at the surrender of the town (which His Majesty regarded as part of his domain), to the Egyptians, and he was mobilising an army with the intention of asserting his authority. If King Menelik should be acting, as suspected, in concert with the Mahdi, the danger of the situation is greatly enhanced.

Constantinople, Jan. 24.—Russia is about to present a note to Turkey demanding payment for the whole balance of the indemnity of the Russo-Turkish war, amounting to £23,000,000, with a view of making the Sultan more docile in the settlement of the Cretan question.

EDWARD LECLAIRE.

STEWART WAS CAUGHT.

He Did not Get Far With Eugene Torpey's Horse Before He Sold It.

The arrest took place on Saturday of W. H. Stewart on the charge of stealing a horse and cutter from Mr. Eugene Torpey, of Otonabee.

As stated in the EXAMINER Stewart had been working for Mr. Torpey, and drove into town with the farmer's son on Thursday last. The boy left the horse at the Albion hotel, and before he had returned for it Stewart had called and taken it. The case was immediately put into the hands of High County Constable Cochrane, who sent a description of the man and turnout to the constables in the various towns and villages in the district, and to his promptitude must be credited the arrest.

On Saturday he got word to come to Port Hope for his man, and leaving on the noon train returned on the 5.25 p.m. express with the prisoner, who had been arrested by Chief Douglas.

It seems after taking the turnout Stewart drove to Millbrook and traded horses getting two dollars to boot. Later on he sold the whole outfit for ten dollars. The Millbrook constable got wind of the transaction and telegraphed the facts to Mr. Cochrane, who wired him to follow the man. Stewart went to Port Hope where search was made for him Friday night without success. On Saturday morning Chief Douglas nailed his man.

On the return journey to Peterborough Stewart stated that the theft was the result of a spree and that he did not remember anything of the circumstances. As he was met on the Millbrook road by a farmer and observed to be acting very strangely he was stopped and urged to drive more slowly, as the horse was all lather. At this time he was intoxicated to such an extent as to be irresponsible. Constable Cochrane therefore puts faith in the man's story to the effect that he did not take the horse with criminal intent.

The prisoner has been remanded until Friday by Magistrate Edmison. Mr. F. D. Kerr has been engaged to conduct the defence.

A SUSPECTED INCENDIARY.

He is Sent to the Central Prison for Six Months—Possibly a Refugee From Justice.

Saturday afternoon the Italian who was suspected of being implicated in the burning of Mr. James Sanderson's barns last week, was again brought before Magistrate Edmison.

Messrs. Frank Anthony, Tony Anthony and Tom Minnicola were all present to act as interpreters, but the prisoner could not be persuaded to say anything. He would not give his name or address or tell where he came from or whence he was going, and grew enraged when the inquiries were persisted in. It was ascertained that his name was Carlo—that was all.

Although the facts of his clothing being singed and his boots fitting to a nicety the tracks around Mr. Sanderson's barn were suspicious, yet the man could not be convicted on evidence of such a character. He was, however, sentenced to six months in the Central Prison on a charge of vagrancy.

The desire of the prisoner to maintain such secrecy concerning his doings, has led to the belief that he is a fugitive from justice, and neither the Magistrate or County Constable Cochrane would be surprised if it was ascertained that an important arrest had been made. A photo of him will be sent to Toronto.

FROM THE KLONDIKE.

Mrs. James McCarron Hears From Her Husband in the Gold Fields.

Mr. James McCarron, brother-in-law of Mr. Robt. Davis, the mail carrier between Peterborough and Hiawatha, left for the Klondike on August 2nd, and his wife, who is visiting her brother, Mr. Davis, at Hiawatha, has just received the first letter from him. The letter is dated Dec. 4th. He is located at the foot of Marsh Lake near Tagish station and as an acquaintance was going out into civilization Mr. McCarron took the opportunity to send word to his wife. He has established a claim and has excavated to the depth of twelve feet, but does not expect to strike it rich until he comes to the rock, where the nuggets are generally found if there are any. The thermometer, he states, ranges from 20 to 40 below zero.

SUCCESSFUL STUDENTS.

Davidson, son of Mrs. Davidson, of Smith, was also successful. Mr. R. F. McWilliams was the only one taking honours, and he was successful in taking a high stand, although this year the examinations at Osgoode have been stiffened to such a degree as to make them more difficult than those of any other law school in Canada.

AT MR. STRATTON'S COMMITTEE ROOMS.

LARGE AND ENTHUSIASTIC MEETING OF WORKERS.

Brief Addresses by Supporters—Most Encouraging Reports—Evidences of Certain Success.

There was a large attendance in Mr. Stratton's committee rooms on Saturday night in order to discuss arrangements for the election campaign. Speeches of a very encouraging character were made by a number of those present.

Mr. Wm. Eyres said that there never was a time in the history of the Province when it behooved the electors who desired to perpetuate good Government to use their best efforts for the success of the Government and the Government's candidate in West Peterborough. The man that had been nominated in opposition to Mr. Stratton was a surprise to the electors and even many members of their own party. Peterborough must elect men who are known to the people and in touch with the people. There are many men in all communities who are anxious to represent the people, but the difficulty of the people was to get some one who would represent them. As between the two candidate now in the field there should not be any difficulty in the people making a choice. One is well known and has been tried and found faithful and efficient; the other is a comparative stranger. From what he could gether the electors were perfectly satisfied to leave well enough alone.

Mr. W. H. Moldrum said he had voted on both sides of politics, because he had always voted for what he thought was in the best interests of the community. This time he had no doubt as to the course to pursue, and his presence in Mr. Stratton's committee room that night was to show what side he was on and for whom his vote would be cast. Peterborough had few public men who were known throughout the Province—probably for its size and importance Peterborough had too few, and the town could not afford at the present juncture to "swap horses while crossing the stream." Mr. Stratton was an enterprising citizen. He had an interest, and a large interest, in the town. He had faith in the town, and had invested his means in enterprises to assist the town, and was a considerable employer of labour himself, directly. Everybody in town knew that Mr. Garvin was a candidate, because he was anxious to be a candidate. Some men had greatness thrust upon them, but Mr. Garvin reversed the process and thrust himself upon greatness, and he would have had no earthly show to be a candidate if there had been any candidate of standing willing to accept the risk. As far as he was concerned Mr. Meldrum said he would do what little he could to secure the election of Mr. Stratton.

After speeches by others Mr. Stratton reminded the meeting of the gathering in the Opera House on Thursday evening, when he and Hon. Mr. Ross, Minister of Education, will address the electors.

MR. GARVIN AT BUCKHORN.

Publicly Called Down by the Audience for Reckless Misstatements—It took Two Chairmen to Run the Meeting.

Mr. Garvin, Mr. John Green and Mr. William Robinson, addressed a meeting of the electors at Buckhorn on Saturday evening. The usual reckless statements, regardless of the facts, were made by Mr. Garvin, and when he came to attack Mr. Stratton personally, as he did do, and stated that Mr. Stratton had been guilty of something the audience knew he was not guilty of, he was not allowed to proceed till he had taken back the statement and apologized, which he did. During the meeting the chairman who had been selected left the chair and after several others had been requested to take it and declined, a Conservative official came to the rescue and consented to preside at the meeting.

When Mr. Garvin's attention was called to the fact that he was misquoting Mr. Stratton as to what he had stated at Bailliboro, he was again compelled to drop his line of attack.

Mr. Garvin and Mr. J. Hampden Burnham will learn before long no doubt that a policy of personal attack, based on wilful falsehood, will "not go down" with the electors, who are just a trifle wiser and more wide awake than these self-sufficient gentlemen take them to be.

Mr. Garvin evidently felt that he was so far from home that he could cut loose and say what occurred to him. His experience at Buckhorn must have convinced him that the people are well acquainted with Mr. Stratton and with what he has done for the riding, and that it takes more than slander, unsupported by facts, to lift him (Mr. Garvin) into public favour. If Mr. Garvin would confine himself to the temperate discussion of public questions, he could generalize, and wouldn't have to swallow so much as he does when he makes specific statements devoid of truth.

A SUDDEN DEATH.

A Most Respected Citizen Dies From the Effect of a Paralytic Stroke.

The death of Mr. Benjamin Armstrong, aged 56 years, took place Sunday morning at his residence, No. 3 Wescott street, after an illness of very short duration.

On Friday evening he complained of not feeling well and retired earlier than usual as did his wife. Shortly afterwards Mrs. Armstrong felt her husband leaning heavily on her and on speaking to him received no answer. This alarmed her and in failing to arouse him, after lighting a lamp, she called a neighbour and sent for a doctor.

It was ascertained that a paralytic stroke was the cause of the trouble. Mr. Armstrong lingered until Sunday when he passed away.

The deceased had been a resident of Peterborough for about 25 years, coming here from Brockville. Since living in town he has been connected with the pottery business, now owned by Mr. J. F. Allin. A widow and two daughters survive, the elder of the latter being Mrs. A. E. Bottom, of Bobcaygeon. The younger resides at home. His five brothers are: Samuel, of Castleton; George, of Orillia; John, of Berry Green; Moses, of town, and Deacon, of Bracebridge.

The funeral will take place from the family residence at half past two to-morrow afternoon.

DR. PARKIN TO SPEAK

At a Joint Meeting of the Church of England Congregations.

A joint missionary meeting is being arranged on behalf of the Church of England congregations of the town and Ashburnham.

The meeting will be of unusual interest on account of the presence of Dr. G. R. Parkin, Principal of Upper Canada College, who will be the speaker of the evening.

This will be the first visit to Peterborough of this well-known public speaker, who is one of the best known orators of the day in Canada.

SPORTING PASTIMES.

Hockey and Other Items of Local and General Interest.

HOCKEY

The Peterborough II team has received orders from the O. H. A. Executive to play off in the Junior series with Millbrook on Wednesday at Millbrook. The game was ordered to be played there, it seems, as Millbrook has not had the use of their rink this season for any games, and in the interests of hockey it is felt that as the rink is now available, the residents of the village should be given a match.

Keene hockeyists have organized with the following officers:

Hon. President—H. Cruickshanks.

Vice-President—H. Miller.

SKATING.

Mr. Harry Bell, of town, the clever young fast skater, easily succeeded in defeating Messrs. Quinn and Paudash and winning the silver medal in the mile race at Keene carnival Friday evening. At the conclusion of the race Paudash challenged Mr. Bell to skate a mile for the sum of ten dollars on straight ice. The challenge was accepted and the race will probably take place on Rice Lake at an early date. It is said that several local gentlemen will bring Alf. McGuire, the Havelock flyer, to town on the occasion of the Foresters' carnival, and will place him in the mile race against Harry Bell.

BATTALION NOTES.

The new Mauser rapid-fire pistol is exciting much interest in European armies. This is a small weapon to which the automatic principle of the Maxim gun has been applied successfully. The magazine or chamber contains ten cartridges attached to a strip or clip placed in position all together in one motion, and can be discharged (the ten cartridges) automatically in less than a second, or fired singly at as rapid a rate as desired. The projectile is nickel jacketed after the style of the Lee-Enfield bullet, and by the use of smokeless powder the cartridges take up very little space indeed. The pistol is made to be fitted to a stock for long range shooting and appears altogether to be a most formidable weapon.

A new field glass, which also at the same time tells the range or distance approximately of objects looked at, has been perfected and is being now sold in Paris. The glass is not cumbersome, is very little, if any, larger than an ordinary field glass, and has no intricate mechanism or tables to bother one. It is said to work admirably for distances short of two miles and should prove a boon to military men and hunters. Our riflemen who purpose getting field glasses for the coming summer would do well to try and see if the "Clermont-Huet stadia telemeter" cannot be obtained at a reasonable figure through reliable opticians in London or Montreal. Its excellent advantages are obvious.

GODEY'S FOR FEBRUARY.

Godey's Magazine for February appears with a new make-up and various typographical embellishments, which give it a fine appearance.

Its contents-table contains nine illustrated articles, essays, etc., seven new stories, and two strong poems, besides the work of the various departments.

Among the articles of special value are: George C. Lay's "Preliminary Period of the Revolution," Part Second; the conclusion of Stanley Edwards Johnson's tale of "The Wimpled Maid of Nantucket;" the facts concerning the Chinese in San Francisco, by Gordon Poynter; the third paper on "Triumphs in Amateur Photography"; a superb article on rare "Old Blue and White Pottery," by Jane W. Guthrie; "The American Jewish Minister," by Charles S. Bernheimer; "Pansies and Violets," by Nancy Mann Waddle; two humourous stories of excellent quality, and a beautiful and majestic poem, "The Fallen Caryatid," by Aletta Waterbary Goss.

The Bookery, Editorial Notes and Scrap Book are full of Bright, up-to-date topics, and contain much that is worth reading from various points of view.

ARMENIA AND THE ARMENIANS.

Address by a Native in the George Street Methodist Church.

Last evening Mr. Gregory Baghdasarian, an Armenian lawyer, a native refugee from Armenia, told, as an eye-witness, the terrible story of the recent Turkish massacres in that country, in the George street Methodist church. He also gave his own personal experience at the hands of the cruel Turks.

Mr. Baghdasarian is the man for whose family's deliverance from the clutches of Turks, Lord Aberdeen intervened through the British Government. He was ably assisted by his son, M. Baghdasarian, who, owing to his ten years' residence in America, speaks English freely and fluently and acted as interpreter for his father. He also spoke on Armenia as an introduction to his father's life-story. He read the 74th Psalm, which, he said, pretty accurately described Armenia's condition to-day, after which he and his father sang "Nearer my God to Thee," in the Armenian language. He described the country, its people and their sufferings.

These Armenian gentlemen have testimonials from Principal Cavan, Knox College; Dr. Rand, of McMaster University; Chancellor Burwash, of Victoria, and many others in Canada.

Mr. Baghdasarian, sr., in telling the story of the massacre, said, in effect, the following:—"One day he looked from the roof of his house and saw a terrible sight—there, only a short distance away, were the Turks, armed with daggers, clubs and anything they could lay their hands on. He knew at once that they were advancing on his native town to give the people the choice of two things—either give up their Christian belief and follow the Mohammedian religion or else be killed. In the meantime a Turk, who was neighbour of his, came in and said, "My friend, I am sorry for you. Surely it is an easy thing to give up the belief of the Christian and take our belief in its stead." Mr. Baghdasarian turned to his two daughters and spoke to them alternately thus:—"My daughter you have heard what this Turk has said, what have you to say, will you give up the Christian belief or not?" She answered, "Father, Jesus has died for me, and I will not deny Him, and if I have to die, I will do so in the Christian faith." Both of the daughters answered thus, and the old gentleman told the Turk, in effect, to mind his own business; that they would all die Christians.

Then he went up to his room and prayed fervently for the salvation of all that town's inhabitants and the town.

While he was praying he saw a vision—Jesus sitting on his magnificent throne of gold and white. He said he saw this vision as plainly as possible. He then told his wife that he had had a vision and the whole town would be spared. His wife was incredulous and would scarcely believe it. About ten minutes later a telegram came saying that it had pleased the Sultan to spare that town. Thus by prayer that Armenian town was saved.

Mr. Baghdasarian said that the Turks were allowed to do as they wished with the Armenians. If a Turk wanted to he could take an Armenian man's wife, carry her from her home up to the mountains, cruelly outrage her, and return her to her own home in this shameful condition, and the law would protect him. Many of the maidens, rather than be thus treated, drowned themselves in the river.

The land is governed by the Turks—Turkish magistrates, governors. During the massacre 200,000 persons were murdered by the Turks.

The city of Egnin, where all the Armenian aristocracy lived, was burnt to ashes, as was also Oarfa, and thousands of other towns.

The story was well related and eagerly listened to by all present.

A THUMPING HEART.

Is Only One Sensation in Heart Disease—Maybe it's Yours—Dr. Agnew's Cure for the Heart Never Fails to Give Relief Inside of 30 Minutes.

"I am glad I used Dr. Agnew's Cure for the Heart. The remedy is a wonder-worker. My case was chronic, having had much uneasiness about the heart, with palpitation more or less severe since I was a boy. I had abnormal action, thumping, fluttering and choking sensations. I tried many remedies, but without any benefit. After using five bottles all the distressing symptoms left me." Rev. L. W. Showers, Hiderton, Pa. Sold by H. S. Macdonald.

A PLEASANT EVENING.

Presentation to Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Sucee of Bridgenorth, on Tuesday Evening Last.

On Jan. 18th a large number of villagers and residents from the county gathered at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. J. Sucee, to spend a pleasant evening. Mr. and Mrs. Sucee were purposely invited out, and were sent for to come home shortly after tea. On arriving at the house they were surprised to find it stormed with friends, numbering between 85 and 100. Mr. Sucee was then ushered into the centre of the crowd to be addressed as follows:

To Mr Joseph Sucee, Superintendent of Bridgenorth Methodist Sunday School:

On hearing of your intended departure from our midst, we, the members of Bridgenorth Methodist Sabbath school, feel that we cannot let this opportunity pass of showing our appreciation of the services you have so efficiently and so unselfishly rendered in the church, and especially to the Sunday school.

Fourteen years ago through your efforts the school was organized, and since that time you have performed your duties as superintendent most faithfully and favourably. From Sunday to Sunday you have laboured earnestly to bring the truths of the Scriptures more vividly before us, and your work has been crowned with success, as is evident by the advancement of the school.

As a slight expression of our thanks we would ask you to accept this writing desk and as you are about to enter another field of labour we pray that the blessing of God may attend you, and that wherever you may be situated your services may be as freely given and as faithfully performed as they were here.

Wishing you and yours a happy and prosperous New Year.

Signed on behalf of the school.

PERCY UDY.

Bridgenorth, Jan. 18th.

Mr. Sucee is to be congratulated on the high respect in which he is held in the community, as it will be remembered that this is the fourth time that he has been similarly treated in Bridgenorth. About thirteen years ago he received a pair of fur mitts; nine or ten years ago a beautiful 'coon coat, and two years ago a pair of polished birch chairs. Mr. Sucee is moving into Peterborough.

LINES

ON THE DEATH OF MRS. WILLIAM BOTHWELL, WHO DIED AT HER RESIDENCE IN CAVAN, ON DEC. 28TH, 1897, AGED 37 YEARS.

Mother, dear, thou hast left us,
Thy troubles and thy trials are o'er,
In heaven we hope at last to meet thee,
But on earth alas! no more.

Alone through life we now must wander,
Thy voice no more to hear,
Alas! our home is sad and lonely,
No mother's form now lingers near.

We would not call her back again,
For she is better far
From sin and sorrow she is safe
Within the gates ajar.

Restrain thy tears, dear children,
And learn this lesson still,—
That God who gives can take away,
Blest be His holy will.

Then dear friends, dry your tears,
Your burdens cast on God,
He but afflicts you for your good—
Now kiss the chastening rod.

This greatest trial is sent through love,
With meek submission say:
"Not ours, O Lord, Thy will be done,
Our mother take away."

—A FRIEND.

The Coming Literary Genius.

The question is whether the coming genius will be native to the east or to the west, says J. S. Tunison in The Atlantic. The case of Japan makes the student of literature and literary possibilities pause. Compare the situation of this empire with that of England in the time of the Tudor sovereigns. The likeness is noteworthy. All the influences of civilization from west and east are focused, so to speak, upon a political and social organism which is not only wonderfully receptive, but which also displays the capacity of reaction in its own original elements. Looking back at the history of genius and seeing how largely it belongs to the people as distinguished from what may somewhat irreverently be called the blooded stock of a nation, one feels like inquiring how deeply into the substrate of human life in Japan the alien influences have penetrated. When these reach the depths where folk tradition lurks and the popular imagination slumbers, then the world may well look for a reaction in which the nation will show all that it is capable of in literature.

Meanwhile observe, by way of presage, that two of the most striking literary phenomena of the present day are Rudyard Kipling, with his overlay of Hindooism on English human nature, and Lafcadio Hearn, with his varied experience, patiently inquisitive about everything Japanese. Finally, whether the successor of Dante and Goethe rises from Asia or from the west, all the light of the past shows that he will speak not the thoughts of a nation, but of a worldwide culture; that he will at last unite the divided thought of humanity and combine in one view two civilizations that have been in antagonism for thousands of years.

PROSPEROUS FACTORIES.

The Factory Inspector Thinks There Is a Revival of Trade.

Toronto, Jan. 23.—Mr. Robert Barber, Inspector of Factories under the Ontario Government, travels considerably and has every opportunity of viewing the industrial features of the province. He reports that there is an evident revival of trade, judged from the position of factories. Many factories which have been idle for some time are now working again and prices are much firmer. Those factories which have been in operation all along are also in a prosperous state. These things apply especially to those places where goods are made for home consumption.

ELECTRIC ENERGY FOR HAMILTON.

Works Now Building Near Decew Falls to Furnish 5,000 Horse Power.

Thorold, Ont., Jan. 23.—The south bank of the Twelve-Mile Creek, near Decew Falls, just west of Thorold, now presents a somewhat busy and stirring scene, for there is a gang of about 30 men, stone-cutters, masons and laborers busily employed in the construction of the new power-house being built for the Hamilton Cataract Power Company, to supply electrical power to the city of Hamilton. The building is to stand within a few feet of the edge of the stream, and above high water level, while the precipitous banks rise to a height of nearly 275 feet above the level of the stream. When completed the power-house will be 174 feet in length and 49 feet in width, and the walls 30 feet in height. It is to be constructed throughout of steel faced with brick, and having concrete floors, little or no wood being used in the building, so as to make it as nearly as possible fire-proof.

The ground for the site was broken and the foundation commenced on Tuesday, Jan 8, and already the foundations are laid. In this power-house, it is proposed to develop electricity to the extent of 5,000 horse power, all of which, it is stated, the company has already disposed of to manufacturers in Hamilton. The whole work will cost in the neighborhood of $600,000.

The Y.M.C.A. Convention.

Brantford, Jan. 23.—At the Y.M.C.A. convention yesterday morning Mr. Shanks of Kingston delivered an address on the "Ideal Meeting." He suggested that there should be good singing and lively, with brief addresses and punctuality in opening and closing. Mr. Penman of Paris took up the subject "The Ideal Provincial Committee." At the afternoon session addresses were made by Mr. T. Fraser on "Ideal Relationship;" Mr. Ober of Chicago, "The Science of Manipulation;" Rev. E. Harris, Toronto, "Bible Study." In the evening there was a service of singing.

Mutinous Sailors.

Baltimore, Md., Jan. 23.—The British steamer Ursula Bright, 30 days from Havre, arrived here yesterday. Thirteen members of her crew, charged with mutinous conduct, were taken aboard the police boat Lannan and conveyed to the office of the British Consul. Captain Whitson laid charges against them and to-day a naval court, consisting of two British ship masters and Consul Frazer, will try their cases. The crew were shipped at Sunderland, Eng.

Hon. E. J. Davis Not Vice-President.

Toronto, Jan. 23.—George Dunstan, manager of the Toronto Financial Corporation, denies that Hon. E. J. Davis is vice-president of the institution. In the reports of the corporation's failure sent out it was so stated, the mistake arising from the fact that Mr. Davis was vice-president in 1896, it having been overlooked that he resigned the position on becoming a member of the Ontario Government.

Nominated as Moderator.

Guelph, Jan. 23.—The Guelph Presbytery at its last session unanimously nominated Rev. Dr. Torrance, D.D., as the next Moderator of the General Assembly. The Presbytery of Paris has also nominated Dr. Torrance. The rev. gentleman is one of the pioneer ministers in Canada, and has been 52 years in the ministry, and for many years statistician of the General Assembly.

At St. Justine de Newton, Quebec, a few days ago some choir boys were playing in the sacristy of the church when several of them set upon one of the number, struck him on the head, pushed him into a box and shut him up. The boy took sick and died and the case is being investigated.

One Horse That Was Not Panic Stricken When His Master Went to Rescue Him.

The common belief that horses in a burning building are always panic stricken and refractory, not recognizing their friends and refusing obedience to those who would rescue them, is not strictly true, as is proved by an incident related by a Companion contributor.

The governor had a fine black driving horse called Dexter. Although strong and spirited, Dexter was docile and obedient and was petted and made much of by his master. As the governor kept no other horse, Dexter had the stable all to himself, with a clean stall and a full manger.

The stable was near the house, and in addition to Dexter's stall and harness room contained a large carriage room, an oat bin and a haymow over the stall.

One night, when the family and the servants were away from home and the governor was in the house alone, he was awakened by an ominous crackling and a bright glare on his chamber window, and before he could collect his sleepy wits he was startled by a cry unlike any sound he had ever heard. As he sprang out of bed the cry came again, and hastening to the window he learned the cause. The stable was all ablaze, and out of the smoke and flames Dexter was calling his master to his rescue.

Pausing only to don coat and slippers, the governor rushed out. The outside door of the stable leading into the stall was already blocked by the flames, and the only entrance to be had was through the carriage room, the harness room and a narrow entry leading past the oat bin. These rooms were on fire overhead, and burning wisps of hay and shingles were raining down in showers.

Blinded by smoke, the governor stumbled along the roundabout way and, reaching the stall sooner than he expected, fell headlong down the steps against the excited animal, who was vainly tugging at his halter. Thinking some new danger threatened him, Dexter gave a mighty kick that sent his master sprawling and lamed him for a month.

"Whoa, Dexter!" shouted the governor. "Don't you know me, sir? Steady now, old fellow, and we'll get out of this."

Recognizing his master's voice, Dexter turned his head toward the prostrate man and uttered a coaxing whinny quite unlike his previous loud cries of alarm. Knowing he need fear no more kicks, the governor crept up and cut the halter and, calling Dexter to follow him, limped blindly through the smoke filled entry and the two blazing rooms beyond, and close after him went Dexter, his nose pressed against his master's shoulder, man and horse reaching the safe outer air together.

"It was Dexter's obedience that saved him," said the governor. "I could not lead him, and had he shown the least obstinacy or any less readiness to follow at a word through all that roundabout, unaccustomed way I must have left him to perish in the flames, but he followed like a well trained soldier, and we escaped from our burning, fiery furnace almost as safely as Shadrach, Meshach and Abednego did from theirs."—Youth's Companion.

FERRYBOATS IN THE WAR.

A Veteran's Recollections of One He Saw at Fortress Monroe In 1861.

"It is curious," said a veteran soldier, "how some incident or circumstance may impart to a long familiar object to which we have never given any special thought a significance that makes it always thereafter an object of particular interest. The East river ferryboats impress me in that way now whenever I see one, and this was brought about simply by seeing one of them out of its accustomed waters amid strange scenes and put to strange uses.

"This was in the fall of 1861, in Hampton Roads. The regiment that I served in was aboard a transport there, waiting with other troops afloat there to go farther south under convoy of a fleet of war vessels. There was a great number of vessels there of all kinds, steamers and sailing vessels and warships, and they made an impressive show, but certainly the most striking of any one of them on its first appearance was an East river ferryboat, the Commodore Perry. I can see her at this minute as she looked then, moving across the waters of the Roads; she looked so utterly strange and curious there and amid such surroundings. But she went here and there with the most perfect confidence, constantly employed in transporting stores and troops and making herself quite as much at home there as she ever had been among the currents and eddies of the narrow East river.

"Other ferryboats were taken down there. A soldier friend of mine tells me that later, in the peninsular campaign, there was a New York ferryboat in those waters that was used as a gunboat, carrying two parrott guns, one at each end, mounted in the gangways, where the teams drive in and out. My own impression is that one or two of these boats went around Hatteras, into waters farther south; but, however that may be, I shall never forget the first time I saw the Commodore Perry at Fortress Monroe, and to this day I never go along South street without a feeling of the keenest personal interest for every ferryboat I see on the river."—New York Sun.

Stanley's Cat.

As the bonds of friendship are strengthened by a heavy affliction so does a prolonged sojourn in foreign places, amid strange scenes, turn the most common of everyday sights at home into luxuries. A magazine tells a story of Henry M. Stanley, who, after his return from Africa, was busily engaged in writing his story of the "Dark Continent."

He used to spread his reference maps upon the floor of his room, and on this particular day, after searching in his near neighborhood for a chart which he much needed, he spoke to his assistant, who presently descried it near the fireside, with Stanley's favorite cat upon it asleep.

He started to turn the intruder off, when the great man interrupted him, saying:

"Never mind; don't disturb the cat. I'll get along without the chart until the cat wakes up. If you only knew how good the sight of that domestic cat curled up in front of that bright English fire is to me, you would never chase her away."

The cat slumbered on, and not until she arose with a lazy yawn, scratching her front nails on the rug as she stretched, did the famous explorer reach for his map.

A woman who takes chances with her health is simply gambling with the Black Devil of Disease. If she has any weakness or derangement of the delicate organism of her sex, to rely upon an unskilled, inexperienced, general practitioner is to risk her health upon a gambler's hazard. Her only real safety is in the careful well-digested advice of a physician who has had wide, special experience in diseases of this particular class.

The chief consulting physician of the famous Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, of Buffalo, N. Y., Dr. R. V. Pierce, has devoted thirty years of special study and practice to the weaknesses and diseases peculiar to women. His grand medicine, the "Favorite Prescription," has done more to restore perfect health and strength to women than any other medicine. It is the only proprietary medicine devised for this purpose by an educated, skilled specialist in woman's peculiar ailments.

A woman writing to Dr. Pierce regarding herself may feel absolute assurance of receiving, free of charge, the best professional advice by means of which the most obstinate of these delicate troubles may be promptly relieved and permanently cured.

Barbra A. Mudd, of Indian Creek, Monroe Co., Mo., writes: "I am very thankful for what Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription did for me. I was all broke down from nervous prostration, but since taking this medicine I have had more relief than from all the doctors. Your 'Favorite Prescription' did me a world of good."

Always Felt Tired.

"I suffered with severe headache and loss of appetite and I always felt tired. I concluded to try Hood's Sarsaparilla and after taking one bottle my headache disappeared I continued taking it until now I am never troubled with headache and my appetite is good." LAURA GARLAND, 247 Claremont St., Toronto, Ont.

Hood's Pills act easily and promptly on the liver and bowels. Cure sick headache.

Asthma From Asparagus.

Among the curiosities of medical literature are the stories, many of them well authenticated, of the peculiar susceptibility of certain unfortunate individuals to certain odors and emanations. Among the substances which have been known to have produced attacks of spasmodic asthma are roses, musk, tea, ipecacuanha, the odor of a cat, fried fish, the dust of oats, malt, rice, feathers, wool and that caused in the demolition of old houses. Dr. Eugene Deschamps has added asparagus to this long list. He has published a full clinical report of a victualer over 40 years of age who suffers from severe spasmodic attacks of coughing whenever he attempts to prepare raw asparagus for the cook.—New York Herald.

Drew the Line.

"Couldn't take him at any price," said the agent who was buying horses for the use of the mounted police. "It is all right for a policeman to interfere whenever he sees fit, but it won't do for his horse."—Indianapolis Journal.

HIS HIGH PRICED EYE.

How a Clever Bunko Game Was Played on a Son of Sunny Italy.

A well planned scheme was worked on a down town Italian confectioner the other night whereby he lost $50. About 2 p. m. a man who had one good eye and one glass eye came wandering along the street and stopped at this Italian's fruit stand. He stooped over to look at some of the fruit, when unexpectedly his glass eye fell from its socket down among the bananas and oranges.

The pretending purchaser at once began a diligent search for the missing glass eye. With both hands he clawed into the fruit, scattering it in all directions. The Italian came forward and told the stranger to stop. The one eyed man explained that his glass eye had dropped down there and that he wanted to get it.

The Italian became enraged and told the stranger to come around in the evening and he could get the other eye. The man explained he was a stranger and would not be here in the evening, but if he (the Italian) found the eye he should bring it to his hotel, where $100 would be paid to him.

An hour later another man came along, pretended to make a purchase, and while fingering around in the fruit suddenly espied the wonderful glass eye. The man from Italy made a grab for it, but was too late, as his would be customer already had it. Both claimed the eye, and a quarrel ensued. The Italian patched matters up by giving the stranger $50 for the eye, thinking he would get $100 upon returning it and he would have $50 clear.

He went to the hotel with the eye to get the $100 that he was told awaited him there. He found that no such man had been there and no $100 was left there for him. He then saw how he was worked and notified the police.—Pittsburg Commercial-Gazette.

LADY HENRY SOMERSET AND THE W.C.T.U.

AN EXPLANATION CONCERNING THE RECENT DIFFICULTY.

Why a Movement is on Foot to Censure the World's Woman's Christian Temperance Union in Electing Her Ladyship to the Vice-Presidency.

In view of the recent resolution passed by the local branch of the W.C.T.U. in regard to the action taken at the World's Convention in electing Lady Henry Somerset to the high position of vice-president, the following letter from the Globe in reference to the matter will be read with interest:—

In my last letter from Toronto, when the World's Convention of the W. C. T. U. was over, I said that there was rumblings of a storm. The dissatisfaction is increasing, and now that there is an understanding of what Lady Somerset's views are, women are waking up and beginning to think and investigate for themselves. The matter in Toronto was held down with a hand of iron in a glove of velvet. Steps were deliberately taken, I am creditably informed to have it suppressed in the Dominion convention. Only for two women there would have been complete silence. Unfortunately I was absent in connection with some information required about the banquet, when the only resolution which might bring on an expression of feeling was "tabled." It read thus:

"Resolved, That we view the action of the president of the B. W. T. A. in suggesting any method whatever of state legislation of vice with most profound sorrow, the deeper on account of our warm appreciation of her services to the temperance cause and our love for her in Christ Jesus, but that we think her present views utterly irreconcilable with the platform of the W.C.T.U."

Mrs. Thornley, the president of Ontario, who always has the courage of her convictions, and Mrs. Dr. Youmans, fought hard to have this resolution carry. Mrs. Sanderson, the president of Quebec, it seems did much to table the resolution and so strong is the fascination of "our old tomorrow" generalship at headquarters of W.C.T. Unism this motion was lost by a large majority, with applause.

Previous to this before the world's convention met publicly, the executive of the world's W.C.T.U. had elected Lady Henry Somerset behind closed doors. The programme for the world's W.C.T.U. announced that the election of officers would take place on the last afternoon (Tuesday) of the session. The election of Lady Henry Somerset took place the previous Friday morning.

CANADA'S VOTES.

Perhaps some who do not understand this executive policy will like to know how many votes Canada is entitled to. There are two women on the world's executive. The author of "Beautiful Joe," Miss Saunders, of Nova Scotia, and Mrs. Sanderson, of Danville, Que. Miss Saunders was not at the convention, and Mrs. Sanderson was in the Dominion convention when Lady Somerset was being elected at headquarters of the Toronto W. C. T. U. That was the extent of Canada's voice at the world's meet on Friday before the first public assembly. On Saturday morning during her address as president, Miss Williard touched pathetically on her regard for Lady Henry Somerset. It seems that Miss Williard is indebted to her personally. She had been receiving a salary of two thousand dollars. In convention during her address she informed us that Lady Henry said to her: "Give up one thousand; come home to me and I will take care of you," or words to that effect. "Frances" replied tenderly: "I'll lean hard, Harriett." She leaned hard and that day said; "For what health I have now we are indebted to Lady Somerset."

It was thought that the strong resolutions expressed against legalised vice would influence her ladyship, but an English paper lately publishes this item (I gave it to a friend last evening and am not quite sure of the correct name—St. James Gazette, I think it is:

"Lady Henry Somerset wishes us to say that there was no stricture of censure passed on her at Toronto by Miss Williard in regard to the matter of the India army. On the contrary, Lady Henry was elected unanimously as vice-president of the world's W. C. T. U. Dr. Kate Bushnell, who was one of the missionaries sent to India by Mrs. Butler to investigate affairs with regard to the bondage of India's poor child widows, and others, makes this startling statement which I saw in her own handwriting: 'It cannot be too widely known that Lady Henry Somerset is not with the W.C.T.U. organization, either on the temperance question or the social purity question.' To any one who wishes to study up this position which the vice-president has taken with regard to legalised vice, I recommend 'The Queen's Daughters in India.' It costs 25 cents and can be ordered from the Wood-Allen Publishing Co., Ann Arbor, Michigan, U.S.

FOREMOST IN THE FIGHT.

It is most important that women should read this book. That women must be foremost in the battle against legalised vice is pressed upon us because of the use made of women's name in the House of Lords in England last spring. Lord Onslow held up a petition or memorial from women of the aristocracy—princesses, peeresses and others—120, I understand, in all—asking for a return to legalised vice in India. The name of Lady Henry Somerset was used as a supporter of the iniquitous system of the august assembly which has restored in India and "hopes to restore eventually in England."

The name of the vice-president of the World's W.C.T.U. was received with applause and approval. She is a distinguished lady of great influence, gifted, high born, active in every good work; we all esteem her highly, says one writer, and our opponents will not scruple to use her name as a supporter to their evil principles." In the debate on this subject before the House of Lords, Lord Kimberley said that the Lords must be glad, as he was himself, to see the change that had come over the country in regard to this question—the change in public opinion."

A few weeks after this debate Lord Roberts, the late commander-in-chief of the British army, the author of the circular sent through India asking for "young and attractive girls" for the use of the British Army, was placed by the British Woman's Temperance Association, of whom Lady Somerset is president, as a director on her home for inebriate women."

Only a solemn sense of duty makes me bring the women of the W.C.T.U. face to face with these facts.

Faithfully,
SALOMA.

Dr. Livingstone's Cough Pills Cure When Other Well-Known Remedies Fail.

"For the last three winters I have been subject to a most harrassing cough which kept me awake at nights and weakened me considerably. I have used two boxes of DR. LIVINGSTONE'S COUGH PILLS and I find them THE BEST COUGH REMEDY I have ever used. Last winter I used seven bottles of Cod Liver Oil and emulsions of Cod Liver Oil with Hypophosphites, besides other remedies. These strengthened the lungs to an extent, but did not relieve or improve the cough. This year I used two boxes of Dr. Livingstone's Cough Pills, which broke my cough at once and also strengthened the lungs and throat. I consider them SUPERIOR TO ANY OTHER COUGH REMEDY I have ever used and I can highly recommend them to anyone suffering from a cough or cold." Yours truly, Geo. H. POSTLETHWAITE, Lakefield, Ont. SPLITTING THE ACORNS IN TWO!

LIKE A BOMB-SHELL

Came the announcement a few days ago of the purchase by GOUGH BROS. of the Oak Hall Stock. Day and night, ever since, the thunder of Gough's Fusillade of Bargains has been both heard and felt all over the country. But yesterday, what were Bargains at Oak Hall, the lesser, did'nt GO. To-day they DO GO—at GOUGH'S GREATER OAK HALL—because they've GOT TO GO.

Was it Luck? Some people say we were lucky to make such a fortunate purchase But luck takes a back seat compared with the master-stroke of business acumen in cornering this Matchless $16 430 stock of Oak Hall's at a Fractional Rate on the Dollar of

On the Manufacturers Cost.

It was as natural as sunshine that the first week of our Triumphant Sale should bring a throng of buyers. But the campaign is only started and there's to be no Prorogation until the slate is cleared and every vestige sold. The nimble nickle has more charm for us than the slow shilling. THIS WEEK the Clothing Sensation of the Season is in full swing with all its potential momentum Just in the right time, too, when it is most needed to afford Peterborough's male population an opportunity to be warmly clothed for the winter at about Half Ruling Prices.

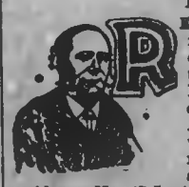
Dr. Talmage Marries Again.



Pittsburg, Jan. 24. REV. T. Dewitt Talmage, the noted divine of Washington, D.C., and Mrs. Elmore McCutcheon Collier, of Alleghany City, were united in marriage Saturday at the McCutcheon residence, No. 47 Irwin avenue.

The wedding, which came as a great surprise to the friends of the couple, was, on account of a recent death in the family, an extremely quiet affair.

Mrs. Talmage is 40 years old, while her husband celebrated his 66th birthday several months ago.

A School Board Deadlock.

Orillia, Jan. 24.—There is a deadlock in the School Board here and it is likely the Minister of Education will have to interfere. At the first meeting of the Board only four members were present, when the election of a chairman began. After the ballots had been collected Messrs. Cook and Williamson came in and were given ballots and voted, the vote resulting in a tie, Cook 3, Tudhope 3. Mr. Cook having the largest assessment, cast the deciding vote for himself, and Secretary Grant declared him elected. Then the defeated party protested that Cook and Williamson came in too late to be entitled to a vote. No business can be done till it is decided who is chairman.

French Chamber Littered With Torn Clothing.

THE PRESIDENT'S STATEMENT.

Deputies Complain That the Troops Were Called In—An Important Statement by Germany Respecting Kiao-Chou Bay—Rioting in Algiers—Gladstone's Serious Illness—Cable News.

Paris, Jan. 25.—The Chamber of Deputies was thronged yesterday. When the session opened at 2.10 p.m. M. de Beauregard protested against the treatment accorded the Chamber on Saturday, saying it recalled the coups d'etat of December, 1851, and of November, 1799. (Prolonged murmurs.) The deputy further complained of the intervention of the troops on Saturday. The President of the Chamber, M. Brisson, explained that those who were charged to clear the tribune met with resistance and thought it their duty to call out the guard. M. Jaures, the Socialist leader, requested permission to continue the discussion of Saturday. He criticised the Government's "incomplete prosecution" of Emile Zola, and asked what were the reasons for this state of affairs. M. Jaures protested against the alleged illegality and secrecy of the Dreyfus proceedings, and reproached the Government with pusillanimity. He also claimed that for the past 26 years the republic had been controlled by financiers, and accused the majority of desiring the "redelivery of the republic into the hands of the monarchy and clericals." Continuing, M. Jaures exclaimed: "But the Socialists are prepared to defend the true republic."

The Premier, M. Meline, refused to reply, "because," he said, "the Government has no right to constitute itself a court of justice."

The House, by a vote of 376 to 133, expressed confidence in the Government.

It is agreed on all sides that Saturday's scene in the Chamber of Deputies was almost without precedent, except the recent disturbances in the Austrian Reichsrath. Curiously enough, Count Badeni (former Austrian Premier) witnessed it. He must have felt quite at home. After the Chamber was cleared 125 torn-off neckties were picked up, together with many coats that had been torn by Deputies from each other's shoulders. M. Clovis Hugues, one of the Deputies for the Department of the Seine, had a door slammed on his fingers, which were so mutilated that he is now in the hands of a surgeon. The scene of fighting around the tribune was unparalleled.

RIOTING IN ALGIERS.

Europe's "Down With the Jews" Fight Transferred to North Africa.

Algiers, Jan. 25.—Further rioting occurred here at 9 o'clock yesterday morning, when it was learned that a Hebrew had stabbed a Spaniard. A mob gathered, attacked and looted the Hebrew stores. Governor-General Lepine personally intervened in order to induce the rioters to desist from further disorderly conduct.

During his efforts to restore order, the Governor-General narrowly escaped being struck by a chair which was thrown at him from a store. At the head of six Zouaves, with fixed bayonets, the Governor-General, preceded by military drummers, traversed the streets, appealing for quiet. He was followed by a mob of about 3,000 people, who shouted "Down with the Jews," "Resign," intermingled with a few cries of "Vive la Gouverneur-General."

The Governor-General finally retired to the winter palace, escorted by detachments of police and Zouaves.

This evening the town is in great turmoil. All the shops are closed and troops are picketed in all the squares. Several Jewish shops have been sacked, and the Chasseurs have several times dispersed the crowds.

200 Arrests Have Been Made.

Paris, Jan. 25.—A despatch received from Algiers late last night says that at eleven o'clock perfect tranquility prevailed there. The streets had been cleared and were held by the troops. Altogether 200 arrests have been made and one hundred persons are to be put on trial to day (Tuesday).

M. Jaures received a despatch from Algiers saying that the town was in flames and that a hundred Jews had been killed. He doubted the authenticity of the message, the signature of which was unknown to him, and the Government has had no information of anything so serious.

GERMANY WILL OPEN KIAO-CHOU.

Desires That Her Policy in China Should Be of a Liberal Character

Berlin, Jan. 25.—The following semi-official announcement was made yesterday: "The statements regarding Germany's intention to open the port of Kiao-Chou to the commerce of the world are practically correct. Germany's decree that its policy in China should be of a liberal character, not interfering with the commerce of other nations.

It Suits the Thunderer.

London, Jan. 25.—The Times editorially yesterday morning said: "We are glad to learn from various trustworthy and mutually independent sources that the rumors of Germany's intention to open Kiao-Chou to the world's commerce are well founded. If this decision is maintained, Kiao-Chou will probably become a great, busy and flourishing entrepot of the world's trade, a northern Hong-Kong.

"The wisdom of the decision cannot be doubted. It will tend to improve the unnecessarily strained relations between England and Germany. It is to be hoped that other nations will follow Germany's example, and that the far Eastern question may thereby be greatly simplified."

Lord Wm. Neville Arrested.

London, Jan. 25.—Lord William Neville, fourth son of the Marquis of Abergavenny, was arrested yesterday and taken to the Bow Street Police Court, charged with fraud in connection with the suit of "Sam" Lewis, a well-known money-lender, against Spencer Clay, an officer of the Guards, to recover £11,118 due on two promissory notes cashed for the prisoner.

Lord Neville left Paris on Saturday, so soon as he heard that a warrant had been issued for his arrest, and he surrendered to the authorities in the morning at the office of Sir George Lewis, the well-known lawyer. He will be prosecuted by the Treasury Department.

CANADIAN BUTTER IN ENGLAND.

This Country Is Seventh in the List of Exporters—More Than Half the Cheese.

London, Jan. 25.—(Telegram Cable.)—Canada is entitled to the honor of ranking seventh as a butter exporter to the British market. In 1895 the Dominion exported to England 20,887 cwts., and in 1897 109,402 cwts.

Canada since 1894 supplied 50.4 per cent. of the cheese imported by England, the percentage for 1897 being 58.6, or 1,636,654 cwts. The cheese is of excellent quality, securing almost three-fifths of England's entire trade.

MR. GLADSTONE'S CONDITION.

Pall Mall Gazette Maintains That the Grand Old Man Is Very Ill.

London, Jan. 25.—The Pall Mall Gazette yesterday afternoon said: "Our latest information in regard to Mr. Gladstone's condition is that it continues to be most grave. There has been no improvement since our announcement of Wednesday. We say this in spite of all statements to the contrary and with a full sense of our responsibility in doing so."

CUBA'S NEW CONDITIONS.

The Manifesto Issued by the Autonomists—Stability of Policy and Remedy of Evils.

Havana, Jan. 25.—The Official Gazette publishes the autonomical Government's manifesto. This declares that the Government confines itself to the task of preparing a new Government policy, with and for the people on conditions that will insure stability, and thus remedy radical public evils, autonomy being the settlement and reparation inaugurated by the fatherland.

"National honor and self-respect of a country loving its freedom," continues the manifesto, "are a sufficient guarantee that the new policy is a full recognition of the colony's personality. If errors ensue it will be only the colony's fault, for political and civil freedom has been fully organized, and the rights to regulate commercial treaties conferred, the only limits to autonomy being the sovereignty of Spain.

"The only trouble that could arise would come if the colony should violate the constitution or injure those interests that belong to the whole nation. To prevent such a possibility Spain retains control, in order to maintain in full the duly constituted Government as the protection for high national interests while apparently threatened."

The manifesto adds that autonomy excludes no one, but calls upon all to obey the laws.

SPAIN AND THE U. S.

Madrid Newspapers Say There Is Now No Excuse for Interference.

New York, Jan. 24.—A despatch to the Herald from Madrid says: The attacks in the House at Washington have produced a feeling here which, perhaps, is scarcely justified—pointing toward the fixed purpose of a certain section of American politicians to insist on war with Spain. The Government itself is disturbed, and the press is full of the subject.

The Imparcial says: "In proportion as the accounts from Cuba are favorable to Spain, they become less so from the United States. It would be difficult to believe that the United States proposes, in the face of the whole civilised world, the enormous responsibility of provoking war for which no reason exists. Why allege as the only motive for intervention the prolongation of a contest which is principally sustained by filibustering expeditions starting from North American ports, and maintained by hopes, fostered in Washington and New York, of an attack upon Spain? It is a cold-blooded mockery and affront to the general conscience."

The Correspondencia says: "We cannot imagine the majority of the people of the United States wish for war with Spain, seeing the great disturbances such a war would cause in the republic. We cannot think that the jingoes will prevail in their evil work. We believe that the Government of the United States will not commit this unjustifiable and thoughtless imprudence."

A Scare at Jacksonville.

Jacksonville, Fla., Jan. 24.—A special to the Times Union and Citizen from Key West says: There has been much excitement in this city during the last twenty-four hours, due to an alarming telegram from Havana stating that the streets had been placarded with an anonymous ultra-Spanish circular, calling upon all anti-American elements to mobilize and raid the American colony.

Captain-General Blanco, fearful that the rabid element of the city might attempt such violence, has placed an extra military guard around Consul-General Lee's residence.

POIRIER AND NULTY TRIALS.

Witnesses Examined Yesterday—Conversations Overheard—Detective McCaskill's Testimony.

St. Scholastique, Que., Jan. 25.—The court opened at eleven o'clock yesterday.

Xavier Groulx, turnkey of the prison, the first witness, stated that on the 26th of November last, in the afternoon, two days after the arrest of the two prisoners, he heard this conversation between them:

"Sam, do you hear me? What do you say? Tell him that I was not there, and it will be all right."

Three days after, on the 29th, I heard Cordelia crying out to Sam: "Father Pinault will come to-day and tell him that I was not there." On both occasions Sam gave no answer. The prisoner gave me a letter for Father Pinault at that time. Last Sunday Cordelia, speaking alone in her cell, said: "Cling, clang, cling, clang. They will make me a fool and I will get through." This witness was not cross-examined by the defence.

Melina Viau, sister of the prisoner, was put in the box. Her evidence was favorable to the defence. Several important discrepancies were pointed out between her deposition taken at the preliminary enquiry and the evidence which she gave on this occasion. Court adjourned till 2 o'clock.

Peter McCaskill, detective, was put on the stand at a quarter past two in the afternoon. He stated that on the 24th of November last he received a telegram from the Deputy Attorney-General asking him to go to St. Canute and make investigation of the murder. He stated in a few words how he proceeded to the arrest of Cardelia Viau and Sam Parslow. It was on the 25th of November, about two or three in the afternoon, and I told Cordelia Viau she was not obliged to speak, adding, "Everything you will say may be used against you." I gave her the same warning in French. After we had them arrested we came to St. Scholastique and the prisoner and I spoke of the murder. I told her to speak the truth. She then protested her innocence and the first admission she made was in the prison.

The witness was submitted to a severe cross-examination by Mr. Poirier on that part of his evidence and stated nothing new.

Then came a great fight on the question whether the admission made by the prisoner after her arrest may be accepted or not as proof. Mr. Des Maris, Q.C., counsel for Parslow, who is also assisting the defence in this case, objected to this proof. An interesting discussion ensued on this question, and as the debate will be long the Court adjourned at five o'clock.

Mr. Des Marias and Mr. Poirier will represent the defence on the question and Mr. Mathieu, the Crown Prosecutor, will be assisted by Mr. McKay.

During the afternoon session the prisoner was taken with a fainting fit and the Court suspended for half an hour.

Tom Nulty's Queer Actions.

Joliette, Que., Jan. 25.—In the Nulty murder trial the defence are working the insanity plea for all it's worth. Besides prisoner's father, his sisters and a neighbor all have had something to tell in the way of queer actions on the part of the murderer. Most of these peculiarities would appear commonplace to the lay mind, but to the expert on mental diseases they will probably have a different aspect. Very little was done yesterday owing to the snow blockade which kept witnesses away. The prisoner's mother was examined and corroborated her husband in regard to Tom's boyhood, also some strange doings in more recent years.

OUTRAGE ON A CANADIAN.

Buffalo Police Pounced Upon Him and Locked Him Up as a Tramp.

Buffalo, N.Y., Jan. 25. — Edward Knowles, 26 years old, a Canadian lawyer and a son of a prominent Presbyterian minister in Pembroke, Ont., spent last night in the police station here. Last night he visited a friend in this city and left the house about 10 o'clock. At 2 o'clock in the morning he was arrested and locked up, on the charge of being a tramp. On proving his identity in the Sunrise Court he was allowed his liberty.

Almost Distracted

Dreadful Suffering by a Newmarket Woman.

The Bones in the Nose Affected—Face Would Swell Until Her Eyes Were Closed—How Relieved.

NEWMARKET, ONT.—"I have had a good opportunity of noting the great medicinal powers of Hood's Sarsaparilla. My wife has been a sufferer from catarrh for the past four years, and the disease had gone so far that the bones of the nose had become affected and particles had come away through an opening in the left side. Her eyesight was also affected to the extent that for nearly a year she was unable to read for more than five minutes at a time. She suffered and at times was almost distracted. She was treated by four different doctors, one of whom was a specialist. They all said they could not do anything for her, as the disease had gone too far. Her nose would swell about every three days until her eyes would almost be closed. Then it would break through and the swelling would subside for a day or two. About Christmas she commenced taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, and since that time has steadily improved. She has not been troubled with any swelling since, and the sore on the side of the nose has all healed. She is on the road to a complete cure. I cannot speak too highly of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and I cheerfully recommend it to any person who is suffering with catarrh." W. H. FURSHER.

Severe Pains in the Head

N. B. If you decide to take Hood's Sarsaparilla, do not be induced to buy any substitute. Be sure to get Hood's.

MR. ROSS AT BARRIE.

The Government Record Stamped on the Country.

OPPOSITION CRY DISSECTED.

The Minister of Education Could Not Find Any Policy Upon Which the Opposition Could Expect to Rally the Electors—A Progressive Government and Its 26 Years' Work.

Toronto, Jan. 25.—The features of the campaign yesterday were the vigorous speech of the Minister of Education at Barrie; the nomination of Mr. S. Russell, editor of the Deseronto Tribune, as Liberal candidate for East Hastings, and the nomination of Mr. J. L. Buck of Port Rowan as Conservative candidate for South Norfolk.

MR. ROSS AT BARRIE.

The Government's Progressive Record Stamped on the Province.

Barrie, Jan. 25.—The first public utterance of the Minister of Education since the prorogation of the Legislature gave to the meeting here last night, to promote the candidature of Mr. David Davidson, more than a local interest. The new Grand Opera House, which is, by the way, one of the finest structures of its kind in Canada, was the place of meeting, and almost a thousand people were present.

Mr. Davidson, who spoke modestly but effectively, was received with enthusiasm. He reminded the people that he had been a Liberal all his life and that he had worked for his party in Simcoe thirty years ago. He said that he had gone into business in the Township of Sunnidale, and he did not think that anyone could find any dirty tracks there. For 27 years he had been in business in Penetanguishene and Tiny Township, and he had had business relations during that time with 2,000 men, with whom he had never had any dispute calling for the interposition of the court. By careful industry and hard work he had made his way. His interests were centred in Simcoe and he would do his best to represent the opinions of his constituents if they elected him in preference to a young lawyer who resided beyond the limits of the riding.

Hon. G. W. Ross.

Mr. Ross was received with an ovation when the chairman presented him to the audience. He began a powerful speech by congratulating the people of Barrie upon the possession of such an admirable assembling place as the Grand Opera House, the Young Liberal Club on the evidence of vitality which it had afforded, the Liberals of Simcoe upon the wisdom of the choice of their candidate, and he appealed to all men to vote for him. He gave many reasons why they should do so. The Minister said in part: We are entering upon a peculiar contest, a one-sided contest in some respects. I cannot find any distinctive policy upon which the Opposition expect to rally the electors. In the last Dominion election there were grave political issues before the country, upon which the parties could very easily divide. I cannot find just now any substantial political basis upon which any man can justify himself for voting for the Opposition. I speak of the Opposition not as Conservatives, but simply as the Opposition and nothing more. The Opposition have no distinctive policy, except upon one or two questions, and then it is not very distinctive. They attacked the Government over and over again very strongly on the platform and with very great timidity on the floor of the House. They remind me of the story of an American general during the Mexican war. He called in Capt. Bragg and said: "Captain, a crisis is upon us; get ready and fire at the enemy." The Captain called his Lieutenant and said: "Lieutenant, the General says a crisis is upon us, and we must fire at the enemy." The Lieutenant replied: "I don't see any enemy to fire at." "Then fire at the crisis," was the answer of the Captain. (Laughter.) That is what they are doing. They don't see anything in the Government to fire at. There is no particular action which we have performed in the last 25 years which they can condemn, so the word of command is given to fire at the Government miscellaneously, or, as Corporal Shaughnessy said at the battle of Waterloo, "Simultaneously, altogether and at once."

Opposition Cry Dissected.

Our record is before you. (Hear, hear.) We have been in power since 1871. If this Government had been a bad Government you surely would have found us out by this time, and although we have been in power so long the complaint is not that we have governed the country badly, but that we have governed it too long, and therefore they say, "It is time for a change." Is it possible that after having managed the affairs of the country well, as the Conservatives admit the Government have, anybody would be carried away by the cry, "It is time for a change?" Is there any sense in that cry? Is it liable to affect the judgment or will it have any influence on any man's vote? I think not. (Applause.) It is the cry of despair; it is the very antipodes of argument; it is a shirking of the position. With the notion of arousing hope for them they insist on saying, "It is time for a change," without giving you reasons for that change. I want to know why the government should be transferred from the present party. I want to know, looking at the great questions which we have to consider, what good reason Mr. Whitney and his colleagues have given for changing the stewards or trustees of this country.

"Made Me a New Woman."

A CASE THAT PROVED TOO DIFFICULT FOR THE PHYSICIANS YIELDS TO THE WONDROUS VIRTUES OF PAINE'S CELERY COMPOUND.

A Signal Victory for the King of Medicines.

Pains Banished, Eyesight Quite Restored and a New Life Begun.

WELLS & RICHARDSON CO.,

GENTLEMEN,—Ten years ago I was attacked with neuralgia, and though treated by six doctors the disease grew worse and nearly drove me insane. I was for one summer an outdoor patient at the hospital here but only got temporary relief.

I was sleepless for nights, my digestion was bad, and I would feel a pain in my stomach every time that I ate anything. Day after day I suffered the most intense agony, and I often wonder that I didn't go crazy. I took endless medicines given me by medical men, and getting worse I became utterly disheartened.

One day my deliverance came. A lady who had suffered just as I had told me that Paine's Celery Compound had cured her. I used the Compound as a last resort, and it simply made a new woman of me. The pain vanished; my eyesight, which was impaired, returned, and I felt myself growing well, and I never felt happier in my life. I am now well and strong and all my health and happiness are due to Paine's Celery Compound. I will always gratefully remember the medicine that cured me, and will speak a good word for it.

A DOPPEL-GANGER'S VISIT.

The Double of a Dead Boston Physician Pays a Visit to His Friend in the Flesh in Montreal.

Montreal, Jan. 26.—Dr. Brunelle is one of the leading French physicians of the city, and has had an experience that he will not forget for many a day to come. In the first place it should be related that the doctor is a particularly level-headed man, quite as free from belief in the supernatural as any of his confreres, and that is saying a great deal where French medical men are concerned. At an early hour Saturday evening, while Dr. Brunelle was sitting in his study reading a newspaper, he heard a sharp knock on the door leading to the hallway, and, thinking it was his little girl, he asked what she wanted. There came as a reply a second knock, louder than the first, and when the physician arose and opened the door he saw before him his old and intimate friend, Dr. Garceau of Boston. Dr. Brunelle's surprise, of course, was very great, and in extending him his hand of welcome he asked his friend how he got in without being heard. If, however, the Montreal doctor was surprised when he opened the door, he was still more astonished when his outstretched hand met nothing but space, and at once the form of the Boston gentleman disappeared. Dr. Brunelle returned to his library and sat for a short time lost in thought, only to be aroused by a telegraph messenger, who brought the following from a relative in Boston: "Dr. Garceau has just died."

A Millionaire Dead.

The death took place yesterday of Mr. W. J. Withall, vice-president of the Quebec Bank. He came here 19 years ago from Quebec, and leaves an estate of $1,000,000, to be divided between six nephews and two nieces. Mr. Withall was one of the best known bankers in the Province of Quebec.

To Be Sworn Feb. 2.

Hon. Judge Jette will be sworn in Lieutenant-Governor of the province on Feb. 2 next.

Diamond Dyes are the Only Safe and Pure Dye-Stuffs.

Our legislators have enacted stringent laws for the prevention of food adulteration, and as a result our people have been benefitted, and all classes of our population get value for their money.

It would be a boon to the women of Canada if the adulteration act applied to package dyes sold for home dyeing. Dyestuffs are now used in tens of thousands of homes, and too frequently valuable goods and materials are spoiled by the use of adulterated dyes that should be prohibited by law.

The Diamond Dyes for long years have given the most complete satisfaction. They are the only reliable, pure and fast dyes now before the public—the only package dyes that can stand the most crucial chemical tests.

Diamond Dyes are sold by all up-to-date druggists and dealers. If you meet a dealer who recommends some other make of dye, pause before you buy from him. Such a dealer is working only for big profits; he has no regard for your success and comfort.

Goderich, Ont., Jan. 25.—The second annual show of the Huron Poultry and Pet Stock Association opens here to-day. It will be a grand success, the number of entries reaching over 500. The directors are greatly pleased with the prospect, as the display will take rank as one of the finest at any of the shows this season, although the entries are confined to Huron county.

George Smythe Still Lives.

Fort Steele, B.C., Jan. 25.—George Smythe, who was reported dead after being brutally assaulted by four French-Canadian navvies, is still in the land of the living. He recovered from a death-like insensibility and is now on a fair way to recovery.

Enormous Increase in Our Foreign Trade Last Year.

REFUND OF DUTY TO BE ALLOWED

Some Recent Customs Decisions—What the Term "No Commercial Value" Means—Asking the Annulment of a Company's Charter—Brandonites Protest Against Placing a Duty on Binder Twine.

Ottawa, Jan. 25.—Trade and commerce seem to have received an enormous impetus by the change of Government, judging by the official figures of Canada's foreign trade for the calendar year 1897, which show an increase over 1896 of $52,115,000. The record for 1897 is unprecedented in the history of Canada. The total exports and imports entered for consumption reached the enormous total of $271,501,000, compared with $219,386,000 in the calendar year 1896, or an increase of over $52,000. The exports exceeded the imports by over $37,000,000. The total exports were $154,675,000, against $117,795,000 in 1896, an increase of nearly $37,000,000. The imports, including only those entered for consumption, were $116,826,000, compared with $101,591,000 in 1896, an increase of over $15,000. The duty collected in 1897 was $20,582,000, compared with $19,879,000 in 1896. These returns are not for the fiscal years, but for the calendar years ending December 31st.

A DUTY REFUND.

Africa, Europe and Central America Will Get It From Canada.

Ottawa, Jan. 25.—The Department of Customs has decided to allow a refund of duty paid on products from Liberia, Morocco, Spain, Salvador, Tonga and the South African Republic since the reciprocal preferential tariff took effect on the 23rd of April last. As, with the exception of Spain, Canada does not import much from these countries, the amount of refund will not be great.

The Department of Customs has decided that cards, portfolios, pasteboard boxes or other coverings containing cut samples of cloth, edging, textile fabrics, buttons of various patterns, and other articles, being representative of goods, and obviously intended for use only as samples to sell by, and having no commercial value, may be admitted free of duty. The term, "no commercial value" does not apply to portfolios or other coverings used in displaying samples, which were susceptible of being adapted to other use. Samples such as are carried by commercial travelers, together with the trunks and other "packages," containing them, are dutiable, excepting such as are of no commercial value, as hereinbefore mentioned.

S. H. Blake, Q.C., Toronto, and J. E. Greenshields, Montreal, are here to-day seeing the Minister of Justice with a view of getting the annulment of the Dominion Cold Storage Company charter. The company, which was incorporated with a capital of some $300,000, has become insolvent, and if the charter is annulled, the shareholders will not have any further liabilities. The contention of Messrs. Blake and Greenshields is that the company never should have got a charter, because they did not comply with the terms necessary to obtain one.

A. C. Fraser M.P.P., North Brandon, Charles Adams, M.P.P., Brandon, are here on their way to Montreal to interview the C.P.R. authorities in respect to freight rates. Brandon complains that it is being discriminated against, both east and west, by the C.P.R. When in the city Messrs. Fraser and Adams took advantage to enter a protest with the Government against the placing of a duty on binder twine.

Jubilee Gifts Not Coming.

Toronto, Jan. 25.—Canadians will not be able to look upon the Queen's Diamond Jubilee gifts. City Clerk Blevins received the announcement from Mr. Joseph Pope, Under-Secretary of State, who, in the course of his letter, said: "I am at the same time to acquaint you that the Secretary of State for the Colonies has received Her Majesty's commands to say that, much as Her Majesty would wish that as many of her subjects as possible should see the presents, this could only be arranged by sending them to all the colonies in succession, a course which Her Majesty regrets to be impossible."

DOOM OF DYSPEPSIA

Averted by the Use of Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets.

No man or woman has a right to transmit disease to his or her children. It is a crime to doom an innocent child to a lifetime of agony. But hundreds of thousands do so.

Take Dyspepsia, Indigestion or any Stomach Disease. The children of parents afflicted with them cannot escape. They are far more liable to be attacked by their parents' disorder than are the offspring of healthy parents.

The very worst case of Dyspepsia, Indigestion, etc., can be cured, absolutely and permanently, in a few weeks, by the use of Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets.

There is no need to doom your innocent children to the agonies of Dyspepsia, Indigestion, etc. It is easily and cheaply prevented. Take a couple of Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets after each meal. Thus you cure yourself, and ensure robust health (in so far as stomach diseases are concerned) to your children.

Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets have not failed in a single case of stomach trouble. They are the only medicine of which this can truthfully be said. Their action is pleasant, simple, quick; their effect is immediate, positive, lasting.

Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets, each box containing full double treatment, for stomach and bowels, are sold by all druggists, or will be sent on receipt of price, fifty cents a box, by the Dodd's Medicine Co., Limited, Toronto.

PETERBOROUGHS WIN THE FIRST SERIES.

THE BOYS PUT UP A STRONG GAME IN TORONTO.

The Wideness of the Rink Militated against their Chances of Scoring—They Kept the Torontos on the Hustle all the Time.

The Peterboroughs won out the series in the first draw of the O. H. A. last evening in Toronto, for although they were beaten by nine goals to seven, yet through having beaten the Torontos here by seventeen goals to seven the previous week they had an advantage of ten goals when the went on the ice last night. This advantage the T. A. C. team was unable to make up, and consequently Peterborough won the series and will now play the winner of the Osgoode-Varsity draw.

Quite a big crowd went up to Toronto with the boys expecting to see them beat the T. A. C. team on its own ice. The size and shape of the rink, however, puzzled the boys greatly, as the ice was almost as broad as it was long. This made shooting from the side an impossibility and it was not until nearly the close of the game that the Peterboroughs got on to the trick of shooting against the ends, so that the puck would rebound in front of the flags.

Combination play was not as prominent a feature of the Peterborough's work as usual, though what was seen of it was of the gilt-edge variety. The fact of the T. A. C. players following back so closely prevented the Peterboroughs playing a passing game to as great an extent as was expected, but they far outshone their opponents, however, in this particular.

The teams and officials were:

T A C		Peterborough
Dulmage	goal	Wasson
Young	point	Montgomery
Hardisty (Cap)	cover point	Hollingshead
Chadwick	forwards	Phelan
Gills		King
Wisner		Davidson
Birchall		Belleghem

Referee, E P Brown.
Goal judges, W A McKenzie, F Waldie and W Stocker.
Time-keepers, Messrs Kells and Crawford.

After Chadwick and Phelan faced off Dulmage had some fast shots to save from Davidson and Belleghem. Chadwick scooped the puck through the Peterborough stakes in 2 minutes, but the referee had called an off-side, so the game was "off." Belleghem did the same for the Peterboroughs on an off side, and nothing counted officially till Chadwick tallied in four minutes on a capital rush.

Hardisty went through the bunch to the Peterborough goal, but Hollingshead headed him off and lifted the puck to the Toronto end. Wasson cleared his posts from a lift of Hardisty, then Young broke from his position, transferred the rubber to Chadwick, and goal No. 2 went to T. A. C.'s credit in six minutes.

Again Young and Chadwick combined for a rush up the ice, but a mistake at the last moment spoiled the efficiency of their effort. Davidson tested Dulmage's skill in a manner that meant business, but the Rat Portage man came out of the trial with flying colours. Belleghem and King made a nice rush together, and King put through Peterborough's first goal in 4 minutes, leaving the score 2 to 1 in T.A.C.'s favour.

Phelan took but 30 seconds to tie the score at 2 all.

Things were going merrily, and in a minute and a half Chadwick scored two more for Toronto.

With the score 4 to 2 against them, the Peterboroughs set to work in earnest. Phelan, King and Belleghem made some great rushes. Chadwick and Hardisty chased the gypsum even to their opponents' goal, but good defence work saved the visiting men. King finally scored. Time, 15 minutes. As he did so Hardisty and Gill fell in a mix-up, the latter being forced out of the game for a few minutes. T.A.C, 4, Peterborough 3.

It was Dulmage all the way in the eighth game, but the T.A.C. finally cleared their goal and scored on a beautiful side shot in 10 minutes.

Up to half-time the ninth game had not been scored, so the players left the ice to talk it over.

After a rest and a rub down the puck-chasers made things fly at the first of the second half, but Belleghem pulled the string of the latch on the T.A.C. goal in three minutes. T.A.C., 5; Peterborough, 4.

Davidson again made the score a tie when he broke through for Peterboroughs fifth goal in four minutes.

Always in the lead after this by a goal or two, the T.A.C. fellows found it impossible to gain the desired ten goals, and though the play was fast, hops had fled, the game ending 9 to 7 in T.A.C.'s favour, though they lose the round by 8 goals.

A PRESENTATION

To the Retiring Leader of the Sons of England Band.

A presentation took place last evening in the Sons of England Hall, when Mr. J. C. Miller, who retired from the band leadership on January 15th last, was given a handsome leather gentleman's travelling companion by the members of the band.

An adjournment was then made to Mr. H. Long's restaurant, where an oyster supper was greatly enjoyed. Afterwards several hours were pleasantly whiled away with song and story.

Mayor Davis was in the chair and the other members present were:—Councillors W. H. White, Robertson, Denne, Hamilton, Dawson, Cobb, McWilliams, Langford and J. M. White.

On motion of Councillors Langford and W. H. White it was resolved that the town solicitor be requested to enquire into the matter of the G.T.R. siding and the Edison works and to report the town's position; also regarding the yards at Wolfe street, and the island lots used by the C.P.R. for cattle in the river, on which the C.P.R. Dickson spar crosses, and that he meet the committee in regard to these matters.

Councillors Dawson and McWilliams moved that the clerk be instructed to frame a bylaw preparing for the adoption of the assessment of last fall for 1898; and making the taxes for 1898 payable one-half on July 1st and balance on Nov. 15th. The The resolution was carried.

Moved by Councillors J. M. White and Hamilton, that the Fire, Water and Light Committee be authorized to buy the usual supply of oats—Carried.

Moved by Councillors Dawson and W. H. White that the Street and Bridge Committee purchase a number of cords of stone from parties who wish to pay their taxes in this way, and cannot do so otherwise, at the regular rate—Carried.

Moved by Councillors Dawson and Denne, that the Street and Bridge Committee be authorized to buy a roller for cutting the ice on the sidewalks—Carried.

A communication was received from Mrs. H. Drake, applying for remission of taxes for 1897. On motion of Councillors McWilliams and Dawson, the matter was referred to the Court of Revision.

The council was greatly interested in the presence of Mr. Starr, of Cornwall, representing a wealthy corporation which is desirous of acquiring the Peterborough Street Railway and operating it in connection with electric lines to Lakefield and Chemong over the G. T. R. tracks. In the event of the company securing the franchise required, a line of large steamers would be placed on the back lakes to ply between Lakefield, Chemong and Bobcaygeon in connection with the electric lines. The company thinks that a capital of $350,000 would be necessary to put the scheme in operation and last night, through their representative, asked if the town would guarantee the interest on $150,000 of their bonds at 5 per cent. per annum.

After considerable favourable discussion the matter was referred to the Manufacturers' Committee, to report to the council.

HOCKEY.

Word has been received from Millbrook that the ice there is not fit to play on and therefore the match between the club from that town and Peterborough II, will be played off here to-morrow night. As Millbrook has a heavy, fast team the game will be most exciting, and the citizens will have an opportunity of witnessing the pretty combination which Peterborough's second team has developed.

CURLIANA.

The local curlers who expected to play in Hamilton to-day were disappointed, as a telegram was received stating there was no ice. Matches have been arranged with Toronto clubs instead.

Peterborough sent up six rinks to play the Torontos for the Boucher-Davidson medal, which is now held by the Torontos. The game is an annual one, one-half being played in Toronto and the other in Peterborough. As a result of last night's play the Peterboroughs were three up. The game will be resumed to-night, when three more rinks from each club will play. Score:

COUNTY COUNCILLOR PECK

ELECTED BY ACCLAMATION FOR OTONABEE DIVISION.

The Bye-election Held Yesterday at Keene—Mr. Peck the Only Candidate Nominated — Declared Elected by Acclamation.

At the nomination proceedings at Keene yesterday to nominate a candidate to fill the vacancy in the County Council Division of Otonabee, caused by the death of Mr. John Burnham, Q. C., there were about forty persons present. Mr. J. M. Drummond, Nominating Officer, presided.

Mr. E. A. Peck, barrister, Ashburnham, was nominated by Mr. H. T. Strickland and seconded by Mr. T. Blezard, M. P. P. There being no other nominations, Mr. Peck was declared elected County Councillor for No. 1 Division in the County Council for the unexpired term and took his seat at the meeting of the council this afternoon.

Otonabee did a graceful act in refraining from opposing Mr. Peck's election for the unexpired term of Mr. Burnham, with whom Mr. Peck was very intimately associated. Mr. Peck will make a good representative for he has the ability and doubtless he will efficiently serve the division in the county council, and the EXAMINER cordially congratulates him upon the honour he has received in the form of an unopposed election and believes that he will do credit to the position.

NORTH MONAGHAN MAKES ONE MORE

MAGNIFICENT MEETING FOR MR. STRATTON.

One of the Best Political Meetings Ever Held in the Township—A Large Attendance of Representative Electors—Addresses by Mr. Stone and Mr. Stratton—Enthusiastic Reception of the Liberal Candidate.

The most encouraging and most representative meeting of the electors ever held in North Monaghan assembled in the Town Hall last night. There was an unusually large attendance of the electors, the addresses were heartily received and the reception of Mr. Stratton was exceedingly encouraging.

Mr. T. M. Hunter was appointed chairman, and briefly announced the object of the meeting.

Mr. Stone was the first speaker, and began by saying that Mr. Stratton could show good reason why he should have a renewal of confidence. The only grounds upon which the Government was opposed so far as he could learn, were their timber policy, the piggery question and the old cry that it is time for a change. Neither Mr. Garvin nor his supporters had any right to denounce in this campaign the alleged extravagance of the Government's management of our finances. Mr. Whitney and his party had had the opportunity on the floor of the House to make good such charges, but as they had not availed themselves of the chance they should not now be bringing it before the people. Reference was made to the charge in regard to the Government's management of our timber resources, and it was shown that good value had been received for every foot of timber sold. The piggery issue was touched upon, and it was shown that if a diseased hog was sold from the Humber piggery it was done under the supervision of the Dominion Government officials, and they, and not the Government, were to blame, if there was any blame, which could not be shown. The other cry was, "It's time for a change," but unless there was good reason urged for a change. Why should we change a Government that had given us the best government any country ever had? The speaker charged that the Opposition were after office for the sake of office, for there was no principle at stake, beyond the desire for a change for change's sake, and for the spoils of office. If there was no reason why the government should be changed the speaker asked was there any reason why Mr. Stratton should be changed for Mr. Garvin—a man who was a decent fellow as a man, but had no claim to be a representative. Mr. Stratton had grown up with the town, had succeeded in business there, he had been a good employer of labour and has used his time and money, with willingness to build up the town, and every advance made by the town was in the best interests of the farmers, who had the advantage of a better market. Besides Mr. Stone pointed out that the Government had done much for the farmers. He also specified a piece of legislation that was in the interests of the poorer electors, and that was the abolition of the judgment summons system, which practically meant the abolition of that relic of mediæval tyranny, imprisonment for debt, a measure which Mr. Stratton supported and which should secure for him the hearty support of the elector of moderate means. Besides, Mr. Stratton had advanced rapidly in political life and had taken a prominent part in the deliberations of the Legislature Assembly, in Toronto, was recognized as one of the prominent debaters of the House and one of the most effective workers on committees, and was marked as a in which capacity he could be able to give the riding even better service than he had done in his capacity as a private representative.

THAT DID NOT APPLY

In illustration of the qualities desirable in a representative Mr. Stone then quoted an editorial article from the Review of December 11th, in reference to the municipal elections, which called attention to "The important necessity of keeping the town to the front with the outside public, so as to secure new industries. * * * These require the attention of the town's best men and not men of small views and limited business experience. * * * The men who are wanted in the town council are those who have been successful in their own business or avocation—men who have a stake in the town and its development. * * * The man with a stake in the town should see his duty if called upon by his fellow citizens to enter the town council and should look at the town's interests as his own, for he is a man with investments, hence his own success is measured by that of the town. Then let an effort be made to get good men into next year's council. Let the citizens interest themselves in this matter and seek for men of the right stamp."

And, Mr. Stone added, the citizens did interest themselves and sought and elected men of the right stamp and they didn't have to go to Simcoe county for candidates either. If the Review had tried deliberately to write more strongly in favour of the people's candidate, Mr. Stratton, it could not have done so. Its article, as quoted above, found its answer in the Liberal candidate. He was of the people of the riding. He knew the people of the riding; he knew the needs of the riding, and he had shown his willingness as well as his ability to look after those needs. He had large material interests in West Peterborough, its prosperity meant his own prosperity, and he would, as in the past, work successfully to advance the interests of the constituency of West Peterborough. Apart from the merits of the government now in power, was there any difficulty in the people making a selection between the two candidates? He (Mr. Stone) did not think there was, and he closed an excellent address by urging the electors to roll up such a majority for Mr. Stratton as would express their appreciation of his services and also show the government that Mr. Stratton's services were heartily appreciated. (Applause.)

After expressing his gratitude at the large attendance of the electors, the largest of the kind ever assembled in North Monaghan, Mr. Stratton said that he must apologize to his auditors for being compelled to refer to the misstatements of his opponents, something he had had to do all through this campaign, which seemed to be conducted on a policy of misrepresentation, and finally a personal attack by Mr. J. Hampden Burnham For instance at Lakefield Mr. Burnham stated in effect that Mr. Stratton had "chosen abuse of Mr. Garvin as the front line of his campaign," and put words into his mouth that he (Mr. Stratton) never used. The latter denied that he had dealt in personalities. He made no personal references to Mr. Garvin but such as were warranted by his relations as an individual to the electors. The personal references he made to Mr. Garvin were perfectly legitimate, in order to show that if Mr. Garvin aspired to be representative of West Peterborough, and a Minister of Education,

HIS CLAIMS WERE WEAKENED

by the fact that he had not been able to satisfactorily fill the position of school inspector, according to the opinions of the Conservative school board. A candidate's personal qualification for the position he sought were legitimate subjects of discussion and thus, and thus only, had he dealt with Mr. Garvin. Mr. Burnham, at Lakefield, accused Mr. Stratton of calling Mr. Garvin a "pigmy" and of referring to him as a trickster who had got the Conservative nomination by a "trick." No such words as "pigmy" and "trickster" were used. Mr. Burnham said he knew that "ten days before the convention Mr. Garvin did not expect the nomination." A great deal of secret history was crowded into those ten days. One gentleman in town could tell a moving story of his hopes of being a candidate and of the means taken to knife him—and who did the knifing? Mr. Burnham, who contemptuously refused to accept the vice-presidency of the Conservative Association, would not like to have made public his emphatic private opinion of the candidate he is now holding up as prodigy of wisdom and greatness. He (Mr. Stratton) had no need to deal in personal abuse of Mr. Garvin. The latter's own friends, at the last nomination meeting, convened in a secret society hall, where only one or two farmers were present, expressed their opinions plainly. Mr. Adam Dawson, a stalwart straight Conservative, a man of his word, when it came to the ballot between the two candidates named, of whom Mr. Garvin was one, asked:—"Is it the understanding that we be confined to the two gentlemen named? If it is I'm not going to vote for either of them," and another gentleman, Captain Carson, at the same convention, asked "if these nominations were final, if it was a farce and a nomination for fun?" When the very men who made the nomination of Mr. Garvin talked liked this, was it improper for him (Mr. Stratton) to speak of Mr. Garvin's qualifications? Was it improper for him to ask who Mr. Garvin was heard from all parts of the riding, and by hundreds of people in town when they first heard of his nomination? Mr. Stratton went on to point out that there were in the Conservative ranks many men who were well known in the county, who had a stake in the riding and who had some idea of its needs. Why had they declined to accept nomination, and why had they brought about the necessity of bringing a candidate from Simcoe County? Mr. Garvin did not seem to be fortunate in the discretion exercised by his supporters. At Lakefield Mr. Poussette drew the long bow with a vengeance. He said, as reported in the Review, that "he had no hesitation in saying that since the days of Mr. W. H. Scott they never had as able a man as Mr. Garvin." Do these gentlemen know what they are saying? Don't the electors know that they are talking rubbish. What about Mr. Carnegie? Whatever difference of opinion we might have about Mr. Carnegie's views on political matters, no one could think that Mr. Carnegie would think the comparison complimentary. If Mr. Carnegie and Mr. Garvin were the only two candidates in West Peterborough, which would the electors vote for? It wouldn't take them long to decide. Mr. Stratton asked if he could be more offensively personal if he made the same comparison as Mr. Poussette had done. Talk out personal abuse. Mr. Burnham in talking about personalities wouldn't like, perhaps, to have made public he paid Mr. Garvin the morning after the nomination. At the convention Mr. Garvin had been lauded as a "horse to work," but that wasn't the kind of a quadruped Mr. Burnham called him, and the adjective used in connection was hardly a benediction.

Mr. Stratton referred to the broad-cast charges of corrupt and extravagant expenditure brought against the Government by Mr. Whitney and his friends on the stump, while they had not made a single attempt to make good their charges, in the Legislative Assembly, though Hon. Mr. Hardy had offered Mr. Whitney any committee he might name to assist him to prove his charges, but he would not take advantage of it, and it ill became Mr. Whitney's supporters in this riding to go through the country repeating these misty charges, without any more proof on the stump than they had made in the House. After all, the question, was not so much, How much money was spent, but how it was spent, and Mr. Stratton went into detail to show how the people had benefitted by the expenditures conducted under the management of the Government in the matter of education, the maintenance of public institutions, etc., etc. In these services the

and in these services the Government had increased the expenditure, but they had done it in the public interest. Mr. Stratton also briefly dealt with the charge that the public accounts were not fully kept. He showed in detail how the various items of expenditure were dealt with by the committee, and how though it was impracticable to publish itemised accounts in the reports, yet all the invoices could be moved for and brought before the committee. There was a complete check on all accounts and the Public Accounts Committee afforded ample opportunity for checking the minutest item of expenditure. In regard to the work of the committee the speaker read an eulogy of Mr. Matheson the financial critic of the Opposition, passed upon the chairman of the Public Accounts Committee. The speaker went on to recite the expenditure that had been made upon the principal services that meant a return of their money to the people by the Government, and he showed in detail that moneys to the amount of $752,000 had been paid to Peterborough for various services within the past twenty-five years. He indicated how closely the Government had looked after the interests of the farmers of the country and how they were willing to do more for the farmers when the counties were ready to meet the Government half way. In aid of the erection of county houses of refuge the Government had already paid out $60,000 and there was $4,000 in Toronto waiting the county of Peterborough. (Cheers.)

Mr. Stratton submitted that the Government was justified in making these expenditures and justified in making what increases had been made, and he stated that in regard to himself he did not want them to vote for him unless he could defend himself. He did not want them to vote for the Government unless he could defend the Government. He pointed out that with all the expenditures named and the increases named there there were surplus assets upon which on its investments, while the Government of other Provinces were compelled to pay interest on their debts.

In regard to the charge made by Mr. Garvin that the government had wasted the timber resources of the country, Mr. Stratton stated that the total receipts for Crown Lands timber, dues, etc., had been $21,905,000. From this was to be deducted $2,483,317, the cost of fire raging and inspection in all these years; $750,000 for departmental expenses in connection with woods and forests, and $2,967,994 for colonization roads, and we had a surplus of $15,124,000. Where had that surplus gone? It had gone to develop the resources of the country, to open ways of communication, and to equip the province with necessary public buildings, the best of any country in the world. In aid to railways $6,500,000 was expended. In public works and buildings $8,500,000. Parliament buildings $1,350,000, or a total for these of $16,300,000. That was the way the receipts for Crown Lands was "wasted." The money was not spent—it was simply reinvested. Suppose the timber had not been cut, we should not have had it all now. Forest fires and natural decay, which always follows on maturity of timber as well as men, would have sadly reduced its value. Our timber had been converted into useful and permanent buildings of brick and stone; in other words it had been petrified into imperishable forms, and into forms that, with care, would practically last forever.

In reference to the claim made that the Opposition forced the Government to take the action decided upon last session in regard to having all logs on Crown Lands manufactured into lumber in the province, Mr. Stratton explained that neither the Opposition nor the Government deserved any special credit for the legislation. In consequence of legislation in the United States in imposing high duties on timber, combined with the threat of doubling that duty in case Canada imposed an export duty, public opinion became aroused. In sympathy with public opinion, the Opposition took the chance to sail with the wind, and the Government in deference to public opinion enacted, the the legislation requiring the cutting of logs in Canada. It was, however, an embodiment in statute of the Government's policy. In 1890 the manufacturing conditions was attached to the first sale made after Mr. Hardy became Commissioner of Crown Lands, and at the first and only sale made since Mr. Hardy became Premier, in all leases, that the logs cut under them must be manufactured in Canada. It was asserted that our timber was about gone, and that, therefore, we were face to face with the bogie of direct taxation. Therefore, Mr. Stratton went on to mention in detail the great extent of our timber sources, not only in the old and surveyed regions, but in the far north, and he showed that according to the rate at which the timber had been out there was enough to last for seventy-five or one hundred years at a moderate estimate. What then became of the charge that when our principal source of income was good for a hundred years, we were in any danger of direct taxation, not to speak of other large sources of revenue that were permanent?

THE CLAUSE WAS INSERTED

After dealing with the Engledue mining matter, and the school book question to the satisfaction of the audience, Mr. Stratton closed with an appeal to the electors for a renewal of their confidence. In doing so he referred to the fact that, while the Opposition dealt in vague general charges against the Government, they do not point out to anything he himself had done wrong in the twelve years he had represented the riding. In no respect, he said, could they say, that he had not done his best. (Applause.)

In reply to a vote of thanks the chairman, Mr. Hunter, referred to the old proverb about "catching a Scotchman when he was young," and he said the riding had done a good thing when they had caught Mr. Stratton young, for he had developed into a public man whose abilities were recognised both at home and abroad and any constituency would not only be doing itself an honour but would serve its best interests by electing him as its representative. (Cheers.)

The meeting closed with hearty cheers for the Queen and Mr. Stratton.

Mr. Stratton's address was frequently interrupted by applause and the whole tone of the meeting was highly complimentary to his candidature.

BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS

Mrs. Thos. McCann, Mooresville, Ont., writes: "I was troubled with biliousness, headache, and lost appetite. I could not rest at night, and was very weak, but after using three bottles of B.B.B. my appetite has returned, and I am better than I have been for years. I would not be without Burdock Blood Bitters. It is such a safe and good remedy that I am giving it to my children."

MEN MAKERS.

Ireland and Holland Have Most Women Engaged In This Work.

Though Ireland today holds the first place, so far as America is concerned, in regard to linens, Holland occupied that position everywhere in the past and holds it today in many parts of Europe. The very word Holland is employed to designate a fine linen cloth or a linen and cotton cloth and has been used for this purpose from time immemorial. It is both glazed and unglazed and used for wearing and household decoration. Flax grows well in that part of Europe, and the sunlight is said to be brighter and to have more power in bleaching in the Low Countries than elsewhere. The linen industry is carried on in Holland more by women than by men. In the fields there are almost as many female as male cultivators. In the harvesting there is an excess of women.

In the many processes, such as liming, hackling and spinning, the women outnumbered the men three to one. In the mills the women are in the majority. The men preponderate when it comes to the making of damasks and fancy designs. For at least four centuries it has been an honored custom in the Netherlands for young women to begin making their marriage portion in linen when mere girls. Some go so far as to start with the sowing of the seed; others begin with the spinning, while those better off buy the finished cloth. All do the cutting and sewing. A wedding outfit consists of petticoats, nightgowns and other underwear, several suits for summer wear, sheets, pillow cases, bolster cases, pillow shams, shirts for the husband to be and a number of rolls of the uncut material for future emergency or use. Nearly every girl of marriageable age has a stock of these goods ranging from a trunkful to three or four times that amount. — Philadelphia Press.

Parliamentary Humor.

The London World gives this as an illustration of the keen humor of Justice Darling: On one occasion, when Mr. Gladstone was beginning to give up the lead in the house of commons to Sir William Harcourt, it was noticed by the members that he left the house at the dinner hour and Sir William Harcourt led for the rest of the sitting. Mr. Darling one evening drove Sir William to fury, on failing to elicit a definite answer to an inquiry, by casually observing in the course of his speech, "I have noticed that lately the party opposite, adopting an ancient precedent, has set up a greater light to rule the day and a lesser light to rule the night."

He Passed Out.

"I won't submit to being turned away," said the disappointed arrival at the hotel. "See here—I'm flush!" And he displayed a roll of bills.

"I know," responded the clerk, "but I've got a full house."—Philadelphia North American.

JOHN KEATS.

A Poet's Gentle Life That Was Terminated All Too Soon.

In the days of Keats, Hampstead and Highgate were still capable of having an individuality of their own and of teeming with interesting associations. Part of their celebrity arises from those associations thus formed. Leigh Hunt, visiting those scenes before his death, would point to the wooden seat where he and Keats or he and Shelley sat when such a poem was recited or to the path through the fields where Coleridge took leave of him and Charles Lamb, who would stutter some witticism at parting.

John Keats was born in Moorsfield, London, 1795, and at the age of 15 was left an orphan, when he entered upon a five years' apprenticeship in a surgeon apothecary shop at Edmonton. From his youth he showed a passion for music and poetry and spent all his leisure moments in poring over books. After reading "The Faerie Queene" he would talk of nothing but Spenser. He learned whole passages by heart, which he would repeat and dwell upon with ecstasies of delight. His first poetical composition, written at the age of 17, was entitled "In Imitation of Spenser." From that time it seemed that Keats lived only to read poetry and to write it. He luxuriated in the thoughts of poets, talked about them and read them to his friends.

Before Keats' apprenticeship was over it was evident that he would not persevere in becoming a surgeon. At 20 he entered a hospital as a student, but soon gave it up and found more congenial society with Leigh Hunt, Shelley, Goodwin, Haydon and others. Keats signalized his accession to this literary group by publishing in 1817 a small volume of poems. Hunt describes him at this time as being under medium height, with shoulders very broad for his size. His face, strongly cut, yet delicately mobile, denoted determination and sensitiveness. His entire expression was of eager power, and he plainly showed his emotions. Wordsworth alone he seemed to look upon as a sublimity among contemporary poets.

In 1817 he left London to lead a quiet, thoughtful and busy life on the isle of Wight, returning a year later with four books of his "Endymion" completed. In 1820 he was seized with the fatal malady, the knowledge of which had been his fearful secret for some years. After a few months, during which he seemed partly to fight with death as one to whom life was precious and partly to long to die as one who had nothing to live for, he was taken to Italy and there breathed his last at Rome, February, 1821, at the age of 25.

He had wished for "ten years of poetic life," but not half that term had been allowed him. Crowded into his short life was much of interest with his ambitions, his high ideals and his talents, and had he lived the ordinary age of man many think that he would have been one of the greatest poets.—Exchange.

Women are not the only ones who are sensitive about their ages. A man doesn't like to be told that he is getting old. Health keeps a man young. It doesn't make any differences if he has lived eighty years. If they have been healthy years he will be hale and hearty and won't look within twenty years as old as he is. Good digestion and rich red blood make people look youthful. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery make rich, red blood. It makes health in the right way. It works according to the right theory, and in 30 years of practice it has proved that the theory is absolutely correct. It begins at the beginning — begins by putting the stomach, liver and bowels into perfect order, but it begins its good work on the blood before it finishes with the digestive organs. It searches out disease germs wherever they may be and forces them out of the body. All druggists keep the "Discovery."

Rugs and Moving.

A certain man who owns a row of dwelling houses over in the northwest quarter of the town has learned wisdom by bitter experience. A friend of mine went to him not long ago to rent one of the houses.

"Do you lease it by the month or by the year?" she inquired.

"That depends on what you are going to have on your floors," answered the landlord. "Are you going to have carpets?"

"No," answered my friend; "we have rugs."

"You'll have to sign a year's lease then," the landlord made reply, smiling craftily. "If you bought carpets and had them fitted to the floors, I know you'd stay in the house as long as you could, but these rugs are too easily adjusted to any sized room. You'll have to sign a year's lease if you have rugs. There are seven houses in my row, and six of them haven't kept a tenant longer than two years at a time for the last five years. The seventh house—well, the people in it had carpets made and laid for it five years ago, and they haven't thought of moving. Carpets, I'll rent by the month; rugs, a year's lease."—Washington Post.

A Sure Cure For Consumption.

There is no such thing. Scott's Emulsion comes the nearest to it, but even that will not cure advanced cases, but taken in time it will cure this disease.

Napoleon's Loss.

It is said that but for an attack of indigestion, brought on by over eating, Napoleon would have won Waterloo. Great heroes depend on good digestion—good digestion depends upon Burdock Blood Bitters. "Two years ago my wife was very ill with dyspepsia. Six bottles of B.B.B. cured her, and she has no return of the malady." Wm. Day, Fort William, Ont.

Dairying in Ontario.

Toronto, Jan. 19.—Dairying as a most profitable branch of agriculture is being more and more recognized by the farmers of Ontario, according to the figures received yesterday by the Department of Agriculture from the provincial dairy schools at Kingston and Guelph. The attendance at each is the largest since their establishment. On Saturday last there were 125 students at the Ontario Agricultural College dairy school, Guelph —50 for a two weeks' and 75 for the long course of three months; while at Kingston 122 applications had been received and 53 students already registered, an advance of 50 per cent. over last year. That will mean 150 students before the term is closed. The long course in cheese-making, beginning Jan. 27th, is already over-crowded and applications are being refused. There are in the cheese department alone of the three months' course 59 students. During the past year the Ontario Government has added to the building at Kingston and greatly improved the equipment. This, doubtless, has had some effect in attracting students to that institution. It is most gratifying to see such an increased attendance at both Guelph and Kingston, and that the good work done at each of these institutions is meeting with the hearty approval of the dairymen of Ontario, both in the East and in the West. This increasing interest in the practical education of our young agriculturists is a most hopeful and encouraging sign of the times.

Throat lined with Ulcers

A Young Lady Cured of Long Standing Catarrh and Catarrhal Sore Throat by Dr. Chase's Catarrh Cure.

Miss Anna A. Howey, of Eden, Ont., says that she suffered from Catarrh for ten years, used a number of remedies advertised, but was always disappointed in the result.

Last fall she suffered intense pain in her head and her throat was lined with ulcers. The doctors called it Catarrhal Sore Throat, but did not cure it. She saw that Dr. Chase's Catarrh Cure was being highly recommended, so procured a box from C. Thomson, druggist, Tilsonburg, Ont., and commenced its use. Soon the ulcers cleared away from her throat, the pain in her head ceased. She says that Dr. Chase's Catarrh Cure does not cause distress or sneezing when being used, and is the most effective catarrh remedy she ever tried.

Mr. J. D. Phillips, a Justice of the Peace, declares that he knows Miss Howey and her mother, and can vouch for the truthfulness of her statements.

Dr. Chase's Catarrh Cure, sold by all Dealers. Price 25c cents, complete with blower.

EPISODE OF THE LATE WAR.

Last Night of a Southern Soldier on the Battlefield.

"Don't leave me, captain! Oh, don't leave me!" were the words that came to me with an agonized shriek from a bleeding and dying Confederate soldier on the evening of the great battle of Malvern Hill, July 1, 1862. He, a mere youth of 17 years, lay in a heap, gasping for the breath which was fast leaving him, along with the rays of sunlight, on that sad and memorable day. I, for whom that piteous cry was meant, was a staff officer of the brigade to which the Louisiana regiment, the soldier boy's regiment, was attached.

Well mounted, I was galloping back across that bloody field to report the duty I had performed when suddenly arrested in my course by the voice of despair and woe, coming from my stricken comrade. The day was fast passing away into darkness, a darkness that seemed to enshroud this valley of death. The terrific cannonading on both sides that had lasted for hours from the surrounding hills (Malvern hill being the central point of attack by the Confederates) was supplemented by the booming of artillery and bursting of shells from the gunboats on the adjacent James river.

Nature seemed to revolt at this scene of blood and carnage. Thunder and lightning and an avalanche of rain came in quick succession with such great force as to cause the stoutest heart to quake. This great battle was the seventh day's fight to capture the city of Richmond. It was not an ordinary battle, but a demons' fight and the final encounter between those two giants of war Robert E. Lee and George B. McClellan. It gave the laurels of victory to the southern chieftain, bedewed with the tears of broken hearts.

Without stopping to consider what I alone could do for the dying youth amid the chaos and increasing darkness of the night that prevailed, I turned back and dismounted to keep a lonely vigil with the dead. My horse, which, strange to say, had seemed frenzied with fear, became quiet and tractable as though he knew there was safety with his master. I called the boy, who had swooned away from loss of blood, and was glad to know he was not dead. Giving him the bridle of my horse to hold, I tore the sash from around my waist to bandage his torn and bleeding limb.

The boy was praying and called down God's blessing on me. His petition to heaven seemed to be heard. The storm of wind and rain, although still high, was abating. Naught but the mournful wail of the wind through the surrounding forest could now be heard. The great armies that had so lately confronted each other in battle array had seemingly vanished from the scene. I was alone on a battlefield with the dead. Wet and dripping, with the chill of night upon me, I waited for morning, and he, too, the brave soldier boy, was waiting for morning. Oh, God, will it ever come?

He clasped my hand with hope and confidence and seemed to be happy and without pain. I believed he had gone to sleep. Morning came, and he was still asleep—asleep to wake no more.—Dawson A. Blanchard in Washington Post.

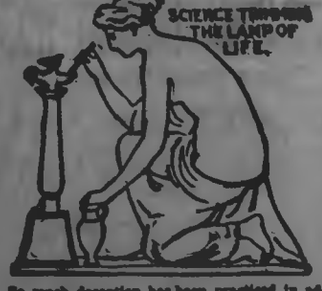
The Foremost Medical Company in the World in the Cure of Weak Men Makes this Offer.

HEALTH AND ENERGY ASSURED. HAPPY MARRIAGE, GOOD TEMPER, LONG LIFE.

In all the world to-day—in all the history of the world—no doctor nor institution has treated and restored so many men as has the famed ERIE MEDICAL CO. of Buffalo, N. Y.

This is due to the fact that the company controls some inventions and discoveries which have no equal in the whole realm of medical science.



So much deception has been practised in advertising that this grand old company now for the first time makes this startling offer:

They will send their costly and magically effective appliances and a whole month's course of medicine, a complete, positively cure trial without one cent in advance to any honest and reliable man!

Not a dollar need be advanced—not a penny until full results are known to and acknowledged by the patient.

The Erie Medical Company's appliances and remedies have been talked about and written about all over the world, till every man has heard of them.

They restore or create strength, vigor, healthy energy and new life.

They quickly stop drains on the system that sap the vitality.

They cure nervousness, despondency and all the effects of evil habits, excesses, overwork, etc.

They give full strength, development and tone to every portion and organ of the body.

Failure is impossible and age is no barrier.

This "Trial without Expense" offer is limited by the company to a short time, and application must be made at once.

No C. O. D. scheme, no begging philanthropy nor deception, no expensive—or cheap institute proposition by a company of high financial and professional standing.

Write to the ERIE MEDICAL COMPANY, BUFFALO, N.Y., and refer to seeing the account of their offer in this paper.

ANCIENT WARFARE.

How an English Castle Was Attacked in the Fifteenth Century.

Sir John Fastolf had by his will devised his castle, called Caister, to John Paston. As a fortification, it was an excellent defense against foreign invaders, and as a residence it was worthy of royalty itself. In fact, the Duke of Gloster, afterward Richard III, at one time contemplated making it his abode. While Paston was trying to establish his title in the courts the Duke of Norfolk purchased a pretended claim to it, and sought to gain possession by force. The Pastons did not propose to yield, though the duke was then probably the most powerful noble in England, and John Paston was his liveried servant. Four professional soldiers were sent up from London to aid in the defense. They are described as "provyd men, conning in werr and can wel schote both gonnes and crossbowes and devyse bolwerkys and keep wacche and warde. They be sadde and wel advysed, saving on of them, whyche is ballyd (bald) but yit he is no brawler. Ye shall fynd them gentylmanly comfortable fellowes, and that they dare abyde by ther taklyng."

Young John Paston, aided by these four and by a handful of personal friends and followers, held the castle for several weeks against a siege conducted by the duke's army of 3,000 men. By the terms of the final surrender the besieged were allowed their lives and goods, horses and harness, and a respite for 15 days, in which to go where they pleased. They reported that they were forced to surrender by "lak of vitayl, gonepowdyr, menys herts and surete of rescue." Edward IV had refrained from interfering in this extraordinary contest, because the troubles with Warwick were gathering thickly about him, and the Mowbrays were too necessary to be unduly offended.—Sewanee Review.

Wise Men Know

It is folly to build upon a poor foundation, either in architecture or in health. A foundation of sand is insecure, and to deaden symptoms by narcotics or nerve compounds is equally dangerous and deceptive. The true way to build up health is to make your blood pure, rich and nourishing by taking Hood's Sarsaparilla.

Hood's Pills act easily and promptly on the liver and bowels. Cure sick headache.

COST OF SABLES.

How the Price Advances After the Skin Leaves Siberia.

Up in the great watershed dividing Siberia and Mongolia lives a peculiar race of people, half Chinese, half Tibetans. Few Europeans have ever seen them. In fact, with the exception of one or two enterprising explorers or geographical enthusiasts who have crossed the Altai range, European eyes have never gazed upon the aboriginal Syots of northern Mongolia.

Sable hunting in the Siberian mountains and northern Mongolia is confined almost exclusively to the Syots and other native races, and it would surprise a good many fur dealers in England to know the prices which are paid by the Siberian traders to these poor aborigines for the skins they collect.

The Siberian trader, knowing his market, makes periodical journeys into Mongolia. It is safe to say he does not take a kopek of money with him, but he drags behind him a well stuffed caravan loaded with tea, tobacco, gunpowder and shot, strings of beads for the women and roughly made moccasins for the men. In due course he will come across a Syot encampment.

The trader sits on his wagon and barters cheerfully. With the eye of a connoisseur and with fingers rendered deft by long practice he sees and feels the smooth, warm skins of the little animals.

This small black one—well, a two ounce packet of tobacco is enough for that; that large black one—a handful of shot and an equal quantity of gunpowder; a packet of tea for a lovely skin with a long black stripe down the center; this one, a fine skin, but a little bit hurt by the shot entering the back—well, say a string of beads for that.

In their original undressed state it is safe to say that the skins do not cost the Siberian trader much more than a few pence each on the average. As the poor sable travels farther westward, however, he gets dearer and dearer. In Tomsk one can buy a very good sable for something like 5 or 6 rubles, about 13s. In Omsk few are sold under 10 rubles—£1 1s. In Moscow 100 per cent goes on. In St. Petersburg no one except the middle class or a functionary would wear a sable under £8. In Paris and London a real Siberian sable skin will fetch anything up to £30, but the imitation sables of the present day have done much to depreciate this wonderful trade.—London Mail.

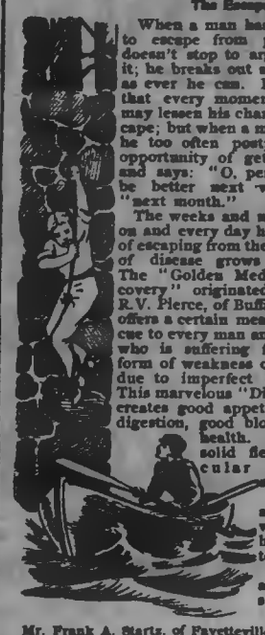
The Escape.



When a man has a chance to escape from prison he doesn't stop to argue about it; he breaks out as quickly as ever he can. He knows that every moment's delay may lessen his chances of escape; but when a man is sick he too often postpones his opportunity of getting well and says: "O, perhaps I'll be better next week" or "next month."

The weeks and months go on and every day his chance of escaping from the dungeon of disease grows smaller. The "Golden Medical Discovery" originated by Dr. R.V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N.Y., offers a certain means of rescue to every man and woman who is suffering from any form of weakness or disease due to imperfect nutrition. This marvelous "Discovery" creates good appetite, good digestion, good blood, good health. It gives solid flesh, muscular strength, steady nerves and keen wits. It helps you to think clearly and work successfully.

Mr. Frank A. Starts, of Fayetteville, Fayette Co., Texas, writes in a letter to Dr. Pierce: "It affords me pleasure to testify to the remarkable curative power of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. I was severely afflicted with trouble in my lungs—spitting up blood, and was so weak I was unable to continue my work. I tried several remedies which gave me no relief, and I had commenced to think there was no hope for me. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery was recommended to me so I tried it and began to improve at once, and was soon able to resume work. I consider it a wonderful medicine."

Every man who wants to save doctor's bills should send 21 one-cent stamps, the cost of customs and mailing only, to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., for a copy of his 1000-page illustrated book, "Common Sense Medical Adviser," in paper covers; or 50 stamps for cloth-bound copy.

BRITISH HISTORY WRONG.

A Misleading Account of the Battle of White Plains.

In its series of supplements recounting "The Battle Honors of the Services" The British Navy and Army Illustrated once in awhile says something about the British forces in the Revolutionary war. When it does, it is pretty sure to be inaccurate.

The cover of one issue of the "Battle Honors" has a spirited picture of Bragg's grenadiers winning the battle of White Plains, where they won the name of the "Slashers," because they threw away their flintlocks and carried an intrenchment with their short swords. The picture is entitled "The Slashers at the Battle of White Plains, 1775."

The battle of White Plains was fought, as a matter of fact, on Oct. 28, 1776. It is stated in the publication that Washington sent 8,000 men to occupy a hill above the ford of the "Brunx," and that this position was carried by the "Slashers" with their swords. It is also said that "soon after this turning movement General Washington, abandoning his stores, retired with his army toward Connecticut."

As a matter of fact the position referred to was held by 1,400 Americans under General McDougal and was carried by a British force of 4,000. One would think from reading the British version of the fight that the "Slashers" whipped the entire American army. There were other British regiments engaged in the work of carrying Chatterton hill, and it is unfair to them to give all the credit to the "Slashers."

Of what took place after the position was carried the version given by The Navy and Army Illustrated is deliberately misleading. The facts are that when the hill was carried General McDougal retired to Washington's camp with a loss of 80 prisoners and 100 killed and wounded. The British lost 229 killed and wounded. Howe did not dare to attack Washington, but sent for reenforcements, and on Nov. 5 moved his augmented army to Dobbs Ferry. Washington, being confronted by superior numbers, retired, not toward Connecticut, but across the Hudson to New Jersey on Nov. 9.

When a nation starts out to write its military history and distorts it in some particulars, it makes one doubt the truth of all. The truth about the battle of White Plains would redound just as much to the glory of the "Slashers" as does the perverted account published by the navy and army.—New York Press.

SHADOWING A FOOTBALLER.

The Scheme of a Team to Down a Successful Rival.

Several years ago a young athlete named D—— was conspicuous as a football player. He was a swift runner, a reliable drop kicker and an excellent all round player. He had proved such a tower of strength on his college eleven that rival teams feared him, and when rumors to the effect that he had received money for his services were circulated steps were eagerly taken by the football authorities of an opposing college to investigate his amateur status. If he had received money, as alleged, he was no longer an amateur and could be debarred from a place on the team.

Accordingly an emissary was dispatched, with the usual oppressive college secrecy, to the village of S—— where the suspected player resided when at home. The father of D—— was a well to do farmer, and the spy, passing as a book agent, experienced little difficulty in getting him to talk about his son.

"Famous!" he said, with no great show of enthusiasm. "Waal, I s'pose the boy is famous, but there isn't much in this football."

"But a fellow as famous as he is must get a good salary," the spy suggested, with a craftily assumed air of innocence.

"Nope," said the farmer. "Football players don't get a salary."

"That's odd," continued the spy. "I heard he was kicking for cash."

"Waal, that's right. He is," the father slowly admitted.

The spy was secretly overjoyed. He chuckled inwardly and fairly hugged himself with delight. In fancy the rival team was already deprived of her strongest player.

"So he's kicking for cash at college, is he?" he echoed.

"Yes," the farmer said wearily, "yes, he's kickin for more cash 'most every letter I get."

And then the disgusted spy kicked himself, metaphorically speaking, all the way back to college.—Harper's Bazar.

CHILDREN'S AID SOCIETY.

ANNUAL MEETING AND ELECTION OF OFFICERS.

Yearly Report of the Secretary-Treasurer—Election of Officers—Increasing Interest in the Work of This Excellent Society.

The annual meeting of the Peterborough Children's Aid Society was held on Monday afternoon, 24th January, in the town council chamber. There was a good attendance of ladies and gentlemen interested in the progress of the benevolent work of this organization.

Sheriff Jas. A. Hall, president, officiated, and among those present were the following: Mrs. J. B. McWilliams, Mrs. Jas. Kendry, Mrs. J. McKee, Mrs. Gilchrist, Mrs. Birdsall, Mrs. E. A. Peck, Mrs. Ward, Mrs. Turnbull, Miss M. R. Clarke, Mrs. H. Macdonald, Mrs. McPherson, Mrs. Geo. Burnham, Mrs. Beck, Miss Nicholls, Mrs. Chas. McGill, Miss Code, Rev. H. Symonds, Dr. Geo. Burnham, J. J. McBain, Wm. Yelland, W. B. Bamford, J. H. Burnham, F. W. Miller.

The minutes of the last meeting was read by Mr. J. H. Burnham, ex-secretary, which were, on motion, confirmed.

THE SECRETARY-TREASURER'S REPORT.

Miss M. R. Clarke, the efficient Secretary-Treasurer, read her annual report as follows:

In presenting the fifth annual report of the work of the Children's Aid society in Peterborough, I would like to draw your attention to this fact, the truth of which has come to be recognized in connection with the work of all Christian Missions—that it becomes increasingly difficult each year to measure the progress any good work is making solely by the standard of statistics. To estimate, for instance, the success of this society by the number of complaints of cruelty it has inquired into, the number of prosecutions it has undertaken, the number of warnings sent to parents, or the number of children it has taken over, succeeds after a time ceases to be a question of numbers. It is indicated rather by a change in the lives of the people, a lessening of the number of shiftless and negligent parents, fewer half-clad children found wandering about the streets begging. It is just as legitimately an object of this society to preach the Gospel of soap and water and decent dwellings to lazy, thriftless and indifferent parents, as it is to constitute itself the guardians of forlorn and ill-treated children. Of all the work of the society it is probably the most difficult and discouraging. Parents have for so long been allowed to do what they like with their children that they never think of the rights of these little souls—their obvious rights, mental, moral and physical. Mere existence is a debt for which a child should be sufficiently grateful. "All you owe to me," is a phrase often made use of by even the most worthless and negligent parents. Children are their natural belongings, their's wholly, to bring up as they please. They haven't a doubt they are quite capable of doing it properly.

Now to rouse such parents from their callous indifference, to give them some idea of their natural and sacred obligations, to make them understand that their children have a right to a happy and well-trained youth as a preparation for a life of respectability and usefulness—in fact to train up the parents in the way they should go, is a large undertaking, and one requiring great zeal and devotion from any society's officers. The result of such work, too, will be shown in facts, not in figures. Its importance must be recognized by all true lovers of children.

The father and the mother are the child's natural guardians and teachers. It is a serious matter to separate a child from its parents, no matter how great the latter's shortcomings. It is the aim of the Children's Aid Society to secure the welfare of children at the least possible sacrifice of the home and family ties. The whole spirit of the society is to conserve and purify home life. Even when widows and others apply for release from parental responsibility through poverty, they are assisted by the society to keep the home together, rather than encouraged to part with their offspring. The children taken in charge by this society have in every case been voluntarily handed over by their parents or guardians, when there were any such. Sometimes, however, it has had to deal with worthless and ignorant parents without a desire to be anything better, who refuse to allow their children to be rescued from squalor and degradation.

The public is urged not to give food or clothing to these would-be pauper bees on their beauty who make the needs of their children their excuse for continued begging. Some of them settle down to be burdens on the community in the most natural and comfortable manner possible. A woman told me that she did not know what the town was coming to when I suggested that Peterborough people might be getting tired of clothing her and her children. When families are in necessary trouble the society always lends a helping hand. This winter children have been kept in the shelter for a time and then restored to their parents, properly equipped with good clothing, boots and shoes, even school books have been provided them. Heredity, however, school has played a very small part in the lives of these children: boys and girls, some of them thirteen years of age can't read or write. It is a pity to have [illegible] Canadians missing all educative influence. When a boy is fourteen years of age his actions cannot be controlled by the C. A. society.

From the Rev. G. W. Watch, the Provincial Secretary, reports have been received lately of the progress and well being of the children placed in foster homes by this society during the past year. Three of these children are in the Northwest Territory—two girls and a boy. Of one of the former it is reported: She is in a thoroughly good home and her parents are very much pleased with her; of the other it is said, she is living amid prosperous surroundings and going to school. Her parents are very fond of her. The boy apparently has not been doing quite as well. He has suffered with a bad foot, was returned from the first home he was placed in because of ill conduct. Is in a new home now and promises to do very well. Two children are at Grave hurst, a boy and a girl. Of the boy it is said that he is much stronger than he was, is well, indeed, now, and happy in a good home, giving satisfaction. The girl is also happily situated in a good home, going to day and Sabbath schools, and real loving her foster parents. Of a three-year-old child adopted in Hastings, the new guardians say: "It is a dear little creature and we love it as if it were our own."

With part of the practical work of the society the public is already familiar. On the 27th of Sept., Mrs. Harvie of Toronto, Provincial Inspector of the C. A. Societies, paid a visit to Peterborough. On the Thursday afternoon following she addressed a mass meeting of women in Bethany Mission Hall, the result being that a Woman's B. Association was formed, representatives of which with the officers of this society waited on the town council and urged the establishment here of a Refuge for Women and Children. The town gave a yearly grant of $300 to the society to be applied to the keeping up of a shelter for children, Mr. Best having already kindly offered his house one year on the corner of Charlotte and Stewart streets, rent free for this purpose. This offer was gladly accepted and at the next meeting of the Board of Management, arrangements were made for putting the building in order, also Mr. Miller was appointed to take charge of it. Tenders for papering and painting were advertised for, Duncan & Gray's being the lowest, was accepted. The house was ready for occupation on the 8th of December. Regulation hospital cots, that is, single iron beds and new mattresses were purchased, the ladies of the Board of Management kindly contributing blankets, pillows, counterpanes, etc. Blinds and certain articles of furniture were purchased for the office and dormatories. The first children to occupy the shelter, three of them, were reported to have been found wandering about the streets begging. The agent visited their home, a log shanty, where he discovered several families, ten or twelve persons, crowded together in one room—all in a more or less miserable condition. The eldest girl was sent to service, the younger children to the shelter. They were in sad need of clothing. The public generously supplied it and Miss Gow, Miss Forsythe and other ladies met and made up and made over what was necessary for them. A few days before Christmas another poor family was visited. The weather was cold, very cold—and although it was well on in the morning the fire had just been lighted of drift wood. The younger boys were cutting up raw potatoes and trying to roast them on the stove lids, their shoeless feet being wrapped in lengths of flannel in lieu of boots and stockings. These boys were removed to the shelter and all necessary clothing provided them.

About this time the Rev. Mr. Davidson, of St. John's church, reported another family—the mother sick, the children starving. Mr. Miller, as relief officer, called on them, saw the mother removed to the hospital and the children became inmates of the shelter. These five children were found to be in a filthy condition, their heads and their bodies infested with vermin. Every article of clothing was burnt and again a kind public assisted to clothe them. All are comfortable and happy now in the society's quarters. Another family was visited, a mother and her seven children. They were found all in their squalor huddled up in a dirty apartment. Their scanty clothing was filthy. Here and there was a girl with a single filthy rag of a garment drawn about her. The society generously responded to this new appeal and good clothing all round the kind ladies have made them.

M. R. CLARKE.

On motion of Rev. H. Symonds and Mr. J. H. Burnham, the report of the secretary-treasurer was adopted. Speaking to the motion, Rev. Mr. Symonds complimented Miss Clarke on her very excellent report, and Mr. Burnham referred to the great ability and industry displayed by Miss Clarke in her work on behalf of the Society.

Miss Clarke thanked the gentlemen for their kind references, and stated that as the ladies had a lot of practical work to do for the Society, she hoped the office of secretary would again be undertaken by Mr. Burnham. She was very anxious to be relieved.

On motion of Mrs. Kendry and Mrs. McWilliams, the report was ordered to be printed in full in the daily newspapers.

ELECTION OF OFFICERS.

With Mr. J. H. Burnham in the chair, the election of officers was then proceeded with.

Sheriff Hall said it was desirable that those who were showing a practical interest in the Society should be selected for official positions, and he had much pleasure in nominating for President one who had taken a deep interest in the work, Mr. J. J. McBain.

The motion was seconded by Rev. Mr. Symonds and carried unanimously.

The newly-elected president then took the chair and thanked them for the honour they had conferred on him. He would have preferred if some one else had been selected, but he would do the best he could with their assistance and co-operation.

The other officers elected are as follows:

1st Vice-President—A. C. Dunlop.

2nd Vice President—Mrs. J. B. McWilliams.

Secretary-Treasurer—Miss M. R. Clarke.

Solicitors—Messrs. E. B. Edwards and R. Max Dennistoun.

Auditor—H. S. Macdonald.

Agent—F. W. Miller.

Board of Managers—Mrs. Kendry, Mrs. McWilliams, Mrs. Beck, Mrs. Davis Mrs. Ward, Mrs. O'Sullivan, Mrs. Dennistoun, Mrs. Beck, Mrs. Garvin, Mrs. Dickson, Mrs. McKee, Mrs. Chas. McGill, Rev. Father Scanlan, Rev. Mr. Shorey, Rev. Dr. Torrance, Rev. H. Symonds, W. B. Bamford, Peter Campbell, Dr. Burnham, ex-Mayor Yelland and J. L. Hughes.

The selection of an Advisory Committee was left to the Board.

Moved by Mr. J. H. Burnham and Rev. Mr. Symonds, that the thanks of the Society be extended to the town council, the police officers, the other town officials, and the three daily papers for their kind assistance during the year—Carried.

Moved by Mr. Yelland, seconded by Mrs. Beck, that the president be appointed representative on the town charity board—Carried.

The meeting then adjourned.

INDUSTRIAL NOTES.

The prominence that is now being achieved by Canadian electricians has received another exemplification in the selection of Henry Holgate, C.E., of Montreal, as manager of the new West India Electric Co., of Jamaica. Mr. Holgate will go to Kingston, Jamaica, about the first of February, where he will superintend the erection of about twenty-five miles of railway, which will probably be extended later on. Henry Holgate was born in Milton, Ont., in 1863, and served his apprenticeship with the Northern Railway of Canada. He became chief engineer of the combined Northern and Northwestern Railways, which were merged into the Grand Trunk in Feb. 1888. He continued as chief engineer of the division under the Grand Trunk till 1892, when he took charge of the Central Bridge and Engineering Co., of Peterborough, as engineer for a year, during which the steel work of the new Union Station at Toronto was constructed. He came to Montreal in June, 1894, as engineer for the Royal Electric Co., and built and equipped the new factory. The directors of the Royal Electric Co., being interested in the Montreal Park and Island Railway, he was transferred to the latter company in June, 1896, where he remained in charge of operation and construction to the present time.

In connection with the mention made in past issues of The Canadian Engineer of the different appearances of strange aerial bodies, by many believed to be air-ships, the following press despatch, dated from Pittsburg, Pa., may be of interest: "It has at last been discovered who the incorporators of the Atlantic and Pacific Aerial Navigation Company are. The company, which is officered by C. A. Smith, president, and M. A. Terry, secretary, both of San Francisco, was organized to manufacture the air-ship of Hiram S. Maxim, inventor of the Maxim gun. It is said by persons connected with the company that last summer a trip was made in a Maxim air-ship from San Francisco to Cleveland and back in three days. Mr. Maxim furnishes the following description of his vessel: It occupies 106,000 cubic feet of space. The propelling power is a 165 horse-power naptha engine. The cylinder engine and all other parts of the machine, so far as practicable, are made of aluminum, which was purchased of the Reduction Company here. The ship now weighs about 5,000 pounds, and will, its friends claim, carry more than a ton-weight of provisions and passengers. The naphtha for the engine will be stored in cases, which are supposed to hold enough to drive the ship around the earth without replenishing the tanks. The tail that projects upwards from the stern of the ship is intended to drive it up or down as a bird directs its movements with its tail. The rudder is to change the course from right to left. Motive power is secured by the big aeroplane at the stern, which is driven by the naphtha engine. It is stated that a speed of one hundred miles an hour has been attained without straining the machinery.

MATTER OF PRONUNCIATION

A Father Who Seeks to Enlighten His Son on a Small Point.

There is a certain man who by the sweat of his brow—in summer time—earns his bread as a government official, with an office in the big state, war and navy building. He also earns bread for a wife and three likely children and a servant, who manages to carry a slice of pie along home with her bread about three evenings in the week. But that is the cook's privilege always.

This official has a son aged 18, who is very nearly as sharp as the father thinks himself to be, especially in those things that everybody ought to know and not one person in a dozen does know. About three times a week the father comes to the office loaded with some new information which he seeks to impart to his fellow clerks by the inductive method—that is, he induces them to show how little they know; then he springs it on them. His strong point is words and their pronunciation, and he thinks he is an authority.

The other evening while he was entertaining three or four of his office friends at a small supper the eldest boy spoke up from the far end of the table.

"Say, pop," he inquired, "how do you pronounce N-e-w-o-n-e?" spelling it out slowly.

"I presume," replied the father, with the courage of his convictions, "that it is an Indian name, and by the rule I would pronounce it Ne-wo-ny."

"But that isn't the way," dissented the boy.

The father was never more surprised in his life.

"I don't quite see how it would be euphonious any other way," he said, with a mild air of offended intelligence.

"What's the matter with pronouncing it now one?" inquired the boy, with a loud, irreverent ha ha. And the blow almost killed father.—Washington Star.

A Collector of Book Plates.

An interesting collection of book plates is owned by Mr. Howard Sill, head draftsman at the office of a firm of architects in this city. The collection consists of some 2,500 specimens—American, English, French and Spanish, modern and antique—belonging to the various periods known as Jacobean, Chippendale, Wreath and Ribbon, etc. Mr. Sill has collected many examples of the work of Dorkins, Johnson, the Mavericks, father and son, famous colonial book plate engravers; also some specimens of the rare and valuable work of Nathaniel Hurd, a New England engraver, born in 1720, a duplicate of one of whose book plates owned by Mr. Sill brought $60 in New York a short time ago. Mr. Sill has also one of the six book plates engraved by Paul Revere, which is of great value and interest. Among the colonial plates are those of William Byrd of Westover, Bushrod Washington, John Randolph, William Smith, president of William and Mary college; Charles Carroll, Thomas Heyward and Samuel Chase, signers of the Declaration of Independence. There are also many examples of modern book plate making, the work of French, Hopson, Spenceley and other well known modern engravers.—Baltimore American.

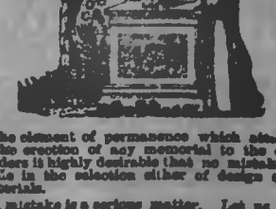
High-Grade Cemetery Work

AT A MODERATE PRICE.



The element of permanence which attaches to the erection of any memorial to the dead renders it highly desirable that no mistake be made in the selection either of design or of materials.

A mistake is a serious matter. Let us help you to make a right decision. Our specialty is the erection of monuments which are unique without being grotesque, and artistic without being over-decorated.

We manufacture from all first-quality granites, and as WE SELL DIRECT TO CUSTOMERS, we save the latter all agents' profits. Then, too, there is a decided advantage for the buyer in dealing with one responsible firm for both the manufacture and the setting of a monument.

All our work is guaranteed, NO CHARGE being made if not strictly according to contract. Write us for designs and estimates.

ELECTION CAMPAIGN.

Nomination of Hon. E. J. Davis for North York.

HISTORIC CRADLE OF REFORM.

The Liberal Party United and Confident—Prospects Very Bright—Mr. G. P. Graham's Nomination in Brockville—Mr. George Elliott Will Oppose Hon. Mr. Hardy —Reports.

Toronto, Jan. 26.—The campaign is going along splendidly so far as the Liberal party is concerned. The despatches that come to hand from every part of the province show the greatest enthusiasm for the Hardy Government and a strong and abiding confidence that its cause will be maintained at the approaching contest. The feature of yesterday's proceedings in connection with the campaign was the enthusiastic renomination of the Provincial Secretary, Hon. E. J. Davis, at a convention of North York Liberals at Newmarket, at which the Postmaster-General and the Minister of Education made important speeches, the Provincial Secretary himself speaking also with his usual effectiveness.

Mr. George P. Graham was nominated at Brockville yesterday by the Liberals of that city, Mr. G. A. Dana having decided not to again enter the field. Conservative nominations also took place in Ottawa and at Brantford, the Premier's opponent being Mr. George Elliott.

THE CRADLE OF REFORM.

Historic Old North York Yesterday Nominated a Sturdy Son of Liberalism—His Splendid Speech.

Newmarket, Jan. 26.—In old North York, the cradle of Reform, there assembled yesterday the sturdy sons of the men who more than half a century ago were ready to yield their lives in defence of their constitutional liberties—the men who, as Mr. Ross aptly said, had strengthened the hands of William Lyon Mackenzie, of Robert Baldwin, of Lafontaine and of Alexander Mackenzie. A few of the greybeard veterans who survive the stirring times of '37 and who were actors in the succeeding political events were there to join with the younger generation in cheering the eloquent enunciation of Liberal principles and in selecting a standard-bearer worthy to support the banner so gallantly defended in days gone by. On two important points there was absolute unanimity: First, that Hon. E. J. Davis merited the nomination for the riding, and, second, that the Hardy Government deserved to be continued in office. The reception of Mr. Davis could not have been more cordial or his endorsation more complete. Hon. George W. Ross made a powerful speech in justification of the policy and administration of the Government and in answer to the criticisms of his opponents. He made a complete exposure of the record of Mr. Whitney, as contained in the journals of the House, upon the important questions which have emerged since 1888. Hon. William Mulock was also present, and that his constituents were glad to see him was demonstrated by the ovation which was accorded him. The feature of his address was the presentation of a batch of figures from official sources showing the wonderful expansion of the trade of Canada during the eighteen months that the Liberals have been in power at Ottawa. Conservatives support the argument that a favorable balance of trade is essential to national prosperity. During the eighteen years of their administration the adverse balance of trade aggregated $199,111,026. During the eighteen months of the Liberal administration the net gain in exports was $37,135,919, and during the six months ending December 31, 1897, the excess of exports over imports for consumption was $26,811,142.

Provincial Secretary's Speech.

Hon. E. J. Davis, the Provincial Secretary, devoted himself to an explanation of the important duties that devolve upon the department of which he has charge. To illustrate the magnitude and variety of the duties that devolve upon him he gave a few figures. In 1871 the salary list was $9,495, in 1897 it was $16,100, an increase of $6,900. In 1871 the number of letters received was 1,690, in 1896 18,475; letters sent out in 1871 1,280, in 1896 17,385; charters issued in 1874 24, in 1897 300; statutory returns in 1871 58, in 1896 847; fees received in 1871 $2,969, in 1897 $39,296. The last item showed a departmental surplus of $23,000. In addition to the performance of these important functions there were under the control of the department several sub-branches, such as the registration of births, marriages and deaths, the public health, the care of neglected and dependent children. Beside all this there was the management of six important public institutions—the Idiot Asylum at Orillia, the Central Prison, the Blind Institution at Brantford, the Deaf and Dumb Institution at Belleville and the Penetanguishene and Mercer Reformatories. The Minister spoke briefly of the system of purchasing supplies for these institutions. He stated that a large proportion of these supplies were purchased by tender last year, over $200,000 worth. Only a small proportion which might be purchased by tender were not so purchased, but the Government contended that they could not be procured advantageously by tender. Every municipal councillor, he said, was aware that there were certain classes of goods that could be bought on the open market more advantageously than by tender. Before concluding his speech Mr. Davis emphasized the importance of continuing in power a Government that has given the province an honest and capable Administration. Especially to the young men did he appeal as to whether it would not be the part of wisdom to perpetuate a system of government that has never taken one dollar of taxes from the people, but has paid millions of dollars to assist the reduction of local taxation. All the indications, he said, pointed to the return of the Government in the coming election by a larger majority than that of 1894. This statement was vociferously cheered. Mr. Davis before sitting down made acknowledgment to the considerable body of discriminating Conservatives in North York who have generously supported him in the past. He had striven, he said, to win and to merit the confidence of his constituents, and to be of service to the province at large. The speech of the Secretary was punctuated by frequent outbursts of applause.

MONTREAL NEWS.

General Booth Arrived in the City Yesterday—A Marble Front.

Montreal, Jan. 26.—General Booth arrived in the city yesterday, and was met at the depot by deputations from the Salvation Army. In the evening a great jubilee meeting took place at St. James' Church, presided over by Hon. Clifford Sifton, who came down from Ottawa on purpose for the meeting.

Carsley, the big dry goods man, will build a new marble-front block on St. James street north, five stories high and 100 feet frontage.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier will not be able to take part at the Marchand banquet this evening.

Snow in Newfoundland.

St. Johns, Nfld., Jan. 26.—The severest snowstorm in years is now raging in this section. It is stopping trains, blocking the coast with ice and preventing all navigation. A whole fleet of vessels is now ice-bound in this port, including the New York steamer Portia and Johnston Liner Parkmore, also the steamers Virginia and Picton. Many vessels, including the Allan Line Numidian from Portland, due now, find it impossible to make port owing to the ice.

Nineteen Saved, Four Lost.

Providence, R.I., Jan. 26.—Nineteen survivors of the suspected filibustering steamer Tillie, which probably sunk off Barnegat, were brought to this port by a coasting schooner yesterday. Four men were lost. Capt. John O'Brien was among those saved.

A Destructive Thunderstorm.

St. Louis, Mo., Jan. 26.—A terrific thunderstorm raged for an hour or more in this vicinity after 3 a.m. The sky cleared after a short time after daybreak, but the wind continued to blow. It increased in intensity until 10.45, the Weather Bureau officials reported a velocity of 68 miles an hour had been gained. August Weymeyer was blown off the Shields Building, and died in ten minutes from his injuries. A woman, name unknown, is reported lying dead in some debris at 3840 Lactede avenue, and a boy was killed by being blown from a porch roof in another part of the city. It is apparently a straight blow and not a tornado.

U. S. COASTING LAWS

Now Add to the Very Complicated Yukon Proposition.

HOW THE YANKEES RECIPROCATE

Canada Has Given Them Free Admission for Goods for the Relief Expedition, But Their Reciprocity Amounts to Simply Making the Canadian Pay Whenever They Can—Ottawa News.

Ottawa, Jan. 26.—The coasting laws are the latest complication in the very complicated Yukon proposition. The law of the United States forbids goods shipped from one American port to another to be transferred at a Canadian port unless in an American vessel. Goods shipped for Skaguay, Dyea or Wrangel via Victoria would come within this law. The Canadian coasting laws do not contain any such provision, but the customs law permits of an interpretation that would, for instance, prevent goods being shipped from Vancouver or Victoria to the Yukon via Wrangel except in British bottoms. An American vessel arriving at Wrangel and transhipping to a Stickeen River boat could be held for duty at Telegraph Creek and treated as an importation. A case of this kind has actually been brought to the attention of the Customs Department, and such a ruling would effectually debar any but British vessels carrying freight from a Canadian port.

A Sign of Prosperity.

Returns have been made up showing the Dominion land sales for the last quarter of the year 1897, and it will be of general interest to learn that the figure is $20,000 in excess of the best previous record in the last five years, and $38,000 in excess of the same three months in 1896. The sales were $104,700 last year. In 1896 they were $71,796; in 1895, $69,-858; in 1894, $70,533, and in 1893 $33,-734. No doubt a large percentage of the new land purchased from the Government was employed to extend the bounds of farms already established in the west; but this is in itself a most happy condition of affairs, as it bears testimony to the general prosperity of the farming classes, who are increasing their acreage.

Tenders for Yukon Lands.

This was the last day for receiving tenders at the Interior Department for the privilege of cutting timber on limits of five square miles in the Yukon district. Although the Government gave very short notice, quite a large number of tenders have been received, approaching the neighborhood of 100.

Salmon Trout Were Plentiful.

According to information which has reached the Fisheries Department the catch of salmon trout in Lake Ontario during the past year has been better than for many years. Fish ranging up to 20 pounds in weight have been caught. The herring fishery is, however, said to be decreasing. The catch of white fish has been good, although somewhat irregular in its character.

The Pilot Commission.

Judge Lavergne, Major Gordeau and Dr. Wakeham, the St. Lawrence Pilotage Commissioners, have returned to Ottawa. They have taken evidence of pilots in the neighborhood of Montreal, and will go to Quebec next week to take the depositions of the pilots there. They will then return to Montreal to examine the shipping men.

RELIEF OF THE YUKON.

The Canadian Government Grants a Concession of Much Import to the United States.

Washington, D.C., Jan. 26.—The War Department has been in further correspondence with Canadian officials at Ottawa with the gratifying result that the Canadian Government has consented to admit free of restrictions all supplies brought into the Klondike region by the United States Government relief expeditions. The free admission of supplies is strictly limited to the Government expeditions, but there is no inhibition upon the sale of the food supplies taken in to such of the miners as can pay for them.

Stormbound Reindeer.

The War Department's advices from Norway are that the steamship Manitoban, which has been chartered to carry the reindeer to New York, lies stormbound at Trondjelm.

CANADIAN CURRENCY.

Mary McArthur of Brockville took Paris green Monday and died yesterday.

Six of the large woolen mills of Almonte, Ont., have resumed operations after nearly two years' idleness.

An Ottawa despatch says the Standard Mercantile Agency of Toronto is being sued on behalf of Marion Eccles of Almonte for $2,000 damages for libel in publishing Mr. Eccles' name in a list of delinquent debtors.

In Notre Dame Church, Hull, Quebec, Eugene Campeau and wife on Sunday made a public apology before a large congregation for having transgressed the rules of the church in being married by a Protestant clergyman of Ottawa.

Additions to Nova Scotia Cabinet.

Halifax, Jan. 26.—W. T. Pipes of Amherst was appointed to the Legislature Council yesterday, and sworn in as member of the Local Government.

David McPherson, M.P.P. for Halifax, was also sworn in as member of the Government.

C. C. Field, M.P.P., Dangerously Ill.

Cobourg, Ont., Jan. 26.—C. C. Field, M.P.P., is dangerously ill as his residence with heart disease.

WARDEN PEARCE.

THE EXAMINER takes pleasure in having an opportunity of again congratulating Mr. J. B. Pearce, of Norwood, on his receiving, for the second time, the high honour—to himself personally and to the Norwood division—implied in the election to the important position of Warden of the county of Peterborough. When sitting in the council as reeve of Norwood, in 1895, the honour was first conferred on him, and yesterday, as a representative of the Norwood division he was once more elected to the chair. Mr. Pearce is a native of Norwood, where he was born in 1840. He is the eldest son of the late Peter Pearce, ex-warden of the county. Mr. Pearce has had ample experience in municipal matters that should fit him well for discharging the duties of his new position. He was first elected reeve of Norwood in 1878, and held the position for that and five succeeding years. He resigned in 1883, but was elected again as reeve in 1890. He also filled the position in 1893 and 1894. While in the County Council, Mr. Pearce was for six years continuously chairman of the Committee on Equalization and Assessment. He has been engaged in the mercantile business in Norwood for many years, and and has meet with success. He was also engaged in the lumbering business at Norwood and Havelock. He is president of the Pearce Company (Limited) of Marmora, which carries on an extensive business in lumbering, mining and manufacturing. Mr. Pearce is at present postmaster at Norwood, and has for 21 years been a Justice of the Peace. The municipal faculty seems to be hereditary in the Pearce family. The present Warden's brother, the late T. P. Pearce, was reeve of Marmora and warden of the County of Hastings, and another brother, Mr. J. W. Pearce, has been reeve of Marmora. Mr. Pearce was twice census commissioner and has been a member of the School Board, Norwood. As far as municipal experience and knowledge of affairs go, the County Council has made a selection that will, doubtless, result in the efficient and able administration of the duties of the office.

NORWOOD.

From Our Own Correspondent.

Mrs. Wm. Eaton left on Tuesday for Paisley where she intends to spend a few weeks.

Mrs. W. E. Roxburgh was called to Peterborough on Saturday morning to wait on her daughter-in-law, Mrs. G. B. Cameron, who is ill.

Mrs. Burkell, of Roseneath, was in town on Saturday.

Miss B. Roxburgh, of Keene, was home on Saturday and Sunday.

Miss Mary Eaton is visiting friends in Keene.

Mrs. D. Lewis, of Peterborough, is visiting friends and relatives in town.

Miss Tessa McCallum and Miss Detta Zeigler made their first appearance in Norwood on Friday evening before a large and appreciative audience and it is quite proper to say they made a good "hit." Every selection was received with a burst of applause. Everyone was thoroughly satisfied and since then they have been the talk of the town. We feel certain that should they again visit our town they will meet with a hearty welcome.

The High School hockey club is trying to redeem Norwood's reputation and on Saturday they visited Warsaw and gained their first victory by a score of 5—4. They play the Warsaw team here on Thursday evening and we hope they will meet with even better success.

The Hastings Star of last week said that they sent a scratch team of curlers up to Norwood to meet with their cracks and met with an easy victory, score being 16—12. Elated by their success they thought they would like to put another feather in their caps and came up again on Saturday, but they had to go home completely wiped out, Norwood winning by a score of 21—2.

On Thursday morning three rinks drove over to Lakefield and were successful in gaining a victory by six points.

The contest among our home curlers is still going on. On Wednesday Patterson's and Moffatt's rinks played off, the latter winning by six points. The same evening W. E. Roxburgh's and Ashe's rinks met for a fight. This was a very interesting match, as first one side would lead and then the other and at no time was victory certain, but it resulted in favour of Mr. Ashe, the score being 9—11. On Monday evening Mr. Ashe and Mr. Cumming played off, the game going to Mr. Cummings by a score of 8—14.

WESTWOOD.

From Our Own Correspondent.

Miss Jennie Eaton was visiting friends in Norwood last week.

Mr. Jenkins of Sarnia, and Miss Metcalfe of Keene, were visiting at Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Metcalfe's one day last week.

Last Sunday the Rev. Mr. White, pastor of the Methodist church here, preached in Warkworth, while Rev. Mr. Totten of that place had charge of his services here both morning and evening. He presented the claims of the Colleges in the morning, a special collection being taken up in aid of their funds. In the evening he held a revival service.

On Tuesday evening, Jan. 18th, about twenty-five of the Westwood Good Templars drove up to Peterborough, where they had tea at the Temperance House. About half-past seven they and a number of the members of City Lodge drove up to visit Auburn Lodge, where they were well received. Each lodge took part in the programme, after which refreshments were served by the Auburn Lodge. After having a friendly conversation they closed by singing God Save the Queen, every one having enjoyed their visit.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Brown and Master Charles, of Hilton, Manitoba, are visiting friends here.

We learn with regret of the sudden death of Mr. Thomas Brown of Sidney, North Dakota, who died suddenly at the home of his brother-in-law, Mr. Samuel Sargent, sr., of Otonabee. The deceased was a resident of Westwood for many years. After fifteen years ago he moved with his family to Manitoba, where he remained for about three years, then moved to North Dakota, where he has resided ever since.

BENSFORT.

From Our Own Correspondent.

The bell on one of the churches in Peterborough could be heard quite plain in Benafort on Sunday. The distance direct is in the neighbourhood of about eleven miles.

One of the newly-married couples residing in the suburbs of Bensfort gave a reception in the form of a social hop. A very enjoyable time was spent, after which refreshments were passed around by the genial host and hostess. The young people enjoyed a very pleasant time and adjourned to their homes well pleased, especially two young men who contemplate taking a trip east.

Mr. D. Chambers gave a few of his friends a pleasant evening's enjoyment one night last week.

Mr. Stratton's address at Bensfort was very interesting and instructing to those interested in politics. It was worth going a long distance to hear.

Some of the citizens of Bensfort had quite a long argument on politics the other night, it being very calm and they being being warmed up on the subject the conversation was heard for some distance.

Mrs. Proctor left for British Columbia on Tuesday.

A number of "fanciers" from Bensfort were at the Bench Show in Peterborough on Wednesday and pronounce it equally as good as the dog show at Toronto.

Building operations are likely to be brisk in Bensfort this coming summer. The contractors are on the move.

Wanted, some person to buy a good skiff, new, only been used a few times. Particulars at Benafort post office.

Dr. Livingstone's Cough Pills Cure When Other Well-Known Remedies Fail.

"For the last three winters I have been subject to a most harrassing cough which kept me awake at nights and weakened me considerably. I have used two boxes of DR LIVINGSTONE'S COUGH PILLS and I find them THE BEST COUGH REMEDY I have ever used. Last winter I used seven bottles of Cod Liver Oil with Hypophosphites, besides other remedies. These strengthened the lungs to an extent, but did not relieve or improve the cough. This year I used two boxes of Dr. Livingstone's Cough Pills, which broke my cough at once and also strengthened the lungs and throat. I consider them SUPERIOR TO ANY OTHER COUGH REMEDY I have ever used and I can highly recommend them to anyone suffering from a cough or cold." Yours truly, GEO. H. POSTLETHWAITE, Lakefield, Ont. BRITISH AT FASHODA.

Military Occupation of Okute in Borgu Territory.

LORD DELAMERE'S EXPEDITION.

Death of General Sir Fred. Middleton, Who Commanded the Canadian Troops During the Northwest Rebellion—Belgian Deputies Barred Out of the Chamber—Excitement at Brussels—Cable News.

London, Jan. 26.—It is reported that Lord Delamere's expedition has reached Fashoda, a point on the River Nile about 400 miles south of Khartoum. This is the place where it was claimed the French expedition under Capt. Marchand arrived some time ago.

The British Occupy Okute.

Lagos, West Coast of Africa, Jan. 26.—British troops have occupied Okute, in Borgu territory. The possession of Borgu is disputed between France and Great Britain.

Fighting in the Usoga Country.

London, Jan. 26. — A letter from Uganda, dated Nov. 26 last, written by Mr. Pillangton, the missionary who, with Lieut. MacDonald, brother of Major MacDonald, the commander of the British forces, was reported on Jan. 10 to have been killed, says there has been renewed fighting at Fort Lubwas, in the Usoga country, and that 71 Wagandas were killed and 188 were wounded.

DEATH OF GEN. MIDDLETON.

Head of the Canadian Forces During the 1885 Rebellion Passes Away.

London, Jan. 26.—Lieut.-General Sir Frederick Dobson Middleton, keeper of the Crown jewels, is dead.

General Sir Fred Middleton will be remembered as having been at the head of the Canadian forces during the Northwest Rebellion of 1885, and also as having had trouble over some furs seized during that campaign. On his retirement from Canada he returned to England and retired to private life.

WHO'LL GET THAT LOAN?

It Depends on Whether Russia or Britain Presses China Most.

Pekin, Jan. 26.—Another loan conference with the Trung-Li-Yamen has taken place, the latter receiving the Russian representatives in the morning and the British Minister in the afternoon. It is believed the British Minister, Sir Claude M. Macdonald, insists upon the opening of the port of Ta-Lien-Wan and that Great Britain will not recede from that demand. Whether Great Britain or Russia secures the loan depends upon which exerts the greatest pressure. If Great Britain undertakes to protect China against Russia's displeasure, it is believed the loan will be concluded on the terms proposed by Sir Claude M. Macdonald.

Germany's lease of Kiao-Chou has finally been fixed at 99 years. The Chinese Emperor is greatly displeased.

GERMANY AND CHINA.

The Minister of Foreign Affairs Makes a Statement in the Reichstag.

Berlin, Jan. 26.—Addressing the members of the Budget Committee in the Reichstag yesterday, Baron von Bulow, Minister for Foreign Affairs, referred at length to China. He said the negotiations now concluded had resulted, first, in the Governor of Shan Tung being removed and forever debarred from holding high office; six high officials, named by Germany, had also been removed and punished, and proceedings had been instituted for the punishment of the actual perpetrators of the crime; second, China had promised to pay 3,000 taels for the material losses of the mission; third, as atonement for the death of the missionaries, three churches were to be erected, each provided with an Imperial tablet showing them to be under the protection of the Chinese Emperor—one at Tsin-Nig, another at Tsao-Chou-Fu, and a third at the place where the murders were committed. China grants 66,000 taels for each church and free sites. Another 2,000 taels is assigned for building seven secure residences for the Catholic prefecture of Tsao-Chou Fu. Fourth, a special Imperial edict is issued for the protection of the German missions.

"China," Baron von Bu low explained, "has thus complied with all our demands. Bishop Anzer regards the Imperial protection tablets as extremely advantageous. The privilege is rarely accorded, and will considerably heighten the prestige of the Catholic missionaries in the eyes of the Chinese.

"The German Government believes it has done all that is necessary for the prevention of further outrages. The best guarantees, however, are the permanent presence, under the treaty, of German men-of-war and a garrison at Kiao-Chou, by which it is hoped the authorities and population of China will not again forget that no wrong done to German subjects will be allowed to go unpunished."

Japan the Moving Spirit.

London, Jan. 26.—The Daily Mail says that a Japanese trader will shortly land Japanese goods at Ta-Lien-Wan, with the object of testing whether the port is to be regarded as being open or under Russian control. The outcome of this action will undoubtedly influence the relations between Russia and Japan.

The paper adds that every detail respecting common action by Great Britain and Japan in Chinese waters has been definitely agreed upon. Japan being, as she has been throughout, the moving spirit.

Russia Not Likely to Persist.

London, Jan. 26.—The St. James Gazette yesterday afternoon says it has authority for stating that Russia is not likely to persist in her opposition to the opening of Ta-Lien-Wan.

France Will Have a War Medal.

Paris, Jan. 26.—The Chamber of Deputies yesterday, calmly discussing the war budget, adopted, in spite of the objections of General Billot, the Minister of War, a medal commemorative of the war of 1870.

The Budget Committee adopted a motion to embody in the mail contract of the French Trans-Atlantic Company the prohibition to cross the Newfoundland banks during the fishing season, but empowering the Government to suspend its enforcement until it obtained a similar engagement from other powers.

ROW IN BELGIAN CHAMBER.

Socialists Kicked Up a Racket and Had a Hot Fight With the Troops.

Brussels, Jan. 26.—M. Demblon, the Socialist who violently attacked the President of the Chamber of Deputies on Friday last, entered the vestibule of the Chamber of Deputies yesterday afternoon, accompanied by a band of Socialists. The officer in command of the guard informed him that, in pursuance of the President's order, he could not be allowed to enter, whereupon M. Demblon raised cries of "Vive l'Arme," "Vive la Republique." A crowd collected and attempted to rush the soldiers, with the result that there was a violent scuffle, the troops withstanding the mob with fixed bayonets, and a hand-to-hand fight taking place between Socialists and anti-Socialists.

Indescribable Turmuit.

For the time the tumult was indescribable, and a strong body of police was required to quell the disorder. Within the Chamber of Deputies the greatest excitement also prevailed. The Socialist deputies demanded to know who was responsible for the violence of the soldiers towards the deputies. The tumult became deafening, and the Ministers who attempted to reply were shouted down.

There was further uproar in the House when one of the questioners declared he was responsible for the presence of the troops in the Chamber, adding, as a warning to the Socialists, that he would always do his duty against them.

M. Vandervelde, Socialist, denounced President Bearnaert for calling him a "fighting man," whereupon the President suspended the sitting amid great disorder.

When business resumed, the President made a speech justifying the action taken against the Socialists, whereupon M. Vandervelde again rose and uttered a violent tirade against the quaestors, and asked who had ordered the Socialists to be thrashed.

British Fleet Divided.

London, Jan. 26.—The Shanghai correspondent of the Daily Mail says: "The British fleet has been divided into two squadrons, one at Chusan, under Admiral Sir Alexander Buller, on board the Centurion, and the other at Chemulpo, under the command of Rear-Admiral Fitzgerald."

Silly Vaporings of Babbling Bipeds.

Madrid, Jan. 26.—The Heraldo, commenting on the recent debate in Washington concerning Cuba, lauds the discretion and energy displayed by Speaker Reed. It says: "He is a Yankee who deserves not to be one, considering his fine qualities and serious culture, which have effectively counter-balanced the silly vaporings of the babbling bipeds in the capitol."

AMERICA'S BEST DOCTORS

Say Dodd's Kidney Pills Are the Only Cure For Bright's Disease.

Ingersoll, Jan. 24—Only a couple of weeks ago the remarkable recovery of farmer G. J. Cooke from Kidney Disease, through the agency of Dodd's Kidney Pills, was reported.

Now the whole town is talking of a yet more extraordinary cure by that God-sent medicine.

Michael Sherlock was cured of kidney and bladder disease of five years' standing by a course of treatment with Dodd's Kidney Pills, and makes public statement of his case.

The most eminent physicians on the continent now pronounce Dodd's Kidney Pills the one and only sure, unfailing cure for Bright's Disease, Diabetes, Dropsy, Lumbago, Lame Back, Female Disease and all other kidney and blood disorders.

A PRISONER'S CONFESSION.

A "Reserved Case" Made in the Case of Mrs. Poirier.

St. Scholastique, Que., Jan. 26.—At the opening of the court yesterday morning, before the question of the admission of the confession made by the prisoner, Detective McCaskill was called again by the defence to resume some points of his evidence. The witness said that his deposition given in the enquiry before the magistrate was wrong and that the short-hand writer made him use words he never mentioned.

The cross-examination was not important and very little value can be attached to it.

Mr. Poirier made a motion that all the witnesses of the defence be detained in court in case any of them should be required. This motion was granted. At half-past eleven the discussion of the legality of the confession was continued by Mr. Poirier. He argued on this point for an hour. The court then adjourned until two o'clock, when Dr. Desmarais will resume the discussion for the defence.

At two o'clock Mr. Desmarais began his plea on that important point of law as to the confession of the prisoner. He cited several judgments in connection with the present case and the more recent is the adjudgment of the Supreme Court of the United States in a case of Bram, accused of murder, which judgment was rendered on the 18th of December last at Washington and the next recent decision of Justice De Lorimer in the case of Nulty, in Joliette. In both cases the confession of the prisoner was rejected and the learned criminalist argued that the same thing may be decided in the present case. Mr. Desmarais spoke for two hours on that question and at four o'clock Mr. Mathieu, the Crown Prosecutor, answered in a few words. Mr. McKay, the Crown's counsel, came after and was not long. Mr. Poirier replied for the defence and the court in a long and elaborate judgment made a "reserved case" on the question to be decided by the Court of the Queen's bench appeal side.

Severe Bronchitis Yields Promptly to Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine.

I used your Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine for severe attack of Bronchitis. I got better from the time of taking the first dose. Having a family of young children, my doctor's bill have annually came to a considerable sum. I believe a bottle of Dr. Chase's Syrup occasionally will aid me in reducing them very materially.

W. R. Alger,
Insurance Agent,

A Bogus Freemason.

Tacoma, Wash., Jan. 25.—George Fleming, who has just been convicted and sent to the State Penitentiary at Walla Walla, to serve two and a half years for obtaining money under false pretenses, has made a confession, which, if it were not corroborated by more than 100 letters from different Masonic lodges in the United States and Canada, would be received with incredulity. Fleming is a bogus Mason, yet so skilfully has he applied himself that he has been complimented by grand masters on his knowledge of Masonry. By his own admission he lived for years from money borrowed under false pretences from Masons, amounts varying from $10 to several hundred, or, as he told ex-Sheriff Van Devanter, "according to their circumstances and times." The total amount of money thus obtained will probably reach $20,000.

Physical strength and energy contribute to strength of character, and both may be had by taking Hood's Sarsaparilla.

Twinging Shooting Pain.

Mr. Wm. Dyson, Guelph, Ont., says: "My experience with Doan's Kidney Pills proves them to be a splendid medicine for any one troubled with backache or urinary difficulties. I had bad pains in my back and shooting pains all over my body, together with dizziness and sleeplessness. Through the use of Doan's Kidney Pills I am now entirely cured and feel braced up as young as ever I was."

How to Cure all Skin Diseases."

CATARRH!

F. F. C. C.
Forsyth's Faultless Catarrh Cure.

A POSITIVE CURE FOR CATARRH AND COLD IN THE HEAD.

This effective remedy for Catarrh and Cold in the head is a fume inhalent—it goes direct to the seat of disease and gives relief in a marvellously quick time. It will cure the slightest cold in the head almost instantly, and, if faithfully and persistently used, it will cure the most stubborn and long standing cases of chronic catarrh of the head—it never fails to do its work—it is easily applied—it is harmless to use—you simply take a small portion of the remedy in the palm of the hands, rub the hands together, then partly open them and inhale the fumes from the remedy into the throat and nose, and rub a little of the remedy on sides of the nose and temples.

Dear Sir—I have been using catarrh remedy of different kinds for the last fifteen years, but find "Forsyth's Faultless Catarrh Cure" the best I have used, and have no hesitation in recommending it to any one troubled with catarrh or cold in the head.

Yours sincerely,

Dear Sir—I take pleasure in giving my testimonial to the efficacy and value of Forsyth's Faultless Catarrh Cure. I was induced through a friend to give it a trial for catarrhal cold in the head; the result was marvellous. I cannot speak too highly of its merits. I can faithfully recommend it to anyone troubled with chronic catarrh or cold in the head.

High-Grade Cemetery Work

AT A MODERATE PRICE.

The element of permanence which attaches to the erection of any memorial to the dead renders it highly desirable that no mistake be made in the selection either of design or of materials.

A mistake is a serious matter. Let us help you to make a right decision. Our specialty is the erection of monuments which are unique without being grotesque, and artistic without being over-decorated.

We manufacture from all first-quality granites, and as WE SELL DIRECT TO CUSTOMERS, we save the latter all agents' profits. Then, too, there is a decided advantage for the buyer in dealing with one responsible firm for both the manufacture and the setting of a monument.

All our work is guaranteed, NO CHARGE being made if not strictly according to contract. Write us for designs and estimates.

Sons of Scotland Concert in Lakefield.

The town hall at Lakefield was crowded Monday night at the concert given under the auspices of the Sons of Scotland. Miss Tessa McCallum, elocutionist, and Miss Detta Zeigler, soloist, furnished the programme and everybody was delighted with their numbers. This is the first appearance of these young ladies in Lakefield and should they return again they will be greeted by a very large audience. Miss McCallum excels in her Scotch selections. Among Miss Zeigler's selections were "When Kye Come Hame," and "I'm Wearin' Awa Jean." These, as well as all others, received merited applause.

FATAL ACCIDENT TO MR. R. D. HAMILTON.

AS THE RESULT OF INTERNAL INJURIES HE DIED LAST NIGHT.

With Mr. J. S. Knapman he Stepped on a False Flooring over an Open Elevator Shaft and Fell a Distance of Thirty-Five Feet.

The sad news of Mr. R. D. Hamilton's death last evening in the Hamilton City Hospital, cast a gloom over almost every home in Peterborough, as he was universally esteemed amongst all classes.

As announced yesterday afternoon, Mr. Hamilton met with an accident in Hamilton through falling down the shaft of an elevator. At first it was thought that the extent of the injuries received was a fractured thigh, but the worst was feared when shortly after three o'clock Mr. Peter Hamilton received a second telegram from Mr. W. G. Ferguson, urging him to come at once to the bedside of his brother. Unfortunately he arrived too late as death came about ten minutes before the train reached Hamilton.

The circumstances of the accident, as told by Mr. Ferguson, are as follows:—At about twelve o'clock a party of Peterborough curlers, who were sight-seeing in Hamilton before they went to the rink to play, visited the large establishment of Messrs. Wood & Vallance. In the party were Messrs. R. D. Hamilton, J. S. Knapman, W. G. Ferguson, W. G. Morrow and S. Ray. Others were there before them. Messrs. H. LeBrun and H. Phelan had just preceded the party. As the members of the firm were busy showing the other visitors through, Mr. Knapman, who formerly resided in Hamilton, undertook to pilot this particular party around the premises. They were just preparing to ascend to the third story and, intending to take advantage of the elevator, Mr. Knapman raised the gate of the railing, which guarded it, and stepped in, accompanied by Mr. Hamilton. The other three members of the party who were following close behind, were horrified to see the flooring suddenly give way between the two gentlemen and participate them down the shaft, the lamentable accident being occasioned by the fact of an automatic false flooring having closed up the shaft, as the elevator passed up to a flat above. This flooring was in the form of light trap doors intended merely to prevent the cold air ascending the shaft, and were so made as to be easily displaced by the ascent or descent of the hoist. The combined weight of Messrs. Hamilton and Knapman caused the doors to swing downwards instantly, and the two Peterborough gentlemen fell a distance of about 35 feet into the cellar. Mr. Ferguson looking down the shaft saw them lying in the cellar and accompanied by the others, hurried down. Both were conscious although the fall was was a terrific one. Mr. Knapman could stand when lifted to his feet, but Mr. Hamilton's leg gave way beneath him and he stated that he was sure it was broken. A physician who was summoned could detect no injuries on a hasty examination. On being removed to the hospital, however, it was ascertained that Mr. Hamilton's thigh bone was broken, as well as his collar bone. Internal injuries were also feared. Mr. Knapman miraculously escaped any injuries beyond being badly shaken up and bruised to some extent. Mr. Hamilton was most anxious to learn the extent of his injuries and as in the course of a couple of hours, the unfavourable symptoms began to develop internally and he gradually lost his colour, he was made acquainted with the facts. Towards evening he sank rapidly, although every effort was made to stave off the approach of death. Consciousness was retained until almost the last, but a few minutes after Mr. Ferguson left him to meet Mr. Peter Hamilton at the train, he breathed his last.

Accompanied by a number of the curlers the body was brought home on the noon train to-day.

Apart from the exceedingly sad and sudden manner of Mr. Hamilton's death, the mere fact of his death is a great shock to the community, where he was born, raised and educated, and where he was held in the very highest respect and esteem, amounting in many cases to a feeling akin to brotherly love, for it is hardly probable that there was a man in town that had more intimate associates or "chums" than the late lamented R. D. Hamilton. He was the fourth son of the late James Hamilton, and was born in Peterborough forty years ago. He was educated here and here he has lived all his life. At an early age he became associated with the agricultural implement business of his brother, Mr. Peter Hamilton, and became thoroughly acquainted with its details. When the company was formed Mr. Hamilton was taken in as active partner and has since been an important factor in its success. He had charge of the office department of the great business of the company, financing and correspondence, and in this capacity he was thorough, methodical and eminently successful. He possessed himself so thoroughly of the details the business in all its ramifications, he had reduced his work to such complete system that he was able to get through an amount of work truly astonishing. He is credited with having been as capable and expert an office man as was to be found in the country. Mr. Hamilton was married seventeen years ago to Miss Parks, of Toronto, and she and two children, a boy and a girl, survive him. In this connection a sad coincidence can be related. Yesterday Mr. Hamilton and his Peterborough friends were passing the Royal Hotel in Hamilton, and he remarked that seventeen years ago he was a guest at that hotel while on his wedding tour, and a few hours after that remark he was cold in death. Thus are the happiest and saddest associations possible connected with the city of Hamilton. Mr. Hamilton, while devoted to business, found time to busy himself with other interests. He was an ardent devotee of the culture of flowers was a patron of the Horticultural Society, and his trim lawns, brightened with beautiful flowers, was at once a tribute to his success and a model of beauty. His personal qualities were of the most attractive kind. He was genial, jovial and won friends easily, and as easily retained them. He was of a very obliging disposition, and one of the pleasures of his life was to do a good turn. He was generous in his estimation of his fellow men, and had a good word for every body—or if he could not say something good he was silent. He was an enthusiastic wheelman, and took an active part in promoting the interests of that exercise. His hospitality was proverbial and in the summer days his cottage at Chemong always had the latch string outside for his many intimate friends. In all his relations as a citizen, Mr. Hamilton will be missed, and there are few residents of the town, who, under the sad circumstances of death, would be more sincerely or widely mourned than Mr. Hamilton. He leaves behind him to deplore his sad demise a widow and two children, three brothers, Mr. Peter Hamilton and Mr. William Hamilton, town, and Mr. James Hamilton, of Lindsay, and two sisters, Mrs. Robert Innes and Mrs. John Cameron, town.

The funeral will take place from the family residence to Little Lake cemetery to-morrow afternoon at 3 o'clock.

LAST EVENING'S CONCERT.

In Association Hall—Two Bright Young Artists Give a Scotch Programme.

The first concert held under the auspices of the Y.M.C.A. in their beautiful hall took place last evening, and the management is to be congratulated on securing two such talented young artists to open the new hall as Miss Tessa McCallum and Miss Detta Zeigler.

The audience, which was a most fashionable one, was well pleased with the programme.

Both artistes have a strong predilection for Scotch selections, and with the exception of one or two numbers the entire programme was characterized by the accent of Auld Scotia.

Of the many talented elocutionists who have visited Peterborough, none probably have made a more favourable impression than did Miss McCallum. The young lady as well as possessing ability of a superior order, has a manner manner most winsome and prepossessing. In the selections which she rendered she showed a ready faculty for dialect reading, as well as a charming naturalness in her exposition of the characters represented. In her rendition of the more pathetic selections her sympathy was very marked, and for almost every number she received an enthusiastic encore.

Miss Ziegler has a full, rich voice, and her Scotch pronounciation is so excellent that she speedily established herself in the graces of the audience. In her rendition of Haydn's "With Verdure Clad" she surpassed herself and greatly pleased those present by the able manner in which she handled this beautiful selection.

Both artists may be sure of a hearty welcome should they at any time visit Peterborough in the future.

PERSONAL.

Mrs. D. Lewis is visiting friends and relatives in Norwood.

Miss Pauline Johnson, the well-known Indian poetess is to marry her theatrical manager, Mr. Tom Conyn.

Mrs. J. C. Brown, Messrs. H. H. Burton and J. W. Bennet, delegates to the Y.M.C.A. convention in Brantford, arrived home yesterday and report a splendid time in the Telephone City.

Word was received at noon to-day from Hamilton that Mr. J. S. Knapman's injuries were not serious and that he would be able to return to Peterborough in a few days. Mrs. Knapman is in Hamilton with him.

Mr. William Kinsman, of Cobourg, was in town yesterday attending the funeral of his brother-in-law, the late Benjamin Armstrong. It is some sixteen or seventeen years since Mr. Kinsman resided here and he could scarcely realize the changes that have taken place during his absence.

Mr. George Mills of Kingston, and brother of Mr. Joseph Mills of Peterborough, is in town to-day on his return from the Inter-Provincial Convention of Ontario and Quebec Y. M. C. Associations in session at Brantford. Mr. Mills has been the nominator of Hon. The billeting committee is composed of nine members—three being from each League. The reception committee will be arranged by each League choosing, at its next meeting, six members who will act together in this capacity. Music and Press Committees were also appointed. The outlook is good for a rousing convention.

MR. STRATTON'S OPERA HOUSE MEETING.

The public are reminded of the mass meeting of the electors to be held in Bradburn's Opera House on Thursday evening, Jan. 27th. The meeting, which is in the interest of the Government candidate, will be addressed by Mr. Stratton and Hon. G. W. Ross. It is unnecessary perhaps to say anything in praise of the abilities of Hon. G. W. Ross as a speaker. It would only be repeating that he is regarded as the ablest platform orator in the Dominion, who crowds the most matter into the most pungent sentences, expressed in graceful language. He is broad minded and statesmanlike in his treatment of public questions and at the same time his readiness of repartee and his large fund of dry humour that enlivens his more weighty utterances gives piquant variety to his addresses.

Mr. Garvin, the Opposition candidate, is invited to be present, and will be allowed the usual time for an address.

A feature of the meeting will be the presence of the Laurier Quartette Club, of London, Ont., composed of artistic singers, who will render patriotic and campaign songs.

The gallery will be reserved for ladies.

It is expected that this meeting will be one of the most important and interesting political occasions the town has ever seen, and there will doubtless be a very large attendance.

The chair will be taken at 7 30 p.m.

NO MISTAKE.

Our evening contemporary, the Review, goes very far a-field—afar from the facts—to read a lecture to Mr. Stratton on the matter of campaign personalities—accusing him of "conducting a campaign of personalities and abuse against Mr. Garvin." Such an accusation is wide of the truth, as are the majority, if not all, of the specific statements made by the Opposition speakers on the stump in this campaign. Mr. Stratton, as he remarked at North Monaghan, has made no personal references to Mr. Garvin in this campaign except such as were warranted by his (Mr. Garvin's) relations to the people as a candidate. That it is the simple truth and any attempt to distort perfectly legitimate criticism of a gentleman in his public capacity into personal abuse, is gratuitous distortion of the plain meaning of words. It seems to us to be proper for Mr. Stratton to point out, as he has done, that if Mr. Garvin, who aspires to be a representative of the most important riding in the Province, had not been able to satisfactory perform the duties of inspector of Public Schools he had little claim to be chosen representative of an important riding like this, which demands a representative who knows its needs and requirements, and is known to, and trusted by, the people. That is the extent of the personalities and abuse of Mr. Garvin charged against Mr. Stratton. The latter has never uttered one word in disparagement of Mr. Garvin as an individual; he has always dealt with him in relation to his being a candidate, and in a perfectly legitimate way.

The Review is dispassionately asked if Mr. Garvin's statement at Buckhorn, that Mr. Stratton was mean enough to employ somebody to tear down his (Mr. Garvin's) posters, which was not heard by one but by many, was not nearer "personal abuse" and contemptible slander.

As regards the Review's reference to Mr. Stratton's remarks in his committee rooms regarding Mr. Burnham, our contemporary is informed that he said nothing in his rooms that he is afraid to repeat in public; and at the proper time and place Mr. Burnham's personal attack on Mr. Stratton at Lakefield, will receive the attention it may seem to deserve.

CROOKED ORATORY.

Speaking in Mr. Garvin's behalf, at the village of Centreville, Mr. A. P. Poussette, Q.C., resorted to personalities, for he devoted nearly the whole of his speech, as reported, to "personal" references to Mr. Garvin's dismissal for incompetency from the position of inspector, by the Peterborough Board of Education; and the impression he sought to produce by his distorted statement of the circumstances was as wide as possible from the facts and on a par with the reckless assertions he has been making on the stump in this campaign. The plain unvarnished facts are that Mr. Garvin, after two years as inspector, was dismissed by the Board on account of his incompetence to give the Board satisfactory services. Mr. Poussette's baseless contention that he was dismissed for political reasons is absurd on the face of it, for the Board by a majority of 9 to 5 was Conservative, and the Board was unanimous in voting that "it was time for a change" in regard to Mr. Garvin as inspector. It is, however, fair to state that the best friends Mr. Garvin had on the Board, men who stood by him as long as possible, were two Liberals.

For persistent and unblushing effrontery in distorting the truth and making false statements, Mr. Poussette, in his capacity as a stumper, "takes the cake." He may twist and turn things as he likes, but he cannot get over the fact that Mr. Garvin was dismissed by the Peterborough School Board because, and only because, he was incompetent to give satisfactory services.

It would puzzle anyone, says the Globe, to understand what good is to be accomplished for the Conservative cause in this Province by entering on a campaign of mendacity. Among the statements being made is one that the Moore Lumber Company had been convicted of defrauding the Government and yet had merely been warned as a punishment. That was asserted by a speaker for the Conservate candidate in West Peterborough, taking his cue possibly from the Mail and Empire. The fact is the company was compelled to pay $10,861 into the treasury and to meet all the expenses of the inquiry, namely $688. This information appeared in all the newspapers more than once, and a public man has therefore no excuse for misrepresenting the facts. If the Globe were to spend a few evenings in West Peterborough it it would find that the Moore Lumber Company mendacity was not the only one that was being made to do duty on the side lines. The Opposition stumpers seem to have entirely suspended, even diplomatic, relations with truth, they indulge in the most palpable perversion of the facts to serve their political ends. They never venture off the safe grounds of generality without getting into the quicksands of error. The moment they commit themselves to definite statement they strike easily disproved falsehood. But such tactics return to plague the inventors. The electors of West Peterborough are too intelligent to be politically deceived by methods, very like those, of hay-fork swindlers.

A GRAND MEETING HELD AT MIDDLETON'S.

SMITH HEARTILY ENDORSES MR. STRATTON.

A Well Attended Meeting—Addresses by Dr. Bell and Mr. Stratton—Public Issues Dealt With—Mr. Stratton Very Heartily Received.

Last night in spite of the storm raging there was a large attendance of the electors of southern Smith at Middleton's school house on the occasion of the fifth meeting of Mr. Stratton's campaign.

Mr. James Middleton, County Councillor, occupied the chair.

Dr. Bell, who opened the speaking, said it was a pleasure to him to turn out in the present campaign to assist Mr. Stratton's candidature and in support of the best Government the Province ever possessed. We wanted a good, clean honest and economical Government, which we now had and which we would doubtless continue to have by grace of the verdict of the people would doubtless give in the present campaign. And the present representative had a record which entitled him to a renewal of confidence. He pointed out that though there had been a slight change in the personnel of the Government the principles upon which the past and present Government of the province had conducted the affairs of the province were unchanged. The Opposition had no particular policy except the lineal descendent of the calf with the cough, the great piggery policy. Dr. Bell went on to speak generally of the successful record of the Government, which was evidenced in the many ways in which it had used the public revenues to promote the public interests. Referring to Mr. Stratton as a representative, Dr. Bell pointed out that

HE WAS NO STRANGER TO THEM, for doubtless he had often appeared before them, for he was, perhaps, the only representative in the Legislative Assembly, who, after every session has taken the trouble to visit his constituents and explain the work of the session, and ask their opinion as to the course he should pursue in their interests, and the speaker urged the electors to give him their hearty support. (Applause.)

Mr. Stratton, after a few introductory remarks, referred to the various sectarian cries that had been used in past provincial campaigns, which had neither honesty nor consistency. Though the same conditions existed now there was nothing heard of these cries. If the Opposition had been honest on these occasions, they would still adhere to the policies that they advocated then. But they had dropped these cries because they found it did not pay and the Opposition would be very glad to have their connection with these base cries forgotten. But though the electors hadn't such short memories the liberal minded Conservative and the liberal minded Reformers had united to stamp out these cries and they had been stamped out and the Opposition had now to resort to some other foundationless expedients to commend their colourless policy to the electorate, such as the petty piggery issue, etc. In dealing with the matter of supreme importance to the people—the financial affairs, Mr. Stratton referred to the fact that that there was no province in the Dominion without a debt except the province of Ontario, which besides this happy condition, had a surplus of assets of over five and a half million dollars, as good as cash—and better, better than cash, for there are no securities as valuable as the Dominion securities at 5 per cent. If the Ontario surplus at 5 per cent were at 3½ per cent. our five and a half millions of surplus would be increased to seven millions. Mr. Stratton went on to meet the charge that the money of the Province was squandered by the Government. He showed that this did not apply to education for the expenditure on education was regulated by the people themselves. The more children they sent to school the greater amount the Government had to spend on education. The expenditure upon the public asylums, etc, while it was very large (over $800,000 a year) to maintain in comfort, over 5,000 unfortunates deprived of reason, was perfectly defensible and justifiable. Yet with all this expenditure the patients or inmates were maintained for $126 per annum for each patient, a cheaper rate than any other country in the world. The condition of things applied equally to other public services, Agriculture, Colonization Roads, Administration of Justice, etc. In these services there had been expended in the past twenty-six years about forty-four millions of dollars, representing money directly returned to the people to lessen direct taxation, and it was asked if that was squandering the resources of the province. A comparison was made with the province of Quebec, which started on even terms with the province of Ontario at Confederation. Now Ontario was out of debt, with a large surplus of assets, and Quebec had thirty-two million dollars of gross debt—twenty-two millions dollars net. The first item in the public accounts of Quebec on the wrong side was the payment of $1,500,000 for interest on the debt, while the first item in the Ontario financial statement was an item of about $250,000 of receipts in the item of interest on its funds.

Mr. Stratton went on to discuss the other leading features of the Government's record, showing why that Government had a strong claim upon the electors for a renewal of confidence, and he submitted claims on his own part, to show that he was entitled to liberal treatment at the hands of the electors. The Opposition, he said, vaguely charged the Government with offences, but it was not in their power to point out where he (Mr. Stratton) had failed to do his best, or to challenge the success of his efforts to promote the interests of the riding in his representative capacity.

The meeting, which was almost solidly in Mr. Stratton's favour, dispersed after hearty cheers for the Queen, the Government and Mr. Stratton.

THEY DON'T LIKE PAPER.

Savages at First Contact Regard the Fabric With Suspicion.

When savage people first come in contact with the whites, some of the wonders that they see is regarded with more suspicion than large sheets of paper. The native is apt to regard paper as a sort of cloth, and the fact that it tears easily and is worthless for most of the purposes to which cloth is put convinces him that it is a fraud.

One or two Kongo travelers told of the disgust with which the natives at first regarded paper. The Kongo tribes, by the way, are on the lookout for sharpers, and it is exceedingly hard work for anybody to sell them a bad quality of cutlery or cloth. Savages soon find, however, that paper is not intended to serve the purposes of cloth. Then they cease to look upon it as a fraud, but they do not think it ranks high among white man's manufactures, and they have little use for it.

Some time ago a well known explorer was traveling in the interior of Queensland, Australia, where he met many natives who had never seen a white man before.

One day a crowd of natives was in the white man's camp carefully inspecting the explorer and his baggage when a newspaper happened to drop out of his pocket.

The natives unfolded and spread it out on the ground. They decided that it must be an article of wearing apparel, and one of them tried it on. He wrapped it round his shoulders like a shawl and sat down on the ground, arranging his covering this way and that and watching the faces of the crowd to see what they thought of his elegant garment, covered as it was with many thousands of curious marks.

Presently, however, an accident happened. While the savage was rearranging his shawl and trying to bring the corners together in front of him the garment began to tear at the nape of his neck. A howl from the crowd called attention to the disaster. The blanket, or whatever it was, was evidently made of the poorest sort of material.

The savage took his covering off, examined the mischief he had wrought, made the tear a little longer and then with his finger poked a hole through the paper.

That settled the fact that the article was worthless. The newspaper suddenly lost all interest for the natives, who turned their attention to less destructible objects.—Pearson's Weekly.

Alleged Brutality of a Teacher.

Orangeville, Jan. 24.—Mr. R. Neelands, teacher of Cataract Public School, was summoned before Magistrates Stubbs and Brook on a charge of excessively punishing Maggie Rowcliffe, a 12-year-old girl. The girl swore that, because she was unable to understand a sum Neelands struck her on the arm and shoulder with a pointer. Although the thrashing was given 10 days ago, the marks were still visible. The magistrates reserved their decision until they could consult the County Crown Attorney.

Sudden Death of a Weston Pioneer.

Toronto, Jan. 24.—Martin Cane, one of the pioneers of the village of Weston, who in 1869 established the sawmill there, and continued to operate it for upwards of thirty years, died very suddenly at 159 Brunswick avenue, Sunday morning. Mr. Cane arose as usual and appeared to be in perfect health, when suddenly his heart pained him, and he died within fifteen minutes. Mr. Cane came from Waterford, Ireland, in 1859.

A GEORGIA HEN COOP.

It Was Sure Proof Against the Inroads of Outsiders.

"There isn't a more faithful being on earth," said a Georgia business man to a reporter, "than one of our Georgia darkies. Neither is there one more superstitious, nor yet again is there one who loves better the products of the hen coop. And Cartersville isn't any different from any one of a hundred southern towns. When I was down there some time ago, a customer of mine who had a fancy for chickens and who had always had more or less trouble in maintaining ownership of them told me he had a remedy and asked me to go around with him and see it. I wanted him to tell me what it was, but he insisted on my seeing it first, so I went along with him, and in a few minutes was standing in his back yard before what was to me the oddest chicken coop I ever saw. It was constructed of large timbers and there were a dozen places in its walls where a hand could be run in and everything cleaned out within reach. Then there was no fastening on the door, nor was there any kind of protection to the fowls. I couldn't understand how such an inviting snap could be of any use to the owner and said as much.

"'The charm is in the timber,' said he.

"'No,' said I.

"'Fact, just the same,' said he. 'You don't see it on the outside and you don't know it, but the darkies around here do, and they won't come within 100 yards of that coop if they can help it. I don't care how full of chickens it is. 'Cause why? It is built of the timbers of a gallows on which a man was hung about three months ago in another county. It cost me something extra to get it, but it has more than paid for itself since I have had it, and I am in the market now to buy all the secondhand scaffolds in Georgia. If you run across a sheriff any place with one for sale, let me know by next mail, won't you, please?'

"It was a true bill," concluded the traveling man, "for I saw a darky tried on it, and he refused a big silver dollar to go down to the coop to get a chicken for breakfast."—Washington Star.

TEAS AND TEAS.

Things Once Used or Now Used as Substitutes for the Chinese Herb.

Of course every one knows that we drink a good deal that isn't tea when we drink a cup of tea. We drink—or are supposed to drink—some tea, some lead and some straw. But there are several "teas" that the drinkers know are not made of tea leaves and yet are not adulterated.

In Peru they drink mate, a tea made from the Ilex paraguensis, a species of holly. This is the only mate tea, but there is a Brazilian tea, gorgonha, called mate there; another tea used in Austria, called Brasilian tea, and several other so called mate teas are made from different varieties of the ilex. In Labrador they make a tea from two species of ledum. Oswego tea was made from the scarlet monarda, and mountain tea from the dwarf evergreen, Gaultheria procumbens. Then clover tea and tansy tea and catnip tea and mint tea are used, though not as beverages.

In Sumatra they use coffee leaves to make tea out of, and the beverage is said to be very refreshing. In Mauritius the leaves of an orchid, Angroecum fragrans, are used. The Tonquinese have teas of their own, made of leaves, berries, barks and woods. The Abyssinians make tea out of the leaves of the Catha edulis. When a sentinel can't leave his post to get a cup of tea, he can chew a leaf or two of this plant, and he won't feel like going to sleep all night. In Tasmania there are said to be more than 200 substitutes for tea; in England they used to make a tea of sage, betony or rosemary and of raspberry leaves; in France they use black currant leaves and borage to make tea, and a century or so ago they gathered in English gardens and fields ash, alder and aloe leaves, and the leaves of whitethorn and blackthorn, out of which to make tea. So it is evident that there are teas and teas.—New York Sun.

Women are not the only ones who are sensitive about their ages. A man doesn't like to be told that he is getting old. Health keeps a man young. It doesn't make any differences if he has lived eighty years. If they have been healthy years he will be hale and hearty and won't look within twenty years as old as he is. Good digestion and rich red blood make people look youthful. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery make rich, red blood. It makes health in the right way. It works according to the right theory, and in 30 years of practice it has proved that the theory is absolutely correct. It begins at the beginning,—begins by putting the stomach, liver and bowels into perfect order, but it begins its good work on the blood before it finishes with the digestive organs. It searches out disease germs wherever they may be and forces them out of the body. All druggists keep the "Discovery."

U. S. Warship Ordered to Havana.

Washington, Jan. 25.—The United States ship Maine has been ordered to Havana. It is said at the Navy Department that no disturbing news has been received from there, but that the movement is rather in the line of a resumption of free intercourse of our naval vessels in Cuban waters, the same as prevailed prior to their withdrawal on account of the outbreak of hostilities.

Secretary of the Navy Long was seen concerning the rumors that were afloat yesterday in regard to the movements of the ships, and said: "So far from there being any foundations for the rumors yesterday of trouble at Havana, matters are now in such condition that our vessels are going to resume their friendly calls at Cuban ports and go in and out just as the vessels of other nations do. The Maine will go in a day or two on just such a visit."

De Lome Wanted to Know.

Minister de Lome called at the State Department about 3 o'clock in pursuit of information concerning the movements of the Maine. He asked and was freely permitted to see the orders sent to Admiral Sicard, directing the Maine to proceed to Havana. The Maine has joined the North Atlantic squadron and for this reason all orders to her go through Admiral Sicard. The fact that the Spanish Minister was shown the orders is regarded as an indication that there is nothing of a threatening or bellicose nature in them.

Rheumatism & Dyspepsia Cured

571 ST. PATRICK STREET,
OTTAWA, July 31st, 1896.

To the Phrenoline Medicine Company, Ltd., Ottawa, Ont.

GENTLEMEN,—On the advice of a friend I tried one bottle of your famous rheumatic remedy, Phrenoline, and to my surprise it cured me of rheumatism, from which I have suffered for many years.

It also cured me of dyspepsia, from which I was suffering at the time, so that I feel now like a new man.

I have tried several remedies for rheumatism, some of which did me a certain amount of good, but nothing that I have taken has done so much for me as your Phrenoline, and I have much pleasure in recommending it to other sufferers.

Yours very truly,

AGE.

I have a dream that somewhere in the days
Since when a myriad suns have burned and died
There was a time my soul was not, for pride
Of spendthrift youth, the pensioner who pays
Dole for the pain of searching through the haze
Where joy lies hidden. As the puffballs ride
The wandering wind across the summer's side,
So winged my spirit in a golden blaze
Of pure and careless present—future naught
But a sad dotard's wail—and I was young
Who now am old. Now years like flashes seem Lambent or gray on the great wall of thought.
This is a song a poet may have sung.
No proof remains. I have but dreamed a dream.

—Helen Hay in Harper's Magazine.

OBTUSE JACK.

Theodora was quite sure she had settled the question at last. For a week past her thinking hours had been filled with an all important subject, or, more properly speaking, two subjects, for the problem was to decide between two men who had seen fit to look upon her as a fitting custodian for their lares and penates.

In accepting George Hunt she felt herself fortified by a rampart of approving relatives and a decorous sense of propriety. As for Jack—well, she had always liked Jack. Everybody liked him. He was a genial, good fellow and always in demand at all social gatherings. But he was poor, as young lawyers generally are, and while people predicted a future for him Theodora thought of the present and decided to let Jack work out his career alone.

The clang at the doorbell was the signal for the last hurried peep in the glass. Theodora felt a moment's pity for Jack as she caught the reflection. They were going to Mrs. Hathaway's soiree, and the mirror gave back to Theodora's vision all the loveliness of her gown, enhanced by the pretty bare neck and crowned by the fair young face.

It occurred to her several times during the evening that Jack was not acting especially worried. Although tonight was the time she had set as the utmost limit of her consideration, he had not intimated by look or word that he remembered this.

Theodora resolved to be severe, and it was with this resolution in mind that she suggested sitting out one of the dances which showed a scrawly "J" opposite on her programme.

"Certainly, if you wish," assented Jack, arranging the cushion behind his head. "In fact, I begin to think I'm a trifle tired myself. Quite a crush here tonight."

"Yes," said Theodora.

"I should think," continued Jack, gazing out into the ballroom, "that Hunt would retire from society, or from dancing at least. Just look at him now whirling around like a top that hasn't been wound up tight enough. He's beginning to wabble."

No response from Theodora.

"He gets terribly red in the face, too, and the way he mops his forehead is a sign of age. He's really quite bald, isn't he? I only hope I'll remember it when I get old."

"Old!" exclaimed Theodora. "Mr. Hunt is a comparatively young man."

"Compared to a centenarian, perhaps so."

Theodora did not deign to answer. After a short silence Jack said, suddenly arranging his head prop more comfortably. "By the way, I've been considering the question I asked you a week ago, and I've concluded to save you the trouble of calculating matters too. It's no use, Theodora, I can't support a wife. I have figured it in every way and I can't make both ends meet."

Theodora's face hardened. "I might have saved you the trouble of calculating by giving my answer a week ago," she said.

"Then you weren't going to accept me anyway?" exclaimed Jack. "By Jove, I was almost afraid you would."

"Indeed?"

"Oh, now, see here, Theodora," exclaimed Jack, for the first time turning toward her. "Don't be down on me. I supposed you'd look at this thing sensibly. Neither of us believe in long engagements, and so it is better to break off entirely than to worry along for six or eight years until all the poetry has disappeared from life."

"You presuppose the case. I never should have suggested waiting."

Theodora arose and smoothed the folds of her draperies.

"Since I'm going to marry another man I don't see the use of any further conversation on this subject."

"Marry another man!" exclaimed Jack, starting forward. "I never thought of that, Theodora."

The consternation in his voice was a satisfaction to her.

"I presume not," she said coldly. "Humbleness is not one of your virtues."

He did not answer her, and she moved toward the door.

"But, Theodora, you know that I love you. It is for your sake"—

"No, I do not know, nor can you make me believe it. However, that is of no consequence."

"But it is of consequence, Theodora. May I ask who it is you are going to marry?"

"It is Mr. Hunt," she replied haughtily.

One day, about a month after Mrs. Hathaway's soiree, Jack met George Hunt on the street.

"By the way, Hunt," Jack exclaimed, "I presume I'm a little behindhand, but I want to congratulate you, wish you joy and all that sort of thing."

"My dear fellow, to what am I indebted for all this?" asked Hunt, shaking in a desultory manner the hand which Jack held out.

"To the honor of being the future husband of one of our most charming young ladies," laughed Jack.

Mr. Hunt blushed unbecomingly. "You are either laboring under a delusion or else this is a very meager joke. I am engaged to no young lady."

"But Theodora"— began Jack unguardedly.

"The young lady you mention did herself the honor of refusing me," said Mr. Hunt curtly.

"I beg your pardon, by Jove, I do, Hunt. It was all a mistake. Some one misinformed me. I'm awfully sorry, but I've been behind the times lately."

"It is of no consequence," said Mr. Hunt, passing on.

Not many days afterward Theodora started for a prolonged visit to her aunt, who lived in a gay town some distance from Theodora's home. She had seen very little of Jack since the soiree, but just as the train was starting he swung himself on and in his hurried passage through the car tossed a box into her lap.

"Goodby!" he called out, and she watched him swing himself off the platform. For some unaccountable reason her heart was behaving very strangely. She was that one of the other officers had softly approached him to test his nerve. The man at the helm was nearest to him, but he could not be suspected of having left his post to play a trick on his officer. In fact, no sailor aboard would have dared to take such a liberty. For a few seconds the mate was as sure that he had a human being to deal with as that he lived, but when he found nothing before him and yet heard the mocking laughter, as if some one were moving away, his flesh began to creep. Going back to the binnacle, he said to the man at the wheel:

"Williams, have you seen or heard anything queer?"

"Can I speak out, sir?" asked the man, who betrayed excitement in his voice.

"Yes, of course. What did you see?"

"I seen sunthin like a shadder beside you, sir, and I heard a laugh that never come from the throat of a human being. It's a ghost, sir, and this is a doomed ship!"

The mate poohpoohed and bulldozed to make light of the affair, as it was politic to do, but though the man was reduced to silence it was evident that he was fully satisfied that a spook was aboard. Next morning the mate related his experience to the cabin, and as he was a man whose word could not be questioned no one brought ridicule to bear. On the contrary, taking it as an accepted fact that a ghost had been felt, if not seen, by three different persons, we began fishing for some natural and plausible reason to account for the thing. Were the men depressed in spirit? Had they overeaten? Did each one sleep for the moment? Was the icy breath a sudden puff of wind and was the laughter the creaking of bulkheads as the ship lifted or fell? We argued it out that it must be something of the sort, but the men forward had their own ideas and were very much cowed and put out. However, as in the previous instances, the passage of time worked something of a cure. We were bound for Australia, and we had stretched away into the Indian ocean and weeks had gone by before we got another scare. This time it came to the captain himself. At 10 o'clock at night he sat reading in his cabin when a chill suddenly passed over him and he felt two ice cold hands on his neck. It was as if a strong man had put his thumbs together on the back of the neck and clutched the throat with his fingers. Captain Halpin started up and shook his assailant off and turned to strike him. His idea was that the crew had mutinied and one of the men had stolen in to seize him. No person was there, but as if in answer to the captain's oath of astonishment there was the same low, cynical laughter heard by the others. His stateroom door was standing open and had been for two hours, but the laughter died away in that direction and the door closed. The captain came on deck and called me and whispered that a man had passed into his stateroom. Together we entered and made search, and, of course, found nothing. No man could have been more upset. His experience had been even more trying than the others, and all his argument had been torn to shreds. Something had gripped him, though no marks were left to prove it. Some one or something had laughed, though the captain was all alone in his cabin.

I promised Captain Halpin not to say a word even to my brother officers, and he certainly did not mention the matter, but somehow the particulars of the incident leaked out in a day or two, and during the remainder of the voyage, though the ghost did not appear again, it was the hardest kind of work to maintain discipline. When we reached Sydney at last, every man of the crew cut and ran, and such queer stories were put in circulation that the Nemo had hard work to ship a crew for the return voyage. A broken leg sent me to the hospital, and she sailed without me, but I kept myself posted as to the ghost. Midway between Australia and the Cape the first mate had his throat clutched by cold and unseen hands as he lay in his bunk one evening, and two nights later the same thing happened to a man in the deckhouse. While discipline was upset and things in a bad state the trouble would have passed away if the ghost had not played his pranks on the man at the wheel a few nights subsequently. Every man forward then declared his determination to quit the ship, and they had provisioned two boats and were about to lower them when a man-of-war hove in sight. A signal of distress brought her along, and you can judge how the minds of the men were affected when I say that they preferred going aboard of the man-of-war in irons to returning to duty. Enough men were spared to work the ship home, and though the ghost remained quiet there was an uncanny feeling with all. For four weeks after loading for India the Nemo could not ship a man. The ghost business had got into the newspapers, and the stories were circulated in the taverns, and though men would have taken their chances in a leaky ship they fought clear of spooks. A crew was at last secured by paying extra wages, but after the Nemo had been out 17 days the ghost laid its cold hands on one of the men, and the entire crew, led by the third mate, abandoned the ship at sea. The captain and the two mates stood by her and eventually got her into a port, but her reputation was blasted forever. The case was laid before all sorts of men, and scoffers and believers alike visited the ship in search of a clew. Plenty of deductions and conclusions were arrived at, but they satisfied only a certain few. After many months the Nemo loaded at Liverpool for a South American port, and her crew was composed entirely of Germans fresh from a China voyage. Not one had ever heard of her troubles, but they were fated to find out for themselves. A week after sailing the ghost appeared as lively as ever, and again the crew put off and left her in charge of her officers. She was a doomed ship, and her owner did the wisest thing possible by selling her at the best price he could get. As a coal barge she was never troubled again by the ghost, though why it shouldn't have continued aboard no one can tell. You can form your own theories and draw your own conclusions of the whole affair. I bothered with it for several years, hoping to get at some satisfactory elucidation, but it remains a mystery still. If there had been no ghost, the ship would not have been twice abandoned and finally sold for a fifth of her cost, and that such was the case there are a hundred newspaper articles to prove. Indeed the hulk is in commission today, and is always pointed out as the "ghost ship."

Nearly all women look forward to the ordeal of motherhood with so much dread and anxiety that only after the baby has safely arrived and made a warm little place for himself in the mother's heart, does she fairly realize that it was indeed a good angel who brought this wee nestling to brighten and sweeten her life.

Women who are approaching motherhood with a sense of fear and solicitude, or in a weakened physical condition, need the help of that marvelous "Favorite Prescription," invented by Dr. R. V. Pierce, chief consulting physician of the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, Buffalo, N. Y., and designed expressly to restore healthy vigor to the delicate feminine structure involved in motherhood. It takes away all of the danger and most of the pain attendant upon motherhood, and confers on the baby that lusty hardihood which is a joy to a mother's heart.

An Ohio lady, Mrs. Lefa Hoffmire, of Clarington, Monroe Co., in a letter to Dr. Pierce, says: "I had always been healthy until four years ago. Before the birth of my child I suffered almost death a dozen times. Had what we call milk leg for four years. Could not stand it to be on my feet long at a time without swelling dreadfully. Before my last baby was born, I had every symptom of a return of the trouble. My leg swelled badly. I read of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, and thought I would try it. I took six bottles, and when my baby was born I was not sick at all after I was out of labor, which lasted only a short time. In times previous, labor had lasted twelve to fifteen hours. I am a well woman to-day, and have been since I got out of bed, when my little boy was nine days old. I give the credit all to Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. I will never do without it during such a time."

Mr. Pearce having received a majority of votes, was declared elected Warden for 1898.

Mr. Pearce thanked the council for having elected him Warden of the County of Peterborough for the second time. He would say that he had done no canvassing for the office, which he felt was another reason for pleasure at this renewal of their confidence. Just twenty years ago he first became a member of the County Council, and he could honestly say that he had endeavoured to discharge his duties as councillor faithfully and to the best of his ability. He again thanked the council for the honour, and asked for their co-operation in the work of the present year. Mr. Pearce was warmly applauded on taking his seat.

ROUTINE BUSINESS.

The clerk read the minutes of the last meeting of the council, which were, on motion, confirmed.

Mr. Casement moved, seconded by Mr. Hawthorne, that Mr. William Garbutt be elected auditor.

In amendment, Mr. Anderson moved, seconded by Mr. Peck, that Mr. Geo. Stewart be auditor.

The amendment was carried.

The Warden appointed Mr. F. J. Bell as the other auditor.

Mr. Casement moved, seconded by Mr. Fitzgerald, that Mr. W. A. Stratton be re-appointed Sessional Clerk.

Mr. Hawthorne moved, seconded by Mr. Brown, that the whole council be a committee to strike the standing committees for the year.—Carried.

THE SWING BRIDGE AT LAKEFIELD.

Mr. Quinn of Lakefield was heard before the council in reference to the T. V. C. bridge over the river at Lakefield. He said the people were all in favour of a low swing-bridge over the canal. A very large amount of damage and obstruction would result from a high bridge. He desired to present a petition from 450 of the people of Lakefield praying for a low swing bridge ; 68 had signed the petition from Young's Point and 230 more from the neighbourhood of Smith. He said that according to Mr. Rogers, the engineer, it was intended to raise the bridge six feet. This would render Mr. Crawford's vacant lot valueless. Mr. Smith's blacksmith shop, Mr. John Isbster's shop and house, Mr. McWilliam's carriage shop, and Wm. Ash's store occupied by Hill's grocery, would all sustain serious damage by a high bridge over the river. A low swing bridge would be no impediment or damage. Therefore the petitioners earnestly prayed that the County Council would pass a resolution memorialising the government for a low swing bridge. He also pointed out the danger that might ensue to the lives of occupants of carriages crossing a high bridge at this point by the blowing of the whistles of passing steamers.

In reply to a question from the Warden, Mr. Quinn stated that resolutions in favor of a low swing bridge had been passed by the municipalities of Smith, Harvey, Douro and Lakefield.

The Warden thought that the County Council had no power to interfere in the matter.

Mr. Casement moved, seconded by Mr. Eastland, that the petition be referred to the Roads and Bridges Committee—Carried.

On motion of Mr. Brown the council adjourned until 10 o'clock Wednesday morning.

SECOND DAY—WEDNESDAY.

The council resumed session this morning, with all the members present.

The Warden, J. B. Pearce, in the chair.

The clerk read the minutes of yesterday's session of the council, which were, on motion, adopted.

On motion of Mr. Brown, a deputation from Asphodel, consisting of Mr. James Andrews, reeve, and Mr. John Breckenridge, clerk of the municipality, were heard before the council, asking for an appropriation for the road leading to Birdsall's station, adjacent to Steel's bridge.

The reeve and Mr. Breckenridge then addressed the council in reference to their petition. On motion of Mr. Brown, seconded by Mr. Peck, the matter was referred to the Roads and Bridge Committee.

Moved by Mr. Eastland, seconded by Mr. Shaw, that the County Council make a liberal grant towards the restoration of Julian's Landing wharf and memorialize the Dominion Government asking that they complete the work in time for the boats in 1898.

On motion of Messrs. Hawthorne and Brown the matter was referred to the Road and Bridge Committee.

A number of communications received from Mr. Porter Preston, clerk of the municipality of Belmont and Methuen, were referred to the several committees.

STANDING COMMITTEES.

Mr. Middleton read the following report of the special committee appointed to strike the standing committees for 1898, which was adopted and council afterwards appointed the chairmen named for the several committees :

County Property—Messrs Middleton, Casement, Fitzgerald and Peck. Mr Middleton, chairman.

Appointments to Office—Messrs Middleton, Casement, Anderson, Hawthorne and Shaw. Mr Shaw, chairman.

Roads and Bridges—Messrs Brown, Anderson, Peck, Casement, Fitzgerald, Eastland, Middleton, Hawthorne and Shaw. Mr Anderson chairman.

On motion of Mr. Casement the council adjourned, and the Committee on Roads and Bridges met to consider the petition of the Asphodel deputation.

MARK STREET CHURCH NOTES.

Two excellent sermons were given on Sunday by the pastor. In the morning his subject was "The Apocalyptic Vision." He gave an encouraging and helpful picture of heaven. His text was Revelation vii., 9, 10.

In the evening he chose as his text Luke xix., 41, 42, and for a topic "A wicked people and a broken hearted preacher. The evening service was largely attended.

The Sunday school also had a good attendance. Others will also be welcomed.

Church prayer meeting will be on Wednesday evening, as usual, at 8 o'clock.

The cottage prayer meeting this week will be at Mr. J. Mowry's, on Lake street. Mr. J. J. Cunningham is leader. It will be held on Thursday instead of Friday, on account of the Ashburnham public school concert in the town hall on Friday evening.

Rev. Mr. Moore is conducting evangelistic services at Bethel each evening this week.

Topics of The Day.

Every one is surprised at the rapidity and efficacy with which Nerviline—nerve pain cure—relieves neuralgia and rheumatism. Nerviline is a specific for all nerve pains and should be kept on hand by every family.

Don't Go On.

Don't go on suffering from nervous troubles that make strong men weak, impotent, and unable to do the right thing at the right time, all because the system is tobacco poisoned. We urge you to test Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, they make the blood pure and rich, tingling with life and energy, and the man who feels cold they make young and happy again.

Wild With Eczema

Hands and Limbs Covered with Blisters, and Great Red Blotches.

Scratched Until Almost Wild. Burned Like Fire. Sleep Impossible.

Cuticura Brings Speedy Relief, and a Permanent Cure at a Cost of $2.

I was a sufferer for eight years from that most distressing of all diseases, Eczema, but can now say truthfully that I am entirely cured. I tried some of the best physicians in the country, but they did me little good. The palms of my hands were covered, and would become inflamed; little white blisters at first would appear, then they would peel off, leaving a red, smooth surface which would burn like fire and itch; well, there is no name for it. On the inside of the upper part of both my limbs, great red blotches, not unlike hives, would appear, and as soon as I became warm, the burning and itching would begin. Night after night I would lie awake all night and scratch and almost go wild. I heard of CUTICURA remedies, got a box of CUTICURA (ointment), a bottle of CUTICURA RESOLVENT (blood purifier), and gave them a thorough trial, and after a few applications I noticed the redness and inflammation disappear; before I had used one box there was not a sign of Eczema left. I can truthfully assert that $2.00 worth of CUTICURA REMEDIES cured me. Any one I meet who has Eczema, I do not hesitate a moment in recommending your remedies.

THE KLONDIKE TRADE FOR CANADA.

An All-Canadian Route to the Yukon to Be Opened in Six Weeks.

A Railway From Stickine River to Teslin Lake to be Built by September 1st--How the Railway is to be Constructed--No Cash Subsidy--A Grant of Mineral Lands--Each Alternate Block to be Held by the Country--A Royalty to be Imposed.

Ottawa, Jan. 27.—The Klondike trade for Canada. An all-Canadian route to the Yukon gold fields. This is what the Government of Canada has secured. This is what the Government of Canada has accomplished. The story of the achievement is one of the best chapters in the history of progressive and courageous administration in this or any other country. Among all the great tasks that have confronted Canadian statesmen none was ever more suddenly precipitated upon the country, more enmeshed in danger and difficulty, more strenuous for immediate and courageous handling, than the administration of the Yukon. The Pacific coast cities of the United States were the first to receive the returning miners, the first to profit by the great discoveries, the first to feel the thrill of the awakening enthusiasm over the wealth of the Klondike. The steamers coming down the Alaskan rivers traded with American ports. But not for long. The Canadian Government was active. The Canadian press soon awakened. It was very quickly established that the new gold regions were Canadian territory, that the old flag of empire flew in the far north, that Canada was alive to her duty and ready for her responsibility. Mr. Sifton, the singularly able and energetic Minister of the Interior, in consequence undertook a perilous autumn journey to Dyea and Skaguay, crossed the hard Chilcoot and White Passes, and investigated the various routes for all-Canadian transportation; a supply expedition was sent out under Major Walsh, a territorial judge was appointed and sent on his difficult outward journey, and detachments of mounted police were sent with the relief expedition and distributed through the country to give succour, to preserve order, to protect property, to collect royalties and customs revenues.

The Customs Blockade.

To do all this was to do much, but much still remained to be done. The question of first and of overwhelming importance was to secure the trade of that country for Canada, and thus an all-Canadian route to the Klondike became necessary. How was this to be secured? At what cost to the treasury? By what method of construction? Six or seven weeks ago Mr. Sifton went to Washington and by negotiation secured a modification of the obnoxious customs regulations by which miners who bought their supplies in Canada were submitted to onerous, if not prohibitory, taxation. It will be understood that from Dyea to the summit of the Chilcoot Pass, and from Skaguay to the summit of the White Pass, it is necessary to pass over a strip of American territory, and as there are, of course, no facilities for bonding, it is the practice of the United States authorities to send a customs inspector with each individual or party at a cost of $6 a day for the inspector and $8 a day for expenses. This amounts in cases to $70 or $75 for the trip, and simply means a prohibitory tax upon individuals who have purchased their outfits in Canada, and in the end would give a practical monopoly of the outfitting business to the coast cities of the United States. How civilization is outraged in the name of protection! Mr. Sifton induced American authorities to enter into an agreement by which American customs inspectors were to make an inventory of the goods carried by parties when entering upon American territory and to give certificates which could be produced before a customs inspector upon the other side and upon which the rate and amount of duties could be levied. But for some reason or other, probably through pressure from Senators and Representatives from the Pacific coast States and owing to representations from the American business centers on the coast, the agreement is not being carried out.

For these and for many other weighty reasons the Government has given deep and earnest attention to the question of opening up an all Canadian route to the Klondike, and the country will be glad to know that the problem has been solved, and solved, one cannot but believe, to the satisfaction of the great mass of the people of Canada.

The Canadian Yukon Railway.

Therefore, subject to the approval of Parliament, the Government has provided for the construction of a railway from the Stickine River, in British Columbia, near the mouth of Telegraph Creek, Glenora, or the mouth of Clear Water River, northward to Teslin Lake, a distance of about 150 miles, thus giving connection with the Lewis or Yukon River, and an all-Canadian rail and steamboat route from a port on the Pacific coast to Dawson City. This road must be completed and in operation by the 1st of September next. The contractors must also construct a practicable sleigh road from the mouth of the Stickine River to Teslin Lake, and provide suitable shelters and stopping places for travellers at intervals of not more than 25 miles along this road, and the road and shelters must be available for use not later than six weeks from now. The contractors must also provide steamboat transport of freight and passengers between Teslin Lake and Dawson City. This means that from this moment Canada is in a position to tell the world that from the opening of navigation travellers are guaranteed an all-Canadian route to the Yukon by steamer, and a sleigh road, with adequate shelters, with Canadian supplies untolled and untaxed, from the purchasing centres of older or western Canada to the remote point of destination. At once this must turn the outfitting trade to Canada, stimulate business among traders and manufacturers in the East, and give new life to our Pacific coast communities. The only men who seemed to have adequate financial strength for the work, the necessary experience and the courage and ability to give the necessary guarantees of good faith and financial capacity were Mr. William Mackenzie of Toronto and Mr. Donald D. Mann of Montreal, and it is with these men that the Government has entered into an agreement for the construction of the Canadian Yukon Railway within the time and under the conditions specified.

No Cash Subsidy.

The country will learn with satisfaction, and probably with astonishment, in view of all the past history of railway construction in Canada, that the contractors are not to receive a cash subsidy, but, on the other hand, are required to put up a deposit of a quarter of a million of dollars as a guarantee for the execution of their contract. According to Mr. Ogilvie's estimates there are 75,000,000 acres of gold-bearing territory in the Yukon country, and out of this the Government proposes to grant 25,000 acres a mile of mineral lands, or 3,750,000 acres in all, to the contractors in order to secure the construction of the railway from Glenora to Teslin Lake, the connecting steamship service on the waterways and the immediate sleigh road from the Stickine to Teslin Lake. These lands shall be selected from the Klondike provisional district and from that part of the Northwest Territories lying west of the Mackenzie River and Laird River and north of the 60th parallel of latitude. But it is provided that all arable land shall be reserved, so that no syndicate or corporation shall have power to block agricultural settlement in order to sweat higher land prices out of settlers, as is possible under the original bargain for the construction of the Canadian Pacific Railway, a most unfortunate provision, in which lie the seeds of great evil in the future of the Northwest. Here as elsewhere the Government seems to have been true to Liberal policy and tradition, and to have zealously safeguarded the future while making the best out of existing conditions.

Alternate Blocks of Land.

It is also provided, and this feature is of first-rate importance, that in determining the selection of lands for the contractors each alternate block shall be reserved for the Government. If, therefore, the contractors are permitted to secure rich gold-bearing territory the Government must share in their good fortune, and it will not be possible for them to monopolize great stretches of the choicest portions of the gold belt. In addition a royalty of one per cent. will be laid upon all the precious metals produced from the lands alienated to the company, as compared with 10 per cent. imposed upon ordinary placer mining, but the greater certainty of collection in the case of the company gives some additional value to this regulation.

Rights of Navigation.

It may be added that the 1 per cent. of royalty provided for in the agreement with the company is equal to that imposed upon the precious minerals in British Columbia, and that no portion of the beds or of the banks for 25 feet on each side of high-water mark shall pass to the contractors under any selection of lands to be made under the agreement. The shores and all landing places, few and far between in that rugged, rock-ribbed country, and therefore very valuable, are withheld, and the free rights of passage and use along all navigable or floatable streams may not be impeded or obstructed by the company and are absolutely reserved to the people. In case the contractors divert any stream from its natural channel they must provide an equally convenient navigable or floatable channel in lieu. All mining claims held and recorded by free miners within any block of land selected by the contractors shall be excepted from the grant and shall not pass to the contractors. The Government has been careful not to do injustice to miners who have recorded claims in good faith, and not to endow the company with any powers of ejectment. Water available for hydraulic or placer mining on the contractors' lands or on Government lands may be used by those mining on the lands under such regulations as may be established by the Government for the purpose of securing a fair division and use thereof. The tolls to be collected on the railway between Stickine River and Teslin Lake will be first fixed by the Governor-General-in-Council, and as so fixed shall not be liable to reduction for four years. They shall then be reduced by 25 per cent., and after the road has been operated for seven years there shall be a reduction of 25 per cent. on the tolls as previously reduced, and after the road has been ten years in operation the tolls shall be subject to the general railway law of Canada in that behalf. The lands granted shall be free from taxation for ten years, except municipal taxation by an incorporated city, town or village within the Klondike provisional district. When any ten continuous miles of the railway have been completed the contractors may select 99,168 acres, or two blocks of land, and these blocks shall thereupon be reserved from sale or location of free miners' claims, and on completion from time to time of any other ten miles the contractors shall have the right to select two additional blocks, and on the completion of the railway the blocks so reserved shall be granted to the contractors, with the exception of any existing free miners' claims, which shall be held inviolate. For five years from the 1st of September, 1898, no line of railway shall be authorized by Parliament to be constructed from Lynn Canal or from any point near the international boundary between Canada and Alaska into the Yukon, nor shall any aid in money or land be granted to any other contractors for this purpose. Moreover, during ten years from the 1st of September, 1898, the contractors shall be given the preference in any aid the Government may see fit to grant towards the building of a line of railway from the Stickine River to an ocean port in British Columbia, provided they are willing to undertake its construction within a reasonable time.

MR. HARDY AT HOME.

The Premier and the Hon. R. Harcourt at Brantford—A Splendid Reception by the Young Men.

Brantford, Jan. 27.—A grand demonstration of the young men of the city of Brantford took place in the City Opera House last night to tender a reception to the Hon. A. S. Hardy and Hon. Richard Harcourt. The chair was occupied by Mr. James J. Hurley, president of the Young Men's Liberal Club. Two young men who never before voted, Messrs. W. G. Hellikker and Teddy Brown, moved a vote of thanks to and confidence in the Government of the Hon. Mr. Hardy.

Hon. Mr. Harcourt made a vigorous speech, in which he claimed that the name of Hardy spelled performance, while the name of Whitney spelled only promise. The young men of Ontario were not likely to change a well and tried Government for one whose policy was that of either pork and piggeries or no policy at all.

Mr. George Harold read an address of welcome to Premier Hardy. The Premier had a splendid reception. He spoke chiefly to the young men, and said that the record of the Liberal Government was one of progress and development. Mr. Hardy dealt at length with the timber policy of the country and the various measures that had been passed during the two sessions in which he was Attorney-General.

A South Perth Independent.

CANADIAN CLUB.

Sir Oliver Mowat Makes an Appreciative Speech Last Night.

Toronto, Jan. 27.—The annual banquet of the Canadian Club held here last night was a great success. Among others Sir Oliver Mowat replied to the toast "Canadians." In the course of his remarks Sir Oliver said that he approved strongly of the objects of the Canadian Club. He hailed the formation of this and similar organizations, for they demonstrated existence of Canadian spirit in the country. He reviewed Canadian history and the development of our constitution up to the present time. He noticed during the past two years the growth of a spirit of Canadian unity. This was evidenced by the manner of men our two great political parties had chosen as their leaders. The one chose a man from a small province away down on the seaboard and he had been supported loyally all over the country. The other party, though the majority of the nation were English-speaking Protestants, had steadfastly upheld a French Roman Catholic leader. Sir Oliver talked of his interest in things Canadian, observed that this country produced the best men and women in the world, and prophesied 65,000,000 people for Canada, though he himself would not live to see that time. Mr. Wm. Ogilvie, hero of the Klondike, also spoke.

SMITH WANTS WARSHIPS

On the Lakes, and Is Trying to Wiggle Round the Treaty of Ghent.

Washington, Jan. 26.—Representative Smith, one of the Republican members of the House Committee on Foreign Affairs, called on Assistant Secretary Day at the State Department yesterday. Mr. Smith's main purpose was to confer with the authorities on the modification of that feature of the treaty of Ghent under which the building of warships on the great lakes had been prohibited. He is urging that the modification be brought about by negotiations through diplomatic channels, and after his conference Mr. Smith expressed confidence that a modification of the treaty could be accomplished.

More Outrages at Algiers.

Algiers, Jan. 27.—Several isolated outrages were perpetrated here yesterday. A number of Jews were stoned and badly injured.

New Phase of the School Question.

Winnipeg, Jan. 27.—His Grace Archbishop Langevin received yesterday morning an urgent telegram summoning him home to Montreal. He left on the eastbound express, accompanied by his secretary, Rev. Father George. He stated, however, that it relates to a new phase in the school question campaign. His Grace said there were now 33 Catholic schools in the province, separate from the Public schools and entirely supported by his church.

The testimonials in favor of Hood's Sarsaparilla are as worthy of confidence as though they came from your most trusted neighbor. They are written by honest people who are grateful for the cures accomplished by this wonderful medicine. Read this statement:

"I was afflicted with severe pains in my stomach from which I suffered much agony at times. I was afraid to go any distance from home for fear of having an attack. I was treated for neuralgia of the heart without avail. At last my mother wrote and urged me to try Hood's Sarsaparilla. I have her letter before me at the present time and it reads as follows: 'My dear child, it grieves me to learn that you suffer so with your stomach. Do get a bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla and let me know the result, for I am confident

It Saved My Life.'

I am glad to state that I abided by my mother's advice and I am now healthy and strong. I never think of being without Hood's Sarsaparilla in the house. It is a great help to mothers while nursing. I have given it to my baby with satisfactory results. I cannot state all I would like of the many benefits I have known Hood's Sarsaparilla to give to other sufferers. I gladly recommend it." MRS. BINDER TWINE.

Monopoly dies hard; but the death of a monopoly is good news for the people. A Government that sets its face against monopoly in the interests of the people is deserving of commendation and gratitude. It will be remembered that under the former Dominion Government the binder twine industry enjoyed a protective duty of 25 per cent.; in 1895 that duty was reduced to 12½ per cent. and that the Liberal Government in its tariff revision further reduced the duty to 10 per cent. with the provision that, after January 1st, 1898, binder twine should be on the free list and it is on the free list to-day. That is a big boon to the farmers, but the Consumers' Cordage Company says it must suspend operations and, according to the Mail and Empire, which has a happy knack of always putting crookedly anything it handles for political purposes, throw about 1500 hands out of employment.

The Mail and Empire, in order to make out a case for its clients, the combine, presents figures as wonderful as the mathematical manupulation of Ontario financial figures by Mr. Matheson. According to these figures and other data, the average cost of the binder twine turned out by the Consumers' Cordage Company was $226.57 per ton, or $11.73 per hundred pounds. According to the Mail the total yearly consumption of binder twine in Canada is 7,000 tons. Of this amount there was produced as follows:—By the Central prison, 1,000 tons; by the Kingston prison, 500 tons; by the Patron factory, Brantford, 1,000 tons, and 1,000 tons of American twine was used. This leaves 3,500 tons as the product of the Combine establishment. Now, twine was sold last year by the Combine as well as the other producers, at an average of $6 per hundred, and if the selling price of the combine was $6 per hundred for twine which it cost $11.73 to produce, it must have lost $5.72 on every hundred pounds sold, or on its total sales of 3,500 tons, the large sum of $402,500. In contrast with this extraordinary condition it should be stated that the Patron factory at Brantford sold its twine for the same price, and on an output of 1,000 tons made profit enough to declare a dividend of ten per cent. on the capital stock.

In view of these facts does it not look as if the combine was trying to "put up a job" on the Government by means of grossly exaggerated statements? The Consumers' Cordage Company claim that unless the duty is raised to 25 per cent. on twine they will be compelled to shut down. What are the reasons they feel compelled to make this demand? Here are a few of the reasons. Under the old tariff, which favoured monopolies and combines, the Consumers' Cordage Company went to the expense indicated below to shut off competition. They agreed to subsidize or purchase and side-track the following twine and cordage factories:

Bannerman Bros., of Le Chute, Quebec, receive $2,700 per year for keeping closed. This mill has been closed down for seven years, and yet they are making a clean profit of $5,000 per year without turning a wheel.

John Brown & Co., of Quebec, cordage manufacturers, were bought up by the Consumers Cordage Company for about $150,000, seven years ago, and have since been closed.

Thomas Conner & Sons., of St. John's, N.B., were bought off by the Consumers Cordage Company seven years ago.

Ferguson Bros., Kingston, cordage manufacturers, are paid by the Consumers Cordage Company $1,200 per year for keeping idle, and they have been closed three years.

A. Main & Company, Hamilton, receive from the same combine $3,000 per year to keep their mill idle.

These factories were closed down to kill competition and admit of keeping up the price of binder twine, previous to any reduction of duty; and, besides, the company during the season of 1896 and a portion of 1897, closed down its Port Hope and Brantford factories. They claim that if sufficient protection is not given they will have to close down, and 1,500 hands will be thrown out of employment. To show that that is an extravagant statement and that they do not employ that number of hands, is easy. The Central Prison factory employs eighty to eighty-five hands (and they employ more than necessary, because their is no extra charge for labour (prisoners being employed) to produce 1,000 tons. Therefore the Cordage Company would only have to employ 280 hands to make their 3,500 tons.

What is the Consumer's Cordage Company after anyway? Judging by the figures employed by the Mail to "gold brick" the Government, the average loss of the company upon every 100 pounds of twine manufactured by them last year was $5.72. To give sufficient protection to avert a similar loss next year, the duty on binder twine would have to be raised 100 per cent. The Cordage Company have themselves to blame. Under the fostering care of the late Government's high duty, the Company, trusting to establish a monopoly, squandered its resources in throttling competition by buying factories or paying them big sums to keep idle, and they now come to the Government with fairy tales of mythical losses, which they claim they are sustaining under exactly the same conditions as the Patron factory at Brantford, which is making a profit of 10 per cent. If the Consumers' Cordage Company could get quit of its white elephant in the shape of acquired and bought-off factories, in which thousands of dollars are locked up, and carry on business on legitimate principles, they would not have to whimper about liquidation because binder twine is on the free list; they could produce twine as cheaply as any factory on the continent, without counting the protection of 25 per cent. against all foreign rope and cordage, which Canadian mills now enjoy. In view of these facts should the Dominion Government be asked to depart from its policy of tariff for revenue only, by especially protecting a combine, for the sole purpose of enabling it to pay big subsidies to closed factories?

OFFICE—FURNITURE WAREROOMS

A NURSE'S STORY.

Tells how she was cured of Heart and Nerve Troubles.

The onerous duties that fall to the lot of a nurse, the worry, care, loss of sleep, irregularity of meals soon tell on the nervous system and undermine the health. Mrs. H. L. Menzies, a professional nurse living at the Corner of Wellington and King Streets, Brantford, Ont., states her case as follows: "For the past three years I have suffered from weakness, shortness of breath and palpitation of the heart. The least excitement would make my heart flutter, and at night I even found it difficult to sleep. After I got Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills I experienced great relief, and on continuing their use the improvement has been marked until now all the old symptoms are gone and I am completely cured."

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills cure Anæmia, Nervousness, Weakness, Sleeplessness, Palpitation, Throbbing, Faint Spells, Dizziness or any condition arising from Impoverished Blood, Disordered Nerves or Weak Heart.

ALL OVER PAR.

Every Tender Received for Toronto's Renewal Debentures Offered a Premium—The Highest Offers.

Toronto, Jan. 27.—"The highest prices ever obtained by any Canadian or colonial municipality so far as I know," was the verdict of City Treasurer Coady at noon yesterday after the Mayor had duly opened and read some twenty-three tenders for the purchase of an issue of £213,-000 sterling, or $1,036,600 currency, of the 3½ per cent. City of Toronto renewal debentures. Every tender was over par. Twenty-one of them went over 101, sixteen went over 102 and four went over 103.

The total amount tendered was $20,-634,555, or about twenty times the par value of the bonds to be sold. Twenty times the amount of debentures could have been sold.

No award has yet been made. The highest offer for the bulk issue was 103.225. The highest for a parcel was an offer of $215,000 for a $200,000 parcel, or at 107.50.

The Dominion Alliance.

The Council of the Dominion Alliance for the Suppression of the Liquor Traffic has formulated their address to the electors of the province in view of the forthcoming elections. After the historical part of the appeal, the document continues: It is therefore manifest that stronger effort must be made by prohibitionists to secure the election of representatives who are known and avowed friends of our cause, and who can be relied upon, regardless of party, to support such further restrictive legislation as the Provincial Assembly has undoubted power to enact. Earnestly we appeal to our friends to see that there are such candidates in the field in every part of the province, and that prohibitionists vote only for those who comply with the requirements set out.

FINANCES OF INDIA.

Lord George Hamilton's Speech at Chiswick.

A GOLD STANDARD IS POSSIBLE.

Arrangement for the War Budget—British Forces in China—The London Press Calling for Reinforcements—Another Excuse for Germany—Mr. Curzon's Important Speech Cable News.

London, Jan. 27.—Lord George Hamilton, Secretary of State for India, speaking last evening at Chiswick, said he thought that during the course of the next 12 months the Government might take steps to establish a gold standard for India.

He read a dispatch from the Indian Government stating that the revenue was coming in well, that the expenditure on the frontier war was much less than had been anticipated and that the Government would be able to meet, without difficulty, all disbursements for the present financial year, with the prospect of a substantial surplus for next year's proceedings.

Discussing India's immense productive capacity, which he referred to as "not yet fully developed, but capable of being developed by an influx of idle British capital," Lord George Hamilton said:

"A stable exchange, attracting that capital, could be secured either by international bi-metallic arrangement or by India establishing a gold standard. The result of the Wolcott Mission showed that the former is impracticable, but the difficulties in the way of the gold standard are not insuperable as some believe."

His Lordship said he believed the home Government could materially assist India in this matter and he would venture the opinion that it would do India "infinitely more good than any temporary loan of a million or two to meet the expenses of the frontier war."

IS GERMANY THE ARBITER?

English Newspapers on the Sending of Reinforcements to the East.

London, Jan. 27.—The newspapers here comment on French, Russian and German reinforcements going to the far East, while no corresponding addition is made to the British fleet, and say: "Happily, Great Britain has the countenance, instead of the hostility, of the United States. But the Japanese navy is a factor of uncertain value."

An article in the Pall Mall Gazette says: "The German fleet may be said to hold the balance between England and Japan and France and Russia. The position of arbiter is the very thing the Kaiser would desire, and, with the force he possesses in the far East, he can dictate terms.

"If the position is really critical, we run a grave risk in leaving our fleet weak. In fact, we prepare for an open contest by a retrograde move."

The Darmstadt at Kiao-Chou Bay.

Berlin, Jan. 27.—The steamer Darmstadt, having on board detachments of marines and artillerymen, has arrived at Kiao-Chou Bay.

Another Excuse for Germany.

Berlin, Jan. 27.—The Lokal Anzeiger's China correspondent says that a German sailor named Schultz of the cruiser Kaiser, while on outport duty at Taimo, the extreme German post in Kiao-Chou Bay, was murdered by the Chinese rabble last Monday night. Detachments of marines have been sent to Taimo and to the town of Kiao-Chou.

Great Britain's Treaty Rights.

London, Jan. 27.—In a speech last night at Bolton, Mr. George N. Curzon referred to the Chinese situation in terms which, though not very lucid, suggest that there is an intention to widen the scope of the utterances recently made by members of the Government. He said that as other powers were showing a disposition to acquire advantages in China, Great Britain was entitled to claim compensatory advantages, and to demand that privileges given to others should not be inconsistent with British treaty rights.

Mr. Curzon, referring to the negotiations for a loan, said: "We have every reason and right to hope that they will be successful."

RUSSIA'S HAND SHOWN.

British Gunboat Seizes Arms Consigned to Russians in Baluchistan.

Muscat, Gulf of Oman, Jan. 27.—The British gunboat Lapwing has seized the steamer Baluchistan, off here, and her cargo of arms and ammunition has been confiscated. Her cargo is held by the British Consul.

Where the Bear's Paw Shows.

The seizure of the steamer Baluchistan tends to explain the mystery as to whence the Afridis secured their arms. The owners of the Baluchistan say she has been released and has proceeded. They add that the arms were shipped to a dozen different Russian firms.

Receipts, $67.59; expenditure, $39 55.

After the adoption of this report the managers laid before the congregation their financial report, showing receipts $3,501.04. The expenditure exceeded this amount by $316.06. The congregation decided unanimously, and with great heartiness to remove this at once, and also to clear off the cost of fitting the church and school with incandescent lights. The Managers were complimented on their judgment in the change of system of lighting, and received the hearty support of the congregation. A large part of the required amount was subscribed.

WEDDING BELLS.

Marriage of Miss Annie Chrow, of Town, and Mr. John Farrell, of Fairville, N.B.

A very quiet wedding took place this afternoon at the residence of the bride's mother, Mrs. E. Chrow, No. 127 Smith street, when Miss Annie Chrow was married to Mr. John Farrell, of Fairville, New Brunswick.

Rev. H. Symonds, Rector of St. Luke's church, performed the ceremony.

The bride, who was given away by her brother-in-law Mr. Wm. Turner, of town, was handsomely attired in a fashionable binette cloth gown, richly trimmed with braid. She carried an exceedingly pretty bouquet of roses.

Amongst the many handsome presents received was a heavy gold chain bracelet from the groom, and a substantial honorarium from Mr. A. H. Stratton.

At the conclusion of the ceremony a recherche wedding dejeuner was served and partaken of by those present.

Mr. and Mrs. Farrell leave on the nine o'clock G.T.R. train for Montreal, where a week or so will be spent before they will resume their journey eastward.

Through her relations with the public, Miss Chrow has made herself most popular, and it will be learned with general regret that her duties in her new sphere of life will call her to such a distance. A host of the warmest congratulations will follow her to New Brunswick.

LAID AT REST.

Funeral of the Late R. D. Hamilton.

This afternoon at three o'clock the funeral of the late R. D. Hamilton took place from the family residence, George street. It was attended by a very large number of citizens in tribute of the very high respect in which the deceased and the family are held. The religious services at the residence were conducted by Rev. Dr. Torrance, assisted by Rev. William Bennett and Rev. A. T. Dykeman.

The following gentlemen acted as pallbearers:—Messrs. T. F. Matthews, Alex. Gibson, J. R. Stratton, H. S. Macdonald, W. G. Ferguson and Andrew Mercer. The employees of the works, to the number of one hundred and ten, headed the long funeral cortege and escorted the casket to the cemetery. In addition to the unusually large concourse of citizens in carriages, a large delegation of Court Chemong, Independent Foresters, of which the deceased was a member, attended.

Among those from a distance present on the occasion were Mrs. David Hamilton, Douro; Mr. and Mrs. James Hamilton, Lindsay, and Mr. and Mrs. Parks and Mr. Andrew Parks, of Toronto.

A PRESENTATION.

Mr. John Glass Remembered by His Sunday School Class.

About 9.15 last evening Mr. John Glass, of Aylmer street, found himself host to eighteen members of the Bible class which he teaches in the George street Methodist Sunday school. Both he and Mrs. Glass were taken completely by surprise, but all fears were set aside when some of the members of the class announced that the mission which they had come to perform was a most pleasant one to them, and they hoped it would be the same to Mr. Glass.

Mr. Fred Pollard then stepped forward, and read the following address, Mr. Chas. Hendricks making the presentation:

Dear Friend and Teacher:

At this season of the year, when the spirit of peace and good will animates all those who own allegiance to our Heavenly Father, the members of your Bible class of the George street Methodist Sunday school, desire to show their appreciation of the patient and faithful efforts you have bestowed upon our spiritual improvement.

To mark this appreciation we ask your acceptance of this writing desk, which we hope will be of some service to you.

With wishes that the year upon which we have just entered will be a most happy one for both you and Mrs. Glass, who has so ably assisted you in your endeavours to help the class, we remain,

Signed on behalf of the class,
CHAS. HENDRICKS,
FRED POLLARD
WALTER MCLELLAN,
WALTER MASON,
WILLIE CARLISLE.

In replying to the address Mr. Glass said that although he had been taken completely by surprise, still he was very grateful for the kind words which the address contained and also for the present. He was also glad to hear that the class appreciated his services and if they had received any spiritual benefit they were not the only gainers, for he also had been helped spiritually while teaching Bible class. Mrs. Glass, he said, as stated in the address, had been as anxious to help the class in any way as he was, and they found it a very pleasant duty, indeed, to be called upon by the class to entertain them for an evening. He would always treasure this handsome leather writing desk and often when he would be preparing his Sunday school lesson notes he would think of "his boys."

Most inviting refreshments were then served by Mrs. Glass and much enjoyed by all.

About 10:15 the boys prepared to leave, after which they returned to their homes much pleased with the evening's entertainment they had received at the hands of Mr. and Mrs. Glass.

A BENSFORT WEDDING.

Nuptials of Miss Etta McClelland and and Mr. Abner Collins.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

Another happy couple on Tuesday, 25th inst., cast all their mutual association and interests into the possibilities, realities and enjoyments of the ennobling change of condition that occasionally accompany and follow brilliant prospects in matrimony.

The parties in the contract are Miss Etta McClelland and Mr. Abner Collins, whose homes during their short time so far have been distant only by the width of one small river. The important part of the ceremony, which commonly falls to the lot of the clergyman, was attended to by the Rev. T. S. McKee, of Fraserville, at 5 p.m., by which time those assembled for the lesser duties of well-wishing and congratulation were numerous, but chiefly intimate friends of the bride and groom.

The bride, who has been well known as faithful and efficient wherever duty called, was the recipient of many and costly presents.

The above mentioned duties being all well, heartily and truly attended to, the company partook sumptuously in the usual way, after which Mr. and Mrs. Collins proceeded, amidst renewed congratulations to their new home, about two miles east, which the former, by the use of means, industry and economy has carefully selected, fitted and improved, having in view all the worthy anticipations that forego the ordinary enjoyments of connubial happiness.

ANNUAL CONVENTION HELD IN MILLBROOK.

YOUNG PEOPLE'S SOCIETY OF THIS PRESBYTERY.

Three Sessions Held Tuesday and Reports of a Very Encouraging Nature Received—Officers Elected During the Day.

The third annual convention of the Peterborough Presbytery Young People's Society was held Tuesday at Millbrook. Sessions were held morning, afternoon and evening, and reports of a very successful nature were received from the societies.

The report of the Mission Treasurer showed a balance on hand of $98.

Rev. A. Laird and Rev. J. G. Potter presented the work of the Apsley and Burleigh Mission. After considerable discussion on the missionary work of the convention, it was decided to support a missionary in the North west.

Mr. David Deyell gave an excellent paper on "Methods of raising mission funds."

In the afternoon the convention was photographed by Cunningham & Co., after which the election of officers took place.

President—Rev. J. A. Tanner, B. A., Omemee.

Vice-President—A. J. Johnston, Peterborough.

Recording Secretary—Bruce Bennett, Port Hope.

Corresponding Secretary—Rev. A. Laird, B.A., Port Hope.

Treasurer—Miss Mary Forsythe, Peterborough.

The papers by Rev. Mr. Tanner and Misses Bathgate and Forsythe on the "Plan of Study and Shorter Catechism," were very much appreciated, and led to a wholesome discussion, in which a number of members took part.

Miss Edith Byers of Omemee, gave a thoughtful and well prepared paper on "The Aims of our Young People's Societies."

Miss Brown of St. Paul's church, town, led the discussion on this subject, and this address was followed by very helpful hints as to the best way to make the meetings of the societies more sociable and more helpful.

In the evening Rev. McD. Duncan of Woodville, Lindsay Presbytery, gave an inspiring and soul-stirring lecture on the "Personal of the Westminster Assembly of 1643," at which time the standards that were afterwards adopted by the Presbyterian church in Scotland were compiled.

During the afternoon and evening Miss Maggie Weddell of Peterborough, contributed to the song service.

The executive decided to co-operate with the committee who have charge of the reception of Epworth League Convention to be held next month in the George street Methodist church. The Epworth Leaguers have extended an invitation to the young people of the different denominations of town to participate in the meetings of the convention. The Local Union will therefore use its influence to create an interest among the young people. Owing to this convention being held on the day of the next regular meeting of the executive, the night of meeting was changed to Wednesday, March 2nd. Literary work will be the subject for discussion at this meeting.

The prisoner is very reticent, and will give no information concerning himself, except that his name is Carlo and that he comes from the States.

VESTRY MEETING IN ST. LUKE'S.

Mr. E. A. Peck Named by the Rector as His Churchwarden Last Evening.

A well attended meeting of the Vestry of St. Luke's church was held in the school house last night. Rev. H. Symonds presided, and explained that the object of the meeting was to fill the vacancy in the Churchwardenship, caused by the death of Mr. John Burnham. He had consulted with many members of the congregation, including the People's Warden, Mr. H. T. Strickland, and found that their wishes entirely coincided with his own in the matter. He had, therefore, much pleasure in nominating Mr. E. A. Peck to be Rector's Warden.

Mr. Peck then addressed the meeting. He thanked the Rector for the honour done him, which he said he could not conscientiously decline, albeit there were many cares and anxieties attendant upon the position. He was also glad to know that his appointment met with the general assent of the people. He reminded them how necessary it was that the people should give their hearty support to the Wardens. The necessity for united effort was aptly illustrated by reference to the brilliant charge of Col. Matthias and his men in the Indian campaign. He strongly appealed to the congregation to make the envelope system general. He was sure that under this system the church funds would easily meet all needs without any special appeals. Some might object to it. There was a time when it did not commend itself to him. But he asked all to give it a trial. (Applause.)

On motion of Mr. H. Nesbitt, seconded by Mr. F. Adams, a resolution touching the late warden, and of condolence with his family, was unanimously passed.

Mr. H. Adams was elected vestry clerk in place of Mr. E. A. Peck, who has filled that office for many years past.

The rector referred in terms of warm approval to the work of the Men's Chapter of the Guild. Their work was being conducted in an excellent spirit, and good results were already manifesting themselves. The congregations and offertory had been larger this fall than in any previous year of his rectorate.

After the singing of a hymn and the benediction the meeting adjourned.

HOCKEY.

The Millbrook hockey team defaulted yesterday and did not come to town to play their scheduled match in the junior series against Peterborough II.

Osgoods won from Varsity last night by 10 goals to 5 and the return match will be played on Friday. Peterborough plays the winner of this draw in Toronto on Tuesday next and the return match will be played here the following week. Provided Peterborough again wins, the boys will then journey to Stratford and in the event of once more being victorious, they will play off in the finals with the winners of the Eastern series.

The Toronto Telegram says that Peterborough cannot win the senior championship, but the opinion of the Telegram does not carry much weight.

The Peterborough Juniors could give the Seniors quite a fast practice and a hard chase for the laurels in the absence of King.

It is to be hoped that home and home matches will be arranged between the Peterborough II and the Frontenac II.

That Peterborough's hospitality to visiting teams is not appreciated is proven by the fact that it is seldom returned when the club makes its out of town trips. The T. A. C. men forgot all about Peterborough immediately after the game on Monday evening, whereas when the Toronto hockey men were here they were banquetted. The Peterboroughs should keep this fact in mind when the next Toronto team comes here.

CURLIANA.

The draw in Group 6 of the Ontario Tankard primaries called the clubs to meet yesterday on Granite ice, in Toronto, but orders were subsequently issued postponing the event, mild weather being promised by the probabilities. ALL THE RAGE FOR 1898—THE COLUMBIA BICYCLE. COME IN AND SEE THEM.

A KANSAS COLONY.

Dominion Government Agents Succeed in Inducing 150 Kansas Farmers to Colonize in This Country.

Wichita, Kansas, Jan. 26.—For a week or more agents of the Dominion Government and Canadian railroads have been working in the country surrounding this city in the endeavor to induce immigration into the districts of Saskatchewan, Alberta and Assiniboia, in the Canadian Northwest. A number of meetings have been held, and at one in this city last evening a club of farmers numbering 150 was organized with a view of planting a colony in that country. The majority of the members are farmers financially able to make the journey, and have enough to start in the new country. Many of them have met with a fair degree of success in Kansas, while others of them have failed and are now seeking to recover lost ground.

Cyrus Sullivan was elected President, and a county organization will be formed. Representatives will then be sent to the Northwest Territory to report, and if satisfactory information is received a colony will be formed. The Government agents offer free tranportation to settlers, admission of their goods free of duty and a free homestead of 160 acres of land.

THE PRISONER'S DEMEANOR.

Tom Nulty in Court—Shortis Recalled—Evidence to Show Insanity.

Joliette, Que., Jan. 26.—In the case of Tom Nulty, on trial for the murder of his three sisters and little brother, near Rawdon last November, the defence is bringing out every tittle of evidence which will support their plea of insanity. The prisoner remains standing throughout each entire session of the court with head slightly drooped. He occasionally casts a glance around the room from beneath his eyebrows. For the most part he remains passive, reminding one of the rôle assumed by Shortis during his trial.

Yesterday's sitting was taken up with recitals of more of Tom's peculiarities.

Thomas Vincent saw prisoner about a month and a half before the murders. Tom appeared to be terrified without any real cause. He had tried to calm him by having him play on his violin, but after playing a few bars Tom had to lay the instrument aside and hold his head and appeared to be in great pain. Once during this occasion he had laughed without any apparent reason and the next minute held his hands again to his head.

John McCarthy knew prisoner two years. Met him in woods two months before the murders, when Tom was badly frightened over something, evidently only a fancy.

James McCarthy said prisoner had told him two years ago that his head seemed strange and that he thought his brain was affected. He had observed that Tom was jolly one moment and melancholy the next. In short, witness had always considered Tom was somewhat off in his head.

Emile Levesque gave similar testimony. He was an intimate friend of Tom's and was certain that he loved his sisters and brother.

TORONTO BOARD OF TRADE.

The Results of the Annual Elections—Points of Interest.

Toronto, Jan. 26.—The annual meeting and elections of the Board of Trade were held yesterday afternoon. There was a large attendance of the members.

Mr. D. W Alexander presented the treasurer's statement. The total income for last year, $33,400, was $3,800 less than for the previous year. The fees were $1,828 less, showing a loss of 120 members, and the rentals were $1,000 less. On the other hand the expenses had been reduced $500.

Mr. W. B. Hamilton read the report of the Industrial Association. The last exhibition was highly successful. The annual report of the association, soon to be presented, would show a surplus of $100,000.

President Edward Gurney, in presenting his annual report, gave an elaborate review of the year's proceedings, in the course of which he advocated closer business relations with Britain and the establishment of a Canadian Commercial Agency, which should be non-political, in London, Eng.

After thanks to Mr. Gurney, the newly-elected President, Mr. Elias Rogers delivered an admirable address. He advocated a policy of "back to the land."

The elections resulted as follows: President, Elias Rogers; vice-president, A. E. Kemp; 2nd vice-president, M. C. Ellis; treasurer, A. E. Ames.

Perished in the Klondike.

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 26.—The relatives of Cassius and Anthony Chittick of Flora, this State, have received word that the two men have perished in the Klondike region. The two left home for the gold fields last August. At Seattle they were joined by William Gosser of Pittsburg, Pa., and Melville Seoville of Syracuse, N.Y. The last letter they wrote home stated that they were within thirty miles of the Stewart River. Relatives have received a letter from returning miners who have reached Seattle, stating that the whole party perished in a snow storm.

Drying Clothes.

The drying of clothes in frosty weather is sometimes, in the case of delicate fabrics, attended with tearing because of the quick stiffening in the very cold air. A simple precaution which will prevent any such trouble is to dissolve three or four handfuls of coarse salt in the last rinsing water, thus making it, in fact, a weak brine. Articles so rinsed will not suffer from or stiffen with the cold.

The cheeks become pale from fear because the mental emotion diminishes the action of the heart and lungs and so impedes the circulation.

SIGHTSEEING IN LONDON.

A Chicago Girl Notes That English Women Have Large Feet.

"Under these circumstances we took our first drive down Piccadilly, and Europe to me dates from that moment," writes Miss Lilian Bell in The Ladies' Home Journal. "The ship, the landing, the custom house, the train, the hotel—all these were mere preliminaries to Europe, which began then. People told me in America how my heart would swell at this and how I would thrill at that, but it was not so. My first real thrill came on me in Piccadilly. It went all over me in little shivers and came out at the ends of my fingers and then began once more at the base of my brain and did it all over again.

"I remember nothing definite about that first drive. I, for my part, saw with unseeing eyes. My sister had seen it all before, so she had the power of speech. Occasionally she prodded me and cried, 'Look, oh, look quickly!' But I never swerved. 'I can't look. If I do, I shall miss something. You attend to your own window and I'll attend to mine. Coming back I will see your side.'

"When we got beyond the shops, I said to the cabman:

"'Do you know exactly the way you have come?'

"'Yes, miss,' he said.

"'Then go back precisely the same way.

"'Have you lost something, miss?' he inquired.

"'Yes,' I said, 'I have lost an impression, and I must look till I find it.'

"We did it all over again that afternoon, and that second time I was able in a measure to detach myself from the hum and buzz and the dizzying effect of foreign faces, and I began to locate impressions. My first distinct recollections are of the great numbers of high hats on the men, the ill hanging skirts and big feet of the women, the unsteadying effect of all those thousands of cabs, carriages and carts all going to the left, which kept me constantly wishing to shriek out, 'Go to the right or we'll be killed!' the absolutely perfect manner in which traffic was managed and the majestic authority of the London police."

CARE FOR EMPLOYEES.

The Plan Which a Large Manufacturer Found Successful.

The question, "What is to become of the old man?" is one that is frequently discussed. Generally it is meant to apply to men who have not been able to save sufficient money to support them in their declining years and whose economic efficiency has become impaired by the passing of years. To be dependent upon their children or relatives is a humiliation that would imbitter that part of their lives which should be free from care. The almshouse is a horror of degradation from which they shrink. In some countries the governments have endeavored to solve the problem by a system of labor pensions. This is done in Germany; but, despite its merits, it still savors of charity or paternalism.

A few individuals have sought for a solution in this country. In at least one community the employer of 1,000 men insures the lives of all his workmen up to $3,000, and after 25 years of continuous service an employee may retire and continue to draw full wages as long as he lives. To do this the employer says that it costs him not over 1 per cent of his wages account, which he regards as the cheapest possible insurance against strikes and against the disturbance caused by constantly changing his working force. He puts by every year that small percentage of his profits to the account of wear and tear upon labor, just as he does a larger percentage to the account of wear and tear upon machinery. He is an earnest advocate of a national labor pension and insurance system—not by the government, but by an association of employers.—New York Mail and Express.

A Story of Abernethy.

This is the story of Dr. Abernethy which Tennyson used to tell. A farmer went to the great doctor complaining of discomfort in the head, weight and pain. The doctor said, "What quantity of ale do you take?" "Oh, I taakes my yaale pretty well." Abernethy (with great patience and gentleness), "Now then, to begin the day — breakfast, what time?" "Oh, at haafe past 7." "Ale then; how much?" "I taakes my quart." "Luncheon?" "At 11 o'clock, I gets another snack." "Ale then?" "Oh, yes, my pint and a haafe." "Dinner?" "Haafe past 1." "Any ale then?" "Yees, yees, another quart then." "Tea?" "My tea is at haafe past 5." "Ale then?" "Nos, nos." "Supper?" "Noine o'clock." "Ale then?" "Yees, yees. I taakes my fill then. I goes asleep arterward." Like a lion aroused, Abernethy was up, opened the street door, shoved the farmer out and shouted out, "Go home, sir, and let me never see your face again. Go home, drink your ale and be damned." The farmer rushed out aghast, Abernethy pursuing him down the street with shouts of "Go home, sir, and be damned."—St. James Gazette.

RHEUMATISM'S PANGS.

From the Chatham Banner.

Everyone in the village of Wheatley knows Mr. Peter Sippe, who has been a resident of the place for upwards of twenty years, and who during the whole of that period up to last year was a constant sufferer from acute rheumatism, complicated by other troubles until he was worn almost to a shadow. At the age of twenty he joined the New York Cavalry and served through the war of the rebellion. He took part in the historic battles of Bull's Run, Fredericksburg, Culpepper, etc., and at one time rode eighty miles at a stretch, carrying dispatches through the enemy's lines. On another occasion he was on horse back for four days and five nights, and it is little wonder that such hardships left him, as they did thousands of others, with a wrecked constitution. While in the army as a result of poor food and often bad water, he was attacked with diarrhœa, which assumed a chronic form. This of course greatly weakened him, and he fell an easy prey to the pains and terrors of rheumatism. To a correspondent of the Banner he said:—"I never expected to be any better in this world as I had tried scores of medicines which brought me no relief at all. Sometimes for weeks at a time I could not lie down or sleep, and could eat but little. I was not only troubled with rheumatism but at times was subjected to fainting spells, and at other times everything appeared to turn black before my eyes. I would often feel sick at the stomach, at which times food would prove loathsome to me. My kidneys also troubled me greatly and my nervous system seemed completely shattered. Tongue can scarcely tell how much I endured during these long and weary years. About a year ago, I was advised to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and it was a grand day for me that I began their use. After I had used a few boxes my pains had decreased and I was considerably better. Later, through a continual use of the pills, I could eat, sleep, and felt as able to work as I had done twenty years ago. I now feel well and strong and if any of my old comrades see this and are afflicted I would urge them to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills."

ANÆMIA CURED.

From the Sun, Orangeville, Ont.

Some months ago Maggie, the fifteen year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Sweeney, of John street, of this town, began to fail both in health and spirits. Her face was almost as white as chalk, her appetite very fickle, and her limbs began to swell. Notwithstanding her growing weakness she persisted in attending school, until one day her teacher advised her to go home, and not return until she felt better. At the same time, the teacher, who knew the value of Dr Williams' Pink Pills in such cases, advised her to take them. The advice was followed and Mrs. Sweeney told our reporter that almost from the outset there was an improvement in her daughter's condition. Her appetite became better, the color returned to her face, and the severe headaches that had made her so miserable vanished, and she is now feeling better than she has done for many months.

It is quite evident that this young maiden was suffering from a lack of blood, as do so many young girls who are just at a critical point of life, and it is quite as apparent that there is no other ready the equal of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills in such cases. They enrich the blood, stimulate the nerves, and build up the entire system, and mothers will act prudently if they insist upon their daughters taking an occasional box. We know from experience that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have done great good in Orangeville and vicinity, and there is scarcely a day that our reporter does not come in contact with some one who has a good word to say for this wonderful medicine.

HAVE YOU INDIGESTION?

Have you a pain in the stomach? Fullness or distention after meals? Wind on the stomach? Hiccoughing and eructation? Sickness, bile, distaste for food? A yellow tongue, bad complexion, taste in the mouth?

These things arise from indigestion and dyspepsia; they can be cured by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

DYSPEPSIA CURED

Miss Lila Laughlin, a young lady who is teaching in the Fort Stewart public school, says:—"Some months ago I was suffering with a severe attack of dyspepsia. I procured some medicine from the doctor which seemed to help me for a time, then it apparently lost its effect and I became worse. I had a terrible pain in the stomach which caused me much distress. Then vomiting set in and continued until I was so weak I could scarcely stand, and at times my sight would seem to leave me. While in this state one of my friends advised me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and I procured a half dozen boxes. By the time I had used them I had fully recovered my health, and I can recommend them to others similarly suffering."

FEMALE WEAKNESS CURED

Mr. John Decaire, Sahanatein, Ont., writes:—"I take the liberty of writing you a few lines in praise of your Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. For some time my wife was a great suffering from trouble pecular to females. She was very weak, suffered from dizziness and headache, and her complexion was sallow. She was not able to do any work, and friends were almost hopeless of her recovery. She was urged to try your valuable medicine, and I decided to get two boxes as a trial. In the course of a week her appetite began to improve and she felt more hopeful. She continued using the pills and under the treatment has fully recovered her health and activity. We both strongly advise women suffering as she did to use Dr Williams' Pink Pills."

HOSPITAL TREATMENT FAILED.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have done more to alleviate suffering than any other medicine yet discovered. They have effected cures in hundreds of cases pronounced incurable by physicians, and they have brought rejoicing into the homes of thousands throughout the Dominion. Among those who speak of this wonderful medicine in terms of gratitude is Mr Lemuel McCready, of Shannon, N.B. He says:—

A year ago I was taken with a pain in my hip, which gradually worked down to the knee, where it settled. At first I thought it an attack of rheumatism and treated it with the medicine ordinarily used for that trouble, but with no benefit. The knee began to swell and the pain became excruciating. I wasted away to a mere shadow, and was no better than a cripple. I then consulted a physician, but still got no relief. Then I went to the hospital at St John. The physician who examined me there said my trouble was consumption of the blood, and that it might be necessary to amputate my leg. Thoroughly discouraged I returned home. Then my mother urged me to try Dr Williams' Pink Pills. After using two or three boxes I found the pain greatly diminishing and by the time I had taken seven boxes the limb had regained its normal condition, the pain had all disappeared, I had gained greatly in flesh and was as well as ever I had been in my life. I feel very grateful, for I beleive Dr. Williams' Pink Pills saved me from a life of helplessness."

It is such wonderful cures as Mr McReady's that have given Dr Williams' Pink Pills their great reputation and them the favorite medicine in thousands of families throughout the land.

HEADACHES AND DIZZINESS.

Mrs. C. C. Baily, of Martinville, Que., says:—After several years of continued suffering, I was persuaded to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and have reason to bless the day I began their use. Prior to beginning the use of the Pills I had been under doctors' care, and had tried other remedies, but with no effect beyond occasional temporary relief. I suffered from extreme headaches, dizziness, loss of appetite and palpitation of the heart. I got so weak that frequently I could scarcely move about, and my whole nervous system appeared to be in a state of complete prostration. When I began the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills I doubted very much if any medicine would restore my health, but I determined to give them a trial. After I had taken several boxes, I noticed that I could sleep better, and that my nervous troubles were growing less. My illness had been dragging on for about four years, so that it did not anticipate that it would be easily eradicated, especially as doctors' treatment had failed, but after I had taken about a dozen boxes, I was again in the full enjoyment of health. I think people using Dr. Williams' Pink Pills should pay strict attention to the directions, and not always expect a cure from one or two boxes. Had I been so unreasonable I would not to-day be enjoying the good health I have, and I hope this message may benefit some poor discouraged sufferer."

FRENCH MARRIAGES.

MATRIMONY THE GREAT OBJECT TO ALL GIRLS OF FRANCE.

Customs In This Particular Have Changed Radically—At the Present Time the Personal Inclinations of Young Women Are Considered.

Miss Anna L. Bicknell is an English lady who has had most unusual opportunities for studying French life. For a number of years she was a governess in the household of Napoleon III and resided in the Tuileries. For The Century Miss Bicknell has written an article on "French Wives and Mothers." Miss Bicknell says:

The old mariage de convenance, which caused so much sorrow and consequent evil in former days, when a girl was taken out of a convent to be shown the man to whom she was about to be married, is now a thing of the past. It must be acknowledged, however, that marriages are still made up, often too hastily and superficially, by nicely balanced family arrangements and by the intervention of friends. Nevertheless, attraction and repulsion are now taken into consideration, and a girl is no longer forced to marry a man whom she positively dislikes. I could quote instances in the very highest (historical) aristocracy where, at the last moment, after the trousseau had been sent in (marked, according to custom, with the united initial letters of the two names elaborately embroidered) and all the social preparations made, the marriage was broken off because the bride had declared that she could not "get accustomed" to the bridegroom nor endure the idea of seeing his face in her home during her natural life. In one of these instances the family lamentations over the initials of the trousseau were really amusing. Fortunately a substitute was soon found whose name, like that of the rejected suitor, began with an X, and the complications were thus happily settled.

The great object of the French girl's life is marriage. From the time of her birth her parents have prepared for this event, and in many cases they have considerably straitened their income and curtailed their enjoyments to make up her dot. Every girl in every class is expected to have something. Those who have nothing are exceptions and constitute a minority of old maids. The girls who from choice do not marry generally become nuns, usually much against the wishes of their parents. The old tales of young women being forced into convents to improve the position of their brothers are forgotten in these days, when, while no child can on any pretense be deprived of a share in the father's inheritance, monastic vows are not recognised by law. Nuns and spinsters are exceptions; marriage is the rule.

When a girl is of age to be introduced into society, her friends and relatives immediately look out for a suitable husband, whom it is considered highly desirable to obtain before she has reached the age of 21, that she may not be proclaimed fille majeure when the banns are published. The principal considerations are equality of birth, of position, of fortune, and in the last particular the scale is usually expected to weigh rather more on the side of the young lady, especially if the young man, in addition to sufficient present advantages, can bring forward a number of relatives not likely to live long. This is called having hopes (des esperances—beaucoup d'esperances). If the young lady with a substantial dot can also show a satisfactory background of invalid uncles and aunts, then everything is as it should be, and the young people are brought together with every prospect of a favorable conclusion. It happens, however, too often that they do not know each other sufficiently, and that they are persuaded to believe that the mutual liking is greater than it really is. Sometimes this sort of undefined attraction ripens into a deep and devoted love. When this occurs, there are no more affectionate wives or more faithful widows than Frenchwomen.

More frequently, especially in the higher classes, a sort of cool friendliness springs up, where they see but little of each other, and freedom is enjoyed on both sides. The authority of the husband is less felt than in an English household. There is a sort of understanding that in her home the wife is queen and settles matters as she pleases.

But their best and warmest feelings are awakened by all that concerns their children. French parents are perhaps the most affectionate in the world. The interests and welfare of their children are their first consideration, and wonderful sacrifices of their own pleasure and enjoyment are made in favor of their sons and daughters by the most worldly men and women. These are taken as a matter of course; no one thinks of doing otherwise or of seeing any merit in such acts.

The mothers especially are unequaled. Nothing will stand in the way of a Frenchwoman where her children's interests are concerned. This love is so engrossing that it swallows up every other. They are more mothers than wives, and if called upon to choose between allowing a husband to go alone on a foreign mission or leaving their children they would not hesitate. "Mes enfants avant tout."

Practise Economy

In buying medicine as in other matters. It is economy to get Hood's Sarsaparilla because there is more medicinal value in Hood's Sarsaparilla than in any other. Every bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla contains 100 doses and will average, taken according to directions, to last a month, while others last but a fortnight.

Hood's Pills are the only pills to take with Hood's Sarsaparilla. Easy and yet efficient.

OLD CATERER ON TERRAPIN.

When It Is Ready, the Satisfaction Is In "Eating It All Yourself."

James Prosser, a famous colored caterer of this city, dead long ago, furnished the following formula for preparing and serving terrapin, which was published in a gastronomi journal at the time when he was on earth:

"Yon can't enjoy terrapin unless the day is nippin. Temperature and terrapin go hand in hand. Now, as to your terrapin. Bless yon, there is all the difference in the world in them. The more northerly is the terrapin found the better. You eat a Florida terrapin—you needn't despise it, for terrapin is terrapin everywhere—but you get a Chesapeake one or a Delaware bay one, or, better still, a Long Island one, and there is just the difference between $10 a dozen and $36. Warm water kinder washes the delicate flavor out of them. Don't you let Mr. Bergh know it, but your terrapin must be boiled alive. Have a good big pot, with a hot fire under it, so that he shan't languish, and when it has got on a full head of steam pop him in. What I am goin to give is a recipe for a single one. If you are awfully rich and go in for a gross of terrapin, just use your multiplication table. Just as soon as he caves in watch him and try his flippers. When they part when you pry them with your finger nail, he is good. Open him nicely with a knife. Bilin of him dislocates the snuffbox. There ain't overmuch of it, more's the pity. The most is in the jints of the legs and side lockers, but if you want to commit murder just you smash his gall, and then your terrapin is gone forever. Watch closely for eggs and handle them gingerly. Now, bavin got him or her all into shape, put the meat aside. Take three fresh eggs—you must have them fresh. Bile 'em hard and mash 'em smooth. Add to that a tablespoonful of sifted flour, three tablespoonfuls of cream, salt and pepper (red pepper to a terrapin is just depravity) and two wineglasses of sherry wine. Wine as costs $2.50 a bottle ain't a bit too good. There never was a gotega in all Portugal that wouldn't think itself honored to have itself mixed up with a terrapin. Now you want quite a quarter of a pound of the very best fresh butter and put that in a porcelain covered pan and melt it first—mustn't be browned. When it's come to be oily, put in your terrapin, yolks of egg, wine and all. Let it simmer gently. Bilin up two or three times does the business. What you are after is to make it blend. There ain't nothin that must be too pointed in terrapin stew. It wants to be a quiet thing, a suave thing, just pervaded with a most beautiful and natural terrapin aroma. You must serve it to the people that eats it on a hot plate, but the real thing is to have it on a chafin dish, and though a man ought not to be selfish there is a kind of divine satisfaction in eatin it all yourself."—Philadelphia Times.

Free Trial To Any Honest Man

The Foremost Medical Company in the World in the Care of Weak Men Makes this Offer.

HEALTH AND ENERGY ASSURED. HAPPY MARRIAGE, GOOD TEMPER, LONG LIFE.

In all the world to-day—in all the history of the world—no doctor nor institution has treated and restored so many men as has the famed ERIE MEDICAL CO. of Buffalo, N. Y.

This is due to the fact that the company controls some inventions and discoveries which have no equal in the whole realm of medical science.

So much deception has been practiced in advertising that this grand old company now for the first time makes this startling offer:—

They will send their costly and magically effective appliances and a whole month's course of restorative remedies, positively on trial without one cent to any honest and reliable man!

Not a dollar need be advanced—not a penny at all—till results are known to and acknowledged by the patient.

The Erie Medical Company's appliances and remedies have been talked about and written about all over the world, till every man has heard of them.

They restore or create strength, vigor, healthy tissue and new life.

They quickly stop drains on the system that sap the energy.

They cure nervousness, despondency and all the effects of evil habits, excesses, overwork, etc.

They give full strength, development and tone to every portion and organ of the body.

Failure is impossible and age is no barrier.

This "Trial without Expense" offer is limited by the company to a short time, and application must be made at once.

No C. O. D. scheme, no bogus philanthropy nor deception, no exposure—a clean business proposition by a company of high financial and professional standing.

Write to the ERIE MEDICAL COMPANY, BUFFALO N.Y., and refer to seeing the account of their offer in this paper.

When a man is struck down by a poisoned arrow tipped with the venom of the deadliest of serpents, he knows that his time has come. Death is only a question of moments; but not one man in a thousand realizes that when a little extra bile gets into his blood his whole system is being poisond just as truly as if a venom-tipped arrow was sticking in his vitals.

Rattlesnake poison is a good deal quicker than bile-poison but the latter will do just as deadly work if it keeps on accumulating in the system. Probably two-thirds of the cases that end in consumption begin with "liver complaint" and indigestion. These troubles would never get as far as consumption if Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery was used before the bile-poisoning got fairly under way. This remarkable "Discovery" invigorates the torpid liver and gives it power to filter the poisons out of the system rapidly and thoroughly.

It strengthens the digestive fluids and enables them to make rich red nourishing blood; it builds up healthy muscle, steady nerve force and enduring strength.

The experience of Mr. Val Burkard, living at 65 Mohr Ave., Buffalo, N. Y., is given in his own words: "Five weeks ago I followed your advice and took two bottles of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and also two bottles of the 'Pleasant Pellets.' I consider myself entirely cured, as there have been no eruptions since I finished the last bottle. I think it is the greatest remedy on the globe for blood and digestive disorders. My appetite increased wonderfully and I have also gained flesh. I would like everybody to know the true value of Dr. Pierce's medicines as I am confident by persistent use they cure all ailments for which they are recommended."

ANCIENT STUTTGART.

Postal and Traveling Accommodations of the Old German City.

The post relations of ancient Stuttgart were unpretentious. The two maid-servants of the postmaster distributed through the city the daily letters, which they carried in the same basket with the family marketing. Letters were carried out of the city by postilions. There was a number of couriers, and as a surety against mistakes there hung in the post-office, beside the curious mail bags, a huge whip, with which, when the commission had been given to the courier, a powerful blow for the strengthening of his memory was dealt him.

Coaches and post wagons were innocent of any suggestion of comfort—a high, clumsy wooden box was secured by thick leathern straps, and in the cavernous bottom were confined together packages and passengers. Up and down hill, over ruts and rocks, the cumbrous vehicle rattled on its way, the hapless travelers being ever on the defensive against the assaults of tumbling boxes and bundles. And then the weary slowness of the way! Formerly the journey from Stuttgart to Tubingen was made in 12 hours. The same journey is now made in four hours. The postilions alighted to take refreshments when it pleased them, and one traveler has left a dismal record of a journey that he once made, during which the driver took the horses from the carriage and attached them to a hay wagon that had been left mired in the mud. The man drove the wagon into the next village, and when there he joined the grateful neighbors in a carousal, while the tired passengers languished on the dusty country road.—Elise J. Allen in Harper's Magazine.

The Modern Agnostic.

We look at our churches with their congregations, growing in numbers and dwindling in faith, says H. G. Chapman in The Atlantic, and we ask ourselves: In all these buildings, cheap or costly, what real prayers rise, and of those that rise do any get above the roof? What God hears them and has there ever been an answered prayer? We look at the faces of the dead and repeat a burial service. If after the manner of men I have fought with beasts at Ephesus, what advantageth it me if the dead rise not? And as we say the words we ask ourselves, "Do the dead rise?" And if any one is found who believes these things he knows that there is another at his elbow who believes them not a whit or an atom, and these two can hit on no universe that shall satisfy both, nor can one be post to the other.

COUNTY COUNCIL JANUARY SESSION.

THE DEPUTATION FROM LAKEFIELD BEFORE THE ROAD AND BRIDGE COMMITTEE.

The Council to Forward Their Petition And Memorial For a Low Swing Bridge to the Government—School Examiners Dispute Ventilated Before the Council.

SECOND DAY—WEDNESDAY.

The principal portion of the afternoon was taken up by the Roads and Bridges Committee, who were giving a hearing to the deputation from Lakefield in favour of a low swing bridge over the Trent Valley Canal.

Mr. Roger, the superintending engineer, appeared at the request of the committee, and exhibited the plans prepared by him for the high level bridge. In reply to some questions, Mr. Rogers stated that he had nothing to say relative to the particular kind of bridge, other than the fact that he had prepared the plans according to the instructions of the Department, who had awarded the contract for a high level bridge, the work on which was now in progress.

Mr. Geo. Elliott, one of the deputation, said he did not think the government would build a bridge against the wishes and interests of ninety-five per cent of the people who desired a low swing bridge.

Mr. Quinn thought that the petition of 450 of the ratepayers of Lakefield, Smith and Douro, ought to have some weight with the council. If the wishes of the people were to be ignored by the council he did not think they were doing their duty.

Mr. J. C. Sherin said Mr. Elliott had spoken the views and expressed the feeling of the whole deputation.

Mr. Griffin said the whole of the village of Lakefield, with one or two exceptions, were opposed to a high level bridge. A low swing bridge was preferred by all the farmers who would use it: and if the county council wanted to take into its consideration the feelings of the people they would not hesitate to grant the prayer of their position.

Mr. Crawford said as the bridge would be a structure for all time to come, the interest of the village and surrounding country should be considered.

After some further discussion, a motion was carried that the County Council comply with the request of the petitioners to forward the petition, as well as the memorial of the village of Lakefield to the Government. Memorials of a similar nature, passed by the municipalities of Smith, Douro and Dummer, had been forwarded to the Government last week by Mr. J. R. Stratton, M.P.P.

THIRD DAY—THURSDAY.

The council went into session this morning at ten o'clock. The Warden, J. B. Pearce, Esq., in the chair. All the members present except Mr. Casement.

Mr. J. C. Brown, County School Inspector, and Mr. J. C. Davidson, Principal of the Norwood School, were present in reference to the difficulty between them as to certain fees for school examinations at Norwood and other matters. Mr. Davidson and Mr. Brown were both given a hearing and after considerable time was given them in ventilating their grievances, the matter was referred to the Finance Committee on motion of Messrs. Anderson and Brown.

The council adjourned to meet at two o'clock. The Committee on Appointments to office then went into session, with Mr. Shaw in the chair.

The attendance was large, and the following programme was presented: Instrumental, Miss Gillespie; dost, Misses Wilson. The subject of debate was, Resolved—"That Canada is not ready for Prohibition." The Glee Club rendered a chorus and the meeting closed with God Save the Queen.

SINFUL DYSPEPSIA

Like all Other Kinds, Cured by Dyspepsia Tablets.

No man has a right to shorten his life by a single hour. If he does he commits suicide. Suicide is a crime.

Disease shortens life. Dyspepsia is a disease. Therefore Dyspepsia shortens life. So does Indigestion, so do all stomach troubles. No man need allow this, because it is easier to cure these diseases than any other. Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets cure them, one and all, in a week or two.

One or two of Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets, taken after each meal, digest the food thoroughly, and stimulate the bowels to natural action. They give the stomach a rest, rebuild worn-out tissues and give it new strength.

You don't have to use Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets all the time. One to three boxes will cure any ordinary case, six boxes cure the worst case.

Is it not worth while to try them? Your health is the stake! Is your health worth having? If it is, you can have it by using Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets. They don't ask you to help them. They do the work by banishing Dyspepsia, Indigestion, etc.

Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets—each box containing full double treatment, can be procured at all drug stores, or will be sent to any address, on receipt of price, fifty cents a box, by the Dodd's Medicine Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

TOM NULTY'S TRIAL.

A Defence Witness Who Proved Good for the Crown.

WHY TOM MURDERED HIS SISTER

While Splitting Firewood He Was Seized With an Uncontrollable Impulse to Kill Lizzie, and the Lust for Blood, Unappeased, Impelled the Other Slayings—The Poirier Trial.

Joliette, Que., Jan. 27.—One of the witnesses called by the defence yesterday was Mayor Renaud of Joliette, but who, however, proved a very good Crown witness. Mayor Renaud is a lawyer, and is the party who it was first thought would defend the prisoner. His testimony covered the confession made to himself in the presence of a couple of reporters. Tom had told him that he was in the act of splitting firewood in his father's yard when the uncontrollable impulse seized upon him to murder his sister Lizzie, whom he saw going to the barn. He went to the barn and struck Lizzie with the ax while she was feeding pigs. Seeing his sister Annie coming towards the barn he went out and felled her also. The prisoner then said that he did not remember killing the third sister, but had a hazy recollection of striking little Pat. When he came to himself he was in the bush two miles from home.

In cross-examination Mayor Renand gave as his reasons for not conducting the case for the defence that he had not the necessary time. He also had private reasons. To another question witness stated that he did not think that the prisoner was insane. He was then asked if that was not the real reason why he had dropped the case, but the question was not allowed. Witness further swore that the prisoner would not admit having a motive for the crime. Nothing of any importance was elicited at yesterday's sitting.

THE POIRIER CASE.

Woman Prisoner Told McCaskill That Parslow Killed Her Husband.

St. Scholastique, Que., Jan. 27.—In the Poirier murder trial yesterday Detective McCaskell testified that the female prisoner voluntarily confessed that Parslow, her paramour, was the slayer of her husband. The witness was severely cross-examined by Advocate Poirier, but the evidence was not shaken.

At 2 o'clock Mr. Poirier continued his cross-examination of Detective McCaskell. It has been decided that the trial of Sam Parslow will be held in July.

The first witness was Mrs. Noe Bourrotte of St. Canute. She stated: "I used to go to Mrs. Poirier's, and often saw Sam Parslow there washing the dishes and the floor. Everyone in St. Canute used to say that the prisoner and Sam were lovers." This witness gave very strong evidence against the prisoner.

Eddie Brennan, a youth of St. Canute, corroborated this evidence; then came Edward Parslow, brother of Sam, who stated nothing important, as he was very sick at the time of the murder.

AN IMPORTANT CASE.

A Pedlar Sent to Prison for Representing an Imitation Pill to be the Same as Dr. Williams's Pink Pills—A Far-Reaching Decision.

MONTREAL, Jan. 24th, 1898.—A case of more than ordinary interest to the public came before Judge Lafontaine here today, the facts being as follows: For some time past one H. E. Misner has been going about peddling a pill, which he represented as being the same as Dr. William's Pink Pills. The Dr. William's Medicine Co. placed the matter in the hands of Detective Haynes of the Canadian secret service, who soon had collected sufficient evidence to warrant the arrest of Misner on a charge of obtaining money under false pretences. Meantime Misner had left Montreal, going to St. John, N.B. On his arrival in that city he was at once placed under arrest and an official sent to bring him back. He was brought before Judge Lafontaine this morning on two charges, and pleaded guilty to both. It was pointed out that his offence was a grave one and left him liable to a lengthy term of imprisonment. The counsel for the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co. stated that his clients did not wish to press for severe punishment at this time; they only wished to establish the fact that representing an imitation pill to be the same as Dr. Williams' Pink Pills was a crime which left the perpetrator liable to a lengthy imprisonment. On one charge the judge then imposed a sentence of ten days, with the option of a fine of ten dollars, and in the other case a sentence of two days in jail without the option of a fine.

This decision is likely to have a far-reaching effect, as it seems to establish the principle that substitutors and those who sell imitations representing them to be "the same as" Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, are liable under the criminal code, which is in force all over the Dominion, and it will no doubt, to a considerable extent, put an end to this nefarious business, as it is evident from the fact that the Dr. Williams Medicine Co. went to the expense of bringing this man back from so great a distance as St. John, that they intend sparing no expense to protect both the public and themselves in such cases.

PROHIBITION DEBATE.

Controversial Tournament Opened at Kingston.

VERY GREAT INTEREST SHOWN.

Rev. Drs. Grant and Lucas Deliver Two Very Able Speeches—Was the Scott Act a Success or Failure?—Dr. Lucas' Array of Arguments —The Principal's Reply.

Kingston, Jan. 27.—An historic debate, and one that marks the opening of the great prohibition controversy that in a few weeks must rage all over the Dominion, was held last evening in the City Hall between Rev. Principal Grant of Queen's University and Rev. Dr. Lucas of Grimsby.

The audience was representative. Many strangers from all parts of Eastern Ontario were present. Mayor Livingston presided and introduced the debaters. The topic was: "That a law passed by Parliament, prohibiting the importation, manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquor, would promote temperance and public and political morality."

Dr. Lucas Opens the Debate.

Dr. Lucas, who was the first speaker, began by declaring that for centuries past the traffic in intoxicating beverages has been the fruitful source of discussion and irritation both inside and outside of legislative halls. The bitterness and wrangling respecting it have been almost endless. We never have been able to adjust, and apparently never can adjust it, so as to quiet the public mind and please all classes. It is not so respecting any other occupation or trade. There seems to be a universal agreement that the traffic is bad, and therefore it is not wonderful that many desire to prohibit it. Touching this point the doctor held that it was the right and power of the people to prohibit that which gave a license its value.

The next position taken was that as the principle of prohibition was applied just in that proportion have the morals of the people in the vicinity gauged and recorded in the police courts gone up or down. The most noted illustration of the evil effects of the diminution of the prohibitory principle and the enlargement of license was seen in the English Beer Law of 1830. The unstinted sale caused the sovereign people to assume "a beastly condition," as Rev. Sydney Smith wrote two weeks after the law was effected. The demoralization was so general and continuous that both Lord Wellington and Lord Brougham frankly confessed to a change of opinion before a year had elapsed. Lord Francis Edgerton said he considered the bill as promotive of enormous evils, and that no bill had ever been more productive of drunkenness and immorality than this. In contrast to this state of affairs Dr. Lucas offered testimony as to the Forbes-McKenzie Act as applied to Scotland, and so deeply convinced were the Scotch members of Parliament that this law tended to improve the moral condition of the people, that when a similar bill was proposed for Ireland forty-three out of the forty-eight Scotch members voted for it. The way prohibition lessened crime and drunkenness in Scotland, Ireland and the United States was detailed and the doctor closed with reference to Canada, saying:

"If we pass from the Atlantic to the Pacific across our Dominion we find the quantity of liquor consumed per head to tally exactly with the extent of the application of the principle of prohibition in the several provinces, Prince Edward Island consuming the least and British Columbia the most, the latter where there is no prohibition consuming nearly twelve times as much as the former, where the Scott Act is in force.

"The Scott Act in Ontario looks to me like a Lee-Metford rifle which a cowardly soldier has thrown away, and taking to his heels, has condemned the gun to excuse his cowardice. The Act is still in force in many counties in Canada and is doing much good in the hands of men who have the courage of their convictions and backbone."

Halton County, where Dr. Lucas was reared to manhood, was quoted as a county that showed amazing evidence of the benefits of prohibition. The third year after the adoption of the Act arrests for drinking in Halton compared with other counties nearby were as follows: Wentworth, 666, or one in 98; Wellington, 235, or one in 319; Halton, three, or one in 7,334. During the Scott Act regime the judges were presented with white gloves on every occasion, a thing said to be unparalleled in the history of any other county in Ontario.

Dr. Grant's Warning.

Dr. Grant, in opening, said he was bound to warn his friend that prohibition may not cure, but aggravate the curse of the liquor traffic, hence he "dreaded a proposal which, if enacted into law, will do more to throw back the cause of temperance and corrupt the country than any legislation that has ever yet been passed in Canada."

The Principal said the difference between himself and Mr. Lucas was as to the best method of promoting temperance. "He believes that prohibition will make the country more temperate and improve it politically and morally. I believe the contrary."

He was a believer in temperance; he counselled all young men to be abstainers; he believed total abstinence to be the safe course for all men, and a high Christian virtue when honestly practised, with the hope and from the motive of helping weak men. But, he did not believe that it is a sin or crime to sell everything that intoxicates, and law will never make men believe that it is a sin, like murder, adultery, fornication, theft or lying. If it is a sin to sell, it must be a sin to buy, and if one party to the transaction is punished, justice demands that the other should be also.

He thanked God that drunkenness is a decaying vice in Canada, thanks to the true temperance workers and thousandfold influences of Christian civilization.

Should, however, prohibition be attempted, it will assuredly revive the horrid vice, and help even to make it fashionable again. Men of British breed are apt to kick against restraint on their reasonable liberty; and all men, young men especially, are apt to think that there is something very nice in carefully locked cupboards. As Beecher put it, "You can never get cows to eat buckwheat straw unless you put a fence round it."

Apparently the animal has in it a trait of human nature, or man has still about him a touch of the animal.

Dr. Grant in his consideration of the topic of debate claimed that according to the experience of Ontario, the Maritime Provinces and the States which have tried the experiment, prohibition does not prohibit; that the consequences have been (1) Increase of drunkenness. (2) The traffic driven into the hands of a depraved class. (3) Multiplication of illicit dives. (4) Evasion of law and consequent increase among the people of contempt for law and general growth of the spirit of illegality. (5) Increase of perjury, because people will not give evidence against a man for being guilty of what the law makes a crime when they do not believe it to be a crime. (6) Opposition to law on the part of respectable citizens, who are angry because their personal liberty is invaded without just cause. (7) Increase of bribery in various forms from the bribery of policemen, sheriffs, deputies or constables, up to the more subtle but more dangerous bribery of politicians, which results from the formation of a vote which is solid on one issue without regard to the general welfare. (8) Violation of the law by magistrates and judges who do not call for former convictions, but inscribe the third or tenth offence as the first, because they know that the law inflicts imprisonment for the third offence. (9) Increase of the spirit of hypocrisy, slander, smoking, and spying and unwarrantable interference with others. (10) The breeding of a low class of infamous creatures called informers, who learn to tell lies with the facilities of the father of lies. He also declared that those results would necessarily flow in larger measure from a more drastic law applied to the whole Dominion.

Dr. Lucas spoke for fifteen minutes to disprove Dr. Grant's logic, which he held was very defective. The only way to restrict the traffic was to blot it out.

Dr. Grant, in closing, said that to secure prohibition for Canada better arguments than Dr. Lucas had advanced would be required. The audience dispersed after singing the National Anthem.

THE CAMPAIGN.

Halton Liberals put in the field a strong candidate in the person of Mr. John R. Barber of Georgetown, who was the unanimous choice of the convention held at Milton. Able addresses were delivered by Hon. E. J. Davis, Provincial Secretary, Mr. John Waldie and others.

Dr. Baxter, who was first elected to the Legislature at Confederation, and who continued as the representative of Haldimand for 31 years, with advantage to his constituents and credit to himself, yesterday announced his retirement from public life. He was Speaker of the House from 1887 to 1890, and enjoyed the additional distinction of being the senior by four years of any other member in point of Parliamentary service. At the convention at Cayuga yesterday Mr. J. W. Holmes of Selkirk, who will make a worthy successor to the veteran who has just retired, was nominated.

Not the least notable feature of the day was the nomination of Mr. W. A. Charlton, M.P.P., to again bear the banner of Liberalism in South Norfolk. Mr. Charlton since he was first returned in 1890 has made himself an exceedingly useful member of the House. Mr. Harcourt attended the convention at Port Rowan, and delivered a characteristically able address.

A Policy of "Sops and Doles to Favored Classes."

THE LIBERAL LEADER'S VIEW.

The Amalgamated Engineers' Ballot Shows a Majority Vote to Terminate the Strike—The Cabinet in Session —The Czar Is Thankful for Peace With Japan— Cable News.

London, Jan. 28.—Mr. John Morley, the Liberal leader, speaking last evening at Stirling, Scotland, said the proposed West Indian grant was "merely a disguised bounty," and another instance of the Government's policy of "sops and doles to favored classes." He declared that it would be equally justifiable to make a grant to manufacturers having to face a hostile tariff, and expressed the belief that the scheme would not prove such a merely temporary measure as Mr. Joseph Chamberlain had represented.

MADE IN BIRMINGHAM.

The Arms Captured in the Persian Gulf Were Made by British Firms.

London, Jan. 28.—According to a despatch to the Globe, published yesterday afternoon, from Birmingham, the capture of the British steamer Baluchistan off Muscat, Arabia, by the British gunboat Lapwing, and the seizure of her cargo of arms and ammunition, has temporarily paralyzed some of the large gun makers, because the London merchants concerned have ordered them to suspend operations. It is added that some of the guns seized were from Birmingham, whence there has been an extensive trade in arms to the Persian Gulf.

A well-known manufacturer says that, on the order of a London merchant he has turned out a hundred rifles and a ton of ammunition weekly for the last three years. The rifles consisted of Martinis and Lee-Metfords, the British magazine rifle. The Persian authorities, it seems, winked at these irregularities until Great Britain intervened. The firm was preparing to turn out 2,000 weapons monthly to the same customer.

German Warship Had to Return to Aden Because Supply Ran Out.

London, Jan. 28.—A special despatch from Berlin says the German warship Gefion has returned to Aden, in order to arrange for the immediate despatch of colliers to overtake the Deutschland, her consort, whose fires are again said to have given out.

Lord Brassey in Peril.

Lady Sykes' Bills All Paid.

London, Jan. 28.—It is reported that on the day following the rendering of the verdict in favor of Sir Tatton Sykes and Lady Sykes, the whole of the moneylenders' claims were paid by friends of Lady Sykes. Mr. Jay, however, refuses either to confirm or to deny the report.

Engineers Want to Work.

London, Jan. 28.—A majority of the Engineers have voted in favor of accepting the terms of the employers. The exact figures have not yet been divulged, but the proportion is said to be about 25,000 in favor of acceptance and 11,000 against it.

London, Jan. 28.—The Marquis of Salisbury presided yesterday at a Cabinet meeting. It is understood that the Ministers discussed the Legislative programme, the Queen's speech for the re-assembling of Parliament, and the far Eastern question.

THE POIRIER MURDER.

The Defence Will Begin to Bring Their Witnesses on To-day.

St. Scholastique, Que., Jan. 28.—Yesterday Mr. Hall continued his evidence as follows: The old mother of Sam Parslow told me once that her poor son Sam was lost with Mrs. Poirier. On the 21st of November last he passed at nine o'clock in the evening near the window of the room where the murder happened and saw no light either there or in front of the house.

The second witness was George Parslow, brother of Sam, who stated that on the 1st of November Sam came home at four o'clock in the afternoon and dressed for work.

Joseph Cyr, cheesemaker of St. Canute, said that the day after the murder he met the prisoner and Sam Parslow at Beauvrette's house, but they did not speak of it in the presence of those parties, because everybody seemed to have his own opinion and did not like to speak.

The other witness was Joseph Gratton, jailkeeper, who only stated when the prisoner was brought to jail.

The defence will call their witnesses to-day and the trial will not finish before Wednesday next.

Nervous mothers and sickly children endure a vast proportion of the suffering which is caused by impure and impoverished blood. Hood's Sarsaparilla gives relief by purifying and enriching the blood. Read this statement:

"I was bothered with sick headaches and dizziness. I also had nervous prostration and weakness in my stomach, which made me feel very ill indeed. I decided to try Hood's Sarsaparilla, which was highly recommended by many, and by the time I had taken four bottles I was in perfect health. About a year ago my little girl, then six years old, had bronchitis and chicken pox. We were told that her was the careful treatment she might receive at the hospital. We took her there and for eight days they had no hope of her recovery, but later she had a change for the better. Her sickness, however, left her very delicate and weak, and she did not grow any for a year. It was then I thought I would try Hood's Sarsaparilla, inasmuch as I had used it for myself and found it such a good medicine for building up a constitution. She had not taken two bottles before she had improved wonderfully. She has grown rosy and plump and is quite herself again. I have great faith in Hood's." MRS. M. COUNTY COUNCIL JANUARY SESSION.

COMMITTEES PREPARING THEIR REPORTS FOR PRESENTATION.

A Deputation Received Yesterday From the Town Council—Matters of Importance Discussed During the Afternoon.

AFTERNOON SESSION—THURSDAY.

The council resumed at 2 o'clock, the Warden in the chair.

The Warden stated that the deputation from the town council and the municipality of Eanismore were present, and he would ask the council to give them precedence.

HOUSE OF REFUGE.

The deputation from the town council in regard to a House of Refuge was composed of Mayor Davis and Councillors McWilliams and Langford.

On motion of Messrs. Hawthorne and Fitzgerald, the deputation was asked to address the council.

Mayor Davis said that the deputation had been appointed to meet the county council in accordance with the communication received by them informing the town council that a resolution had been passed by the county favouring the erection of a House of Refuge and asking the town to co-operate with them. He was anxious to see the matter brought to a head and was desirous of doing what he could to come to an understanding about a suitable scheme of this nature. Mr. Davis said that perhaps the town would not see so much necessity for a House of Refuge as the County. When it was estimated that an expenditure of some $30,000 or $40 000 was required for the purpose he did not think sufficient reasons existed for burdening the people with such an outlay at present. He admitted that it was not a proper thing in a Christian country like this that because men were getting old they should have to end their days in gaol. It was felt by the town council that some scheme might be devised to avoid this condition of things, without costing much as a House of Refuge, and they were here to show their desire that arrangements be made with that end in view between the two councils.

Councillor Langford said the cost of a House of Refuge was a big expenditure and one that ought to take time to consider. He had not made up his mind whether we should have one or not, but if special committees from the two councils came together they would doubtless come to a satisfactory understanding about the question.

Councillor McWilliams thought that all that was necessary to do was to appoint a committee from each council, who could make enquiries all over the country as to cost and maintenance of Houses of Refuge. It might be necessary that some members of the Committee would have to visit a number of towns where houses of refuge were established and obtain information on the spot. In this way sufficient knowledge could be procured to enable the joint committee to submit a scheme in time for the June meeting of the County Council.

The deputation then withdrew.

DEPUTATION FROM ENNISMORE

A deputation from the municipality of Ennismore was then heard. It was composed of Paul Costello, Reeve, and Councillors Doran, Scollard and Flood.

Reeve Costello said that the Council of Ennismore had been asked to make a special grant to the county for the construction of a new bridge across Mud lake. He could not understand why Ennismore was singled out for a special grant. His municipality had helped to build and pay for its share of the 30 or 40 bridges in the county, and he said he thought it was unreasonable to ask them to make a special grant for this one. The Mud Lake bridge was just as much a benefit to the residents of the municipalities of Harvey, Galway and Sommerville, as it was to Ennismore. These municipalities had as much right to be asked to make special grants as his municipality, and he felt that Ennismore had no right to burden its ratepayers with an extra tax for this particular bridge than the rest of the county. He certainly did not feel disposed to do so.

The other members of the deputation were asked to address the council, but stated that their reeve had expressed their views very clearly, and could not add anything to what he had said.

The warden said he had viewed the matter much in the same light as Reeve Costello, although the county council had thought differently, and considered Ennismore should be asked to make a special grant for the construction of this bridge. He thought the town of Peterborough were rather dilatory in discharging their duty respecting this bridge, and the council had decided that unless the town council did do something this council would have to close the bridge altogether.

Councillor McWilliams thought the bridge might be constructed for less money than estimated. Timber could be got in the township of Lutterworth at a small price, which he believed was very suitable for the construction of this bridge. His idea was that the estimate was too high.

Mr. Hawthorne was quite in accord with the idea of a special joint committee of the town and county councils taking action in regard to a House of Refuge. He was glad to see the town council commencing to act. With regard to the Mud Lake bridge, he did not think the county was asking Ennismore to do too much. He always liked to help those who first helped themselves. Ennismore doubtless had helped to pay its share of the other bridges in the county, but the maintenance of the Mud Lake bridge had cost the county more than the county rate paid by Ennismore. He did not think, therefore, that the county was doing anything unreasonable in asking Ennismore to contribute one-tenth of the cost of the bridge.

Moved by Messrs. Brown and Fitzgerald that the matter be referred to the Finance Committee.—Carried.

A REQUEST FROM OTONABEE.

On motion of Mr. Anderson, seconded by Mr. Peck, the reeve of Otonabee, Mr. Johnston, was heard before the council. He asked that power be granted his municipality to allow of their assessment being taken before the 1st of July in each year. Mr. Johnston also drew attention to the injury and inconvenience caused by the telephone companies in planting their poles along the roads. No care was taken in the erection of their poles. His council wanted to know if they could not have the same power to say where these poles should be planted as in towns and villages.

Moved by Mr. Hawthorne, seconded by Mr. Fitzgerald, that this council pass a bylaw giving power to any municipality within the county to pass a bylaw for taking the assessment each year between the 1st of February and 1st of July.—Carried.

Council then rose.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOUR.

St. Andrew's Young People's Society. Weekly Meeting.

St. Andrew's Society met on Monday, January 24th. Topic—"Practical Appliances of the Beatitudes."

Mr. D. Lewis gave an excellent paper showing many of Christ's most striking sayings as regards the attitude of household words and life. At the time when Jesus lived on earth the doctrine that He set forth were newer than they are to-day by some nineteen hundred years. Men have become accustomed to looking at many things in the light of the ideas of Jesus, and have in some measure adopted His views of life. When a truth comes to be adopted as a matter of custom it always loses its effectiveness and is apt to be put even to wrong use. It is our duty, therefore, to avoid the thoughtless adoption of truths which Christ taught and endeavour to understand and accept them as practical rules of life. If we go with the meaning of the beatitudes we shall find that though they are so many centuries old, they are still very little understood and in practice people show they have very small belief in them. The application of this truth leads us to claim that inheritance which Christ said the pure in heart will obtain, that rest and peace of a home in heaven. At this meeting it was decided that a representative be sent to the Millbrook Presbyterial convention. The members of that Board desire to take this opportunity of congratulating Mr. Fitzgerald for having such a careful considerate teamster and to commend him for his capable management of his charge through such a blinding snowstorm, getting safe home without any accident.

KLONDIKE RAILROAD.

The Contractors Are Moving With Haste.

OPINIONS OF THE CONTRACT.

Expression of Approval—The Witness, the Herald, La Patrie—The C.P.R. Secures an American Contract—Also Acquires the Heinze Line—Sir Charles Tupper on the Bargain.

Montreal, Jan. 28.—Messrs. Mackenzie and Mann, who secured the contract for building the Canadian railway towards the Klondike gold fields, are losing no time. Mr. Mann left yesterday morning by the C.P.R. for the scene of operations. All day the transcontinental wires were kept "hot" hurrying men and supplies to the front. A small army of laborers and wagon teams that have been working on the Crow's Nest Pass road are already moving towards the Yukon. It is understood that Mr. Thomas White, C.E., of St. Thomas, has been engaged by Messrs. Mackenzie and Mann as chief engineer of construction.

The Witness on the Bargain.

The Witness says: "So far as appears from the facts made known the arrangement is a good one for the country. There is to be no money grant or advance—that takes one's breath away. There is, on the contrary, to be a cash deposit with the Government of a quarter of a million dollars as security that the bargain will be fully carried out. This also is unprecedented." Having referred to the high standing of Messrs. Mackenzie and Mann as contractors, the Witness adds: "The part of this proceeding which is open to criticism is that it has been concluded without advertising for tenders. The Government takes the ground that the circumstances precluded this, but that they created conditions that were equivalent to advertising for tenders. The Government had not the materials for specifications, and the absolute need of getting through this season made it impossible to await the deliberations of Parliament. There were countless propositions before them, which they met by imposing the severest conditions. Steam communication must be opened by the 1st of September. It must be through all-Canadian territory, and there would be no money grant. These conditions threw out every proposition made, and it was only after the most anxious consultation that these responsible men undertook to meet them. Even then others were allowed time to make a better offer."

Bold, Prompt and Prudent.

The Herald says: "It is a bold, prompt and yet thoroughly prudent and safeguarded step. Its result will be to get for Canada the trade of that fabulously rich country. By it the great gold-seeking army, which is mobilizing in all parts of the world, and which, as soon as spring opens, will pour into the Yukon district, will be made to contribute to Canada's trade and general prosperity. Lord Strathcona and Mount Royal, speaking in London the other day, estimated that 150,000 people would go into the Klondike region this year, and that in doing so they would spend a hundred million dollars. If we think over these figures we begin to understand the dimensions of the movement of which that far northwestern territory of ours is to be the goal. The advantages of the route selected by the Government for the railway are obvious. The vexatious and dangerous customs complications which have arisen in connection with the passage of goods over portions of Alaskan territory into the Canadian northwest will be wholly avoided; the route of the railway and the upper Yukon and its territories being in Canada, while the free navigation of the lower Stikine is secured by treaty in perpetuity to British vessels. Grave international complications might arise were the Lynn Canal route to be permanently utilized, but they will be made impossible when the traffic goes over the Stikine. But of more immediate interest and value to Canadians is the fact that the opening of this all-Canadian route will lead the bulk of the Klondike trade into Canadian channels. Miners' outfits of all kinds bought in Canada will pass into the Klondike over this route without let or hindrance. Purchased in other countries, customs duties will have to be paid on them. By one act, therefore, the Government has removed a cause of international friction and insured a valuable market for Canadian products. It has preserved Canada for the Canadians. Moreover, the trade has not only been secured to Canadians, but the interests of those manufacturers and shippers who use the new railway have been secured by strict regulations regarding the freight rates to be charged on it. In the granting of land to the contractors all precautions are taken to safeguard Canada's interest and the interests of miners who may have taken up claims, as well as to require the payment of a royalty on all gold taken from the contractors' lands. In this and every other feature of the contract there has been paid the closest attention to the interests of the whole country. After reading the terms of the arrangement, the conclusion to which one must come is that the Government had driven a good bargain and one which will be hailed with universal satisfaction, insuring as it does the speedy opening of the country through Canadian territory for Canadian ends."

The Patrie.

The Patrie says: "It is the first time in Canada that a project of this importance has been undertaken without assistance from the public treasury. The Laurier Cabinet, which has already accomplished so much work, has just proved once more that in confiding to it their destinies the people of Canada understood their true interests. A few days ago Sir Charles Tupper advised the Government to construct at the cost of the public treasury a railway towards the Yukon. Such an enterprise would have caused an expenditure of several million dollars. The Laurier Government—we cannot repeat it too often—was able to effect an arrangement by which the taxpayers have not one dollar to pay."

C. P. R. Tender Accepted.

Mr. G. M. Bosworth, General Traffic Manager of the C.P.R., has received a despatch from Mr. Skinner, the New York agent, stating that tenders were opened in New York yesterday by the United States Government for the transportation of 500 reindeer across the continent to Seattle, and the Canadian Pacific Railway's tender was the lowest by $200. The reindeer in question are intended to participate in the relief expedition to Klondike being organized by the United States Government. They have already been purchased in Norway and will be brought across the Atlantic on the steamship Manitoba, and at once transhipped to Seattle on the Pacific coast. All the transcontinental railway companies tendered, but the C.P.R. was the lowest. The 500 reindeer will make two train loads.

Richelieu and Ontario Line.

It is evident that the C.P.R. will hereafter have an important influence in the management of the Richelieu & Ontario Navigation Company. At the meeting of the board of the latter company it was agreed that Messrs. E. B. Osler and W. D. Matthews, who are directors of the C.P.R., should be added to the directorate. Which of the present directors will retire has not yet been settled.

Sir Charles Says It's Good.

Before leaving for Ottawa yesterday afternoon Sir Charles Tupper made the following statement: "I notice with very great pleasure the announcement that the Government have promptly provided for the maintenance of an all-Canadian route to that great gold mining centre, towards which the eyes of the world are so strongly directed. I have no doubt the steps they have taken to secure prompt construction of a sled road between the Stikine River and Teslin Lake, to be made into a good trail so soon as the snow disappears, and followed by the construction of a railway to be opened by September next, will meet with the approval of Parliament. I regard these measures as of incalculable value to Canada, and shall be only too glad to give the Government the best support in my power on a question of such vital importance at this moment."

GOLD HUNTERS.

Major Walsh Sounds a Note of Warning—Awards for Timber Berths—The Successful Tenderers.

Ottawa, Jan. 28.—Mr. Sifton has received a letter from Major Walsh, written on Christmas Eve at Big Salmon River. The Major does not believe that 5,000 people can get into the country. One part of the letter contains an important warning. He says: "I am informed that 15 or 20 agents and brokers have come out from Dawson, carrying with them some hundreds, some say thousands, of certificates for entries of mines on all the streams in the neighborhood of the Klondike River that I believe there never was an ounce of gold found on, and on all other streams in the neighborhood, and to the mountain tops, with the hope that they can be put on the market and be readily seized by the gullible public of the United States and Canada. They are trying to imitate the brokers of South Africa and Rossland. If this is true there is no question but it will be injurious to the country and to good properties that may be put on the market."

Yukon Timber Berths Awarded.

The Interior Department has accepted the following tenders for timber berths in the Yukon: A. S. Cross, Hootalinqua River; A. MacLean, Lake March; E. Vachow, Lewes and Pelley Rivers; J. S. McConnell, Hootalinqua River; Klondike Mining and Trading Transportation Corporation, Teslin Lake; J. J. Johnson, Lake Labarge; H. Danville, Lake Vares; A. S. Kerry, Lake Bennett. All the successful tenderers are Canadians, and they pay an average of $1,000 of a bonus for five square miles. Each award is for five miles. In addition to the bonus a stumpage fee of $2 per thousand feet has got to be paid. The license to cut timber is for one year. Each licensee must erect a saw mill before Sept. 1. The Klondike Corporation is the one of which Sir Charles Tupper is president.

A MAGNIFICENT MEETING.

The Opera House Ovation to Mr. Stratton.

TRIBUTE TO THE PEOPLE'S CANDIDATE.

A Stirring Speech by the Minister of Education.

Excell nt Address by Mr. Stratton—The Conservative Candidate Puts his Case—Mr. Ross Makes a Crushing Reply—A Grand Vindication of the Ontario Government—Big Hit of the Laurier Quartette.

There have been many notable political gatherings in the Opera House, but none have ever been larger in the matter of attendance, more enthusiastic and in every way satisfactory and successful than that held in the Opera House last night. At 7.30 every seat in the hall was filled, and shortly after the aisles were blocked as well as the entrance passages, and hundreds turned away unable to get inside the hall. The audience was as representative as it was large, and while Mr. Stratton's friends very largely predominated, the fact that the Conservative candidate was to be present attracted many of his supporters, and they were by no means modest, many of them, in making their presence known. Though the "piggery" issue is dead the Opposition seem to have a sneaking regard for the defunct policy. It was quite evident that "rooters" had been dispersed throughout the audience with instructions not to be sparing of their lungs, but orders were not very judiciously carried out. Applause and demonstrations came where they didn't fit, and points that should have appealed to the "rooters" were unnoticed. But on the whole the order was excellent and the speeches were received with great favour. Mr. Stratton first briefly addressed the meeting, and the reception his well and concisely put facts and arguments received and the enthusiastic personal welcome accorded him were indicative of unimpaired popularity. Hon. Mr. Ross, as usual, was quite up to concert pitch, and the keen analysis, clear reasoning and cogent argument that distinguish his addresses were in full evidence last night. Mr. Garvin, after having wasted a good deal of valuable time on personal matters and campaign frivolities, spoke fairly well from his standpoint. Altogether the occasion was a most successful one and the discussion on political matters that took place brought out effectively the strong claims of the Government to renewed support, and exposed the weakness of the visionary, unsubstantial and shreddy policy of the Opposition. The gallery was filled with ladies, whose attention to the speakers was unflagging to the last.

The hall was profusely decorated, and the mottoes displayed were patriotic and hospitable rather than polemic. The mottoes included "God Save the Queen," "Welcome to our Visitors," and "Progress to our Fair Dominion." Animation was lent to the proceedings by the presence of the Sons of England Band, which performed selections in an exceptionally fine manner.

Dr. Bell occupied the chair, and after brief preliminary remarks, introduced the noted "Laurier Male Quartette," which delighted not only the musical tastes, but stirred deeply the patriotic ardour of the audience by so splendidly singing that stirring national song, "The Maple Leaf," that they were enthusiastically encored.

Mr. Stratton's Address.

Mr. Stratton, the people's candidate, on rising to address the meeting, was received with enthusiastic demonstrations of the high esteem in which he is held as the past, present and future representative of West Peterborough. After referring in graceful and grateful terms to the presence of so large a number of ladies, and the exceedingly large attendance of electors, he mentioned the increased enthusiasm that had marked his reception in the country in the present campaign. He intended to speak briefly, and at once entered upon the subject of his address, taking up first the question that touched everybody most closely, the financial question, and remarked how gratifying it must be to the electors to observe how well their financial interests have been administered. A few weeks ago Mr. St. John and Mr. Garvin had spoken in that hall and denounced in general terms the wasteful extravagance of the Government, but they had carefully refrained from going into particulars and specifying any extravagant or improper expenditures. Mr. Stratton submitted that it was the highest tribute that could be paid to the honesty and administrative ability of the Government, that of the eighty-three millions expended by them not one dollar had been misapplied and the Opposition had not attempted to meet the frequent challenges that had been extended them to specify one such instance. Much had been said respecting the surplus of $3,800,000 left by the Sandfield Macdonald Government, which this Government had been accused of squandering. Mr. Stratton briefly but clearly showed that that surplus had been largely spent to meet obligations incurred by Sandfield Macdonald before leaving office. These gentlemen did not tell their hearers that nearly every cent of that surplus was pledged before the Mowat Government took office. Nor did they tell of the six millions spent to aid railways, and to develop the resources, nor did they tell them that the government had expended upon services that meant decreased taxation—in fact had given back to them for the public benefit in the past 25 years over forty-three millions of dollars. (Applause.) To bring the matter home Mr. Stratton proceeded to point out the extent to which Peterborough county had been aided in this respect. The government had returned the people's money to them in West Peterborough as follows: There had been given back to the people for education a grand total of $182,000—distributed in direct cash to the Public and Separate Schools and the Collegiate Institute; to Public Libraries, $12,600; to Agricultural Societies, $39,000; to Farmers' Institutes, $875; Nicholls Hospital, $13,000; Protestant Home, $4,500 (which had received no grant till he, Mr. Stratton, had interested the Government); to St. Joseph's Hospital, $5,400; to the House of Providence, $819; for administration of justice, $44,750;

FOR COLONIZATION ROADS,

$117,000; for public improvements, dams, locks, etc., $32,000; to aid railways built in the county, $70,000; to maintain town and county patients in asylums, $120,068; prisoners in the Central Prison, thus relieving the jail, $10,440; in the Reformitery for Boys, $12,327; to maintain pupils in the Deaf and Dumb and Blind Institutes, $12,000; on accounnt of municipal loan fund, $49.208, a total of $788,968. If we added to that $60,000 received for similar purposes under the previous Government, we have a total of $788,968, returned by the Government to the county of Peterborough. But, said the Opposition, the Government has taken the liquor license fund. Mr. Stratton pointed out that the Government had received from this county in the time in question $42,000 of license money. If we deducted that from the total sum mentioned we had a net sum of a round three-quarters of a million given back to the people of Peterborough. (Cheers.) It was charged that the Government had sold the pine, but was not that better than allowing it to become destroyed by forest fires and natural decay, especially when it was devoted to the construction of public buildings and permanent improvements of that kind. Of the nine millions spent by the Government in public buildings there had not been a single dollar gone astray, and no minister had had to hang his head in shame in connection with such expenditure. (Loud applause.) Mr. Stratton challenged the Opposition to point where any better government than that we had received could be given to the province. He invited Mr. Garvin to tell the people what better he could do for Peterborough than he (Mr. Stratton) had done; to tell what was Mr. Whitney's financial policy; what was his municipal policy? To tell what was Mr. Whitney's educational policy; to tell what was Mr. Whitney's policy for the development of the resources of the province of Ontario; what was his agricultural policy; and to tell those above all what was his policy in relation to the labouring classes. In what way could he improve on the record of the present Government in its magnificent

RECOGNITION OF THE RIGHTS OF LABOUR?

The Ontario Government had placed on the statute book 38 distinct Acts of the Legislature to benefit the condition of the the workingman. These protected workmen's lives in factories, limited the age of children to work in factories and in fact touched every interest of every class of wage earners. What has been the result? While in the United States and England labour and capital were at each others' throats, in Ontario we had almost entire freedom from strikes and disputes owing to wise legislation of the Liberal Government that had protected the rights of labour, while it respected the rights of capital. (Loud cheers.) After dealing briefly with the Engledue Mining arrangement, which had resulted in the employment of British capital to develop our untold mineral wealth and give employment to labour, Mr. Stratton appealed to the electors to say whether he had served them well, whether he had served them loyally and faithfully, as evidenced by the local improvements he had been instrumental in procuring for the advantage of the people and the enthusiastic applause that greeted the close of his address was the endorsation of the confidence he expressed that his election was as certain as the rising of the sun.

The Quartette sang "Unfurl the Banner" in a manner that aroused great enthusiasm and produced a recall.

The Conservative Candidate.

Mr. Garvin, the Conservative candidate, who had a seat on the platform, on rising to speak was received by his friends in the audience with cheers and yells of encouragement. After a few preliminary remarks he referred to his presence on the platform as a proof of his courage—to be sandwiched in between the Hon. J. R. Stratton, to be soon the Hon. J. R. Sat-on, and the Hon. G. W. Ross, regarded as one of the foremost platform speakers in the country. Mr. Garvin consumed a large portion of his time in dealing personally with Mr. Stratton, and in referring to petty and unimportant details of campaign meetings in the country. Referring to his dismissal from the position of inspector for incompetence. Mr. Garvin asserted that the majority of the members of the Board were supporting the Liberal-Conservative candidate in this campaign. He also gave Prof. Robertson and not the Government credit for the agricultural progress of the Province of Ontario. Mr. Garvin would have perhaps continued to deal with personal matters to greater length but he was interrupted with the demand, "Give us your policy," and he at once went on to state that he arraigned the Government in the matter of keeping the public accounts, and he read in support of his charge an extract from a speech of Mr. Haycock, the Patron leader, which the speaker regarded as a proof of his assertion that the public accounts were not properly kept. He to illustrate his assertion that the surplus of assets claimed by the Government did not exist, and he quoted Mr. Harcourt as to what, to the speaker's mind, proved what he wished to impress. The assertion was made that the expenditures since Sandfield Macdonald's time had exceeded the receipts by over two million dollars, and if there was added to that the $500,000 voted last session to aid railways the deficiency was increased by $2,500,000. Mr. Garvin charged that during the term of the present Government 28 million dollars of our capital, in the shape of timber, had been spent, and though we had some public buildings Mr. Garvin argued that we had better had the money. Turning his attention to his great subject, Mr. Garvin went on to denounce the system that turned out too many teachers, through the medium of model schools, thus producing a surplus of inexperienced teachers, who displaced instructors of experience, and he advocated the abolition of the model schools. Mr. Garvin also vigourously attacked the high price of school books and two books were compared before the audience—one a novel of Conan Doyle and the other a Fourth Reader and he contended that the novel was the better book in binding and paper and sold for 21c while the Fourth Reader sold for 40c. Mr. Whitney proposed to abolish the system of royalties and when he came into power he would establish an advisory board to give counsel to the Minister of Education and establish a system that would direct the children of our Public Schools to industrial pursuits instead of professions. The speaker quoted Dr. Ryerson to show that that great educator favoured a council of public instruction. Mr. Ross was charged with doing away with the Advisory Board after the death of Dr. Young. Mr. Garvin then went on to indicate the reforms Mr. Whitney would bring into effect. These were the abolition of the numbered ballot,; giving the municipalities the expenditure of colonization road grants; that all contracts should be let by tender; the abolition of gratuities to officials; no timber sales without the consent of Parliament. Mr. Garvin in touching upon the timber question admitted that the Government did right in not interfering with existing licenses, but the Government should have foreseen the Dingley bill and made provision accordingly.

Mr. Garvin concluded his address, and took his seat amidst the applause of his supporters.

The Laurier Quartette followed with a capitally sung selection, and were compelled to respond to a recall.

The Minister of Education Speaks

The chairman remarked that at the World's Fair, Chicago, the educational exhibit, in competition with the world, had been honoured with the highest award, and the gentleman largely responsible for that splendid success was with them to-night, and the Minister of Education would address them.

Hon. Mr. Ross on coming forward was received with enthusiastic applause. Mr. Ross began his address by a reference to his first visit to Peterborough, twelve years ago, when there was a lively political campaign on, as there generally was in West Peterborough, and as there was at the present time. On that occasion he had been invited to take part in a public discussion, and the parties on the platform were Mr. Stratton, Mr. Carnegie and himself, and though Mr. Stratton was then a young man—in his political knickerbockers—he had been elected by a handsome majority, and he had served his riding faithfully for twelve years, and the speaker had not heard a Conservative member of the House say that he had not acquitted himself admirably. (Cheers.) Mr. Ross said that as an old teacher he had never had such an apt scholar. Mr. Stratton had developed into an active, able and progressive public man, and he was still rising. He took a prominent part in the debates of the House, was listened to with attention, commanded respect, and comported himself in the House in a manner worthy of the dignity of a member of the House. He is a representative of which West Peterborough might well be proud, and Mr. Ross was glad that the riding had given a man that held a leading position, one that would in time take a seat at the council board of the province. (Cheers.) Mr. Garvin had referred to the portfolio of Mr. Stratton not coming, but Mr. Ross remarked, amid loud laughter, that it was a good deal nearer than Mr. Garvin's, which would come in the sweet bye and bye that is sung of. Mr. Ross remarked that he liked to talk with the electors of Peterborough. There had been no necessity of his coming for as they had seen that night, Mr. Stratton was ABLE TO SPEAK FOR HIMSELF.

He was sorry Mr. Garvin should resent his coming, but he came of his own accord and after the election if anything remained of Mr. Garvin he would come back to see it deposited in the political family vault under the inscription "Rest in Peace." (Laughter.) Mr. Garvin, Mr. Ross said, was clever and he perhaps knew it himself as well as anybody, and some of the clever things he said to-night should be sent to the funny papers. He had referred to Mr. Stratton as to be Mr. Sat-on. Mr. Ross did not know whether that brilliant joke had been suggested from Mr. Garvin's experience—he had been sat on himself in every station almost he had occupied, (laughter) and would be sat on in this election. (Cheers.) Mr. Ross then dealt with Mr. Garvin's references to the agricultural interests fostered by the Government, and speedily disposed of the little carping criticism about his (Mr. Ross) statement of the exports of cheese, and pointed out how the export had risen from a low ebb, as it was before the Government took direct interest in its encouragement, to the enormous total of one hundred and sixty four millions. Mr. Garvin gave the credit to Prof. Robertson and not the Government. The Ontario Government, Mr. Ross showed, trained Professor Robertson at the Agricultural College, Guelph, and gave him the opportunity to become the fine expert he was, and it was a great tribute to the practical success of the Ontario department of agriculture that when Hon. Mr. Carling, Dominion Minister of Agriculture, wanted the best man that could be found, he came after Prof. Robertson, trained in the Agricultural College, of Ontario. (Cheers.) If Mr. Whitney was so anxious for the success of agriculture, why did he vote against the appointment of a Minister of Agriculture, one of the best things ever done in the interests of the farmers. In the House in 1888 Mr. Meredith moved an amendment to the bill to appoint a Minister of Agriculture, and Mr. Whitney voted for it. (Cheers.)

THE FARMERS OF THE PROVINCE

have gained largely from the energetic and progressive agricultural policy of the Government, and the speaker asked if the farmers wanted Mr. Whitney's and Mr. Garvin's narrow policy? No Government could hope to live one term that did not extend the most liberal possible aid to every branch of agriculture. (Cheers.) Mr. Garvin's failure to follow a straight line in his arguments was compared to a plowman trying to make a straight furrow by following a moving steer in a field as a mark. Referring to Mr. Garvin's argument that it was "time for a change," Mr. Ross suggested that that was another chapter from Mr. Garvin's experience, and when Mr. Ross referred to the "time for a change" in Mr. Garvin's inspectorateship, the shot went home, for some person indulged in hissing and called out "it was the Grits." The charge was not made that the government had not governed well but had governed too long. Could any government that had done well, be too long in its capable charge of the public interests. Mr. Garvin had objected to the manner of keeping the public accounts, and Mr. Ross compared the present fullness of detail with the meagreness of detail in Sandfield Macdonald's day. He pointed out that every cheque, even to the amount of 15 cents, was entered in the public accounts, and it was shown that the Ontario public accounts give much minuter detail than the Dominion public accounts. The public accounts of Ontario were subjected to a public audit by a large committee composed of members of both sides of the house, which could ask for detail vouchers for the smallest expenditure. If the details of an account were asked for the invoice would be produced. Mr. Ross stated that he expended over $7000,000 per year, and not a single voucher had been demanded from his department. The educational items in Sandfield Macdonald's public accounts occupied 50 lines. In last year's reports the details covered thirty or forty pages. There was no concealment in the Public Accounts, and even Mr. Mathieson, the financial critic of the Opposition, had complimented the chairman of the Public Accounts Committee on his fairness and the facilities afforded the Opposition for investigation. Mr. Garvin had repudiated the idea of a Government having a surplus. He (Mr. Ross) was not anxious for a surplus—it was better to have the provincial

REVENUES WELL EXPENDED

in the interests of the people. Municipalities did not have a surplus, because that involved unnecessary taxation. The policy of the Government was to expend money where it should be well expended. On Education Sandfield Macdonald spent $351,000. Last year Mr. Ross gave to Education over $719,000. If he had spent money on the same lines as Sandfield Macdonald he could have had a surplus of eight or nine millions, but the people would not have had the benefit of educational expenditure. The policy of the Government was to develop the brain energy of the people. Money invested in developing the intellectual energy of the people was and England, Scotland and Germany were cited as examples. Von Moltke, after the capture of Sedan said the credit was due to the Kindergarten and the expenditure of $4,000 or $5,000 to educate Grant for a soldier at West Point saved the Republic in the late civil war. (Cheers.)

Such results were better for the people than a surplus in the bank. Regarding the provincial surplus Mr. Ross said we could pay off all our railway liabilities and still have a surplus of $3,313,000 with not a dollar of debt. (Cheers.) It was pointed out that Quebec started on even terms with Ontario in 1867. Now Quebec had a debt of $24,000,000 and paid out about a million and a half every year for interest. Mr. Mathieson, Mr. Whitney and Mr. Garvin might quibble about definitions as to our surplus but the fact was there that we received $340,000 a year interest on our possessions, whether you called it cash or securities. (Cheers.) We could if we liked have as large a surplus as we pleased, but our policy has been and is to spend the money for the good of the people. (Cheers.) Mr. Garvin had incorrectly stated that our receipts from timber lands had been $28,-000,000 instead of $23,000,000, but five millions were neither here nor there with him, and asserted that the public institutions represented by the expenditure of that money did not pay. Did it not pay to maintain the 5,023 patients in our six asylums, increased from two, in Sandfield Macdonald's times. If we had not done this, we should have saved four or five millions, which Mr. Garvin thinks should not have been spent. Was it not better than a surplus to care for the unfortunates deprived of reason, to educate the deaf and dumb and the blind, so that the pleasures of life nature had denied could be, in some sense, restored to them? Was not that better than a surplus? Mr. Ross declared that if there was one thing more than another he was proud of, when he regarded our charitable and humane institutions, it was these grand memorials to the Master. (Cheers.) Mr. Garvin, Mr. Ross added, would be sorry that he thought interest on a surplus was better than money spent to spread the mantle of charity over the unfortunates maintained in our public institutions. (Loud applause.)

SUBJECT OF EDUCATION.

Turning his attention to the subject of education Mr. Ross referred to Mr. Garvin's complaint that there were a large number of young teachers employed in the schools. The speaker was quite willing to admit this fact and asked what could be done about it. It had proven even impossible to keep Mr. Garvin in the business. He didn't stay in it himself. Maybe teaching was being used as a stepping stone to other professions. What was the remedy? Mr. Garvin had suggested none. This could be rectified if the country could afford it. The speaker could find a remedy easily if he had sufficient money at his disposal, and if the rural sections were in a position to pay their teachers $600 a year, which they were not. So the ranks of the profession would have to be recruited from the young teachers. In Peterborough, Mr. Garvin stated the age of the teachers averaged between 30 and 40 years. The speaker was pleased to learn this. It argued that when the citizens in Peterborough got a good thing they knew enough to keep it. (Cheers.) He knew of some teachers in Peterborough. There was Mr. Fessenden, the author of a text book, which besides being used in Ontario was in vogue in Nova Scotia, and negotiations had even been entered into with the author to have it

HON. G. W. ROSS.

INTRODUCED IN ENGLAND.

An able man had been found in him and the Peterborough School Board had not been at fault in selecting a man of such capability that he could prepare a text book which not only found favour in Ontario but in England as well. The fact of the youthfulness of some of the teachers had caused him much thought. He might put an age limit of 21 years in the regulations, but then this would tend to shut the young men out of the profession, as many of them were not in a position to wait until they were 21 before they began to earn their living. He commenced to teach himself at 16. It would be a great calamity to the profession if any regulations were put into force which would tend to shut out the male teachers. At present there were two woman teachers to one man. As in the other walks of life the women were crowding the men. He had already raised the age limit from 17 to 18 years for teachers, but was afraid to raise it to 21, as Canadians are not yet sufficiently wealthy, as a nation, to keep their children at home to such an age, so if they did not teach better before than after the age of 21, the circumstances would have to govern the case. The speaker admitted that there was more character in a teacher over 21 than under, but he questioned whether Mr. Garvin would say that the average age was decreasing. He had been an inspector of schools for 16 years before entering the Government, and had a most distinct recollection of and women under him—and some of them very young. Some teachers succeeded better between the ages of 18 and 21 years than between 21 and 30 years of age. It was all a matter of training and having these circumstances fully in his mind he had put forth a great effort to assist in the training. The teachers taught better now than formerly. They were disciplined in the management of pupils and were better able to govern than formerly. Mr. Garvin urged the closing of the Model Schools. The country was not ready for this yet. The people were not in a position to give sufficient money to educate the teachers in Normal Schools. Mustn't we creep before we walk? In future years when the country was wealthy the age limit could be put at 21 years and the model schools done away with. The age limit for teachers in the High Schools was 21 years of age because so many were not required and better pay could be afforded for them, but when a farmer's son was prepared to teach at the age of 18 was he to say that the boy could not teach until he was 21 or say that there was no Model School for him to go to and that he must attend the Normal at considerable expense, before he had an opportunity of earning any money. No, this would but create stagnation.

Ask any old teachers, continued the speaker, if our schools are not better than they used to be. When he took charge of the Department of Education the attendance at High Schools was 12,000. Last year the attendance was 25,000. How did it increase? Because in fourteen years the standard of the Public Schools had steadily risen

UNDER HIS DIRECTION.

(Applause.) When he took hold there were only 358 students at Universities, now there were 957—almost treble the number. Why? Through the increased efficiency of the High Schools (continued applause). Could all this be done without an effort? No; though without an Advisory Board he had been able to accomplish this.

In 1893 at the World's Exposition in Chicago, Ontario, had competed against the world in educational matters as well as other things. The school system and regulations had been placed in competition against the universe and the decision left in the hands of a board of experts composed of five jurors, none of whom were Canadians, although he had been asked to officiate himself but had declined. The Board, picked from the leading educationalists of the world, had deliberated for six months in their careful study of the different systems, and as the result had given the first award to Ontario as having an almost ideal system. Sir Richard Webster, British Royal Commissioner, who was Attorney-General of Great Britain in Lord Salisbury's Cabinet stated that Ontario's educational exhibit was one of the most in the whole fair and was the most perfect system ever coming before his notice, being undoubtedly the finest practical system of education, from the Kindergarten to the University, that the world afforded today. (Cheers.)

In my simplicity, continued Mr. Ross, I prefer Sir Richard Webster's opinion of the results of my efforts to those of Mr. J. W. Garvin. (Laughter.)

General Eaton, the United States Commissioner, also stated that the system was second to none in the world.

The speaker then read a high tribute of praise from the Mail, which was published in connection with the award which was given at the World's Fair. In the face of that good character given to the Education Department, why should Mr. Garvin object to his (Mr. Ross') coming to Peterborough?

Mr. Garvin had also complained that the Ontario school system was simply a breeding ground for the other professions and for positions in the United States, Manitoba and the Northwest. Was it an offence to the school system that it could train men and women in Ontario who were captured for the first positions in the educational institutions of the United States—in the Universities of Harvard, Johns Hopkins and Chicago? Only recently at Chicago 72 students tried for scholarships, only thirteen were eligible, and of these nine were graduates of Toronto University. (Applause.) Should he be ashamed of that? (Loud cheers.) He was glad Ontario was able to give professors

TO THE UNITED STATES.

Was that to be a reproach? He did not mind them going to Manitoba or the Northwest either, and as long as they took their stand under the British flag, could say—"God bless them." Why shouldn't they go to the Northwest? Look at Sifton. (Cheers.) He was one of the first Ontario boys to go there. (Cheers.) See the name he has won for himself. (Applause) These are the men we are making every day in spite of the sneers of our opponents.

Mr. Garvin says the Ontario school system is bad. Why, go to Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, Quebec, Manitoba, the Northwest and British Columbia and you will find the regulations drafted by this feeble hand of mine copied verbatim et literatim. (Continued cheers.)

In Massachusetts, in New York, and even away in Australia, they have built up a system of education under the Southern Cross, copied almost entirely from my own. (Loud cheers.)

"What if our teachers are young, and what if I have no Advisory Board? What if such men as Mr. Whitney, and his apostle here on the platform, do not approve of my system? I shall be content to go down to my grave knowing that I have given to the whole of the Dominion of Canada all of the of the systems of education which are enjoyed in the different provinces." (Renewed cheers.)

When the speaker took charge of the Educational Department, the study of the History of Canada was optional in the schools. He thought, however, that to inspire patriotism our Canadian boys should study Canadian history, and made it compulsory. He succeeded in interesting the Educational Departments in the other provinces with the result that through his instrumentality they had been able to prepare a history which gave the pupils a larger view of Canada. Hitherto each province had its own history taught the pupils. The speaker wanted the children raised to the altitude of considering Canada as a whole, and was successful in his efforts.

In regard to the cost of text books the speaker referred to the comparison made by Mr. Garvin between the fourth reader and a novel. The comparison was in favour of the novel as regards bulk. The novel enjoyed an unusual reputation and an unusual sale, whilst the sale of the Reader was limited, Mr. Garvin's estimate being shown to be far and away above the actual sale, as proven by the number of pupils in attendance in the fourth book departments. The peculiar circumstances by which the novel could be placed in the hands of the public at 21 cents were not explained by Mr. Garvin. How could it be explained that in England the Pilgrim's Progress could be bought for a penny, but could this edition be compared with better editions or could Stead's Poets at a penny be compared with the

MORE EXPENSIVE EDITIONS.

It all depended upon the circumstances for the price. The Department fixed a standard for its books. The paper, binding, etc., was all inspected by an official. The paper in the novel was not of the same quality. Mr. Garvin claimed that the schools books were dear and excessive sums were paid for them. A complete set of school books, however, only cost $4.95 for the whole course of study from the first book to the fifth form.

A voice "That's not true."

Mr. Ross "Not true eh? who said it wasn't true? Here is the list."

The speaker then ran rapidly over the list of books, as required by the regulations of the department, amidst cheers. He handed it to Mr. Garvin to peruse.

Continuing, Mr. Ross stated that Toronto provided its children with books free of cost. Last year 26,000 children attended school and the cost per child was only 18 cents. In Hamilton the cost was 34 cents. At the Normal School, under him, the 600 pupils were supplied with books at a cost of 40½ cents each per year. He had himself thought that perhaps the school books could be produced more cheaply, so in 1897 he had a Royal Commission appointed composed of Judge Morgan, of York, a Conservative by the way, Mr. Bain, Public Librarian of Toronto, was another member, Mr. Blackett-Robinson, the well known publisher, was the third. They had sat for 21 days and in order to probe the facts about the cost of the production of school books. Counsel had been present on both sides. The conclusion reached was that the retail price now charged was not excessive and could not be reduced, as the trade could not realize more than a fair business profit. In reply to a question concerning the Irish readers, the commission had replied that the Irish readers would be dear to the Ontario schools at any price. (Cheers.)

Concerning the matter of high prices paid for the books, the charge could not be so very excessive, as thirteen books were used in Manitoba, four in Nova Scotia, six in British Columbia, four in New Brunswick and seven in Quebec. The books were much cheaper than those used in the United States. Thus it was proven by the investigation of impartial men that the Ontario text books were manufactured as cheaply as could be—cheaper than the American—and were of a high literary value. The report was a complete vindication of the Education Department. He was no expert in such matters, but had consulted first on the question of cost with the Queen's printer, then with a printer on his own staff and had, lastly, called in the commission. What more could a man do to ascertain the facts of the case? He had satisfied himself that he was not overcharging for the school books. If the commission had stated that too high a price was charged he would have admitted himself wrong rather than see a wrong done the parents of children, even if the admission had cost him his position in the cabinet. (Cheers.)

It was incorrect to say he had no Advisory Board. He had as was in vogue in England. His colleagues were his Advisory Board, and the school inspectors of the province were his advisers. He asked their opinion on every regulation he made. If Mr. Garvin had remained in his position longer his advice would have been asked. The system enjoyed by Ontario was a good one, but he was perfectly willing to admit that it was not perfect. Very few things were. Look at the British North America Act for instance. It was drafted by the most astute lawyers in Canada. Was revised and revised again. Went over to England and was once more revised in the Privy Council and yet a few year's later a coach and four could have been driven through it. Changes must come. Everything in the present age of progress was in a state of flux—of evolution. Gas gave way to electricity and doubtless in the years to come the present system of education would be replaced by a more modern one. It was acknowledged to be the best in the world. Was that not enough for the present?

He defied Mr. Garvin to point out any Minister of Education who was responsible to an Advisory Board and Parliament as well. Parliament must be supreme. There was a time when it was not. In the days of the Family Compact for instance. All knew the result. If there was an Advisory Board and a man was made responsible both to that and to Parliament he would be a mere tool. He would be coquetting between the Board and Parliament.

Mr. Garvin had said the speaker refused to give up the patronage of his office. He had never been asked to give it up. On the contrary he had given it up without being asked. (Applause.) When he came into office there was in the Province but who had to be appointed by him. At present he did not have the appointment of one. (Cheers.) The Educational Committee appointed them—appointed every one. He sent in to the committee a list of names—twice as many as were needed for the purpose. They were picked from the University graduates who were actually engaged in teaching. None were overlooked. The names of all were sent in without exception—Whig or Tory, white or brown. From this list the Educational Committee picked the men who were to examine the papers. When he first came into office he had no Advisory Board, as stated by Mr. Garvin. Mr. Garvin was also at fault when he said that he had dismissed Prof. Young from office. He had never done so. He revered the memory of Prof. Young and paid a tribute to his great learning.

He trusted that Mr. Garvin would not be elected to a seat in the Legislature. He did not say that he was not possessed of considerable ability, but his educational theories were not sound. If he got into office he would dismiss the speaker and his colleagues. He might laugh at this, but that would be all the sport he would get out of it. Mr. Garvin would never take that seat in the House. He defied the most bitter enemies of the present Government to point out one dollar of the $8,000,000 which had passed through their hands as being spent corruptly. What other Government in Canada, could throw out such a challenge. Mr. Whitney had said on the stump that the examiners were appointed for political ends and that certificates had been granted by the speaker for the same purpose. When the House assembled he charged Mr. Whitney with having made these statements and asked him if he could specify one single change. If he thought he could the speaker offered him a committee of the House and every opportunity to look into all the circumstances governing the awarding of every certificate. If he succeeded in establishing one charge, he could have the speaker's portfolio. Mr. Whitney didn't, Mr. Whitney couldn't, Mr. Whitney daren't accept the offer.

OR IN THE WORLD,

Wasn't it a mark of confidence in him this year to allow his estimates to go through the House in one hour instead of them talking two days as formerly.

In a division of the House which took place on the policy, the Government majority was swollen from 12 or 15 to 36, as every independent, with the exception of Haggarty, of North Hastings, voted in favour of it.

When Whitney brought in his cut and dried motion condemning the system, and he was asked if he wanted the members called in for a division of the House, he was afraid to put it to the test, as he had been so overwhelmingly defeated in his former effort to pass a vote of want of confidence. (Cheers.) He was afraid to bring his own baby to the altar to be christened. (Laughter and cheers.)

When the speaker came into office the text books in use were all by American or English authors—now every text book on the list was the product of Canadian brains except a Greek book and an Euclid. (Cheers.) Mr. Garvin says Mr. Glashan's royalty on the Arithmetic is $10,000. How can he know that? He is guessing—an unpardonable fault in a critic. The speaker did not even know himself what the royalty amounted to and he was in a much better position to ascertain than Mr. Garvin. But even granting that the royalty was large was it not better to have it going into the pockets of a Canadian than paid over to the United States as it was when the speaker took office? (Applause.) Would it be out of place if he used that old Tory cry of Canada for the Canadians in this instance? (Cheers.) The material of which the books were made was all purchased in Ontario, the workmen were from Ontario and they were paid standard Ontario union wages. (Continued cheers.)

The fine work of the Laurier Male Quartette of Toronto during the evening was fully appreciated by the large audience. Never before was better harmony heard in Peterborough, and the blending of the voices was such as to make it impossible to identify the different voices participating. The quartette is composed of Messrs. Stewert Huntington, 1st tenor; J. Hartley Dennison, 2nd tenor; John E. Turton, baritone and H. Ruthven McDonald, basso. The four young men are all from Toronto and are so enthusiastic in their support of the Government as to give their services for a merely nominal sum, just sufficient to meet their expenses. The patriotic and campaign songs were all composed or arranged by Mr. Huntington. Appended is a sample of one which took very suddenly:

Hardy is the man we prize;
Hurrah for victory!
We'll sing his praises to the skies;
Hurrah for victory!
With might and main we'll shout his name;
Hurrah for victory, hurrah!
Record it on the "Book of Fame;"
Hurrah for victory!

CHO:—Now fall in line and join the fray,
Our leaders command, we will obey,
And side by side we'll win the day;
Hurrah for victory!

Our "Grand Old Man" we all adore;
Hurrah for victory!
As years roll on we love him more;
Hurrah for victory!
His acts have always won our praise;
Hurrah for victory, hurrah!
For Ross let all our voices raise;
Hurrah for victory!

On election day won't the Garveaites weep;
Hurrah for victory!
For we'll bury them many fathoms deep;
Hurrah for victory!
Stratton will roost in the Parliament coop;
Hurrah for victory, hurrah!
Poor Garvin will surely be in the soup;
Hurrah for victory!

What hope is left for poor St. John;
Hurrah for victory!
The pig is dead, his hope is gone;
Hurrah for victory!
He views his prospects with dismay;
Hurrah for victory, hurrah!
At home he stay, his swinette to play.
Hurrah for victory!

Dr. Livingstone's Cough Pills Cure When Other Well-Known Remedies Fail.

"For the last three winters I have been subject to a most harrassing cough which kept me awake at nights and weakened me considerably. I have used two boxes of DR. LIVINGSTONE'S COUGH PILLS and I find them THE BEST COUGH REMEDY I have ever used. Last winter I used seven bottles of Cod Liver Oil and emulsions of Cod Liver Oil with Hypophosphites, besides other remedies. These strengthened the lungs to an extent, but did not relieve or improve the cough. This year I used two boxes of Dr. Livingstone's Cough Pills, which broke my cough at once and also strengthened the lungs and throat. I consider them SUPERIOR TO ANY OTHER COUGH REMEDY I have ever used and I can highly recommend them to anyone suffering from a cough or cold." Yours truly, GEO. H. POSTLETHWAITE, Lakefield, Ont. ONTARIO MORE MORAL

According to the Report of Inspector Noxon, Which Is Just Out.

Toronto, Jan. 27.—According to the annual report of Inspector Noxon, just out, Ontario is becoming better morally. There is a noticeable diminution during the past year in the committals of drunkenness and other offenses.

The Government, it is said, intend to take action for the improvement of the jails of the province, which are said to be in a bad condition. During 1897 there were 8,884 committals, as against 9,038 for the previous year. Of these 285 were boys and 47 girls under 16 years of age. The committals for drunkenness numbered 191 less than in the previous year.

The Inspector wants some reforms. He states that in the Central Prison there is an inadequate number of cells, that there is no provision for the proper separation of those confined, and that there are insufficient conveniences for school purposes. There are at present 979 prisoners in the prison, against 900 in 1896. The cost of maintenance per capita is 30½c per head. The outlay for the year was $56,800, while the expenditure last year was $62,000. The earnings of the industries amounted to $24,080, and the cost of maintenance was thus reduced to 22c per head.

The committals to the Reformatory are growing less. In 1882 there were 363 boys in the institution, now there are 128. The Mercer has 103 patients this year, as compared with 97 last year, and the Refuge 34 as compared with 22.

HEART HUMBUG.

WHY DON'T YOU TAKE?

IT is fashionable to-day to have a new heart scare every 24 hours. The commonest symptoms of dyspepsia or nerve trouble, such as palpitation, weak spells, loss of appetite and poor circulation are magnified and distorted into serious signs of heart trouble, with the object of frightening the public into taking this or that heart remedy. If a hundredth part of the heart trouble we hear about were real, the cemeteries would be filled in a month. A wrong construction is put upon common ailments in order to humbug the people into the belief that heart disease is prevalent, whereas real heart trouble, which is so sadly and suddenly fatal when it does occur, is a rare disease. Lop-sided arguments cannot convince an intelligent people. Iron is the vital element of the blood. You can't have too much. But too little iron means weakness, lack of spirit, pallid cheeks, shortness of breath, sleeplessness, nervousness, loss of vital force, ending in general break-down. The iron in Dr. Ward's Blood and Nerve Pills is in the soluble form you need, in combination with other curative agents in such a manner that disease can't resist their action. The blood becomes rich and red, strength returns, spirits revive, good health comes back again. YOU FEEL YOURSELF GETTING WELL WHEN YOU TAKE DR. WARD'S BLOOD AND NERVE PILLS.

BREAKFAST CEREALS.

They Contain Essential Elements For Perfect Nourishment of the Body.

"Cereals and fruits should form the base of breakfast foods," writes Mrs. S. T. Rorer on "Breakfast Cereals and Fruits" in her cooking lesson in The Ladies' Home Journal. "They will support muscular action, preserve the heat of the body and strengthen the brain in its nervous activity. Whole or steel cut oats and whole wheat, from which our nineteenth century bread should be made, contain the essential elements for the perfect nourishment of the human body. The great objection to cereal foods is their difficulty of digestion, not from any fault of the foods, but, first, from lack of time in cooking and, second, from lack of proper mastication. Raw starches are indigestible. The first step, then, toward the digestion of starches is over the fire. Each little cell must be ruptured, and for this long and careful cooking is required. The second step to the digestion of starches is in the mouth. They are there converted from the insoluble starch to soluble sugar. If they are swallowed quickly, without mastication, they miss this digestion, entering the stomach as strangers. This organ not being prepared to receive them, they are cast out into the small intestines to be entirely instead of partly digested. This organ, now compelled to do, in addition to its own duties, the work of the mouth, soon becomes overtaxed, and we have, as a result, the disease most common in this country—intestinal indigestion.

"Of the breakfast cereals steel cut oats head the list. Any of the wheat germ preparations are good. After these come the rolled wheat and barley and rice preparations. All these foods, however, must be thoroughly cooked and eaten without sugar."

Smoke and Lightning.

"On the approach of a thunderstorm French peasants often make up a very smoky fire," says Industries and Iron, "in the belief that safety from lightning is thus assured. By some this is deemed superstition, but Schaster shows that the custom is based on reason inasmuch as the smoke acts as a good conductor for carrying away the electricity slowly and safely. He points out that in 1,000 cases of damage by lightning 3.3 churches and 4.5 mills have been struck, while the number of factory chimneys has only been .3."

"It's so seldom," said Uncle Eben, "dat a man jes' puhceeds along, tryin ter do 'is hones' duty, dat when he does folks goes ter guessin an 'spicionin dat he's playin a mighty sly game."—Washington Star.

A Dramatic Assassination.

By far the most dramatic royal assassination was that of the Emperor Paul of Russia on March 24, 1801, by his nobles. As usual Paul had retired to rest booted and spurred and in his regimentals. At the dead of night he was awakened by an unusual noise. The hussar who guarded his chamber door—the only faithful sentry, as it proved, in the palace—was being killed by nine nobles. They burst into the room and began to attack the emperor. Paul hid behind chairs and tables and begged for his life. He offered to make each of his assailants a prince. He offered to abdicate in vain. Then he made a wild dash for the window, fearfully gashing himself, but he was dragged back. He seized a chair and for some time kept the nine of them at bay, and only after terrific struggles was he seized and strangled with his own sash.

Pointed.

"Isn't your father of rather a retiring disposition?" asked the young man caller whose chief weakness is to stay late.

"Yes," she answered demurely, "he retires at 10 and insists that the house be closed within half an hour of that time."—Detroit Free Press.

SLOAN'S INDIAN TONIC

TRADE MARK.

Robson Brown, of Valetta, July 28th, 1891, says:—

"I am sorry under the circumstances to write to you, but I feel it my duty, as I have been troubled with Dyspepsia for years, took dollars' worth of medicine and pills, but got no relief until I commenced taking your Sloan's Indian Tonic. I think I have taken 8 or 10 bottles in all, and I feel as if I have got a new lease of life, I feel so much better. I was in the habit of keeping a bottle in the house so when costive I would take a dose or two with instant relief. Now I am troubled with costive spells very often, and it was the only medicine that gave me instant relief. It seems as if I have lost my best friend. Now I would like to hear from you by return mail, as I would like to have a bottle as soon as possible.

Mrs. H. Palmer, of Ridgetown, Ont., says: I was afflicted for a number of years with Erysipelas and Neuralgia in my face, and one bottle of Sloan's Indian Tonic cured me entirely, and I would recommend it to others, either for erysipelas or neuralgia.

Mrs. Henry Hale, of Blenheim, Ont., says: Sloan's Indian Tonic cured me of Malarial Fever and Chills and Neuralgia. When I was down sick in bed I purchased a bottle of the Tonic and it cured me entirely, and I have not been troubled with Fever or Neuralgia since.

SAN BENITO.

In the early nineties there arose in the town of Tularosa a prophet who had honor among his own people. He was only Benito Morales at first, but he came to be San Benito, and this was the manner of it:

Benito was the only son of one Senora Morales. She had wandered into Tularosa one day with her baby in her arms. To wander in Tularosa afoot is no small achievement. The surrounding country is greasewood plain, barren knolls and alkali patches as far as the eye can reach. At Three Rivers, seven miles to the west, there is a creek which runs almost dry in summer, but north, east and south for many, many leagues there is neither water nor shelter. That the mother, with her child in her arms, had lived through the desert journey was a marvel which was not explained at the time, but which was in after years attributed to divine guidance.

Senora Morales was very young, her baby was but 2 months old, and its father, she said, was a white man. He was her husband, and he would come by and by. But he never came. The priest found her shelter in a crumbling adobe hut, and in return she swept the church and renewed the paper roses in the white and gilt vases upon the altar. She lived mostly on charity. Benito grew to manhood and early gave proof that his mother had spoken the truth in saying that his father had been Americano by the extraordinary activity of his mind. But that he was also half Mexican was evinced in his quite ordinary indolence of body. The priest saw in him a promising padre, and undertook his education. The progress of young Morales was astonishing. His reputation spread. Advice was asked of him as frequently as of the priest, and those who followed it did well, for his inspiration was keen common sense and an eye to the main chance. It dawned slowly upon the padre that his pupil was coming to be of unduly great repute, that his own prestige was menaced, and when Benito was in his twentieth year the good father thus addressed him:

"My son, you are now a man, and you should play a man's part. You should go out into the world and work for the mother who has so long supported you."

The word "work" was a terrible stab to the heart of Benito. "But am I not to be a priest?" he asked.

"No," said the father piously. "You have not the spirit of the priest. You love the things of this world."

Benito's fine black eyes grew rapt, and he opened his lips to protest. But the father had some knowledge of mankind himself, and he interrupted. "And then," he suggested, "the padre must be always poor, but a brain like yours can make much money in the world."

The fine black eyes sparkled with greed. The white strain was strongest in his love of gain, insomuch indeed that it overcame the laziness of his Mexican blood, and the thought of adventure which should be rewarded with gold fired Benito's soul.

"Where shall I go?" he asked.

"To the railroad, to Socorro, to Santa Fe, to Tucson, perhaps even to Los Angeles," the priest answered vaguely. "You can grow rich—ah, very rich—in Socorro or Santa Fe. You need not go farther, for some day you might wish to come back to your mother, and you could not do it maybe if you were so far away as Tucson."

"But I must have money to go with," suggested Benito.

The priest looked at him reproachfully. "Your mother did not need money when she came from the north and carried you in her arms." Benito was silent. "But perhaps we can get $1, or even $2. I will go today and try to gather it for you. Have you no money of your own?"

"No," lied Benito glibly.

"And yet," said the good father, perplexed, "you have often been paid when you have given advice."

"I gave the money to my mother. Did she not deserve that I should?" asked Morales righteously.

The padre doubted, but he held his peace. He gathered $2.20 from his grateful flock, and Benito Morales, taking that and the $10 he had been all his life in saving, started forth to seek his fortune. His mother wept placidly for days as she smoked her cigarettes on the shady side of the house or knelt in church and prayed and said her beads while the swallows flew back and forth and twitted among the rafters. In time she ceased to weep, but she talked incessantly of her only son.

Two years passed before Benito came back to his own. He had gone in the summer, and in the summer he returned. A drought was upon the land. In those two years there had been no rain. The priest prayed and the people supplicated and the figure of St. Joseph was carried in procession. It had brought water from the skies before this. Yet now its influence was of no avail, and the crops—even the crop of frijoles—seemed doomed to fail. Then Benito Morales returned. The people, remembering that his advice had proved good of yore, asked him now what they should do. Benito did not commit himself but he said that he would pray, and that perchance the anger of heaven might be withdrawn. If so, he would expect to be paid. The people promised. Then Benito went into the church and bowed his picturesque head and prayed for rain. There was some faith in his heart and much skepticism. On the following day it rained. Benito was well paid, and his reputation far outshone that of the padre. Now Benito in his travels had wandered to the farthermost limits of the continent, even unto San Francisco and Los Angeles. He had learned much that the padre would not and much that the padre could not have taught him. Among the latter was the trick of hypnotizing. A hypnotist had picked Morales up from the streets one evening and had promised him 50 cents if the Mexican would help him with his show. Morales did not know what it was, but he needed half a dollar, and he went with the man, and he went again night after night. He observed and he watched, and at last he determined that he could do the "treeck" as well as the "gringo." He experimented and practiced and became in course of time fairly proficient, for Morales was a man of brains and will. The "treeck" served to amuse him and his worthless friends, but he never thought of turning it to account. He was sharp enough to know that he did not do it so well as the white man.

In course of time he grew weary of working to live. He did not grow rich, and he had to labor hard for the rare dollars that he turned. It was better in Tularosa, where people would give him frijoles and cigarettes and where his mother would do the little that was needed to keep hunger from the door. Slowly and leisurely he earned his way back to Socorro, and thence he rode on a burro that he found on the banks of the Rio Grande to Tularosa. Thus it was that Benito Morales returned to his own people, little dreaming of the honors that were in store for him.

One day as he sat in his own doorway watching the mocking bird that hopped back and forth in its cage and pecked at the red chili stuck between the bars he wondered how he should get his next package of brown rice paper for cigarettes. He had no money, his mother had none and he had exhausted the generosity of his friends. Then it flashed upon him that the "treeck" would be of use. He could get endless packages of papers by that method. He went to where a number of his friends lounged around the door of the one store of the town. The least generous man of them all had a new package. In seeming playfulness Morales pressed him upon the brow and gazed into his eyes. The man grew rigid.

"Give me your cigarette papers and some tobacco, if you please," suggested Benito.

His subject did as he was bid. Benito released him and sat down to smoke.

The onlookers were seized with a terrible awe. Benito had a power from the devil or from heaven, they were not certain which, and it lay with Morales to decide that for them. He put his power to good uses for a time. He cured those of the sick who seemed likely to recover. He made men perform feats of prodigious strength. The people rose up and blessed him, and ere long they called him San Benito, timidly at first, then with growing conviction.

When his reputation was established, Morales began to work for his own ends. Manuel Guitterez awoke from a trance one day to find that he had in the presence of witnesses signed away his house to Morales. When he protested, he was set upon and beaten and driven off with boots. Jose Ortega in the same fashion gave away his bit of a ranch at Three Rivers. Morales was now a landed proprietor. He married, and one person contributed, all unwittingly, a chair, another a bed, another a table, another a statue of a saint, to furnish the bridegroom's house. The people feared and almost worshiped him. His mother and his wife and his children received much honor. But Morales had too much rope, and in due time he hanged himself.

A tenmster who was camping upon the bank of the creek a couple of miles from Morales' rancho had two mules which the Mexican coveted. Benito spent the evening hanging around the teamster's campfire and talking to him. He was a "gringo," but the "treeck" had been done to "gringos" before. Why, reasoned Morales, should not he attempt it? He did and with entire success. When the man was under his influence, Morales said, "To-night at 12 o'clock you will come one mile down the river to where the ford road is, and you will give me these two mules." Morales touched the ones he wanted. Then he awoke the teamster and went away. At midnight he waited by the ford and received the mules. He sent the man back to his camp and took the animals to a clump of heavy willows, where he tied them. He did not want the man to find them in his corral if it should occur to him to make trouble.

The next day as Morales dug aimlessly in his strawberry patch he saw the sheriff and the teamster approaching. The sheriff was an Irishman who kept the one store of the town, and he did not like Benito. The Mexican was badly scared.

"This man," said the Irishman, "says you were loafing around his camp all the evening yesterday and were watching the two mules that are missing now. He thinks you stole them."

"I did not. I have not got them," said San Benito.

"You come and help us look for them just the same. You're a queer lot, and you've got lots of things you didn't work to earn."

The mules were found, of course, tied under the willows on San Benito's own ground with a piece of San Benito's own rope, which he had bought of the Irishman only two days before.

Morales was tried as a horse thief at the next meeting of the court at the county seat, and he was convicted. When the news reached Tularosa that he had been sent to jail, the people of the town turned against their saint after the manner of mankind, which asks nothing better than to burn what it has adored. Guitteres seized back his house, Ortega reclaimed his ranch, San Benito's wife and children were turned out and found refuge where they might until the padre gave them a home.

Afterward, when San Benito came back to his town, he was met with stones and curses and driven out upon the prairie. And his mother went with him across the burning plain toward the vague north, from which they had come. He might be Morales, the horse thief, to his ungrateful people, but to her he was Benito still—even San Benito.—Gwendolen Overton in Argonaut.

Flowers are the poetry of the earth; babies the sonnets of humanity. Banish the smiles, the dimples and the laughter of childhood and the world would become a barren wilderness, inhabited by savages.

Woman's ultimate mission, duty and joy on earth are comprised in the one word, "Motherhood." Multitudes of women fail of this mission because of weakness and disease of the distinctly feminine organism. They do not understand that disorders of this description unfit them for wifehood and motherhood, and as a consequence are careless and neglectful of their health in a womanly way. Others who realize the truth, shrink from the "examinations" and "local treatments" insisted upon by the average physician. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription does away with the necessity for these obnoxious examinations and local treatments. It acts directly and only on the delicate and important organs that are the vestibule of human life and makes them strong, healthy, vigorous, virile and elastic. It fits for wifehood and motherhood. It banishes the annoyances of the uncomfortable period preceding maternity and makes baby's arrival in the world easy and nearly painless. All the dangers of maternity vanish under its beneficent influence. Its use during the period of anticipation is a guarantee of the little stranger's health and an ample supply of natural nourishment. Thousands of women have testified to its marvelous merits. All medicine stores sell it. Accept no substitute that may be represented as "just as good."

"For ten years I suffered untold misery," writes Mrs. Carline King, of New Boston, Scioto Co., Ohio. "I then took Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and eleven months later presented my husband with a twelve-pound boy. My health is good."

THE BABY'S NAME.

"Mordaunt" she called him. In a novel book
His mother found the name she give to him.
I didn't like it, for I'd kinder took
A sort of notion favor'ble to "Jim,"
But when she looked up at me from the bed,
Half dead, but happy, as she said: "I want
That you shall name him, after all," I said,
"Why, blame it all, of course it is Mordaunt."

She knew the way I felt about such names
As that this was a sacrifice—for she Had often heard me say that honest "James"
Had just about the proper ring for me—
But though 'twas disappointment still I thought
She was the one that had the right to choose
An I—there wasn't any question—ought
To reconcile my wishes to her views.

He was so delicate, so teeny small,
But smarter than the cracker of a whip.
I don't believe he ever cried at all—
Sometimes he'd pucker up his little lip
An look at you until you was ashamed
Of all the sins you knew he knew you'd done.
I often thought he grieved because we'd named
By such a name a helpless little one.

An thinking that when we two was alone
I called him by the name I liked so well.
His mother would 'a' grieved if she'd 'a' known,
But neither Jim ner me would ever tell.
We never told. He'd laugh an crow to hear
Me whisperin so happ'ly to him,
"Yer name's Mordaunt, old boy, when mother's near,
But when there's only me about it's Jim."

We never told our little secret an
We never will—we never, never will.
Somewhere off yonder in a flow'ry land
A little baby's toddlin, toddlin still,
A-seekin in the sunshine all alone
The God that give an then that sent for him.
Mordaunt's the name carved on the little stone,
But in my heart the name is always Jim.

SPORTING PASTIMES.

Hockey and Other Items of Local and General Interest.

HOCKEY.

Another club has fallen by the wayside. The O. H. A. is still on the warpath and last night the Nationals of Guelph were suspended until two of their players have cleared themselves of the charge of professionalism, laid against them by the Victorias of Guelph. The players whose amateur status is questioned are both from Toronto, Bert Davis having played lacrosse with the Tecumsehs for the last two years, whilst George Franks, the other suspect, chased the puck with the Old Orchards last season. The pair will have to appear before the Executive next Monday night at the National Club to state their side of the case. In the meantime the Nationals are suspended from the O. H. A. Manager E. C. O'Brien, of the Guelph Victorias, handled the matter for his club.

The application of the Berlin Hockey Club for reinstatement was read and refused.

The Cornwall-Brockville protest was referred to a sub-committee for adjustment.

The O. H. A. intends going after clubs entered in the senior and intermediate series which have played out of their class. The rule applying to the case is as follows:

"The Executive may suspend or expel a club for notorious or continued foul play or unfair conduct, individually or collectively; negligence to pay assessments, or for persistent infringements of the laws of the game or the rules of the association."

Percy Brown was appointed referee of the Orillia-Collingwood game to-night. There were present at the meeting President Martin, Secretary Beaton and Messrs. Macdonald, Robertson, McLennan, King, Brown and Creelman.

In the rules of competition of the Ontario Hockey Association there is one which reads:—"The referee must order the game to begin not later than fifteen minutes after the time for which it has been fixed (if the ice be available), and any team or teams failing to comply with this order shall forfeit to the association $3 per team. The Executive may refund this forfeit on good cause shown by the referee." So far this season there has been a little laxity in enforcing this rule, but clubs are reminded that the O. H. A. officials will from this date forward have it strictly obeyed. It has also been decided to have regulation 7 paid proper attention to, which says that 'a club intending to default must send to the secretary of the opposing club and also to the secretary of the sub-committee at least five clear days' notice, exclusive of the day on which the match was to have been played, unless the Executive shall otherwise order. Any club failing to send such notice shall be subject to a penalty of $25, together with all legitimate expenses incurred by the competing club in connection with such match, and shall, in default of payment of such sum to the competing club within two weeks of the date arranged for the match, be struck off the roll of membership of the Ontario Hockey Association." It was stated yesterday by the secretary of the O. H. A. that henceforth there will be no exception made in favor of any club when an infraction of these laws is made.

The Globe says: Milbrook has defaulted to the Peterboro' juniors in group No. II., and the Peterboro' boys become champions of the group, and play the Kingston Frontenacs II. next. Peterboro' has a team of fast juniors. Last year they went into the semi-finals, but lost to the Toronto Wellingtons, who eventually won the championship. Among the members of the team is Harry King, brother of Lionel King. He bids fair to reach as high a place as a hockeyist as Lionel.

Why He Left the Stage.

There is in Philadelphia a man who abandoned the theatrical profession because he could not lift Fanny Davenport. He was a member of one of the local stock companies about 20 years ago, when Miss Davenport came to Philadelphia with one of the men of her company sick. She applied to the manager of the theater in which the young man referred to was employed for some one to take the sick man's place, and as the young actor was not in the cast of the play then running his services were loaned to Miss Davenport. He was cast for the part of Caius Lucius in "Cymbeline," and the business of the part required that he should take Miss Davenport in his arms and carry her off the stage. The lady weighed considerably more than he did, and when he attempted to pick her up he found that his strength was not equal to the task. His struggles caused the audience to laugh, and that spoiled a good scene. He was so humiliated that he left the profession after that engagement.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

Henry—Oh, yes! I feel quite encouraged. She has begun to find fault with my looks.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

JAMES ALLISON'S FATE.

The Governor-General Signed the Fatal Decree Yesterday—Allison Showed No Concern at the News.

Ottawa, Jan. 28.—The Government have had under serious consideration the case of the boy Allison, who is lying under sentence of death at Berlin for the murder of Mrs. Orr. His Excellency yesterday signed the Order-in-Council which decrees that the law shall take its course, so that Allison will be hanged on Feb. 4.

ALLISON WAS UNMOVED

When Told That the Death Penalty Would be His Fate on Friday Next.

Berlin, Ont., Jan. 28.—Allison, the murderer of Mrs. Anthony Orr, near Galt last August, maintains his quiet demeanor, and shows little distress over the news that on Friday, Feb. 4, he is to suffer the consequences for his rash and cruel act. When informed that the petition to the Minister of Justice in his behalf had no effect on the sentence pronounced upon him he betrayed no signs of emotion. It is thought he will go to the scaffold in the same unconcerned way. Another clergyman, Rev. J. W. German, an old Methodist minister of the town, was admitted to the prisoner yesterday, after expressing a wish therefor.

Allison's mother with her three children paid her son a visit Monday afternoon. The jailer is always present on such occasions. Mr. and Mrs. Allison have received notice that they may call and see their son for the last time next Wednesday.

Sheriff Springer will not be present at the execution on account of indisposition. Radcliffe, the public executioner, will arrive and make the necessary arrangements the beginning of the week.

TOM NULTY'S SPIRITUAL ADVISER

The Rev. Abbe Baillairge Makes Some Important Statements as a Witness.

Joliette, Que., Jan. 28.—In Tom Nulty's trial yesterday Rev. Abbe Baillairge was the most important witness. Tom made a confession to the witness as his spiritual adviser. The story as told to him does not differ materially from that told to the detective and reporters. Tom had also said that he had never thought of such a thing as making room in the house for a wife and had never made such a statement.

Witness further said prisoner's replies impressed him as being sincere. The Cure had at first condemned the prisoner, and in a couple of letters, written to Montreal papers, had said that he was a fit subject for the gallows. Since then he had learned of many things which caused him to reverse his opinion. He had found that Tom's grandfather had been a great drunkard and that his grandmother had been insane. Tom was extremely absent-minded, a thing uncommon among very illiterate persons. He was subject to groundless fears and hallucinations. He was told the prisoner was subject to fits.

Dr. Lamarche, a professor of Laval University, testified as an expert. He had found prisoner's head to be of abnormal shape. The top of the head also yielded to pressure of the hands, an act which caused tears to flow from Tom's eyes.

The Court had a question to ask: "Would it be possible," asked the Judge, "for the epileptic to have an entire knowledge of his act, yet at the same time be unable to restrain himself from committing it?"

Dr. Lamarche replied in the affirmative. There could be knowledge without responsibility.

The Labeling of the Cans.

Toronto, Jan. 28.—At the Canadian Packers' Association, which has just concluded a two days session, the Executive Committee was instructed to oppose the idea of legislating in the direction of having the date of packing and weight of goods printed or stamped on the label of each can, the same having been tried before and found impracticable, the Dominion Act bearing thereon having consequently been repealed. It was pointed out that a can full of water was heavier than a can full of fruits or vegetables, and that, therefore, the weight of the can was no indication of its value.

Sheep Ticks.

Every one who has sheep knows the tick, the worst pest of this animal, that does serious harm to the young lambs without suspicion of the cause to the shepherd. This reddish brown creature is a wingless fly and a very greedy blood-sucker. A dozen of them on a lamb will quickly suck the little one dry. It is to be looked after at the time of shearing, when these insects go for shelter to the lambs. It is found mostly where the animal cannot reach it—on its head, buried in the skin, sucking the blood.

Its skin is tough, and it is not easily crushed with less than a blow of a hammer. In small flocks it is not much of a job to go through, with a pair of small scissors to cut the ticks in two, but where the flock is over a score it will be necessary to dip the lambs.—Exchange.

The Count's Mistake.

"So Gwendolyn is not to marry the count after all?"

"No, poor man. He tried to tell her that her singing was something that made one glad to live, and his pronunciation was so broken that she thought he said it made one glad to leave, and then she requested him to leave."—Indianapolis Journal.

Testing Him.

Bagley—Do you recollect that $5 I let you have about a year ago?

Brace—Perfectly.

Bagley—That's good. I see your memory is all right. How's your eyesight?—Harlem Life.

Cheese is 6d lower in Liverpool.

Cash wheat in Chicago closed 4⅛c higher at $1.04⅛.

Chicago Gossip.

Wheat took a balloon trip to-day. The bears looked pretty tired at the close. It was a wild market, January scaling at $1.05, and May at 97⅛c, and closed at about the top prices. When it is recalled that May closed at 94⅜c yesterday, some idea of the rush of the bears to cover will be obtained. For the greater part of the session there was no indication whatever of the cyclone that was on its way to the wheat pit; it looked at one time as though the market was high enough. May sold down to 95⅛c, or ⅝c off from the opening; it gradually strengthened to 96⅝c. When a few big buying orders ran it up to 98c, it halted a minute to take breath, then took a fresh start. This caused a stampede among the bears and they rushed the price up to 97c before much wheat came out, but above that price their wants were supplied. At 97⅛c they could get all they wanted. Cables strong, and the air was full of bull rumors, one of the principal ones that Russia in all probability would become an importer of grain. The clique kept the bears guessing all day. The legitimate situation of wheat is too high, but this being a one-man market, opinions count for naught. There was a large short interest in wheat, but it has been covered up to-day and the bulls will not have the shorts to aid them in much further advance.

It says: "They have done wonders in providing that a railway shall be built by the 1st of September next from the head of navigation on the Stikine River across country to Teslin Lake. La Presse Alone in Objecting to the Arrangement—The Winnipeg Free Press Regards It With Favor—Bright Hopes for a Profitable Trade in the Yukon.

Winnipeg, Jan. 29.—The Free Press commends the Laurier Government for their promptness in securing an all-Canadian route to the Klondike. It says: "They have done wonders in providing that a railway shall be built by the 1st of September next from the head of navigation on the Stikine River across country to Teslin Lake. Within a year after the reputation of the Klondike became known the Canadian authorities are providing means by which transportation into the country can easily be effected. If we consider that this is done in the face of the discouragement of a long and severe winter, and that the region in which operations are to be conducted is usually cut off from communication with the active world outside for the greater portion of the year, we shall have to admit that the enterprise is without parallel in the history of colonization or exploration. By the first day of September next a railway will be completed and papered through-out from Stikine River to Teslin Lake, a distance of 180 miles. That is the contract just made with the Government and with men whose reputation is the best guarantee that it will be carried out to the letter. The work is undertaken by Messrs. Mackenzie and Mann, experienced railway contractors, and men capable of commanding unlimited capital. There need be no fear that the railway will not be ready for operation on the day named. The Government cannot be accused of dilatoriness in meeting the situation so suddenly presented by the rich gold discoveries of the Klondike. On the contrary, they have acted with most admirable expedition. The first consideration was the establishment of law and order, and to this end an administrator and staff of officers were despatched at the earliest possible moment. Mounted police were sent in as a precaution against lawlessness. Provisions have been made for the accommodation of all business connected with mining in that region, and now a railway one hundred and thirty miles long is to be constructed with a few months, almost weeks, to complete an easy route to the country and to afford every convenience for transportation. As jurisdiction is to a certain extent interlocked, the Government at Ottawa have made arrangements with the Government at Washington that customs restrictions of every nature whatever shall be reduced to a minimum. Canadians are getting their all-Canadian route, and much sooner than they ought in reason to expect, and those of them who go to the Klondike will find on arrival that complete provision has been made for the government of the territory on the well-known lines of British justice and fair play."

The Conservative Leader.

Montreal, Jan. 29.—The Government's all-Canadian route to the Klondike meets with the approval of all classes here. Interviews with public and business men of all kinds and politics show not one discordant note, and the unanimous opinion is that it will give a tremendous impetus to Canadian trade. Montreal business men in many lines have already received orders on account of the Klondike, and in all lines are actively preparing to take full advantage of the opening.

Sir Charles Tupper is generous enough to approve of the Klondike railway project in the following words: "I notice with very great pleasure the announcement that the Government have promptly provided for the maintenance of an all-Canadian route to that great gold-mining centre towards which the eyes of the world are now so strongly directed. I have no doubt that the measures they have taken to secure the prompt construction of a sled road between the Stikine River and Teslin Lake, to be made into a good trail so soon as the snow disappears, and followed by the construction of a railway to be opened by September next, will meet with the approval of Parliament. I regard these measures of incalculable value to Canada, and shall be only too glad to give the Government the best support in my power on a question of such vital importance at this moment. It is greatly to be regretted that the Government has not earlier seen the necessity, which was apparent to a great many other persons who have investigated the subject, of providing the means of maintaining communication between Dawson City and the outside world. A great deal of useless expenditure has no doubt been involved by the delay."

Hon. Col. Tisdale, M.P., ex-Minister of Militia, said: "I have not had an opportunity of examining the details of the arrangements, but I shall certainly not cavil, and I think the Conservative party will not cavil, at the action of the Government if the terms are at all reasonable. It was necessary to place the work in the hands of reliable and energetic men, and the Government has certainly succeeded in doing this. Perhaps the most important point to be considered was in regard to time, and I think the Government has been fully justified in acting promptly, and in not waiting to have the matter threshed out in Parliament. Had it so waited it would have been impossible to build the road this year, and the Administration would have been subjected to such pressure from political friends in search of advantages that the difficulty of making a satisfactory arrangement would have been greatly increased. Delay was to have been avoided at all hazards."

Mayor-elect Prefontaine, M.P., said that he had not had the time to give the question the thought it deserved, but from a first reading of the proposition, as outlined in the press, he was convinced that the Government had made a wonderful stroke, and so far as he could see he entirely agreed with what had been done.

The Conservative Press.

The Gazette says: "The construction of a railway from the Stikine to the tributary waters of the Yukon will make the task of reaching the new gold region a comparatively easy one. It will also insure the country against the famine that for a time, it was feared, threatened it this season. The route chosen will make the Stikine the favorite way of entering the territory, will help Canadian trade and save travellers considerable worry as well as considerable expense."

The Presse stands alone in its opposition. It says: "The scheme gives to a very little group a colossal business in which the whole Canadian people ought to be called to participate. This railway, according to the report of Mr. Jennings, the Government engineer, will be neither costly nor difficult to build. It will cost about $3,750,000, and for this railway, which will make the fortune of the contractors, the country will give them 3,750,000 acres of the best mining land in the Yukon region—an acre for every dollar expended. It would not require many acres like those near Dawson to pay for the railway, its equipment and its operation. Why are the people not asked to share in the richness of this soil which belongs to them?" The Presse goes on to say that the Government ought to have called for popular subscriptions to build the road and enable the people to share in the wealth.

NOMINATIONS 22ND FEBRUARY.

POLLING MARCH 1.

Toronto, Jan. 29.—This is the announcement which the Ontario Gazette makes in its issue of to-day. Polling will take place four weeks from Tuesday. A proclamation dissolving the House appears in the Gazette, and the writs will issue on Wednesday Feb. 2.

As the campaign is really well under way, the announcement of the decisive date will have a quickening effect upon the energies of the opposing forces, and the struggle will wax hotter as time goes on. The interval between now and election day will be made the most of by the parties, but that a well-informed electorate will go to the polls is assured from the fact that the issues have been exhaustively dealt with, both on the platform and in the House during the recent session. The immediate effect of political organization will be the registration of manhood suffrage voters in cities and towns. According to law, the registrars must begin their sittings a week from Monday. The places of registration will shortly be announced.

There were two nominations yesterday. Hon. William Harty was again asked to be the candidate of the Liberals of Kingston. The nomination will be ratified at a meeting to be addressed by the Premier on Monday night. Mr. John Stokes of Hungerford was named as the Conservative candidate for East Hastings.

Yankee Lumbermen Ordered Out.

Huntsville, Jan. 29.—Mr. J. White of the "Soo," alien labor agent of the Crown Lands Department, paid a visit to the lumber camps in this section last week, looking for Yankee workmen, and when any were found the foreman of the camp was instructed to dismiss them. Mr. White is making a thorough search of the lumber camps in the northern part of the province in the interest of Canadian workmen. So far, Mr. White says, very few have been found.

McGill's Deficit.

Montreal, Jan. 29.—McGill University, while considered very wealthy, has a larger deficit this year than ever before, amounting to $20,000 on revenue. The total deficit now amounts to $449,000.

PROHIBITION DEBATE.

The Opposite Sides of the Great Question.

VIEWS OF DRS. LUCAS AND GRANT

Principal Grant's Opening Argument—The Royal Commission His Own Observations of the Prohibitory Law—Views Differ as to the Workings of the Law in Maine—Debate Closed.

Kingston, Jan. 29.—When the joint debate on prohibition was resumed last evening there was no abatement of the excitement shown on the opening night. The City Hall, which is a magnificent chamber, finer than anything else of the sort in Ontario, was again crowded to the doors and with an audience composed largely of those present the evening before.

Mr. Robert Meek presided in the Mayor's absence. Dr. Grant took the platform first and proceeded to say that on the first evening of the debate Fredericton, N.B., had been cited by both sides in illustration of points made. In his opening speech last night Principal Grant took up the case of Fredericton in comparison with Berlin, in Ontario, which never was under prohibition. In Fredericton arrests over a long series of years averaged 20 per thousand for drunkenness, while in Berlin the Mayor and Crown Attorney swore that in a population, including Waterloo, of 10,000, there were not over ten people who drank to excess and arrests were only in the ratio of 1 to 160 in Fredericton. The sympathy for Fredericton hotelkeepers aroused by their imprisonment for liquor selling was pointed to as evidence that public sentiment could not be depended on to enforce prohibition. There was always danger of bribery of the police and corruption in one matter led to corruption in the enforcement of all laws. Law should be felt to be the voice of God to the community and no one law could be notoriously violated without injury to all law and to the people's well-being. The danger also of forcing prohibitory legislation upon unwilling provinces was commented upon and the difficulty of paying out of the Federal Treasury for the provincial revenue lost through prohibition in provinces that did not want it. Principal Grant also urged strongly that prohibition, being an interference with liberty, unknown in the countries from which the bulk of our immigrants come, would do much to check immigration and to induce violation of the law among those who are already here.

Rev. Dr. Lucas took up the argument that prohibition might result in an increase of perjury and maintained that the law was not responsible for this but the law breaker. If Jesus Christ, he said, could have been persuaded to remain in His carpenter shop there is some perjury recorded that never would have been. The "coercion" argument was dismissed with the remark that every man who secured the advantage of civilization by living in a city had to give up favor of continuing the law. From his own experience in Kansas, the speaker drew the conclusion that prohibition did prohibit, and could be enforced without hurt to public morals. Even the Queen not long ago was fined for allowing one of her dogs to go without a muzzle and she did not complain about coercion. The result of prohibition in Maine was not as Dr. Grant asserted, failure. At some length Dr. Lucas quoted from the letters of an anti-prohibitionist correspondent for the Globe, who, after travelling through that State, admitted that the people there were more thrifty, prosperous and comfortable than those of Ontario, and were overwhelmingly in favor of the Act.

Dr. Grant said Dr. Lucas had said nothing that required answering; his ramblings were so apparent that he could safely leave the matter in the hands of the audience. He, however, spent some time in showing that late intelligence proved that prohibition was a failure in Maine, Kansas and Canada. Dr. Grant said he was in the minority in the General Assembly, for there, as elsewhere, men often acted by the feelings of their hearts rather than by the knowledge of their heads.

Dr. Lucas concluded the debate, but offered nothing new. The debate is now before the people of Canada; but little new facts were disclosed by the doughty opponents.

THE SLOW YANKEE OFFICIALS.

They Keep "Carefully Considering" While Their Officials Collect the Cash.

New York, Jan. 29.—A Washington despatch to the Sun says: "The regulations soon to be issued by the Treasury Department in regard to the shipment of Canadian goods through American territory to the Klondike gold fields are being prepared with great care by Assistant Secretary Howell, assisted by other officers of the customs division and Collector Ivy of Sitka. The new rules will prescribe two methods, either of which may be employed by shippers. The assessed duties may be paid on the goods at the point of entry into American territory, either Dyea or Skaguay. In this case a certificate will be issued to shippers and the goods will be inspected at Lake Linderman, the point of exit, by American customs agents. If the goods are found to answer the description of the invoice the customs duties will be remitted.

"The other method is to receive from the shipper a bond insuring the payment of duties if required. A manifest is sent with the goods for the use of the Government agents at the point of exit. In case of favorable comparison between manifest and goods the bond of the shipper will be cancelled. No particular form of bond will be required, the collector at Dyea being allowed some discretion. Assistant Secretary Howell has taken into account the complaints which have come from several quarters, notably the Chamber of Commerce of Vancouver, and he believes that the forthcoming regulations will be acceptable to Canadians generally. The negotiations have been made with due consideration of the wishes of the Canadian Government, and the interests of the two countries have been considered in a reciprocal spirit."

Havana, Jan. 29.—Further details regarding the killing of Nestor Aranguren, the insurgent brigadier-general known as the "Sheridan of Cuba," have been received. They show that Colonel Aranzabe, of the Spanish forces, had known for some time that Aranguren was in the habit of visiting his mistress in a hut in the Tapaste Hills, and the day before yesterday he ordered three columns of troops, reinforced by cavalry, to surprise the insurgent chief, with the result that the latter was shot and killed, with one of his companions.

Heinze Came Down Half a Million and the Deal Was Closed.

Montreal, Jan. 29.—As already intimated, the Canadian Pacific Railway and Mr. Auguste Heinze have come to terms, and your correspondent has been able to ascertain the amount the young German from Montana has been paid by the big railway to get out of British Columbia. The agreement is that the Trail smelter, the railway from Robson to Trail, the short line from Trail to Rossland, and the lands received from the British Columbia Government as subsidies are handed over to the Canadian Pacific Railway for the sum of $800,000. The narrow gauge from Rossland to Trail will at once be widened to the standard by the new owners, who will also proceed to make the grades much easier and practically rebuild the road. The line from Robson to Trail is a standard gauge, is well built, and can be operated at once in connection with the great railway system to which it now belongs. This transfer of the Trail property will in no way interfere with the project of a new smelter at Robson, suitable for treating the silver-lead ores of that district. On the contrary, the contract for the Robson smelter has been given, and it will probably be in full blast a good while before the Crow's Nest Railway reaches the foot of Kootenay Lake.

Frenchman Buying Horses.

Agents of the French Government are now in this province buying horses for use in the army of the republic. Two gentlemen are operating in the province, and it is estimated that they have purchased from 1,800 to 2,000 horses in Quebec, mostly intended, so rumor says, for the train wagons of the French army.

MOTHER GRANTED BAIL.

Mrs. Stevens, in Jail at Bracebridge in the Rankin Case, to be Liberated.

Toronto, Jan. 29.—An order for bail was yesterday granted by Mr. Justice Falconbridge on behalf of Mrs. Margaret Stevens in jail at Bracebridge, charged with counselling her son Henry Frankum, to murder James D. Rankin, her brother. Rankin died in the hospital at Huntsville December 19, and Frankum is charged at Bracebridge with having shot him and caused his death. Rankin, it is said, had attempted to obstruct, on the road, Frankum and his mother, who were driving. Mrs. Stevens, with her infant child, which has been with her in jail at Bracebridge since December, has been granted bail on bonds of $2,000, herself in $1,000, two sureties of $250, and one of $500.

The son is in jail at Bracebridge awaiting trial.

A GREAT VICTORY

After a Short, but Hot and Decisive Contest.

The Enemy Driven Out—Dodd's Kidney Pills the Victors—Mr Gillean Tested Them, and They Proved True and Steadfast Friends.

AMHERSTBURG, ONT., Jan. 28.—Jas. R Gillean, proprietor of the Lakeview Hotel, here, is one of the happiest men in town. For some years past, he has been in very poor health, and was a great sufferer from Kidney Disease.

In spite of all that medical skill and numerous remedies could do, Mr. Gillean grew gradually worse. His sufferings increased, and there seemed to be no hope of curing the disease.

One day a friend called to see him and advised him to try Dodd's Kidney Pills, telling him they had cured a number of cases, of which he knew, and which were all worse than Mr. Gillean's. The latter procured a box, and so much god did it do him that he bought three more. These cured him completely, and he is now obliged to hold quite a reception every day, so many friends call to congratulate him on his happy recovery.

Dodd's Kidney Pills are astonishing the medical fraternity daily by their marvelous success in cases of Bright's Disease, Diabetes, Rheumatism, Lumbago, Sciatica, Gravel, Urinary Troubles, Female Complaints, Blood Impurities and all other Kidney Diseases. Many physicians in this district prescribe them in their practice, always with the best results.

Kidney Diseases cannot resist the action of Dodd's Kidney Pills, which are the only cure on earth for such diseases.

Dodd's Kidney Pills are sold by all druggists at fifty cents a box, six boxes $2.50, or will be sent on receipt of price by The Dodd's Medicine Co., Limited, Toronto.

Animals' Fright Is Short.

A question that has often been asked is, How long does fright last in a wild creature? The close observer will be surprised at its brief duration. They are not subject to "nerves" like human beings. A partridge after running (or rather flying) the gantlet of half a dozen guns—if we may be allowed a mixed metaphor—drops on the other side of a hedge and begins calmly to peck as if nothing had happened. You would think a rabbit after hearing a charge of shot whistling about its haunches and just managing to escape from a yelping spaniel would keep indoors for a week, but out it pops quite merrily as soon as the coast is clear. A fox pursued by hounds has been known to halt and kill a fowl in its flight, though we may assume that his enemies were not close to Reynard at the time. We have been led into thinking about the matter by noting what took place at a cover after being shot over.—Pall Mall Gazette.

Cured Nervous Twitching and Sleeplessness.

Geo. Webster, of Forest, writes: "For a number of years I suffered greatly from nervousness, twitching of the muscles and sleeplessness. I tried almost every known remedy without relief. I was induced as a last resort to try South American Nervine. The first bottle benefitted me, and five bottles cured me. It is a grand medicine, and I owe my life to it." Sold by H. S. Macdonald.

BULLS AT WORK.

January Wheat in Chicago Sold at $1.10—A Strong Market Without New Features—Local Prices.

Friday Evening, Jan. 28.

Peas are 1d lower in Liverpool.

Cash wheat in Chicago 2c higher at $1.08.

Liverpool wheat ¼d to ½d higher for March and May.

The wheat market is inherently strong, without any strikingly new feature. It has been growing strong steadily for two weeks, and the incidents that develop from day to day have gradually forced the traders to realise it. The bulls are in control. The bears have not had a successful inning in over a month. They sell prices off a little, but fail to dislodge any large lines of long wheat, and when they have to cover they invariably pay higher prices. There is no leader to the bear element, and they are offering a feeble resistance to the upward movement. The majority of the best traders are bullish and long, and it is gradually becoming apparent that Leiter practically controls the trade in Chicago and at other points.

There was a material changing around in the exports of wheat from the leading countries during 1897. The reports compiled by the British Board of Trade show that England's imports of wheat from Russia decreased 13 per cent. From the Danube they decreased 60 per cent.; Argentina, 80 per cent.; India, 72 per cent.; Chili, 40 per cent. Compared with 1896, increases were from United States 9½ per cent. and Canada 33 per cent. Such an extraordinary distribution from exporting countries brought native grown wheat more freely to market than ever before and at prices that yielded home growers more pounds sterling for first four months than for any twelve months. Market incapacity of Southeastern Russia to supply demands precipitated reduction of duties in Italy. Reserves accumulated by fall imports from America have been seriously impaired.

Rheumatism & Dyspepsia Cured

571 St. Patrick Street,
Ottawa, July 31st, 1896.

To the Phrenoline Medicine Company, Ltd., Ottawa, Ont.

Gentlemen,—On the advice of a friend I tried one bottle of your famous rheumatic remedy, Phrenoline, and to my surprise it cured me of rheumatism, from which I have suffered for many years.

It also cured me of dyspepsia, from which I was suffering at the time, so that I feel now like a new man.

I have tried several remedies for rheumatism, some of which did me a certain amount of good, but nothing that I have taken has done so much for me as your Phrenoline, and I have much pleasure in recommending it to other sufferers.

Yours very truly,

(Signed) JAMES CARROLL,

EMBALMING PROCESSES.

The Government Should Declare Arsenical Embalming as Illegal.

Toronto, Jan. 29.—Yesterday afternoon, at the meeting of the Provincial Board of Health, Mr. J. J. Mackenzie, bacteriologist to the board, submitted a report on the medico-legal aspects of embalming fluid.

Assuming that an individual had been poisoned with arsenic, it would be in the interest of the murderer, the doctor stated, that the corpse should be arterially embalmed with arsenical fluid. The subsequent discovery of arsenic in the viscera by a chemical expert would be of no legal value. The proof that the deceased had been poisoned would then rest on evidence of the symptoms exhibited during illness and the post-mortem appearance of the mucuous membrane of the stomach and intestines.

The majority of the undertakers did not know the composition of the embalming fluids, as they purchased them from jobbers who kept the formulae secret.

The arsenical fluids being cheap and reliable were most used. Embalming had become so common in Ontario that no suspicion attached to its practice. In cities and towns 60 per cent. of corpses were so treated and in the country 40 per cent.

Such being the fact, Mr. Mackenzie thought that a fluid quite as effective for the embalmer's purpose and devoid of objectionable qualities from the legal standpoint should be introduced. Such a fluid was a 40 per cent. solution of formaldehyde, commonly used by sanitary authorities for disinfecting purposes. The body of a sheep treated with this fluid had been kept two years. The Government should declare embalming with arsenical fluids illegal.

FRIGHTFUL CONSTIPATION AND DYSPEPSIA ARE BANISHED.

Physical and Mental Suffering are Swept Away by Nature's Medicine.

Mr. Buckingham is Now Strong—Healthy and Able to Work.

Wells & Richardson Co.,

Dear Sirs,—I had dyspepsia and indigestion so bad that I lost all desire for food. The very sight of it would sicken me, and was in misery. Frightful constipation, which required daily attention, added to my burden, so that really I felt at times as if life was scarcely worth the living. I was never without a cough, and always had a heavily coated tongue and bad taste in my mouth. My ailments and failure to get relief discouraged me, and physically run down and mentally worried I felt little like looking for work and less like doing it. Now I am strong and well, able for any work, and willing to do it you may be sure. The great change was wrought by Paine's Celery Compound, used according to directions.

Yours faithfully,

TROUBLE FOR CHINA.

Four German Sailors Reported Killed Near Tsimo.

SEVERE FIGHTING FOLLOWED.

The Chinese Loan Offered to Both Russia and Britain—The Engineers' Strike Settled by the Acceptance of the Employers' Terms, and the Strikers Will Return to Work on Monday.

London, Jan. 29.—It is announced in a special despatch from Shanghai, received here yesterday, that four German sailors have been murdered by the Chinese.

Severe Fighting Followed.

Shanghai, Jan. 28.—A despatch from Chefoo to the Mercury of Shanghai, gives details of the assassination of a German sailor named Schulz, belonging to the cruiser Kaiser, (first announced in a despatch to the Associated Press, from Berlin, on Jan. 26th), while on outpost duty at Tsimo, the extreme German post in Kiao-Chou Bay.

The crime, which was committed by a Chinese rabble on Monday night last, was not discovered until three men of the corporal's guard were making the rounds in order to relieve the sentries. Then Schulz was discovered, his head having been severed from his body. The relieving guard was directly afterwards attacked by a hundred natives, and, after a stubborn fight, it is reported that all the sailors were killed during the fighting.

It is added that, in consequence of the outrage, the greatest excitement prevails at Kiao-Chou, and it is believed the incident will form the basis of further German demands upon China.

No Official Confirmation.

Berlin, Jan. 29.—The German Government has no news confirming the details of the assassination of the German sailor, Shulz, as announced by the Mercury of Shanghai.

A SUDDEN CHANGE.

France Now Appears to Be Reluctantly Backing Up Russia - The Ta-Lien-Wan Opening.

London, Jan. 29.—The Pekin correspondent of the Times says: "The French attitude has undergone a sudden change, and now appears to give a reluctant support to the menacing language of the Russian agent, M. Pavloff (Charge d'Affaires at Pekin), against the opening of Ta-Lien-Wan. The Chinese, having made inquiries, disbelieve M. Pavloff's statement that Russia can provide a loan on the same financial terms as Great Britain.

"At the meeting of the Grand Council last night (Thursday), the Chinese decided to approach the English and Russian Governments with a proposal of compromise, each power to provide one-half of the loan on its own financial terms and the other conditions to be adjusted between them."

Another British Vessel for Chinese Waters.

London, Jan. 29.—The first-class battleship Barfleur, sister ship of the Centurion, the flagship of the British squadron in Chinese waters, will leave Malta for China on February 6th.

British Commander's Strong Stand.

London, Jan. 29.—According to a special despatch from Shanghai, Sung, the Chinese commander at Port Arthur, recently informed Captain Chichester of the British warship Immortalite that the Russian warships had the Tsung-Li-Yamen's special permission to remain there. Captain Chichester thereupon insisted that Sung should obtain by telegraph similar permission for the Immortalite. Sung complied with the demand and permission was granted.

TO WORK ON MONDAY.

Striking Engineers Accept the Employers' Terms and the Shipbuilding Trade Will Now Go On.

London, Jan. 29.—At a meeting of the committees representing the federated employers and the allied trades unions to day the result of the ballot accepting the employers' terms was communicated, a formal agreement embodying the terms of settlement was duly signed and arrangements were completed for a simultaneous resumption of work in all the federated workshops on Monday next.

The Kaiser's "Mailed Fist."

London, Jan. 29.—An anonymous article in the Contemporary Review asserts that the visit of Prince Henry of Prussia to Osborne, while outward bound with the Gefion and the Deutschland, was for the purpose of explaining that the Emperor William's "mailed fist" speech was not intended as a warning for Great Britain.

The tact of the Prince of Wales, says the article, baffled Prince Henry's frantic effort, during his mysterious visit to London, to deliver a similar personal message to His Royal Highness, although Prince Henry pursued the Prince of Wales to a private box at the theatre.

After a Severe Cold.

"Hood's Sarsaparilla has cured me of scrofula. I was weak and debilitated and Hood's Sarsaparilla built me up and made me strong and well. After a severe cold I had catarrhal fever. I again resorted to Hood's Sarsaparilla which accomplished a complete cure." Sarah E. Devay, Annapolis, Nova Scotia.

Hood's Pills are the favorite family cathartic, easy to take, easy to operate.

Mrs. T. S. Hawkins, Chattanooga, Tenn., says: "Shiloh's Vitalizer saved my life. I consider it the best remedy for a debilitated system I ever used." For Dyspepsia, Liver and Kidney trouble it excels. Price 75 cts.

CRANKY DYSPEPSIA

With Other Types. Being Eradicated by Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets.

If all the Dyspeptics and victims of Indigestion, Biliousness, etc., were assembled in one place what a curious assemblage they would make! Melancholy, cranky, sulky, sallow, pinched, lean, miserable, wretched, all types would be represented. There wouldn't be a pleasant word spoken by one of them in a year. But what a change would take place if each sufferer were supplied with a few boxes of Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets. Joy would replace misery, health would take the place of pain.

Are you a Dyspeptic? Have you Indigestion? If so, no one knows as well as yourself what you suffer.

But, why do you suffer? You don't need to. If you stand beside a railway track when a train is approaching, you don't need to step in front of the engine. No more need you suffer from Dyspepsia, Indigestion, etc. Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets will cure these and all other stomach troubles in a couple of weeks.

If you don't believe it, try them. Thousands have been cured by Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets, and you'll be cured too, if you try them.

Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets, each containing the double treatment, can be procured from all druggists, at fifty cents a box, or will be sent on receipt of price, by the Dodd's Medicine Co., Limited, Toronto.

Exchange of Decorations.

Berlin, Jan. 29.—Following the recent decoration of Count von Munster, German Ambassador to France, with the Grand Cross of the Legion of Honor by the French Government, it is semi-officially announced to-day that the French Ambassador to Germany, Marquis de Noailles, is to receive the Grand Cross of the Order of the Red Eagle from the Emperor.

Gold Discovered in Siberia.

Doing Away With the Pigtail.

COMMITTED FOR TRIAL

On a Charge of Horse Stealing—The Prisoner Claims he Was Very Drunk.

W. H. Stewart was yesterday committed for trial by Magistrate Edmison on a charge of horse stealing.

The circumstances connected with the case have been previously published in the EXAMINER and are in short that Stewart took a horse belonging to Eugene Torpey from the Albion Hotel, Ashburnham, and drove to Millbrook, where he traded it and afterwards sold the horse which he received in trade.

The prisoner's excuse was that he was drunk and did not know what he was doing.

It appears that when in Millbrook he received a very poor horse in trade for the one he stole and only got $2 to boot. Afterwards when endeavouring to sell the outfit he offered to give the horse away rather than take it home, saying he knew he got the worst of the trade and would not take the horse home to be made a laughing stock of.

Mr. R. E. Wood appeared for the prosecution and Mr. F. D. Kerr for the defence.

Mr. Wm. Collins was also in attendance at the show and secured the names of upwards of twenty five fowl fanciers to a requisition for the Ontario Poultry Association to hold its exhibition in Peterborough in 1900.

SONS OF SCOTLAND BOOM.

Special Meeting to Initiate More New Members—Increased Interest in the Order—List of Officers for the New Camp.

Another special meeting of Clan Alpine Camp, Sons of Scotland, was held Friday evening in the Sons of England Hall, Hunter street. The marked interest taken by the local Sons of Scotia during the past few weeks in this excellent organization has had the effect of stirring up the latent patriotic chord in the genuine Scots, whose love for the perpetuation of Scottish national sentimtnt, and the desire for bringing Scotchmen and their descendants more closely together, only needs a little agitating.

The visit of Mr. Jas. Anderson, the special Grand Organizer of Toronto, has been of great value to the local Camp. His industry and skill in rallying Scotchmen to the support of their own society shows that he is the right man for the right place, and that the Grand Camp has an organizer full of influence and good methods.

The meeting on Friday night was well attended by the members, both old and new. After routine business had been transacted a number of new members were initiated. Another special meeting will have to be called in about two weeks to initiate a number of others who were unable to be present on account of the number of other meeting that night.

Organizer Anderson stated that he was pleased to see the continued increase of members. He had made it his business to stay over in town to attend this meeting, and the further encouragement he had received had induced him to arrange for being present with them again at their next regular meeting. An increase of about forty new members in about two weeks was not bad work, and it was nothing more than what he had been led to anticipate after a few days' canvas in town. He expected the camp would have over one hundred members at no very distant day. To Scotchmen and their descendants this was the best society, as there was not only the social and patriotic element, but they had the protection of the best possible life assurance at lowest rates. (Cheers.)

'Tis Easy and Pleasant Work.

To Achieve Success Use the Diamond Dyes.

Some ladies think it is a difficult matter to do their own dyeing. It certainly is hard work when crude, worthless and imitation dyes are used; but when the simple, pure and long-tested Diamond Dyes are used it takes butlittle more trouble to get a fast and beautiful color than it does to wash and rinse the goods. When imitation package dyes are used, in nine cases out of ten you ruin your materials. Coloring with Diamond Dyes means success, joy and great profit.

PROVINCIAL ELECTIONS MARCH FIRST.

As was expected and understood by both parties at the close of the session, the General Provincial Elections will be over very soon. The Ontario Gazette to-day contains the announcement of the dissolution of Parliament, and that writs for a general election will issue on Feb. 2nd. The nominations will take place on Tuesday, Feb. 22nd, and polling on Tuesday, March 1st. This is about what was expected. Nobody is taken by surprise. The campaign has practically been under active way since the prorogation of the Legislature, and the announcement of the definite date will merely give a greater impulse to the activities of the contest. The assurance of Premier Hardy some time ago that there would be a session of the Legislature before the general elections was equivalent to a statement that they would occur soon after prorogation, so that practically the calling of the last session was a signal for getting ready for the general elections, and the Opposition were the first to avail themselves of the opportunity of putting their claims through their leaders, before the electorate. Through the press—and in this reading age that means much—the public questions at issue have been pretty thoroughly discussed, in many constituencies, as in West Peterborough, the discussion on the platform has been not inconsiderable, and, with energy thrown into the month between now and polling day, the people, who are already, to a large extent, prepared, will, by that date, be completely prepared to intelligently make the important decision as to how to cast their ballots.

Now all the post office steps are and have been very dangerous for years, particularly in winter. There should be at least three railings at each flight of steps so that in case of a person slipping there would be a better chance of saving oneself and perhaps preventing

DEADLY KIDNEY DISEASE.

The Only Way to Avoid the Great Destroyer.

Once clear to the individual that kidney disease is a result of uric acid and oxlate of lime, which have their place in the human system, hardening and forming into stone-like substances, and the folly of treating such a disease with any medicine other than a liquid and one that will dissolve these solids, there will be little trifling with pills, powders and remedies of this character, which can not effect a permanent cure. The success of South American Kidney Cure is due to the fact that as a liquid it immediately reaches the diseased part, and dissolves these alkalies and hard substances. It never fails. Sold by H. S. HEAD OF THE SALVATION ARMY

General Booth's Visit To Peterborough--His Address.

OPERA HOUSE CROWDED TO THE DOORS

The Distinguished Visitor Speaks on the Work Which the Army is Undertaking Spiritually and Socially and Gives a Detailed Statement of the Work as Carried on in Different Countries—Statistics Which Are Amazing are Given Concerning the Great Rescue Work.

For the last few months, since when it was ascertained that General Booth intended visiting the local corps of the Salvation Army, expectancy has reigned in the ranks and amongst those who recognise the great work which the Army has undertaken,

That the sympathies of every class amongst the citizens have been enlisted in in the cause was evidenced at the C. P. R. station yesterday afternoon, where an immense concourse had assembled to welcome the General to Peterborough and join in the cheer which signalled his appearance at the door of the coach, where he was met by Ensign Kerr and Mr. J. R. Stratton, M. P. P., and escorted to a sleigh with his daughter, Miss Eva Booth, Commissioner of the forces in Canada. On the platform were also all the members of the local corps, accompanied by the Army band, which played several appropriate selections.

A NUMBER OF OFFICERS and privates from the surrounding villages were also in attendance at the station, including Capt. Downing and Capt. Jones, of Millbrook; Capt. Wiseman, of Omemee; Capt. Coate, of Campbellford; Ensign Jones and a party of Indians from Georgiana Island, also a party from Cannington.

The General, accompanied by Mr. Stratton, was driven direct to the residence of the latter, whilst his staff was billetted amongst the friends of the Army in town.

The attendance at the Opera House in the evening was indeed a tribute to the head of the Army. The big hall was crowded to such an extent as to place standing room at a premium, all available space being filled in with chairs.

Amongst those occupying seats on the stage were Rev. Dr. Torrance, Rev. Mr. Clarke, Mayor Davis and R. Mulholland.

The appearance of General Booth on the platform was the signal for a general outburst of applause, and those of the Army present "fired a volley" with a vim which evidenced their enthusiasm.

Mr. Stratton occupied the chair, and the evening's proceedings were opened with the singing of a hymn, followed by prayer offered by Commissioner Nicoll, who accompanies the General on his tour of inspection of the Army depots in America.

Col. Hawley of London, then sang as a solo "All Nations for Jesus shall be Won," the audience joining in the chorus.

Mr. J. R. Stratton, M. P. P., presided and in a few introductory words, remarked upon the very great pleasure it gave him to be present and enjoy the honour of presiding over such a great gathering. He referred to General Booth as the head and front of the greatest religious and social movement of the century, who in point of executive abilities and qualities as a commander deserved to rank with the greatest generals of the day and he paid a warm tribute to the General whose methods seemed to be modelled on the methods of the Great Master, who mingled with the lowly, the publican and sinner, and General Booth's work was begun among the poor, the lowly and depraved, the despised and outcast of society and the results of his work and that of the Army under him would not be fully known until the last great day of account. Mr. Stratton referred to the good work the Army had done in Peterborough, where for its works' sake it received the warm sympathy of the public. The various officers, as well as the rank and file, had conducted themselves in a manner to do credit to their profession, and had shown great zeal and self sacrifice in their work. To his knowledge they had done much good that had come under his notice, many to his knowledge had been reclaimed from vicious courses and made useful members of society, and good-living Christian men. The Army had done a great work in Peterborough and deserved and received the good will and sympathy of all good citizens. The speaker concluded by expressing the hope that the visit of General Booth would result in good, not only in direct good influence, but in encouraging the local corps and inciting them to even greater activity in continuing the good work which had already been done.

When General Booth stepped to the front of the platform he was received with a STORM OF APPLAUSE.

In opening, he thanked the chairman for his kind words, and the audience for their endorsation of them. What should he say in return? The Scriptures say to bless them that curse you, but what is one to do when blessing are bestowed instead of curses? He could pray that the blessings be returned on their own heads.

Although he would greatly prefer grappling with sin and working for results to the Army, still as he was expected to speak of the work which was being undertaken he would try and confine himself to that.

He recognized that the applause with which he was greeted was intended, not for him personally, but for him as the representative of the Salvation Army. The greeting was deserved. The Army deserved well at the hands of all people—it deserved well at the hands of the civilized populations of the world. Examine the Army. It has nothing to conceal. Judge it by its works. The Army wants all to see what it is doing and why it is doing it. Do not judge it by public opinion, by what other people said about it, for there were sure to be those who were prejudiced against it—those who lived and fattened upon the vices of their fellows. It was not to be expected that the dealers in drink and immorality should look with favour upon a flag that against them, and was prepared to rescue their devotees at all risks. Yet it was remarkable how far the Army had the favour of these classes. Many people despised the Army through sheer ignorance. The way to judge of it was by its works; how far it made men good and holy and true in the present time.

GENERAL BOOTH.

It might seem strange, but it was a fact that they had in many cases the sympathy of the classes who were in a large measure responsible for the depravity of their fellowmen, such as saloon keepers. For instance, in New York there are forty saloons where Salvationists go and sell the War Cry and sing to frequenters. People should not judge the Army by what such people say, however, nor yet by what the victims of vice say. There are others who misrepresent the Army through sheer ignorance. That was why Jesus was crucified.

People should come and see for themselves and give judgment on the merits of the case. They should not even judge by what the members of the Army thought of themselves, although no one knew them better.

The Army believes in itself. It knew of those they had brought out of the horrible pit and put the words of salvation in their months. Still don't judge them by what they say of themselves although they are orthordox. They believe in God, Christ and Calvary, and the power of the Almighty to cleanse people's lives here below, and to save. They believe in the judgment and the great white throne. Don't judge them by their creed, because people can be sound in their creed and devils at heart.

Don't judge the Army by its methods, although they are excellent. If they are wrong

SHOW US BETTER.

That is what we want. Of all that have left the ranks not one can say that they have found a better method of grappling with sin and rescuing the poor and needy.

They do not ask to be judged by their membership, by their means, their methods or their oratory, but by their works. It is the relief of the wretched, helping prisoners, cheering the dying and making men Christlike that is their aim.

A syndicate does not want to know at the end of a year the amount of goods that has been turned over. It is primarily interested in the profits. In case of war it is not asked how many miles the soldiers covered, but how much territory had been acquired and were they nearer the victory this would end the bloody war. That is what the Army wants to know. The results of our great war. The devil has a hold of the world. He lures them away that he may damn them eternally to spite the Almighty. He has the world on his side and we have come to fight him. So when I visit my corps I ask: What have you done? How many soldiers have you? How many have you rescued from the devil?

That is the way to judge us.

In Heaven it won't be asked how will you know your belief, but what have you done on earth for the Almighty. We are going to be judged on the last great day by John's "What are your works."

Now, what are your works? We are not perfect! No, not by a great deal, but we are improving.

The speaker then proceeded to explain the work of the Army, taking up the spiritual side first—although he objected to the work being divided into the departments, as if a man was to be saved he would have to be saved all round—spiritually and bodily. He must have religion in his business as well as in his prayers.

The heart must be reached. There is the beginning of religion. Otherwise it is all wind and ginger beer. Sometimes we go straight for the heart in our work, and sometimes we go round about to reach it. A man's heart is often easily accessible if his stomach is full. We have gone to all classes. We have gone lower than we intended—right to the bottom strata, and we have proven the power of God to rescue souls from the uttermost depths.

After a few humorous remarks about the right of people to speak about their own deeds, the General went on to speak of what the Army has accomplished. The work was known as spiritual and social. Take the former and see what God has wrought during the 33 years that it had been in existence. The movement commenced in the East End of London, then crossed into Scotland, crossed the channel into Ireland, then went to France and Switzerland, and from Switzerland passed to Belgium. It had gone to Holland and spread itself over that country; had gone to Germany, where it had many difficulties with the police, whose confidence it had now more or less secured, and where in Berlin alone, there were now something like 16 corps. It passed into Scandinavia, Denmark and Finland, right up to the walls of St. Petersburg. It had gone further north still, right away beyond Iceland, and

EVEN TO THE KLONDYKE.

At the very gates of hell the Salvationists fight for the blood bought souls of men.

Continuing, the speakers said the Army had gone into Asia, with its intensely interesting millions of Hindoos; into Japan and Java, and away to Australia and New Zealand. It had gone through the United States, through the West Indies, and elsewhere; into South Africa, right away up among the gold mines of the Transvaal and the kraals of the Kaffirs and the Zulus. The Salvation Army was fighting with the power of darkness in all these places, as well as in almost every one of the large civilised cities, among the gambling dens and saloons, nigh to the very gates of hell.

The General then went into some details regarding the standing of the Army now showing the advances made since the General was last in Canada three years ago. At that time the Army was working in 40 different countries; now it was at work in 45. Three years ago it had 3366 societies in these countries; now it had 5873, or an increase of 2807. Three years ago there were a little over 11,000; to-day there were over 13,000. Three years ago there were 35,000 local unpaid officers; now there were 44,000. There were held weekly 40,500 indoor meetings, and 31,000 outdoor, with an average attendance of 5,500,000. There were 60 training homes, with 140 schools, and the Army had 51 newspapers and magazines, published in 18 different languages, and having a weekly circulation of

NEARLY ONE MILLION COPIES.

The speaker then went on to refer to the three worlds of wickedness in which the Army is seeking to rescue. They are the pauper world, where starvation is rampant, the vicious world, abounding in drunkards and gamblers, and the criminal world. Speaking in reference to the latter class, he claimed that a man who was down ought to have a chance to get up. Even horses and dogs are given that chance. If men and women fall, and some of the highways of life are very slippery, they should have the same chance. They ought to get a helping hand, and that was what the Salvation Army was trying to accomplish. When this branch of the Army's work was started everything had to be learned. Men and women had to be got who could teach industries to others; and then there was the more difficult task of finding men and women who knew how to take hold of men and women as brothers and sisters, neither patronising them, on the one hand, nor coddling and coaxing them on the other. During the seven years that had elapsed since this branch of the work was founded, the Army had set to work in different parts of the world and had established 415 separate institutions, which were conducted and managed by 1,400 officers, fully half of whom had been rescued by the Salvation Army.

In many cases the Army homes were the recipients of people who had fallen from high social positions. There are scores of people who fall from high social positions who would do anything rather than let their friends know of their sad plight.

The speaker then went into details about their INDUSTRIAL INSTITUTIONS.

There were now 96 food depots and shelters, the shelters in Montreal alone having taken in at least 23,000 persons. There were 69 homes for fallen women and through these 30,000 fallen women had passed. Careful inquiry showed that of these women about 75 per cent. became good citizens, at a cost of something like $15 each, or not much more than a lady paid for a bonnet. In London, there were three rescue homes maintained by the girls who had been saved in this way. There were also homes for ex-criminals and industrial homes. The Army likewise had 42 inquiry bureaus, 29 labour bureaus, 11 farm colonies, 95 slum posts and 11 other agencies.

A case was instanced by the General, that of a Norwich woman hauled up before the beak forty-nine times, an incorrigible case from the police point of view, who upon the last occasion of her arrest, tore every stitch of clothing from her body in the cells. The magistrate accepted the bond of the Salvation Army to care for her, and to-day, after four years' trial, she is an example to the borough of their work, and careful enquiry shows that it was owing to her betrayal when in her teens, and the consequent loss of all self-respect and natural ambition that she had sunk, even lower in her own estimation, than in that of the world around her.

Why does the Army succeed? continued the speaker. Because she insists on every soldier having a consciousness of sin forgiven.

It is a grand thing to

and the time and place when your salvation was secured. When you are tempted it is a great thing to be able to go back to the time and place of your redemption from sin. We want more faith amongst us and more love in this world.

The "General" claimed their work had acted as a stimulus to other creeds and said no such success could have attended it unless the Holy Ghost had fostered the work. The Salvation Army officer who studied appearances was not long an officer or even a member of their Army. The workers must be unto men "as fools for Christ sake," not really fools, said General Booth, for I am not generally taken for a fool in business matters. There was an enormous work to be done. The children were crying out, the drunkards and the harlots, neighbours and friends, were drifting lower and lower all around us. Money will not save them. We want men and women with "Go," and influence filled with the spirit of self-sacrifice to give their whole time to the work.

What is to be the outcome of this meeting? concluded the General. Is there to be none? Is my time to be wasted?

SURELY NOT!

I have not many more days on earth. Every moment is precious. I would like to hear you from the resolution in your hearts that you will try and live better lives.

A collection was then taken up in aid of the social movement in Canada.

Major Davis made a brief address whilst the collection was being taken up. He was sure all were very much interested in the words which had fallen from the General during the night. A feeling of profound gratitude must exist when it was remembered what a work had been accomplished during the 33 years of the Army's existance. It was an honour to listen to the man who had inaugurated this movement. He felt he was echoing the wish of all when he expressed the hope that he might live long to carry on the work which he had inaugurated. He moved a vote of thanks to the General for his interesting address and for his kindness in visiting Peterborough again. Rev. Dr. Torrance seconded the motion expressing the pleasure which he had experienced in listening to General Booth for this, the third time.

The motion was carried enthusiastically and tendered by Mr. Stratton. The General briefly responded and before again seating himself moved a vote of thanks to Mr. Stratton for his kindness in presiding at the meeting and in entertaining him at his home.

Mr. Stratton in replying stated that he was only too pleased to have the honour of entertaining the General as his guest. He was always glad to do what he could for the Army and would be pleased to have the opportunity of doing anything further which lay in his power to assist them at any time.

The assemblage then dispersed after singing the doxology.

During his stay in town

COMMISSIONER NICOLL,

who represents the views of the General, said in answer to a question, that as far as the personal matter between the latter and his son, Ballington Booth, was concerned, it had been mutually agreed in New York that there should be absolute silence. The personal element, the Commissioner said, was, in reality, a small affair, which affected no principle.

"Our business is, not to deal with personalities, but to save the souls of men. The Army has one object—to redeem the masses. It comes with love to all; not with controversy. This matter has been made too much of. Nothing more is to be said about it, as far as the General is concerned.

Asked as to the statement made by Mrs. Ballington Booth to the effect that upon this continent, where the common school had given intelligence to the whole population, the appeal would have to be to the reasoning faculties and not to the emotions, Commissioner Nicoll said that if we go back to history we will find that emotion played a vital part in nearly all revolutions which had changed the complexion of the world. The Reformation appealed, not so much to the educated few, but the educated many in Europe.

"But, pray, understand that we do not despise education. We have in our ranks some of the best educated men in the world. We have in Switzerald, in France, in Norway, in England, men of the highest ability.

WE HAVE MEN and women who can speak several languages, who could in any other position in life, win credit and wealth, but who consecrated their services to the Army. Our mission is to the people. I believe that a few years' service in the Army will make a man more capable for the work which the Army has to do than a college education that moved the world in reformation times."

"Do you think then that the Army, adapting itself to the peoples of all countries, has in it the elements of permanence—in other words, will the appeal to the emotional in men make for lasting results in the individual life?"

"Why should we doubt it, when we see what has already been accomplished by such an appeal? It will no do to despise emotion. A man is stirred by emotion. When that subsides he is apt to get down to bed rock, and ask himself how he really stands in the sight of God. But he needs first of all to be stirred, either through the argument of fear or love or terror. The Army makes for permanence, not only because of the message it brings, but because of its organization, its property, its system of order and discipline, its hold upon the people, and its

and social work, which in the aggregate number nearly five hundred, and which are nearly self-supporting. The Army takes poor, timid creatures who could not at the outset say three words in public, and in the course of a few years these same persons will come before the public and speak with eloquence and ability. It is a school in which our people are trained for service. Our work is with the masses, but it is addressed to the intelligence as well as to the emotional nature. We need not fear lack of intelligence, but we might fear if we gave all our attention to culture, the loss of that individual enthusiasm which has made the Army the success which it is to-day. We invite culture; culture has in the cases of the countries I have mentioned thrown in its lot with us; but the note of distinction we strike is the note of enthusiasm. We believe we have a message for the redemption of the masses; we speak in the language of the people wherever we go; we adapt ourselves to national ideas and customs; but we remain, of course, the Army, teaching the principles upon which it was founded."

General Booth and his staff left at noon for Toronto.

IT ALL WILL COME OUT RIGHT.

Whatever is a cruel wrong,
Whatever is unjust,
The honest years that speed along
Will trample in the dust.
In restless youth I railed at fate
With all my puny might
But now I know if I but wait
It all will come out right.

Though vice may don the judge's crown
And play the censor's part,
And fact be sowed by falsehood's frown,
And nature ruled by art,
Though labor toils through blinding tears,
And idle wealth is might,
I know the honest, earnest years
Will bring it all out right.

Though poor and loveless creeds may pass
For pure religion's gold,
Though ignorance may rule the mass,
While truth meets glances cold,
I know a law supreme, sublime,
Controls us with its might,
And in God's own appointed time
It all will come out right.

THE DEACON'S PIETY.

IT WAS EQUAL TO ALL OCCASIONS AND LASTED OVER EIGHTY YEARS.

Suspended Religious Services Indefinitely to Nurse the Victims of a Smallpox Epidemic—An Example In This as He Was In Devotion to the Flag.

Deacon William Trowbridge was a small farmer living near Sheboygan Falls. He went there over 50 years ago. Besides tilling a little patch of ground the deacon, who was indeed the very soul of honor and ever had the respect and confidence of all in that community, was in the habit, before regular preachers were sent there, of reading a sermon or exhorting. There was no sham about Deacon Trowbridge's piety. He was sincerity itself.

Fifty years ago the little village was visited by a smallpox epidemic—an old fashioned, widespread and spreading epidemic—and they didn't know how to scotch it as well as they do now.

The first Sunday after the dreaded disease made its appearance the deacon's congregation was quite large. At the end of the services he made an announcement in about these words:

"These services will be postponed until after the smallpox disappears from the community. From this on I shall give my services to the stricken families. I shall minister to their wants, help to nurse them, and when they die follow them to the grave. It may be a long term or it may be a short term, but, however long or however short, it is my plain duty to help my distressed neighbors."

The word was well suited to the action which followed. The good old deacon hurried to his home, changed his clothes, bade his family goodby and at once began his work of mercy. What a work it was! The epidemic lasted nearly all winter. Large numbers died. Few in the village escaped the disease. The deacon's example was followed by others. Men went to their homes, told their wives and children what the deacon had said and was doing, arranged their business, provided fuel and provisions, kissed their dear ones and went to the aid of the unfortunate. Like the deacon they went without reward or hope of reward. Like him they spent weeks and some of them months in that service without daring to go home lest their dear ones catch the disease.

The strangest of all this strange experience is the fact that neither the deacon, the good souls who imitated his example nor their families were overtaken by the malady, notwithstanding the fact that the watchers, helpers and nurses were almost constantly in the presence of the suffering patients and notwithstanding the fact that they laid out and helped to bury the dead.

Nearly half of the deacon's congregation had disappeared when, the next spring, he resumed services in the schoolhouse. It was a sorrowful Sunday. Those in the audience who had not lost members of their family had lost neighbors and dear friends. When the good old Christian had read a chapter, prayed and talked a practical sermon, he referred feelingly to the scenes through which the community had passed. I think every man, woman and child in the room, including the deacon, wept. At the close of the talk he asked all present to join him on their knees in asking that the community might escape such visitations for all time to come. It was a most earnest appeal. I believe that that prayer has been answered. There may have been a few cases of smallpox there since then, but there has never been an epidemic.

The Sunday after Sumter was fired upon, and while Deacon Trowbridge was conducting services in the Baptist church, the denomination to which he belonged for over 80 years, he and his congregation were disturbed by a great commotion in the street right in front of the church. There were beating of drums and sounds of fife much out of tune. It was so uncommon a thing that most of the congregation walked or ran out of the church. Finally the deacon closed the Bible and slowly followed his fleeing flock. When outside, he asked the cause of "this unseemly disturbance on the Lord's day." Some one told him that the president had called for soldiers to uphold the honor and the flag of the nation and that they were going to raise a company right then and there.

The old deacon's eyes flashed as he walked out into the street, where a young fellow was irregularly pounding a bass drum, and said: "Nathan, I know it is Sunday and that all but the Lord's work should be abandoned, but the saving of our country and the shielding of its flag from dishonor is the Lord's work. Give me that drum." And that model of piety strapped on the big drum and went to pounding, greatly outdoing Nathan in two respects—he made more noise and kept perfect time. He drummed as no one before had never drummed in the little village. As if it had gone on lightning wings, word flew through the community that Deacon Trowbridge had left his pulpit to beat a drum, and on Sunday too.

Within half an hour nearly every one in town and many from the outskirts had gathered around the old drummer, all cheering him, and on Sunday too. That night Nathan Cole, who had been relieved as drummer by the deacon, went to Sheboygan with enough men to make up what became Company C of the Fourth Wisconsin.—J. A. RUNNING SORES.

There is nothing that will so waste and wear away the health as a running sore. Burdock Blood Bitters heals and dries up sores and ulcers, no matter how large or of how long standing, by cleansing the blood of all impurities and sending rich pure life-giving blood to the diseased part, thereby supplanting the decaying tissue with healthy healing flesh.

Mr. Stephen Wescott, Freeport, N.S., found (Burdock Blood Bitters) a wonderful blood purifier and gives his experience as follows: "I was very much run down in health and employed our local physician who attended me three months, finally my leg broke out in running sores with fearful burning. I had thirteen running sores at one time, from my knee to the top of my foot. All the medicine I took did me no good, so I threw it aside and tried B.B.B.; when one-half the bottle was gone, I noticed a change for the better, and by the time I had finished two bottles my leg was perfectly healed and my health greatly improved."

SLOAN'S INDIAN TONIC

TRADE MARK.

Robson Brown, of Valetta, July 28th, 1891, says:—

"I am sorry under the circumstances to write to you, but I feel it my duty, as I have been troubled with Dyspepsia for years, took dollars' worth of medicine and pills, but got no relief until I commenced taking your Sloan's Indian Tonic. I think I have taken 8 or 10 bottles in all, and I feel as if I have got a new lease of life, I feel so much better. I was in the habit of keeping a bottle in the house so when costive I would take a dose or two with instant relief. Now I am troubled with costive spells very often, and it was the only medicine that gave me instant relief. It seems as if I have lost my best friend. Now I would like to hear from you by return mail, as I would like to have a bottle as soon as possible.

Mrs. H. Palmer, of Ridgetown, Ont., says: I was afflicted for a number of years with Erysipelas and Neuralgia in my face, and one bottle of Sloan's Indian Tonic cured me entirely, and I would recommend it to others, either for erysipelas or neuralgia.

Mrs. Henry Hale, of Blenheim, Ont., says: Sloan's Indian Tonic cured me of Malarial Fever and Chills and Neuralgia. When I was down sick in bed I purchased a bottle of the Tonic and it cured me entirely, and I have not been troubled with Fever or Neuralgia since.

THE NEMO'S GHOST.

BY CHARLES B. LEWIS.

Would you believe that so late as the year 1883 a fine clipper ship had to be sold for a song and converted into a coal barge because of a ghost aboard which gave her a bad name? Such was the case.

The Nemo was a Clyde built ship and was launched in 1870. She was built for and owned by Perry Joslyn of Liverpool, who was the owner of six other ships, all voyaging to India or Australia. As a rule, two or three men are killed and as many more badly injured in the building and rigging of a ship, but in the case of the Nemo no man met with the scratch of a finger. The launch was the fairest of a score of ships from the same yard, and when fully rigged and ready for her maiden voyage the new creation was said to be the handsomest vessel hailing from the great port. A valuable cargo was ready for her, and the owner had the luck to secure a skipper in the person of Captain Halpin, who had commanded half a dozen different ships and never met with a serious accident.

We got to sea one day in a way to please all hands, and inside of 24 hours we found the craft to be a witch for sailing. When she got settled down to her pace, she showed the speed of a steamer and carried favorable winds for the first seven days out. Then, one night at 10 o'clock, the breeze died away until the Nemo lost steerageway, and it was at 11 o'clock that the ghost was first heard of. A man named Charles Jones was on watch on the bows at that hour. He was a sober, dignified man and the best seaman of the crew. As third mate of the ship I had the watch at that time, while the captain and the other mates were asleep and seven or eight men were lounging about on the fore and main decks. Of a sudden Jones screamed out and came running aft in a state of great excitement. He was in such a state of alarm that it was five minutes before he could relate his story. He was pacing to and fro, he said, keeping a bright lookout and not thinking of anything in particular when he suddenly found something walking beside him. He heard no step or sound, but a "something" stood shoulder to shoulder with him. It wasn't exactly a man, nor yet was it a shadow. The sailor felt its breath on his cheek and turned to seize it, but the "something" laughed at him and glided away. I was greatly provoked with the man and charged him with having slept on his post, though I knew that I did him injustice in this. It was a cloudy night, with the moon breaking through now and then, and I contended that his "something" was but a shadow and ordered him back to his post. Nothing further happened that night, and the next morning the captain called the old man aft and gave him to understand that if he saw or felt any more ghostly visitors it would be bad for him. The crew would talk the matter over and side with Jones, but that anything further would be seen of the "something" no man believed.

Four nights later and two hours after midnight, while the ship was making a good eight knots per hour and everything was going smoothly, as the first mate had the deck, the entire ship was aroused by something which happened in the deck-house. There were eight or nine men sleeping there, and a man from the watch on deck went in to his chest to get a plug of tobacco. The slush lamp had been turned down, so that the place was but dimly lighted. The man was bending over his chest when something seized him in a clammy embrace and forced him to the floor. He thought it was one of the crew playing him a trick, but he scrambled up to find them all in their bunks and to see a shadow glide away. The sailor set up a shout, the watch below turned out, and presently everybody was on deck, and excitement reigned fore and aft. In return for his story the sailor got a dose of rope's end, though after flogging he still maintained that he been hugged by a ghost. On the quarter deck we explained it away by saying that the man was nervous, but every man forward believed his statements and was satisfied that the ship was haunted. We thought it the best policy to treat the affair with contempt, and, although we could not help but notice how the men hung together in pairs after night had come, we gave the matter no attention. When ten days had gone by and nothing more had turned up, we looked upon the ghost as a good joke, and the two men who had seen it were the butt of ridicule. At 1 o'clock of a certain morning, the breeze being small and the night without a moon, though fairly light, the first mate stood looking to windward over the port quarter at what he believed was a sail. His watch were all wide awake, and he could hear the footsteps of the man on lookout as he paced to and fro. The man had been standing still for perhaps five minutes when he felt a hand laid on his arm, an icy breath on his cheek, and as he wheeled about there was the sound of low laughter. To his surprise and consternation no one was visible. His impression as he turned took up the box from her lap and broke the string. A note lay on a bed of deep purple, fragrant violets, and as she saw just the one word, "Theodora," in the familiar, scrawly writing, her heart gave a joyous bound. She opened the note and read these words: "The fool and his money soon parted."

She stared at the line. So Jack considered himself a fool for spending a few paltry cents on her, and this after their conversation at the Hathaways! Oh, it was unbearable for any man to be so insulting, and Jack of all men!

She took a little pencil from her pocket-book and wrote underneath the obnoxious message from Jack, "It would be wise to tack the violets on to one of those ends which will not meet."

When Jack received the box addressed in Theodora's handwriting, he eagerly opened the package. Inside he found his poor violets withered, and then he read the pencilled words, "It would be wise to tack the violets on to one of those ends which will not meet."

"By Jove!" he exclaimed. "That borders on sarcasm. Wonder why she didn't like them. I'll take a run up Sunday and find out."

Jack was as good as his word and quite distracted Theodora's thoughts from her prayers when his unexpected self swung into the church on Sunday morning. She treated him with dignity which smacked of hauteur, but poor Jack was entirely unconscious.

"By the way," he remarked casually that evening, utterly unaware of or at least not noticing the frigidity of Theodora's manner, "why didn't you keep the violets? I meant you should."

"Indeed, did you? I did the best I could to restore a fool's money."

"I say, that's rather hard on me, Theodora. But, of course, I know you only meant it as a joke, same as I did. But I am sorry you did not keep them."

"A joke!" she exclaimed. "I think your jokes are in rather poor taste."

"Oh, never mind; that's all over now. Say, I congratulated Hunt the other day, and it didn't seem to set well."

Theodora gasped: "How dare you do such a thing?" she exclaimed. "How dare you insult me in this way? I have never been treated so. First you proposed to me and—and"—

"I didn't mean to insult you by that, Theodora."

"Oh, you know what I mean! You told me you did not want to marry me because I would be an expense. Then you dared to meddle in Mr. Hunt's affairs"—

"Now, Theodora"—

"Then you send me a box of flowers so you can poster me with your excessive brilliancy of thought. Then, to cap all, you come up here to taunt me with all this and call it all a joke. I never thought it of you. I"—

"Why, Theodora, what is the matter? Don't cry, for heaven's sake!" implored Jack, attempting consolation and exhibiting immense awkwardness.

"Oh, I say, Theodora," he said, "I didn't know you felt this way about it!"

"I don't," sobbed Theodora.

"But, my dear, you certainly do. Upon my word, I did not know that you were not engaged to Hunt. I apologized to him, and it's all right. And I sent the flowers because I knew you like violets, and the note was only a joke. And I said that I did not want to marry you because I was sure you would refuse me at first. But I don't believe you would marry any one else or be engaged so soon. Tell me anyway, Theodora, why won't you marry me?"

"Because you don't want me to," she said sobbingly.

"My dear Theodora, it seems to me you are wonderfully dense," he said, taking her in his arms.—Peterson's.

Long Eared.

"You ought to have your ears boxed," said Miss Sharpleigh to a young freshman who had just stolen a kiss.

"Well," he asked, "why don't you do it?"

"I would," she replied, "if I had a box large enough."—Chicago News.

This is due to the fact that the company controls some inventions and discoveries which have no equal in the whole realm of medical science.

So much deception has been practised in advertising that this grand old company now for the first time makes this startling offer:—

They will send their costly and magically effective appliance and a whole month's course of restorative remedies, positively on trial without advance to any honest and reliable man!

Not a dollar need be advanced—not a penny paid—till results are known to and acknowledged by the patient.

The Erie Medical Company's appliance and remedies have been talked about and written about all over the world, till every man has heard of them.

They restore or create strength, vigor, healthy vigor and new life.

They quickly stop drains on the system that sap the energy.

They cure nervousness, despondency and all the effects of evil habits, excesses, overwork, etc.

This "Trial without Expense" offer is limited by the company to a short time, and application must be made at once.

No C. O. D. scheme, no bogus philanthropy nor deception, no exposure—a clean business proposition by a company of high financial and professional standing.

Write to the ERIE MEDICAL COMPANY, BUFFALO N.Y., and refer to seeing the account of their offer in this paper.

Life.

Like the flame on the forge that looked fireless and dark
Ere the bellows-draft quickened the smouldering spark—
So life is a spark; and life is a fire;
And life is a flame rising higher and higher.
One free breath of nature ere hope dies in men,
And the fast-fading embers will waken again.

Thousands of people die of wasting weakening diseases every year who by all rules of nature and reason ought to be restored to health and strength. The medicines they receive from the average doctor according to regulation, stereotyped practice are mere temporary palliatives; they do not reach down deep into the vital organism where the spark of life lies dormant waiting to be awakened.

In numberless cases where every other remedy absolutely fails Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery breathes its strong vitalizing power upon the slumbering forces of life and wakens them into active energy. It quickens the digestive and blood-making glands and empowers them to supply fresh rich nourishment to all the organs and tissues; imbues the heart and lungs with vitality; destroying and excreting naturally from the system the bile-poisoned dregs which lurk in the circulation, thus building up new constitutional vigor and activity.

"I took a severe cold which settled on my lungs and chest, and I suffered intensely," writes Mr. Harrison Smith, of Gapcreek, Ky. "I tried several of our best physicians, and they gave up all hope of my recovery; they said I had consumption and could not live more than a few weeks. I took five bottles of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and am sound and well today. I feel better than I have in ten years."

Music Among the Negroes.

One of the chief features of every negro gathering of a social character is the singing, says W. F. Hewetson in The Chautauquan. A musical people they undoubtedly are. Not a few have exhibited a high degree of talent in this respect—as, for example, Blind Tom—whose performances on the piano have delighted so many cultured audiences. The darky fiddler, once so prominent a feature of social gatherings, is still sought after in some communities. The popularity of so called "jubilee" singers and negro minstrels seems to increase with time. Many of the most popular songs in this country, such as "Old Kentucky Home," "The Fatal Wedding" and "Listen to the Mocking Bird," were composed by negroes.

For the origin of most of their songs we must go back to the days of slavery. Just as the laboring classes of England during the seventeenth century found expression for their struggles and sufferings in the popular ballads of the time, so the American slave gave vent to his afflictions and heartaches in song. He sang of his griefs—and they were many—of hardships and oppression, of loss of home, of separation from friends and relatives. In these songs one can not fail to perceive a certain plaintive melody that seems to breathe forth centuries of patient suffering. But the songs of the negro were not all dictated by the tragic muse. Even in slavery there were bright, sun kissed openings in the clouds of sorrow that darkened his life, and there is no better evidence of the natural cheerfulness and gayety of his character than the comic and festive songs with which he was wont to celebrate these interspaces in his grief.

Balmoral is a greatly larger estate now than it was when first it became a royal residence. To the original 10,000 or 11,000 acres were soon added the 6,000 acres of the adjoining Birkhall estate. Then in 1878 the forest of Ballochoule was purchased—another 10,000 acres—and there have since been more recent acquisitions.

Women coal carriers at the Lisbon docks receive 1s. 3d. a day, male coal carriers 3s. 4d.

If you are ill you need a doctor in whom you have confidence.

If you need a remedy you want one that has been tested for years; not an obscure, untried thing that is urged upon you, or on which you save a few cents—that is no consideration as against health.

For wasting in children or adults, Scott's Emulsion of Cod-liver Oil with Hypophosphites has been the recognized remedy for twenty-five years.

TERRIBLE HUMOR

A Little Boy's Sufferings. Covered with Sores and Raw from Scratching. Cured by Cuticura.

About eighteen months ago my baby boy (now three years old) broke out with horrible sores all over his body, which tortured him night and day. He would scratch to such an extent, that his face and such parts of his body that he could reach with his hands were almost raw from scratching. After being under treatment by doctors for three months the child got worse, and there seemed nothing that would relieve him.

He had wasted away to a mere skeleton, from want of sleep. A Mr. J. G. Ahern, of the Gate City Loan Co., who happened to call at our residence, was attracted by the fearful screams of the child, and asked if he might see him. He was brought in, and upon seeing him, Mr. Ahern said, that "while it was the worst case he had ever seen, he felt satisfied that it could be speedily cured by the use of the CUTICURA REMEDIES." I finally consented to try them, purchasing the CUTICURA SOAP, CUTICURA ointment, and CUTICURA RESOLVENT, and used them according to directions. Before we had been using them three weeks, we noticed a decided change for the better, the itching began to subside and a healing process had set in. In seven weeks from the time we began with CUTICURA REMEDIES, my little one was completely cured, and without a sign of the trouble left. It is over a year since he has been cured; there has been no return of the trouble, and the little man is now fat and hearty, with a beautiful, clear skin.

HOCKEY.

The Juniors and Seniors play to-night at the rink from seven to eight o'clock. It will be a good, sharp practice for both teams, and as Lionel King is away the Juniors expect to make a good showing.

The Lakefield News says:—"The Millbrook hockey team play a magnificent game of hockey—in their minds. They say themselves that they never had a hockey practice this season before they met Lakefield, and the Lakefield boys also admit the same. But they have been practising a magnificent game of shinney, and they have got so proficient at that game that they don't know the difference between it and hockey. Lakefield plays a clean game of hockey and so when it comes to a shinney match they are not in it. That is how they lost the match in Peterborough on Wednesday of last week.

Years of Suffering From Rheumatism Relieved by One Dose of Medicine.

"For many years," writes Mrs. N. Ferris, wife of the well-known birch manufacturer of Highgate, Ont. "I was sorely afflicted with rheumatic pains in my ankles, and at times was almost disabled. I tried everything, as I thought, and doctored for years without much benefit. Though I had lost confidence in medicines I was induced to try South American Rheumatic Cure. To my delight the first dose gave me more relief than I have had in years, and two bottles have completely cured me. You can publish this letter." Sold by H. S. Macdonald.

COUNTY COUNCIL JANUARY SESSION.

GOOD WORK OF THE MEMBERS ON COMMITTEES.

Passing of Bylaws and Confirming the Reports—Closing up the Legislation of the Session.

FRIDAY—FOURTH DAY.

The members of the council were engaged in committee work nearly the whole day. A great amount of important business had to be carefully transacted before the slate was cleared. The members of the several committees were all in close attendance, and as fast as one committee cleared their box another was ready to be called up. While the chairmen of the respective committees exercised business-like promptness and despatch, nothing was unduly hurried or done in a slip-shod manner.

SATURDAY—FIFTH DAY.

The Council went into session this morning at 9 o'clock.

The Warden in the chair. All the members present.

After routine; the presentation of the report of committees was proceeded with.

PETITIONS.

Mr. Brown, chairman of the Committee on Petitions, presented the following report:

The Committee on Petitions beg leave to report as follows:

1. Your Committee recommend that no action be taken with respect to the circular letter from the Secretary of the Dominion License asking this council to memoralize the Ontario Legislature to further restrict the sale of liquor by providing that no license shall be issued to take effect in a polling sub-division in which a majority of the electors petition against the same, and to give to a majority of the electors in a locality power to further limit the hours of sale in places in which licenses are continued.

2 Your Committee recommend that no action be taken with respect to the circular letter from the county clerk of the county of Wellington praying this council to memoralize the Ontario Legislature for certain amendments to section 31, of the High Schools Act, 1896, defining the liability of County Councils with respect to High Schools.

3. Your Committee recommend that no action be taken with respect to the circular letter from the county clerk of the county of Bruce, praying this council to memoralize the Ontario Legislature to abolish the present divisions under "The County Council's Act, 1896," and by providing that each County Council shall be composed of the reeve of each minor municipality therein.

4. With respect to the circular letter from the clerk of the United Counties of Northumberland and Durham, asking that the powers of police magistrates be extended, your committee recognize the importance of so extending their jurisdiction and the expense saved to each county owing to the proper discharge of their duties by County Police Magistrates.

JOHN BROWN,
Chairman.

County Council Chambers,
Peterborough, Jan. 8th, 1898.

On a motion for the adoption of the report, Mr. Hawthorne said that while he had no objection to the report he would like to see Clause 3 struck out. He was personally of the opinion that County Councils composed of Reeves from municipalities gave the best representation to the ratepayers.

On motion of Messrs. Hawthorne and Peck the report was referred back to the committee. The report was then amended by striking out clause 3 and adopted.

Your committee recommend that no action be taken with respect to the communication from the county clerk of the county of Lanark, asking this council to memoralize the Ontario Legislature to so amend the High Schools Act as to provide that towns separated from the county shall pay to the county a proportionate share of the maintenance of county pupils.

3. Your committee recommend that the report of the county school inspector be received.

4. Your committee recommend that no action be taken by this council upon the appeal of Miss H Mann from the decision of the County Board of Examiners, with respect to her son's failure at the Model School examination at Norwood, but that she be recommended to appeal to such board for a re-reading of the examination papers.

WE MUST Have Money

AND THAT RIGHT QUICKLY.

Owing to business complications—which have recently arisen—we find ourselves compelled to liquidate our entire stock of Fine Furs—to turn them into

READY CASH AT ONCE.

This is also a quick stock adjustment to bring this store full of Furs in shape for a business change.

These two factors press hard on all former Fur Values—and so they press the price button—and down go the prices.

Everything marked to good bye—some one fourth, some one third, some one half and ALL at very much less than their worth for even this season of the year. Everyone will find it of personal advantage to come in AT ONCE and secure what they may need now, or for the future, of Fur wants.

Our Fur Stock is still large, well assorted and up-to-date. It matters not whether it be a man, woman or child whose wants are to be met. You will find something to suit in Furs in our large and varied stock—and at prices that will be bound to please.

It Will Pay You to Call Early.

Standing of the Province on December 31st, 1897.

RECEIPTS AND EXPENDITURES

For the Year--Surplus of Assets, After Deducting Liabilities Presently Payable, $5,121,945.24.

When the Liberal party came into office in 1871 they found in the Treasury an accumulated surplus of cash and trust funds amounting to nearly seven millions of dollars ($7,000,000), subject to certain reductions afterwards referred to.

By an Act passed the previous session, a million and a half of dollars ($1,500,000) had been appropriated in aid of railway construction. This sum was subsequently increased by several other Acts until it amounted to a total of $8,500,000, by far the greater portion of which has already been expended.

In 1878 an Act was passed appropriating out of the accumulated surplus nearly three and a half millions of dollars, to be divided amongst the various municipalities, and used as a means of wiping out the indebtedness of some of them to the Municipal Loan Fund.

Each year a large and ever-increasing amount has been spent out of current revenue on services the cost of which would otherwise have greatly increased the burden of municipal taxation. Even these payments did not usually exhaust the annual revenue of the province, and there has generally been a surplus to add to that already accumulated. Occasionally the expenditure under the Supply Bill has exceeded the revenue, making it necessary to draw to that extent on the surplus of previous years.

Some speakers who do not take time to examine the facts in dealing with the finances of the province fail to make mention of the obligations for railway aid that had to be met after the defeat of the Sandfield Macdonald Government. In the session of 1871 an Act was passed by the Sandfield Macdonald Administration, setting apart $1,500,000 as a fund for aiding railways on certain conditions. It was contended by the then Opposition that the grant to each railway should be submitted to the Legislature for its approval. The Government was defeated on this issue, and when the Liberals came into power in 1872 legislation requiring the sanction of the people's representatives to each appropriation was passed. In the same year the Railway Fund was increased by Hon. Mr. Blake to $1,900,000, and a Railway Subsidy Fund created by setting apart the sum of $100,000 a year for twenty years. The clauses of the Acts providing for this are given below:

CAP. II.

An Act in aid of Railways.

(Assented to 15th February, 1871.)

Whereas it is expedient to give aid towards the construction of railways leading to or through sections of the country remote from existing thoroughfares, or passing through thinly settled tracts, or leading to the Free Grant Territory, or to the inland waters; Therefore Her Majesty, by and with the advice and consent to the Legislative Assembly of the Province of Ontario, enacts as follows:

1. For the purpose aforesaid the sum of one million five hundred thousand dollars shall be set apart from and out of the Consolidated Revenue Fund of this province, and form a fund to be designated and known as the "Railway Fund."

CAP. XXIV.

An Act to make further Provision in aid of Railways.

(Assented to 2nd March, 1872.)

Whereas the Legislature having established a scheme for aiding in the construction of railways, it is right that the public funds, appropriated for that purpose, should be adequate to the granting of aid to all proper enterprises, so far as that can be accomplished consistently with the retention of such a proportion of the public funds as may be requisite to do justice to all sections of the country and to an extent not greater than is provided by this Act, and whereas it is therefore expedient to make further provision in aid of Railways;

Therefore Her Majesty by and with the advice and consent of the Legislative Assembly of the Province of Ontario enacts as follows:

1. The sum of four hundred thousand dollars shall be set apart from and out of the Consolidated Revenue Fund of this Province, and shall be added to and form part of the Fund designated and known as the Railway Fund, established under the Act in aid of Railways.

2. The sum of one hundred thousand dollars yearly, for twenty years, shall be set apart from and out of the Consolidated Revenue Fund of this Province, and shall form a Fund to be designated and known as the Railway Subsidy Fund.

N.B.—The Province has aided fully 2,000 miles of Railway since 1871.

THE MURDER TRIALS.

A Witness Who Swore That on the Day of Her Arrest Mrs. Poirier Was Advised to Confess.

St. Scholastique, Que., Jan. 31.—A great number of witnesses were called by the defence Saturday afternoon, but no one gave important evidence.

Zoel Corbeil, farmer of St. Augustine, stated that a month ago Coroner Mignault said that on the day of her arrest he said to the prisoner: "If you want to save your life it is better for you to confess." The Crown called other witnesses to prove that there was no light on the night of the murder, as stated by Joseph Fortier of St. Scholastique. The court adjourned until 2 o'clock on Monday and Justice Taschereau, in the forenoon, will visit the scene of the murder.

THE NULTY CASE.

Defence All in and Rebuttal Testimony Introduced—No New Points.

Joliette, Que., Jan. 31.—The defence closed their case on Saturday, after taking Dr. Lesage's testimony. The Crown then had another innings and began their rebuttal evidence.

James Mason, captain 83rd Regiment, sworn, said Tom Nulty had belonged to his company and turned out to be a good soldier. Saw the prisoner the day after the murder and asked Tom where he had spent the morning of the previous day. He received an evasive answer. In the course of their conversation, Tom said: "You surely don't suspect me?"

Jules Grenier said Tom Nulty had applied for work in his lumber shanty on the afternoon of the day of the murders.

Octave Riopelle, who had known the family for 59 years, swore that he never know that Tom's grandfather was a drunkard or that his grandmother died of a species of insanity. He also stated that prisoner's father had remarked that his son would surely be hanged for the crime.

Did Stull Commit Murder?

St. Catharines, Jan. 31.—Mr. William Duff, shoemaker, of this city, has a strange story, and it is told in such a manner as to bear the imprint of truth. The story is, in a word, to the effect that James Stull, who was sent to the penitentiary for burglary at Smithville, is implicated in a murder mystery that agitated the people of Detroit and Windsor away back in 1884. Mr. Duff has had his evidence taken by Chief Cummings, and the statement has been sent to the Detroit police. The evidence states that on the day the murder was committed he met Stull on a train on the way to Windsor. He and other man with Stull tried to persuade him to go into another car. After Duff declined they forced a conversation with the lady murdered, saying their mother was in the car ahead. She got up and went with Stull, and the train crossed the river on the transfer boats. This was the last seen of the lady alive. The best detectives worked on the case, but could never trace their man. It is expected the evidence sent in will cause the Windsor authorities to place Stull on trial.

THE FIRE RECORD.

Mr. Washburn's residence at Paisley was damaged $300, and the contents about $400, by fire on Saturday.

Burns & Co.'s boot and shoe store and contents, at Whitby, were all destroyed by fire early Sunday morning. Insurance, $700 on building; on stock, $1,000.

Almost Distracted

Dreadful Suffering by a Newmarket Woman.

The Bones in the Nose Affected—Face Would Swell Until Her Eyes Were Closed—How Relieved.

NEWMARKET, ONT.—"I have had a good opportunity of noting the great medicinal powers of Hood's Sarsaparilla. My wife has been a sufferer from catarrh for the past four years, and the disease had gone so far that the bones of the nose had become affected and particles had come away through an opening in the left side. Her eyesight was also affected to the extent that for nearly a year she was unable to read for more than five minutes at a time. She suffered and at times was almost distracted. She was treated by four different doctors, one of whom was a specialist. They all said they could not do anything for her, as the disease had gone too far. Her nose would swell about every three days until her eyes would almost be closed. Then it would break through and the swelling would subside for a day or two. About Christmas she commenced taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, and since that time has steadily improved. She has not been troubled with any swelling since, and the sore on the side of the nose has all healed. She is on the road to a complete cure. I cannot speak too highly of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and I cheerfully recommend it to any person who is suffering with catarrh." W. H. PURDHER.

Severe Pains in the Head

N. B. If you decide to take Hood's Sarsaparilla, do not be induced to buy any substitute. Be sure to get Hood's.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

AMONG those who think it is time for a change are those who, under the Dominion Government, need to get timber lands for $5 per square mile, but had to pay the price under public competition, for any Ontario timber limits they may have wished to acquire from the present Government.

THE main charge of the Opposition against the Ontario Government is not that it has governed badly but that, even if it has governed well, it has governed too long, says the Guelph Mercury. If a Liberal candidate went into Mr. Whitney's riding and fought a campaign against him, on the ground that he had had his turn, and should give place to another man, Mr. Whitney and his friends would cry to high heaven against the weakness of such an appeal.

THE Opposition leader comes to the country asking its support without even exhibiting a sample of the wares he wishes to work off on the electors. He has no definite policy—as the Globe remarks: No issue worthy of the name is raised by the Opposition, its leaders or its advocates in the press. No charge impugning the honour of any Minister, or even alleging incompetence or serious neglect of duty, has been submitted for investigation. Not only is this true, but one accusation after another, after doing duty at electoral campaigns, has been thrown into the lumber room, one cry after another has been abandoned, until in the present election Mr. Whitney and his followers come before the electors absolutely bankrupt of reasons in support of their plea for office.

THE financial policy of the Liberal Government of Ontario has been characterised by the most careful economy in all Provincial expenditures, which are under administrative control, and by a generous expenditure of surplus revenue for local services of various kinds, which, but for the assistance thus afforded, would have greatly increased the burden of municipal taxation. Only a small part of the provincial income is absorbed in meeting the absolutely necessary expense of carrying on the Government. The remainder is, instead of being hoarded up, returned to the people, except what is judiciously retained in the Treasury as a provision against emergencies. Expenditure of the provincial revenues for the benefit of the people is the cardinal principle upon which the present Government acts, and that principle has been acted upon to the letter. In the expenditure of over eighty-three millions of dollars, it is a proud thing to be able to state that there has never been a charge sustained that one dollar of that immense amount has been improperly expended. The word boodle is not in the dictionary of the Ontario Government.

'TWAS NO SURPRISE

To Hear that Dodd's Kidney Pills Saved a Life.

They Have Saved so Many that Nothing Less is Expected of Them—Bright's Disease and all Other Kidney Troubles Quickly Cured by Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Sandwich, Jan. 30.—The report of the case of Mr. J. R. Gillean, of Amherstburg, brought gladness to the hearts of many Sandwich residents, who had not seen Mr. Gillean since his recovery. His case was well known here and sympathy was universal. The statement that Mr. Gillean was cured by Dodd's Kidney Pills excites no surprise, as that wonderfull remedy is well known in this town. Many of our citizens have tested the merits of Dodd's Kidney Pills, and it is on record that they have never yet failed to cure any kidney disease.

Dodd's Kidney Pills need no recommendation where they have been once used. To the world's workers, of every class, they are a godsend. Bright's Disease, Diabetes, Rheumatism, Lumbago, Sciatica, Neuralgia, Gravel, Urinary Troubles, Diseases of Women, Blood Impurities and all other Kidney Diseases yield positively, and promptly to their action.

Dodd's Kidney Pills build up worn out, rooting kidneys. They restore these organs so quickly that, in a few days they are working steadily, naturally and effectively all uric acid and other poisons are separated from the blood and thrown off. This is the secret of the unbroken success of Dodd's Kidney Pills. They do their work so quickly that good health comes with the first box used.

The claim is made that there is absolutely no form of kidney disease that Dodd's Kidney Pills cannot cure. And thousands of testimonials prove the entire truth of the claim.

Dodd's Kidney Pills are sold by all druggists at fifty cents a box, six boxes $2.50, or will be sent on receipt of price by The Dodd's Medicine Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

Rheumatism & Dyspepsia Cured

571 ST. PATRICK STREET,
OTTAWA, July 31st, 1896.

To the Phrenoline Medicine Company, Ltd., Ottawa, Ont.

GENTLEMEN,—On the advice of a friend I tried one bottle of your famous rheumatic remedy, Phrenoline, and to my surprise it cured me of rheumatism, from which I have suffered for many years.

It also cured me of dyspepsia, from which I was suffering at the time, so that I feel now like a new man.

I have tried several remedies for rheumatism, some of which did me a certain amount of good, but nothing that I have taken has done so much for me as your Phrenoline, and I have much pleasure in recommending it to other sufferers.

Yours very truly,
(Signed) JAMES CARROLL,

Ta-Lien-Wan Reported as Given Up to Russia.

THE NEW POSITION IN CHINA.

The Control of the Chinese Sea Customs—Another Reverse in India—The Fourth Brigade Suffers Serious Losses—Correct List of the Killed—Mr. Gladstone Suffering—Cable News.

London, Jan. 31.—A despatch to the Daily Mail from Shanghai says a secret despatch has been issued by the Tsung-Li-Yamen to certain high officials, informing them that Russia warned China that if Kiao-Chou were granted to Germany Russia would demand either Ta-Lien-Wan or Port Arthur. According to the same despatch, it is asserted at Shanghai on good authority that China consents to Russians being at the head of her customs and railways.

At the present moment, says the Daily Mail's correspondent, there are 10,000 Russian troops in Ta-Lien-Wan and Port Arthur. Russian agents have been sent to Tien-Tsin (the port of Pekin) and to Japan to purchase coal and food, and 60,000 bags of wheat have been bought at Tien-Tsin.

Another Reverse in India.

Calcutta, Jan. 31.—Gen. Westmacott telegraphs from Camp Maumal that the fourth brigade entangled in a gorge near Shinkamar Saturday and suffered serious losses.

Lieut.-Col. Houghton, Lieuts. Sewing, Dowdall, Hughes and Walker, together with five men of the Yorkshire Light Infantry, and three Sikhs, were killed; Major Earle, Lieut. Hall and 17 men of the Yorkshires were wounded; Major Earle severely; and 17 privates are reported as missing.

The receipt of the despatch has caused a great sensation here, and further details are anxiously awaited.

A Corrected List.

The paragraph enumerating the losses as first sent is slightly inaccurate. The correct list is as follows: Lieut.-Col. Houghton, Lieuts. Sweing, Dowdall, Hughes and Walker, together with fifteen men of the Yorkshire Light Infantry and three Sikhs were killed; Major Earle, Lieut. Hall, thirty-one men of the Yorkshires and two Sikhs wounded; twelve Yorkshires are missing, including one who was wounded and captured by the enemy. Major Earle's injuries are serious.

Britain's Policy Is Just.

London, Jan. 31.—The Hon. Joseph Chamberlain, Secretary of State for the Colonies, speaking at Birmingham Saturday evening, dwelt upon the efforts of the foreign nations to conquer great colonial empires with the intention of converting them into exclusive trade preserves from which British trade should forever be excluded. This policy, he said, is now hanging over Great Britain, like the sword of Damocles, in West Africa and China. Regarding the latter country, Mr. Chamberlain added, he was happy to believe there was a general agreement of all the great commercial powers that Great Britain's policy was a just one.

Plague Commissioner Murdered.

Calcutta, Jan. 31.—Early Sunday morning the body of the chariman of the Plague Committee was found in a field at Sinnar, in the Nassic district of this province, near the scene of the riots. The commissioner was murdered.

MR. GLADSTONE'S ILLNESS.

Passed a Restless Night, and His Neuralgia Returned.

Cannes, Jan. 31.—Mr. Gladstone has kept his bed the entire day Sunday. He passed a restless night and there was a return of his neuralgia. At the latest call of his physician he was reported to have been much relieved.

Sunday Football Goes in England.

London, Jan. 31.—The Parish Council of Faversham, Kent, has failed in an attempt to prevent the playing of football on Sunday by a prosecution under the Act of Charles I., which is directed against the "Disorderly sort of people frequenting bear-baiting, bull-baiting, interludes and common plays under the Lord's day." A policeman last Sunday arrested three players. On the witness stand he admitted that the accused had not been disorderly, and that the grounds where they were playing were practically private. The court decided that there was no concourse of people, nor were the defendants disorderly. The prosecution was, therefore, dismissed.

What a Berlin Paper Has Learned.

Berlin, Jan. 30.—The Berlinger Tageblatt says it learns that Russia and England have arrived at an agreement whereby England has consented to drop her demand for the opening of Ta-Lien-Wan as a free port, and Russia waives further opposition to British control of the Chinese sea customs.

WHY DON'T YOU TAKE?

HEART HUMBUG.

WHY DON'T YOU TAKE?

It is fashionable to-day to have a new heart scare every 24 hours. The commonest symptoms of dyspepsia or nerve trouble, such as palpitation, weak spells, loss of appetite and poor circulation are magnified and distorted into serious signs of heart trouble, with the object of frightening the public into taking this or that heart remedy. If a hundredth part of the heart trouble we hear about were real, the cemeteries would be filled in a month. A wrong construction is put upon common ailments in order to humbug the people into the belief that heart disease is prevalent, whereas real heart trouble, which is so sadly and suddenly fatal when it does occur, is a rare disease. Lop-sided arguments cannot convince an intelligent people. Iron is the vital element of the blood. You can't have too much. But too little iron means weakness, lack of spirit, pallid cheeks, shortness of breath, sleeplessness, nervousness, loss of vital force, ending in general break-down. The iron in Dr. Ward's Blood and Nerve Pills is in the soluble form you need, in combination with other curative agents in such a manner that disease can't resist their action. The blood becomes rich and red, strength returns, spirits revive, good health comes back again. YOU FEEL YOURSELF GETTING WELL WHEN YOU TAKE DR. WARD'S BLOOD AND NERVE PILLS.

Price 50c. per box, 5 boxes for $2.00 at druggists, or if not obtainable at your druggist, mailed on receipt of price by THE DR. WARD CO., 71 Victoria Street, Toronto. Book of information free.

ARTILLERY PRACTICES.

The Programme Arranged by the Dominion Association for 1898 Competions.

Ottawa, Jan. 31.—A special meeting of the Dominion Artillery Association was held here Saturday in the office of the Director of Stores, Militia Department. Important business was transacted, having reference to the programme of this year's artillery competitions, and the visit of the British team. Lieut.-Col. Irwin, chairman of council, presided. The officers present, as well as the proxy votes sent in, were unanimous in favor of St. John, and accordingly the New Brunswick city will be the scene of the heavy gun and ordinance competitions.

The following programme was agreed upon, the understanding being that the dates of the competitions are to be so arranged as to fit in with both garrison and field artillery.

(a) Group firing, 2 guns, 64 pr. moving target, depression range firing.

(b) Group firing, 2 guns, 40 pr. moving target, depression range firing.

(c) Single gun, 64 pr. stationary target.

(d) Single gun, 40 pr. combined with disabled ordinance.

(e) Shifting ordinance competition, 64 pr. "A" and "B" shifts.

These competitions will occupy about one week at St. John.

Following the St. John meet will come the field artillery competitions at Deseronto.

Reindeer for Transportation Work.

The Department of Trade and Commerce has received a communication from Mr. Sontum, agent of the department, from Christiania, Norway. He mentions that parties at present visiting Trondhem, Norway, are purchasing 1,000 reindeer for a company which proposes to utilize them in the Canadian Yukon. One hundred men have been engaged for the purpose of assisting in the transportation of these animals to this continent.

U. S. Yukon Relief Expedition.

The Customs Department has been advised that the American relief expedition will leave Portland, Ore., about Feb. 1, and will proceed northward in two divisions, one taking the Dalton route, the other the Chilkoot trail. An Order-in-Council must be passed here permitting the supplies to enter Canadian territory free. Unofficial advices point to an early settlement of the customs difficulties now prevailing on the western frontier.

Every citizen is thoroughly acquainted with the sterling merits of these wonderful pills, which are admitted to be the only medicine that will completely and positively cure all blood and kidney diseases.

Twinging Shooting Pain.

Mr. Wm. Dyson, Guelph, Ont., says: "My experience with Dean's Kidney Pills proves them to be a splendid medicine for any one troubled with backache or urinary difficulties. I had bad pains in my back and shooting pains all over my body, together with dizziness and sleeplessness. Through the use of Dean's Kidney Pills I am now entirely cured and feel braced up as young as ever I was."

Copper Tempered by Mound Builders.

Ed A. Schloth has received from a friend in Savannah, Ills., a long and small spearhead, a small knife, an awl and a needle taken from one of the prehistoric mounds near that city. The tools are all of tempered copper, and when suspended by a thread ring like steel. They have been hammered out and tempered, and after having been buried in a mound for no one knows how long still retain their temper. The mound builders, who had disappeared from the face of the earth before Columbus discovered this country, knew how to temper copper, an art which no man on earth has now, although many have endeavored for years to discover the process. Such specimens are found in but few of the mounds opened, the implements found being generally of stone. Mr. Schloth has a fine collection of relics of mound builders and of the aborigines of this coast and values these tempered copper articles above them all.—Portland Oregonian.

CATARRH! F. F. C. C.

Forsyth's Faultless Catarrh Cure.

A POSITIVE CURE FOR CATARRH AND COLD IN THE HEAD.

This effective remedy for Catarrh and Cold in the head is a fume inhalent—it goes direct to the seat of disease and gives relief in a marvellously quick time. It will cure the slightest cold in the head almost instantly, and, if faithfully and persistently used, it will cure the most stubborn and long standing cases of chronic catarrh of the head—it never fails to do its work—it is easily applied—it is harmless to use—you simply take a small portion of the remedy in the palm of the hands, rub the hands together, then partly open them and inhale the fumes from the remedy into the throat and nose, and rub a little of the remedy on sides of the nose and temples.

Dear Sir—I have been using catarrh remedy of different kinds for the last fifteen years, but find "Forsyth's Faultless Catarrh Cure" the best I have used, and have no hesitation in recommending it to any one troubled with catarrh or cold in the head.

Yours sincerely,

Dear Sir—I take pleasure in giving my testimonial to the efficacy and value of Forsyth's Faultless Catarrh Cure. I can faithfully recommend it to anyone troubled with chronic catarrh or cold in the head.

Yours truly,

"A Tennessee Romance."

To be transported among the most romantic southern scenes one has only to see the production of "A Romance of Coon Hollow," which will hold the stage at the opera house Thursday night. It is a picture of real life in old Tennessee. It is a story of love, passion and hate told in a graceful way and given realism by pictures and stage effects that are scenes of every day life in the South. Among the scenes are a cotton press in operation, a moonlight picture of Coon Hollow and a boat race. Two quartettes, a brass band and a strong company appear in this big production. Seats are now on sale.

A Stationery Bonfire.

The only way to thin out the lines where stock is too heavy is to cut deep into prices, then they go. It's like touching a match to gunpowder. That's what we are doing at the Peterborough Bookstore. We have placed a big year's business, and we intend 1898 to be bigger. Present stocks are marked at ready-to-go prices—some one-fourth, some one-third, some one-half. Books, both cloth and paper bound, come among the lowest collections, and the fancy goods and leather goods next. Everything in fine goods at 20 per cent. off former prices.—A. H. STRATTON & C[O.]

CHARLIE HALLIDAY'S DEATH.

Loved by His Friends for His High Sense of Honour and Courteous Thoughtfulness he Will Indeed be Missed.

Dr. Halliday and his family will have the sympathy of the entire community in the loss of his second son, Charles, through heart disease on Sunday last.

The deceased was twenty-one years of age, and entered the head office of the Bank of Montreal, at Montreal, just three years ago this month. His health began to give way last June when he came home, but shortly afterwards entered the local branch of the bank. Just before Christmas, however, he had to again give up, and since then gradually grew weaker until his demise yesterday.

Charlie was gifted with the power of making friends and keeping them, and amongst his companions he was most popular. Nowhere was he better known than on the cricket field, and when quiet young gave promise of developing into a grand cricketer, his progress being watched with pride by the older members of the club.

Loved by his friends for his high sense of honour and courteous thoughtfulness, he will indeed be missed.

His demise, following so closely upon that of his brother, Dr. Vernon Halliday, will make the blow doubly heavy to bear by the bereaved family.

The funeral will take place from the family residence, 457 Water street to-morrow afternoon at 3 o'clock.

TWO BLAZES.

The Firemen Have to Fight the Flames in Bitterly Cold Weather.

At two o'clock Sunday morning the brigade was summoned to the corner of King and Bethune streets, where an old barn belonging to Mr. Wm. Butler, was found to be in flames. As the building was old and the fire had a good start before the alarm was sent in, it was found impossible to save the barn, and the brigade accordingly directed its attention to confining the flames to the building and not allowing them to spread. A quantity of furniture stored in the barn was also destroyed.

A burning chimney in the residence occupied by Eugene Emond, corner of King and Reid streets, caused an alarm to be sounded shortly after nine o'clock last night. No damage.

KLONDIKE FLIER.

Extra Train Service Arranged on the C.P.R.

An extra train service has been arranged on the C.P.R. beginning to-morrow, when instead of utilising the Grand Trunk's line to North Bay, the trains will be run east to Smith's Falls and from there back to North Bay and the west. This will cause all the freight to pass through Peterborough for the west and two extra passenger trains will pass through each day. At 1.18 p.m. a train will pass through from the east and reach Toronto at 3 30 p.m., where excellent connections will be made for Chicago. The "Klondike Flier" will leave Toronto at 12 30 p.m. and pass through Peterborough for the east at 2 48 p.m.

The extra train service will prove a great accommodation to the citizens. The change goes into effect to-morrow.

SPORTING PASTIMES.

Hockey and Other Items of Local and General Interest.

HOCKEY.

At last the citizens will have an opportunity of seeing of what calibre the Peterborough Juniors are made, as this evening they play against the Frontenacs, of Kingston, at the Charlotte street rink, in a Junior championship match. That the local Juniors are fast cannot be gainsaid, and just how fast they are can be gauged this evening. The team is to be composed of:—Goal, Geo. Dixon; point, R. Glover; cover point, R. Thorne; forwards, W. Crossley, R. Watt, Chris. Graham and Harry King. If those boys can't run up a big score against the Frontenacs it will be odd. The visitors are the old opponents whom the Seniors went up against with varying success for years, and the mark which the Juniors make this evening will, therefore be watched with interest. The enthusiasm promises to run higher than ever before, the Juniors just now being very popular. The prices have been put at 25 and 15 cents, and although a trifle high, perhaps, yet it must be remembered that the expenses entailed are over fifty dollars in bringing the Frontenacs here, and a referee has also to be brought from Toronto.

CRICKET.

At the annual general meeting of the Cricket Club the following officers were elected for the coming season:—

Patrons—James Kendry, M. P., J. R. Stratton, M.P.P., Richard Hall.
Patronesses—(Hon) Mrs. Hamilton, Mrs. R. M. Dennistoun, Miss Calcutt.
Hon. Pres.—Dr. Geo. Burnham.
President—R. B. Rogers,
Vice President—J. H. Burnham.
Secretary Treasurer—E. M. Poussette.
Captain—Sam. Ray.
General Committee—Rev. E. V. Stevenson, Myles Hamilton, W. Stocker Harold Burnham and A. A. Hollingshead.
Ground Committee—R. B. Rogers, J. H. Burnham, Myles Hamilton.
Match Committee—S. Ray, Dr. Young, E. M. Poussette.

The Secretary was instructed to correspond with some of the English professionals with a view to getting a good turn out for the coming season.

By the numbers present and the enthusiasm displayed, it is evident that cricket is going to boom in Peterborough this year and the clubs of the district will have to look out for their laurels.

LACROSSE.

The members of the lacrosse club are reminded that R. M. Roy is preparing a group picture and all are requested to drop in and have their photos taken sometime this week.

PRAISE FOR THE ARMY.

The Rector of St. Luke's has Words of Commendation for the Salvationists.

In his morning sermon yesterday Rev. H. Symonds, of St. Luke's, made a reference to the work of the Salvation Army, in which he paid a high tribute to their zeal, mentioning the work which they undertook as being of a nature beyond the reach of the churches. Many said that the Army erred in their eccentric methods, but could it not also be said that the church erred on the side of respectability. The Army in its work willingly went to the lowest depths to rescue fallen humanity—Would the church do this?

WORDS OF ADVICE ON THE GAMBLING EVIL.

REV. W. L. ARMITAGE APPEALS TO THE YOUNG MEN.

He Points out That Gambling Takes Such a Hold on the Passions as to Lead to Utter Ruination.

Rev. W. L. Armitage occupied the pulpit of St. Luke's church last evening and by the special request of the rector delivered a sermon directed against the evil influences of gambling.

Mr. Armitage took as his text I. Corinthians, v ch., 6th ver.: "Know ye not that a little leaven leaveneth the whole lump." In opening he stated that the duty of a minister of the Gospel was not only to preach salvation free to those who would accept it, but also to guard their flocks and warn them of besetting dangers. The sermon which he was about to preach was not given for the purpose of sensation, but of necessity. He could not understand why the duty had the newest comer and youngest amongst the clergy, as all were agreed gambling was an evil of evils, and yet nothing had ever been said about the matter from the pulpit. In delivering the sermon he did not wish it to be inferred that he thought Peterborough young men were any worse than those in other towns. On the contrary he had always received the most gentlemanly treatment from all with whom he had come in contact. They would be a credit to any town and grace any home. Many whom he had met would, he was sure, live to be monuments in the nation.

Previously he had made a reference to the evil of gambling, and he understood that his few remarks on that occasion had borne fruit. Some of the young men had heard him and had suddenly realized where their pleasure was leading them and had had the manliness to decide on giving it up. He was very much pleased that such was the case.

REFERRING TO HIS TEXT,

the speaker stated that leaven was used frequently as a type of evil. Leaven was used for fermentation, and acted in such a manner that it quickly communicated itself as a contagion with all that it came in contact. Being a type of evil it was not used in the bread at the time of the Passover. Many references are made to the leaven in Scriptures. In the text it is spoken of in connection with an evil which had crept into the Corinthian Church. Can we not see the same thing in that evil which is creeping into our midst? At one time there was very little gambling in Peterborough, but as with the leaven, when once it got a foothold, the whole lump was leavened until now there was not a class or trade which was not infected, and whose representatives were not seeking an opportunity to "sit in." It is an evil which fastens on the human passions, and is one of the best aids which Satan possesses. Its contagion is such that one is suddenly drawn into the game and absorbed in its fascination can never tell how the beginning was made.

CITIZENS ARE NOT ALIVE

to what is going on about them. The speaker would not tell all he knew but, although it was hardly credible, he knew of three places which had recently been opened to meet the demand of gambling. In broad daylight, two doors from a public street, boys of 14 and 15 years of age were squandering all their earnings in such a place. Is there then no use of speaking against this evil, as he had been told?

On Sunday afternoons young and old would gather in these places, after having attended church in the morning, and not satisfied with the profanation of the day would utter a blasphemy against the church by calling their gambling a meeting of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew.

The speaker understood that a tirade had been instituted against him for his previous reference to the evil of gambling, which was evidence enough that something of the kind had been needed. He had been told that the clergy should not interfere in such matters. It was not their business.

HE HAD BEEN REBUKED

in the same manner as our Lord, to whom evil doers had said "Let us alone, what have we to do with thee, thou Jesus of Nazareth."

We are so constructed that we need amusement, but many an employer is today in a position to tell you that he has been paying dearly for the amusement of this nature that some young man has been indulging in. There is no harm in many amusements which tend to develop the character, but when tempted to indulge in those of a questionable nature think of those poor young fellows who have fallen and let that be a warning. Some can say gambling will do them no harm. They can stop when they please. Maybe so, but is there not some one you know who has not the power to resist and is drawn along too far—that is a weak brother for whom Christ died. Think of the aching hearts which will soon be in his home when he oversteps the mark. Think how it would be if he was your own dearly loved brother, whom some one else was leading on.

If there is no harm in gambling why have all the best countries in the world being practiced in public? It appeals so strongly to the passion of men that it would soon ruin an entire nation.

Mr. Armitage also appealed to the practical side of the question, speaking of the large amount of valuable time which was thus wasted. When a night was spent at the card table the energies were dulled and unfit for business next day. What man could afford this?

It was contrary to Godliness, contrary to Scripture and contrary to common sense!

There was also another way to look at it. The character of a young man was at stake. Was there anything elevating in the language used or in the companionship? Is it a man of high character who, being experienced at the game, will strip a new player of everything?

Everything in the surroundings is ungodly and indulging in play leads to the use of stimulants in order to keep up the flagging energies. The influence for better things

IS GRADUALLY LESSENED.

If a man is not a hypocrite his better nature will rebel against being a gambler and also attending church and it ends in his leaving the House of God, and ceasing to have family prayer in his own home. He goes on from day to day, until he finally casts aside that which was his hope when starting out in life.

Is there not a remedy for this awful thing? Can nothing be done? Is there nothing can be said to-night to appeal to you in the matter so that even one can be saved? Is there no one near and dear to you that is falling, and for whose sake you will be aroused, and interest yourself in the matter?

"If am ostracized for my words I care not," continued Mr. Armitage. "I would give my right arm, if necessary, to save even one poor boy from falling. Think if it was your own boy who was in this danger, would you then stand idly by? Let me

APPEAL TO THE PARENTS.

Before your children take up with these amusements do your duty by them and see that the children are taught "what a solemn vow, promise and profession they have here made by you." Too many parents will insist on the study of history and arithmetic but leave for mere choice, whether they shall inherit the Kingdom of God. Do not be satisfied with clothing and educating them.

Children demand more. Give them love. Get their confidence. When they lose your confidence and that of the church, they are gone, may be forever. The church and the family are to blame for this. Let them know you have their confidence. Teach them to use and not abuse amusements. Point them to Heaven and lead the way.

"If society would stand by the church and be one with it, as should be the case, this evil would have to go. Public opinion can crush the evil. Plenty of church people love God, but they do not hate the devil. Stand up to the vows of your confirmation—renounce, that is declare war against, the devil and fight against evil."

In closing, the eloquent speaker made a final appeal to the young men, urging them to remember that there was something higher in life than amusement. He asked them to look to their character. Character cannot be bought, and it can soon be eaten entirely away, for "Know ye not that a little leaven leaveneth the whole lump."

DECLINES TO ACT.

I shall vote for him and do all I can to promote his election.

Yours truly,

CONFIRMING THE REPORTS.

Bylaws confirming the reports as adopted were given their several readings and duly passed.

OTHER BYLAWS.

Mr. Casement introduced a bylaw to repeal Bylaw No. 291.

In Committee of the Whole the bylaw received its several readings and was passed.

Mr. Hawthorne introduced a bylaw to regulate the time for taking the assessment in the township of Otonabee, between the 1st day of February and the 15th day of July in each year. The object of the bylaw was to permit of the assessing being done in the summer months instead of in winter. The date for the return of the roll was fixed for the 1st day of May.

In Committee of the Whole the by-law received its several readings, and was passed.

Mr. Casement introduced a bylaw to authorize the Warden and Treasurer to borrow money to meet the county expenditures, the amount being fixed at $25,000.

In Committee of the Whole the bylaw received its several readings and was passed.

ERECTION OF POLES AND WIRES.

Moved by Mr. Peck, seconded by Mr. Anderson, that a petition be forwarded to the Ontario Legislature, amending Sec. 496, sub section 59, of the Municipal Act, so as to give township councils the power to regulate the erection and maintenance of electric light, telegraph and telephone poles and wires, in the township limits that are by such conferred upon cities, towns and villages.

Mr. Anderson explained that the reason the motion was asked was that in his township the companies gave no consideration whatever to the request of ratepayers in regard to planting their poles, but did as they liked in the matter.

The motion was carried.

The January session of the County Council was then closed.

STAMPEDE GULLY.

HOW A WELL KNOWN RAVINE IN TEXAS GOT ITS NAME.

A Herd of 15,000 Cattle Stampeded at Night, and Before They Were Stopped 2,700 of Them Were Killed—Costly Blunder Made by a Mexican Cowboy.

One of the most desperate stampedes of cattle ever witnessed by a Texas cowboy, says Rev. J. B. Cranfill of Waco, Tex., occurred in 1876 on the prairie in the center of which now stands the town of McGregor. Fifteen thousand cattle and 25 cowboys participated in the exciting event. Mr. Cranfill was not a participant, but he tells the story as he got it from an eyewitness in The Independent. Late in the afternoon of July 4 there had been a lively thunderstorm that made the cattle nervous. At 10 o'clock at night, however, they seemed to be sleeping profoundly. Then the narrative proceeds as follows:

"The stars were all shining, and there was no cause at all for the arousing of the herd. They appeared to get up all at once, with a single purpose, and the roar that was heard seemed to come from a single throat. The Wilson brothers and their cowboys who were sleeping in their camp rushed to their ponies, who were grazing with the saddles and bridles on, and as fast as the bits could be replaced in their mouths they mounted and galloped to the flanks of the now disappearing mass, headed in the direction of the Brazos river."

The usual course on such occasions is to get in front of the herd—a risky piece of work—and start it to running in a circle. This attempt was made in this case.

"Some cattle can outrun others, and in this case there was a bunch of about 50 fully 20 yards in advance, and toward this leading group the two rescuers rode. Of the leading group, also, some were faster than others, and this group ran in a diamond shape, with two immense steers leading all. When Mr. Wilson and his companion reached the two leading steers, they began shooting their revolvers close to them, and in that way the bunch was made to oblique, and as the leading bunch of cattle obliqued the main stampede obliqued, and the first step in 'milling' had been taken. By this time the cattle were getting tired. Nearly five miles had been covered, and the breath of the leaders was coming short and painfully, but they were rushing on because the front cattle at this time knew as a matter of fact their only safety was in keeping up the run. Those behind were coming, and they were in the majority, and the leaders were compelled to run. There was real danger for the forward members of the stampede.

"In the invoice of articles contained in the regulation 'outfit' there is always some kind of stimulants, and but for the stimulants contained in Mr. Wilson's outfit it is possible that the stampede would have been halted without disaster. He had a Mexican along, one of the best cowboys in the southwest. This Mexican and his horse always reminded those who saw him ride of the fabled Centaur. He rode far forward and bent over, so that he and his horse appeared to be one animal. No horse, however rugged, 'wild and woolly,' had ever been able to unseat him. This Aztec had been to the little brandy runlet too often and had filled and emptied his tin cup with surreptitious intoxicants, so that his usual excellent judgment went awry. When he succeeded in getting mounted, after having fumbled with his bridle a good deal, he was far in the rear, and the stampede had gone past him, so that when he overtook the rear end he passed to the front on the other side and rode on the wrong flank.

"When he reached the head of the herd, he was just in time to defeat the maneuver, then under execution, of bending the moving mass from a straight line to a semicircle. Revolver in hand, disregarding the other men, he began shooting in the faces of the wild steers, and the effect of this was to straighten the run and bring the advance straight toward a precipice. This precipice was a wash in the prairie, forming a deep ravine fully 30 yards wide, and in a shorter time than it takes to tell of this contretemps the head of the column was pouring over, a horrible cascade of beef, plunging madly into destruction while fleeing from an imaginary danger.

"When Mr. Wilson and his lieutenants saw that it was impossible to save their cattle, they saved themselves by dexterously turning at right angles at full speed and riding out of the way. They next returned to the flank and held a council of war. A few seconds decided them, and all hands commenced shooting into the herd, the object now being to build a breastwork of carcasses and save the rear end from the destruction that had overtaken the front. The gully was nearly full of cattle by this time. They were snorting and bellowing, crashing and tearing, and still heaping up, and when the firing began the wounded ones tumbled over on the others, and in a short time the gully, like the sunken road at Waterloo, was bridged by carcasses. The herd surged up in billows, like an ocean, and bent now because it could not do otherwise. The semicircle was formed, and Wilson and his men crossed the gully below and rode around the opposite side and recrossed, and in a short time they had the cattle halted, forming an incomplete letter O, and there they stood, blowing, bellowing, shivering. All hands remained on watch all night, and in the morning, when a count was made, it was ascertained that 2,700 head were missing. There were afterward 2,700 pairs of horns taken from that gully. It was called Stampede gully for many years afterward, and perhaps will always with some people be remembered by that name."

CORDELIA'S BROTHER

Is Called to the Witness Box to Testify Against His Sister.

St. Scholastique, Que., Jan. 29.—The first witness called in the Poirier case yesterday morning was Edmund Viau, farmer, of St. Canuto, and Cordelia's brother. He said: "I often went to my brother-in-law's house, and three or four times I saw Sam Parslow there. One day I went to see Father Pincault on some business, and while I was there I asked him what he thought of Sam and Cordelia's relations. He answered me. "It is very hard to prevent people from speaking of such matters." I saw my sister many times at Bouvrette's the day following the murder, but I did not speak of it to her."

In cross-examination, he declared that he was not on good terms with the prisoner, because he opposed her marriage, telling her Poirier was a drunkard and a lazy good-for-nothing.

The witness seemed to have forgotten many facts since he gave his evidence before Magistrate Demartigny.

Detective Crevier and Joseph Cyr were then called, and identified the revolver, the victim's shoes, etc.

Coroner Mignault was put on the stand at half-past two in the afternoon. He was in the Judge's room behind the screen with High Constable Brazeau when the prisoner made her confession of the murder, and he corroborated in all points the evidence of Brazeau and Detective McCaskill as to this confession. He stated further that on the day of the arrest he had a conversation with the prisoner and he told her: "If you know the guilty man it is better for you to give his name, because justice will certainly discover him." The prisoner gave him no answer. The proof of the Crown finished with this witness and the defence will not be long, a few witnesses only having been called.

Tom Keogh, a young man of St. Canute, was the first witness for the defence. The only important fact he stated was that two years ago at a dancing party which happened at Mrs. Poirier's house Mr. John Hall put the prisoner on his knee.

Mrs. Hebert of Montreal, sister of Cordelia Viau, was the last witness yesterday. She said that the late Isidore Poirier boarded at her house two or three years ago and he often told her that he would kill himself. He spoke so when he was drunk and told her that he had enough of life. She knew Mr. John Hall very well and said that he was an old regular boarder and that her sister often told her that she did not like him. She stated that she went into the room of the murder with the prisoner on the 25th of November to get some handkerchiefs, and this contradicts McCaskill's evidence on that point.

THE NULTY TRIAL.

The Defence Have Played the Insanity Plea Strongly for Three Days.

Joliette, Que., Jan. 29.—In the Nulty murder trial the defence probably heard its last witness yesterday in the person of Dr. Lesage, another expert on mental diseases, particularly those of degenerates and epileptics. The defence has perhaps wisely kept their trump cards till the last and have played them with great effect within the last three days. Still the end of the trial is not yet in sight. The Crown has still a good-sized list of witnesses to be heard in rebuttal, which will likely consume the greater part of next week.

Dr. Lesage testified that he is a graduate of Laval University, also of the University of Paris. He described the symptoms which denoted epilepsy, mentioning bleeding at the nose, absentmindedness, dulness of the senses in general. "What conclusion would you draw, should you notice all these symptoms in a person?" was then asked by Mr. De Salabery, one of the counsel for the defence.

"I would say he was a dangerous epileptic, and would consider it my duty as a citizen to warn his parents or guardian to keep a close watch on such a person."

Question—Assuming such symptoms as existing, should the person so afflicted commit murder without premeditation or motive, would the murder strengthen or weaken your assumption that the perpetrator was an epileptic?

"It would certainly strengthen it. Epileptics regularly have a motive."

Mrs. Fisher Fell Dead.

Preston, Ont, Jan. 29.—A terribly sudden death occurred here shortly after 8 o'clock yesterday. Mrs. Fred. Fisher, sr., had occasion to go to the woodshed, and while there her daughter heard a noise as of someone falling. On going out she found her mother lying dead on the woodshed floor. Deceased was the mother of Mr. Fred. Fisher, proprietor of the Central Hotel here, and has been troubled with heart disease for the past few months, which was the cause of her death.

SLOAN'S INDIAN TONIC

TRADE MARK.

Robson Brown, of Valetta, July 28th, 1891, says:—

"I am sorry under the circumstances to write to you, but I feel it my duty, as I have been troubled with Dyspepsia for years, took dollars' worth of medicine and pills, but got no relief until I commenced taking your Sloan's Indian Tonic. I think I have taken 8 or 10 bottles in all, and I feel as if I have got a new lease of life, I feel so much better. I was in the habit of keeping a bottle in the house so when costive I would take a dose or two with instant relief. Now I am troubled with costive spells very often, and it was the only medicine that gave me instant relief. It seems as if I have lost my best friend. Now I would like to hear from you by return mail, as I would like to have a bottle as soon as possible.

Mrs. H. Palmer, of Ridgetown, Ont., says: I was afflicted for a number of years with Erysipelas and Neuralgia in my face, and one bottle of Sloan's Indian Tonic cured me entirely, and I would recommend it to others, either for erysipelas or neuralgia.

Mrs. Henry Hale, of Blenheim, Ont., says: Sloan's Indian Tonic cured me of Malarial Fever and Chills and Neuralgia. When I was down sick in bed I purchased a bottle of the Tonic and it cured me entirely, and I have not been troubled with Fever or Neuralgia since.

PATENT REMINDERS.

SOME FUNNY THINGS WHICH INVENTORS HAVE MADE.

A Bracelet to Make Her Think of Engagements—Many Devices for the Convenience of Sleepy Heads—One to Thwart the Grave Robber.

Psychologists assert that civilized human beings are growing more absent-minded. The average man of intelligence today is not alert, not so conscious of his immediate environments, as he was a century ago. He does more thinking than he did then, and a greater part of his business in life is left to the purely mechanical brain functions.

The inventors, always a step ahead of the requirements of the times, are already at work devising contrivances to summon absent attention. One of the latest of these is a bracelet that has an alarm watch attached to it. The wearer, having an engagement at a certain hour, sets the watch, and when the time arrives a little needle point pricks her arm and reminds her of the duty.

At the patent office a large class of inventions is comprised under the head of "alarms"—these being machines by which persons who otherwise would not think are made to think. The average individual is obliged, however unwillingly, to get up at a certain time in the morning. To provide for this requirement many ingenious persons have applied their talents to the production of contrivances for awakening people and compelling them to arise. There is a kind of bedstead, for example, which holds its mattress in a frame that is retained in the normal position by a catch. At the proper hour the catch, operated by a clockwork mechanism, loses its grip, and the mattress frame becomes vertical instead of horizontal, throwing sleepy head out upon the floor.

There is another sort of bed which lets the head of the sleepy person drop when getting up time arrives, one end of the mattress frame collapsing. But one of the queerest of the patented methods of waking people up involves the employment of a tin pan and a weight hung by a cord. When the hands of a clock reach a certain point, the weight is released and falls upon the pan, making a direful racket. Another oddity is a frame from which are suspended a number of corks. During the night it is lowered gradually by a clockwork mechanism until at the proper hour and minute the dangling corks begin to bob against the nose and face of the sleeper. Of course he wakes up. The most obvious advantage of these sleep alarms is that they render anxiety on the part of the sleeper unnecessary, so far as rising is concerned. He can snooze undisturbed by the necessity of watching himself.

Hayseed visitors in the city will insist on blowing out the gas notwithstanding all the newspaper jokes on the subject. To provide against such accidents, a citizen of Ashland, Wis., has invented a little apparatus that is intended to be attached to every gas fixture in a hotel. The breath of a person who attempts to blow out the gas tilts a delicately balanced electrode and closes a circuit, giving an alarm in the office. Another kind of alarm, patented by a Chicago man, notifies the householder of escaping gas. If you are afraid of pickpockets, you can obtain protection by wearing a small machine that makes a big disturbance in case anybody tries to put his hand into your pocket.

Even after death you may find alarms a service. If a grave robber comes along, a torpedo placed in the coffin for that purpose will blow him to smithereens. Supposing that the disturbance wakes you to life again, a clockwork mechanism will start a bell to ringing, while a red flag runs up to the top of the tombstone, giving notice that a prompt resurrection is desired. Speaking of waking up suggests mention of some odd contrivances for doing necessary things before getting out of bed in the morning. One of these, patented by a lazy Vermonter, enables one to turn on the draft of a stove or furnace and then turn over for a supplementary snooze. This, however, is a primitive contrivance compared with the invention of a resident of Providence which provides for the feeding of a whole stableful of live stock at daybreak. Mr. Sleepy Head simply turns on his pillow and jerks a cord, which opens a valve in the stable and lets down the requisite quantity of feed into a trough.

There are quite a number of inventions for lighting the fire in the morning without getting out of bed. They are all operated by clockwork. The best of them is credited to an Illinois genius. A clock is set for a certain time, and when the proper minute is reached the mechanism "throws" a lever, which draws a match across a piece of sandpaper and ignites the kindling. One of the latest patents is for a street lamp which has a clockwork apparatus attached to it. At the correct moment for which the machine is set it closes an electric circuit, at the same time opening the gas pipe. Immediately the gas is ignited, and it burns until shut off by the clockwork at daybreak in the morning. In this way the street lamps all over a city may be made to light themselves simultaneously without the intervention of human hands.

A citizen of Austin is the author of a sort of water clock that is wound by rain. On the roof of a house is a trough that catches the rainwater, which flows into the tank. When the tank is filled to a certain point, it empties the water into a bucket which is connected by a cord with the winding drum of an ordinary clock. The bucket falls and by its weight pulls up the clock weight, thus winding the clock. Finally the bucket reaches the floor, when a valve in its bottom opens and the water runs out. Then it ascends and resumes its original position, so as to be ready to wind the clock up again after awhile. —Washington Cor. Philadelphia Times.

We know the great cures of Hood's Sarsaparilla are genuine because the people themselves write about them.

BEFORE THE RAILROADS.

When Philadelphia Was the Greatest City In the American Colonies.

In 1774 Philadelphia was the largest town in the American colonies. Estimates of the population, which are all we have, differ widely, but it was probably not far from 30,000. A single city now has a larger population than all the colonies possessed in 1774, and there are in the United States today 104 cities and towns of over 30,000 inhabitants. Figures alone, however, cannot express the difference between those days and our own. Now a town of 30,000 people is reached by railroads and telegraphs. It is in close touch with all the rest of the world. Business brings strangers to it constantly, who come like shadows and so depart, unnoticed, except by those with whom they are immediately concerned. It was not so in 1774, not even in Philadelphia, which was as nearly as possible the central point of the colonies as well as the most populous city.

Thanks to the energy and genius of Franklin, Philadelphia was paved, lighted and ordered in a way almost unknown in any other town of that period. It was well built and thriving. Business was active, and the people were thrifty and prosperous and lived well. Yet, despite all these good qualities, we must make an effort of the imagination to realize how quietly and slowly life moved then in comparison to the pace of today.

There in Philadelphia was the center of the postal system of the continent, and the recently established mail coach called the "Flying Machine," not in jest but in praise, performed the journey to New York in the hitherto unequaled time of two days. Another mail at longer intervals crept more slowly to the south. Vessels of the coastwise traffic or from beyond seas came into port at uncertain times and after long and still more uncertain voyages. The daily round of life was so regular and so quiet that any incident or any novelty drew interest and attention in a way which would now be impossible.

Free Trial To Any Honest Man

The Foremost Medical Company in the World in the Cure of Weak Men Makes this Offer.

HEALTH AND ENERGY ASSURED. HAPPY MARRIAGE, GOOD TEMPER, LONG LIFE.

In all the world to-day—in all the history of the world—no doctor nor institution has treated and restored so many men as has the famed ERIE MEDICAL CO. of Buffalo, N. Y.

This is due to the fact that the company controls some inventions and discoveries which have no equal in the whole realm of medical science.

So much deception has been practiced in advertising that this grand old company now for the first time makes this startling offer:—

They will send their costly and magically effective appliance and a whole month's course of restorative remedies, positively on trial without one penny to any honest and reliable man!

Not a dollar need be advanced—not a penny paid—till results are known to and acknowledged by the patient.

The Erie Medical Company's appliance and remedies have been talked about and written about all over the world, till every man has heard of them.

They restore or create strength, vigor, healthy vital fluid, new life.

They quickly stop drains on the system that sap the energy.

They cure nervousness, despondency and all the effects of evil habits, excesses, overwork, etc.

They give full strength, development and tone to every portion and organ of the body.

Failure is impossible and age is no barrier.

This "Trial without Expense" offer is limited by the company to a short time, and application must be made at once.

No C. O. D. scheme, no bogus philanthropy nor deception, no exposure—a clean business proposition by a company of high financial and professional standing.

Write to the ERIE MEDICAL COMPANY, BUFFALO, N. Y., and refer to seeing the statement of their offer in this paper.

When a young woman starts out in married life with a modest home containing just the bare necessities, she pictures herself in the future the mistress of a stately mansion, containing the comforts and luxuries of life. In that dreamland of the future there will be rich carpets on the floors, fine paintings on the walls, a magnificent sideboard loaded with silver and dainty tableware in the dining room, musical instruments, books and all that the heart of a sybarite could yearn for, and—a baby.

To either man or woman, all the comforts and all the luxuries of life and all the wealth in the world soon become a bore and a weariness, unless there is a baby for whom they can both contrive and plan and work. A woman who, through ignorance or neglect, suffers from weakness and disease of the delicate and important organs concerned in wifehood and motherhood, blasts all these hopes. Either she will be childless, or will lose her own life in the struggle of maternity, or her babies will be born puny, sickly and peevish and unable to withstand the ordinary ailments of childhood. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription surely and completely cures all these delicate complaints. It is the discovery of one of the most eminent living specialists in women's diseases,—Dr. R. V. Pierce, for thirty years chief consulting physician to the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, at Buffalo, N. Y. The "Favorite Prescription" acts directly upon the sensitive organism concerned. It imparts to it health, strength, vigor, virility and elasticity. It fits for wifehood and motherhood. It robs maternity of its perils and insures a healthy, robust child.

Moonstruck.

The moon has been held responsible for many extraordinary influences it is supposed to have had upon human beings. Some hold it responsible for lunacy, while others affirm that more people die at the time of the full moon than at any other period. It seems, however, to have been undoubtedly proved that the moon has a great effect on health and life.

Two very extraordinary cases have been put forward in support of this theory. These both refer to people whose fingers have been moonstruck. The first is that of a young man who always felt at the time of the full moon a peculiar sensation in the thumb nail of his left hand. His finger nail invariably began to bleed at precisely the time when the moon came to its full.

The other case is that of an older man, who from his fifty-third to his fifty-fifth year always suffered from what is described as a "periodical evacuation of blood from the extremity of the forefinger of his right hand."

A celebrated doctor mentions another curious case of the startling effect the moon had on a certain young lady. With the increase of the moon she invariably became plump and exceedingly handsome and pleasant to look upon. When the moon decreased, however, her face and figure began to undergo a change. She became haggard and positively ugly; so much so indeed that she made it a custom to exclude herself from society for some days after the moon had commenced its decrease.—Pearson's Weekly.

Some years ago while preaching at Hamilton, Ont., he was deposed from the ministry for preaching against slavery, after having been repeatedly warned to desist. At this time he was prominent in abolition matters, and was an intimate friend of Garret Smith. He once served as superintendent of the Sailors' Home at Milwaukee, Wis.

European Travel.

Children are taken abroad so young that before they have reached an age to appreciate what they see Europe has become a twice told tale to them. So true is this that a recipe for making your children good Americans is to bring them up abroad. Once they get back here, it is hard to entice them away again. With each improvement in the speed of our steamers vanishes something of the glamour of Europe, and the crowds that yearly rush across see less and appreciate less in a lifetime than our parents did in their one tour abroad.—Exchange.

Thoughts.

Thoughts are certainly able to spread themselves without the aid of looks or language. Invisible seed that floats from the parent plant can root itself wherever it settles, and thoughts must have some medium through which they sail till they reach minds that can take them in, and there they strike root, and whole crops of the same sort come up just as if they were indigenous and naturally belonging to their entertainers. This is even more true in great matters than in small.—Jean Ingelow.

Bad Every Way.

"Thirteen is an unlucky number in all cases," said Jarley.

"I don't know," said Butler. "I'd rather have $13 than $12."

"I wouldn't," said Jarley. "If I had $12, I'd spend only $12, but if I had $13 I'd spend $13."—Harlem Life.

THE DELEGATES SPEAK.

A Report on the Proceedings of the Recent Convention in Brantford.

Association Hall was well filled with men yesterday afternoon when Mr. H. H. Buxton and J. W. Bennett gave interesting addresses on the proceedings of the 28th annual convention of the Young Men's Christian Association, recently held in Brantford.

Mr. Buxton spoke first and outlined the various addresses given, as well as a synopsis of the Bible readings by Rev. Elmore Harris, of Toronto, who had charge of that department.

He said he had attended a number of conventions but this was the best.

In his remarks he emphasized the spiritual side of the work, which was its strength.

Referring to a paper given by Mr. W. B. Miller, of the International Committee, Mr. Buxton said the Young Men's Christian Association stood for "work for young men by young men."

The aims of an ideal association are: 1, prevention; 2, training and developing of men; 3, to save the young men of America; 4, to counteract the saloon influence.

Personal responsibility upon each member was duly emphasized.

Mr. C. S. Kerr, of Woodstock, gave a paper at the convention on an "Ideal Member."

He is one who has the highest interests of men before him in mind, spirit and body. An ideal member must be a young man in heart—a living embodiment of association methods and a student of human nature.

Mr. Buxton referred also to the address of Mr Frank Ober, editor of Men, on the "Science of Manipulation" or the management of men. Also the address of Rev. G. H. Kimball, of Aylmer, on "The Association, the Right Hand of the Church." It stands for (1) strength, (2) skill, (3) unity, (4) aggression, (5) activity, (6) welcome, (7) honour.

Mr. J. W. Bennet commenced his address by referring to the magnitude of the work and the fact that association work embraced all classes while particular work was planned and carried on for particular classes, not only college men and railway men. Mr. Bennet gave a brief but interesting report.

The singing evangelists sang several touching selections during the meeting, which were highly appreciated.

CHURCH CHIMES.

ST. LUKE'S CHURCH NOTES.

The services at St. Mark's and Allendale were taken yesterday by Mr. Baskell, of Trinity College.

Rev. H. Symonds will lecture at Millbrook this evening on behalf of the Public Library of that village.

Mr. J. J. Turner, jr., conducted services yesterday at Havelock in the absence of Rev. J. H. McGinnis.

The Men's Chapter of the Guild will meet on Tuesday evening at Mr. Charles Curtis' house. Under the auspices of the same Chapter, a concert will be given in St. Luke's school house on February 7th.

The Magnificat and Nunc Dimittis recently published by Mr. Davies, organist of St. Luke's, has been rendered in Trinity church, Buffalo. The choice of this music by the organist of Trinity church, who is a Musical Doctor of Oxford, England, is a sufficient guarantee of the excellence of the composition.

Rev. H. Symonds is holding a class in English Church History, for the study of that period selected by the Church of England Sunday School Institute for the teachers' examination next Advent. The class now consists of seventeen members. It is not too late to join, and any who desire to spend a few hours in the study of the history of their Church are cordially invited to attend. The next meeting is on Thursday next at 8:00 o'clock at the Rectory.

Mr. E. A. Peck having been appointed Rector's Warden of St. Luke's church, has resigned the superintendency of the Sunday school. Yesterday afternoon the Rector announced that he had appointed Mr. D Spence, the librarian, to be superintendent. Mr. Clement Macfadden succeeds Mr. Spence as librarian, and Mr. George Grange has accepted the position of assistant librarian. With Mr. H. Adams as secretary-treasurer, the Sunday school has a most efficient staff of officers.

NOTES.

Messrs. H. J. Rines and Bert Rines, of Hamilton, gospel temperance evangelists, sang two duets at the Charlotte street Methodist church last night with great acceptance.

A memorial service in connection with the death of the late R. D. Hamilton, was held yesterday morning in St. Paul's church, when the pastor, Rev. Dr. Torrance, spoke very touchingly of the deceased. Appropriate music was rendered by the choir.

Rev. Mr. Erb of Lakefield, and Rev. A. T. Dykeman of the Murray street Baptist church, exchanged pulpits on Sunday. Mr. Dykeman took the anniversary services at Warsaw.

MEETING OF PARLIAMENT.

Cabinet Considering the Terms of the Speech From the Throne.

ORDEAL OF A MAIDEN SPEECH.

The Dominion Artillery Association Gun Competitions—Reindeer for Transportation Work—The U. S. Relief Expedition to the Yukon—It Will Leave Portland To-morrow—Ottawa Notes.

Ottawa, Jan. 31.—Parliament meets this week, and the Cabinet will to-day consider the terms of the speech from the throne to be delivered by Lord Aberdeen on Thursday. Mr. Speaker Edgar is expected here this evening from Toronto. There are several new members of both Houses to be introduced, and the movers and seconders of the address in reply to the speech from the throne will be chosen from among them, according to a curious practice, under which the ordeal of a maiden speech in Parliament is intensified by having the whole House listening attentively to the debutante. If a new member speaks amid the usual noise and inattention of the House of Commons he can worry through the perspiring effort much better. Mr. Mills, the new Minister of Justice, will appear in the Senate in the capacity of Government leader, a delicate and responsible task that he is fully competent to discharge. The militia orders for escorts and guards of honor are out. On Saturday evening his Excellency the Governor-General and the Countess of Aberdeen will hold a drawing room in the Senate Chamber. His Excellency desires to intimate that he will be glad of the services of as many officers of the militia and staff as can be spared for duty in the throne room on the occasion of the drawing room on Saturday.

A RAILROAD HORROR.

The Maine Provincial Express Derailed on Saturday—Miraculously Small Loss of Life—Others May Die.

Old Town, Maine, Jan. 31.—The St. John train, No. 29, or what is called here the Provincial Express, was wrecked in the cut at Orono Basin Mills at 3.45 Saturday afternoon, and six cars, including the smoker, were turned topsy turvy into the ditch. One of the passenger cars, in which were a large number of people, was almost entirely demolished. Two persons were killed and more than a score injured, several probably fatally. The dead are: Jennie S. Murray, St. Stephen, N.B.; Mrs. D. Cunningham, Troy, Maine.

The probably fatally injured are: Daniel Cunningham, Troy, Maine, badly crushed about head and legs; Howard L. Maddow, Skowhegan, Me., student at University of Maine, fractured skull; Stanley Bean, Berlin Falls, N.H., compound fracture of skull; C. E. Whittier, Skowhegan, internally injured and cut about head; Mrs. John Treat, Enfield, Me., fracture of ribs, scalp wounds and other injuries; Julian H. Merrill, Portland, spine injured.

ST. JEAN BAPTISTE CHURCH.

It Was Destroyed With Chapel and Presbytery by Fire—Loss, $300,000.

Montreal, Que., Jan. 31.—St. Jean Baptiste Church, the chapel adjoining, and the presbytery were totally destroyed by fire on Saturday. They were situated in the plot bounded by Drolet, Rachel and Sanguinet streets in the northern portion of the city. The loss, which will be between $150,000 and $200,000, is partially covered by insurance. The chapel, fronting on Sanguinet street, was the private property of Rev. Cure Magloire Auclair, and was valued at $35,000. Happily the fire was unattended with loss of life. The cure and his six curates, who reside in the presbytery, were aroused at the very outset, and co-operated with the firemen and other willing workers in saving property. The only dramatic feature was the alarm created by the seemingly long absence of Cure Auclair, who had rushed from the street into his residence to secure valuable documents lying in his library. Several firemen and a priest forced the cure to withdraw.

WRECK OF THE CORONA.

Crew and Passengers, Numbering 247, Were All Saved.

Montreal, Jan. 31.—Word was received by the Canadian Pacific Railway passenger department yesterday conveying the information that the steamers Corona and Coquitlam have been wrecked on the Northern Pacific coast. The former is a large vessel belonging to the Pacific Coast Steamship Company, carrying 247 passengers, and is a total wreck. She sailed from Seattle, Wash., Jan. 20. The Coquitlam, a small boat with 40 passengers, sailed from Vancouver on the same date. No particulars are given regarding the safety of the passengers. Both vessels were engaged in the carrying of passengers who are bound for the Klondike.

Cracking The Acorns and Blotting Out Prices

These are the days in which people are buying where they can buy cheap. They don't care a fig for commercial ethics. They dote on Bargains. Cheapness captivates them. When once the people are convinced that a store really sells GOOD GOODS CHEAP their patronage is secured. If its prices are at cost, well and good; if below cost, so much the better.

Blotting Out Oak Hall Prices and writing them down to a fraction of their former selves, is what we are busy doing every day with the Oak Hall Stock. These altered prices speak for themselves. All the price tickets show that Oak Hall Prices are back numbers, although the Clothing is UP-TO-DATE.

THE THIRD WEEK of Gough's TRIUMPHANT Sale of the Oak Hall Stock shall be a Banner Week, with inducements greater than ever.

THE TALE OF THE TILL!

Since we adopted the Spot Cash System, the cash is flowing more freely into the till. Our most esteemed patrons commend our new plan heartily, as they note the substantial results in still further Reduced Prices. But the best prized ecomiums come from new patrons—people specially particular about qualities, and who buy whenever they can buy the cheapest. "CASH AND ONE PRICE" (if that price is the lowest) is the drawing fashion of modern trade.

THE PREMIER AT KINGSTON.

He Speaks at the Harty Ratification Meeting.

A MANLY AND VIGOROUS SPEECH.

A Great and Admiring Tribute to the Hon. William Harty, Which an Enthusiastic Meeting Endorses—The Government's Record—Progress of the Campaign—Nominations Yesterday.

Kingston, Feb. 1.—(Special.)—The Liberals of Kingston last evening gathered in the Opera House to emphasize their appreciation of the course which Hon. Mr. Harty has pursued in the Legislature, and also to welcome to Kingston Hon. Mr. Hardy, Attorney-General of the Province. The gathering was most enthusiastic, and demonstrated that Hon. Mr. Harty has lost none of his old-time popularity, and that the Liberals of Kingston are united in their appreciation of the magnificent record of the Government of which he is a distinguished and popular member, and in their determination to again return him at the polls to represent them in the interests of economy and honest government. The reception to Hon. Mr. Hardy was flattering to a degree, and the enthusiasm displayed was a presage of victory in the forthcoming contest. The Opera House was crowded with enthusiastic and devoted admirers, who presented Hon. Mr. Harty with the resolutions tendering him the unanimous nomination of the Liberals in convention. Hon. Mr. Harty, who was received with an ovation, made a brief speech of acceptance, and gave way to

The Premier of the Province.

Hon. Mr. Hardy, in reply to the address presented him, made a characteristic speech replete with argument and constituting a complete defence of his administration. He returned his thanks for the honor done him and the kindly words contained in the address presented to him, and especially for the observations in reference to his personal character and transactions as being honorable and governed by the rules of integrity. After referring to the honorable history of the County of Frontenac he expressed his pleasure at being privileged to be present upon this occasion to take some part in the nomination of his true and trusty colleague, Hon. Mr. Harty—(cheers)—whose name, when the history of the province came to be written, would be recognized as one worthy of admiration and respect among the many historic sons of Kingston. To know him, he declared, is to honor him, to know him well is to love him; and if there has been one thing more than another which excited the regrets of himself and of his colleagues it was when they feared that Hon. Mr. Harty would be compelled to retire, being, as they thought, upon the point of breaking down. But twice the Great Healer has shown a better way. There was no time when they were prepared to say good-bye to him, and unless there was an absolute break-down, or an absolute severance from his colleagues on his part, they would not surrender their claim upon him; he is a prince of business men, has an instinct for public affairs. No department was ever better managed than was William Harty's when he had his health, and he is acting and assisting in its management again; and he was happy to say that he had been able to do what he had to assist him, and his colleagues had also gladly extended a helping hand during Mr. Harty's disability by sickness. He was glad to know that his physician had told him that he is on the high road to recovery.

Referring to the record of the Government, as opposed to the lack of policy of the Opposition, and the charges against the Government, about which Mr. Whitney fulminates, Mr. Hardy characterized them as trivial, and he urged the electors of Kingston, when Mr. Whitney came to talk to them, to urge him to tell them what his policy is, what constructive legislation he would pass if elected, and to point out any improper acts of the Government which he seeks to overturn during their twenty-five years of administration.

The Government's Record.

Turning to a review of the legislation which the Government had placed upon the statute book, Mr. Hardy pointed to the commendation of the Dominion Trades and Labor Congress, the president of which declared that the Government had gone so far in legislation on the labor question that they needed to ask for no further legislation, and the committees of that body which had charge of legislation publicly thanked the Government for what it had done for the protection of the workingmen, and he pointed with pride to the fact that during the first year of his administration he had placed no less than seven or eight important labor measures upon the statute book. Various Acts had been enacted in protecting workmen employed on public works and railways in the payment of their wages; the Wage-Earners' Act had been extended and its operations rendered less costly; an Act respecting bakeshops and for applying the Factory Act to shops, providing that no child under ten years of age should work in a shop, no youth under 18, and no woman should work after 6 o'clock except on one day in the week, and imposing penalties for not providing chairs or seats for women employes; that a place for them during lunch hour should be provided so that they would not be turned out on the streets to eat their lunch; a step had also been put to the immigration of criminal and pauper children; the Act respecting the councils of conciliation and arbitration was also amended; an Act providing that wages should be a lien upon the estates of deceased persons, provision was made for the establishment of technical schools for the workingmen, and also for the encouragement of the manufacture of iron and steel within the province, and foreign labor had been excluded from the lumbering camps. All of these were calculated to benefit the workingmen and protect them, and he pointed out that not a workman in Kingston but received advantage from them. The Government had also inserted a clause in the recent contracts, and it would be inserted in future contracts, that contractors must pay the highest or union rate of wages, and wherever possible to do so regulations had been made to prevent the sweating system in connection with public contracts. The result of each of these various measures was received with hearty applause, which indicated that the audience fully appreciated the consideration of these vital interests. The credit for having first given the ballot to the young men without property qualification was also claimed, and the reference to the fact that had the numbered ballot been in use at the recent Dominion election there would probably have been twenty men sent to jail for ballot stuffing instead of one was received with approbation. He asked what Mr. Whitney had done for the province in the way of constructive legislation, and asserted that Mr. Haycock had put more legislation on the statute book than Mr. Whitney and all his followers, and he was not a lawyer either.

The Surplus.

Taking up the question of the surplus, Mr. Hardy showed that more than every dollar of Sandfield Macdonald's surplus was pledged and appropriated before the present Government came into power, and declared that his Government would never hoard up a large surplus, but would expend the revenues of the province in building it up and developing its resources. In conclusion he said that he had good news to bring from the West, and hoped to be able to take back good news from the East, and that Kingston would again return Mr. Harty to represent her in the Legislature and Government, a result which the audience assured him by enthusiastic cheers would be obtained.

Dr. McKay Renominated.

Ingersoll, Feb. 1.—At Mt. Elgin yesterday the Reformers of South Oxford nominated Dr. McKay, M.P.P., who praised the Hardy Government and gave an account of his stewardship in his speech of acceptance.

Waterloo, Feb. 1.—Yesterday the Liberal convention, which met here, nominated Dr. Clemens of Berlin.

Mr. James Phin Nominated.

Galt, Feb. 1.—James P. Phin of the township of Waterloo was chosen by the Liberals in convention here over Mr. J. D. Moore, M.P.P., to contest South Waterloo in the coming contest.

Dr. Ryerson Finally Declines.

Toronto, Feb. 1.—Dr. Ryerson has given his final answer, which is that he will not be a candidate for the representation of East Toronto in the new Assembly.

No Three Cornered Contest.

Kingston, Feb. 1.—Hon. A. S. Hardy met the Frontenac Liberals yesterday afternoon and they debated whether to have a candidate in the field or let Haycock try it alone. Mr. Hardy said if the Liberals could win, have a candidate; if not, then a Patron member would be better than a straight Conservative. The meeting decided to withdraw the Liberal candidate, D. A. McRae.

THE TRADE OF CANADA

The Trade and Navigation Returns for 1895-6.

OUR COMMERCE IS INCREASING.

Putting Up Their Money—The Finance Minister Has Received the $250,000 Deposit to Be Put Up by Messrs. McKenzie and Mann for Stipulated Security to Build a Yukon Railway.

Ottawa Feb. 1.—The trade and navigation returns of Canada for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1896, have been issued by the Customs Department. The arrangement of the tables is improved very much, to the credit of the statistical officer in charge. The exports and imports, which together make the total trade, were, compared with the previous four years, as follows:

	Exports.	Imports.	Total.
1893—	$116,564,000	$129,074,000	$247,088,000
1894—	$117,524,000	$123,474,000	$240,999,000
1895—	$113,638,000	$110,781,000	$224,420,000
1896—	$121,018,000	$118,011,000	$239,025,000
1897—	$137,950,000	$119,218,000	$257,168,000

The excess of exports was, therefore, $18,781,000, against an excess in 1896 of $3,002,000, or a percentage of excess of 15.71, against 2.5 in 1896. Of the imports, $111,294,000 were entered for consumption and of the exports $123,959,000 represented the products of Canada, including coin and bullion. The dutiable imports were $74,108,000, and the free $45,110,000, against $67,389,000 and $43,847,000 respectively in 1896. The duty collected was $19,891,000, compared with $20,219,000 in 1896.

Imports, dutiable and free, from the United Kingdom and United States for two years were:

Great Britain—1896—Dutiable, $24,366,000; free, $36,613,000. 1897—Dutiable, $20,190,000; free, $9,150,000.

United States—1896—Dutiable, $39,101,000; free, $39,463,000. 1897—Dutiable, $8,953,400; free, $31,981,000.

THE ONTARIO GOVERNMENT AND LABOUR INTERESTS.

The old Latin saw runs, "Labor omnia vincit," — labour overcomes all things. It is, perhaps, not improper in the interests of exactness to suggest a modification of the old proverb thus, Labor omnia creat—labour creates all things. For, except in rare cases, and in the most primitive conditions, labour is at the root of all things made ready for the use of man. All wealth, all capital, as distinguished from the largess of nature, all human comforts, conveniences, refinements, and all human necessities and luxuries, owe themselves to some form of labour. The interests of labour, as the indispensible requisite to all human progress, and even happiness, and therefore the most important, should be the first care of the state, and that state that recognizes that obligation is most alive to its duty and most fit to serve the people. The Government of Ontario has recognised more fully this obligation than any other government in the world. The statues of the Province contain thirty-eight distinct acts of the Legislature designed to protect, subserve and promote the interests of those who toil.

Hardly had the Government taken power than (in 1873) it passed the Mechanics' Lien Act, for the protection of mechanics, machinists and builders from loss on account of labour or material furnished in the erection of building or machinery; and the original Act has been amended from time to time to make it more simple and more comprehensive.

An Act to further facilitate the enforcement of the just rights of wage-earners and sub-contractors, provides that every device or scheme that affects the priority of the rights of wage earners shall, ipso facto, be null and void. Another section facilitates the collection of wages under the Master and Servants' Act, which has been a great boon to this class. In 1895 the Act in question was extended and consolidated and now covers almost any case that may arise, and extends to all corporations. The act as amended gives satisfaction and is now as perfect as such a law can be made.

The Ontario Government not only protects the wages but the persons and lives of workmen. The Employers' Liability Act of 1886 secures compensation to employees for personal injuries arising from defective machinery, from negligence of superintendents, from obedience to the orders of fellow-employees placed in authority, from the operation of employers' regulations, from the negligence of railway signal-men, etc. The different kinds of defects that make a railway company liable are specified. The Act has been repeatedly amended in the interests of employees.

In 1886 "The Factories Act" became law. It protects the health of children, girls and women employed in factories, limits the age of children's employment, requires the guarding of machinery to prevent accident, requires that factories shall be kept in proper sanitary condition, requires fire escapes and means of putting out fires, and clothes the inspectors (male and female) with power to enforce the provisions of the Act, which places the factory labourers of Ontario in as good a position as those of any country in the world.

In 1882 an Act was passed making railways liable in respect of compensation to employees for injuries sustained through failure of the companies to make the changes on their bridges, tracks and freight cars required by the Act.

In 1873 two important acts were passed to facilitate arrangements between masters and workmen for sharing profits, and to facilitate the settlement of disputes between masters and workmen.

On the same line is the important act passed in 1894 for the establishment of Courts of conciliation to provide for the friendly settlement of disputes between employers and employed, and to thus prevent the injury to both parties almost always resulting from strikes. The Act defines how the council shall be selected, and the mode of procedure.

An Act was passed in 1885 to facilitate the collection of wages of workmen. In case of failure of an employer, the workman's wages up to three months, are a claim before that of other creditors, and the same provision applies to the affairs of a company under liquidation, and applies to all wage earners, whether by the day, week or piece.

The act of 1889 facilitates the enforcement of decisions under the Master and Servant Act in the interest of the servant. The Revised Statutes of 1897 gives a servant a chance to employ the services of any Justice of the Peace to enforce the payment of wages.

In 1886 an Act was passed to discourage the practice of contractors advancing money to foreigners, by making it impossible for the employer to recover the money advanced in case the foreign labourer sees fit to break his engagement. This makes it difficult for a contractor to bring in cheap foreign labour to compete with home labour.

An Act of 1874 relieves the wages of a workman under $25 from seizure or garnishment for debt—so that an unfortunate labourer or workman cannot be left entirely penniless.

An Act of 1891 gives lumbermen in Algoma, Thunder Bay, and Rainy River districts, a lien on the logs got out, and this was with other Acts, extended to other districts.

An Act of 1896 permits any workman in a town or city to have from 12 to 2 o'clock on polling day to cast his vote, and he shall not incur any penalty therefore, nor be "docked," provided, if his employer requires it, he shall make up for his absence by an extra hour's work.

An Act of 1892 provides for the registration of a benefit society under a lawfully incorporated Trades Union. The act of 1894 facilitates the incorporation of benefit societies, the cheapest insurance for a man of limited means.

The Mines Act of 1892, limits the age at which boys shall be employed in mines to 15 years of age, and it also provides stringent regulations for preventing accidents to workmen, and imposes severe penalties upon mine owners for neglect of provisions for protecting the persons and lives of workmen.

The Creditors' Relief Act of 1892 was amended by providing that all persons in the employment of an execution debtor at the time of seizure by the sheriff or within one month before that, shall be entitled to have paid to them three months wages before the claims of other creditors can be made—another means of protecting the interests of the workingman and securing to him the results of his toil.

In 1895 the Factories Act was further amended with the object of further protecting the interest of employees in factories, and provides large penalties for neglect on the part of proprietors.

In 1896 an Act was passed to secure the payment of wages of employees on public works. The act provides that in default of payment of wages, including teams, by a contractor, if the claim for unpaid wages is filed by the employee with the department within two months, and proof furnished, the amount of such claim may be paid by the minister out of the money or securities deposited by the contractor with the Government. A member of the Government may require a contractor, under heavy penalties for default, to file with the Department a list of names of employees, wages paid and unpaid. One of the conditions of a contract, when a railway or other work is bonused by the Government, is that a sufficient sum shall be held back by the Government to secure the payment of wages. Every company incorporated shall become liable for the wages of workmen and teams, whether the work be done through a contractor, sub-contractor or otherwise. Thus the act further provides for the workman being paid for his work, and prevents capital taking advantage of labour.

Another act to provide against employers taking advantage of the ignorance or necessities of their workmen was that passed in 1896, which provides that every agreement or bargain, whether written or verbal, between an employer and workmen, that will deprive such workmen of the benefits under the Master and Servants' Act, the Mechanics' Lein Act, and any other Act providing for the collection of wages, shall be null and void.

The Electric Railway Act of 1896 extends to the employees of such companies, the advantage of the liens enjoyed by workmen under the Mechanics' Lien Act and amending acts.

The Bakeshops' Act of 1896 demands that shops shall be so constructed, arranged, lighted, ventilated and equipped as to protect the health of employees, that everything shall be clean and in sanitary condition, and that shops shall be provided with proper washrooms, closets and other conveniences, separate from the bakeshop, and provides for strict inspection; that no employer shall be allowed to work men more than 60 hours per week, except by special permission; that no employee affected with consumption, scrofula or any venereal disease, shall be permitted to work in a bake shop.

The year 1897 was very fruitful in legislation in the interests of labour, no less than seven specific laws in its interests having been placed on the statute books.

An amendment to the Railway Act provides that the fact of a railway servant continuing in the employ of the company, knowing of the defect or negligence which caused his injury, shall not relieve the company from responsibility in respect of damages.

Another Act gives an employee of the estate of a deceased person a first claim before other creditors for three months wages, and entitles him to rank equally with other creditors for any amount over three months wages.

Another Act provides for facilitating the amicable settlement of trades disputes by means of a Council of Conciliation.

An Act respecting Shops and Places other than factories is practically a consolidation of the several acts relating to the employment of persons in other places than factories. Some of the more important amendments provide that no child under ten shall be employed in a shop, and that the occupier of a shop shall provide seats for girls and permit their use by girls when not necessarily employed, and any employer who prevents by open or secret threat the use of such seats at such times shall be liable to a fine of from $10 to $25, and in default, imprisonment in jail. The Act also provides fuller methods of fire escapes, and insists on the maintenance of cleanliness, etc., for the comfort of employees.

The Bakeshop's Act was greatly improved in the interests of workmen.

The Immigration of Children Act regulates the immigration of children into Ontario, provides for the protection of such children and also provides penalties for bringing into the country children of diseased conditions, defective intellect or vicious or criminal habits, or any child whose parents have been criminals, lunatics or confirmed paupers or diseased.

The Act of 1897 relates to Technical Schools for the teaching of trades in municipalities, and permits municipalities to make grants, and that the provisions of the High Schools Act shall apply to such schools. This is a direct benefit to mechanics who wish to improvr their condition in their respective trades.

The legislation thus briefly summarized, represents a code of laws placed upon the statute book by the government of Ontario in the interests of those who toil, which has for the purposes aimed at no superior in any country in the world, and its value can perhaps only be appreciated by contemplating the condition in which the workmen, in relation to the rights and privileges he now enjoys by virtue of such legislation, would be placed if by some power all these laws for his benefit were swept from the statute book. Not only has the government, by these laws, guarded the interests of the workmen, but they have practiced what they preached by introducing the nine hour system, and in some cases the eight hour system, where mechanics and other skilled workmen on works under the immediate direction of the Public Works Department at Toronto, and this also extends to labourers upon like works. Besides in letting the contracts to the lowest tenderers for preparing, printing and binding the cash and account books to be used by municipalities and school boards, under the new Municipal Audit Act, which, by the way, aims to prevent fraud by treasurers, the Government stipulated: That the contractors should perform the work in Ontario, and shall pay the highest or union wages for all work to be done under the contract.

In the matter of advanced legislation in the interests of labour, the Province of Ontario holds the first place, and the Government has shown that as far as the state could go in protecting and promoting the interests of labour, it has been the friend of the workingman, and therefore deserves the gratitude of the toilers of Ontario, whose rights have received such practical, recognition at its hands.

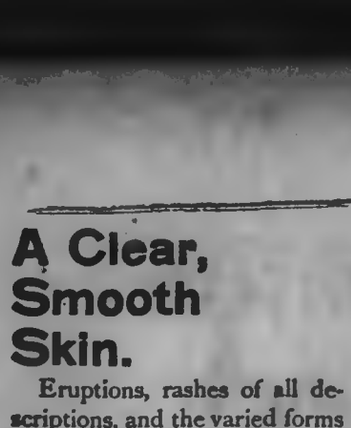
A Clear, Smooth Skin.

Eruptions, rashes of all descriptions, and the varied forms of skin diseases are essentially the result of impure blood.

The wonderful cures wrought by Burdock Blood Bitters in such diseases as Eczema, Salt Rheum, Tetter, Shingles, Erysipelas, etc., are on account of its marvellous blood purifying and blood enriching qualities.



It makes the skin clear by making the blood pure.

No better beautifier than B.B.B.

Mrs. R. E. Lees, Fenelon Falls, Ont., says: "I feel thankful to say that through the use of B.B.B. I am strong and healthy to-day. I was troubled with eczema, which broke out all over my body in a scarlet rash and then turned to large sores, some as large as a 25 cent piece. I tried two doctors and they did me little good. At last I got Burdock Blood Bitters and took four bottles which entirely cured me and I cannot say too much in its praise. It has made my skin clear and smooth."

AMERICAN LUMBER SUPPLY.

The Planting of Forests Likely to Be an Important Industry.

Looking not very far into the future, it seems that the planting of American forests will become a productive industry. Preservation of old forests, with their masses of dry underbrush and fire inviting collections of dry leaves, may be advisable for some reasons. These immense masses of firewood undoubtedly tend to collect snow, which, by its gradual melting, furnishes a supply to the water reservoirs beneath the surface of the ground. Snow thaws less quickly under the shade of trees than in the bright sunlight. Less water, therefore, runs to supply floods and freshets than when the snow is made to pass away gradually. But this question does not affect the solid timber interests.

In old forests, where there is a struggle for life among the trees by reason of their growing so thickly together, the result is the necessity of waiting many years before the trees will reach a size to make them desirable for timber purposes. Where trees have room to grow and are properly cared for most kinds of American trees will furnish useful timber in 20 or 30 years, and for many other purposes they can be employed even younger. It takes well on to a century for the struggling trees in a dense wood to have any marketable value.

While good timber is becoming gradually scarcer on account of our annual forest fires, rising from the conditions already stated, the demand is increasing, and, what is more remarkable, Europe is already calling on America for a supply of lumber. American oak especially is in great demand in the old world, while our black walnut is closely following in its wake. Our lighter woods also—such as the tulip tree and poplar—are coming into great demand there for packing boxes and cases where light weight is a great object. Those who are interested in forestry in our country should take up the matter of encouragement of forest planting. It will soon be a greater question than forest preservation.—Meehan's Monthly.

TOSSED BY THE HURRICANE.

The Shorn "Colonel" and the Wrecked "Captain" Dine Together.

Two men who had been chums in a western town before a financial hurricane hit it met for the first time in years in a Sixth avenue eating house the other day. In the days of their prosperity one of them was a political lever and was called colonel. He had been on the governor's staff. The other in some way had acquired the title of captain. Both had front seats in every event of the town in which they had lived. The governor's ornament is now a plain bookkeeper in Broad street. The other man is a dry goods clerk.

After greetings, explanations and a few mournful references to perished delights, they had a combination meal, and if you don't know what that is you have never had any trouble, and any one who casts a shadow is worse than a heathen. When the meal was over, the two old friends walked out and stood for a few minutes under the splutter of an arc light. As they were parting the man who used to ride the big bay horse in the governor's parade, and who had commanded the populace of his town to stand back, said in a low, mournerlike tone:

"If you come to see me, don't call me colonel. Nobody knows me as colonel now. I am just an employee on a salary."

The arc light spluttered again as the little man replied in a squeaky, hall bedroom voice:

"And if you come to see me just call me, 'Say, you!' That's what everybody calls me in the store."

"Well, goodby, captain."

"So long, colonel."

It was the first time they had heard the titles in years and each walked away with a lighter step and lighter heart.—New York Sun.

DUTIES OF CHRISTIAN LIFE.

No Virtue In One's Daily Actions Unless It Is Established In the Soul.

"The obligations and duties of the Christian life are not all external," writes Cardinal Gibbons, pointing out a religious life to young men, in The Ladies' Home Journal. "They are mainly material and must proceed from the heart. There is no virtue in one's daily actions unless it be first established in the soul and is only an external expression of the soul's convictions or prolongation of heartfelt sentiments. Yet the external practice of Christian virtues and the performance of Christian duties pertain to the integrity, if not to the essential character, of the Christian life. The interior sentiments soon perish without external expression, as life and bodily powers become extinct without due and proper exercise or employment.

"However, as the external duties are not absolutely and under all circumstances essential, they vary both in number and frequency according to environments and opportunities. A business man cannot do all that a clergyman is expected to do, a man in trade not what a man in leisure can accomplish nor a man of the world all that is possible and easy to one who keeps himself from society. But all, no matter where, no matter what their engagements and secular pursuits, how little or how much time they can call their own, can and are obliged to perform daily acts of prayer and religion and accomplish many duties of virtue and charity. There is no condition of life which is incompatible with the dictates and principles and precepts of the Christian life."

A Mexican Custom on Good Friday.

Mrs. Sara Y. Stevenson contributes to The Century an article on "Maximilian's Empire," one of a series devoted to the French intervention in Mexico. In describing the scenes that followed the siege of Puebla Mrs. Stevenson says:

It was a Mexican custom on Good Friday to burn Judas in effigy on the Plaza Mayor. Judas was a manikin made in the shape of the person who happened to be most unpopular at the time. It was quite admissible to burn Judas under different shapes, and sometimes these summary autos-da-fe were multiplied to suit the occasion and the temper of the people. At the same time rattles were sold on the streets and universally bought alike by children and adults, by rich and poor, to grind the bones of Judas, and the objectionable noise—second in hideousness only to that of our own sending off of firecrackers on the Fourth of July—was religiously kept up all day. In the year of our Lord 1863 Judas was burned in Mexico on the Plaza Mayor under the shapes of General Forey, Napoleon III, and last, but not least, M. Dubois de Saligny, who especially was roasted with a will amid the wild execrations of the populace.

WISDOM OF CHATHAMITES

Dodd's Kidney Pills are First Favourites With Them.

Chatham, Jan. 17—The druggists of this town report most extraordinary sales of Dodd's Kidney Pills during the past few months. Every citizen is thoroughly acquainted with the sterling merits of these wonderful pills, which are admitted to be the only medicine that will completely and positively cure all blood and kidney diseases.

J. J. O'Brien of this place publishes the statement that he was cured entirely of kidney disease by Dodd's Kidney Pills, after all other remedies had failed.

Hundreds of other cures of Bright's Disease, Diabetes, Paralysis, etc., are known of here, and Dodd's Kidney Pills are the only medicine used by our citizens in cases of diseases of the kidneys and impure blood.

CENSURED BY THE VATICAN.

The Ban Placed on Le Soleil by Bishop Labreque Caused All the Trouble.

Montreal, Jan. 31.—Rome has censured one of the bishops of French Canada, and it is said that ecclesiastical history will be searched back a great number of years without finding a similar case of Vatican displeasure. Mgr. Labreque, Bishop of Chicoutimi, has taken very strong ground from the very first against the Laurier-Greenway school settlement, and during the early days of the discussion His Lordship forbade the reading of Mr. Pacaud's paper, Le Soleil, in the diocese of Chicoutimi. In a document just received by the Metropolitan at Quebec, Rome makes known to His Grace that Mgr. Labreque overstepped his power and jurisdiction in condemning Le Soleil, and that the desire is expressed that His Lordship shall withdraw his edict without delay.

AMERICA'S BEST DOCTORS

Say Dodd's Kidney Pills Are the Only Cure For Bright's Disease.

Ingersoll, Jan. 24—Only a couple of weeks ago the remarkable recovery of farmer G. J. Cooke from Kidney Disease, through the agency of Dodd's Kidney Pills, was reported.

Now the whole town is talking of a yet more extraordinary cure by that God-sent medicine.

Michael Sherlock was cured of kidney and bladder disease of five years' standing by a course of treatment with Dodd's Kidney Pills, and makes public statement of his case.

The most eminent physicians on the continent now pronounce Dodd's Kidney Pills the one and only sure, unfailing cure for Bright's Disease, Diabetes, Dropsy, Lumbago, Lame Back, Female Disease and all other kidney and blood disorders.

Fifteen Below Zero in Toronto.

Toronto, Jan. 31.—Saturday night was the coldest Toronto has experienced in some years. At 4 o'clock Sunday morning the Observatory thermometer registered 15 degrees below zero. The mercury has not been so far down since one day in February, 1895, when it went to 22 below. But even 15 below is exceptionally cold for Toronto. At Ottawa on Saturday night, the record was 24 below, at Montreal 20 below, at Quebec 24 below, at Father Point 24 below, at Chatham, N.B., 26 below, at Sydney, C.B., 14 below.

Another brother will join them in Chicago. On their arrival at Tacoma, Wash., they will be met by a fourth brother, who left here for the coast about two weeks ago to complete arrangements for outfitting and transportation for the party.

DR. CHASE'S OINTMENT

MR. THOS. DOLPHIN, TARA, ONT., says: "I had Itching Piles for about ten or twelve years, and tried everything I could hear or read of, and found that nothing did me any good. Mr. Hilburn, the druggist, gave me a sample box of Chase's Ointment, and from the first application I found relief, and was able to go to bed and sleep. I then purchased one box and that one cured me so that I have not been afflicted since, and that is over a year ago."

People are being cured of Heart and Nerve Troubles.

Mrs. Sheean, 11 Albert street, Peterborough, Ont., says: "I suffered for so many years from heart trouble that I thought there was no help for me. My appetite became very poor and I could not sleep. I am glad now that I made the discovery so many others are making nowadays, that Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills cure all heart troubles. They braced up my nerves, toned up my entire system and throughly invigorated me in every respect. I can recommend them very heartily as the best remedy I know of for heart and nerve troubles; for I tried so many medicines without effect that I really believe no other remedy but Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills could have cured me."

A Hint for Merchants.

A little advertising may be unprofitable when a great deal would pay handsomely. Short-time advertising seldom pays. This is the reason that ads. in the many ephemeral "schemes" that come to every business man are never profitable. It is continuous, consistent, courageous, intelligent advertising in the best newspapers that always and infallibly bring good returns. —Charles Austin Bates.

Against the Doctors.

There is an interesting fight in the Province of Quebec over the "lodge doctor" question and the fraternal societies are putting up some good fighting. The Medical Council of Quebec has undertaken to say that the lodge doctor must go and propose to cancel the licence of any medical man who allows himself to be appointed physician to any fraternal society. There are fully 6,000 members of these societies concerned in the outcome. A peculiar feature of the conflict between the heads of the medical colleges and the societies is that the medical gentlemen concerned—the "lodge doctor"—with few exceptions, do not think the reforms proposed. They come from those not associated with any lodge or benefit association. In the case of Montreal it is stated that the doctors directly interested have agreed to resist the proposed action of the council.

A PRESENTATION.

To Miss Etta Howson by the Congregation of the Cavanville Methodist Church.

The Cavanville Methodists are a appreciative people, if anything, and on Tuesday evening last representatives of the congregation to the number of fifty, realising the obligations they were under to their organist, repaired to the residence of Mr. Geo. Howson, to show their appreciation of the efficient services which Miss Etta Howson so cheerfully renders as organist of the Cavanville Methodist church.

Numerically and socially the affair was a decided success and the ladies of the company did their part of providing the best of things from an artistic cooking standpoint, which were fully appreciated.

During the evening the following address was read and a purse of money presented to Miss Howson by Miss Jennie Swain, to which Miss Howson replied in suitable terms, expressing her thanks :—

Miss Etta Howson:

DEAR MADAM,—It is with a profound sense of the fitness and suitability of things that we have met together this evening, as representatives of the Cavanville Methodist church, to pay a tribute of respect to one whom we hold in high esteem. We desire to place on record our appreciation of the efficient services which you have so cheerfully rendered as organist of the Cavanville Methodist church. By your unassuming manner and kind disposition, and your willingness at all times to do what you can to promote the best interests of our church services, you have won for yourself the goodwill and gratitude of the congregation of which you are a valued member. And we believe that by the spirit of self-denial which has characterised you in the discharge of your duties you have won for yourself the approval of Him who has said :—"If any man will come after me, let him deny himself and take up his cross daily and follow me."

We desire to thank you for the absorbing interest which has characterized your efforts to provide suitable music for our church services. We are deeply conscious of the fact that in the position which you occupy as organist there are discouragements to be met and obstacles to be overcome, but we are persuaded that if the same fidelity and perseverance be exercised by you in the future, which has characterized you in the discharge of your duty in the past, you will be enabled to use the obstacles and discouragements as stepping stones upward to success.

We ask you to accept of this purse as a slight token of esteem. We trust that you will long be spared to exercise the gifts and graces with which God has so richly endowed you, and by and by, when your time for doing and receiving good is ended, we trust that you will be received into full membership in the celestial choir and be permitted to assist in swelling the chorus of the new, new song unto Him that loved us and washed us from our sins in His own blood.

Signed on behalf of the congregation,

MISS JENNIE SWAIN,
MRS. T. NEWTON.

PETERBOROUGH JUNIORS LOSE TO KINGSTON.

THE FRONTENACS WERE TOO MANY FOR THEM.

A Fast Game Witnessed on the Local Ice Last Night—The Score Was 9—6 in Favour of the Visiting Team.

The Peterborough Juniors met their first defeat of the season last evening, when the Frontenacs of Kingston snowed them under on the local ice by the score of 9—6.

It was weight and superior shooting ability which gave the visitors the game, and they also had more staying power than the Peterboroughs. The forward lines of both teams did some very neat combination work at times, and the local seven in this respect were fully the equal of the visitors. They were just as fast skaters also, but the Frontenacs did more effective shooting on goal, which was probably occasioned by the fact that when they broke through the Peterborough line and went down the ice the local forwards did not turn and "follow back," as the seniors would have done. This facilitated matters for the visitors, and they were enabled to pass the puck without the risk of seeing it raked in and carried away by a Peterborough forward, who had come back with the line. The visitors came back with the puck almost every time the Peterboroughs took it, and this fact made it difficult to pass, and also difficult to get a good chance to shoot.

The Juniors claim it was an off night for them, and are satisfied that they can make a much better showing against the Frontenacs when they go to Kingston to play the return match on Friday next. Be that as it may, they made a grand showing against the visiting team which was largely composed of men who will play with the Frontenac senior team. Peterborough is proud of her Juniors and sees in them men who, with development, will prove worthy recruits of the Seniors, when the are needed.

Play began at 20 minutes to 9 when the teams lined up as follows :

Frontenac II.		Peterborough II.
Hiscock	goal	Geo Dixon
Hamilton	point	R Glover
Waddel	cover point	R Thorne
Murray, Young, Wilson, Cunningham	forwards	Chris Graham, R Watt, Harry King, W Crossley

From the draw the puck at once travelled in on the Peterborough citadel, but Glover relieved and Graham brought the puck down with a rush into Kingston territory. Back it went up the ice again, however, but Watt and Graham came down again with a nice combination. Hamilton relieved for Kingston and then siege was laid to the Peterborough flags and Dixon had to work hard to save his goal, but he did it nicely. Then Graham got away with the puck, and with Crossley and King some very neat combination was done, resulting in the latter scoring. Time, 3 minutes.

Crossley took the puck from the face off and in a quarter of a minute made the score 2—0.

Kingston then made things hot for the local men and the puck was continually on the Peterborough flags for some minutes, but the local defence proved too much for the visitors. The Juniors got in some nice combination rushes, but were defective in shooting. After five minutes hard play, in which honours were equally divided, the game finally went to Kingston. Score, 2—1.

In the beginning of the next game Thorne was sent to the fence for stopping the puck with his stick whilst it was in the air, and although Glover did more than two men's work in breaking up the rushes of the Frontenacs, they were able to even the score in three minutes.

In another minute the visitors scored again, and the score stood 3—2 in their favour. In six minutes more the Frontenacs increased their lead by still another point, and Watt tallying for Peterborough a minute later, made the score 4—3.

Watt and Graham opened the next game with a good rush, but lost the puck and the Frontenac forward line came down together and tallied in one minute. Score 5-3.

The Juniors woke up and made things warm for their visitors. Again and again were the visitors put on the defensive. Thorne made some great lifts in on their goal and whenever the Kingston men got past him, Glover was there to spoil their combination and transfer operations to the other end of the rink. The pace was too fast to last apparently and when the Peterboroughs slackened up the visitors notched another, making the score 6-3. There was a great kick made at this juncture and the Kingston umpire was accused of being "crooked" to such a degree as to give his team three goals which never were scored. The young gentleman was removed and Mr. C. LeBrun was asked to officiate in his stead. Half time was called before any further scoring was done.

In the second half each team tallied three more goals, leaving the score 9 to 6 in favour of the visitors.

LOCAL LEGAL.

In the Divisional Court, Toronto, on Thursday last, before Boyd C. and Robertson J., the following case of local interest was heard :—

Patterson v. Central Canada L. and S. Co.—N. F. Davidson, for plaintiff, appealed from judgment of Street, J. (17 L. T., Occ. 280), who tried the action at Peterborough, in so far as it is against the appellant. The action was brought by two of the nine children of Alexander and Mary Patterson against the owners of the life estate of the parents in certain lands, to recover damages to the reversionary interest of the plaintiffs by certain alleged acts of voluntary and permissive waste committed by defendants or their tenants. Street, J., held, following re Cartwright, 41 Chy. D., 532, that defendants were liable only for voluntary and not for permissive waste, and he gave judgment for plaintiffs for $16 damages without costs, and for defendants for two-thirds of their costs of defence against plaintiffs, such damages to be set off and deducted from such costs. Plaintiffs contended that defendants were liable also for permissive waste. D. W. Dumble, Peterborough, for defendants, contra. Reserved.

An important appeal case was heard, in which local interests are involved, as follows :

Yelland v. Yelland—Watson, Q.C., and Moore, (Peterborough) for defendant, Eliza Yelland and her child, the infant defendant, appealed from the judgment of McMahon J., who tried the action at Peterborough, declaring that the plaintiff, the father of the late Dr. Albert E. Yelland, and the infant defendant, the son of deceased, were entitled each to a moiety of the sum of $1 000, arising upon a benefit certificate upon the life of the deceased, issued by the Canadian Order of Foresters. The certificate was on its face payable to the next of kin of the deceased. The appellants relied upon the terms of the will of the deceased, and upon a change in the rules of the benefit society made in the life time of the deceased. Ponsette, Q.C., for plaintiff, contra. Judgment reserved.

STRATTON AT LAKEFIELD.

A Magnificent Meeting in the Town Hall.

MR. STRATTON'S GRAND RECEPTION

It Was The Largest Political Meeting Ever Held in Lakefield.

He Gives an Able Address Backed by Facts and Figures—Mr. Blezard Speaks—Mr. Garvin Present—His Personal References and Misleading Statements Mercilessly Carved—Lakefield in Line for the Liberal Candidate—Large Representation of Ladies Present.

Not one of the most successful and largest, but the largest and most successful political meeting ever held in the village of Lakefield was held last night in the town hall, Lakefield, in the interests of the people's candidate, Mr. Stratton. In spite of the extremely cold and stormy weather, the hall was filled, there being a large number of ladies present in the front seats, and the interest taken by them in the speeches of the evening, as well as the interest taken by the audience, showed that the people of Lakefield, Liberals and Conservative alike, were present to assist in the discussion of public issues and were open to conviction. Mr. Blezard's opening address dealt generally with the claims of the Government to a renewal of confidence on the part of the people. Mr. Garvin, the Opposition candidate, was present, and made one of his characteristic speeches, full of rant and mere statement, but strikingly wanting in proof. He went largely into personalities, but made a big mistake in attacking Mr. Stratton and accusing him of using his representative position to advance his own interests in connection with loan and trust companies, but Mr. Stratton showed and produced proof—as he always does—of all his statements that Mr. Garvin was—to put it mildly—misleading the people and himself making incorrect and slanderous statements to injure the speaker's personal character and all for the petty sake of scoring a political point and Mr. Stratton showed that that was the general character of the addresses made throughout the riding by Mr. Garvin and his stumping associates.

Mr. John Hull was voted to the chair and had a sinecure as far as any effort was required for keeping order, for Lakefield maintained its reputation for fair play and becoming behaviour by giving the best attention and the most respectful hearing to all the speakers.

MR. BLEZARD SPEAKS.

The veteran representative of East Peterborough was very warmly received when he rose to speak. He said that it was the second time he had visited Lakefield. The first time he came to the village was when Mr. Stratton was first a candidate, and at the first meeting held in the village in his interest. Mr. Stratton was at that time young and experienced, but to-night, Mr. Blezard said, he was quite a different man, with ripe parliamentary experience and with an unsurpassed record as a faithful representative. (Cheers.) Mr. Blezard was glad to see so many of his Douro friends present. He also referred to his being the oldest representative in the House, with two exceptions, and these two exceptions men not candidates at this election, and when he returned to the House next session he would be the oldest private member of the House. (Cheers.) He also referred to his relations with his constituents and to his friendly relations with his political opponents. He pointed out that in his first campaign about twenty years ago he had heard the cry of direct taxation, and it was not the fault of the Opposition that we had not direct taxation to-day, for the Opposition had co-operated with the Dominion Government in the attempt of the latter to rob Ontario of 100,000 square miles of territory, rich in timber and minerals whose resources would keep away direct taxation for a hundred years. (Cheers.) Mr. Whitney at Norwood had stated that twenty-eight millions of dollars had been derived from timber resources (it should have been twenty-three millions), and claimed that it should have been hoarded up, but Mr. Blezard showed that it was a wise policy on the part of the government to expend that revenue upon Education and other important needs of the people, in the maintenance of our public institutions and in other sources. If the government had not returned this money to the people the people would have had to and pay by direct taxation for the services and improvements they had enjoyed. (Cheers.) Mr. Stratton's opponents complained that the public accounts were not in proper shape, yet during the whole of the session not a single public account was questioned by the Opposition in the Public Accounts Committee. The whole time of the committee was taken up with the disgusting details of the petty piggery business, respecting which the author himself, Mr. St. John, said twas not intended to implicate the government but some of the officials. Mr. Blezard, after a tribute to Mr. Stratton's excellent record as a representative and his standing as a parliamentarian, closed his remarks amidst hearty applause.

THE OPPOSITION CANDIDATE.

Mr. Garvin, the Opposition candidate, was present, and was given an hour to address the meeting.

After considerable time spent in introductory remarks, he proceeded to say that if Mr. Stratton had been a good representative and had done a good deal for the riding, he deserved no credit for—he had done no more than his duty. He then went into personalities. He charged that Mr. Stratton had used his representative position to advance his own personal interests, and instanced the Dominion Building and Loan Association and the Trusts and Guarantee Company as examples, and charged that the Government had shown favours and permitted the organization of companies that were not sufficiently backed by capital. He also charged that with respect to the Trusts and Guarantee Company that the Government had practically given Mr. Stratton and his political friends a monopoly by providing that no more such companies should be organized. Turning to the financial question. Mr. Garvin, by a peculiar manipulation of figures, arrived at the astounding conclusion that the province had run behind thirty-one millions since Confederation. He went on to insist that the public accounts were not properly audited, and that the auditor-general did not do his duty. He also attacked the Eagledue mining agreement, and asserted that it was a monopoly instead of a proper agreement in the interests of the people. He also dealt in his usual manner with the school book monopoly, and made the usual misleading comparison of a cheap novel with the Fourth Reader. He repeated his argument that there were too many young teachers, and promised, on Mr. Whitney's behalf, that that gentleman, who was a statesman, would give the Minister of Education an advisory board, and would conduct the education department properly. Mr. Garvin made another astounding statement. He charged that the Ontario Government had done little or nothing for the working classes and concluded by appealing to his audience to vote in the best interests of the province. He resumed his seat with applause from his friends.

MR. STRATTON'S ADDRESS.

The chairman said he did not need to introduce Mr. Stratton, because they all knew him, and knew him as the best representative West Peterborough ever had. (Cheers.)

Mr. Stratton in rising to address the meeting was received with very hearty applause. He referred to the pleasure it gave him to be present among his many friends in Lakefield, and particularly congratulated the ladies upon their attendance. They have been important factors in assisting his election in the past and he felt sure he could rely upon their sympathy in the present campaign. He then went on to point out that he had been personally attacked in the campaign of misrepresentation and abuse his opponents were conducting, and dealt with the several attacks that had been made on him at Mr. Garvin's Lakefield meeting, and deprecated the use of personal arguments in a discussion of public affairs. He had only dealt personally with Mr. Garvin, in respect of his relations as a candidate to the public, and pointed out that because Mr. Garvin could not secure the nomination which he had twice sought and had twice been refused in his native county, Simcoe, where he was best known, that was no reason why he should claim to be elected in West Peterborough over a candidate who was born in the county, and had lived all his life there, and had spent his life in promoting the interests of the riding. He then went on to deal with Mr. Garvin's charge that he had used his representative position to advance his personal interests, especially in respect of the financial companies of which he (Mr. Stratton) was president. He then went on to point out where Mr. Garvin had misstated the facts. In the first place the charter of the Dominion Building and Loan Association was not obtained from the Ontario Government at all, but it is now operated under a charter of the Dominion Government. Mr. Stratton pointed out that, contrary to Mr. Garvin's statement the board of this company was a Conservative board, and he as president was the only Liberal member of it. Why should Mr. Garvin make such sweeping and positive statements on a subject which he knew nothing about? Why should he, to injure a political opponent, resort to misrepresentation, which was the policy pursued by him and his friends in this campaign? The facts showed in this respect that he (Mr. Stratton) had not used nor ever used his representative position to advance his own interests, rather his representative career had been against his interest, and Mr. Garvin's statement that the company was not financially strong enough, was exposed by the fact that he (Mr. Garvin) had a few shares of instalment stock in the company. His private judgment gives the lie to his public statements or rather misstatements made for the purpose of injuring a political opponent. The Dominion Company had millions of capital, was one of the first in the land, paid the largest dividends, and was looked upon by capable financiers as a wonderful success. Was it a disgrace, Mr. Stratton asked, if he showed sufficient energy and business ability to develop such a company and secure the co-operation of the foremost financial men of the province as directors, and mostly Conservatives, and was it any discredit if those Conservative gentlemen saw fit to year after year? In his innocence he (Mr. Stratton) thought it was creditable. (Cheers).

In regard to the Trust Company, which Mr. St. John had denounced in the opera house, and Mr. Garvin that night, they were equally astray. Mr. Garvin asserted that the Ontario Government gave The Trusts and Guarantee Company a monopoly and explicit advantages to political friends. The facts were that since that company had come into existence another company had been chartered and the board of the Trust and Guarantee Company was composed of Liberals and Conservatives, among the later being Hon. Geo. E. Foster and other prominent Conservatives, some members of Parliament, and the solicitor was a son of Sir John Thompson. (Cheers.) Where was the monopoly? Where are the advantages? It was pure business on business principles. The company was organized under the general law and had nothing to thank the Government for. If Mr. Garvin knew the merest rudiments of business he would not make the wild and misleading statements he had made. Anybody that would comply with the conditions of the law in regard to capital, etc., could get a charter, and it largely depended upon the strength of the directorate and the capital as to success. His company had the largest subscribed capital of any company doing similar business in this province, and its shareholders comprised the very best citizens of all the leading towns in the province. (Cheers). Mr. Stratton asked if he should be blamed because, by the exercise of his business abilities, he had brought together prominent capitalists, composed of men of ability and financial standing, apart altogether from what their political views were, and had inspired sufficient confidence to be elected president of the company. If Mr. Garvin would stick to the truth he would be welcome to all the capital he could make out of his (Mr. Stratton's) connections with financial institutions. He had never made money out of his representative position. On the other hand there were hundreds in the county knew that the loss of time and response to demands for improving the several interests of a riding that always fall upon a representative, had not made him richer. Was this politics? What had this to do with the government or their policy? This man Mr. Garvin had been crying about personalities in this campaign. No man of any sense of decency or honour would have made the exhibition of himself that he has made here to-night. (Applause.) Mr. Garvin who had complained of personalities committed the very sin he was reproving. He had disparged the Liberal candidate and had gone out of his way to-night by the use of misstatements and discussion of personal matters personally disparging to the speaker. Was it decent politics to refer to the government of the province as "pigmy politicians," men of no ability or brains? Did the opposing candidate possess all the brains? He might think so. (Laughter.) Mr. Ross, Mr. Hardy, Mr. Gibson and Mr. Harty might be "pigmy politicians" in the eyes of Mr. Garvin, with his great intellect. (Applause) Sir Oliver Mowat may have been a man of straw and without brains, the supporters of the Government in the Legislature may have been men of no calibre. The best code of laws ever given to any province or state may have been the work of brainless idiots. The development of the province may have been brought about by pigayune narrow-minded politicians; all these long years the province may have been ruled by fools and know-nothings, but would it not be better for Mr. Garvin to show how he would improve things than by railing against men who know almost as much as himself, and showing his ability in argument by calling names. Let him point out the code of laws for municipal purposes which the province enjoyed, the best in the world. Does he tell you how he and his friends would devise a better system of education, which had been pronounced by competent and independent judges the best in the world. He nor his friends did not submit any better way of developing the resources of the province than had been followed by the Government. His criticism of the attitude of the government towards the labouring classes was without point. The fact was that the statute books of the province contained thirty-eight distinct laws framed in the interests of the workingman—a provision in the interests of labour unexcelled by any country in the world. Mr. Stratton went on to deny statements that had been made in Lakefield by Mr. Garvin and his supporters, and showed that the grossest misrepresentation had been made. He went on to deal with the timber question in connection with the charge of squandering our resources, and that we were on the verge of direct taxation. He showed that far less timber had been sold under the Mowat Government then under former administrations, and that better prices had been obtained. That at the past rate of cutting there would be timber left as a revenue producer for over a hundred years. And he showed what assets we had in the country representing our timber. The most complete equipment of public buildings, all built out of current revenue, and without a dollar of debt or with a dollar of misappropriated money. (Cheers.) Mr. Stratton pointed out that the architect who looked after the plans of our public buildings for all these years was deserving of credit with the government for the excellent value received, and he pointed out that at the last session the Opposition had moved a resolution that would have sent this faithful servant adrift in the world, and he (Mr. Stratton) was the only member of the House to speak up for him and to demand that an old and faithful servant who had served the province so well, though a Conservative, should not have his services so ungratefully recognized, and the motion was defeated, and the province was saved the discredit which the Opposition had sought to bring upon it by

WHERE HE WOULD IMPROVE

of a man who had saved the Province so much money, and that man was Mr. Rivers Tully, a relative of a prominent citizen of Lakefield. (Cheers.)

Mr. Stratton went on to explain the timber policy of the Government in regard to the manufacture of logs in Ontario, and showed that the conditions called upon the Government to take the course it did take, and that neither the Opposition nor the Government were entitled to any particular credit for the course taken. He went on to show how wisely the Government had administered the financial affairs of the province, with the result that we had a surplus of assets of over five millions of dollars and not a cent of debt. (Cheers.) He showed that while the expenditure had been increased it had been increased in the interests of the taxpayers, whose burdens were lightened by the expenditures, represented by money returned to the people. He went on to point out that the county of Peterborough had in the past thirty years received in this manner the large sum of $746,000. (Cheers.) Mr. Garvin had condemned the expenditure on colonization roads, but he (Mr. Stratton) was glad that he had had sufficient influence to help the riding to the extent he had done, and he pointed to the improvements the people enjoyed as the result of the expenditure of money on colonization roads he had been able to obtain. Was he to blame if he exercised his influence for the benefit of his constituents? (Cheers.) Mr. Stratton also dealt with the charge that could be dismissed by the Government, and showed that he could only be dismissed by Parliament, and not by the Government, and produced the statutes to prove that he was right—something, he said, the Opposition in this campaign did not do—produce proof for their bald and general statements. He also dealt with the school book question and showed that Mr. Garvin had compared a poor and cheaply made novel, one of a job lot which had run its day, and which the publishers were glad to get rid of at almost any price, with a well-bound, well-printed school book, which was produced as cheaply as it could be produced, and which a competent Royal Commission had declared could not be produced any more cheaply. He denounced the unfairness of Mr. Garvin in making such a misleading comparison. (Cheers.) Referring to Mr. Garvin's charge that in the dying hours of the session the Government had given large sums to railways when there was no second chamber, Mr. Stratton asked where there was a better second chamber than the electors of Ontario? (Cheers.) He briefly described the Eagledue arrangement, and showed that it was a wise course to enlist British capital in the development of our dormant mines. The result was to give a large employment to Canadian labour. (Cheers.)

Mr. Garvin had denounced the secret ballot and had quoted an instance where he said he (Mr. Stratton) had told a certain man how a certain number of electors had voted. Mr. Stratton and said it was absolutely false and untrue then went on to refer to the ballot of Ontario, which was the same as they had in England and Australia. Who gave the electors the ballot anyway? It was the Liberal party. (Cheers.) Mr. Meredith and his friends had

FLATLY DENIED THE STATEMENT.

and the Conservatives of the Dominion had opposed it, though Sir John Macdonald and Sir John Abbott had favoured the Ontario ballot, and Mr. Chapleau said that the Ontario was the most secret. Mr. Stratton showed that the Ontario ballot was secret as far as the public was concerned, and he pointed out the advantages presented in detecting fraud under the Ontario ballot. Ballot stuffing was an impossibility. Was it so with the Dominion ballot? They had had disgraceful proof that it was not and he quoted Hon. Mr. Chapleau to show that under the Dominion system there were ways of finding out how a man voted. He (Mr. Chapleau) was positive in stating that the Dominion ballot was not absolutely secret. Mr. Stratton pointed out that after voting in Ontario elections the returning officer sealed the ballots. Then they were sent to the Clerk of the Crown in Chancery and after thirty days, if there was no protest they were destroyed. In case of a protest, under the Ontario ballot there was a means of tracing fraud, and that was a very important matter to preserve the purity of electors. The advantages of the Ontario ballot in the case of ballot stuffing and preventing fraud were apparent to all, and a ballot that was good enough for old England was good enough for Ontario. (Cheers.)

Mr. Stratton concluded a masterly address that covered the field of discussion very completely, by appealing to the electors. If the people believed that he had served them well, if they believed that the government he had the honour of supporting had served them well, if they believed, as they must believe, that the government had used the resources of the province solely for the benefit of the people, then he appealed to them for a renewal of their confidence. Mr. Stratton resumed his seat amidst enthusiastic applause.

The most successful, largest, most orderly and in every way satisfactory political meeting ever held in Lakefield, was brought to a close by a vote of thanks to the chairman, and hearty cheers for the Queen and Mr. Stratton.

DURATION OF HUMAN LIFE.

A Man Might Possibly Live to Be One Hundred and Twenty-five Years Old.

In the average statistics of human life it has been found that women live longer than men. The reason for that appears to be simple.

Up to the age of 20 to 25 the man is undoubtedly younger and less developed than the woman, but in the next 20 or 30 years of his life the man ages much more rapidly, because apart from the strain and hardship of a profession, the exposure to unhealthful climates, the disappointments of fortune, he often leads a life of dissipation and excess which early puts its stamp upon his forehead and turns his hair gray before its time. The woman, on the other hand, who has often more than her share of anxieties, has, apart from the many accidents of life, but one serious and inevitable danger, that of the perpetuation of her race, which, safely passed, renovates rather than ages and increases a woman's chance of longevity.

From the few facts that I have ventured to put together we may deduce, I think, the following conclusions, which, I trust, may be found of some interest by those who desire to have a general view of the expectation of life, its real duration and the possible causes of its length and brevity.

First.—That, according to the best authorities of the last century, the extreme limit of life might be 136 years under extraordinary and almost abnormal circumstances.

Second.—That the anticipation of life is roughly five times the time that the organs of the body—not counting the brain, which develops later—require to attain their full and absolute maturity. This, of course, varies not only in races, but in individuals, some developing early and some much later, even in the same climate and in the same family.

Third.—That rarely, if ever, is that full duration achieved, owing to disease, food, heredity, bad habits, wear and tear and many other causes which shorten life.

Fourth.—The slower the development the longer may be the duration of life.

Fifth.—That all human beings are not born with the capacity for long life even under the most favorable circumstances. As the organism of the human being is more complex than that of the lower animals, so his anticipation of life is far more variable.

Sixth.—That those circumstances which conduce to longevity are undoubtedly late development, frugal habits, moderation, exemption from vicissitudes of climate and extreme of heat or cold, from mental worry and agitation, temperature in eating and drinking, with a fair amount of brain work when the brain is ready to undertake it.

We have all heard the well worn axiom attributed to the Psalmist that the "days of man are threescore and ten," but in Genesis vi, 3, will be found the following passage, "Yet his days shall be an hundred and twenty years." This passage seems to have been overlooked, as I have rarely seen it quoted, although curiously enough it exactly corresponds to the theory that man should attain five times the period of reaching his maturity.—Nineteenth Century.

FOR ORDER IN THE COURT.

A Protest Against Dramatic Demonstrations In Trials by Jury.

There is a practice the universal prevalence of which in our existing trials by jury makes justice a misnomer. It is a practice whose evils, so far as I can discover, have never been commented upon, or even appreciated, by the press, public or individuals. I refer to the whole method by which, right or wrong, innocence or guilt is sought to be proved by the counsel on either side.

Assume, for instance, a criminal case—for the same method is applied, though usually to a lesser degree, to civil contests. Beginning with the opening arraignment by the prosecution, thence through the examination and cross examination of the witnesses, the display of exhibits, on to the very end of the final harangues of the opposing counsel, the dramatic is never lost sight of.

The emotions, not the intelligence, of the jurors are appealed to throughout.

In a typical murder case which recently gratified the morbidly sensational element of the entire country the district attorney arose impressively, glanced about him ominously and then, with a tremulously tragic voice, proceeded to arraign the accused, charging him outright with the crime, practically assuming without doubt that he was guilty and endeavoring by the use of every wile of the orator's art to sway the jury to his mode of thinking. And this before the minutest bit of evidence had been taken.

Is eloquence a proper adjunct to our jurisprudence?

Heretic though I may be, I hold emphatically and with qualification that it is not. It has no place in a hall of justice, where, we are led to believe, the truth and only the truth is to be brought out. Eloquence, as manifested by oratory, is inimical to truth, which can only be discovered and established by calm, unprejudiced and dispassionate investigation.

Eloquence appeals to the emotions, and its victories are obtained by trickery—the trickery of masterful verbiage playing upon sensitive but unreasoning ears.

The claim that cannot be justified before the reason cannot be valid. Eloquence is the weapon of falsity. Truth and right do not require its use. The sphere of eloquence is the stage. In the pulpit, before the bar of justice and in the hall of legislation it is a source of unlimited evil.

I hold that for the accomplishment of justice all the theatric displays, all eloquence, all excitants to the emotions, should be banished from our courts of law by sentiment if not by regulation. They have no place there.

Judicial procedure should be along the lines similar to the investigation of scientific propositions and discoveries. The establishment of right or wrong, guilt or innocence, is something to be effected by cold, prosaic, rigid inquiry, step by step, as analogous as may be to mathematical demonstration.

We shall have to wait long for the time when this is recognised, but it will be in the indefinite future, and when that time does come we may be more confident that our courts of justice are such in something more than name.—Criterion.

Persecuted by Office Seekers.

"The Inner Experiences of a Cabinet Member's Wife" is one of the most interesting contributions to The Ladies' Home Journal. In a series of letters the wife of a cabinet member writes to her sister of office seekers and of those in the departments. "You can have no idea," she anonymously declares, "how Henry (her husband) is persecuted by applicants for his influence with the president or with the heads of departments. He really has no influence outside of his own department, and he is wearing his sympathies into tatters listening to tales of woe. The saddest case that has come under my own observation is that of a maiden lady, fully 50 years old, who has worked in the departments ever since the war. Senatorial influence has kept her in all these years, but now that the civil service reforms are being introduced she is in despair, for, although perfectly competent at her work, she never in the world could pass one of those rigid examinations. She called upon me bearing a letter of introduction from Mrs. Arthur Folsom (Mary Allison), who married into one of the old families here. I don't know whether her family lost their means by the war or in some other way, but they did lose everything when she was a gay girl at the top of society in both Alexandria and Washington. She told me about dancing in a set of lancers opposite Abraham Lincoln, who, though awkward and angular in his dancing, seemed to enjoy it and always had a gay word for everybody. She says her feeling for Mr. Lincoln was something more than respect—it was more like adoration; that she has often wondered if people did not feel just so toward the great religious prophets who must have spread abroad what Mr. Lincoln did—an atmosphere of sympathetic kindness, trust, purity and nobility."

GOOD NEWS FROM GOOD MEN.

CLERGYMEN SPEAK STRONGLY

IN FAVOR OF

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

A Medicine That Cures When Other Remedies Fail.

SUFFERINGS FROM RHEUMATISM.

From the Gazetta, Galena, Illinois.

A gentleman connected with the Gazette was recently conversing with Rev. Joseph Sechler who spoke of the above mentioned disease. Mr. Sechler is a clergyman of the Reformed church and has been a prominent minister of that body for over thirty years, and has nearly all that time resided in Lena, Stephenson County, Ill. He was active in founding the Northern Illinios College at Dakota in that county and was for eight years secretary of that institution, and for two years its financial agent, which position he had to abandon from causes hereafter mentioned, since which time he has taken charge of a congregation of his brethern in the town of Harlem, a few miles from his residence.

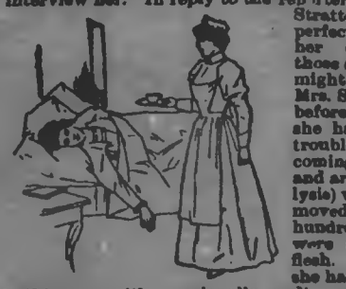
This worthy minister informed the reporter that for fifteen years he was the victim of that dread disease, rheumatism. The pain was so intense that he contemplated abondoning his calling.

Somewhat discouraged, but with a faint hope of recovery, he was led to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. After three months he was comparatively free from pain. He continued the use of the remedy at longer intervals and at the end of six months he felt that the disease was entirely eradicated. Another great benefit came to him at this time.

During this fifteen years of suffering there was added to the malady the lesser one of piles which itself would have been a terrible affliction but for the overshadowing one of rheumatism. In the effort to cure the greater the lesser one gave way. He can now fulfil the duties of his calling without being diverted by the agony that he suffered for so many years. He can with confidence conscientiously recommend these pills to all afflicted with the diseases mentioned.

THE PASTOR'S WIFE.

Rev. B. F. Stratton, of Little Britain, is one of the best known ministers in the Bay of Quinte Conference, of which body he is an ex-president. Wherever Mr. Stratton and his estimable wife have been stationed they have won hosts of friends among all classes for their unassuming and sincere Christian work. A few years ago Mrs. Stratton was attacked with partial paralysis and her restoration having been attributed to the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a reporter of the Napanee Beaver was sent to Selby, where they then resided to interview her. In reply to the reporter's question Mrs. Stratton said she was perfectly willing to give her experience that those similarly afflicted might be benefitted. Mrs. Stratton said that before moving to Selby she had been greatly troubled by a numbness coming over her sides and arms (partial paralysis) which, when she moved, felt as though hundreds of needles were sticking in the flesh. For over a year she had been troubled in this way, with occasionally a dizzy spell. She was becoming emaciated and easily fatigued, and was unable to get sleep from this cause. The trouble seemed to be worse at night time. Mr. Stratton had become greatly alarmed at the bad state of health, and it was feared that complete paralysis would ensue. Knowing a young lady in Trenton where Mr. Stratton had been previously stationed, who had been cured by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, it was determined to give them a fair trial. When Mrs. Stratton began using the pills she was very thin and her system badly run down, but after taking the pills for a time, all symptoms of paralysis disappeared, and she found her health and strength renewed and her weight increased. Mrs Stratton is about fifty years of age, and a more healthy, robust and younger looking lady is seldom seen at that age.



In reply to the reporter's inquiry as to what Pink Pills had done for his wife, Mr. Stratton said, "Look at her, look at her, doesn't she show it," and the reporter could not but admit the truth of the statement.

A MISSIONARY'S WORK

One of the most melancholy features of our nineteenth century civilization is the large number of pale, listless young girls to be met with in every walk of life. Too frequently parents do not recognize that there is anything seriously wrong, until at last they are forced to admit that their child is in a decline, and when treatment is taken up it is often too late, and a loved one is followed to an untimely grave. A pale or waxey complexion denotes anæmia—in other words poverty of the blood—which, if not corrected in time, by gradual stages leads to an early grave. Among the symptoms denoting poverty of the blood, are severe headaches, loss of appetite, dizziness, fainting spells, violent palpitation of the heart on slight exertion, etc. In this emergency Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People are beyond all comparison the most valuable remedy known.

That the claims made on behalf of these Pills are not overstated is amply borne out by the following letter from the Rev David Forbes, missionary, Poplar Dale, Algoma, Ont. Mr. Forbes writes:—"I feel that I would be remiss in my duty did I not write to let you know the wonderful benefit derived by a young lady here from the use of your Pink Pills. Miss Mary Martin was taken sick two years ago, and all the medical treatment she underwent proved of no avail. Visiting the family in my capacity as missionary, I saw with sorrow that unless something was done to avert the progress of her trouble, she would not be long for this world. She was pale, almost bloodless, and subject to all the distressing symptoms which accompany anæmia and bring the victim to an early grave. I urged the parents to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. They acted upon my advice, and I am rejoiced that they have fully and entirely restored her health, and in the rosy-cheeked girl of to-day you would not recognize the invalid of a short time before. The words of her grateful mother to me were these: "We have to thank you, Mr. Forbes, for recommending Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. They have saved our daughter's life and we are more grateful than we can say, and freely give you the permission to send this testimonial, in the hope that some one in similar circumstances may be benefitted."

STRICKEN WITH PARALYSIS.

From the Simcoe Reformer.

In the early days of Methodism in Canada the gospel was spread abroad in the land by the active exertions of the circuit rider. It required a man of no ordinary health and strength, an iron constitution and unflagging determination, to fulfil the arduous duties incumbent on one who undertook to preach salvation to his fellowmen. Many fell by the wayside, while others struggled on and prospered, and a few are to-day enjoying a ripe old age, happy in the knowledge that a lasting reward will soon be theirs. Rev. David Williams, who lives two miles southwest of Nixon, Ontario, Norfolk County, was one of these early days circuit riders. He was a man of vigorous health, and although without many advantages in the way of early education he succeeded by dint of hard and constant study in being admitted to the ministry. For many years he had been a sufferer from kidney and kindred diseases. He tried all kinds of remedies, and although sometimes temporarily relieved, he gradually grew worse until in October, 1895, he was stricken with paralysis. From this he partially recovered his powers of speech, but it left his memory so poor that he could not remember the name of the person to whom he wished to speak without thinking intently for several minutes. In addition to this trouble he had intense bodily suffering; pains in the head, across the forehead, in the temples and behind the ears, across the lower part of the skull and in the joint of the neck. He had great weakness and pains in the back, hips and legs. In fact, so much did he suffer that sleep was almost an impossibility, and he fell away in weight until he weighed only 115 pounds. By this time, December, 1895, he became despondent and felt that if he did not obtain relief, he would soon bid adieu to the things of this world. On the 20th December he read of a cure in the Reformer by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and, being seized with a sudden inspiration, at once wrote to Brockville for a supply of this marvellous remedy. Immediate good results followed their use and he has improved wonderfully during the past year. He has recovered his bodily health and strength, is comparatively free from pain, and his memory is nearly as good as it ever was. Mr. Williams says: "I can heartily endorse the many good things said of these pills in the papers, and strongly recommend them to any one suffering as I was."

A BROADMINDED DIVINE.

The Rev. Samuel R. Calthrop, D.D., is the pastor of the May Memorial church in Syracuse, N.Y., and one of the most prominent and popular men in the city. He was born in England and received his scholastic training at St. Paul's school, London, and Trinity College, Camb'dg. He came to Syracuse about 1859, where he has laboured ever since. We give herewith a good likeness of him and are allowed to publish a letter written by him last year to the editor of the Syracuse, N Y Evening News It follows:—

Rev. Dr. Calthrop, Syracuse, N. Y.

To the Editor of the Evening News:—

DEAR SIR,—More than 35 years ago I wrenched my left knee, throwing it almost from its socket. Great swelling followed, and the synovial juice kept leaking from the joint.

This made me lame for years, and from time to time the weak knee would give out entirely, and the swelling would commence. This was always occasioned by some strain like a sudden stop. The knee gradually recovered, but always was weaker than the other.

About 15 years ago, the swelling recommenced, this time without any wrench at all, and before long I realized that this was rheumatism settling in the weakest part of the body. The trouble came so often that I was obliged to carry an opiate in my pocket everywhere I went. I had generally a packet in my waistcoat pocket, but in going to a conference at Buffalo, I forgot it, and as the car was damp and cold, before I reached Buffalo, my knee was swollen to twice its natural size.

I had seen the good effects that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills were having in such cases, and I tried them myself with the result that I have never had a twinge or a swelling since. This was effected by taking seven or eight boxes.

I need not say that I am thankful for my recovered independence, and I may add that my knee is now far stronger than it has been for 35 years.

I gladly give you this statement. Yours,

REV. S. R. CALTHROP.

A CAPITALIST.

In that time when a big force of workmen was busy tearing down the old government building, it will be remembered, something happened to stop work on the southwest corner. All the rest of the building had melted away, crumbled beneath the picks of the men, but the section at Clark and Jackson streets still stood a good two stories high, though teams were hauling foundation stones from the opposite angle.

John Dawson, a laborer, 38 years old, husband of one wife and father of children, came down daily from his home at Eighteenth street, walking every step of the way and carrying his pick and shovel. He had been busy until the work was stopped. Then he was told day after day to "come back in the morning." And he did come back in the morning. But the work of demolition was unaccountably delayed and he was destitute. No use looking elsewhere for employment. Work was here in plenty as soon as this mysterious delay was ended. No one seemed to know why the picks had stopped on this corner. But John Dawson and his waiting companions, each with pick and shovel carefully guarded from purloining, saw men in good clothes hunting about in the dismantled rooms of the remaining corner—saw them through the grated windows, a dozen of them—and wondered.

Looking at them so one day, John Dawson, conscious of absolute destitution, remembered the slender breakfast he left untouched at Eighteenth street on pretense that he had eaten heartily and needed no more; had left untouched that the wife and the children might have something, conscious of the long walk with the shovel and pick, which grew heavier daily—conscious of many things—fell a-dreaming, and it seemed to him the men in the dismantled rooms there, passing and repassing before the iron bound windows of what had once been the subtreasury, were looking for money. And he wished he might find it instead of they.

What would he do with it?

First he would spend 3 cents for a loaf of bread. The other laborers had each a brown crusted, long, round loaf, and they broke off bits now and then and ate of it.

Over in the dismantled rooms the searchers were giving it up and the contractor's foreman at the door was stirring himself into a profane heat, so that work might presently and properly begin.

* * * * * * * *

When the subtreasury was running, Caleb Browning, being a bonded vault clerk, had lost one package containing $10,000 in various miscellaneous bills—silver certificates and national bank notes. He really had lost it. He had not stolen it. And when he could not account for it his father, Jabez Browning, had paid the loss in full without a word, and Caleb, with no stain upon him, had resigned and accepted a situation with a railway company.

There was a shout, a rush, a clamoring from men with picks and shovels. The contractor's foreman, swearing now very easily, was sending laborers here and there on the delayed southwest section, and the well dressed men who had been searching went over to their La Salle street offices and wondered where Caleb Browning's $10,000 package of bills had gone.

John Dawson, sitting on a block of stone, knew of the shout, of the clamoring, of the rush to the work, knew even of the easy, satisfying profanity of the contractor's foreman. But he could not rise. That added to his troubles. He was apparently unconscious. He was really helpless. Yet he knew all the horror of that final resumption of work and his inability to go forward.

Presently the contractor's foreman shook him, swearing cordially, and he gasped, smiled weakly and gripped the pick and shovel protectingly.

"You've been wanting work," said the foreman. "Why don't you git at it?"

And John Dawson tried to rise, but really he could not. So the foreman, knowing much, as a foreman must, motioned a lounger, and the two carried John Dawson and his pick and his shovel to a Clark street restaurant south of Jackson, and the very immoral but sympathetic proprietor placed food before him in unknown abundance.

How hard he worked when he did come back! How much he wished the wife and the little ones might have had such a meal as that! How resolutely he promised himself they should have such a meal! And how amazed he was when, working away there at the inner angle of the mighty wall, his pick pulled up a wad of paper with the brick and cement! At first he brushed it aside with the refuse, but it rolled back toward him. Then he pushed it ungently with his foot, and the dust fell away from its tissues, and its greens and whites, its letters and its figures, peered up at him. He worked away at the inner angle of the great wall for a few moments, for he was grateful to the contractor's foreman, and then he almost fainted, for the consciousness came to him that this was money.

There were other men near him, heaping rubbish on the same pile with him. They might see it. They certainly would if he dived down and picked it up. So he hammered with his pick blindly, not seeing the wall, and then he took off his hat and laid it on the money.

After ten minutes he pulled the hat from the cement and brick dust, carefully bringing up the package of bills with it, and tucked hat and all within the bosom of his shirt and worked bareheaded and feverishly until night. He went home, stolidly secure. He had found money. If he said nothing, he would not have to give it back.

* * * * * * * *

"Where did you get this money?" asked William Brown, reputable lawyer, eying a $100 bill which a laboring man—a very dusty and pronounced laboring man—placed in his hand.

"I found it."

"You stole it."

"You're a liar," said John Dawson. And the lawyer knew the man was telling the truth. Mr. Brown took out $10 for his fee for services, which he was told would later be needed, and gave back the change. John Dawson took the change and was out of trouble.

He worked just as hard at the federal building, but he paid cash at the grocery. His wife went down town with money, and they had enough to eat. Not another man on the job could say as much.

"If you have $10,000," said Lawyer Brown, "why don't you get some good of it? Live in a better house. Make the money pay for some of the things you need—some of the things other men have in this world. Buy things for your wife. Give her an easier time. Do something for the children. First thing you know some one will find out where you got it and will tell the man that lost it, and you'll have to give it up."

"I'll kill him first!" cried John Dawson. His hands were clinched above his head, his teeth were set, his eyes were staring, his breath came heavily. He really would have done it.

They lived in a cosy flat. Dawson behaved himself. The neighbors respected him and admired his children. The wife, like most women, was capable of struggling with penury or of adorning the halls of plenty. Her home was a bower.

The preacher called on John Dawson, and the family went to church. The children were in Sunday school. The wife learned something from everything she saw. There was a servant in the kitchen.

Lawyer Brown, looking for an investment, advised the purchase of 200 feet of land in Washington avenue. On that they built a row of houses, financing the affair from the basis of a clear title. John Dawson superintended the construction, and men of quality associated with him. When he went into the bank, he found the cashier respected him, talked to him, not with him much, for John Dawson was a shrewdly quiet man.

He found—the most amazing thing of all—that a man's word was sacred. A promise was kept. An obligation was discharged. A duty was fulfilled. He began to understand the things that a son and a daughter might be proud about.

The row in Washington avenue was bought before the buildings were finished. People seemed to recognize in John Dawson a lucky man. They showered offers upon him. He wore pretty good clothes—anyway, the tailor made them—and earned $200 a month without striking a blow with his hands.

* * * * * * * *

In December Lawyer Brown said:

"I found out who lost that $10,000. His name is"—

But John Dawson had dived through the door with a thunderous crash, had fairly tumbled down stairs and was walking blindly, insanely down the street.

He came back after two days.

"Who was it?" he said.

"Who was what?"

"Who lost the money?"

He was calm now, but desperately discouraged.

"It was Caleb Browning, one of the clerks. His father, Jabez Browning, made it good, and no one but them and the accounting officers know anything about it. Of course no one knows where it is."

"Of course not. Give it back."

"Wha-at?"

The lawyer was almost as wild as his client had been.

"Give it back. It belongs to him."

"But—my—dear—sir"—

"It isn't mine. Give it back. I will pay you for what trouble it has cost you."

Men had respected him. Women respected his wife. Many people smiled on his children. He wanted to deserve all this, even if, deserving, he lost it.

Lawyer Brown saw Jabez Browning and offered to give back the money.

"How much will you keep out for your services?"

"Nothing. You get every dollar."

"Legal interest would be about the fair thing, wouldn't it?" asked the capitalist—father of vault clerks. His nerve was proverbial among his friends.

"You will get no interest money," said Lawyer Brown. He never lost his presence of mind.

So he gave to Jabez Browning $10,000 in new $100 bills.

* * * * * * * *

Next morning after the transfer John Dawson came in with his dusty digger's clothes on, offered his hand and said "Goodby."

"Where are you going?"

"Back to the pick and shovel. I have had my holiday."

"Why are you going back?"

"Because I have no money."

"Oh, but you have—plenty of money."

"Where?"

"In my hands. I have over $60,000 to your credit."

"Over 60,000 what?"

"Dollars."

"Where did you get them?"

"Bought wheat at 68, sold it at 70; bought at 67, sold at 80; bought at 76, sold at 109; bought at 94, sold at 103. Bought sugar at 110, sold at 145. Bought West Chicago when it was cheap and sold when it was dear. Bought whisky when it was down and sold it when it was up. Man that can't make money in such a season as this just passed doesn't deserve to eat.

"I have paid the $10,000, and here's a receipt in full for it. You can't be troubled. I now have to your credit $71,000. I will charge you 2 per cent on the total sum I had before settling with Browning—$1,440. That leaves you $69,560. You have a little balance on your own account, earned since you put your business into my hands. What will you do with it?"

"With all of it?"

"Yes, with all of it."

John Dawson bought government bonds while he could get them at a reasonable figure. Then he lived happy ever since.

* * * * * * * *

The moral of this tale is that honest example is often effective even on lawyers and laboring men.—Chicago Post.

No man has a right to marry a woman and make her his nurse during long years of continued ill-health. A sick man cannot be a good husband, a good provider, a successful business man or a useful citizen; a man had better be dead and done with it than to be a life-long invalid, a nuisance to everybody and especially to the woman whom he has vowed to love, honor and protect.

The trouble with the average man is that he has not the least conception of the causes of ill-health or the right way to go about remedying them. A little indigestion or biliousness in themselves are not serious complaints, but if negleted they may develop into almost any disease in the medical books. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures many serious diseases by promptly removing the causes. It braces up the weak and impaired stomach and restores the appetite. It invigorates the liver and all the secretory glands. It facilitates the flow of digestive juices. It makes the assimilation of the life-giving elements of the food absolutely perfect, and thus enriches the blood. Disease germs are scavengers, and will not enter healthy blood or tissue. They must have the inert tissues of disease upon which to feed. The "Golden Medical Discovery," by enriching the blood, tears down old and inert tissues and builds up new and healthy ones. It wards off consumption and cures, bronchial and throat affections which, if neglected, lead up to consumption. All medicine dealers sell the "Discovery."

"Eight years ago my husband coughed all the time," writes Mrs. M. J. Tedder, of Ellington, Reynolds Co., Mo. "Just as soon as he had finished a meal he would throw up. He was getting very weak. He took half a dozen bottles of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and the 'Pleasant Pellets,' and says he feels better and stronger than ever before and weighs more. Everyone said he had consumption."

THE FORGOTTEN GRAVE.

Out from the city's giant roar
You wandered through the open door,
Paused at a little pail and spade
Across a tiny hillock laid
Then noted on your dexter side
Some moneyed magnate's "love or pride,"
And so, beyond a hawthorn tree,
Shewering its rain of rosy bloom
Alike on low and lofty tomb
You came upon it suddenly.

How strange! The very grasses' growth
Around it seemed forlorn and loath;
The very ivy seemed to turn
Askance that wreathed the neighbor urn.
Sunk was the slab the head declined
And left the rails a wreck behind.
No name. You traced a "6," a "7,"
Part of "affliction" and of "heaven,"
And then—oh, irony, austere!—
You read in letters sharp and clear,
"Though lost to sight, to memory dear."

SLOAN'S INDIAN TONIC

TRADE MARK.

Robson Brown, of Valetta, July 28th, 1891, says:—

"I am sorry under the circumstances to write to you, but I feel it my duty, as I have been troubled with Dyspepsia for years, took dollars' worth of medicine and pills, but got no relief until I commenced taking your Sloan's Indian Tonic. I think I have taken 8 or 10 bottles in all, and I feel as if I have got a new lease of life, I feel so much better. I was in the habit of keeping a bottle in the house so when costive I would take a dose or two with instant relief. Now I am troubled with costive spells very often, and it was the only medicine that gave me instant relief. It seems as if I have lost my best friend. Now I would like to hear from you by return mail, as I would like to have a bottle as soon as possible.

Mrs. H. Palmer, of Ridgetown, Ont., says: I was afflicted for a number of years with Erysipelas and Neuralgia in my face, and one bottle of Sloan's Indian Tonic cured me entirely, and I would recommend it to others, either for erysipelas or neuralgia.

Mrs. Henry Hale, of Blenheim, Ont., says: Sloan's Indian Tonic cured me of Malarial Fever and Chills and Neuralgia. When I was down sick in bed I purchased a bottle of the Tonic and it cured me entirely, and I have not been troubled with Fever or Neuralgia since.

GOLD MINING IN BELMONT.

MUCH ACTIVITY IN PETERBOROUGH COUNTY.

New Properties Found and Old Ones Said to Have Been Found—Prospects for Mining in the East Seem to be Good.

From reliable information to hand from the Toronto World's correspondent at Marmora, Ont., the mining operations are steadily going ahead in the county of Hastings.

At the Delora mines the Canadian Gold Field Company (Limited) are adding extensively to their already large plant. They are now erecting a huge air compressor, and it is understood that they intend shortly to build an enormous mill on the property, using the mill they already have as a test plant. At present they are sinking three new shafts, one in the middle of the main vein and the other two at either extremity thereof. These shafts are to be run down 1000 feet in order to prove the persistence of the deposits as to depth.

THE BELMONT MINE.

The Belmont mine is running night and day, with its new 10-stamp mill erected by the Wm. Hamilton Manufacturing Company, of Peterborough. Seventy-five men are at present employed on the property, and the experts who direct the mining and milling operations come from Glasgow and Newcastle-on-Tyne. On this property air compressors and drills are being put in and four levels are also being run from the main shaft. Sinking is being done on the other two. The mine is operated by the Cordova Exploration Company, of Newcastle-on-Tyne, Eng., who own property in Norway, Spain, Wales and elsewhere.

This information only goes to confirm in detail that given in The World some weeks ago, and the prospects for mining in the eastern portion of the province seem to be good.

GLAD DYSPEPTICS

Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets are Making Them Well.

Satisfaction, contentment, pleasure and health! These are what every dyspeptic enjoys after he begins the use of Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets.

Why shouldn't he be satisfied, contented pleased and happy? He used to be afraid to eat! If he did dare to partake of a "square meal," Dyspepsia racked his frame with agony. Now he can, and does, eat all he desires, and it does him good. He suffers no pain. Why? Simply because he takes a couple of Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets after each meal.

Are you a slave to your stomach? Has it made you a coward? If so, you may defy your enemy. You can rout it in a couple of weeks; take Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets—one or two after each meal—and "the trick is done."

There is no "tooth-pulling business" about Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablet treatment. The Tablets are pleasant to the taste, gentle, but certain in action, powerful and prompt in effect.

There isn't a case of Dyspepsia, Indigestion, or any other stomach trouble that cannot be completely cured by Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets, in from one week to one month. And when it is cured, the stomach, is fresh and vigorous, strong and healthy, ready to take up its own work again, and perform it properly.

Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets, each box containing double treatment, can be procured from all druggists, at fifty cents a box, or will be sent on receipt of price, by the Dodd's Medicine Co., Limited, Toronto.

THE POWDER WAS STRYCHNINE.

Melancholy Mistake Made by Mrs. C. W. Barrows of London.

London, Ont., Feb. 1.—A very sad accident happened at the residence of C. W. Barrows last evening, resulting in the death by poisoning of the little six-year-old adopted daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Barrows. The child had not been well for some days, and Mrs. Barrows gave her what she supposed was santonine. But the powder was strychnine. In a few minutes the child was in convulsions. Dr. MacKin was hurriedly sent for and worked for half an hour without avail. Coroner Ferguson was notified, and what remained of the powder was shown to him. He recognized it as strychnine. An inquest will be held.

Bees Pay the Best.

London, Jan. 31.—The most hopeful fact of the movement in Ireland is the success of Congested Districts Board. Its fixed income is only $906,000, and it works "for love," yet already it has managed to redeem parts of Ireland from destitution, is improving the quality of potatoes and introducing industries, like bee-keeping. Farmers in some places actually are paying for their holdings with the proceeds, the honey bee thus replacing the pig as the rent-payer.

They are now erecting a huge air compressor, and it is understood that they intend shortly to build an enormous mill on the property, using the mill they already have as a test plant. At present they are sinking three new shafts, one in the middle of the main vein and the other two at either extremity thereof. These shafts are to be run down 1000 feet in order to prove the persistence of the deposits as to depth.

THE BELMONT MINE.

The Belmont mine is running night and day, with its new 10-stamp mill erected by the Wm. Hamilton Manufacturing Company, of Peterborough. Seventy-five men are at present employed on the property, and the experts who direct the mining and milling operations come from Glasgow and Newcastle-on-Tyne. On this property air compressors and drills are being put in and four levels are also being run from the main shaft. Sinking is being done on the other two. The mine is operated by the Cordova Exploration Company, of Newcastle-on-Tyne, Eng., who own property in Norway, Spain, Wales and elsewhere.

This information only goes to confirm in detail that given in The World some weeks ago, and the prospects for mining in the eastern portion of the province seem to be good.

GLAD DYSPEPTICS

Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets are Making Them Well.

Satisfaction, contentment, pleasure and health! These are what every dyspeptic enjoys after he begins the use of Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets.

Why shouldn't he be satisfied, contented pleased and happy? He used to be afraid to eat! If he did dare to partake of a "square meal," Dyspepsia racked his frame with agony. Now he can, and does, eat all he desires, and it does him good. He suffers no pain. Why? Simply because he takes a couple of Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets after each meal.

Are you a slave to your stomach? Has it made you a coward? If so, you may defy your enemy. You can rout it in a couple of weeks; take Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets—one or two after each meal—and "the trick is done."

There is no "tooth-pulling business" about Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablet treatment. The Tablets are pleasant to the taste, gentle, but certain in action, powerful and prompt in effect.

There isn't a case of Dyspepsia, Indigestion, or any other stomach trouble that cannot be completely cured by Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets, in from one week to one month. And when it is cured, the stomach, is fresh and vigorous, strong and healthy, ready to take up its own work again, and perform it properly.

Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets, each box containing double treatment, can be procured from all druggists, at fifty cents a box, or will be sent on receipt of price, by the Dodd's Medicine Co., Limited, Toronto.

THE POWDER WAS STRYCHNINE.

Melancholy Mistake Made by Mrs. C. W. Barrows of London.

London, Ont., Feb. 1.—A very sad accident happened at the residence of C. W. Barrows last evening, resulting in the death by poisoning of the little six-year-old adopted daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Barrows. The child had not been well for some days, and Mrs. Barrows gave her what she supposed was santonine. But the powder was stryohnine. In a few minutes the child was in convulsions. Dr. MacKin was hurriedly sent for and worked for half an hour without avail. Coroner Ferguson was notified, and what remained of the powder was shown to him. He recognised it as strychnine. An inquest will be held.

Bees Pay the Rent.

London, Jan. 31.—The most hopeful fact of the movement in Ireland is the success of Congested Districts Board. Its fixed income is only $906,000, and it works "for love," yet already it has managed to redeem parts of Ireland from destitution, is improving the quality of potatoes and introducing industries, like bee-keeping. Farmers in some places actually are paying for their holdings with the proceeds, the honey bee thus replacing the pig as the rent-payer.

Mr. Roche, M. P., in Hospital.

Winnipeg, Jan. 31.—Friday evening Mr. Roche, M.P. for Marquette, who is seriously ill, was taken to the General Hospital here. His physicians expect him to recover, but it may be some weeks yet. He will be unable to attend the opening of the Dominion House.
